Whitefaces To Clash With Coronado

Homecoming Activities Begin Friday

The 1976 Hereford High School homecoming activities kick off Friday with a parade through downtown and a pep rally leading up to the football contest between the Whitefaces and Lubbock Coronado at 7:30 p.m. on the Whiteface Stadium gridiron.

Activities are already underway in preparation for a parade, which begins at 2:55 p.m. at the Hereford High School parking lot. It will proceed down Ave. F and Park Ave. until it continues down Main Street and back around Second Street.

Students are preparing floats and other entries to march in the parade. About 38 units are listed in the procession.

The theme for the homecoming this year is "Children's Stories, Rhymes, and Disneyland." Parade entries will be judged on this idea according to the following classifications: Most original float, most expressive in theme, most original car, best all around car, and best all around float. These winners will not be on display as in past years and they will be announced at halftime ceremonies.

Judges for the parade are Jan Bradford, Helen Higgins, Debbie Gonzales, Bill Bradley, Laura Walker, Sarah Gonzales, Nicks Farris, and John Thames.

A pep rally is scheduled for 2:05 p.m. Friday at the HHS Gym. Also, the senior class supper is planned for 5 p.m. in the HHS cafeteria at the administration building.

Homecoming queen candidates will be presented at the halftime with the winner being announced and crowned at the pep rally. She is chosen from a vote of the whole student body.

Homecoming nominees are seniors Paula Wiley, Gayle Yosten, and Julie Hallows. One of these girls will be selected as the queen with the other two joining Lisa Duggan, sophomore and Rhonda Hall, junior as attendants.

HHS classes are decorating rooms and building in recognition of homecoming. Classes are competing against each other for the longest victory chain.

Organizing the homecoming events are Gene Brock, school vocational adjustment coordinator, Horace Gamez, student council president, and Paula Wiley, vice president of the student council.

Parade entries include a police escort, Key Club honor guard, Key Club American Flags, cheerleaders with the bell, HS band, drill team, pep squad, Leo Club float, National Honor Society car, orchestra float, Distributive Education car, Stanton band, Stanton pep squad, Stanton float, Horizon Club car, sophomore class float and OEA car.

Other entries are: Booster Club car, Student Council cars 1-3, choir float, 4-H car, junior class float, Forensic Club car, La Plata band, La Plata float, FTA car, senior float, FHA car, FCA float, ICT car, FFA float, OEA car, VOCT float, TACH car and Auto Mechanics VICA car.

Rounding Out

One of the lucky girls above will be the 1976 Hereford High School Homecoming Queen. She will be selected from among the following seniors [L-R, back row] Paula Wiley, Gayle Yosten and Julie Hallows. The other two will join the following girls as attendants [L-R, bottom] Lisa Duggan, sophomore, and Rhonda Hall, junior.

New Cover-up Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department refusal to investigate President Ford's role in blocking an early inquiry into Watergate "smacks of a new cover-up," says a member of Congress who asked for the probe.

Ford's attorney general, Edward H. Levi, announced Wednesday that he would not launch an inquiry to determine whether Ford lied about his participation in the successful move to halt the 1972 Water gate probe by the House Banking Committee.

Yarbrough Disbarment Asked

HOUSTON (AP) - A state civil district court has been asked by the State Bar of Texas to begin disbarment proceedings against Donald B. Yarbrough, the Democratic nominee for the Texas Supreme Court.

The 40-page lawsuit, filed Wednesday by a grievance committee of the State Bar, accused Yarbrough, 35, a Houston attorney, of violating state and federal securities laws.

Sears Stores Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Trade Commission today approved an order that bars Sears, Roebuck and Co., the nation's largest retailer, from using bait-and-switch tactics to sell major home appliances.

Sears, in agreeing to the order, admitted no wrongdoing. But the company said in a statement that "incidents which came to light in the recent FTC hearings were violations of Sears policy as well as FTC standards."

Cease-Fire Not Stable

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The latest cease-fire in the Lebanese civil war got off to a shaky start today, with a few explosions and scattered volleys of machine-gun fire in Beirut during the morning.

A right-wing Christian spokesman accused radical Palestinian guerrilla groups of attempting to sabotage the new truce.

But a communique from the Palestinian command said all guerrilla groups and their leftist Lebanese Moslem allies were observing the cease-fire strictly and "even refraining from answering provocations."

Students Urged To Attend HHS Career Night Set

The annual College-Career Night at Hereford High School is scheduled tonight in different HHS classrooms. It begins at 7 p.m. and continues through 9 p.m.

Students are encouraged to take advantage of the centralized information being gathered at the event. Representatives from various universities and colleges and career speakers will host sessions on their respective institutions and vocations.

Jerry Don George, principal, said it is an ideal opportunity for students, especially seniors, to ask questions concerning their choices for college and possibly the career they wish to pursue. The earlier such decisions are made, the better it is for the student to arrange all necessary course selections, fill in all applications and provide for finances.

Parents are also invited to the sessions, which will be conducted in three repeating 30-minute periods. The presentations will be complete within themselves and enable visitations to view more than one school or career program according to Mrs. Betty Mercer, HHS counselor.

Representatives from local businesses will speak on the following careers at the respective locations: Accounting, vocational director's office; Armour Foods, room 122; printing and newspapers, room 123; food merchandising, room 124; office work, room 121; real estate, room 126; Sue Ann Inc. (garment manufacturer), room 127; Electronics, room 128, automotive mechanics, room 129; electrical trades, room 130; finance, office across from Distributive Education; insurance, VOE office; Amstar Inc. (Sweetner Plant) room 133; trucking, room 133; refrigeration and heating, room 125, farming, room, 134; and Holly Sugar room 137.

Military representatives will be present to discuss enlistments. They are placed as follows: Army, auditorium state; Air Force, kitchen, Navy, sewing room; Marine Corps, room 110; and Army ROTC, auditorium stage.

Vocational or technical schools represented are as follows: Clarendon College, room 109; Amarillo College, room 115; Frank Phillips College, home nursing room; Tyler Junior College, room 216; South Plains Junior College, room 214; Texas State Technical Institute, room 217; and Oklahoma State Technical Institute, room 113.

Natural Gas Price Reduced By FPC

WASHINGTON (AP) - Government regulators of natural gas are reducing by $580 million the natural gas price hikes they approved because of prospects that consumers were going to face larger increases than the government intended.

The Federal Power Commission voted Wednesday to rescind 25 per cent of the record $2 billion rate increase it granted to natural gas producers last July.

At that time, the commission had estimated its new legal ceilings on gas prices would mean consumers would pay an additional $1.5 billion nationwide. However, as gas producers began filing their new rate plans with the commission, the FPC staff calculated the actual increase to consumers was going to be more than $2 billion.

The commission's action Wednesday was expected to bring the total increase to natural gas users to about $1.462 billion, just about what the FPC originally estimated.

According to the original estimates, the new ceiling will mean a price increase of 4 to 8 per cent over the next year in the yearly residential gas bill.

Calculator Stolen

A motorist passing through Hereford reported the theft of a valuable calculator while he was dining at a restaurant on West Highway 60 yesterday.

Ken Livingston of 701 Parker Street in Spur told officers that a calculator valued at $250 was taken from his car while it was parked at Dickies Restaurant.

Mrs. Leroy Bodkin told police that she was left keyless while shopping at Sugarland Mall here yesterday.

She reported that she left her keys in the car while inside the mall, and upon returning to her vehicle, she discovered that the keys were missing.

New Chamber President Elected At Board of Director's Meeting

Joe Shollenbarger, a partner in Shollenbarger, Berry & Co., was named this morning as the 1977 president of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. He will succeed Donald Hicks when new officers assume duties in January.

Other new officers named at a regular monthly directors' meeting this morning were Bob Ginn, vice president, and Jonny Cloud, secretary. Ginn is agricultural manager of the Hereford Plant of Holly Sugar, and Cloud is a vice president at First National Bank.

