Angel Tree to help needy children

An Angel Tree has been placed at Leal's Restauarant in Muleshoe and is designed to help needy children this holiday season.

Red and green angels have been placed on the tree, containing the names and ages of needy children in the area. People are asked to select as many angels as they chose and purchase Christmas gifts for these disadvantaged children, who would otherwise be unable to celebrate Christmas.

Approximately 50 angels have been placed on the tree and people may come by anytime, until Dec. 22, to sponsor a child.

The list of children included on the Angel Tree were children identified to be in need by the Muleshoe School system.

"The idea is for people to come pick an angel and get a gift for that child," said Victor Leal. "The gifts should be returned to the restaurant and will be distributed on Thursday, Dec. 22, to the families by a local civic organization.

Leal's Restaurant did the Angel Tree Christmas project last year and it was a success as "It has always been amazing how people cooperate," Victor said. "Some people last year brought up to three or more gifts (for the children)."

The green angels represent girls and the red represent boys. The angels also contain a short list of suggested gifts.

Victor said that people can start coming in to the Angel Tree immediately.

"We also encourage everybody to shop locally and we appreciate the support and response we received for this project last year," he said.

Words alone can hurt a child

By Jennifer L. Jones Special to the Journal

Every day, thousands of children are abused by their parents.

No, I'm not talking about physical or sexual abuse. What I'm talking about is much worse: It's emotional abuse. While it cannot directly kill you, emotional abuse can kill the inner soul.

Many parents just say the first thing that comes to mind when they are mad, not thinking about how their words make an impact on their child. While most parents go on to regret what they've said, by then the damage has already been done.

Everyone wants to be loved, accepted and heard. So what happens when they are not? Some lead a fairly "normal" childhood, but others become mean – stealing, cheating and just causing trouble. When these children grow up and have their own kids, they often resort to emotional abuse because that is what they know how to do.

So, what can we do?

- Think before you speak. Remember that little kids are people too. Would you tell your neighbor he or she was a clumsy idiot if he or she spilled something?

-Reduce your stress so that in the A you are not so tense. When you paper).

have too much on your mind, it is likely that you will take it out unintentionally on your child.

- Take a deep breath and collect your thoughts before you yell (It is OK to yell).

Listen to your children.
 Pay attention to what they are saying.

-Compliment your children when they do something good. And remember just because we've always used the saying "sticks and stones may break my bones but words will never hurt me" doesn't mean that it is true.

Maple student modelsa fashions at symposium

LEVELLAND – Malisa Guillen from Maple, a fashion merchandising student from South Plains College, recently got an eyeball look at the growing organic cotton industry as one of six SPC models for this fall's Texas International Organic Cotton Symposium at the Civic Center in Lubbock.

"The students gained some knowledge of the organic cotton industry," said cindy Brown, program coordinator and associate professor of fashion merchanidising. "They also made some contacts that could be valuable in the future."

The symposium was aimed at producers, manufacturers and retailers in the organic cotton industry.

Organic cotton is used in a variety of garments, including swimsuits, dresses, children's clothes and casual wear.

"Some of the real casual clothing is made from cotton actually grown in different colors, such as brown, gold and green," she added.

Take extra precautions with food this holiday season

AUSTIN – With the holidays approaching, now is a good time to review safe kitchen practices that will keep food poisoning form ruining a festive dinner, said Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

Millions of cases of food poisoning occur in the United States every year, Perry said. Though most cases are mild, some can be deadly. The very young, the elderly and those with chronic illnesses are at special risk.

"The good news is most cases of food-borne illness can be prevented by proper food handling and sanitation at home," Perry said. "This may take extra planning during the holidays when a greater variety and quantity of food is served."

Texas Department of Agriculture Nutrition Coordinator Belinda Boshell recommends following simple precautions to ensure safe eating during the holiday season and all year long.

* Safety begins at the supermarket, says Boshell. Pick up the turkey, meat and dairy products last. If food has to be in a car longer than 30 minutes, ice perishables in a cooler.

