Investors Move In Cowboys Lose Control Of Area Feedlots

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

Dr. Sy Alban gets up early every morning, goes to the hospital, sees his patients and even on some occasions where surgery is necessary, does his job as an orthopedic surgeon.

His working day as an orthopedic surgeon in Long Beach, Calif., usually begins early in the morning and continues sometimes until the late hours of the night. He sees patients with minor problems and patients with major problems.

Every day, after his job as an orthopedic surgeon is completed, he settles down in his home and goes over the daily report on a certain cattle feeding operation located hundreds of miles away, in Hereford, Tex.

Dr. Alban, and many other professional men like him, has expanded his profession to include the cattle feeding industry of the Great Southwest.

Men in manufacturing, law, medicine and other highly skilled professions have, in recent years, turned their attention to that of the cattle industry. They have in most cases invested in an operation they knew little about, and have come out ahead and are still going strong.

TODAY'S TREND in the cattle empire seems no longer to involve the once-dominant "cowboy" of the old west, but has switched to professional men interested in a growing industry.

In Hereford, one of the most cattle concentrated areas of the nation, the involvement of professional men is a going and growing thing just as the cattle industry itself is a going and growing thing.

The industry brings in an estimated $6-billion per year to the economy of the area, and professional men are now taking a large stake in the business.

Dr. Alban, his brother Harry, who is also an orthopedic surgeon; Dr. Sidney Wasserman, a psychiatrist; and Dr. Albert Molle, a general practitioner, are all involved in the operations of a local cattle feeding industry. Theirs, like so many of the other once-local-owned cattle feeding operations, is being handled in a manner unprecedented in the cattle industry.

James McCarty, manager of Big Tex, in which the doctors are stockholders, explained the transformation which has taken place in the multi-million dollar industry of the Texas Panhandle.

"THE FUTURE of the cattle industry looks great and one of the reasons for this is that we now have more people getting into feeding cattle as an investment—people who are not from the local area, people who are professionals and don't really even know anything about feeding cattle," he said.

While the three doctors involved in Big Tex live and work in California, they get daily reports from the office here so they can see how their investment is doing. While they had had some dealings with the cattle industry on a personal basis, the doctors had never been involved in feeding cattle on a large scale basis for a large scale profit.

Pair Solo In Record Time

SOLO FLYERS — Julie and Phil Bidegain of Montoya, N.M., received instructions Friday morning from instructor Charles Frye for their first solo flight, which came less than a week after their first lessons.

Just FOUR Days After First Lesson

A young New Mexico pair set a record last week at the Hereford airport by completing their first solo flights in considerably less than normal time after their first flying lesson.

Phillip Bidegain, father of the two fledglings and owner of the Lee Cocanougher ranch east of Hereford, flies a helicopter, and Dr. T. B. Hoover of Tucumcari, their grandfather, maintains an airplane at the Hereford airport.

Julie is following a request from her mother to learn to fly before taking up her real ambition of skydiving. Phil describes himself as "a rodeo bum."

The two young Bidegains will attend the University of Arizona this fall where Julie will be a freshman and Phil a senior student.

Top GOP Figures Plan Friday Visit

George Bush

Bob Price

Paul Eggers

U. S. Rep. George Bush, U. S. Rep. Bob Price and GOP gubernatorial candidate Paul Eggers will be in Hereford Friday.

Eggers, who is opposing Gov. Preston Smith in the November General Election, will fly into Hereford at 9:30 a. m. Friday and join Bush and Price at a noon luncheon at the Civic Club Center.

Price is running for another term in the U. S. House of representatives without opposition. Bush opposes Democrat Lloyd Bentsen for Ralph Yarborough's U. S. Senate seat.

Eggers will visit with businessmen in the morning, join his Republican colleagues for lunch, then continue on to Dumas. Bush and Price are scheduled to go to Amarillo for a 3:30 p. m. news conference Friday and a reception and dinner Friday night.

A barbecue, rodeo, and a town hall meeting also are on the pair's agenda. Other stops will take them to Plainview, Littlefield, Pampa, Dalhart, Dumas Stratford and Borger.

Bush was unopposed by either party in 1968. He has actively sponsored legislation in such areas as rural job development and has opposed efforts to severely restrict farm subsidies.

Issue Goes To U. S. Supreme Court

ABC, Clubs Wait On Ruling

The Associated Clubs of Texas, representing private club owners and operators, gave Texas saloons a brief "stay of execution" last week by filing for a hearing in the U. S. Supreme Court on a law tightening the restrictions on the operation of private clubs.

"We won't know until about the middle of the month what is going to happen," said Bill Austin, local Alcoholic Beverage Control agent.

Austin said Tuesday the decision rests in the hands of the high court now, or in the hands of the 122nd district judge should he withdraw his injunction. Austin said Attorney General Crawford Martin has asked the district judge to do this.

The 122nd injunction has prohibited ABC officials from enforcing the guest rule until the courts settle the issue. If the injunction is removed, the ABC would then be able to close private clubs which are not operating under the specifications of the law.

The controversial issue has been before the courts since May of last year—when two Dallas club owners filed suit in district court that the ABC ruling was "vague and unclear" and the closing of clubs which failed to comply with the ruling would hurt the economy of the state.

The district court ruled in favor of the clubs and the ABC then took the case to higher court where the court ruled in favor of the ABC. The club owners then appealed to the Texas Supreme Court for a hearing, and this hearing was denied, bringing about a recent filing for a rehearing, which also was denied.

The law under fire is the ABC's "Rule and Regulation No. 56" which says anyone entering

No Changes Are Imminent Here

When The Time Comes, Just Drop Mail In Local Slot

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

Hereford residents need not worry over the possibility of losing their postmark on letters mailed to other cities, a Post Office spokesman told the Hereford Brand this week.

For one thing, a change instituted in the Lubbock region — which calls for various area towns to send their out-of-town letters to Lubbock for rapid cancellation with a Lubbock postmark — hasn't been put into effect in the Amarillo region yet. Although it probably will come within the next two years, there is no indication yet when it will be.

But when the change does come, there is a way to make sure the postmark reads "Hereford" instead of "Amarillo," said J. M. Benesch, Postal Service officer at the Amarillo sectional headquarters.

"In Hereford or anywhere else, anyone who wants his town's postmark on his letter has only to drop it in the local drop at the local post office. That way, it will go through the canceling machine in Hereford," Benesch said.

FOR SOME time, letters destined for out of town, and dropped in the outside "out of town" mail bin after hours or on weekends or holidays, have been picked up by a truck and taken to Amarillo, where an Amarillo postmark is placed on them, Benesch said.

Even a local letter would go to Amarillo and be given an Amarillo postmark if it were placed after hours in the outside "out of town" mail bin, but it would arrive back in Hereford the next morning for delivery.

Benesch cautioned, however, that an out-of-town letter mailed after hours in the outside "local" mail bin would probably suffer a 24-hour delivery delay because it would stay in Hereford for canceling the next day instead of going that night to Amarillo.

"The savings on this is tremendous and from a tax standpoint this is something we de-initely should consider," Benesch added. "In the seven offices in the Lubbock sectional alone, it is going to save $50,000 a year." Besides Muleshoe, Littlefield, Levelland, Brownfield, Lamesa, Seminole and Seagraves have offices in the Lubbock sectional.

"SOME LITTLE towns have two full-time employees who don't do anything but process locally-mailed letters going out of town. In a town the size of Hereford, that's probably eight to ten thousand pieces of mail. Well, in Amarillo, that's not over about 30 minutes of work at most for our high-speed equipment. We don't even know we've got 10,000 pieces of mail, it goes through it so fast. We're picking up 16 hours a day, at about $5 an hour. Here, it's just absorbed."

Muleshoe citizens protested "losing" their postmark, and Sen. Ralph Yarborough carried the city's case before the U. S. Senate last Thursday. On Monday, Benesch called the Muleshoe postmaster to explain how the citizens could be sure of keeping the local postmark. Muleshoe residents proclaimed their protest a victory.

"If the powers that be wish to think this, then I wouldn't change it, but I'll tell you personally that what went on in Washington didn't change anything," Benesch said.

"I THINK Yarborough made his point, although I think he greatly exaggerated his point. He probably made some friends, and if he gained something from it, more power to him. I'm only interested in the service part of it, as far as the post office is concerned."