Cloud was one of four new directors elected recently in a mail ballot by C of C members. Others who will become members of the board are Raymond Schlabs, Phil Guerrero and Speedy Nieman. Outgoing directors are Calvin Goodin, Andrew Kershen, Jim McDowell and Arthur Gonzales.

In other business this morning, directors endorsed magazine company's proposal to publish an "image book" on the community, hear committee reports, discussed Goals for Progress projects, heard a report from executive vice president Bill Albright and, upon recommendation of the transportation committee, endorsed Gov. Briscoe's plan for providing additional highway funds.

Hicks also announced the appointment of various committee chairmen. They include: Jim McDowell, policy review; Mike Patrick, administrative procedures; Bud Eades, program of action; Shollenbarger, budget; and Mack Tubb, by-laws.

Steve Coneway was present to give a report on the water committee; Georgia Sparks outlined current activities of the Women's Division, and Albright presented the transportation committee report for chairman Mike Bradford.

Ruth Burton, representing the Windsor Publication Co., appeared at the board meeting to outline a proposal for publishing a magazine which could be used for promotion of the community. It would be funded by advertising sales, with the firm requesting the chamber's endorsement and editorial guidance. After a brief discussion, directors decided to endorse the program.

Shollenbarger, 36, has been a citizen of Hereford since September, 1964. He and his wife, Jan, have three sons-Randy 12, Scott 9, and Keith 7. They are members of the Central Church of Christ. Shollenbarger has been active in the chamber and the Noon Lions Club, is chairman of the sustaining membership committee for Boy Scouts, and is a member of numerous professional organizations in the accounting field.

Woodward Suit Draws Letters To The Editor

Support of the Wayne Woodward suit by state levels of the Texas State Teachers Association and the Texas Classroom Teachers Association was revealed last Sunday in a Hereford Brand editorial column and it is explained in detail in a letter to the editor on page 2 of this issue.

Cargoly Waters, past president of local chapters of both organizations contacted officials of both groups to seek information on the extent of financial backing of the Woodward suit. It totaled about $5,500 for TSTA and TCTA.

Mrs. Waters, a teacher at Stanton Junior High School, said conflicts existed between local and state levels of the organizations. The local units did not back Woodward, who reportedly sought aid but did not carry through on his request.

She said Woodward told her that he could do without the aid after he discovered the process to be followed in receiving it. He relied on American Civil Liberties Union and National Education Association aid.

Questions have been raised by local teachers concerning the education association stands on Woodward. Mrs. Waters hopes that membership drives of the CTA and TSTA will not be hurt any further by the controversy raised over the suit.

Unemployment A Profession

Ads are appearing in Chicago newspapers pleading for anybody, male or female, to work as a substitute for $200 a week.

And so few salaries that some oil companies say they may be forced out of business, though Chicago is still paying a third of a million of its potential workers for not working.

Unemployment pay, especially in the cities, has become a profession. Parents are making a "business" of pitilessness and thousands are building a criminal lifestyle out of cheating taxpayers.

In Los Angeles a construction worker collected $104 a week in state unemployment benefits while turning down job offers.

Any personnel director—any employer—is acquainted with the applicants for jobs who, when offered jobs, refuse them. Some will confide, "I applied only because the law required me to do so in order to continue to receive unemployment pay."

In New York City the wife of a man earning $25,000 a year has collected more than $100 a week for nearly a year for going to work.

Collecting unemployment compensation while avoiding employment is not all that difficult. In Michigan at least one state prisoner has been profiting an unemployment check each week. He sent his brother to pick it up.

Unemployment pay was instituted in the beginning as a short-term bridge to help people between jobs.

Ten years ago, unemployment benefits nationally totaled a little more than $21 billion. Such benefits lasted a maximum of 13 to 26 weeks.

By 1974 the total payments had soared from $2 billion to $5.5 billion. And by 1975—almost $10 billion!

And now it's possible to stay on unemployment as long as 15 months.

In 23 states the unemployment benefit has run dry. They have withdrawn $10 billion from the federal treasury. And that money, of course, is borrowed from your grandchildren.

Ford To Carry Texas, Lewis Says

AUSTIN (AP)—President Ford's campaign director in Texas says he thinks Ford still has a chance to carry Texas.

"We have held our own pretty well. We have stayed in striking distance. We have some shot at getting it done," R. Doug Lewis told a news conference Wednesday.

He said he thought the state race was "closer than the private or public polls indicate."

He said he made the comment based on an 11-day trip throughout Texas checking on Ford organizations.

"As I understand it, we are doing well where Republicans traditionally do well, particularly in the urban areas of Dallas and Houston," Lewis said.

Lewis said one finding of the trip was that many conservative politicians have been "neutralized" by Gov. Dolph Briscoe supporting Jimmy Carter and former Gov. John B. Connally supporting Ford.

"They have been asked by Briscoe to do one thing and by Connally to do another. As a result a lot of them are just sitting on the sidelines. That is somewhat of a plus for our campaign."

"Frankly there is a general apathy," he said. "There is very little voter distinction of what the issues are."

He said Connally would begin an intensive campaign within the state next week that would last until the election. He also said he expected President Ford to make another Texas visit.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

First of all, I would like to comment on your coverage of the Woodward case. This being a case involving in one way or another most of the citizens of Deaf Smith County, it will most certainly set a precedent for academic procedure in the future.

When a person cites the list and (4th) amendments, it should be used as a protection for the rights of the individual citizen's rights and it is an honor and a privilege that we have this kind of protection in our country.

At the same time, as I understand it, the rights of one person are protected only when or up until the time that the citizen's rights in fringe upon the rights of another citizen.

When parents enroll a child for their educational training they have both a right a responsibility to know what that child is being taught, what is being allowed or confined in their schools and what is not.

If these allowances or teachings are against our personal beliefs then we also have the right and privilege to contest their actions. And as in the case of Madeline O'Hare and the removal of prayer from our school, such a ruling may stand or fall according to the amount of citizens that stand up for their rights not allowing the rights of a few to override the rights of many simply out of apathy.

We need a ruling on our scholastic system that requires this same access of all knowledge and files pertaining to literature presented to students during school days and on school grounds. Thus protecting the parents' legal rights to such knowledge and letting the teachers know where they stand should they not have enough forethought to recognize the misbehavior (on controversial subjects) in the minds of our youth and a very possible invasion upon private beliefs and feelings.

These thoughts notwithstanding, our school board has placed itself in a grave position of responsibility in our stead as parents, protecting our rights and privileges to the knowledge of training and material being presented to our children.

If we want to preserve these rights and privileges pertaining to our children we must stand up and support our school board. We must let them know that we stand with them in fighting for their rights of authority and judgment over our county academic system for our right as parents and for the rights of our children as opposed to the rights of one individual.

Yours for better education and a great respect for the 1st's.

Dear Editor,

With reference to the Woodward versus H.I.S.D. lawsuit, I believe that the citizens of our community, and especially those who are members of TSTA and/or TCTA, would like to know more about TSTA and TCTA participation in this lawsuit.

According to the director of TSTA Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee, Mr. Don Dornett, the support mentioned by the news media was a grant for $5M, which must be reimbursed. This action was taken by TSTA upon the recommendation of the case PR and R Committee for 1974-75, which is composed of 10 members.

The school administrators named in this lawsuit, as members of TSTA, have access to legal and financial aid from TSTA, if they so desire.

Mr. Woodward was not a member of Texas Classroom Teachers' Association, state or local, during the 1974-75, 1975-76 school years. However, it can be assumed from a telephone conversation on October 14, 1976, with TCTA legal advisor, Mr. Charles Burns, that TCTA did help Mr. Woodward financially, with the lawsuit.

The help was in the form of financial assistance amounting to the sum of about $5,000 according to Burns. Until that date, TCTA has refused to reveal to our local:

1. If TCTA is, or is not aiding Mr. Woodward
 2. If so, to what extent?
- Both TSTA and TCTA, as well as NEA, dwell on members following procedure for PR and R cases. This fact has been the source of much conversation pertaining to this case, as Mr. Woodward did not follow the procedure set up by the professional organizations, or our local school board. Therefore, our local organizations could not take action. However, "our hands were slapped" on the state and national levels for not taking action on behalf of

Mr. Woodward.

