Three cars of a Santa Fe freight train derailed on the east side of Hereford early Friday morning, causing little damage except to the cars themselves and a few feet of rails.

The accident occurred at about 2:10 a.m. 100 yards west of the Park Avenue crossing. A broken journal, sometimes called an axle, was the cause of the mishap. The 97-car train had slowed to 30 miles an hour as it passed through the city limits.

THE BROKEN axle was caused when lubrication in the housing holding the axle became dry, causing the metal to break to extreme temperatures. When the metal rubbing together became overheated, the axle snapped. The axle is solid steel about six inches in diameter.

The night operator of the Hereford depot, Truitt Bradley, spotted the smoking axle "hot box" as the train passed through the depot and immediately radioed the engineer. The train began slowing, but the car passed over the switch at the crossing and the axle gave way.

The broken axle, on a tank car, derailed that unit, and it turned at an angle across the tracks. An empty boxcar behind the tanker also turned sideways, and a second empty boxcar was pushed from the tracks by the wreckage. The tank car contained 10,000 gallons of reclaimed diesel fuel and presented no immediate fire hazards.

FIRE MARSHAL Jay Spain, surveying the accident, said that the slow speed of the train was the reason for the small amount of damage. He pointed out that three tank-cars full of highly flammable liquid petroleum gas were about 10 cars back from those that derailed in the train. Spain speculated that a higher speed of the train would have involved the LPG tankcars, and if one car had ruptured a tremendous fire could have followed.

The tank car that derailed was about 50 cars from the caboose on the 97-car train. No other cars received any damage.

A WRECKING crew from Amarillo was called to the scene of the accident to clear away the wreckage. At noon Friday, the crew was working to replace twisted rails on the Santa Fe line.

Lions Make $5,000 Gift

A $5,000 contribution to the Hereford Opportunity Plan was voted Wednesday by the Hereford Lions Club.

Club members approved the gift during the regular weekly meeting at the Civic Club Center. Club president Wayne Lady said the funds came from part of the proceeds of the annual carnival.

THE OPPORTUNITY PLAN provides loans for needy students from Hereford who desire to attend college. A local board of directors administers the funds, and students repay the loans at no interest.

Buff Morris founded the program at West Texas State University and helps administer the Hereford program. Local directors include John Aikin, Rodney Laubhan, Carolyn Baxter, Ken Rogers, Ruth Word, Willie Braddy, and Robert Thompson.

U.S. and is based on a 40-hour work week. There are two professions down there that differ considerably from their U.S. counterparts: teachers and waitresses.

"Teachers are well paid and highly respected," O'Connell noted. "If they feel they must have more money, they just 'raise their hands and ask for it'—and they usually get it."

IN ADDITION to the regular universities the country has a number of teachers colleges devoted to the express training of those who will instruct coming generations. (A student can go from kindergarten through the university without charge even for textbooks.)

Waitresses are paid good salaries, the visitors noted in voicing their displeasure at the U.S. practice of "tipping." An additional charge, usually ten per cent, is built into the meal check in Australian restaurants and no tips are left.

"Your restaurants serve too much food too," Dennis O'Connell observed with a smile. "—And from the large number of 'corpulent' figures in America, you try to eat it all."

Leander Reinart, Jr., who farms southeast of the city, brought in a truckload of milo Thursday believed to be the first harvested in the local area. According to Joe Artho of the grain firm, the milo was of unusually good quality for such an early harvest. Moisture content was 14.40 and the grain had a test weight of 57. Price paid for the load was not disclosed. Young Reinart said he had not made any accurate calculations as to yield per acre.

Fiesta Queen Rules Closing Celebration

A new queen, Miss Angelina Guillen, presides over the 1974 Fiestas Patrias celebration following her coronation Friday night and public presentation Saturday during a parade of an impressive array of floats, other colorful features and much fanfare.

The Fiesta, the local Latin American community's observance of Mexican Independence Day, will end with a grand ball at the Wishing Well Ballroom Monday night.

THE FIESTA QUEEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Guillen was crowned at 11 p.m. Friday in the Bull Barn at the height of the first of three grand balls planned as part of the celebration. That ceremony was climaxed by the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the playing of the Mexican national anthem.

The dance Monday night will begin at eight with music provided by Angel Moya and his orchestra.

Fiesta Patrias this year marks 164 years since The Republic of Mexico's "Father of Independence" — Don Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla — proclaimed that country's freedom on Sept. 16, 1810, in a fiery speech ranked in history with the words of Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry and other heroes of American independence.

State Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, front-running candidate for the House Speaker's post, will be in Hereford Monday to address the Rotary Club.

Rotarians are opening the meeting to the public, and interested citizens are invited to hear Clayton discuss the Constitutional Revision question. Plates are $2.60 each at the luncheon meeting.

A broken journal (axle) on a tank car filled with oil piled up three cars of an eastbound Santa Fe freight at Park Ave. and Highway 60 early Friday morning. When the broken truck pictured here went from under the tank car it turned across the rails and two empty box cars stacked up behind it. A city official at the scene said only the slow speed of the train averted a major disaster.

Holly Workman Suffers Injury

An employe at the Holly Sugar plant west of the city suffered injury Friday morning when a set of scales fell over on him.

The man, not yet identified, was brought to a local clinic by ambulance where it was not believed, upon first examination, his knee was seriously injured.

ACCORDING to an observer at the scene, a group of workmen including the injured man were working on the scales when they tilted and the men were not able to keep them upright. The vertical portion containing the calibration scale dial fell across the victim's leg.

Further details were pending a final diagnosis and treatment of his injuries.

Australian Visitors Find Us Tough

"Anyone who takes you on thinking you are a nation of softies will be headed for the greatest surprise in history!"

That was the most striking of the opinions of the United States voiced by Dennis O'Connell, Australian businessman in Hereford for an overnight visit this week.

"Your national spirit is awe-inspiring! Your everyday display of the flag is far different from ours. Our flag is flown only on very special occasions. Your patriotic pride is a thing apart and far above the traditional sectional differences."

O'CONNELL'S statement is proof of the old adage that we never see ourselves as others see us and is encouraging at a time when many think patriotism is passe and are fuming over flag desecrators, disgusted with draft-dodgers and worn out with Watergate.

"I was in the states when your president resigned," O'Connell continued. "I was unprepared for the intense interest everyone displayed in it regardless of their personal opinions. At home, if our prime minister resigns, we shrug our shoulders and go about our business for there will be another directly."

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connell chatted in the living room of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Flood, 722 Thunderbird. Mrs. Flood had lived with the O'Connells in Riverton, Australia, for a time last year on the Lions Club Youth Exchange program. O'Connell had just finished a short business course at a college in Kentucky sponsored by a major U.S. appliance manufacturer Raymond Baxter assumed duties as editor of The Hereford Brand this week, according to O.G. Nieman, publisher.

Born in Northeast Missouri, Baxter moved with his family to Pampa at the age of eight. There he worked both on the staff of the paper and the radio station it put on the air just prior to World War II. However, he began his newspaper work on the weekly Vandalia (Mo.) LEADER during summers spent with his grandparents.

AFTER ATTENDING Pampa public schools, he went to Wayland College, Howard Payne College, Hardin-Simmons and Baylor Universities.

"That sounds as though I might have been a problem student," Baxter said. "I am sure many will remember that a boy working his way through college went where the jobs were." This accounts for a variety of experience including both the advertising and editorial sides of the newspaper business, advertising agency work, radio and television. Also, while at Baylor, Baxter was assistant information director for Texas Farm Bureau.

"I HAVE always gravitated back to my first love: news in a small city... motivated, I suppose, by the memory of those first days in Vandalia," Baxter said.

A bachelor, he comes to Hereford and The Brand from the booming Northwest corner of Arkansas where he was an account executive for an advertising agency.

RIVERTON is a town of 700 population in the south part of Australia, 60 miles from the coastal city of Adelaide. It is surrounded by a population of some 3,000 people engaged in agriculture, principally winter wheat, barley and peas. Livestock production on any large scale is limited to sheep. Ranging in distance from 18 to 100 miles, there are many similar towns about Riverton, each with its larger rural population devoted to agriculture. This pattern grew out of the settlement of this area 150 years ago.

Each farmer has a mechanized operation and owns his own equipment. (The O'Connells could not understand why an Australian farmer could buy a popular make U.S. tractor for half what it would cost in the Hereford area...even after shipping charges!)

Almost all Australians have modern appliances as Americans do (even newlyweds starting out) with the exception of dishwashers which have not found their way into many homes there.

ACCORDING TO the O'Connells, automobile ownership in their country is about the same as it is here in the states but with fewer large luxury models. Calculating currency difference and the difference in the imperial gallon (more) than ours, the price of gasoline per gallon is just about the same. Neither traffic nor smog are a problem there since Australia is about the same land area as the United States with only 13-million population.

Income is about the same as in the Congressman George Mahon, appearing at a Dimmitt Agri Industries, Inc. meeting last week, said he is "optimistic and hopeful" about the new Budget Reform Bill. Mahon is in full agreement with President Ford's announced goal of a balanced budget in fiscal 1976.

After hearing testimony from economic experts, Congress is just as confused as the man on the street about "this terrible inflation problem," the veteran Congressman told his audience. He is opposed to a new round of federal wage and price controls, commenting that "they got us into some of the trouble we're in today."

One of the serious outgrowths of the inflation is the effect it has had on the mood of the nation, pointed out Mahon. "I am very much concerned... I hope we will not despair and will move toward less skepticism in our country."

Folks in the Panhandle and South Plains have not had a lot to cheer about on the political scene, but Mahon continues to give us a strong and influential voice in the halls of Congress.

Economist Says Farmers Should Speak Out

President Ford's current inflation-fighting campaign offers a timely opportunity for farmers and ranchers to sound off, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station research economist says. Dr. Tyrus R. Timm said the President is discussing the task of controlling inflation with agricultural leaders and other representatives of the overall economy, and "it's time for farmers and ranchers to speak up."

The nation's food and fiber producers can air their views in three ways, the economist said: As individuals exercising their citizen rights, through general farm organizations or commodity groups, and through their representatives in Congress and in the Executive Branch.

Timm, an agricultural economist for 38 years, is nationally known in this field and is considered an authority on institutional arrangements affecting international trade. In farm commodities. He has made six research trips to Europe during the past decade and has just returned from seven weeks in western and eastern Europe.

During World War II, he was agricultural relations adviser to Chester Bowles, Administrator of the Office of Price Administration.

Timm says there is an urgent need for all advisers in the President's inflation discussions to understand three basic "behavior patterns" about the nation's giant agricultural complex.

tionary pressures for the next few years on the cost side of farming and ranching.

Therefore, an effective, inflation-restraining national program should not harm agriculture's orderly economic growth, Timm said. Yet, whatever program is adopted will have to be "stirred up and poured" in the political arena. Compromises will be necessary, and farm leaders may have to support restraints on prices of some farm products in order to get price restraints on the cost side.

The second behavior pattern the advisers should consider is the structure of the U.S. agricultural economy.

Inflation control, Timm believes, will be far more complex in this country than in other advanced nations. More specialization and variation in production, distribution and consumption of food and fiber products in an environment having the highest consumer income any nation has ever seen, is the reason.

Farm commodities originate under more widely differing geographic areas, ownership patterns, types of farming and integrated management systems. Marketing involves every conceivable business arrangement, from selling one watermelon at a time from a pickup to the four farmer-owned and operated marketing cooperatives handling 25 per cent of the cotton crop. These attributes must be reckoned with or the program will fail.

"This heterogeneous nature of American agriculture is why price controls on farm products likely will not receive high priority," Timm said.

The third basic behavior pattern faced by the President's advisers involves the record-breaking shipments of U.S. agricultural products into foreign markets.

"This factor is of tremendous importance to the whole economy and its impact could be easily underestimated by non-agricultural advisers in planning constraints," Timm emphasized.

Total exports are now in excess of $21 billion. There was a favorable agricultural trade balance of about $12 billion last fiscal year.

Agricultural sales abroad made the difference in whether the U.S. had a deficit or positive balance of trade in fiscal 1974.

"With the amount of inflation on prices of things farmers buy—farm equipment, autos, supplies and wages for farm workers, one trembles to think of how low prices of farm products might settle in the absence of a strong foreign market," Timms said.

So he concludes that the President along with the agricultural leaders and representatives from other sectors have the responsibility of developing inflation restraints acceptable not only at home but abroad as well.

In Western Europe, inflation is as high or higher than in the U.S., a situation Timms says has a "dual personality." It helps U.S. prices to be competitive with domestic prices in foreign countries, but overseas consumers likely will slow down their purchases of the combined supply as a result.

Some observers believe that Communist Bloc countries are not experiencing dangerous inflation. Timm disagrees—it just shows up in a different form.