Hereford Eyes Chance To Host Playoffs

Hereford is already laying the groundwork to attract the area's top high school football teams to play their championship playoff games in Whiteface Stadium.

A Chamber of Commerce committee headed by Debs Knox will first work up a letter to be sent to all area schools of classification AAA, AA, and B, informing them of the stadium's facilities, its seating capacity and other pertinent information.

"This is the first time we've had the opportunity to do something like this," Knox said. "We feel like we may be able to do something. We're going to be working on it."

Probably included with the letter to the schools will be an aerial photo of the stadium which was completed only last year. Later in the football season, when it becomes more apparent about which teams will be involved in the playoffs, additional contacts will be made by Hereford Chamber officials to the schools involved.

In the past, Hereford lacked the facilities to host the playoff games and the large crowds that follow. The host town customarily furnishes the trophies, the tickets and all personnel except game officials. The decision on the playoff game site is made by the coaches and school superintendents of the schools involved, usually the day following the final determination of the eligible teams.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce committee plan to let all the schools in the area know of Hereford's facilities and desire to host the games long before then.

Electricity Will Be Free

City Picks Up The Tab For Clinic

The city commission agreed Monday to "pick up the tab" for the electrical bill for the Deaf Smith County Public Health Clinic, Inc. as its part of getting the free clinic into operation.

The commissioners also approved the zoning of Block 7, Stark Addition and approved the lease purchase for a front end loader to be used in city work.

City manager Dudley Bayne told the city commissioners he met with the county commissioners at their last meeting July 27 where they discussed the possibility of the city paying for the electricity bill of the clinic.

The commissioners agreed to pay the electricity bill, but at first were undecided whether to just pay the bill or allocate the clinic "X" number of dollars per month to take care of the bill themselves.

Bayne said this would neither help nor hinder the bookkeeping process for the city because the bill each month comes both totaled and broken down to the extent it is easy to determine which office uses how much electricity.

The council approved the lease purchase of a front end loader from Plains Machinery in the amount of $18,950 at 5 per cent simple interest on a three year lease purchase agreement. The new machine, an International Huff, will be purchased with a trade-in of a 1968 Michigan front end loader.

Bill Byers, an employee of the city, appeared before the commissioners to discuss the features.

He explained the Huff was equipped with both hydraulic and air brakes, a large cab, fewer moving parts in the front loader that would have to be replaced, and "a number of items that would be to our benefit in the conditions we have to use the machines in."

The council also discussed the problems the city employees have had with the bull dozer they purchased from West Texas Equipment in October of last year. The city has been unable to get the company to stand behind its warranty on the machine and has had trouble with it since it first arrived here, commissioners said.

During the past 10 months, the heavy duty machine has had replaced, four steering boosters, a throttle, a generator, a regulator, pin bushing, the fan belt pulley, three batteries, radiator, a yoke and several other items.

Bayne said when the machine does break down, it is difficult for the city to get the company to fix it.

The city did not make a decision on what to do, but did discuss getting the company's representatives here to talk the situation over.

The commissioners approved the zoning of Block 7, Stark Addition from an A-single family to a C-multi-family. The zoning affects the property at the corner of Sioux and Ave. I.

Sue Shirley Is Award Winner

Miss Marilyn Sue Shirley, senior winner of the Deaf Smith County 4H Dress Revue held here in July, was awarded best dressed model and presented a blue ribbon for her over-all 4-H work in the District I Dress Revue held Tuesday in Amarillo. Winners of the Revue who will compete in the statewide 4-H

Dress Revue in Dallas on Oct. 19 were Lorinda Felix of Ochiltree County, Crystal Brian of Moore County, Judy McLeroy of Castro County and Diana Hill of Armstrong County. Other awards went to Glenda Hillingstein of Randall County, and Diana Hill of Armstrong County, best dressed models; and Cheri Wauhob of Lipscomb County, top record book. Other blue ribbon winners included Debra Jo Enns of Dallam County, and LeJean Hill of Hartley County.

Miss Shirley's costume, which took top honors in the county contest, was a 3-piece dacron polyester rib knit ensemble in ginger brown and black. The semi-fitted blouse featured a V-neck-line and wrist length sleeves. Stitched pleats at the front, sides and back fell from a waistband to form the A-line skirt. The two pieces were of ginger brown with black stripes. With it she wore a dress length cardigan coat in reversed colors. A long fringed scarf of the same fabric as the blouse and skirt provided a fashion interest.

The 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Shirley, Sue was escorted in the style show by Galen Phillips of Carson County.

Judges for the event were Ross Bell, Colberts; Mrs. Larry Fosythe, home economist; and Mrs. Dorothy Morrison, home economist for Dairy Council, Inc.

Committee chairmen were Mmes. Joe Frank Huckert, Leo Bezner, Ruth Hughey, Edith Hughes, Joe Brown, Mona Hil-dreth and Loleta Hill.

Miss Jane Hudson of Carson County was mistress of ceremonies. Commentators were Patsy Paetzold of Deaf Smith county, Karen Porter of Wheeler, and Debra Goodin of Armstrong.

Clubs

(Continued From Page 1) a private club must be personally introduced or physically accompanied by a member of the club before he can be served. It also says a club must have at least 25 members, a membership committee and maintain an "adequate food service."

Clubs throughout the state have been operating under normal conditions since the suit was filed last year, but should the U. S. Supreme Court uphold the ruling, many clubs, including those here in Hereford might be shut down until they can comply with the rules of the law.

A "grace" period will be provided in which the clubs will be able to transform from their present operating procedures to ones that would qualify under the law.

Feedlots

(Continued From Page 1) their being in California and the operation being here," McCarty said, "but these men know figures when they see them on a piece of paper. They know what the company is doing when they look at these figures and they are able to tell how the business is doing."

While not all men who get involved in the cattle industry have ever had any experience in the business at all, those that do still have to be educated as to the daily happenings and operations of feeding and raising cattle on a big scale.

In most cases, investors in a new cattle operation are the ones who have "gotten out and earned what they have" and are attempting to put their money to work for them.

USUALLY THEY are men who are interested in cattle or the industry, or they wouldn't get into the business as a sideline.

McCarty said the men "already had an interest in this area, and this interest cannot be created, it just has to be formed by the individual."

Another reason the professionals are getting into the cattle feeding picture is because there is no other business where, on a long term deal, the returns are as good as the cattle industry. The industry is a good sound business in this area and the prospect looks even better for the future.

As is the case with most booming businesses, there can never be a surplus of meat on the market, because as each year passes, the amount of meat consumed by an average person increases.

Also attracting the professionals to the cattle feeding industry are the advancements made in recent years in electronics, which are playing a major role in the cattle feeding operations. All modern mills are actually an electronic engineer's "baby," able to perform feats hired workers had to do in the past.

SCALES HAVE been developed that weigh, automatically, the exact amount of ingredients that go into the feed box. This is considered one of the greatest improvements and advances in the cattle feeding industry in recent years.

Treatment of sick cattle and the inoculation of all cattle going into the feed yards have advanced. Also, the pharmaceutical firms have developed new processes in making rations and administering medicine to the cattle in the pens.

In general, better care of cattle has advanced to the stage where the industry is no longer a guessing game.

Not only are professional men becoming involved in the cattle feeding industry, but related firms such as chemical, feed and building firms are also getting their hands into the pie that is paying off. Almost every related field is getting more and more directly involved in the business by purchasing stocks and constructing the yards.

IN SOME instances, builders have exchanged their work for a share of the business and even packing houses have gotten into the picture by acquiring a portion of lots so they can process their own meat at lower costs.

Now, in Deaf Smith County, there is an estimated 400,000 head of cattle that will be on feed when all the lots are operating at full capacity. There are 18 feedlots in the county and the majority of them handle over 15,000 head in their capacity stage.

The day of the independent feedlot owner is past with the forming of the corporation. Today, almost every feed lot in existence is owned and operated by stockholders—many of which are men making their living by means other than the cattle themselves.

Texas will get $1.6 million in federal funds to expand its driver training program and provide simulators and driving ranges.

Abraham Warns Of Rising Costs In Government

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

State Rep. Malouf "Oofie" Abraham of Canadian carried his bid for the State Senate to Hereford Monday and pointed with alarm to the rising costs that face the Texas Legislature.