What this amounts to is that TSTA, TCTA and NEA support came from Mr. Woodward's evidently convincing the state and national organizations that our local had done nothing when we really never had the opportunity, as our local TSTA executive committee was told that our help wasn't needed and our local TCTA was never contacted.

I have been a member and supporter of TSTA and TCTA for fifteen years and plan to continue working in these organizations. As for background knowledge of the organizations, my service on various committees and in several offices, including the office of president in each of our locals, gives me some first-hand experience.

As for a teacher's right to say and do as he or she wishes in a classroom, I believe that students and parents also have rights as to what a student will be subjected to in a classroom. Also we should, as citizens, (whatever our position might be), remember that with every right that we have, there is a corresponding responsibility.

I would hope that others in this community would voice their opinion through this news media or any other on this issue. The Hereford Brand is to be commended for its impartial reporting on this matter.

With reference to the KPAN radio coverage of the my comments about the school lawsuit, the radio broadcast was accurate and probably covered material that was already known by a lot of people.

But the KPAN Radio-Gram which was probably well read, needs a correction.

We did say that the state TSTA and TCTA did not adhere to the code of ethics of teachers. They just didn't follow the PR and R procedure, and they did insist that Woodward follow PR and R procedure and the code of ethics.

Therefore, our locals could not and did not take a stand on the case.

Sincerely,
Carolyn Waters

'Forgotten Stars'

NEW YORK (AP) - Tony Perez and Dave Concepcion, key cogs in Cincinnati's Big Red Machine, complained that Latin American players are still the forgotten stars of big league baseball off the field.

The Cincinnati standouts voiced frustration Wednesday over the difficulty Latins have in achieving the popularity enjoyed by other members of the National League powerhouse.

"It's unfair," said Concepcion, Cincinnati's All-Star shortstop.

"Nobody talks to Latins. Just look around the Reds' locker room. All the reporters are talking to Pete Rose, Johnny Beney and Joe Morgan," said Concepcion, a native of Venezuela.

They present the stereotypes that still beset Latin American ball players.

"Latins are branded as hot-tempered and hard to understand," they said, "and this means they usually are ignored by the news media and by advertisers seeking athletes to endorse their products."

Cowboys Look To Rematch

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry opened his Tuesday press conference with a bit of unsolicited philosophy.

"The winners are braggin' and the losers are weepin'," said the sharply dressed Landry with a thin smile.

Only Landry wasn't red-eyed from Sunday's 21-17 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals. Just call him irritated.

And that's the mood he hopes the Cowboys will exude when the Cardinals come calling in a rematch of the National Conference Eastern Division rivals Thanksgiving Day.

Reminded that St. Louis players taunted the Cowboys in the loss both by word and such actions as spiking the ball at Dallas players' feet, Landry said coolly "It irritates you. But it also gets their attention for the next game."

Post-game comment reached mushroom cloud proportions when middle linebacker Lee Roy Jordan said he will call National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle to have the play of Cardinal guard Conrad Dobler monitored.

Jordan said Dobler tackled him from behind, causing a strained knee and a sprained ankle.

"It is unbelievable that I am able to walk...that I'm not in a cast or in a hospital being operated on," said Jordan.

There was also grumbling from the Cowboys about the antics of Mel Gray, who threw the ball at Dallas players twice after scoring touchdowns.

Spy Charges Draw Answer

Dear Mr. Nieman: Swine flu, Philadelphia's Legionnaire disease, and Darrell Royal's Loser's Lumbago have all taken their toll. Now the Fearless Forecaster's Fungus has struck Hereford's Howard Cosell, locally known as Regretful Honest Tom Simons.

Mr. Simons is a man who indeed needs all the sympathy and condolences of his few friends. It is apparent by "Honest Tom's" libelous accusations that he has become quite paranoid. When a person who claims to be THE AUTHORITY on all sports is beaten by a woman he tends to suffer from a defeatist attitude. This is manifested by his constantly looking over his shoulder, hearing strange voices and hallucinations of telescopes and binoculars. If he can't take the heat he should stay out of the kitchen.

The charge of spying is totally unfounded as all my predictions of football games are based on my profound knowledge and woman's intuition.

The test to be taken is not a lie detector test by myself, but rather a complete psychiatric evaluation of poor Mr. Simons.

To help "Honest Tom" defray psychiatric expenses (which I am sure will require a lengthy stay in Amarillo's Psychiatric Pavilion) I have started a HELP REGRETFULLY HONEST TOM FUND. Anyone wishing to contribute their New York Yankee bubble gum cards may make their donations to the Fearless Forecaster Panel.

Reds, Yankees Anxious To Continue

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Summer Game has become a waiting game and the wait could end tonight.

Not the all-but-bored fans. "I don't like a day off. I would like to get it over with. The season's over. I want to go home." Cincinnati's Dave Concepcion said after Wednesday night's game was washed out.

"A postponement doesn't do a thing for us now," said manager Billy Martin, whose Yankees face the prospect of being swept in four games, the first team to go under in four straight since Baltimore rolled over Los Angeles in 1966.

"Why did you call the game off?" asked one upstate New York fan, telephoning Bowie Kuhn's office shortly after the Commissioner's 2 p.m. decision to postpone the game.

Tonight's game begins at 8:30 p.m. EDT. If a fifth game is necessary, it would be played Friday. But when Friday is not known.

Because of the debate between presidential candidates Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford, the game originally scheduled for 8:30 p.m. may be pushed up to an afternoon or twilight starting time.

The Reds came into this Series trying to achieve a feat unmatched by a National League team since the 1921-22 New York Giants, namely to win successive World Series.

Now the Yankees are trying to achieve a feat never before accomplished in the Series' 76-year history, namely to win a championship after losing the first three games.

The Yanks say they are not about to roll over and play dead. "We're not quitters," says Martin. "I am not a quitter and my guys aren't. We have been a comeback club all year."

But Will McEnaney, the reliever who took over for rookie Pat Zachry and nailed down Cincinnati's 6-2 victory Tuesday night, sees things differently. The Yankees, he, says can't keep playing their game because it hasn't worked.

"The pressure is really on them now," McEnaney says. "They have to throw away their game plan and start from scratch."

The Reds are sticking with their game plan. That means Gary Nolan will be pitching for them tonight. If Martin sticks to his plan, Ed Figueroa will be the Yankee starter. But the rain delay has given him an option. He could start Catfish Hunter.

Sparky Anderson, the outspoken manager of the Reds, thinks this Series should have ended a long time ago. "The Series should be over by October 1," he says. "That would be best for everybody. But then it is not my job to run baseball."

His job is to run what he believes is the best team in several decades. "I'd like to win the Series in four games," he told newsmen Wednesday. "In order to make you ask the question, 'Are we as good as the old Dodger and Yankee teams of the 1950s?'"

Last Year against Boston, Anderson said, the Reds did not play as well as they were capable of playing. This year, he says, they want that sweep "to show the people we are one of the great teams of all time."

The Reds haven't displayed as much of the power or opportunistic base-running as might have been expected. That's because their pitchers, the one facet of their game constantly being overlooked, have been doing a great job against the Yanks, limiting them to six runs in the first three games.

"Our pitching staff is underrated because the other eight guys get all the publicity," Anderson explained.

Gabe Paul, president of the Yankees, thinks his club can still make a respectable showing against the Reds. "It's been a case of fine playing from a fine club, playing at top form," he said of Cincinnati. "The Yankees wouldn't be here in the Series if we'd played like this during the season. The fact is, Cincinnati is playing so well and we're not."

WARSAW (AP) — Poland defeated the U.S. amateur boxing match Wednesday.