A good guess, and he has just been in Poland and East Germany, is that Eastern European countries are experiencing inflation problems equal to those of the West," he explained. "Central government-managed economies hide the effects of inflation by holding down retail prices, but create indirect inflation costs. They hold short supply goods either off the market or put short supplies on sale, allowing long lines to form, thus creating inefficiencies and resultant costs in both time and resources."

Another way is to put the goods in special stores and sell certain items only for dollars and other Western currencies. Except through the black market, citizens of these countries experience bottlenecks in getting western currencies, or if they can, the government prescribes the spending pattern for them.

Deteriorating products is another method of hiding inflation, Timm said, but both western and eastern economies use this practice.

"The final decisions about how to cool off our hot inflation, including prices of things farmers sell and buy, will be up to decision makers in the legislative, executive and judicial branches of government. They will represent the people's wants and needs as they interpret them," he said.

Timm then quoted Adam Smith, considered the father of the U.S. market oriented capitalist system who said in 1776: "What is believed by the public or its appointed agents, the politicians, is what controls policy, regardless of what is true or germane."

What is "football weather"? Do people really feel better in the fall, when football is played? There is such a thing as football weather, not because of football but because of the time of the year football is played in the United States. This sport comes when high pressure systems begin to push down from the north with greater regularity, bringing with them cold, dry air. It's the beginning of the trend toward winter, and there is less rain in the fall than in summer. Since high pressure usually makes people feel good (low pressure sometimes has a depressing effect). This—combined with cooler weather, and resulting invigoration—combines to produce an energetic feeling, or that "football weather" in the fall when appetite and energy seem to return after a hot summer.

On Wall Street No Tax Cut Now

BOB HILL, Lentz, Newton & Co., Amarillo

Tax cuts are always welcome and tax increases are political dynamite. One of the basic reasons for our current inflation rate was President Johnson's reluctance to propose a tax increase in the midst of the Vietnam conflict. It imposed a huge war effort on top of a booming economy and prices went through the roof.

Now a rising chorus of "let's have a tax cut" is coming from the liberal wing of politicians and economists. The Ford Administration is holding to a policy of more restraint, not less. The tax cut advocates say that high interest rates and tight money will do little to curb inflation, but will do plenty to cut production and cause unemployment. If that happened, then the reaction of the monetary authorities would be to begin massive deficit spending, in order to get the economy moving upward. The result would then be a repeat of the 1971 inflation spurge.

MOST OF THE tax cut proposals are in the social security tax, both the employee's and the employer's contributions. This would increase take-home pay and might soften labor's demand for higher wages. It would also lower company costs, hopefully, and break the wage-price spiral.

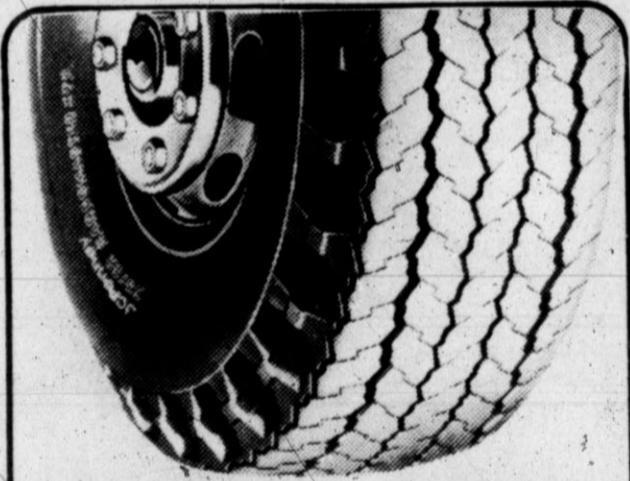

Opponents of a tax cut now point out that increasing take-home pay will do nothing more than increase prices because stimulating demand for new cars, for example, will just put a greater strain on the steel and aluminum industries, already operating at maximum capacity. They say that increasing demand only increases inflation.

THE CRITICAL POINT today is whether the budget cuts the Administration is considering will throw the economy into a recession. Sharp budget cuts combined with continued high interest rates and tight money could very well trigger the recession everyone is trying to avoid. This would be "over-kill."

If the economy continues to slide and excess productive capacity begins to develop in the major materials industries, then a tax cut proposal would become a good thing.

Borger Offers OSHA Training

A course designed to help businessmen through the maze of regulations of the Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (OSHA) will be taught from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 26 at Frank Phillips College, Fine Arts Building Auditorium, Roosevelt Street, Borger.

The one-day seminar, Orientation to OSHA, was developed by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. It will be conducted here free of charge by the Texas Safety Association in cooperation with Frank Phillips College.

Attendees will include employers, employees and their representatives.

Virtually all businesses, even those with one or more employees, must comply with regulations of the OSHA and many operators of small and medium size businesses may be in serious violation of the law without even realizing that such laws exist. The U.S. Department Labor reports that only 31 per cent of 31,379 establishments checked during the 12 months ending June, 1973 were found to be in compliance with job safety and health standards. Orientation to OSHA is being taught by TSA under contract with the National Safety Council to provide information needed by every businessman. Topics covered in this first course will include, the scope and general requirements of the law; Federal standards which apply to business and industry operations; the most common violations of the standards that have been cited; proper records keeping and how to comply with the OSHA; and employee's and employer's rights and responsibilities.

In addition to instruction from a qualified safety professional, each attendant will receive references and guides to OSHA and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

Businessmen and employers interested in registering for the course should contact Andy Hicks, Director of Occupational Education & Technology, Frank Phillips College, P.O. Box 111, Borger, Texas 79007, phone: 806/274-5311, extension 16.

Bicentennial Towns Growing In Number

As of August 16, there were 1,297 officially designated Bicentennial communities throughout the United States, with the number growing rapidly and including Hereford.

The Bicentennial Communities Program is sponsored by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) and formally endorsed by the Conference of Mayors, League of Cities and the Organization of County Officials.

The aim of the program is to encourage communities of all sizes and geo-political structure to help plan and carry out projects and events which, taken together, will be the major portion of the nation's Bicentennial commemoration.

THERE ARE four simple steps a community must take to receive Bicentennial Community status:

- 1) Organize a Bicentennial planning and coordinating committee which represents all segments of the community.
- 2) Plan a program which will have at least one reminder of the special effort the community undertook for the Bicentennial commemoration.
- 3) Obtain approval of the program from the Chief Executive Officer or governing body of the community.
- 4) Submit an application with planning details to the ARBA through the appropriate State Bicentennial agency.

Examples of wide-ranging, vigorous plans, to join wholeheartedly in the commemoration can be gleaned from five recent applications for official recognition.

The communities are: Osceola, Nebraska, population 900; Lennox, South Dakota, population 1,400; Prince Edward County, Virginia, population 14,000; Montgomery, Alabama, population 150,000 and Macomb County, Michigan, population 650,000.

THE AMBITIOUS plans outlined by the Bicentennial Commissions of these five communities emphasize that:

1) The size of the community does not limit the scope of planning or the kind and quality of proposed projects, programs and events.

2) People named to the Commissions do indeed reflect a full cross section of each community, thus encouraging full participation in the planning aspects and total citizen involvement throughout the Bicentennial era.

3) There is every intention of each community, thus encouraging full participation in the planning aspects and total citizen involvement throughout the Bicentennial era.

3) There is every intention to insure that the Bicentennial commemoration will provide lasting effects into the nation's third century.

Each of the extensive outlines contained many-faceted plans for celebrations and festivals to be held during 1976, as well as educational programs and projects by Youth and other groups within the community.

Some of the more permanent projects listed would undoubtedly be carried out in any event but early planning for the Bicentennial is focusing the attention of the community on the need, and encouraging support.

FOLLOWING ARE highlights of each community's plans and proposals for the Bicentennial.

Macomb County: A library and cultural center, with conference facilities; active encouragement for the establishment of Bicentennial Commissions in the 27 municipalities in the county; adoption of an English town and exchange of information, histories and cultural exhibits; regional touring groups of ethnic performers; a series of radio spot announcements on revolutionary history to heighten interest in the Bicentennial throughout the county.

Montgomery: A riverfront project which includes a new Civic Center, parks, renovated railroad station, and an historic street environment; a Bikeway to link parks and historic areas; a book on the heritage and horizons of all ethnic groups which have contributed to the city's history.

Princh Edward County: A Bicentennial Park for Future use; perpetual care of an historic Debtor's Prison; restoration of old cemeteries, and books on the bicentennial celebration and on a local village prominent in colonial days.

Lennox: A public museum and expansion of the city library; histories on local business, churches, the Lennox Browns baseball team and the Lennox Municipal Bank; a youth center; and special efforts to seek restoration of railroad service which has declined.

Osceola: A new Junior-Senior High School; a Catholic Church hall; a storefront improvement program; a foreign-exchange student program with Japan; and active support for a medical clinic and low rent housing.

Individually and collectively, these communities are a mirror image of hundreds of others across the country which are actively planning and participating in the salute to the nation's past, present and future.

They also illustrate that the Bicentennial is a commemoration of the nation's whole history and its hopes for the future, not just the revolution itself and the events of 200 years ago.

Livestock Dealer Named in Violation

Art Foster of Happy has been charged with violating payment requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said today.

Foster operates as a livestock dealer. He purchases livestock in north and west-central Texas.

USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration charged in an administrative complaint that during January and February, 1974, Foster issued insufficient funds checks and failed to pay, when due, for more than $46,000 worth of livestock.

Filing of the complaint does not prove that Foster has violated the Packers and Stockyards Act. He has a right to a hearing to determine whether the evidence supports the charges. If the charges are proven, he would be placed under a cease and desist order.

Livestock dealers are required — under the Packers and Stockyards Act — to pay promptly for livestock, unless credit has been arranged in advance. Issuing insufficient funds checks in payment for livestock is considered to be an unfair business practice.

The P&S Act is a fair-trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry, and meat. The Act is administered on a nondiscriminatory basis.

The record in this case is open

$42 Million To Help Migrants

Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan announced that some $42 million will be allocated to states to help migrant and other seasonal farmworkers.

The money will be allocated under Title III of the new Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. Final amounts will depend upon the congressional appropriation for the 1975 fiscal year.

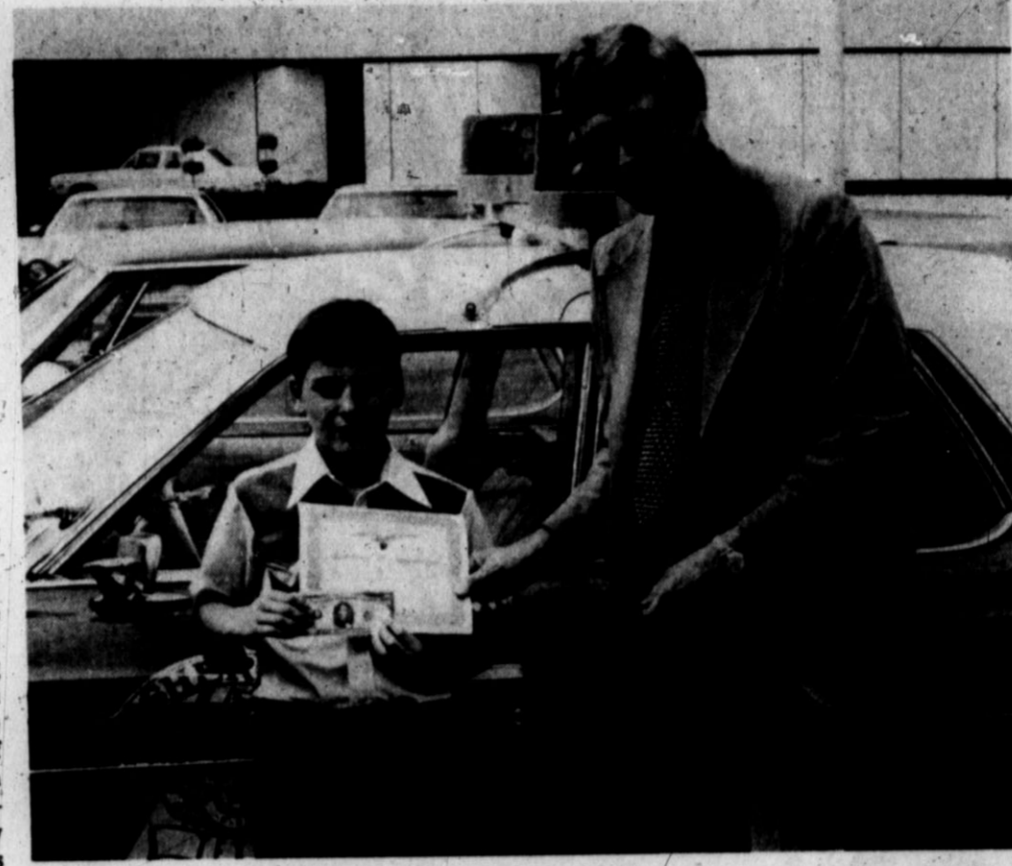

Eligible applicants under this part of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act are:

- States and localities serving as prime sponsors under Title I of the Act which have a substantial number of migrant-seasonal farmworkers and or
- Private non-profit organization authorized by their charter to operate programs for migrant-seasonal farmworkers. Participants in these programs must be farmworkers or their dependents who during any consecutive 12 months in the past 18 months have (1) received at least 50 per cent of their earned income from agriculture and (2) been employed in agriculture seasonally and (3) have been identified as economically disadvantaged.