"We're running out of places to get money. We're spending it faster than we can bring it in," Abraham said. He pointed out that in the 1965-67 biennium the state budget was $3.8 billion. It rose to $5.1 billion two years later, and presently the state is working under a $6.2 billion budget.

"In four years, that's an increase of more than $2.4 billion, up 63 per cent. And if you go back two years farther, you'll find we've tripled in six years time."

Abraham, who was one of the few Republicans serving in the legislature during his two terms in the Texas House, is opposing Democrat Max Sherman, an Amarillo lawyer.

Abraham said he has tried personally to keep state spending low. As an example, he said he has declined to spend more than $15,000 that was available to him through his expense account. He used his own personal secretary and otherwise spent money out of his own pocket for a number of things, he said.

"There are 150 House members, and if all of them had done the same, we could have saved over two million dollars."

In a question-answer session, Abraham said his biggest contribution during his four years as a legislator was "just going down there, making a hand, trying. We're (Republicans) beginning to make them aware there's somebody watching. Anytime you have one party in control for 100 years, so many decisions are made in the back rooms."

About the rising governmental costs, Abraham said, "It's fine if you've got plenty of money. Hell, spend it. But we don't, and people all over the state have to start demanding that we get our spending in line."

He sees many things that should be changed. "For instance, we've got a professional man at Canadian who is learning to fly an airplane under Veterans provisions. Well, hell, that's just a plaything to him. If he wants to learn to fly a plane, hell, let him pay for it just like the rest of us.

"People have got to get concerned, that's the main thing. A man from Pampa wrote me a letter about 'Wasn't there a way he could buy only one box of .22 shells?' Apparently the store where he bought .22 shells only sold them by the carton. I told him I didn't think we could make them sell him only one box but surely he could find some place he could buy just one. Here we're trying to handle millions of dollars and he's worried about one box of .22 shells," Abraham said.

On various questions, about how problems with rising medical costs, medicare and school integration can be solved, Abraham said the problems are generally impossible to be solved on the state level now, that because of the state's failure to tackle the problem a number of years ago the decisions now rest with the federal government.

He was asked also about various state problems, such as student protests proposed a-ments to the State Constitution, and advertising in the news media about the availability of narcotics at rock festivals. Abraham, although saying he agreed they were major problems, declined to give his personal viewpoints. He said all of these are things the people should concern themselves with, and pass along to their representatives how they feel.

QUEEN VICTORIA — This picture, of Elizabeth Word of Hereford, taken by Carmen Angel is on display at a national photographer's convention in Chicago. Miss Word was in the lead role of a Stanton Junior High school play.

Photograph By Carmen Angel Is On Display

A photograph by Carmen Angel, a photographer for Angel Photography Studio, 301 W. Park Avenue, Hereford, has been selected for display at the 79th Annual Exhibition of Professional Photography in Chicago.

The world's largest and most comprehensive print show is sponsored by the Professional Photographers of America, Inc. The exhibition opened Sunday at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, in conjunction with the photographers annual convention and technical products show.

More than 4,000 prints were judged by professional photographers from across the nation, all of whom have earned the PP of A's coveted Master of Photography degree. Only 833 prints were accepted for this five-day grand championship display of the best of the photographic profession has to offer.

Mrs. Angel's picture is labeled "Queen Victoria." It is a portrait of Elizabeth Word, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Word of Hereford. Elizabeth had the lead in the Stanton Junior High school play.

Estimate 3,500 Cotton Bales Here This Year

Assuming reasonably favorable weather, the cotton farmers in Deaf Smith County have current prospects for harvesting 3,500 bales of cotton this year, about 500 more than were produced in 1969.

At about $90 per bale average, the lint from the 3,500-bale crop would come to $315,000. Over the 25 High Plains counties which are represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the lint revenue is just under one-half the total value of the crop. Price support payments and value of seed are the other things involved.

The estimate is based on crop conditions of the moment and is made on the assumption that weather conditions for the remainder of the month will be "reasonably favorable."

About 7,000 acres of cotton were planted in this county this year, and about 5,000 acres are now standing. This leaves about 2,000 acres, about 28 per cent, that has been abandoned because of hail, drought, windstorms or other weather phenomenon.

About 30 per cent of the cotton on the High Plains is not irrigated, and reaching a 1.8 million bale estimate will depend much on rainfall. Most areas of dryland cotton are reported to be holding up well but badly in need of rain within the next 10 days to two weeks. Irrigated cotton, though late in some areas, looks extremely good almost everywhere, observers report.

The Deaf Smith County acreage is the smallest of the 25 counties.

Study Shows Benefits Of Feedlot Manure

LUBBOCK — A Texas Tech University agronomist points out in a recent study the availability of a great tonnage of feedlot manure to area farmers, its nutrient content and extremely practical expense in its use as a fertilizer.

The Department of Agronomy at Tech now has available a new study on the "Value and Problems of Feedlot Manure as a Source of Plant Nutrients" prepared by Dr. William F. Bennett, agronomy professor. According to Dr. Bennett's research the analysis of the manure and results of demonstrations indicate that it has potential value as a source of plant nutrients.

"The nutrient content of manure," he said, "together with the results obtained from its use indicate that it should have a value of around $1.50 to $3.50 per ton when applied on the farmer's field."

General guidelines established in the past have indicated that approximately $3 to $3.50 per ton could be paid for its application.

Dr. Bennett also stated that, "the manure will usually have a beneficial effect on the organic matter content, water infiltration rate, water holding capacity, ease of tillage and similar characteristics."

"Organic matter," the agronomist said, "also increases the cation exchange capacity of the soil. Manure also contains other elements necessary for plant growth. These include potassium, calcium, magnesium and sulfur as well as the micro-nutrients."

Dr. Bennett pointed out in his study that there were also potential problems related to disposal of large quantities of feedlot manure. "One problem is the fact that the waste contains salts," he said.

"If the quantity of salt or sodium is sufficiently high," he said, "there could be some detrimental effects on plant growth."

Manure also has a slight acidifying effect on the soil which could have a beneficial effect on the alkaline soils of West Texas, the professor said.

This new study is made available in folder form and may be obtained by writing to the Agronomy Department, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Tex.

Price Urges Support For Water Project

Congressman Bob Price of Pampa has urged the Senate Public Works Committee to approve the McClellan Creek Watershed Project.

In testimony before the Senate Committee, Rep. Price said the McClellan Creek Watershed Project is a sound and feasible project, one that will make a very significant contribution to the water resource development program in Northwest Texas.

Speaking of the need for the project Price said, "I have seen the havoc caused by floods in this watershed. I have seen fertile hay meadows covered with sterile sand. I have seen roads and bridges washed away, necessitating many extra miles of travel for the people living and traveling in the watershed. This project is badly needed and long overdue," he added.

McClellan Creek Watershed encompasses approximately 348 square miles of land in the Northwest Texas counties of Carson, Gray and Donley. Almost 30 per cent of this area is crop land, 3 per cent pasture and hay land, and 6 per cent ranch land. The production and sale of cash crops of wheat, cotton, and grain sorghum together with ranching constitute primary sources of area income.

Price was instrumental in getting the project approved by the House of Representatives last ing 18th District President. She was assisted by Mrs. G. E. Reed, also of Friona.

Other officers installed to serve for 1970-71 were Mrs. J. G. Gandy, 1st vice president; Mrs. Grant Hanna, 2nd vice president; Mrs. S. T. Wiseman, secretary; Mrs. Ira Ott, treasurer; Mrs. J. E. Young, reporter; Mrs. R. O. Stark, chaplain; Mrs. Clyde Gilliland, sergeant-at-arms; and Hazel Sparks as assistant sergeant-at-arms. Out-going president is Mrs. Leroy K. Williamson.

Following installation ceremonies, Mrs. Vance presented a report with slides of the State Convention held last week in Fort Worth. She attended the event with Mrs. Ott.