In the top fights, Poland's Olympic junior middleweight champion, Jerry Rybicki, outpointed Adolph Watts, feather-weight Olympic bronze medalist; Poland's Leszek Kosedowski stopped Lionel Valencia in the second round of their 125-pound fight, and heavyweight bronze medalist John Tate of the U.S. stopped Andrzej Biegalski in the third round.

Handle With Care set a world record time of 3:01.4 in winning the one and one-half mile Hudson Valley Pace at Yonkers Raceway Aug. 21, 1976.

PIONEER INFORMATION BULLETIN

Subject: SMUT

Most farmers in this area have heard of the epidemic of head smut which affected the corn crop in parts of six counties of West Texas. The disease is not expected to spread much beyond that area next year, if indeed it occurs at all, but the Pioneer Agronomy Service Department headquartered in Plainview, is conducting an informational program to acquaint all corn farmers with the disease.

Not surprisingly, there is a good bit of confusion about head smut since this is the first year it has appeared in the Southwest in high enough incidence to affect yields. Pioneer agronomists had studied the problem elsewhere, however, and print this information as a service to High Plains farmers.

Two distinctly different kinds of smut appeared in parts of Parmer, Castro, Deaf Smith, Lamb, Bailey and Hale counties: common smut and head smut. Common smut has little, if any, economic significance, but it is frequently confused with head smut, which is the real culprit. Estimates are that head smut reduced the yields of some fields by over 20%.

COMMON SMUT (Ustilago maydis), sometimes called boil smut, does not usually reduce yields. It is characterized by galls, bulbous growths which are at first covered with a glistening, greenish to silvery-white tissue. The galls may appear on any part of the corn plant including the exposed tips of healthy ears protruding beyond the shuck. The plant becomes host to wind or water-borne spordia which stimulate cells in young tissue to proliferate.

HEAD SMUT (Sphacelotheca reiliana) is systemic, the plant being infected by soil-borne teliospores in the seedling stage. The outward signs of the disease are less conspicuous than common smut. It first appears when ears and tassels are formed. Tassels of infected plants usually appear to be covered with a reddish brown or black, spiny rust. Silkless shucks look as if they might cover a short, fat ear of corn but opening the shuck exposes a mass of black, worm-like teliospores or a tangle of bright green, leafy buds. Since head smut is soil borne and there is no practical chemical treatment to control it, we can expect infection to increase from one year to the next if conditions are right. This year's weather (dry and cool) was particularly conducive to infestations of both types of smut fungus.

WHAT ABOUT NEXT YEAR? For the most part, head smut occurs in fields that have been planted to corn for several years. It appears that farmers with a head smut-infested field have a choice for the use of that field next year. They can plant the field to another crop or can, with reasonable safety, plant corn hybrids that offer resistance to the disease. Pioneer has three excellent hybrid corn varieties that show strong resistance to head smut. One of these is well known to area farmers and is the most planted variety in much of this area... Pioneer brand 3306. Two other Pioneer varieties... 3184 and 3195... which were planted widely in this area for the first time this year, not only resist smut but have even greater yield potential than the well-known yield champion, Pioneer brand 3369-A.

Celtics Begin Defense Of NBA Title Tonight

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Steve Kuberski and Jim Ard will get the call.

Indiana, meanwhile, has its own problems. Perhaps the least imposing of the four ABA teams to be admitted to the expanded NBA, the Pacers were further weakened by the loss of starting center Len Elmore and reserve guard Kevin Joyce, both of whom are out for the season with knee injuries.

That puts more of a burden on Billy Knight, the brilliant forward who was second in the ABA in scoring last season with a 28.1 average. And he's been hurting lately, a sprained ankle forcing him to miss the Pacers' final preseason test.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, coming off perhaps his best season ever when he won Most Valuable Player honors for the fourth time, is again the focus of things on the Lakers. He finished the preseason with a 28-point effort against Phoenix and appears in top form.

Center Dave Cowens and forward John Havlicek, the 36-year-old team captain, are both questionable for the opener because of back problems. Cowens worked out with the club Wednesday after missing a number of preseason games, but Havlicek did not take part in that final practice session.

Power forward Paul Silas was traded to Denver Wednesday in a three-way deal that brings Curtis Rowe from Detroit, but Rowe isn't expected to play in the opener.

Sidney Wicks, purchased from Portland last week in an effort to bolster the frontcourt, will start at one forward position, although he has been hampered by a groin pull. "He'll go as far as he can, but we don't know how far that will be," a Celtics spokesman said.

Havlicek and Cowens are also penciled in as starters, but if they can't make it veterans

Houston and Atlanta are both strong in the backcourt and weak under the boards. Mike Newlin, Calvin Murphy and No. 1 draftee John Lucas are the Rockets' guards, while Tom Henderson, Lou Hudson, Ken Charles and top rookie Armond Hill are Atlanta's backliners. The Hawks also have Geoff Petrie, the former Portland all-star, but he's temporarily shelved with a knee injury.

Buffalo is a scoring machine, with Locke giving free reign to Ernie DiGregorio to fuel the Braves' high-powered offense which features three-time scoring king Bob McAdoo, speedy Randy Smith, ex-Notre Dame John Shumate and Adrian Dantley and newly acquired Moses Malone.

Faces Host Mustangs In Homecoming Clash

By BOB NIGH
Brand Sports Editor

Prior to the start of the current football season Hereford mentor Fred Upshaw said that the Coronado Mustangs would be the "surprise team in the district...and do better than a lot of people think."

Going into the second week of district play, at least one team (Lubbock High) will attest to that summation of the Mustangs. Coronado dumped the Westerners 26-14 last week to successfully open their district campaign.

The Hereford Whitefaces, disappointing in a 23-7 loss in their district opener against Plainview last week, will have to contend with Coronado this week.

"Like us they've been up and down a lot this year," Upshaw said. "But, they have always been in the game, and have not been beaten badly."

Offensively the Mustangs are led by halfbacks Nick Pirkle and Sam Dancy, who rank fourth and sixth in the district in rushing respectively. Pirkle has picked up 385 yards rushing on the year, while Dancy has added 281 to his team's effort. Both have scored four touchdowns.

Coronado quarterback Buck Williams is second in the district in passing percentage behind Hereford's Jim Lawson. Williams has been true on 21 of 51 passing attempts, good for 323 yards and one TD. He has thrown seven interceptions, however.

Williams' favorite target so far this season has been Eric Blumrosen, who has snagged 11 passes for 215 yards and the lone Mustang touchdown through the air.

"They have pretty good size on offense. They execute real well, don't run a lot of different plays, and throw the ball well when needed," Upshaw said.

The Mustangs have had a tendency to run a lot of reverse plays, a call that is usually saved for opportune moments by most teams who run it.

Defensively linebackers Steve Matthews and Clint Walker lead the way for the Mustangs. Matthews is currently the third-leading tackler in the district with 67 stops to his credit. Walker has been in on 54 tackles to rank fifth in the category.

Playing in front of the linebackers in the 4-3 defense the Mustangs use are four down men which Upshaw says "are good football players."

Leading that group is Les Brewer. Brewer, 6-1 by 255 pounds, was an all-district pick at his tackle position a year ago.

The Mustangs also sport a better than average kicking game in Phil Young, who does both the punting and kicking chores. Young is leading district punters through seven games, sporting a 38.2-yard average.

"He is also a good field goal threat," Upshaw reported. Young has field goals of 44, 48, and 20 yards to his credit this year.

"He is an added threat, and shortens the field for their offense," the coach added.

Upshaw feels that field position will be the key to Friday's game due to the good kicking game sported by Coronado. "We've got to concentrate on blocking and tackling in order to win...we've got to control the ball," the coach said.

Upshaw says his team will probably throw a little more and a little earlier in the game than they did in last week's loss.

As far as the players' frame of mind goes this week, the coach said. "They realize our backs are to the wall, and that we have to come out swinging and win."

"We have nothing to lose, but have everything to gain," he concluded.

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) - Mrs. Philip Cudone of Myrtle Beach, S.C., winner of six of the last seven tournaments, will defend her North and South Senior women's golf title in the 54-hole, three-day tournament opening Friday at the Pinehurst Country Club.