Guidelines for migrant-seasonal farmworkers were issued Aug. 6, with an invitation to submit comments within 45 days.

Planning estimates for Texas based on the budget request, are $5,272,000.

Citizen of the Month

Curt McNaney, 11, is presented the Citizen of the Month award by Sheriff Travis McPherson. Curt was named to the award by the Hereford Peace Officers when he turned in a wallet that contained $20 and many identification papers. Curt, who lives at 604 East 4th, found the wallet while working on his paper route. Curt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. McNaney, attends Shirley elementary school and moved to Hereford only last year from Colorado Springs.

University Dean Speaks to Lions

"West Texas State University is located in the most dynamic agricultural area in the world," Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of WTSU's school of agriculture, told Lions here Wednesday.

Dr. Smallwood, speaking at the Hereford Lions Club regular weekly luncheon meeting at Civic Club Center, made the statement to emphasize the university's vital interest in providing an ag department to meet the needs of area youth.

During the club meeting, members also voted to contribute $5,000 to the Hereford Opportunity Plan. The funds were provided from a portion of the Lions' annual carnival proceeds. The opportunity plan offers loans to needy students from Hereford who desire to attend college.

Smallwood, referring to the gift and many other supportive roles played by Hereford at WTSU told Lions it "is always a pleasure to visit your city." He pointed out that Hereford has the second largest enrollment at West Texas, with only the Amarillo area furnishing more students.

The dean reported there are currently some 520 ag majors at WTSU and there are about 100 graduates each year from the school of agriculture. He said about 40 per cent of the ag graduates go into agri-business and about 20 per cent to farm and ranch management.

Dr. Smallwood predicted that ag opportunities for youth in the future will be "excellent." Viewing some of the opportunities and problems of the future, he termed the important factors as financing, environmental matters, the energy crisis, labor and management, public relations of the ag industry, and those who have control of agriculture.

Wayne Lady, club president, reminded members that there would be no meeting next Wednesday, but the club will have a "Ladies Night" dinner on Thursday.

Course Is Offered to Realtors

A new service by the Texas Association of Realtors which will focus on additional training in residential sales, was announced here by Lee Umsted president of the Hereford Board of Realtors.

"The approach to the program will be a new and effective problem-solving method. The classroom will become a professional laboratory where the student will actually work with 'clients.' The course will be taught in two three-day sessions, with the first to be held in El Paso at the Travelodge-Central, Oct. 21-23 and Oct. 28-30. The next will be in Arlington, Oct. 24-26 and Oct. 31-Nov. 2, at the Cibola Inn. On Nov. 18-20 and Nov. 25-27, the course will be taught in San Antonio's 'Menger Hotel'.

Franklin A. Jeffers, Amarillo Realtor and president of TAR, said "everyone interested in adding new expertise and a more profitable level to his career in residential sales, should make plans now to attend these unusual sessions. I want all participants to know that these programs are the result of three years research by the Real Estate Education Co. of Chicago, Ill. This firm has condensed the experience and know-how of many, many successful residential real estate sales staffers."

He noted that the program is structured around the idea to learn by doing. There will be simulated selling situations where the student will use the new strategies taught in class. The work-study book will contain 300 pages of down-to-earth material divided into 12 study units. Some of the areas included will be a profile of a successful salesman, marketing yourself, obtaining marketable listings and pricing the residential property."

"To register," explains Melvin Jayroe local board education chairman, says, "requires a fee of $175 and should be sent to TAR, P.O. Box 9907, Austin 78766."

Class Elects Officers

The Cosmetology Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) elected officers and welcomed new members at a salad supper recently in the home of the club's advisor, Jackie Cabbiness, 148 Nueces.

Officers serving this year will be Jayne Martin, president; Sandra Wells, vice-president; Cynthia Romero, secretary; Linda Cantu, treasurer; Carme Alejandre, reporter; Gussie Sanders, parliamentarian; Margarita Madrigal, sergeant of arms.

Future plans were made by members for social activities, community service and fund raising projects.

Social events include a dinner meeting, Christmas banquet, Valentine's party and end-of-year hamburger cook-out.

Monday projects which are scheduled are a candy sale, Thanksgiving and Easter bake sale and a car wash.

Community services include baskets for needy families and a visit to Kings Manor Retirement Home.

It was announced that student awards will be given to the outstanding VICA student of the year and a valentines Sweetheart party is also planned.

There were 16 members present.

Pan Am's decline began with order for 747's.

SBC Revival Begins Today

"A good, old-fashioned gospel revival" begins today at Summerfield Baptist Church featuring the Rev. Derrel Lewis of Canyon.

Daily services at 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. will be held at the church with the public invited, according to the Rev. Bill Broxson, pastor.

Highlights of the week will be Old-Timers' Night on Tuesday, Family Attendance Night on Wednesday, Total Commitment on Friday and Youth Night Saturday.

Directing music will be Gene Streun of Hereford.

Chain stores' sales rose 10.7 per cent in July.

Indians term atomic program vital to progress.

TV Classes Start Monday

New concepts in instructional television will be introduced by Amarillo College starting Monday.

Masterworks of English Literature and History of the United States will be broadcast daily Monday-Friday on KGNC-TV and KFDD-TV, respectively.

The AC English 231-050 class will be offered on Channel 4 from 6:15 - 6:45 a.m. "The course will employ a generous amount of visual aids, such as charts and maps," said Erwin Mooney, professor and chairperson of the AC English Department. Supplementary material will be supplied to each student in the form of maps, charts and duplicated material. Students will meet on the Washington Street campus three times for discussion and testing before the November final. The 45-minute programs will also be broadcast on Channel 2 Cablevision from 9:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 6:30-7 p.m.

The history course 137-050 will utilize a new form of organization and new method of instruction, according to Dr. Neil Snapper, instructor. Eight topics or issues will be studied from their beginnings in history to the present with some speculation on the future. These topics will include man and environment in U.S. history, exploration, religion, war, native Americans (Indians), women, the presidency and Afro-Americans.

Viewing time is set for 6:30-7 a.m. on Channel 10. Those on Channel 2 Cablevision will see the course from 10:30 - 11 a.m. and 7-7:30 p.m.

Enrollment without late registration fee penalty continues through Sept. 20 for both classes. Those interested may come to the registrar's office in the Washington Street Administration Building.

Dallas Man Will Preach Local Series

Bob Summers, Dallas-based speaker, author and editor of national repute, will be the preacher for a series of meetings at the local Assembly of God church Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

The series will begin each evening with a song service at 7:30.

The thirty one year old minister has had five books published: "Jesus Christ University" - "Me, the Flunky" (about the ghetto) - "Mystery" (on the book of Revelation) and "The Young Lions of Judah." He has Co-authored other volumes with David Wilkerson of "Cross and Switchblade" fame and with Bob Bartlett.

Summers is currently editor of two magazines, "Story" and "Christ for the Nations" - both published by an association bearing the same title as the latter.

He is also working on "Jesus '75" to be staged in Texas this time. "Jesus '74" held in the east drew a throng of young people in excess of 20-thousand.

Summers' teaching ministry themes for the services here this week will be "Becoming Whole" - "Preparing for God's Kingdom" - "Fruit of the Spirit" and "Gift of the Spirit."

LARRYMORE STUDIO

PHONE 364-4638
in Veterans Memorial Park Hereford, Texas

On June 26, 1930, The Hereford Brand had some good news and some bad news.

First the good news... the wheat harvest was going fast and the quality was the best ever. And, now the bad... there was a "depressed and demoralized market" and the "wheatman enters... unwillingly."

One thing every farmer agrees on, the wheat and grain business does have its ups and downs. And, maybe it's the wisest thing not to keep score.

We had been in the elevator business just two months when this story appeared in the Brand. We had nowhere to go but up. But like most of the wheat producers in Deaf Smith County, we stuck it out. And, finally the market did go up. Sure, there were plenty of other "downs" and there will be more. But, the overall direction of the agricultural business has been "up." And, we share the confidence with most... that's the way it will go in the future.

We grew up with the agri-business

PITMAN

PITMAN GRAIN COMPANY - Hereford.

H<sup>3</sup> / HUSTLE HUSTLE HUSTLE

By Bill Albright, Executive Vice President
Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce

H-3 still stands for Hereford's Hustlin' Herd, and I haven't seen anything in the town that doesn't respond favorably to an increased dose of "hustle". It's easy to back a winner and generally it's pretty difficult to gin up enthusiasm when things aren't going our way - but that's just the point - that's what makes us different from other folks in other towns.

Our total community spirit will insure that we don't let our young people feel like we're behind them only when we're winning. The Hustlin' Herd came back a long way on Thursday evening and we should appreciate the effort and the improvements.

Why do you go out of town to buy things which you can purchase right here in Hereford? That's a fair question and I've heard some interesting answers. Most often the answer is - "you can't get it in Hereford". Of course it's easy to disprove that response because the truth is you can get most everything right here in town.

Maybe sometime ago many items were not available, but today things have changed and those who do shop Hereford know where to buy "Those things you can't get in town." Another answer is "I can get it cheaper in..." Well again it's rather ridiculous to think you can save money by driving a hundred miles to buy an item which retails $10 less than it sells for in Hereford.

But wait a minute Mr. Merchant, if the public thinks they're getting a better deal by driving that far maybe we haven't really sold them on the benefits of buying at home. And maybe some prices do need to be studied to make sure we're competing with those out of town stores. And still another consideration involves the attitude and courtesy of the person who serves the customer.

A friendly smile plus a warm, sincere greeting and a simple reassuring "I'll be with you in a minute" goes a long way toward keeping that customer in the store and in a "buying" frame of mind. A little Customer Courtesy helps a lot too. That sales person is there to help you find what you need and not someone to be interrogated abusively or ordered to respond to the customers' peculiar demands. (The other day a good friend of mine suggested that we start a competition to recognize the most courteous sales person and present some tangible reward. Sounds like a good idea and our Business Committee will be considering such a program).

There are other reasons that folks take their dollar elsewhere and I'd like very much to hear some of them from you - let me know and also be sure you make your suggestions and legitimate complaints known. It works to the advantage of every citizen to spend our money at home!

Ever hear anyone brag about how they don't feel like they need to comply with the 55 mph law...or that their car gets better mileage at 70 than at 55?...or that driving at 55 is dangerous because everybody else will run them off the road? Sound ridiculous?

Just listen next time. They'll be the first ones to complain when that helicopter or that radar unit reminds them of their violation; or if a curtailment of energy reduces the availability of gasoline. It's hard for us to set a good example for our young people when we pick out those laws that we feel like complying with. It's also difficult for most of us to realize that we still face an energy shortage.

Perhaps the threatened 14 percent price increase by Middle Eastern Oil Countries will make the shortage more noticeable - or it could take the form of "brown outs", gas rationing, or other drastic curtailments. Seems like only a year ago that farmers were really feeling the pinch and couldn't get fuel for their tractors and combines. A more prudent use of what we have can help ease the pending shortage.

In addition - Highway officials, credit the 55 mph speed limit with a dramatic reduction in the number of highway deaths. Perhaps the benefits outweigh the disadvantages.

It's only mid-September but already President Roy is tying up loose ends in preparation for the beginning of another new Chamber year. Many projects have been completed, many are in various stages of accomplishment, and of course there are some that haven't even "got off the ground".

Those who have contributed effective leadership can take a measure of pride in the achievement of community progress. Those who would still like to contribute something to Hereford and Deaf Smith County - let us know - the Chamber is YOU! What the Chamber does, directly reflects what it's members want done. Still takes three - YOU, YOUR CHAMBER and ME (plus plenty of HUSTLE HUSTLE HUSTLE).

Show Slated

Another Little Grand Ole Opry, with all musicians of the area invited to take part, is scheduled for Oct. 1, sponsored by Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges of Hereford. It will be held in the IOOF Temple, 205 East Sixth, at 8 p.m.

Display of area musical talent is the principal purpose of the informal show, open to amateur and professional musicians. Several similar evenings of music have been sponsored in the past year by the lodges which are responding to popular demand to continue them.

Musicians who would like places on the program are asked to register at the new Kimball Music Center in Sugarland Mall, where they will be issued free tickets.