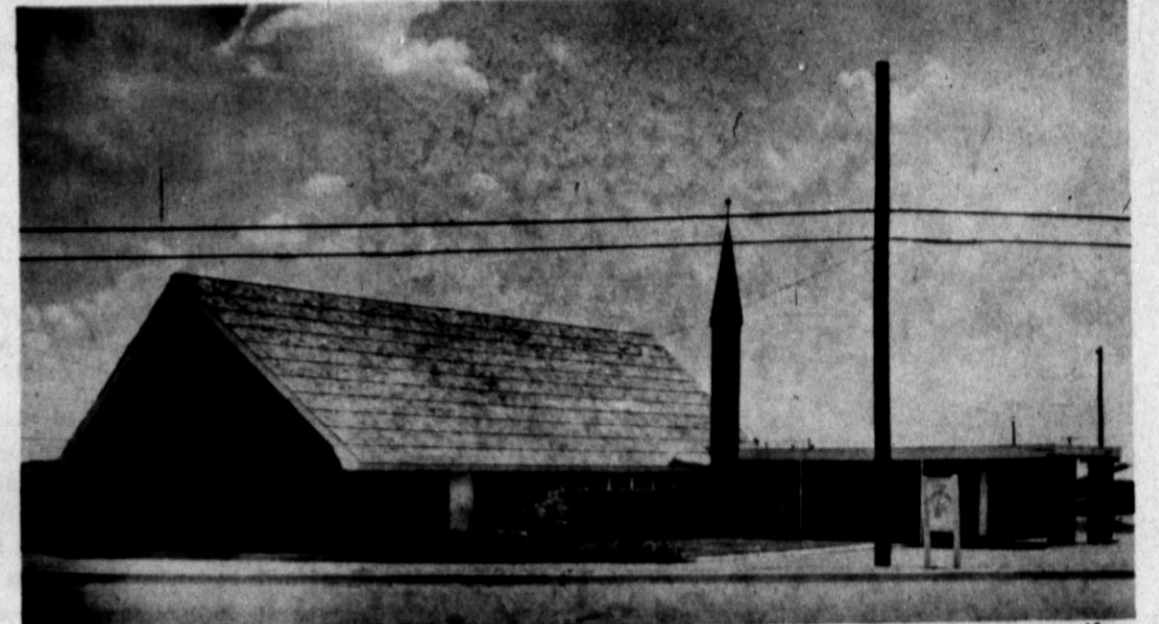

An announcement was made of the annual Harvest Dinner scheduled Aug. 18 at the Legion Building.

December, Senate approval will mean the project will go ahead after nine years of planning, in which watershed residents have spent over $1.3 million in applying conservation practices to individual farms and ranches.

The State of Oklahoma registered concern to the Senate Committee that the Texas Project might drain water from Oklahoma, but Price countered by pointing out that the two states had resolved such matters on the state level for the past 14 years and that he saw no need or reason for the Federal government to become involved in the dispute.

The Texas Water Commission representative echoed Price's sentiments and said if need be a new clause in the McClellan Creek Work Plan could be inserted insuring an agreed upon appropriation of disputed water and cost between the two states.

Bentsen Deplores Lack Of Aid To Texas Migrants

AUSTIN — Texas apparently is being discriminated against in federal programs designed to aid migrant workers, U. S. Senate candidate Lloyd Bentsen declared after a conference with State Health Department officials in Austin.

The Democratic nominee also criticized the Nixon administration for recommending that the Clinical Research Center in Fort Worth, one of two federal narcotics hospitals in the country, be closed.

Bentsen toured the Fort Worth hospital in his continuing personal investigation of major problems he hopes to help solve as a U. S. Senator. He then conferred in Austin with Dr. James E. Peavy, State Health Commissioner, and members of his staff on the health problems of migrant workers.

"Health Department officials informed me that much duplication and wasted effort is involved in current programs for migrant workers, and that administration of them by federal officials should be greatly improved," Bentsen said.

"They also said that considerably more funds are needed to meet the needs of the approximately 300,000 persons (migrant workers and their families) in Texas. This is approximately one-fifth of the total (1,500,000) in the United States. But the figures I have seen do not indicate that Texas is getting its proportionate share of the federal funds.

"I do not understand for instance, why only $4 per migrant was allocated by the federal government this year for a health program in Hidalgo County, Texas, while $200 per migrant was allocated for a similar program in California. According to a report compiled by the State Health Department, Hidalgo County was granted $160,000 to provide health services for 40,000 migrants while a program to provide similar services for 3,000 migrants in California was allocated $632,000.

"If these funds are being allocated on the basis of political considerations, steps should be taken immediately to correct this situation," Bentsen said.

Collingsworth, Donley, Hall, Hemphill, Lipscomb and Wheeler Counties in the Panhandle have received approval for grazing and harvesting of hay on land retired from production under the cropland adjustment program.

Youth Revival Begins Friday

A three-day youth-led revival will begin Friday at Temple Baptist Church.

Terry Pettiet of Midland will be the "Teen Crusader" evangelist. Dan Ziegler of Fort Worth will be "Teen Crusader" singer.

Rev. J. L. Bozeman, pastor, said persons of all ages are invited to the services. He issued an invitation also for youth in the community to sing in the crusade choir during the revival.

Pettiet, a senior at Hardin-Simmons University, speaks to thousands of young people every month at boys' reformatories, high schools, junior highs and church revivals, Bozeman said. Ziegler has served as a music director and was a member of the "Travelers Quartet," a gospel ensemble that was popular in Texas several years ago.

Holly Employee Wins Promotion With Company

Hayden P. Gildersleeve, senior assistant master mechanic at the Holly Sugar plant here for the past nine months, has been promoted to northern factory district engineer for Holly Sugar Corporation.

In his new position, Gildersleeve will be responsible for supervising maintenance and engineering activities at Holly's factories in Sidney and Hardin, Mont., and at Worland and Torrington, Wyo.

Gildersleeve joined Holly in 1953 as an instrument technician at the Alvarado, California factory. Nine years later, he was named electrician and the following year was promoted to assistant master mechanic at that factory.

He was transferred into the Colorado Springs office as a draftsman in 1964 and later was named assistant western district engineer.

Gildersleeve is a graduate of Livermore Union High School, Livermore, California and attended San Jose State College in that state.

State Distributes Licenses Friday

AUSTIN — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Friday will ship more than two million hunting and fishing licenses to distributors for fiscal year 1970-71, according to C. L. Friou, assistant director of administrative services for the Department.

The licenses will be mailed to more than 3,500 license agents throughout the State, including most hardware and sporting goods stores, about half the State's county clerks, and all of the Department's regional, district and field offices.

Game management officers also will receive a minimum supply. Despite the early distribution, the licenses will not become valid until Sept. 1.

Shrimp fishermen planning extended cruises may purchase their licenses before leaving on trips which might keep them at sea past the Aug. 31 deadline, Friou said.

Commercial Gulf shrimp boat licenses for the new fiscal year were shipped to the Department's 12 coastal offices earlier this year.

There are few changes in the licenses for 1970-71 other than color and dates. However, the saltwater trotline tags for the new year are made of plastic instead of zinc. Prices remain the same, at $2.15 for fishing licenses and $3.15 for hunting licenses.

Building Permits Total $331,250

The building pace in Hereford picked up during the month of July with 27 permits being issued for a total investment of $331,250, well above the previous month.

July's total compared to the June total of $251,700 and the May total of $197,275.

Some 20 of the 27 permits issued during July were for the construction of homes while largest of these was for only $22,000. Several permits were issued for moving in storage buildings and moving in mobile homes.

Investments for the first seven months of the year have now reached the $2.5 million mark.

JUMPING FENCES HELPED ALBANY, N. Y. — Even though he's only 6-feet-2, Al Reid of Albany State consistently outjumps taller opponents and excites crowds with shot blocking.

"I had a newspaper route when I was younger," says Reid. "I used to cut across back yards and jump fences while carrying my paper bag."

Keep The Momentum Going

Where do we go from here? Unlike most of the cities and towns in the 18th Congressional District, Hereford has shown a substantial increase in population over the past decade. The results, we're sure, are the efforts of a few progressive citizens who have given much time and money in an effort to keep our town growing. It's a grand feeling to know that your city has outstripped all its neighbors in population increase and that your area has a bustling, healthy economy, and we're real proud of those who have made it all possible. A few have done so much and apparently we have been satisfied to let them continue. But it won't continue without the help of all of Hereford's citizens.

Recently there has been a trend towards apathy with a great number of us. In short, we have been resting on our laurels since the opening of the Wilson & Company plant, apparently with the idea that our past efforts will perpetuate our future growth.

Not so however. And we need only look around us for the proof. When the forward momentum subsides, we will begin to roll back unless we continue pushing. The economy of a community will not continue vibrant without the efforts of the people within.