* Take your food home to a clean kitchen -- spotless shelves, countertops, other surfaces and utensils. Refrigerate or freeze perishable items promptly.

* The safest way to thaw a turkey is in the refrigerator, never at room temperature where bacteria multiply rapidly. Refrigerator thawing takes one to two days for an 8-to 12-pound bird and four or five days for turkeys weighing 20 to 25 pounds. Fresh turkeys should be purchased two or three days before the holiday and stored in the refrigerator. Place the turkey in a pan so it cannot drip on other food.

* Cook turkey and dressing separately. Stuffed inside a warm turkey, dressing becomes a breeding place for bacteria. If you must cook dressing in the bird, stuff the turkey after it has thawed completely and right before putting it in the over. Cook it until a meat thermometer inserted into the center of the dressing registers 165F.

* Cooking food to internal temperatures of 165 to 212 F. kills most food poisoning bacteria. Hot food can be held at 140 to 165 F. -- in a chafing dish, for example -- up to two hours, stirring occasionally. Properly stored leftovers should be reheated thoroughly to 165 F.

* Refrigerate leftovers, including pumpkin and other custard pies, within two hours.

Just part of the cowboy way

I ran into Randy in the airport. He was draggin' his right hind leg like an escaped convict tryin' to cover his tracks. I could see it had taken him a while to pull his pant leg on over the swollen knee. He stepslid to a stop to visit for a minute.

So," I asked stupidly, "Hurt yourself?"

Randy is a rodeo announcer. A good one, I might add. I've seen him work. But this injury could certainly not be work related, I thought to myself. Rodeo annonnouncers are a little higher up the food chain than those of us who actually get within striking distance of large herbivores.

They sit in their ivory towers above the dust and flailing hooves, inciting the fans and titillating the timers. Occasionally stooping to act as straight man to the barrel man's jokes but above it all, maintaining their dignity. Ringmaster of all they survey.

He gave me a raised eyebrow, realized that I was not smart enough to have asked the question facetiously, and explained. In an effort to 'keep up with the competition' he had taken to announcing rodeos a horse back.

'Say no more,' I thought. Riding a strange horse furnished by the stock contractor into the center of the arena surrounded by thousands of foot stompin', whistlin', avid rodeo fans, reins in one hand, microphone in the other, with flags flyin', banners flappin' and music blaring...the outcome is almost predictable.

His story included all of that and concluded with a wild bucking exit where he bailed out with the grace of a send bag fallin' off the back of a runaway stage coach.

What makes people do things like that says something about the cowboy mentality. This mentality is best characterized by that old joke where the guy holds his hand up in front of his face and bets his friend that he can't 'hit my hand before I move

I've been wearing a neck brace for several weeks. Not in public, of course. Maybe I wouldn't be so reluctant to wear it if I didn't have to respond to the question... "So, did you hurt your neck?"

What do I tell them? No. It's just decorative. A cosmetic article of clothing designed to offset my band posture and enhance my fine facial features. Or maybe ... my wife gave it to me on our tenth anniversary... or, I wrenched it saving a school bus load of children from a burning building.

If I was forced to explain, I would have to say that I was riding down the trail with an amigo whose horse was jiggin" and tossin' his head. So I told this amigo that he didn't have to put up with that kind of unsavory equine behavior.

When he throws his head, I said, conk him between the ears. "Whattya mean?' asked my amigo. So I demonstrated by leaning out of the saddle and whacking his horse on the poll with a 32 oz . mug I'd got at the Git and Go. The mug broke, his horse stampeded and when I straighten up, I couldn't move my neck.

See what I mean? Randy's story isn't that preposterous after all. Just part of the cowboy way. Here, bet you can't hit my hand before I move it.