Advance sale of tickets to spectators will also be conducted there. The previous prices of $1 for adults and 50 cents for children will be continued.

4-H Center

This is the architect's drawing of the new Texas 4-H Center being constructed at Brownwood. The $1.5 million facility will be located on a 78-acre site at Lake Brownwood and will accommodate 200 people. It will include a central plaza, amphitheater, administrative building, living units, seminar rooms, manager's residence and other facilities. It will be available for summer youth camps, leadership training, citizenship seminars, adult leader training, and county and district camps. Construction should be completed in about a year.

Wheat Growers Meet

Deaf Smith County wheat growers and other interested citizens will have an opportunity to hear a leader from the nation's capital discuss the status of many current wheat-related issues at a breakfast here Wednesday.

Jerry Rees, executive vice president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, will appear at the open meeting in Dickie's Restaurant beginning at 7 a.m.

Frank Zinser, president of the county association, urges all invites the attendance of all wheat growers and interested businessmen. Directors of the Texas Wheat Producers Association are holding a special meeting in Amarillo

Tuesday, and Leo Witkowski of Hereford, president, has made arrangements to have Rees here Wednesday.

Rees will just have participated as one of 60 invited farm leaders in a "mini-summit" meeting on food and agriculture in Chicago.

SEPTIC TANK - CESSPOOL CLOGGING CAN NOW BE PREVENTED!

LIVINGSTON, N. J. - An amazing bacterial discovery that prevents clogging of septic tanks and cesspools with but a single, safe and easy-to-use yearly treatment, has been developed by the FX-Lab Co., Livingston, N. J.

Sluggish systems and drainfields can also be restored to normal by fast acting bacterial cultures. They are also recommended as a "starter" to seed newly cleaned out or newly installed septic tanks and cesspools.

These proven FX bacterial organisms, known as FX-4 for septic tanks, FX-7 for cesspools, and FX-11 for sluggish septic tanks and cesspools are available locally.

Honor Society Elects Officers

Hereford High School's National Honor Society (NHS) has announced the officers who will serve during the 1974-75 school term.

Elected to new positions were Shyla Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Thomas of 206 Sunset, president; D'Lyn Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Davison of 424 Sunset, vice president; Terri Hetzel, daughter of the D.D. Hetzels of 231 Fir, secretary; James Arney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Arney of 101 Douglas, treasurer.

NHS, sponsored by Mrs. Betty Oglesby, is composed of the academic top per centage of each HHS class. The upper 15 per cent of seniors, 10 per cent of juniors and 5 per cent of sophomores are inducted each year.

According to Mrs. Oglesby, the purpose of NHS is to encourage academic excellence on the part of students and teachers. The society recognizes two students who have outstanding records in the classroom and extracurricular activities. NHS also honors a teacher each six weeks who is particularly knowledgeable in their field and can communicate that knowledge to the students.

An honor roll is released each six weeks to commend those pupils who have achieved a 4.0 average and 5.0 average grade point.

To Lead Top Scholars

These members of National Honor Society at Hereford High School were elected to a board of officers for the new school year. They are Shyla Thomas, president; D'Lyn Davison, vice president; Terri Hetzel, secretary; James Arney, treasurer. NHS is composed of the top academic brackets of each grade and is sponsored by Mrs. Betty Oglesby.

ALONG THE FRIO

By MRS. OWEN ANDREWS
Brand Correspondent

Frio Baptist Church W.M.U. was host on Wednesday to a mission study luncheon with guests from First Baptist, Temple and Avenue Baptist churches. Hereford and Summerfield Baptist Church. All groups participated, each presenting a phase of the study. The luncheon, jointly furnished, was Mexican foods. Mrs. Earl Harkins, Frio president, was in charge of the meeting. About 40 women attended.

Frio Homemakers Club met Tuesday in the home of the president, Mrs. E.F. Vogler, for its first meeting of the new season. A luncheon at 12:30 p.m. was followed by a short business session with new year books distributed. A new member, Mrs. Joe Schumacher and nine others attended. They included Mmes. D.F. Yandell, Lloyd Shultz, J.E. Warrick, Fred Walton, Annie Springer, Jim Brooks, Owen Andrews, Frank Robbins and Weldon Stephan.

A group of young people from Frio Baptist Church went to Happy last Sunday evening to present a program entitled "Joy". This musical message was presented at the local church the Sunday evening before and will be taken to the Baptist Church at Melrose, N.M. tonight.

Several of the Andrews relatives attended the funeral on Tuesday morning for Lloyd Roberts of Melrose, N.M. at Methodist Church, Melrose. Mr. Roberts, the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Andrews of Melrose was 56 years old and has been in poor health for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Kendon Anderson went to Weatherford, Okla., Thursday to take their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Dan Anderson, and her baby daughter home after they visited here for two weeks. Dan had brought them and visited a day or so, leaving them here for the longer stay. He is studying in the pharmacy school of the college there.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Richardson and Jennifer of Hollywood, Florida have visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Sparkman, Jr. and others of the family, the past week. They plan to return home the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kim Gripp are at home in their new mobile house located about half a mile east of the home of his parents, the Spicer Gripps. They were married in Sentinel, Okla. on Sept. 7. Among those from here attending, besides relatives, were the Joe Andrews and Floyd Cole families.

The Coles visited their daughter, Mrs. Sal D'Amato and D'Amato, at Stillwater, Okla. on Sunday.

The Joe Andrews visited her grandmother, Mrs. Hattie Haseloff, and other relatives and friends at Vernon on Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. John Stokes and Shelby from Mt. Vernon, Wash. are here visiting her parents, the Spicer Gripps and other relatives. They came also to attend the wedding of her brother, Kim, last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elza Warrick visited their daughter, Mrs. Les Draves Mr. Draves and family at Alamoso, Colo., the past week. On Wednesday evening, they attended an Eastern Star installation service, during which Draves became Worthy Patron and Mrs. Draves a Worthy Matron. Randy, son of the Draves, came home with his grandparents for a visit.

HUMUS ORGANIC PRODUCTS OF TEXAS

Hereford, Texas

Supplement with Humic Acids now for better soil fertility.

What is Humus Organic Products?

Humus is defined in the Webster Dictionary as; Decayed vegetable matter, important to the fertility of soil.

Organic is defined as to or derived from plant and animal matter, containing carbon.

Humus is more of a soil conditioner than a fertilizer. It is as important to soil as nitrogen, Phors., potash. Soil with a good content of Humus of 4 to 5% is usually good fertile soil.

The following is why the soil needs Humus:

1. Natural Organic Chelating. Humus releases elements "locked up" in the soil and forms biological complexes with minerals and traces elements so plants can pick them up.
2. "Crumbles" Soil. Humus flocculates and opens heavy soil to give better penetration of water and oxygen. It offsets the packing of soil caused by running heavy equipment in the field.
3. Decomposes Stalks. Stalks, leaves, or manures which have been spread in the field, will break down more rapidly when Humus is applied.
4. Develops Roots. Provides greater, healthier and cleaner root structure than "Commercial" alone.
5. Conserves Water. Soil improved with Humus holds water better and longer. It activates the bacteria of sponges.
6. Improves Crop Quality. Humus improves the firmness, color and sheen of crops. Vegetables will ship and "carry" better.
7. Tree Crops. Trees respond rapidly with better color and growth to produce larger yields of better fruit.
8. Easily Applied. Humus is applied with a dry spreader like the dry commercial fertilizer.

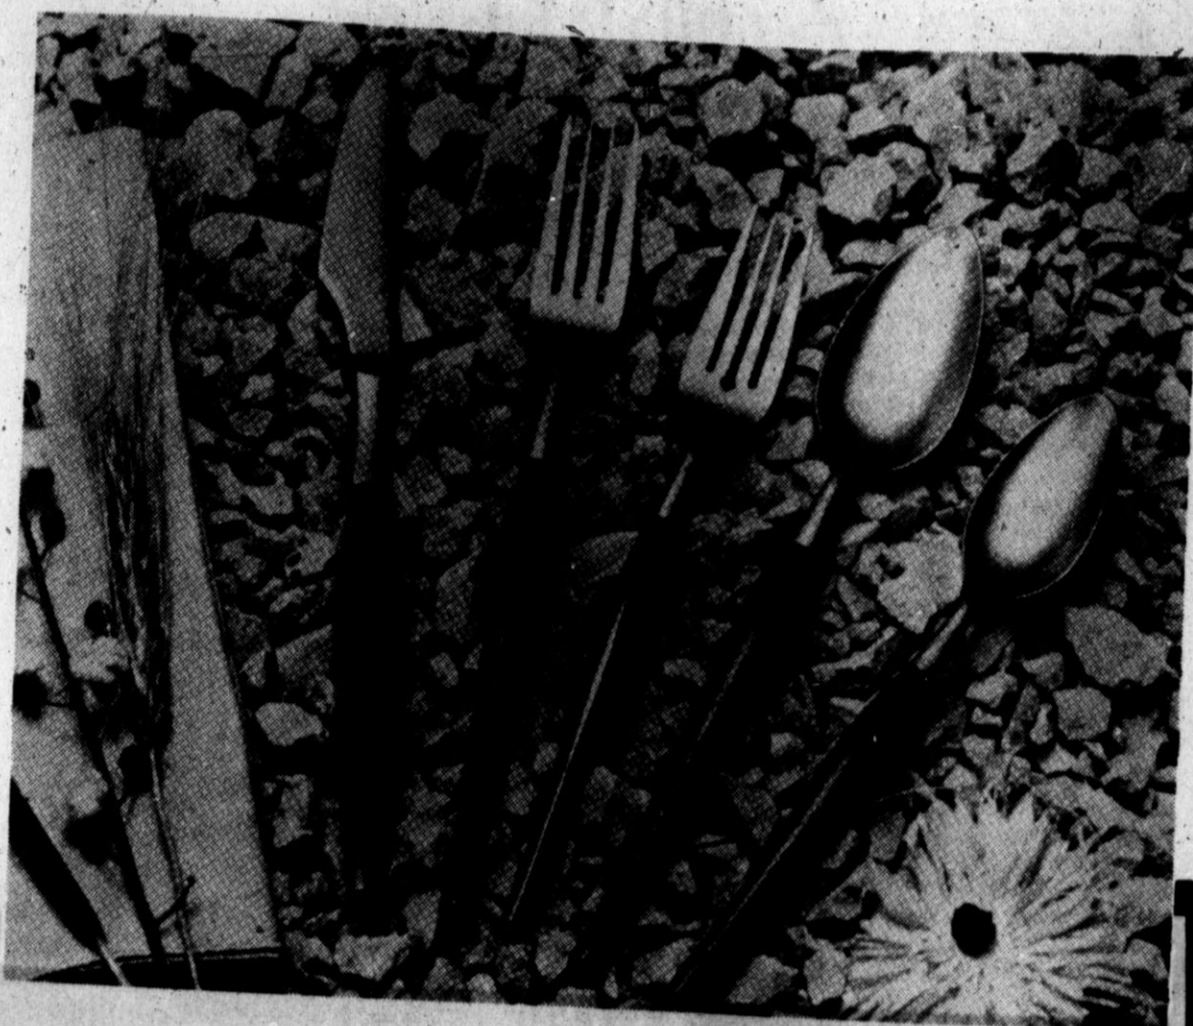

"But never forget, chemical fertilizers can neither add to the Humus content nor replace it."

Of

Fall

At the sound of the word "Autumn," the mind is stirred to many thoughts: the crunch of dry leaves underfoot, the crooked grin of a jack-o-lantern, frosty evenings and youngsters trudging to school, swapping tales of summer exploits.

On September 23, autumn will officially arrive. The golden days of summer fading into the mellow harvest season naturally turn one's thinking to the passage of time and how precious every moment is. Life can be rich and full of meaning for even the poorest man, if he will but use his time wisely.

Therefore, with the promise of a new season before us, it is up to each individual to see that he or she is all that they can be. Only in that way, will the potential of the people and the nation be fully realized.

Reliable sign that fall is in the air, four-year-old Mark Watson borrows his older brothers' football and helmet for a workout in the backyard of the Charles Watson home, 332 Centre, where firewood for the winter days ahead is stacked in the back ground. (Upper left)

Morning Ceremony Read For Miss Haug's Wedding

Exchanging wedding vows Saturday morning in St. Anthony's Catholic Church were Miss Paula Jean Haug and James Roger Gregston with the Rev. Aedan Davis, associate pastor, conducting the nuptial mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Haug of 417 Ave. J. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N.R. Gregston of Houston.

Bouquets of gold gladiolas and yellow Fuji mums were arranged on either side of the main altar as the main church decorations.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Mark Brown of Greeley, Colo., was matron of honor and Steve Farrell of Houston was best man.