In recent months we have turned down a proposal for an institution of higher learning for our community and prior to that we let apathy take hold and more than 70 per cent of our eligible voters remained home during a crucial state water importation bond vote. The issue died because the voters of Hereford and the surrounding area did not respond. Sure, it passed in this area. We gave it a 2 to 1 margin.

But that wasn't enough. We needed all the votes in this area to overcome the opposition in Houston and other major cities. We didn't turn out.

We can continue to move forward or we can regress. The choice is ours. We're at the crossroads of community development and a little positive, progressive thinking on our part will tip the scales in our favor. The next decade will be crucial in our development and we need to make up our minds now to push forward—rather than trying to ride.

The Hardware Store

Another bit of Americana, often overlooked in this hurry-hurry world we live in is the community hardware store, which one sincerely hopes is not going to be absorbed by the mass merchandisers we have today.

The community hardware store has been a fixture for about as long as we've had a country. The fellow who runs the store is usually a great asset to the area he serves in and lives in.

He's right there with the how-to-do answers. Ask him how to replace a washer in a leaky faucet and he knows. Ask him how to revitalize a paint brush that the amateur painter was too tired to clean up six weeks ago when he was painting a door—and he knows. The garden hose springs a leak and the man who runs the community hardware store is ready with an explanation of how to cut the hose, put in a connector, and it's good as new—well, almost, anyway.

The hardware man's jammed-packed store is the place where the Little Lady goes with many of her household problems. She can ask him how to clean a dirty spot on some expensive wall paper, how to clean the carpet in the living room, and how to run a floor polisher which he will rent here for a day.

He'll sell you a couple of screws to go into the power mower and take the time to advise you to use some self-tightening washers to go with them, and when you ask him how much, he says, "Oh, give me a dime. That will cover it."

He's the fellow in the community, when you blow a fuse, who will take the time to ascertain exactly what sort of one you need.

He's the fellow who, if he doesn't have what you want, will tell you where to get it, and even look it up in his wholesale catalog, and if you want him to, he will order it for you. He doesn't just say, "That's all we've got" and go on to the next customer.

He's the fellow who has to carry a lot of stock that he will not be able to sell for a long, long time. The mass merchandisers don't want this kind of inventory. They want the stuff that will sell fast for a quick turnover. But the hardware merchant feels he has an obligation to carry this kind of stock for his customer's sake.

The community hardware store is a place to visit and look, and talk over problems, and above all, he doesn't make you stand in line for 15 minutes at a checkout counter while the cashier has to get a check okayed for the customer ahead of you.

The 48-Hour Day

French speleologists who for four months studied the reaction of a man isolated in a cave believe humans might be wasting too much time on sleep. After the man had been in the cave for a month he slipped into a 48-hour living cycle. For three months he remained awake for 36 hours and slept for 12 without suffering ill effects.

Now the head of the French Institute of Speleology, who says the 48-hour day makes for a more productive society, believes that man may be able to live for days with higher multiples of 24 hours, even 72.

All this may be fine in a cave 200 feet below the surface, but up on Mother Earth's crust many of us have enough trouble getting through the 24-hour day; an eight or 10-hour work stretch is enough, and after a good meal and a time of relaxation we're ready for a solid eight hours of dreaming. Besides, do they really think we could watch mankind's fumbling and bungling in 36-hour stretches and still retain our sanity?—Ottawa Journal

AUSTIN, Tex. — Campaigns are shaping up on some of the seven proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on by Texans at the General Election on November 3.

While public interest centers on the liquor-by-the-drink amendment, there are other major alternations in the state's laws to be considered by the voters.

In their order on the ballot, these are:

1. Enlarge the powers of the Judicial Qualifications Commission to censure or remove lower court judges and justices of the peace as well as district and appellate judges.

2. Authorize the legislature to enact a law on the sale of mixed drinks.

3. Provide for legislative establishment of a uniform method of tax assessment on ranch, farm and forest lands based on the capability of the lands to support the raising of livestock or production of farm and forest crops.

4. Make the State Building Commission a three-member appointive agency.

5. Permit counties to issue road bonds up to one-fourth of their assessed real property valuation on a majority vote.

6. Make town or city homesteads of $10,000 and less exempt from forced sale (presently set at $5,000).

7. Allow the legislature to provide for consolidating offices and functions of government and for performance of governmental functions by contract between the political subdivision in any county.

Texas voters have adopted 195 amendments to the 1876 constitution, over the years, and rejected 125.

DESEGREGATION SUIT THREATEN — Federal negotiators report that only a few of the 38 Texas school districts, called on the carpet concerning segregation, had satisfactory plans for complying with U. S. guidelines. They conducted a two-day conference with school officials here and gave most of them another week to try and work out something or face a lawsuit by the U. S. Justice Department.

Negotiators suggested "pairing" of adjoining neighborhood school districts to get better racial balance.

Lufkin, Marshall, Midland and Katy found no ground for agreement with the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and Justice Department negotiators. Some complained that federal officials raised a new issue... that of integrating Mexican-Americans, as well as blacks. Most want to continue their efforts to find a way to comply with suggested plans.

Palestine reached a tentative agreement on pairing plans involving two grades in each school and requiring limited busing.

COURTS SPEAK — Alcoholic Beverage Commission's rules governing private clubs are headed for a U. S. Supreme Court test after the highest state court finally upheld the agency's regulation. Club operators claim "king's-x" against the rules while their appeal is "diligently pursued."

Texas will be among the first states to challenge constitutionality of the new federal act extending rights to 18-year-olds. State Supreme Court, splitting 5-4, held that a businessman could not collect a $10,000 libel judgment against a Denton newspaper for a story, based on an accurate account of a statement made at a city council meeting where it was erroneously reported that the man had declared bankruptcy.

La Raza Unida Party brought a mandamus suit in the Supreme Court to require its candidates' names to be placed on the general election ballots in three South Texas counties (Dimmitt, LaSalle and Zavala). Supreme Court agreed with an intermediate court decision that judges cannot grant occupational drivers' licenses just so those whose licenses have been suspended can get to work.

LOOPHOLE COSTS — State has lost millions in land revenue due to an old loophole in the law, which was temporarily closed last year.

State Land Office has been forced to sell submerged land for $1 an acre to any navigation district that wanted it. Another law permitted district to declare land so acquired surplus to their needs — and sell it to the highest bidder.

So, Aransas County Navigation District, for example, acquired 604 acres near Rockport (in Little Bay) for $1 an acre, then resold to a corporation. Some 165 acres of property now is selling for $33,098 an acre.

Now, no more state-owned beaches, islands or submerged land may be sold or leased until the Interagency Natural Resources Council makes its final report to the legislature — or until May 1, 1973 — whichever date is first. Unless the legislature takes a permanent step, the Land Commissioner once more could be forced to sell land requested by navigation districts for $1 an acre.

GAS PRICE RISE URGED — Federal Power Commission at hearings on natural gas prices in the Permian Basin was urged to end pricing controls or raise rates fast and substantially.

Commission examiner reopened the Permian Basin rate case that resulted in the establishment in 1965 of ceiling rates at well-head.

Witnesses, including producers and political officeholders, called on the commission also to halt "two-price" system for wells drilled before 1961 and new wells.

Some called the 1965 regulation a dismal failure that led to the current shortage in gas reserves.

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin pledged full resources of his office against any effort at federal regulation of Texas intrastate gas market. FPC now regulates gas moving interstate.

AIR POLLUTION END SEEN — An end to "visible" air pollution in Texas in less than a decade has been predicted by the director of the State Air Control Board.

ACB Chief Charles Barden so forecast at a budget hearing for his agency.

Board, revealed Barden, now is working on a state regulation to control pollution from vehicles. Regulation will be in effect before the year is out.

Inquiring Photographer: Mum's The Word On Mixed Drinks

By PENNY YOUNG Staff Writer
The citizens of Hereford seem to be evading the touchy issue of liquor by the drink.

Residents were asked: To what extent do you think the law should liberate on liquor by the drink in Hereford?

After questioning 10 persons, a reporter finally got an answer. One lady coming out of White's Auto Store with her two children answered this way:

"Well, I think that it's going to go wet sooner or later. It would be easier on the citizens around Hereford. The next election we have should determine it."

Three persons allowed the use of their name. Said Dennis Barry Watts: "It's wet anyway. There are three or four clubs around here that are supposed to be private but all you have to do is sign a card and be somebody's guest. Well, if people are going to drink, why should they have to hide it?"