She has won the last four tournaments.

CINCINNATI (AP) - Ezzard Charles, former world heavyweight champion, was honored by his home town when the Cincinnati City Council voted to name a street after him.

Charles, who died last year at the age of 53, won 14 of his first 20 pro fights by knockouts and defeated Jersey Joe Walcott in 1949 for the title. He also won a 15-round decision over former heavyweight champion Joe Louis in 1950.

On Wednesday, the city renamed Lincoln Park Drive as Ezzard Charles Drive. The street is lined by public housing projects near the city's West End section where Charles grew up.

Homecoming activities highlight the week as the Faces look to obtain their first district win and their fourth victory in a season which can best be described as up and down.

The injury gremlin has struck the Whitefaces again this week. The Herd's linebacking corps, which were severely damaged with the loss of Greg Brockman earlier, has been depleted even further with the loss of Rick Taylor this week.

Taylor, who suffered a shoulder separation last year and has been hampered with the same trouble this season somewhat to a lesser degree, has been lost to the squad for at least the Coronado game.

Upshaw reports that the senior standout faces possible surgery on the weakened wing in the near future. "Ricky will be out of action for awhile to let the soreness and swelling go down in his shoulder," Upshaw said. "We'll know more about the surgery possibility after he sees the doctor again next week."

Surgery on Taylor would market the second time a Herd player has been cut on recently. Brockman had surgery performed on a knee last Friday in Amarillo.

Sammy Davison, Carlee Graves, and Arthur Gonzales will make up the bulk of the linebacker corps against Coronado.

Coronado's strong point, according to Upshaw, is that they are "a real sound team...they make very few mistakes." "They don't get fancy on offense, don't stunt a lot on defense, and execute very well. They are similar to Borger."

Herd backers hope the Mustangs aren't too similar to Borger, a 28-21 victor over the Whitefaces in the third game of the season.

Coronado sports a 3-3-1 record heading into this Friday's clash at Whiteface Field. Two of their losses have been less than three-point setbacks. Lubbock Dunbar outlasted the Mustangs 14-13, and Palo Duro eked out a 14-12 win over the ponies three weeks ago.

CORNER CATCHER

The only center pivot in the world that hits the corners.

In a typical quarter section where a regular center pivot is irrigating 132 acres, you can now do about 150 acres. But the new Valley Corner System isn't limited to squares. Irrigate both ends of a rectangle. Irrigate odd shaped pieces of land too. It's the answer to getting valuable productive land that's been wasted, back under center pivot irrigation.

For flood irrigators, it's also the answer to automatic water and labor saving center pivot, without wasting valuable acres. No monitoring, no labor problems, no night work. But you have all the advantages of precise irrigation and fertilizer application through the system, that produces higher yields than ever before. It's a simple concept, precise in operation and engineered with quality of all Valley-built.

Box Supper Set For XEA Women

A box supper social was planned for members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority and their escorts during a meeting Tuesday night in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Jo An Richburg, chairman of the XEA social committee, announced that the upcoming social is scheduled Nov. 6 at the Flame Room.

The program, presented by Beverly Davies, was entitled "Esthetics-Perception of Beauty." The speaker analyzed the reasons for continued popularity of certain music, dances and furniture styles, due to emotional feelings as opposed to intellectual reasoning.

Also on the program agenda was an excerpt concerning the American heritage of BSP Sorority, which was founded by Walter Ross. The first chapter, formed in Abilene, Kans., had only seven members and the sorority has now organized several hundred chapters around the globe.

Orange cake topped with gelatin salad was served with cold beverages and spiced tea by the hostesses, Barbara Kendall and Alene Mason. In attendance were Cheryl Bullard, Cindy Kirkpatrick, Ilajeau Williams and Pam Fogo.

Also present were Lillie Shipman, Toni Jones, Marilyn Bell, Carolyn McDonald and Karren Ruland.

Suppressed feelings may eventually be expressed in the form of a headache, backache, fatigue, ulcer or other physical symptoms, Mrs. Ilene Miller, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

You hear a lot of talk in an election year about "bureaucracy." One of the best examples I've seen appeared awhile back in the Congressional Record. Since there was no author's name, you can fantasize on who wrote it.

In the beginning God created heaven and earth. He was then faced with a class action suit for having failed to file an environmental impact statement with the Heavenly Environmental Protection Agency (HEPA, an angelically staffed agency dedicated to keeping the Universe pollution-free.) God was granted a temporary permit for the Heavenly portion of the project but was issued a cease and desist order from the Earthly part, pending further study by HEPA.

Then God said, "Let there be light," and He should never have brought up this point since one of the Council was active in Sierrangel Club and immediately demanded to know how the light would be made. Would there be strip-mining? How about thermal pollution? Air pollution? God explained the light would come from a huge ball of fire.

Nobody in Council really understood this but it was provisionally accepted assuming (1) no smog or smoke would result from the ball of fire; (2) a separate burning permit would be required, and (3) since continuous light would be a waste of energy it should be dark at least half the time. God agreed. When asked how the Earth would be covered for darkness, God said, "Let there be firmament amidst the waters" and one ecologically radical council member accused

Anniversary Dinner To Honor Warrens

The 25th silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Warren, Star Route, will be observed Saturday by celebration of the Catholic mass and a reception dinner.

The service will begin at 4 p.m. that day in St. Anthony's Catholic Church with the Rev. Bernard McGorry, pastor, officiating.

Serving as hosts and hostesses at the ensuing reception dinner in the Knights of Columbus Hall will be the couple's children, Thelma, Duane, Eddie, Rosa Maria, John Jr. and Belinda Warren.

Regina Acker and John Warren were wed Oct. 31, 1951 in Holy Family Church at Nazareth. He has been employed as an automobile salesman here since 1948.

Chapter Plans Upcoming Events

Upcoming events were discussed by members of Kappa Iota Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Chuck Boyd, 211 Centre.

It was announced that the chapter will have as a money-making project an interior decorating party Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Also, the group will meet at 10:30 a.m. Nov. 6 at 211 Centre for an outing to Amarillo and a social with husbands was planned Nov. 19.

The chapter's Christmas party was scheduled Dec. 11 and final plans for their benefit bridge were made.

The bridge night was scheduled Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. at Community Center. Anyone still needing tickets may contact Mrs. Sparky Stephens at 364-5548.

Mrs. Boyd and co-hostess Mrs. Tommy Stoy served gingerbread, pumpkin pie, relishes and hot apple cider from the refreshment table decorated in a Halloween theme.

Members present included Mmes. Calvin Jones, Bill Johnson, Steve Jones, Butch Grover, Dwight Turner, Steve Jones, Lynn Brisendine, Carl Thorrell and Stephens.

Gwen London Plans To Attend Workshop

Gwen London, managing librarian at Deaf Smith County Library, will be attending the District II meeting of Texas Library Association Saturday at Amarillo College, Amarillo.

She will be among numerous other librarians, library trustees, board members, as well as other individuals interested in libraries and their development in the Panhandle region.

State Senator Max Sherman will speak that morning about prospective legislative action concerning libraries in the approaching 1977 session at Austin.

Mrs. London regularly attends all meetings and workshops in the Panhandle, as well as the Texas Library Conference, since she was hired by Deaf Smith County Library in 1974. She stated, "Since our library is a member of the Texas Panhandle Library system, it is extremely important that local library staff members know what is available through the System of our library and our people.

"This includes the imprecise issues and information that are in the offing, concerning the library, in order that we can be as effective as possible in our community."

Mrs. London urged all citizens to use the library, its resources and programs as much as possible in order to better the community and serve each individual.

Women's Editor

SPRING FEVER is a blight that plagues most members of the human species, but there are those of us who are smitten by a malady that I have christened Fall Folly. Symptoms, which tend to be compounded by winter-like weather, include over-sleeping when you need to be at work, waking at 6 a.m. when you could have spent all day in bed and just a general state of madness, which will pass with time, in most cases.