Bridesmaids included the bridegroom's sister, Miss Marcia Gregston of Houston, and Miss Ladonna Williams of Lubbock. Serving as groomsmen and ushers were the bride's brother, Fred Haug Jr. of Richmond, Ky. and Dan Marcuse of Houston.

Nieces of the bride, Amy and Jane Brown, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Mark Brown were flower girls and altar boys were Greg Hacker and Don Brockman.

Virgil Slentz sang solos, Wedding Song, Ave Maria, Our Father and First Time Ever I Saw Your Face, accompanied by Mrs. Jim Cramer, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown cut on simple lines with a mandarin collar. The full sleeves gathered to deep cuffs which were trimmed with pearls and crystal beads as was the neckline of the gown.

The empire waist was belted with a wide satin ribbon. Front of the skirt was a straight panel and gathered sides and back flowed into a circular chapel train.

The fingertip bridal veil of tiered illusion was attached to a satin band decorated with pearls and satin bows. Her bouquet was a cascade of yellow roses, white crystal mums, babybreath and English ivy.

Attendants' dresses were fashioned after the bride's gown, of avocado green silk shantung. The dresses, belted with gold velvet ribbons; had short puffed sleeves.

To complete the ensemble each wore a green hat with gold velvet ribbons. They carried yellow mums.

The flower girls' dresses, styled like attendants' gowns, were made of white voile with avocado green and gold appliques. Gold satin ribbons belted the empire waists. They carried white lace baskets filled with gold petals.

Mrs. Fred Haug Jr., the bride's sister-in-law, invited guests to the registry at the reception held in St. Anthony's school auditorium.

Mrs. Wallace Hill of Amarillo poured punch at the bride's table which was covered with white lace over gold satin. Miss Jeanie Koelzer presided at the bridegroom's table where the coffee service was set on an avocado green cloth and Miss Kay Hagar cut the chocolate cake.

Miss Kathleen Malone served the three-tiered brides' cake. Designed with a square bottom layer, it was decorated with yellow and white roses and topped with a marriage cross.

Others assisting included Mmes. W.J. Lueb, John Gilliland, Duane Albracht, Allan Brockman and Bill Gilleland.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Jamaica, the bride wore a three-piece white and pastel blue pantsuit. The couple will be at home after Sep. 23 at 2111 Holly Hall, Houston.

The bride will be a student at the University of Houston next spring. She was employed by Richard Saad DDS at Houston, after graduating from Hereford High School in 1973.

The bridegroom, presently a student at the University of Texas Dental Branch in Houston graduated from the University of Texas in Austin in 1973 and previously from St. Steven's School at Austin.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's parents and Richard Gunn, all of Houston; Miss Olna Haynes, Dallas; Alfred Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Torske, all of Hardin, Mont.

Also Mrs. Herman Venable, Miles City, Mont; Mrs. E.C. Gregston, Mrs. W.C. Pierson, Donna and Debbie Gregston, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Stocker, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Taylor and Miss Jan Chapman, all of Lubbock.

Also Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Brown, Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hanson, Colorado Springs.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Dr. and Mrs. Bill Albracht of Oklahoma City, Okla. are the parents of twins born Sep. 12. Their son weighed 6 lbs. 12 oz. and their daughter weighed 5 lbs. 10 oz.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Albracht of Route 3.

The people of the world will never agree unanimously. What we must learn to do is disagree harmoniously.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Keyes southeast of Hereford, announce the engagement of their daughter Mary, to Wayne Schilling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schilling of Summerfield. The couple will marry October 26 in St. Anthony's Catholic Church. The bride-elect is employed by an Amarillo certified public account firm and the prospective bridegroom is engaged in farming at Summerfield. Both are 1970 Hereford High School graduates and attended West Texas State University.

Stengel-Adams Marriage Vows Spoken Saturday

Miss Linda Sharon Stengel and Donald Rex Adams were married Saturday afternoon in St. Anthony's Catholic Church with the Rev. Bernard McGorry, pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Stengel of Rt. 3 Friona, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Buford Clement of San Ysidro, N.M.

The bride's cousin Miss Babette Stengel was maid of honor and the best man was Dennis Adams, the bridegroom's brother.

Ushering guests to their seats were the bride's brothers, Charlie and Philip Stengel, and her cousin, Richard Stengel.

Chris Urbanczyk and Scott Mazurek were servers.

Miss Alta Reasonover of Seagraves sang Schubert's Ave Maria, Our Father and Twelfth of Never accompanied by Mrs. Morris Hacker, playing the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length dress of white silk organza over taffeta designed with an empire bodice and a yoke of tucked organza.

The bodice was traced with streamers of Venice lace and marked at the front by covered buttons. The high neckline was also trimmed with lace as were full sleeves gathered to deep cuffs finished with lace ruffles. Matching lace trimmed the hemline of the gown which formed a full chapel train.

Her fingertip tiered veil was trimmed with lace and attached to a Juliet cap and satin bow. She carried a cascade of white roses and sapphire tinted babybreath with English ivy tendrils.

As a good luck piece she wore sapphire earrings.

The maid of honor wore a teal blue empire gown fashioned with a high neckline. Ruffles trimmed the neckline, cuffs and bodice. She carried a nosegay of white roses with hints of blue matching her gown.

Mrs. Ben Gates of San Jon, N.M. invited guests to the registry table at the reception held in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Mrs. Zeke Frost of Happy served punch and the bride's cousin, Miss Donna Stengel of Tyler, served cake. Others assisting included Mmes. Tony Urbanczyk, Bill Stengel, Meinard Koelzer and Bob Schmucker.

The couple will make their home in Bard, N.M.

The bride attended West Texas State University where she majored in animal science after graduating from Hereford High School in 1971. She was active in Rodeo Club and

Mrs. Welch Is Guest Speaker

Mrs. James Welch of Dimmit was guest speaker at St. Anthony's Womens Organization's first meeting of the fall Thursday in St. Anthony's school parish auditorium. In her program, Mrs. Welch used a variety of hats to illustrate the different types of women that make up a club.

Following the program, The Rev. Bernard McGorry, pastor of the church, commented on the program.

Three new members of Ceramic Art Club were welcomed as a year began with a meeting Wednesday in Mrs. W.C. Hromas' home. Yearbooks were presented, outlining programs to be given each month through May.

Mmes. George DeBoer, Ben Greider and Curtis Wright are the members whose names were added to the club roll this year.

Basic steps in molding ceramics were shown as the program, and Mrs. L.B.

Leather and Lace Club.

The bridegroom is a farmer-rancher. He attended Los Cruces University in Las Cruces, N.M. and served in the United States Marine Corps for three years.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Buford Clement and Elaine of San Ysidro, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Adams and Charlotte of Ft. Sumner, Mrs. Hazel Chapman, Ray Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gates, all of San Jon.

the theme Unity Through Christian Love.

Each unit chairman explained the duties of the various committees and members decided to serve at a local farm sale Sep. 26.

It was also decided to work at the Right To Life booth at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo Thursday.

Hosting the salad supper were Mmes. Ed Schilling, Roman Friemel, Bob Paetzold, Robert Diller, and Vincent Walterscheid.

Approximately 50 members were present.

CowBelles To Resume Luncheons

Delegates to the Texas CowBelles convention at Amarillo next month are to be elected at the September luncheon of Hereford CowBelles at the Country Club, Tuesday, Mrs. N.E. Tyler, president, has announced.

The lunch is scheduled at 11:45 a.m. This is the first meeting since June, although activities of the chapter have continued during the summer vacation with emphasis on the Beef for Girlstown project which originated here and has been adopted by the Texas organization. A report on a mid-year workshop will be presented. Listed on the hostess committee are Mmes. David Hutchins, Norman Hodges, James Witherspoon, Bussy Kaul, Bill Howard and Ed Jessup.

The world owes a great deal to the men of medicine, and some of it will, no doubt, be paid.

YHT Chapter Installs Officers For Year

Hereford chapter of Young Homemakers of Texas met at K-Bob's Steak House for dinner and installation of new officers for the club year.

Using a western theme, Mrs. Jim Culpepper presided over the installation. Mrs. Ronald Rayburn was presented a cowboy hat to symbolize the wagon master as she took over her position as president.

Other symbols of office were given to Mrs. Lewis Montano, vice president; Mrs. Larry Alley, treasurer; Mrs. Tommy Betzen, secretary; Mrs. Joe Don Edelman, historian; Mrs. Bud Kelly, parliamentarian, and Mrs. M.T. Burelsmith, chapter adviser.

Conclusion of the business meeting was held in Community Room of First National Bank.

New members recognized were Mmes. Brad Johnson, Jimmy Johnson and Rodger Ruland. Final preparations were made for YHT Week beginning today. The chapter is featuring a display at Deaf Smith County Library.

The recent YHT Area Convention in Lubbock was discussed. Mrs. Kelly was elected first vice-president at the convention and Mrs. David Hill was recognized as a retiring officer. Others going from the Hereford chapter included Mmes. Charles Weatherford, Burelsmith, and Connie Urbanczyk.

Other topics discussed included sponsoring a Campfire group, giving more recognition to the chapter's little sister and an eye screening seminar scheduled Sept. 27 and 28 in Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room.

Club Makes Plans For Workshop

Final plans were made for the Sweet 'N' Fancy Cake Decorating Club's workshop at the club's first fall meeting Friday morning in Community Center.

The workshop on basic cake decorating will begin at 9:30 a.m. Sep. 27 in the center and is open for all interested persons. They may contact any club member or call Mrs. Carlton Richardson at 276-5858.

Those wishing to attend the workshop are asked to bring a cake, buttercream icing and a decorating bag.

Officers for the new club year are Mrs. Richardson, president; Mrs. Nick Milburn, vice-president; Mrs. Mark Koenig, secretary; Mrs. Joel Lytal, treasurer.

Recognized as visitors were Mmes. Joe Schumacher, Lonnie Noyes, Jimmy Holmes, Ed Shields, Lee Donaway and Joe Paxton.

Members present included Mmes. Burnia Riley, Keith Battey, Lynn Pittard, Dale Henson, Jay Crofford, T.E. Briserline, Milburn, Lytal, and Koenig.

$100-million sought to speed warhead testing.

Briscoe To Address Conference

The 1974 Water for Texas Conference involving several local residents will deal with many important aspects of the state's water resources when it is held on the Texas A&M University campus, Thursday and Friday.

This word comes from the general chairman, Dr. J.R. Runkles, director of the Texas Water Resource Institute and a researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, the state's agricultural research agency.

Theme for the conference will be "Ground Water Management - Current Issues."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe is scheduled to address the conference at the 6:30 p.m. banquet Sept. 19 at the Aggildand Inn. Earlier that day at the J. Earl Rudder Center Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby will serve as keynote speaker at 9:30 a.m. and discuss "Ground Water Issues Facing Texas."

State Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, chairman of the House Interim Committee on Water, will speak at 10 a.m. on "Legislative Perspective on Ground Water Issues." Dr. Jack K. Williams, President of the Texas A&M University System, will welcome conferees. Moderator for the opening session will be Joe D. Carter of Austin, chairman of the Texas Water Rights Commission.

Other, opening morning speakers will be Bill Waddle, Austin, general manager of the Texas Water Conservation Association, who will discuss "Approaches to Ground Water Management," and Frank R. Booth, an Austin Attorney, who will speak on "Alternative Ground Water Laws for Texas."

Afternoon speakers will include Harry P. Burleigh of Austin, executive director, Texas Water Development

Board; Don Owen, an engineer from Newport Beach, Calif.; William F. Guyton of Austin, with Guyton and Associates; Mrs. Jean Williams of the Division of Planning' Coordination, Office of the Governor.

Also, Robert Van Dyke, general manager, San Antonio City Water Board; J.W. Buchanan of Dumas, general manager, North Plains Ground Water District; and Frank A. Rayner of Lubbock, general manager, High Plains Underground Water District.

The Singing Cadets of Texas A&M University will provide banquet entertainment.

Six speakers will be featured on the second morning's program. They include Lewis B. Seward, director of the Hydrology Division, Texas Water Development Board, Dick Whittington, deputy director, Texas Water Quality Board; James E. Osborn, agricultural economics professor at Texas Tech University; Jim Valliant, director of Research, High Plains Research Foundation, Plainview.

Also, Robert K. Gabrysch of the U.S. Geological Survey, and Lonnie L. Jones, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station associate professor in rural development.

The conference will adjourn at noon Sept. 19.

History Students Offered WT Grant

A substantial amount of scholarship money is available for West Texas State University history majors who are classified juniors and above, noted Dr. Duane Guy, department head.

"We can award individual scholarships up to $500," Guy said. "The only qualifications are that the student be at least a junior majoring in history. Graduate history majors are also included."

The scholarship money is the interest accumulated from a $50,000 donation left to the WTSU History Department by former department head L.F. Sheffy. The L.F. Sheffy Memorial Fund is administered through Educational Endowments, which is under the WTSU Foundation.