Watson Junior High basketball

Basketball action on Tuesday, Dec. 5th, was seen in the Watson Junior High gym when the Muleshoe Junior High girls teams hosted the Dimmitt Bobcats. The eight grade team out-scored the Bobbies, 38-35. The seventh grade team was also victorious with a final score of 29-15.

Eighth Grade Girls

The eighth grade girls team started out slow, but after a poor first half, the girls made a come-back. Ending the first half 18-10, the Muleshoe team entered the third period ready to play. They closed the gap, putting up baskets for 11 points in the third period and 8 points in the 4th. Andrea Roberts hit 2 from the line to send the game into overtime. In overtime play, Krystal Heathington hit the front end of a 1 and 1 to put Muleshoe on top by 1 point. Then, recovering her own rebound from the second shot, Heathington put it in just as time ran out. The final score was 38-35, Muleshoe.

Scoring for the Muleshoe team were Krystal Heathington (5), Alma Gonzales (1), Kelle Morris (4), Erin Whilhite (13), Andrea Roberts (8), Rhonda Copley (4), and Melissa Williams (3).

Both teams put the ball up for 8 points in the second half, but the Muleshoe team managed a 29-15 victory over the Bobbies.

"This team is doing a good job of working together and they have improved every game, " said Coach Denise Dunham, girls basketball coach at Watson Junior High.

Eighth Grade Boys

The Eighth Grade team found themselves trailing, 31-14 at the half against Dimmitt. "They outscored us 17 to 3 in the second quarter and when that happens its hard to win. I was real proud of the effort they showed in the fourth quarter," said Coach Welch.

In the fourth quarter the team cut a 20 point lead by Dimmitt to 4 points with only 2:00 minutes left in the quarter, but the Muleshoe team was unable to rally for the victory. The Bobcats claimed the victory, 53-44.

Volunteers wanted to provide income tax assistance

DALLAS – People who want to extend the spirit of giving beyond the month of December, the IRS wants to hear from you. "We're looking for people who want to learn to prepare federal incometax returns to help those who are'nt able," said Bobby E. Scott, IRS District Director.

The IRS Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program is entering its 25th year of providing free tax help to the public. Beginning and advanced income tax classes will be offered at no cast to those who volunteer for the program. Day and evening classes are scheduled at locations throughout North Texas beginning this week through January 13, 1995.

VITA offers free tax assistance and return preparation for low income, disabled, non-English speaking and elderly people. Those completing the classes will be certified to provide free tax help during the upcoming filing season -- mid January through April 17,

"A tax background isn't necessary," says Scott. "The only requirements are an interest in learning about taxes and a desire to help others by putting that knowledge to use."

Last year, 47,000 north Texas residents were helped with tax returns by 811 volunteers at 160 VITA locations. "The VITA program was, and has been successful," says Scott, "because people care enough to volunteer."

People who are interested in becoming a VITA volunteer, want more information, or want to sign up, contact the IRS now. In the Dallas calling area, call 742-2440. Outside of Dallas, call 1-800-820-1040. Or write to Taxpayer Education, 1100 Commerce Street - Stop 6610 DAI, Dallas, Texas 75242.

"Help us help others," says
Scott. "Become a VITA volunteer and make taxes less taxing for you and others in your community.

NOTICE

Five Area Telephone Cooperative, Inc. (Five Area or the Cooperative) filed a request with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission) to offer Cancel Call Waiting, Remote Access to Call Forwarding, Teen Service, and Toll Denial Service throughout the Cooperative's service area. These offerings are proposed to become effective on or before January 1, 1995. Subscription to these services is optional. Additionally, the Cooperative proposes to eliminate the monthly rate for Tone Dialing Services throughout its' service area.

Cancel Call Waiting is feature which allows a customer to temporarily prevent, on a per-call basis, any incoming call from being call-waited on their line. Instead, the incoming call would receive a busy signal. Remote Access to Call Forwarding allows a customer to activate/deactivate the Call Forwarding feature from any location by using a Personal Identification Number (PIN.) Teen Service is a feature which allows two telephone numbers to ring on the same local exchange access line, identifiable by distinctive rings, without installing a second local exchange access line. Toll Denial Service restricts the local exchange user from accessing the long distance telecommunications network while permitting the user access to the local exchange network.