Should one suffer from fall folly, there is no cure that I know of, except to bide your time and send your family on a long vacation, lest the impairment be contagious. Then again, let's hope a cure is never found lurking under some microscopic lens, for then the government would improvise some sort of inoculation program to stamp out all our fun.

In order that you will recognize an individual who has contracted this odd disorder, I will describe some of my recent symptoms, as I am a terminal patient where fall folly is concerned:

WHILE UNDER THE influence of this ailment, I've noticed a strange obsession with trivia. For instance, I spent an entire afternoon scrutinizing a swarm of houseflies, hoping to see one die of natural causes. Forget this notion; when God made the common fly, he put a rider on its life insurance policy, stating that the creature could not collect a dime, unless he died by violence.

My fascination with a fly's death led to a natural spinoff on spiders. There is a spider in my house that weaves webs of fishing line. (I think the hairy devil set up housekeeping in my husband's tackle box.) One day

I found the cat snared in one of these arachnid devices, about to be pounced upon by the aforementioned monster.

Then, there was the problem with the bionic cricket, who leaps over the barn in slow motion and got me arrested for distributing the peace with his stereophonic chirping. However, we've learned to make friends with this particular pet, for he keeps the house warm by rubbing his legs together.

AFTER I RECOVERED somewhat from the insect fever, my crazed mind turned to farming ideas. I decided that I could make a financial killing if only I could figure out how to come up with a crop of golf balls. This would be a sure winner, because the Russians don't play the game, so there would be no danger of having the market price plummet due to foreign sales.

I toyed with the idea of gouging out that little black "seed" that hides within the recesses of golf balls, planting it and hiring a golfer to talk incessantly about his accomplishments, to serve as fertilizer. (That will probably get someone "tee'd-off").

In my mind, I could see my golf ball farm branching into another racket--tennis balls. There were diamonds in my eyes at the thought of harvesting truckloads in baseballs. The possibilities were endless. However, my empire crumbled when I revealed my agricultural binge to the local farm editor, who has been in a state of shock since.

Afterwards, a new Fantasy surfaced, this time on a national level. I spent minutes of endless, painstaking research in an effort to find out who was writing all those terrific political announcements for Gerry and Jimmy. No one would confess.

And that's too bad, because I was going to vote for that anonymous soul, wherever he hides.

Then there was an idea for reform in the postal service. Since postage stamps are getting to where they cost almost as much as a Big Mac, I devised a scheme. Through my spouse's inspiration, it occurred to us that it would be lucrative for supermarkets to give away postage stamps along with savings stamps. And that's not folly of any sort.

The site of New Orleans' famous French Market was first used by Indians as a bartering place.

Russia's White Sea was named for the glistening ice that covers it most of the year.

Ann Landers

Lyrics Don't Fit:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since this is the Bicentennial year it would be most appropriate if you would print this letter.

I have attended four public functions in the past two weeks and am appalled at the number of people, who, when the national anthem is played, start out with "Oh say can you see by the dawn's early light," then stumble around and fake it until they come to "rockets" red glare-- the bombs bursting in air," with another fade-out till "the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Isn't this song taught in our schools anymore? The young people are as bad as the older ones. What's the matter with us Americans anyway?-- Patriotism Gone?

DEAR PATRIOT: Let's face it. "The Star-Spangled Banner" is not easy to sing. The lyrics don't fit the music. Example? "Whose broad stripes and bright stars" is quite a hassle. Also, how many people know the meaning of such terms as "gallantly streaming" and "ramparts we watched"? And that picturesque phrase "at the twilight's last gleaming" is a bit of a non sequitur after "what so proudly we hailed."

Francis Scott Key the put words of his poem to the tune of an old English drinking song. Maybe THAT'S the problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter in the paper. It is important that certain people see the answer.

What do you think of parents who plan to take their five-year-old daughter to the hospital when the mother goes to give birth to a new baby?

They insist it is very healthy for small children to see everything.-- Friends Of The Kooks

DEAR FRIENDS: I think Mr. and Mrs. Kook will be in for a surprise. I know of no hospital that would allow it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I feel like a hick asking this question but I've never been in a plane in my life and need some answers.

I'll be going to Europe in November. Friends who have been there tell me I'll be exhausted from jet lag. Any suggestions on how to avoid it?

DEAR FIRST: The best way to beat jet lag on a trip to Europe is to take a morning flight. This will get you where you're going by bedtime. The next morning you will be on the clock and rarin' to go. If you take a night flight and can't sleep you'll be DOA (Dead on Arrival).

Other helpful hints: Get everything done two days before you leave. Even packing. Last-minute rushing can make a basket case out of the most experienced traveler. I say TWO days because one is never enough.

Wear loose-fitting clothes for the trip. (Tight girdles are murder.) Once aloft, undo your belt and collar and remove your shoes. This will help your body maintain good circulation.

Don't overeat (or over-drink) while inflight. (Easier said than done.)

Have a wonderful time and send me a postcard letting me know if you took my advice.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

TV Commercials Mean Big Earnings for Child Stars

By CONNIE GRZELKA

NEW YORK (AP) — They're normal children who go to school, ride bikes and play ball. But they also earn anywhere from $200 up to $5,000 or $10,000 in a day.

They're the kids who appear on television commercials. There are hundreds in the business, says Mari Lyn Henry, associate casting director at an advertising agency, who sees close to 300 of them a year.

Ms. Henry, who has worked with both children and adults for the past seven years at Cunningham & Walsh, describes her work with youngsters as "a special, human experience. They're always full of surprises."

Most of the children in the business are the "natural performers" who are extroverted and like to entertain, she says. The others are "cute children" who their parents think should be on television, she adds.

The kids come in all sizes, types and ages, from infancy to 10. Since youngsters tire easily, have a shorter attention span and may be self-conscious, Ms. Henry says that auditioning requires patience and an awareness of the child's needs.

Some of the children say they want to be stars when they start doing commercials, explains Ms. Henry. "But it's a fantasy. When they find out how much work is involved, many quickly change their minds."

She cites Linda Blair, who starred in "The Exorcist," as a good example of a child who started in the commercial business. She was a professional by the time she was 9 and knew what kind of work it meant to succeed, the casting director adds. "She was talented, but she also had the drive and ambition to pursue an acting career."

After some children have done a few spots, they become "very hip and professional."

"A 9-year-old might walk in with his picture and resume and ask what kind of work is available. They also ask how much money they're going to make and when the commercial will be shot."

But child stars don't just walk in off the street. They must have an agent before the casting department will see them, Ms. Henry emphasizes.

Fortunately, there aren't many "stage mothers" in the commercial business. But she admits that the children tend to get a goodly share of "primping and pampering from mothers who are on hand with the child's brush and comb."

But the attention and fame rarely have a bad effect on the children, she notes: "It's important for them to make the transition from the camera set to getting home and putting on their jeans and sneakers. Most of them have no problem."

She stresses that parents "must be supportive of the child. They can't be too pushy — but have to be able to sense what the child needs."

"If this means the choice between doing a commercial and going to the class picnic — the decision should be made by the child."

Auditions are held after school and sometimes the child has to miss school to shoot a commercial. It's a demanding schedule for a child because he has to travel to his agency or studio and wait his turn and perform after a full day in the classroom, Ms. Henry points out.

But for most children, she continues, it's a learning experience, plus a good way to help out with family expenses or build up savings for college. "But remember — if the child wants to do it fine. If not, don't push."

TV Dialogue

ORIGINAL RINGLEADER

-- My brother and I have been arguing all week over who starred in "Mission: Impossible." I say that the head of the Impossible Missions Force was always Peter Graves, but he swears that someone else played the part before him. Who's right? -- John Kramer, Ann Arbor, Mich.

He is. Steven Hill was the original star of the show. Graves replaced him after the first season.

TEAMWORK

-- Didn't Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis used to have a show together? -- A.K. Bedeker, Wheeling, W. Va.