Scholarships have been awarded regularly from this donation since its inception in 1967. Two $500 scholarships have already been given this fall by Dr. Guy.

"We encourage anyone of upper division standing in history to apply," Guy concluded.

Special Week Observed

Mayor Jim Sears shakes hands with Mrs. Ron Rayburn, president of the Hereford Chapter, Young Homemakers of Texas, after signing a proclamation of Sept. 15-21 as YHT Week. Hereford members are marking the week with special activities and a display in Deaf Smith County Library. A service project to begin a new year, lower photo, was the presentation by Mrs. Larry Alley, treasurer, of a check to Keith Schroyer, Mental Health Mental Retardation Center director, to add to the center's bus fund. Looking on are Kathy Margrave, left, teacher at the center, and Margaret Griego, secretary.

AARP Members Attend Workshop

Six members of the Hereford chapter of AARP attended the Legislative Workshop recently in Senior Citizens Center in Amarillo, with Max Sherman, state senator, as principal speaker.

Clayton Graves, state director of AARP completed the workshop by giving a summary of the days work.

There were 67 AARP members in attendance from seven Panhandle towns, which included Lubbock, Plainview, Dumas, Pampa, Dalhart, Canyon and Hereford.

They included Ed Dzuik, Mmes. Henry Vaughan, John Moore, H.J. Wilhelm, and L.B. Fowler; and Harold Hersley.

A review of the legislative workshop will be the program given at the chapter's salad dish supper at 7 p.m. Thursday in Community Center.

Sherman spoke on tax legislation, constitutional failure and medicare. Beulah Casperson, officer in the League of Women Voters, followed with a talk on laws and basics of changing laws and health program for the senior citizen.

Succeeding the program and luncheon, a tour of the center

Cookout Is Surprise For Girls Of Horizon Club

A surprise cookout entertained a dozen girls of Po Ne Whush Horizon Club Wednesday afternoon, when they were transported to the Arthur B. Clark farm from the Campfire Girls Lodge where they met to open activities of the year and discuss proposed projects.

At the farm, eight miles south on the Dimmitt Highway, they were served hamburgers, corn-on-the-cob, Cokes and watermelon. Mr. and Mrs. Clark and their daughter, Beth, were assisted by three mothers, Mmes. Gerald Hamby, G.C.

Merritt Jr. and Lee Roy Burges, in serving the supper.

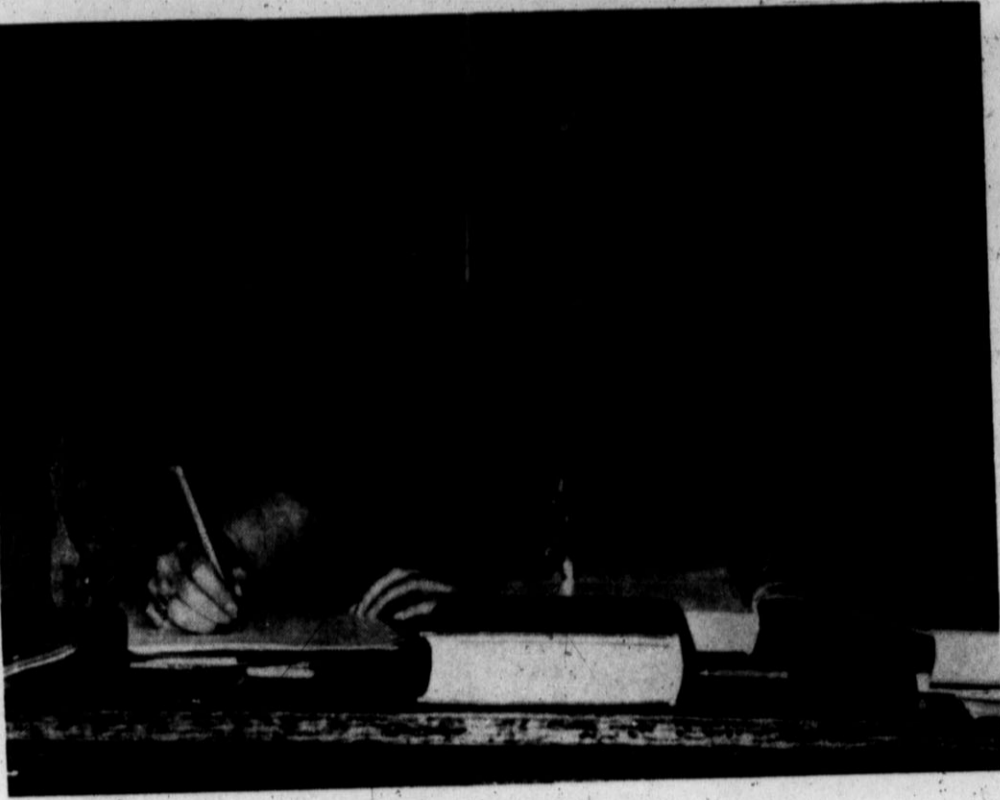

Service will be the main theme of the Po Ne Whush club this year, the girls decided. Members are sophomores in Hereford High School, and other sophomore girls who would like to belong to the group are invited to the meeting next Wednesday after school.

Advisors are Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Lewis Lea and Mrs. State Norvell. Horizon Clubs are the organizations for high school girls in the Campfire program.

Girls at the supper were Grace Abalos, Susan Hamby, Vivian Burges, Melinda Gonzales, Alma Gomez, Micki Merritt, Stacy Lea, Becky Friemel, Sandra Finley, Laurie Higgins, Jonnie Walker and Laura Clark.

Guests were Mitch Merritt, Scott and Kevin Hamby.

Few people have the courage to resist the crowd, even when they know the crowd is off base.

Mothers Need Diplomas Too, School Believes

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

ONLY a few years ago it was an innovation to permit married students to attend public schools. Now there are programs which not only permit, but encourage pregnant girls to continue in school, and assist them toward graduation.

Need for these students to earn high school diplomas may be even greater than for the unmarried students, school personnel concerned with the local classes say.

This is because the girls who drop out because of pregnancy often find it difficult to return to school when they have the care of a child to occupy them.

to continue studies.

Most of the students are juniors and seniors, but some are younger and Mrs. Ramey remembers one junior high student.

The different grade levels of students create a situation much like the old-time rural school, the teacher remarks. The class meets only in the mornings.

AT PRESENT there are three senior girls who take English and two enrolled for history, so some class discussion is possible for them, but other subjects differ so teaching is on a one-to-one basis, "actually a tutoring situation," Mrs. Ramey says.

She likes the individual attention that is possible in this situation, and says it makes faster progress possible for many students. But she adds that it calls for all her knowledge of various subjects and often sends her back to a classroom teacher in such subjects as math or chemistry, in which she is not experienced.

Consultation with teachers and counselors helps her in presenting these subjects and also in keeping the students up with their classes so they can return to school able to pick up the work their classmates are doing.

AFTER the birth of a baby, the student-mother may continue in the special class until the child is six weeks old. Then if her doctor permits she may return to regular classes. For some, graduation comes before birth of the baby, as in the case of the three seniors this fall, who will be mid-term graduates.

Mrs. Ramey has found that some subjects, such as family living, are of interest to all the students and not just to those enrolled for that subject.

The flexible schedule allows the entire group to be drawn into discussions and to go on field trips such as one to the County Extension Agents' office for suggestions on homemaking and acquaintance with resources of that office which are available free to those who need them.

The teacher's own background as a homemaker and mother as well as teaching experience in different subjects and different grade levels, gives her the best basis for a personal interest in her pupils as well as competence as an instructor.

BUT IF they are encouraged to keep up with their classes and go ahead to graduation, even after their babies have been born, they will at least have the high school diploma required for many jobs in case they are among the many wives and mothers who help earn the family income.

Also, if they wish later to attend college, perhaps after their children are in school, it is easier for them to do so than if they must first climb over the obstacle of obtaining the diploma. Some feel that is too much of a handicap, so give up any idea of resuming studies.

A varying number of girls, three to a dozen, are in the class here during the school year, but a class is formed when as many as three girls request it, Superintendent Roy Hartman explains.

It is a community class, held not in a school building but in the education building of First United Methodist Church.

"FUNDED through the state, it is a part of what is called Plan A," Hartman says. "Aim of this plan is to provide classes for any child of school age, no matter what his handicap." He emphasizes that the class is open to all girls who need it.

Direction of the program is through the office of Jim Holmes, administrative assistant, with other special education classes in the school system.

Jeanette Ramey is teaching the class this year for the second time; she was the teacher two years ago, then was given another faculty assignment last year while Naomi Hare was the instructor.

"THERE IS no pressure on pregnant students to attend this class, but it is available to those who wish it," Holmes says. "The program has been well accepted in the community," and he adds that usually the husbands and parents of the students back them in their wish

Supper Opens New Club Year

Husbands were honored guests of Mop Amis Study Club members at their first meeting of the new club year Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Walser of Summerfield.

During the short business session, presentation and explanation of new year books was made.

Hostesses assisting Mrs. Walser were Mrs. Don Tindal and Mrs. Earnest Flood. After the spaghetti and lasagne supper was served the remainder of the evening was spent playing 42.

Members and husbands present included Messrs. and Mmes. Roy Botkin, James Dobbs, Dan Heard, Tindal, Buster Thomason, Martin Young, Leroy Edwards, Flood, Jerry Lance and Mrs. Ray Bates and Mrs. Leon Richards.

Coffee Is First Meeting Of Club

La Madre Mia Study Club members opened the new club year Thursday morning with a coffee in the home of Mrs. Charles Frye.

During the business session of the meeting, Mrs. Roger Williams was elected to the social committee and secret pals were revealed.

Members also received new yearbooks and standing committees gave reports. Mrs. Frye served refreshments on quartet tables centered with toile painted salt 'n' pepper shakers and spring flowers.

Members present included

Mmes. C.D. Adams, Lynton Allred, Jimmy Anderson, Waldo Baxter, Herschel Black, Lanny Crump, Dickie Gerles, Dean Herring and David Honea.

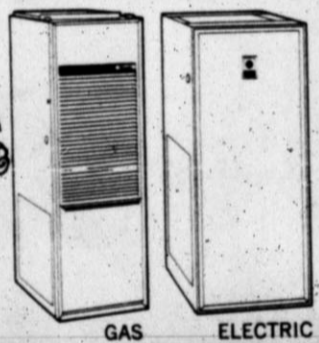

Also Mmes. Wayne Lady, Don Lane, Gerald Martin, Stanley Simmons, Craig Smith, Eugene Sparks, Don Walser, Richard Ward, Charles Watson and Williams.

Prize winning pets at the Pet Carnival sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division last Sunday as the final event of its Summer Youth Program, held the full attention of some of the young owners, while others proudly displayed their award badges. One of the teenage helpers in the summer program presents an award, lower right, to the young exhibitor and his rabbit. First places were won by Allyson Thomas, Rhonda Clark, Scott Formby, Doug Owens, Carol Rudder, Marcelyn King, Gary Jones, Craig Hammon, Karla Alford, Tommie and Sammie Cherry and Neil Driver Jr. Winning second places were Colleen Keating, Link Dorpf, Scott Schollenbarger, Brandi Hamilton, Chris Howell and Ward Thomas. Some of the pets took two awards.

AVE Offerings Open For Registration

Over 60 courses covering six major areas of instruction will open the fall offerings of the Amarillo College Adult Vocational Education (AVE) program.

Courses which will be offered are in the categories of health care; real estate; business-secretarial; agri-business; technical; electronics-shop; and mechanical-automotive.

Of the 69 courses, 10 are being offered for the first time, said Clifford Siess, AVE supervisor. In the area of health care, two new courses covering food service supervisors and introductory health care management will be offered. Two new classes set in business-secretarial are principals of marketing and salesmanship.

Both agri-business courses, soil testing and fertilization and livestock health care, will open at the start of enrollment.

Three new classes in technical, electronics-shop include commercial electronics technician license training, kitchen design, and estimating construction costs.

Automobile emission control systems heads the listing of new classes in mechanical-automotive.

The majority of classes will meet from 7 to 10 p.m. with fees ranging from $6 to $46.

Each student enrolled in these courses receives continuing education units (CEUs) which equal one point for each 10 class hours.

Siess said the CEUs are a basis of comparison of continuing education curriculum with that across the nation.

Registration is now in progress. Interested students may enroll in the registrar's office in the Washington Street Administration Building or at the West campus School of Vocational Arts, 6222 W. 9th. A complete listing of courses containing all pertinent information is available in the registrar's office, Library, or from the Continuing Education office in the Technology Building.

Housewife Laments Nuisances

By CORINNE J. NEELY

Besides the always present food budget problem which has worsened the last few years, the housewife has many every day nuisances. They might be called headaches or other hurts, depending on this and that.