Perry Ray said that "With the fine citizens and many churches in this fine community, I don't believe we really need any drinking. There are too many vices already to lead the young people astray."

Terry Hale said he does not want liquor by the drink are just living like they want."

As before, the merchant requested no name be used. Likewise, no picture.

Others on the street came up but all you have to do is sign with answers such as these:

"Oh, I don't want to answer that. I don't know anything about it."

"I'd rather not say anything about the subject please."

Said Dennis Barry Watts: "It's wet anyway. There are three or four clubs around here that are supposed to be private but all you have to do is sign a card and be somebody's guest. Well, if people are going to drink, why should they have to hide it?"

"Thank you, could I get your picture and name?"

"Oh, no. I don't want my name under it."

One Hereford merchant had this to say:

Some people have a tendency to push a way of life on other people. They feel what is good for them is good for everybody else. They just don't understand that the people who believe "in alcohol or the consumption of alcoholic beverages in any way. I wish that the county as a whole would go altogether dry. You see, alcohol is a substitute for reality and a waste of money. We could be spending our money on other things. Everyone has completely evaded the goal that they were set on this earth to do. They've gone in the opposite direction."

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing
EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT
Southern States Industrial Council

Other Newspapers Say:

From the SAN MARCOS RECORD:

A "get tough" policy has reportedly caused morale to soar among corporals and staff members alike at Gary Job Corps Center this week following two nights of rioting Sunday and Monday evenings.

At last count there had been 238 corporals sent home for disciplinary reasons and six or seven more are being investigated for possible prosecution for arson and for damaging federal property.

Sunday night's trouble began with a fight between two boys from the gray and orange blocks. Following verbal threats between a number of boys from the two blocks, staff members finally calmed the two groups and they called a truce.

Just as they were about to break up, someone hurled a rock from the darkness and the rioting was on.

Most of the action involved rock throwing, although corporal Robert L. Mitchell was burned when flaming gasoline was thrown into his room. Mitchell leaped from his bed, grabbed a fire extinguisher, and helped put out the fire himself. He received second degree burns on his back and arms and is said to be in good condition at Wilford Hall Hospital in San Antonio.

From the SEMINOLE SENTINEL:

Seminole's drive to attract medical doctors and maintain the local hospital was taken to the public last week in a public meeting in the District Courtroom of the Gaines County Courthouse.

The meeting was planned recently by the directors of the Seminole Area Chamber of Commerce after the Memorial Hospital Board was told by the Commissioners Court of the county that it could not legally purchase the Dow-Koberg medical clinic.

The clinic, which is large enough for three doctors to use, is the key right now to getting more doctors in Seminole and keeping Memorial Hospital open.

Dr. Harold Dow, the only doctor remaining in the city, notified the hospital board that he will leave the hospital staff on Aug. 31.

Glenn Cavit said this week that Dr. Dow will continue his practice in the clinic, but will not use the hospital after August.

The veteran doctor was the only one on the hospital staff for six months, after the death of Dr. Fred Koberg and Dow says he cannot do it again.

From the MATADOR TRIBUNE:

The same government that lent more than $190,000 to the Motley County Hospital district to improve, equip and modernize a hospital facility here, has forbidden its use.

The same government that has financed LVN training courses in which hundreds of young women and men have prepared themselves for hospital service, has also declared the LVN almost needless.

The doom was sounded last week when two representatives visited the Motley General Hospital.

The fate of the Motley General Hospital is no different than other small hospitals throughout the country. The fate of more than 500 Medicare beneficiaries in Motley County is their problem. They can receive Medicare benefits by going to Lubbock, Amarillo or other larger centers.

From the MORTON TRIBUNE:

Morton lost both its right and left guard and was left "defenseless" for the better part of the past weekend.

With the resignation of Morton Police Chief Charley Ellis late Friday and the resignation of patrolman Ed Carter Saturday morning, the city was left without municipal police protection until patrolman Don Butler returned from his vacation.

The double resignations and the subsequent municipal turmoil was touched off following an incident in which Ellis reportedly went "out of his jurisdiction" in seeking out "wet-back" on area farms.

NEA'S UNION PHILOSOPHY

Education is supposed to result in prudence, enlightenment and fairness, but judgment would never know it judging from the recent statement of George D. Fischer, president of the National Education Association.

In an extraordinary and shocking statement, Mr. Fischer told the 108th NEA convention in San Francisco that he hopes to win enactment of a federal law requiring school districts to negotiate with the teachers. Strikes would be legalized. Then, Mr. Fischer said, the teacher's organization will control who enters and leaves the profession and, "We can also control the training institutions."

Such remarks make one wonder what really happened to belief in education during the NEA's growth. The philosophy voiced by Mr. Fischer is the philosophy of the Teamsters Union and similar groups, a philosophy of contempt for the rights of the public and of teachers who don't want to join a union.

Ironically, it is this philosophy that's making increasing numbers of Americans disenchanted with public schools. Mr. Fischer claimed there is "a conspiracy" against education, but the NEA seems to be the only conspirator in sight. It is conspiring to turn the schools in to a captive of what is in effect a teachers' union. He condemned private schools and private businesses that offer to teach reading in public schools on contracts and that promise to raise pupil achievement to specific levels.

The fact is that numerous parents across the nation are seeking alternatives to the public schools because many of these schools aren't performing adequately. The parents are turning to private schools, church-connected schools, and schools run by business. The parents are voting with their dollars in favor of alternatives to the kind of public education offered in many communities these days.

In the view of many parents, public education shouldn't constitute an educational monopoly.

If competition is good in business and in the professions, it should be good in the educational field. Indeed private colleges always have helped raise standards in the nation's public institutions of higher learning. The same situation should develop at the elementary and high school level.

Private and church-supported schools are doing the pioneering in education these days. They are demonstrating, as in the case of private schools established in Mississippi in the last two years, that construction costs can be reduced far below the cost level for public systems.

Mr. Fischer of the NEA complains that the Nixon administration has cut federal funds on the grounds "education is inflationary." Actually, the administration hasn't gone far enough. The educationists, as represented by the NEA, hold that public spending on education produces quality education. But the evidence doesn't support this contention.

Lavishing public money on expensive classrooms and audiovisual aids doesn't do any good if the course content is not soundly conceived and if methods of teaching reading are ineffective. In private and church-supported schools, there is greater opportunity to institute education reforms that stress standards of achievement.

For The Summer, Anyway

Couple Trades Girls For A Pair Of Sons

By PENNY YOUNG
Staff Writer

Dolores and Grace Abalos, 12 and 11, and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abalos of 303 E. 5th, traveled to Mexico to spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Arturo Galindo of Muzquiz, Coahuila.

In return, the Abalos family received two travelers, Arturo and Marcos Galindo.

Abalos said that he and Galindo thought of temporarily exchanging their children shortly after meeting two summers ago. Galindo was traveling through Hereford on the Highway 385 organization and while in town Abalos acted as interpreter for the Spanish ambassador.

"We soon became good friends and got the idea of exchanging our kids for the summer."

The two boys staying with the Abalos family seem to be adjusting to the Panhandle life. They are picking up bits and pieces of English.

While in Hereford, they have traveled all over the Panhandle and visited Palo Duro to see the production "Texas."

"It was fantastic," Marcos said with the interpreting help of Abalos.

One thing about Texas that impressed Arturo were the schools.

"In Mexico, they don't have gymnasiums or cafeterias."

The two are equally impressed with the friendliness of the people in the Panhandle area.

"In Muzquiz city," said Arturo, "we enjoy many things, such as swimming, skating, miniature golf, and dancing." "I dance, but not very well," Marcos grinned.

"Also," added Abalos, "in that area, they grow many fruit trees, and they have quite a few mines."

One thing the boys definitely miss, from the tradition they brought from Mexico, is their siesta.

"They eat breakfast at 9, lunch at 2 and supper at 9, and right after their lunch, they always siesta. This isn't because these people are lazy, but it's because it's so hot in Mexico at that time of day that you can't work," Abalos said.

They were asked if they would ever come back to Hereford to stay. The boys smiled.

"Hereford is a nice place to visit but we still like Mexico better."

Tech Shows Slight Increase In Enrollment

LUBBOCK — The audited enrollment figure for the second term of the summer session at Texas Tech University was announced Monday (Aug. 3) as 5,832, an increase of 67 over the second term of the 1969 summer session.