Score one point for your good memory. The extremely popular Martin and Lewis comedy team were rotating stars on "The Colgate Comedy Hour" for six seasons before they split up in 1956.

THAT BUTLER

-- Here's a tough one for you that I can't find anyone to answer for me. Who played Alfred the butler on "Batman"? -- Rick Helms, San Mateo, Cal.

That was Alan Napier, a popular character actor.

PRIVATE EYES

-- I'm a big fan of Angie Dickenson. Before "Police Woman" didn't she play a lady detective named Honey West? -- Harold Reid, New Haven, Conn.

Nope, that was Anne Francis. "Honey West" went on the air in 1965 and lasted two seasons.

FUNNY NEIGHBORS

-- I think the funniest guys on television are the pair that play Lenny and Squiggy on "Laverne & Shirley." Could you tell me about them? -- Laurie Kovack, Phoenix, Ariz.

LENNY AND SQUIGGY

are played by Michael McKean and David L. Landers, respectively. Both from the New York area, McKean and Landers met and became friends in real life when they were studying acting at Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh. McKean met up again with Landers in Hollywood in 1970 and joined him as a member of "The Credibility Gap," a local satire comedy group which toured the U.S. for several years. McKean is a guitarist and composer, and likes animals. Landers' favorite hobby is baseball. Both are married.

GOOD LOOKING

-- There were three young, handsome actors in "77 Sunset Strip." One was Eileen Zambalast, Jr., one was the actor who was always running a comb through his hair. What was his name and who played the other private eye? -- E.M. Conrad, Topeka, Kan.

Edd Byrnes played "Kookie," the parking lot attendant with the neatly combed head of hair. Roger Smith was the other private eye.

FOREIGN BEAT

-- One of my favorite actors has always been Rod Taylor. Didn't he used to have a show a long time ago about an American spy in Hong Kong? -- Thelma Burke, Chicago, Ill.

He sure did. "Hong Kong" went on the air in 1960, but Taylor was a correspondent, not a spy.

The speediest shift in the auto industry is the one made by the salesman when you begin to lose interest.

Prices, Embargoes Listed As Major Issues On Farm Front

SPRINGLAKE--K.B. Parish, Spring Lake area National Director of the Agriculture Council of America, announced that farmers calling the organization's "Decision '76 Farm Line" overwhelmingly cited prices and trade embargoes as the biggest farm issues in this election.

The ACA leader said that a bi-partisan panel representing President Ford and Jimmy Carter found these results October 13 in the nationwide Farm Line held in ACA's Washington quarters.

The program gave people anywhere in the continental U.S. a chance to call toll-free to express their views on key farm issues to a panel headed by Dick Lyng, Director of the Farmers for Ford Committee and Bobby Smith, Chairman of the National Carter/Mondale Food and Agriculture Committee ACA operates the monthly Farm Line so farmers can talk directly with national-level decision-makers.

It doubled the length of last week's program to eight hours but still reported a substantial back-up of callers who couldn't get through.

Among the estimated 8 hundred who did talk directly with one of the 28 panelists in Washington, 396 responded to a special questionnaire designed to define the major farm issues.

Farm prices were listed as the number one issue by 220 in this group, and embargoes were listed as number one by 73. A high percentage of those who listed prices first cited embargoes as second in importance.

Seventy-six percent of those polled said there is "above average" interest this year among farm voters. Thirteen percent said there is "average interest" and 11 percent said "below average". Fifty-three percent said they felt that compared to other national level, but 34 percent said they are getting "more attention" while only 13 percent said "about the same."

Each person was asked to rank several issues as either "very important", "important" or "not so important". The response was as follows:

Cooperative bargaining power—very important, 57 percent, important, 25 percent; not so important, 18 percent; financing—very important, 46 percent, important 30 percent, not so important 24 percent; grain reserves—very important, 32 percent, important 39 percent, not so important, 29 percent; import quotas—very important, 57 percent, important, 29 percent, not so important, 14 percent; OSHA/EPA-type regulation—very important, 41 percent, important, 24 percent, not so important, 35 percent; support prices—very important, 64 percent, important, 22 percent, not so important, 14 percent; trade embargoes—very important, 68 percent, important, 21 percent, not so important, 11 percent.

One typical comment was voiced by Carol Field of Dalhart. "Please stop embargoes. Stop letting labor dominate us. There is no reason to use grain as a tool."

Bryan Stevenson of Hartley, Iowa said the U.S. "Should limit agricultural sales only in war or in other national emergencies. I oppose embargoes and think it's time we trust the free market economy."

Jim Snead of Meade, Kansas noted "The price of bread is not down even though the price of wheat is way down. We need to be able to cover our costs."

The Agriculture Council of America, founded in 1973, is made up of individual farmers, farm and commodity organizations and companies that supply farmers. Its purpose is to improve communications between farmers and urban consumers.

Soybean Prices Could Hit Record If Demand Holds Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers are getting 20 to 40 percent more for their soybeans than they did for their 1975 crop and might wind up with record soybean prices if domestic and export demands hold up, according to the Agriculture Department.

One reason for the higher prices is that this year's crop is about one-fifth smaller because of reduced plantings last spring and smaller harvest yields this fall. Also, exports appear to be holding up well and could match last year's record volume.

According to the department's Outlook and Situation Board, the average farm price of 1976-crop soybeans may run $1 to $2 a bushel more than last year's $5 a bushel. The record soybean price for an entire season—an average spread over the entire marketing year—was $6.64 a bushel nationally in 1974-75.

Farm prices of soybeans in September—the first month of the 1976-77 marketing year—averaged $6.65 a bushel, but prices dropped this month as foreign buyers slowed their demand.

What happens next is hard to say, department experts say. Foreign buyers want to see what Brazilian farmers plant in December and what U.S. farmers think about 1977-crop plantings next spring.

Meanwhile, the smaller 1976 U.S. soybean harvest—about 1.25 billion bushels against a near-record 1.52 billion last year—has resulted in a tight supply situation which will probably prevail for at least another year unless American farmers substantially increase 1977 soybean plantings.

But department experts caution that "any appreciable expansion of soybean acreage in the Corn Belt next year would require a continuation of high prices relative to corn or conditions that favor soybeans at planting time" next spring.

Another factor will be what southern farmers decide on 1977 cotton plantings. If cotton prices continue relatively high, producers, as they did in 1975, may increase cotton plantings and cut down on beans.

The soybean reserve left over from previous crops at the start of the new marketing year on Sept. 1 was 244 million bushels against 185 million a year ago. Stocks dipped to 59.6 million bushels in 1973 before beginning a steady increase.

As it looks now, according to the Agriculture Department, soybean supplies next Sept. 1 could decline to around 100 million bushels.

Certification Is Sought By Farmers For Chemical Use

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Environmental Protection Agency says about 135,000 farmers have completed training under federal law to qualify them to use dangerous chemical pesticides.

Under amendments to federal pesticide law approved by Congress last year, farmers and commercial applicators have until Oct. 21, 1977, to be certified eligible to use the highly toxic chemicals.

Officials estimate that about 1.5 million farmers eventually will seek certification. Thus, the 135,000 who have qualified represent about 9.1 percent of the goal.

The agency said Tuesday that pesticides which require user certification will be labeled for "restricted use" after next year's deadline and that other chemicals will be labeled "general classification." The EPA said most pesticides will be in the general category and will continue available to uncertified users including homeowners, backyard gardeners and farmers.

Chemicals requiring user certification are those considered "highly toxic" or those that cause damage to the environment, the EPA said.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Elizabeth, wife of Royal Governor William Franklin, of New Jersey, appealed to her father-in-law, Benjamin to "relieve our troubles and have William released." The Governor was voted "an enemy to the liberties of the country" by the N. J. Provincial Congress and was arrested and imprisoned seven weeks previously. The elder Franklin had refused to discuss his Tory son's fate, and there was no record of any reply to Elizabeth's plea. The World Almanac reports.