For instance, think of the daily routine of meal preparation three times a day. This is only one phase of her work which as a rule she takes matter-of-factly except on rare occasions.

THE EXCEPTIONS run into classifications of unexpected company, a rush-up meal, just "an off day" when every thing seems to go wrong, et cetera.

Just to name a few of the minor mishaps or trivialities there are the packaged foods which are marked in small letters in a lightly perforated spot, "Press Here." Not one time in 10 can you follow those directions without getting a broken fingernail: it usually takes a knife to cut those dotted lines.

Then there are those frozen foods in tins where you pull one corner to open the top. How many times has a homemaker cut her finger or hand on that razor-sharp edge?

What about those disgusting half or two-thirds full boxes of cereal and other dry foods? Do we buy the space or the shake down?

And the cans and packages which have in small letters "open the other end." You find this instruction after you have struggled to open said box, in a sorry, messy job.

One bachelor homemaker was heard to remark when a guest reminded him of opening the wrong end of the can, "It's mine and I will open any end I like."

WHAT ABOUT those tiny red threads which say "pull to open," and when you do it breaks off and it's up to you to open it as you can. Misleading?

Another complaint — the new baby proof aspirin. Such bottles our three-year-old great-niece can open—and we can't!

How many housewives have all these tidy chores in order and a neat kitchen shelf? We wonder, as ours is certainly not in that class.

And how does the average housewife rate on those assemble yourself pieces of furniture or appliances? Many, and we are one, just struggle awhile, then toss both the directions and drawings away and do it our own way for better results.

OF COURSE there are those to-be-envied homemakers who are methodical and mechanically inclined. These look down their noses with disgust at the less lucky or inclined housekeeper. They assemble articles with the right tools which they have on hand. They read the packages carefully before opening and work them out easily it seems.

Though it is said, maybe in the way of consolation, "the messy cook is a good one" and in all probability she cooks gourmet food. This is encouraging to the less-lucky-package and can-opener sister.

Some, or a number of women can fix their own electric cords on irons and other appliances. But we belong in the class, with at least one woman, who had the following experience.

For months she had tried to get an electrician to come by and fix a wall switch, without luck. So she decided to do it herself. She had no training nor any rules to follow but was successful through sheer determination.

Though she admitted that for two or three months every time the fire whistle blew she feared it was her house.

Oh! For a Mr. Fix-it, as one lumber yard here once had, who could be called on to do these minor jobs, such as a leaky faucet or a door latch or screen mend job.

All those little jobs which a single woman often faces, or women whose husbands are too busy — or no more mechanically inclined than some women!

THDA Schedules State Meeting

Three women in government and education will address the 48th annual state meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association (THDA) in Amarillo Tuesday-Thursday.

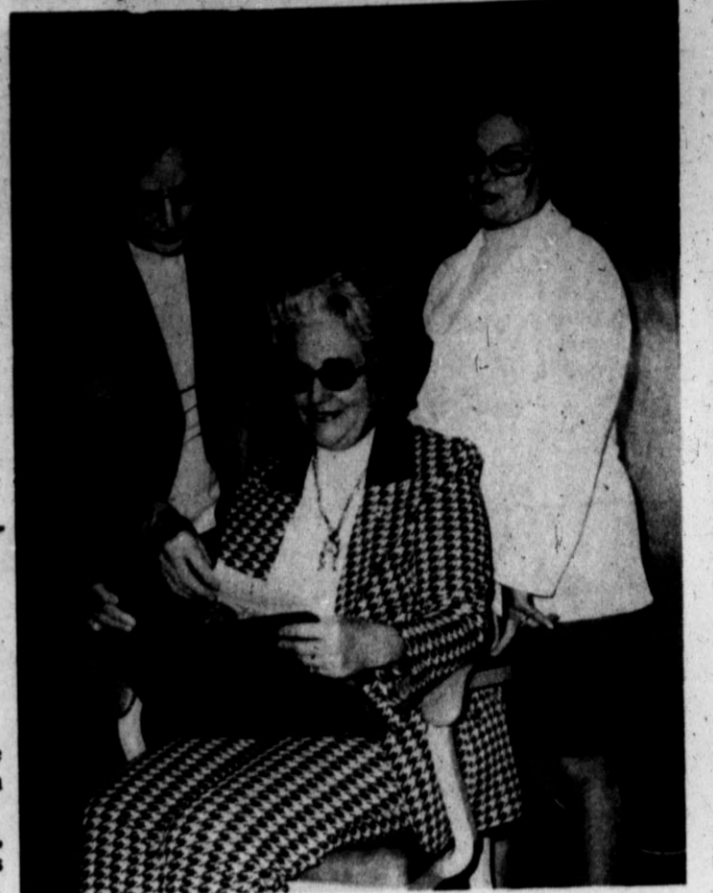

As keynote speaker Judge Mary Lou Robinson of Amarillo will discuss the role of women in a changing world Sept. 18 during a morning assembly.

Mrs. Wilmer Smith of Wilson will speak the same morning. Currently serving as the second woman member of the Texas A&M University System board of directors, Mrs. Smith is also a former president of the Texas Home Demonstration Association.

Mrs. Florence W. Low, assistant director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, will address the group during the Sept. 19 evening assembly. Her topic is "Looking Forward with THDA."

Other activities during the three-day meeting will be workshops on delegates, publicity, citizenship, family life, 4-H, health, cultural arts and recreation, safety,

THDA Delegates

Messenger Club Gets Yearbooks

New yearbooks were received by members of Messenger Home Demonstration Club as they met Friday at the community building with Mrs. Bill Page as hostess.

Home Demonstration Agent Joyce Shipp presented a program which explained the versatility in men's fashions.

Game prize was won by Mrs. Jerry Northcutt and Mrs. S.N. Thweat was awarded the floating prize.

The club's next meeting will be a work day on Sept. 27 at the community building.

By The Garden Gate With Glad

By Mrs. Art Manjeot

About a century ago Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote his famous poem, The Golden Flower, in which he praised the queen flower of the golden harvest days.

When spring is but a spend-thrift's dream, And summer's wealth a wasted dower, Nor dews nor sunshine may redeem,

The autumn coins his golden flower... (the chrysanthemum)

Soon our gardens will be bursting into radiant colors of the golden flower of autumn.

There will be an array of beauty both in form and color, which only the Master Gardener can give.

For many years, much of the beauty of the chrysanthemum was lost because of early freezes, but today we have many types which flower in early summer and until frost reaps its harvest.

Modern garden chrysanthemums fall into two broad groups as far as their growth habits are concerned. These determine their usefulness in the landscape.

Perhaps more popular are the cushion mums that form closely-knit mounds of foliage and flowers from 9 to 15 inches high and 18 to 30 inches across.

Blossoms range from 1 to 3 inches in diameter and can be so abundant they hide the foliage.

Then we have exhibition mums with the large exotic blossoms. Lovely both in form and colors. These take more care but the gardener who grows them receives good pay in the beauty created through their growth.

In fact it is difficult for the gardener to decide which variety to grow. There are many and it is an intensively interesting study to learn of the many kinds that can be grown successfully in our area.

For real thrills the feathery, anemone, and spider mums grace our gardens beautifully and are wonderful material for arranging.

Experienced gardeners agree that the chrysanthemum is the pig of the garden. They are gross feeders, need a fertile, well-drained soil and supplementary feeding during the growing season, especially to produce flower show materials and help them to be the regal flower they are.

Mums should be fed a balanced ration weekly during the growing season. The food should be scratched into the top soil, at the rate of 1/2 pound per week or 1 to 2 pounds per month per 100 square feet. Feeding should be discontinued when buds begin to show color.

We have several days in which to continue feeding in our area, because many of the buds are tight. Since the rains the foliage, needs feeding because of the color.

Plants should be watered enough so that they will not show wilt. Do not feed when soil is dry, it should be moist for the best results. After each watering the soil should be lightly cultivated.

To have large blossoms it is necessary to disbud, also to encourage branching and many stems. Pinching produces bushy plants, which are prone to fall to the earth thus damaging the blooms and foliage. Pinching is not usually used on the cushion mums.

To remove buds from the larger flowering mums, gently roll the buds which you wish to remove between the fingers or they can be pinched when the stem is succulent and bud small.

To prepare mums for the winter sleep, cut the stems back to 2 inches. After flowers have faded or frost has taken its toll and the ground freezes, cover the crowns of the plants with evergreen boughs, straw or pine needles.

Many gardens in town are showing color since the rains, the early flowering type is producing better blossoms. The mums in the library planters are becoming very pretty, the pure white blossoms are nice and as the season progresses the flowering plants will become more beautiful.

COLORFUL SPOTS: The red zinnias at the Ralph Hastings home, 113 Douglas, are some of the finest specimens I have ever seen grown. Color and size are excellent. The entire planting is one of beauty. Geraniums at the Cordray home 125 Kingwood, are beautiful, as well as the other plantings.

Lovely showing of petunias, large blossoms and deep colors, all gorgeous at 205 Baltimore. Roses of various varieties at Mrs. R.L. Wilson's, 114 Juniper, have been in continuous bloom all summer. Hybrid teas, florabundas and other varieties grace this lovely garden.

Another yard I have been interested in is the George Suggs front yard, at 503 N. Miles, which is covered with crushed rocks. Mrs. Suggs told me when they placed them there to watch the changing colors throughout the year. It has been interesting and beautiful to see.

Is especially beautiful when it shows the blending of lavender and mauve.

Another landscape material which I have found very satisfying is crushed pink marble. This used with white or rose colored flowers or small green shrubs makes a beauty spot for the garden.

Late plantings of glads are blooming. They are a very versatile flower as to color and type. Have enjoyed the miniature glads so very much this season. They are ideal for small arrangements for shut-ins, sick folk or for the home.

TO GARDEN is very satisfying. Planning, planting, caring for and sharing is most rewarding. (Will also help one to lose some extra pounds and is a great aid to bet'er health).

THE HEAT PUMP

ENERGY EFFICIENT...

We call the heat pump a "Bright Star" because although the idea has been around for some time now... there's a lot more interest in saving energy than ever before... people want to save energy, but they don't have to give up their comfort. With the heat pump, you don't have to give up anything. The heat pump makes wise use of energy because it uses otherwise wasted heat and electricity to heat and cool your home. Electric heat, in any form, is a wise use of precious energy and the heat pump is today's star of the system... more than 100% efficient at the point of use — actually provides more energy than it uses. Call us this week for a free electric heat cost survey of your home... and ask about the heat pump!

Area Judges Attend Seminar

The Texas Justice of the Peace Training Center opened its 1974-75 training program this month with a 20-hour seminar in Amarillo for judges in Region X.

Seventy-three judges from Region X participated in the seminar conducted Sept. 3-6.

According to Judge Ronald D. Champion, executive director of the Texas Justice of the Peace Training Center, headquartered at Southwest Texas State University, a new method of evaluating the center's seminars was unveiled in Amarillo. Participating judges were given a test at the beginning of the seminar and another examination at its conclusion.

Seminar content focused on the practical trial aspects of the duties of the justice of the peace, including criminal, civil and small claims court.

Instruction was provided by representatives from the state attorney general's office, the Texas Department of Public Safety, the Dallas and Harris County district attorneys' offices and various judges from across the state.

The state-wide training program for justices of the peace is funded by the Criminal Justice Division of the Texas Governor's Office through the Texas Justice of the Peace and Constables Association.

Return From Training Session

These justices of the peace from Region X were among the more than 73 judges who participated in a 20-hour basic Texas Justice of the Peace Training Center seminar conducted recently in Amarillo. Judges from Region X participating included (left to right) Judge Floyd Roberts of Precinct 2, Place 1, Channing; Judge Glen W. Nelson of Precinct 1, Place 1, Hereford; Judge Yvonne Hopson of Precinct 4, Dalhart; Judge Pearlline Harris of Precinct 4, Place 1, Adrian; Judge E.G. Carter of Precinct 2, place 1, Dalhart. The training center is headquartered on the Southwest Texas State University campus, where part of the seminar sessions are held. The training program is funded through the Governor's Office-Criminal Justice Division. There is no charge to the participating counties.

Woman Still In School 19 Years Later

Comings And Goings At King's Manor

By FAY GAUGGEL

Alice Ward Circle of First United Methodist Church met Tuesday in Lamar Memorial Garden Room of Kings Manor, with 20 members present.

Called to order by Mrs. Claude McGowan and opened by a devotional by Mrs. C.S. Pryor, program included a picture lesson on Women's Place in World of Today by Mrs. Ellen Lloyd. This was followed by a litany read by Mrs. Vera Pickens, listing famous women and their work for the uplift of women over the world. A short business session followed, closing with repeating the Lord's Prayer.