In addition to offering these new services, the Cooperative proposes to eliminate the monthly rate for Tone Dialing Services. Tone Dialing will remain an optional service, but it will be available at no charge to Cooperative members.

Proposed rates for these features are as follows:

Features	Residence	Business
Cancel Call Waiting	$1.00	$1.00
Remote Access to Call Forwarding	$2.00	$2.00
Teen Service:
Bula Exchange	$8.55	N/A
All Other Exchanges	$8.30	N/A
Toll Denial Service	$1.00	$1.00
Tone Dialing Service	No Charge	No Charge
1 (1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 -

These new services will be placed in the Cooperative's Member Services Tariff currently on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas. The Cooperative estimates a net loss of revenues of approximately $5,700 annually from these service offerings and the elimination of Tone Dialing.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in this proceeding, assigned Tariff No. T13622, should notify the Commission as soon as possible, but no later than December 21, 1994. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. 'Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission's Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221, teletypewriter for the deaf. For answers to any questions regarding these new, optional services and any other new features, please contact your local business office.

Priority Call permits the customer to preselect a maximum of eight (8) telephone numbers that can be given a distinctive alerting signal, ring or Call Waiting tone for priority calls. Repeat Dialing permits the customer to automatically redial the last outgoing telephone number dialed. CUSTOMER NOTICE —

Five Area Telephone Cooperative, Inc. (Five Area or the Cooperative) has filed a request with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUC) seeking approval to implement rates, terms, and conditions for a new optional service offering called Caller ID Service which includes the following individual features: Calling Number Delivery and Anonymous Call Rejection. This request has been assigned Tariff Control Number 13651. This service will be available to all residential and business customers, excluding Public, Semi-Public, and Customer Owned Coin-Operated connections.

Calling Number Delivery Service is an optional service which allows subscribers to see the phone number of most local calls before they answer the phone. Anonymous Call Rejection is an optional service which permits a subscriber to automatically reject calls from callers who have blocked the delivery of their number. Five Area will also offer blocking, free of charge. "Blocking" prevents the caller's number from appearing on the Caller ID display unit. Per-call and per-line blocking will be available when the service is deployed. Five Area will be sending each customer a postage prepaid per-line blocking request before Caller ID will be offered. All requests for per-line blocking will automatically be granted free of charge. It is not necessary to subscribe to Caller ID to have per-call or per-line blocking. Food Continued from page 3

Divide large portions of meat, dressing, gravy and mashed potatoes into smaller portions, which cool faster after refrigeration.

"The rule to remember is keep hot foods hot, cold foods cold and everything clean," said Boshell. "Kitchen cleanliness will go a long way to preventing food-borne illness anytime of year."

To prevent germs from multiplying during food preparation, separate raw meats, poultry and fish from other foods and use separate cutting boards for raw and cooked foods. Carefully wash cutting boards and knives before reusing.

Cutting boards should be cleaned and sanitized with warm, soapy water, followed by a solution of two to three teaspoons of household bleach in a quart of warm water. Rinse the boards with hot water. The same solution may be used to clean countertops.

Extension week is proclaimed

Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox has designated the week of December 12-16 as "Shaping The Future of Bailey County" week, in cooperation with the Bailey County Extension office.

The Bailey County agricultural Extension Service has compiled the "1995-99 Long Range Extension Program." Local civic leaders participated in study group meetings to identify the important issues that will impact the residents of Bailey county into the year of 2000.

The issues identified by the local leaders are:

- Parenting, wich involves every aspect of being a parent and raising children

-Water quality and conser-thing from efficient water use in the home to irrigation run-

-Solid waste management, which relates to businesses, families, farmers, schools, youth, adults, etc.