The first term of the 1970 summer session totaled 7,872, up 23 over the first term of the 1969 summer session.

Meanwhile, an estimated 550 new students for the fall semester arrived Monday for the fourth early registration conference at the university.

Other two-day new student academic advisement, orientation and early registration conferences are scheduled for Thursday and Friday of this week.

Dr. William H. Duvall, assistant dean of students for programs and coordinator for the conferences, estimated that more than 3,550 new students will attend the six conferences preparatory to becoming Tech students this fall.

In half a dozen places, the Bible tells us to "love thy neighbor." But it may be difficult to apply this general rule to the specific people who live next door. To what extent does the law insist on a "good neighbor policy?"

Under traditional legal rules, a home owner owned very little regard for his neighbor's sensibilities. He could do almost anything he pleased, so long as he did not actually intrude upon his neighbor's property.

In one early case, a home owner dug such a deep excavation near the boundary line that his neighbor's house had to be abandoned as unsafe. Yet, even though he had acted with malice aforethought, a court held him not liable for ruining the neighbor's house.

And in another case, a court refused to condemn an enormous "spite fence," darefully designed to shut out light and air from the people next door. The judge said "it would be intolerable to allow a man's neighbors to question his motives."

But in recent years, as people began living closer together, the attitude of the law has changed.

Today the right to excavate is limited by considerations of safety and fair play. Almost everywhere, the spite fence is forbidden. As one court put it:

"No one ought to have the legal right to make a malicious use of this property for no benefit to himself, but merely to injure his fellow man."

Of course, moderate annoyances—even if unneighborly—are still legal. A home owner may still be reasonably noisy, even if the neighbors like it quiet. He may still paint his house a color that the neighbors consider frightful.

In one case, a man turned a deaf ear to a neighbor's complaint about his four large maple trees. It seems the trees kept the neighbor's house in almost constant shade.

But after a court hearing, the judge ruled that the neighbor had no legal grounds for complaint.

G. S. Parker, who lives at 109 Avenue J, is 80 years old and still "likes to make a dollar."

Mostly, we think Mr. Parker just likes to keep busy.

Not only does he keep the lawn and yard in tip-top shape and cultivates a sizable vegetable garden, but he's also a pretty decent repairman too. For instance, he recently picked up and repaired a neighbor's discarded lawn mower and figures he'll probably sell it for a little profit. "Got to get it running just right," he says. He used to sharpen a few hand saws for the folks in the neighborhood, but likely as not he wouldn't charge them for the service.

Parker admits that he can't drive so well anymore so he has placed himself under a self-imposed ban. Realizing that he could have an accident and hurt someone, he's put up the car keys and depends on others in the family to take him around. The lack of ready transportation has curtailed some of his activities too, but it hasn't stopped him from working in his home workshop. He just has to be more careful to pick up the right supplies when he does go to town.

We're sure there are a lot of people in Hereford like Mr. Parker and we think it's wonderful that he and others who have retired still have such a vibrant interest in the community around them. They enjoy staying active and surely staying active is the key to their good health and happiness.

It isn't every individual that can retire and remain content, but we have a number in Hereford who have accomplished this.

Men who have worked hard and have been active all during their productive years so often find they cannot "sit and rock" after retirement. Most find something that interests them—a hobby of some sort, or perhaps a part time occupation which they have always wanted to pursue but didn't have the time. Others of course, find fulfillment in gardening or golf or something similar.

A friend of ours who has retired from the newspaper business gets his kicks—and a little spare cash—from editing and publishing county histories. He has done the editing, proof-reading and production supervision on 5 or 6 such books and now has 3 more in the mill. He enjoys the work immensely and has made a little money on the side. He's nearly 70 years old and apparently in perfect health but doesn't care for the full-time grind of the newspaper business. Publishing books was the answer for this active retiree.

By the way, he shoots in the low 40's on the links.

Frank Walterschied, who sold his farm and retired several years ago, still does a little carpenter work—in the mornings when it's cool—and plays golf nearly every afternoon. And Roscoe Stark, an old railroader, is another who beats that little ball around the pasture. Both are pretty good and both enjoy the pastime.

Roscoe also likes to shoot a little snooker with the boys at the American Legion home. He's rather proficient at that game too.

—HB—
And what's all this got to do with the price of eggs in China? Why, nothing, and it really isn't tremendously important, but it is a pleasure to observe the older generation getting so much more out of life than their peers did 30 years ago.

—HB—
One reason why a dog is such a liveable creature, we're told is because his tail wags instead of his tongue.

The governmental people planners who are in charge of the welfare program in this country would do well to look over the system employed by the folks "down under". The Australian government does not pass out relief checks. Instead it makes jobs available in governmental agencies usually letting the would-be welfare recipient work on the roads, in the forest service, or do something else that he is qualified to do.

When the welfare applicant finds a job in private industry then he is released from his governmental job to go his own way.

Apparently they don't believe in "unemployment" down there.

The Republican party will be having a big day in Hereford this Friday. Republicans Bob Price, Paul Eggers, George Bush and others will be on hand for the affair to be held at the Civic Center. See story elsewhere in this edition of The Brand.

As Will Rogers once said, our investigations have always contributed more to our amusement than they have to knowledge.

Dist. Judge Herman Jones of Austin has been named by Gov. Preston Smith as presiding judge of the Third Administrative Judicial District, succeeding D. B. Wood of Georgetown.

At The Library

Yacht Not Always Ultimate In Luxury

The tale of a do-it-yourself yachtsman and his wife who disagrees a yacht is a good investment, told with comedy and humor, is now available at the Deaf Smith County Library.

Also available is the saga of intense personal tragedy in the life of a young Trojan princess whose premonitions of war, fire and death are dismissed as madness. Check into these and others today.

REQUEST PERMISSION TO GO ASHORE, DEAR
By Geraldine Emerson

Here is the rollicking, sometimes bittersweet, story of a do-it-yourself yachtsman and his unseaworthy ship, Lillith, as told by a landlubber wife whose patience is tried more than a few times before the saga is over.

The author's attitude toward boats in general is succinctly summed up: "I never asked for a boat. I never even thought about a boat." But she got one anyway when her husband reasoned it would be a good investment - fix it up a little, enjoy it for a while, then sell it at a fat profit. How could he go wrong? But "the best laid plans . . ." and these did too.

Lillith might more aptly have been christened "Emerson's Folly." The forty-nine ton seafarer turned out to be far from

A. C.'s original jaunty dream of the yachting life. The word "yacht" conjures up visions of the ultimate in luxury: a white-jacketed steward offering trays of exotic delicacies; an elegant candlelit dining room glimpsed through a discreetly curtained porthole. Lillith with her dry wit, her rats, and her flooded decks was hardly the image of luxury—except when it came to bills that arrived in her behalf. The first one that came read $987.92. Our heroine's response: "I could have a new spring wardrobe, a complete Elizabeth Arden, and a little blue Fiat."

But with stiff upper lips, the Emersons footed the bills and underwent the catastrophes that befell Lillith after they got her launched at last. Fouled propellers, conked-out engines, and flameshooting batteries were among the near-disasters that ensued. And the motley amateur crews that A. C. managed to recruit only added to her unseaworthiness.

This rollicking, merry book will have you laughing at the Emersons' ill fated adventure, especially because they are laughing at it right along with you.

PRIAM'S DAUGHTER
By Georgia Sallaska

This new novel depicts the intense personal tragedy of the young Trojan princess whose visions of fire and death became the terrifying reality of history's first great war. Georgia Sallaska blends sound historical scholarship—including the explosion of several long-cherished myths—with an absorbing narrative to paint an unforgettable portrait of the tormented Cassandra, King Priam's favorite daughter, whose dark premonitions were dismissed as madness. But in telling Cassandra's story, Mrs.

Sallaska does much more: she brings new life and a sense of immediacy to the saga of Troy, with all the splendor, the brutality, and the high drama that have captured men's imaginations for more than 30 centuries.

Tech Graduation Is Aug. 22

LUBBOCK — Plans have been announced for Texas Tech's summer commencement exercises to be held at 7:15 p. m., Aug. 2, in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

More than 1,000 students have applied for undergraduate and advanced degrees at the August ceremonies. Last summer's class numbered 975.