Garden Club Honors Former President

Members of Bud to Blossom Garden Club submitted the name of their former president, Mrs. Billy Wayne Sisson, for entry in the President's Book at Austin. The decision was made during the regular business meeting Friday in the Tom Long Home, Yucca Hills. Mrs. Gaylon Bryan presided during business. Members voted to contribute funds for the purchase of kitchen appliances at Deaf Smith County Library. It was reported that four members attended the recent Garden show held by Hereford Garden Club and three members participated in Garden Beautiful Club's Tour of Homes. A program on patio planting was presented by Mrs. Sisson, who stressed that location should be considered before placement of permanent planters. She said that planters should be placed where there is available sunlight and good drainage. Patio plants should be chosen according to coloring, texture and suitability of growth in our climate. Others in attendance include Mmes. W.H. Gentry, Sam Long, O.T. Mitchell, Jess Robinson and Garth Thomas. The score for international harmony is usually orchestrated with bank notes.

Hereford Sophomore Serving As Spirit Indian At McMurry College

A return to traditions of the past is the goal of the 1976 Homecoming at McMurry College. Roy Salazar will symbolize one of these traditions...the Spirit Indian. Roy Salazar is a sophomore student from Hereford, majoring in elementary education and minoring in business at McMurry College. "The Spirit Indian promotes that intangible feeling of loyalty and dedication to something significant...school spirit," says

Salazar. "I attend all the football and basketball games, pep rallies, and other school functions to help promote school spirit." "The McMurry cheerleaders asked me if I would be interested in being the Spirit Indian and they mentioned my name in a student government committee meeting and I was then informed of my selection," states Salazar. Salazar will shoot the traditional arrow to begin the Homecoming activities in a sunset ceremony on Oct. 28, in Wah Wahtaysee Park on the McMurry campus. He will ride a horse in teepee village on Friday while the school children visitation is in process. "The children who have seen me at ballgames this year, always want to know, 'if I'm a real Indian.'" I think the children visiting the campus on Friday will enjoy seeing an Indian and a horse," says Salazar.

The Friday night Homecoming activities include the musical, "Four to Go," coronation of the campus royalty, and a ceremony in Wah Wahtaysee Park. Salazar will begin the Council Fire Ceremonies at the teepee village in Wah Wahtaysee Park. He will light a torch praying to the 'Great Spirit' for a good Homecoming and a warriors victory on the football field. He will then light the big council fire. Presidents of all clubs or organizations having teepees in the village will approach the council fire and light the first in front of their teepees from the big council fire. This is another return to tradition restored this Homecoming. The Spirit Indian's activities Saturday for homecoming will consist of riding the horse on campus and at the ballgame. "I hope that the Spirit Indian will symbolize to the returning alumni, friends of the college, and students as a reminder of McMurry's heritage and traditions of the past," states Salazar. The slender, 5'8" young man looks very authentic in the red and white feathered headdress and brown leather suit. The leather suit is trimmed with white leather fringe and beaded braid. A beaded red thunderbird on a white background decorates the neck, while the beaded braid has Indian symbols on it.

Moccasins and war paint complete the look. Salazar researched the Indian's use of war paint and found that the war colors are red, blue and yellow. These are the colors he uses. Salazar is involved in other things besides being the Spirit Indian at McMurry. He is a member of the Christian Outreach program, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, chapel choir, and Student Council of Campus Ministries. He is on a work-study program at the library and participates in youth activities at Aldersgate United Methodist Church. "I came to Student Week-end and met some neat people and decided McMurry was where I wanted to go to college," states Salazar. "A McMurry alumni, Bob McFarland, the (former) choir director at our church, also influenced me." Salazar is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ramiro Salazar of Hereford. Roy is the middle child of seven children, two brothers, and four sisters. He has aspirations to run track this spring, try-out for cheerleader or next year, and to become a teacher or social worker in some small town, after graduation.

Indian Guides Grow

"Of the many programs pioneered by America's YMCA, none has grown more rapidly in recent years than the Y's father and son Y Indian Guides." Claude Huard, general director of the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, said. "Last year, over 376,000 fathers and sons across the country participated in 26,025 clubs or tribes," he said. Huard made the comment while announcing that the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA is launching this program at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 26, p.m. at the Civic Center for all fathers or sons or daughters age six to eight. Dads and their sons or daughters participate together. No youngster can join the Indian Guides by his or herself. The "Indian Guide" program was begun in St. Louis, Mo. in 1926, the brain child of YMCA Director Harold Keltner. Keltner had been inspired by conversations with Ojibway Indian, Joe Friday, who said he did not think white fathers were close enough with their sons. "White men," said Friday, "build cities. Red men build sons." Y Indian Guide tribes are usually made up of six to eight fathers and sons or daughters from one neighborhood or street who meet in members' homes on a rotating basis twice a month for one hour.

A weekend guest said to me this morning that the fall mornings in Hereford. The most beautiful of any place she had ever been. I agreed!

Yesterday, I saw the first autumn colors on a maple tree.
Soon the oak trees will be putting on their scarlet and golden-yellow dress for the fall festivals.

The oaks (Quercus) are a numerous genus indigenous to all five continents. North America boasts of 75 or more species that are native, plus an unknown number of imports, hybrids, selected varieties and clones. The majority of them are large, sturdy trees, reasonably tolerant to air pollution, heat and drought that present-day plants must endure.

There are a number of beautifully-grown oak trees in Hereford; they are not native trees, but when good stock is selected they do well here. The wood is hard and strong, well able to withstand the ravages of spring winds, summer storms, winter snows and low temperatures. The pin oak and seamp white oak prefer acid soils, but most other species are quite tolerant.

As a genus, the oaks are among the most dependable of ornamental trees. The limiting factor is their huge size of maturity. Most of them grow too large for home grounds.
However, they can be pruned and one oak tree can take the place of two in the landscape.

A deciduous plant manufacturer during the growing season which is stored in various forms in roots and stems over winter. The food is the reserve energy supply for new growth and if the growth is removed before new food can be produced, growth may be stunted for the season.

In our area with most plants, the ideal time to prune is during the dormant season before new growth starts. Some flowering shrubs are exceptions and this is indicated in the type of shrub.
Ordinarily, shrubs are pruned
after they flower.

According to The Primer of The Brooklyn Botanic Garden, there is a very popular shrub,
which is a favorite in our area, that is an exception. The pyracantha or firethorn is the one that I refer to. Many gardeners feel there is really not good time to prune this plant.
The flowers for the next year are produced on the previous season's growth.

If the plant is quite large or overgrown, then the best time of the year to prune is in the late winter when dormant. This practice will eliminate most of or all of the flowers for the next spring, depending on how severely the plant is cut back.

When just a little pruning will suffice, then winter is the proper time. One should take extra care when pruning. If pyracanthas are pruned in summer, fruiting is reduced, therefore, it should be pruned lightly every year rather than extensively for several years.

Do not forget that it is grown for enjoyment, flowering and the red berries. The lush foliage cannot be dealt with severely.
Really, they are a bit difficult to prune at any time, because of the thorns.

Trees, shrubs, plants, lawns, and all gardening are the responsibilities of the keeper

Icebergs May Be Used In Desert Irrigation

PARIS (AP) - A French engineering firm said Monday that oil-rich Saudi Arabia is seriously considering a plan to tow icebergs from the Atlantic to the Red Sea to provide more water for the desert kingdom.

The firm said the 5,000-mile voyage, at a snail's pace of one nautical mile per hour, could take from 6 to 12 months and cost about $80 million.

The company, Cicero, located in the Paris suburb of Marly-Le-Roi, said it was contacted about a year ago by Saudi officials who wanted a fresh approach to their country's water shortage problems. Contract discussions are in the final stage, Cicero officials said.

Cicero engineers worked out the plan to use icebergs, which are salt-free and melt as fresh water, in coordination with French polar experts and said they are confident it is feasible.

He said for the trial run, five ocean-going tugs, each driven by 20,000 horsepower engines, would travel to the Antarctic where special crews would pick out a suitable iceberg.