- Negative influences on youth, which includes peer pressure, substance abuse, gang-related acitivies, no parental involvement, early appearance of agressive behavior.

- Marketing local agricultural products, involving new and alternative marketing methods, changing farm programs, new ways of marketing local ag products, etc.

-Literacy, high percentage of population without high vation, which involves every- school education, school drop out rate, limitations on future contribution to and earning potential from the workforce.

> According to 1990 cenus statistics, 45 percent of the adult population over the age of 25 in Bailey County do not have a high school diploma. Education is a very important factor when determining a person's potential to become a productive citizen in the society.

The Extension Services is an educational organization supported through the Land Grant University System in the areas of agriculture, conservation, life skills, leadership and economic development. The Extension Service works in each of the 254 counties in

The name sounds like an organization you gave to in 1993, but not quite. You do what you are supposed to and call the Better Business Bureau.

You find out that a "Copy cat" charity that is capitalizing on the good name of a national or local organization in a attempt to raise funds that may or may not go where they say it will.

Last year, credit card companies topped the BBB list of most-asked-about businesses. While consumers are deciding which card offers the best interest rate and most attractive incentives, businesses must cope with a major problem related to increased credit card use and credit card fraud.

Fraudulent credit cards are obtained in several ways. Some cards are stolen, while others are altered to appear legiti-mate. One of the most significant advancements in the past few years to combat altered or counterfeit cards was the introduction of credit cards with holograms.

Counterfeiters have found this feature difficult to duplicate, and as a result, the number of illegally reproduced cards has declined. However, new forms of counterfeiting continue to trouble the credit card industry. These include magnetic stripe counterfeiting, altered signature panels and reembossed account numbers.

Consumers can help busit nesses by being patient when they ask for other forms of identification when presented with a credit card. Remembers it's a courtesy that they accept them, not an obligation!

It's a Good Thing He Explained

This morning between eating my oatmeal and running the morning bus route ferrying our kids to school, I got a chance, along with newspaper readers across our land, to hear the thoughts of convicted killer Samuel Hawkins, the "traveling rapist" who for seventeen years

Focus Faith Shelburne

has been on Huntsville's death row for killing a 12-year-old Amarillo girl and a 19-year-old six-months-pregnant Borger

I remember when the crimes I remember the shock and outrage they engendered across the Panhandle. I was in high school in Amarillo.

On Tuesday, eight hours before he was to die by lethal injection, Hawkins received a reprieve from the U.S. Supreme Court, which made me think that, as far as real justice is concerned, the folks in the black robes must be comatose. But, as I ate my oatmeal, Hawkins explained.

He explained that he is no longer a criminal, not a threat.

He explained that he is wellbalanced, intelligent, dignified, and reasonable, not "an animal that can't be reformed."

He explained that though he doesn't like what he did with "deepest cruelty," it happened a long time ago and "you can't change yesterday.

He explained that he hadn't gotten a fair shake in the media, that the media painted a false picture by not making it clear that he didn't know that the 19-year-old girl he repeatedly stabbed was pregnant.

His attorneys explained that his father had given him a poor upbringing by encouraging him to act out racial hatred by attacking women.

I'm sure glad he explained. For a moment there, I thought the man had really committed heinous crimes that any civilized society that values the lives of 12-year-old girls and 19-year-old mothers-to-be would punish swiftly and surely by requiring that justice be done, that the price of violently and cheaply taking life is to forfeit one's own.

Maybe tomorrow morning newspapers across the country will give the families of Hawkins' victims their own chance to explain how they feel about lost dreams and futures.

But I doubt it. Curtis Shelburne is minister of D Church of Christ in Muleshoe

In this holiday season of sharing and just plain giving I have some suggestions for those who need a blessing who need someone to allow them to give. The Healthcare Center is full of opportunities.

You can say you can't do anything. "Can you read?" Good. Read to me. My eyes aren't what they used to be.

"Can you write?" Good. Write a letter or card for me. My hands are shaky.