Also invited to attend and participate are the university's 2,427 spring graduates whose formal cap-and-gown exercises were cancelled because of emergency circumstances following the May 11th tornado which struck Lubbock. The spring graduates have already been awarded degrees in absentia.

Honorary doctor's degrees will be presented to Harold Hinn of Plainview and Dallas, a member of the university's governing board from 1967 to 1969, and to Lewis G. Weeks of Westport, Conn., internationally known geologist. President Grover E. Murray will deliver the principal address.

There will be no formal rehearsal of the exercises, according to Dr. Bertie Fallon, chairman of the commencement committee.

Candidates for degrees should report to the auditorium promptly at 6:15 p. m., attired in full academic regalia. Dr. Fallon said. Marshals will be available to assist degree candidates to find their correct places in the procession.

ENMU Signs Utah Cager

PORTALES — Rich Kemp, scorer and second leading rebounder for Snow Junior College, Ephraim, Utah, has signed a letter of intent with the Eastern New Mexico University Greyhounds, according to Buddy Ball, Eastern head coach. A native Murray, Utah, Kemp averaged 17.5 points and 11 rebounds a game for Snow JC last season. The 6-5½, 210-pound forward was named to the Junior College All-Region 1 team at the end of the season.

"He's a good all-around performer," Ball said in announcing Kemp's signing. "He's strong and rugged, and shoots well, and should give us the inside help we need for the coming season."

The Greyhounds of Eastern placed third in the 1970 NAIA National Championships in Kansas City after winning the national title in 1969.

Joe H. Jones, special research associate with the UT Bureau of Business Research, reports that a recession in Texas economy was clearly in evidence through the first half of 1970, with prospects for a significant economic recovery within the next six months appearing unlikely.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Just a year ago Texas was at the crossroads in establishing a meat and poultry inspection program, but since that time the Texas State Department of Health has made the turn and moved ahead in providing necessary inspection.

Faced with the responsibility of providing adequate state inspection or having the federal government take over the program, the Texas Legislature passed a new Texas Meat and Poultry Act effective Sept. 2, 1969. The new law parallels minimum federal inspection requirements, which still apply on all red meat and poultry processed for interstate shipments. Authority for the new state inspection program was invested in the Division of Veterinary Public Health of the Texas State Department of Health.

With an estimated 2,200 meat establishments in Texas requiring continuous surveillance, the job is no small one. Cost of the project was set at $2 million the first year and $3.6 million the second. The federal government pays half.

Passage of the new legislation meant a training program had to be established fast to meet the need for trained inspectors. State Health Commissioner Dr. James E. Peavy, Deputy Commissioner Dr. J. B. Copeland and Dr. A. B. Rich, director of the Division of Veterinary Public Health, has seen this need developing and were ready with a solution. On the day the new law went into effect, a training program also was ready. The State Veterinary Meat Inspection School began its operation in Yoakum. R. C. Hall, D.V.M., coordinates the program from Dr. Rich's office, and Louis Boening, D.V.M., is training officer. By the end of the first year this September, the school expects to have turned out 240 meat inspectors.

Dr. Boening said five different courses have been established: 1. basic slaughter; 2. advanced slaughter; 3. processing; 4. poultry inspection; and, 5. veterinary orientation. A new, specially-designed school is on the drawing boards for the continuously operating program. Inspectors who finish the initial training have received further training under veteran inspectors in commercial slaughter houses.

Recently added to Dr. Boening's faculty was Erwin Jemelka, D.V.M., formerly with the veterinary medicine program in San Antonio. Leon Barrett, a lay meat inspector, is on the training staff and Mrs. Virgel Rutledge, office secretary, has given instruction in non-professional categories such as record keeping and filing. Some federal representatives have helped with classroom instruction.

In addition to class work, training has been given in federal and state inspected packing houses located in a 50-mile radius of Yoakum.

Aim of the program, said Dr. Rich, is upgrading of the meat industry and protection of the consumer.

Don't Swear!

It's a Bible command... a common-sense law of life. "Thou shalt not take the name of The Lord Thy God in vain." THEN WHY DO YOU DO IT???

Careless habit? Limited vocabulary? Calloused soul?... JUST WHY DO YOU DO IT? "The Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Man, too, will hold you guilty. The members of your family, — the fellows in your office, — the stranger on the street ... none of them like it! Your family deserves better of you. Your neighbors expect better of you. God requires better of you. Go to church and break the swearing habit. Learn to respect and honor and reverence God's name. Please don't swear!

COUNTRY-STYLE — In the Spanish way gives this foyer an ambiance of welcoming warmth. Intricate ironwork finishes the mirror, sconces and table from Syroco. Ironwork chandelier and antique chest accent the Mediterranean mood.

For Women Foyers Reflect The Home

NEW YORK — Foyers, like faces, create first impressions. And just as a scrubbed face would be wrong above a brilliant gown, the sparkle of the living room will lose luster if your guests have first to pass through a dull foyer.

Because the entrance to a bride's home is the most revealing statement-in-a-nutshell about her personal taste, the foyer should be planned with as much care and imagination as one would give to any other room in the home. It is a preview of things to come.

Even without a formal foyer, there is no need for abrupt intrusions into living rooms directly from outdoors. Built-in dividers or movable screens can create the illusion of separation. So can demarcation of foyer leading to a carpeted living area.

But real or illusory, the foyer should be the decorating announcement for the entire house or apartment. Here is the ideal place to establish a house-wide color scheme and decorating style. Small foyers, of course, should be handled with care.

Gordon Shaffers Honored Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shaffer and sons Scott, Jeff and Mike, of Caracas, Venezuela, are visiting in the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs. James A. Shaffer.

They were honored at a family picnic Sunday in the home of his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Weity of the Easter Community.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Drake, Sammy and Charles, of Van Horn, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wagoner, Dumas; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bob Wagoner, Stratford; Mrs. David Seale, Dennis, Vickie and Joe, Childress; Mr. and Mrs. Delton Cochran, Robin, Carey, Cord and Kyle, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Art Shaffer, Hereford.

They should not be overburdened. Scaled down decoration—smaller flower arrangements, suitably-sized lighting fixtures— all help create the illusion of increased space.

In a narrow hallway especially, furniture should be kept at a minimum before it makes an obstacle course out of the passageway. Table and mirror can be mounted on the wall. The mirror helps, too, to add to the illusion of depth that is not really there.

In addition to being the herald for the house, the foyer can also be put to work. In a small house or apartment where space is at a premium, it should pull its weight by serving a number of other functions. It can be used as a home office with a desk that can be closed to appear as a formal console at other times. It can be an apartment dining area, a storage center, or an extra sitting room.

But large or small, existent or created, the entry hall has a lot to say about a bride. Make sure it is saying the right thing!

Chamber Women Donate To Community Projects

Donations for needy community projects were voted on by members of Women's Division, Chamber of Commerce executive board at a luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Hereford Country Club.

Contributions will be given to the new Day Care Center, Public Health Clinic and Satellite School and plans were made to pay $100 on the offset printing equipment recently purchased by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Jack Wilcox, chairman for the Satellite School committee, presented a report on the school. She said it is in dire need of volunteers to assist the teachers a few hours a day. She said they also have room for more students since several have been graduated into the special education classes at the public schools. Teacher of the school is Mrs. Raymond Higginbotham.

Price Invites Applicants For Coast Guard

Congressman Bob Price has announced that applications for appointments to the United States Coast Guard Academy, Class of 1975, are now being accepted.

The appointment offers qualified young men a four-year academic program which leads to a Bachelor of Science Degree and a commission as an officer in America's oldest continuing seagoing service.

"Appointments to the United States Coast Guard Academy are tendered solely on the basis of an annual nationwide competition, which is open to all young men who fulfill the basic eligibility requirements," he said.

"I urge all qualified young men who are interested in this worthwhile profession to write for details and application forms as soon as possible to Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Connecticut 06320," he added.

A candidate for the next competition for the Coast Guard Academy must be single, must have reached his 17th but not his 22nd birthday July 1, 1971, and must be in excellent physical condition.

A high school diploma is the minimum educational requirement, although high school seniors assured of being graduated by June 30, 1971, are eligible to compete if they will have at least fifteen credits by that time.

Success Is Home-Grown

Most successful farmers and feeders find their opportunities in the same place they were born and raised — or perhaps a mile or two down the road. Success is a crop we like to cultivate at the Land Bank Association — and it's best if it's home-grown.