Mr. Hugh Smith has been gone about two weeks to visit a son at Ruidoso, N.M. a son and daughter in Wilcox, Ariz. and a third son in Petersburg. A daughter drove him on part of these trips.

A man who can laugh at himself will always be amused.

-News, Detroit.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1955

Beverley Packard looked apprehensive as she appeared in a feature Brand story 19 years ago on her second day of school at Central Elementary. Pinned to her dress is the number of the bus she had trouble finding.

According to the Brand headlines on Sept. 15, 1955, that week was a big one in the life of six-year-old Beverley Packard, who was experiencing her first week of school—along with 242 other Hereford youngsters.

Nineteen years later, Beverley, now Mrs. Joe Lambert, is still in a classroom, but not as a student; she now teaches kindergarten at Shirley Elementary School.

MANY THINGS have changed since that week in 1955 when a Brand reporter followed Beverley through her first week at Central School. At that time, 243 first graders were distributed between Central and Shirley schools. Now there are four more primary schools handling an average total of 380 first graders.

According to the former Brand article, Beverley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Packard, encountered "all the traditional first grade activities . . . including getting lost." At the close of opening day, the six-year-old could not locate her bus. Undaunted, she "headed for (Stanton) junior high where her 12-year-old sister, Kay, was a student." Once there, she couldn't find her sister, and the bus, after waiting several minutes, left without her. However, her mother was notified and Mrs. Packard drove to town to retrieve her missing daughter.

The story continued, "Beverley didn't let the uncaught bus bother her. Next day, her mother just pinned her bus number, 37, on her dress, and everything went off fine."

BEVERLEY CHANGED along with the local school district. In 1967, she graduated from HHS and continued her education at West Texas State University and Midwestern Junior College in Wichita Falls. She met her husband, who is now an agriculturist for Holly Sugar Corporation, while he was attending South Plains Junior College in Levelland. This is Mrs. Lambert's first year to teach.

Ironically, the former feature states, "Bev's certain that Central School has it all over Shirley," where she is now employed.

The closing paragraph of the old school article says, "Even without an apple, she (Mrs. Lambert) will make out okay!" Mrs. Lambert has "made out okay" even though she's now on the receiving end of that proverbial apple.

Beverley, now Mrs. Joe Lambert, has returned to the companionship of young pupils, whom she teaches at Shirley school. This is her first year as an employee of Hereford Independent Schools.

Mrs. Garner Gives Program To Club

Mrs. D.N. Garner presented the program to members of Hereford Garden Club at their first meeting of the new club year Friday at Hereford Garden Club Center.

Mrs. Garner outlined upcoming projects and presented new club yearbooks. This year's theme for study is versatile growing and arranging.

The arrangement of the day was made by Mrs. R.L. Ethridge. It featured vegetables that grow here.

Three new club members were recognized. They included Mmes. Edgar Lemons, W.L. Albright and Aaron Hutto.

During the business meeting, Mrs. O.G. Hill Sr., president, announced that a plant bank will be held Sept. 21 at Garden Center beginning at 10 a.m. The bank will sell plants, bulbs, rosins, and tubers with proceeds going to civic projects of beautification. All new gardeners are invited to view the new landscape gardens at the center.

Mrs. R.L. Wilson is chairman of this project.

Mrs. W.H. Hromas said that the club would again sponsor its annual bizarre expecting a good variety of materials for sale. Place and time will be announced at a later date.

Mrs. Hill announced the following roster of events: Woman's Forum of Deaf Smith County to be held Sept. 30 at Community Center, Texas Garden Club's Annual Fall board meeting in Lubbock Oct. 21-23 with headquarters at Red Raider Motel, board meeting for District 1 of Texas Garden Club at Garden Forum Oct. 29 and North Zone District 1 gardeners meet in Pampa Nov. 7 with Mrs. John Jacobsen in charge.

Schedules for the Oct. 11 flower show were distributed by Mrs. Art Manjeot. The show will be held in Reddy Room of Southwestern Public Service building.

Mrs. Manjeot named all committee chairmen and defined their duties. Club members discussed awards for the show. Three divisions will be recognized. They include horticulture, artistic and junior. Examples of each division were analyzed and evaluated on a scale for points for judging.

Mmes. Norvell, Childers and Johnson were hostesses and served zucchini squash sandwiches and Mrs. Newsom provided rose centerpieces.

ON TAX REFORM

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield reports that Congress can't pass tax reform or health insurance bills this year but should stand ready to cope with an economic situation that "has all the earmarks of the 1930s."

NO MAGIC ANSWER

Budget Director Roy Ash has warned Americans against expecting a magic answer to inflation to come out of this month's economic summit meetings.

DAR Urges Observance Of Constitution Week

Mayor James Sears signed a proclamation Friday declaring the week of Sept. 17-23 as Constitution Week in Hereford, citing the 187th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States.

The National observance of the event is actively supported by Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), who annually recognize the patriotic date.

Chairman of Constitution Week activities is Mrs. Earl

Holt, who said, "The tremendous growth of our nation is proof of the greatness of the Constitution under which we live. We hope local residents will know and respect the historical document and will observe Constitution Week." Assisting Mrs. Holt is Mrs. J.R. Johnson and Mrs. Charlie Bell.

The Constitution was adopted Sept. 17, 1787, ratified June 21, 1788 and brought into effect March 4, 1789. The bill proposing Constitution week as a national observance was introduced on Jan. 5, 1956 by Senator William F. Knowland to the Senate. The resolution was adopted July 23 that year and signed into law on Aug. 2.

College To Sponsor FM Radio Station

The Amarillo College Radio-TV Department has received notification from the Federal Communications Commission to proceed with operational plans for a Class C, FM educational radio station. Announcement was made Sept. 7 in a telegram from Wallace E. Johnson, chief of the Broadcast Bureau of the FCC. Allen Shifrin, Radio-TV Department chairperson, said a list of call letters will be submitted to the FCC for approval. "We can begin putting in equipment and readying the transmitter given us by KGNC," said Shifrin. "We also can plan a tentative radio schedule." Programming for the station will include classical music and educational programs when ready to sign on. "The station also will be used for instructional purposes in the Radio-TV program, giving students an opportunity to actually run the FM station," Shifrin said. "The station will be on the air from 10 a.m. until midnight and will begin broadcasting 'hopefully in January,'" he said. Additional plans include applying for membership in the National Public Radio which provide hours of programming in news analysis and in-depth reports, book reviews and concerts, among others. Arrangements will be made to go before the AC Board of Regents for final planning.

Guides Suggested For Men's Styles

by Joyce Shipp

MEN'S suits can be dressed up or down, just as women's can. Appropriate accessories can make one basic suit in a neutral color serve for work, parties or casual events. We're suggesting some guides in choosing accessories: — Select those that change the personality of the suit. This means more than simply removing a tie to look more casual. Colors and patterns are the keys. — Bold, contrasting, sport shirts, sweater vests, or country shirts give a sporty or leisure look to a blazer suit. — Pale colored dress shirts, boudoir ties, and harmonizing patterns dress up the same suit for a more businesslike look. — Choose shoes, hats and jewelry that add to the total look and complete the personality change.

WHEN talking about food shopping, good recipes always come to mind. We'd like to share a good pie crust recipe with you. This crust is especially good with refrigerator-type pie fillings. Becky Owens was kind enough to share it with us and says that it's one of her favorites.

PIE CRUST
1 stick oleo
¾ c. flour
½ c. oats
½ c. chopped pecans
2 T. sugar
Melt oleo and mix with dry ingredients. Pat into 9" pie pan. Bake 400 degrees F. for 12-15 minutes, or until golden brown.

SPEAKING of good recipes, we've certainly come across several the past few days. We've been fortunate enough to be able to attend some of the HD Club luncheons. Good food and different recipes are a part of these luncheons. Mrs. Jimmie Middleton, from the Dawn HD Club, shared this delicious recipe with us.

SINCE we're spending most of our time this month talking about menswear, let's turn our attention to the woman of the house and see what she can do to be an efficient food shopper. What kind of food shopper are you? Do you fight your way through the store, having a miserable time—or do you look forward to the shopping trip? Good planning is the key to making food shopping a pleasant experience rather than a chore.

The shopper who thinks of it as a chore is usually the one who spends the longest time in the store and the most money on unneeded items. The best aid to efficient grocery shopping is to make a list before you go. Arranging the list in the same order as the foods appear in the store is a real time and money saver. If you know what you need and where to find it, you won't spend your shopping time looking on all the aisles for just a few items. You'll arrive home with the foods you need—for the money you expected to spend.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT
1 c. flour
¼ c. brown sugar
½ c. pecans
2 egg whites
1 c. sugar
½ c. oleo
2 T. lemon juice
2 c. frozen strawberries
1 c. whipping cream
Mix flour, brown sugar, pecans and oleo. Put in 9"x13"x2" dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Remove and cool. Save back one-third of the pastry mixture.

In mixer (at high speed) beat 2 egg whites until sugar dissolves (about 10 minutes.) Add 2 T. lemon juice and 2 c. strawberries. Turn speed down and beat until fluffy and pink (20 minutes.) Whip cream and fold into strawberry mixture. Pour over crust. Sprinkle rest of pastry mixture on top. Freeze.

Public Invited To Open House At Northwest

The public is invited to attend a "get acquainted" open house at Northwest Elementary School from 7:30 - 9 p.m. Tuesday, according to Charles Duvall, principal. The open house is designed for parents and other interested residents to meet the school's faculty and view samples of students' work. Also, Parent Teacher Organization (PTO) officers will be elected.

One-time Hereford girl, Mary Lynn Gibson Mabray, has been named director of public relations for Houston's answer to New York's Broadway musical shows: Theatre Under The Stars. Mrs. Mabray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur D. Gibson of 122 Liveoak, was "considered the perfect candidate" for the TSTS organization due to her previous experience as a performer in the musical vocal field as well as her credits as a promising young writer. Formerly affiliated with Bruce Advertising in Houston, as assistant public relations director, she is also a freelance writer. Theatre Under The Stars, a non-profit organization, is the brainchild of Frank M. Young who has succeeded in bringing free, live entertainment to the stage to reach the culturally deprived in the Houston area. Two musicals, free to the general public, are put on each year during the summer season in the outdoor theatre in Hermann Park. Not only is this entertainment some of the best available in the state, but it is an unusually elaborate display of talent and technique. It also gives young dramatic aspirants a chance at some very valuable experience.

Herd Is Better; Dons Win 27-14

By DAN WELTY
Sports Editor

A seemingly new edition of the Hereford Whitefaces took to the field in Dick Bivins Stadium Thursday night, playing heads-up football with Amarillo's Palo Duro Dons until the final minute of the game, finally bowing to the stronger Dons 27-14.

Coach Larry Dippel's charges were trying to recover from a stunning 35-8 loss last week to the Pampa Harvesters. The Dons seemed to be taking the game lightly, considering their talent, and the final score was not indicative of the style of play on the field.

The Dons scored on their first possession, and it was not until midway in the second quarter that Hereford put any points on the board. The Dons carried a 14-6 advantage to the dressing room at the half, but Hereford tied the score at 14-14 shortly after the second half got underway.

The score remained tied until midway in the fourth quarter when Hereford's Terry Bell went to the sidelines with a cramped leg, and Hereford seemed to lose all enthusiasm. The Dons quickly added two scores to end the contest 27-14.

Hereford lost six fumbles to Pampa last week, and only gave up one fumble to the Dons Thursday night. But near-fumbles cost the Herd valuable yardage when juggling for the ball let the Don defense break through and sack the Herd quarterback.

The Hereford aerial attack was not up to par, with signal caller Mike Crim completing only two of twelve attempts. Although the air game was the best part of the Hereford offense in spring training, the pressure of the game seems to have thrown it out of kilt.

Allowing the Dons to make first downs in long yardage situations was another sore spot in the Hereford defense. On several occasions the Dons broke through for first downs after being held to short yardage the first to play.

Doug Charest led the Hereford ground movement, carrying 14 times for 105 yards. He also received an ankle injury late in the game, and Dippel is not sure how serious the injury might be.

Overall, the Dons netted 336 yards, 317 rushing and 19 passing. Hereford totaled only 136 yards, with 121 on the ground and 15 in the air. The Dons were ahead in the first down race, leading Hereford 19-12.

The Dons, boasting the fastest backfield in the district and picked to win 3-AAAA, were led by the rushing of Greg Sellmyer, who totaled 108 yards on 22 carries. David Beezley carried 13 times for 103 yards and Rodney Towner was 14 carries for 94 yards.

Seller put the Dons on the board first with a four yard run up the middle for a score. It was Palo Duro's first possession with the play originating on Palo Duro's own 26-yard line. Key runs by Sellmyer and running mate David Beezley moved the ball downfield in 12 plays, with Sellmyer capping the drive. The kick added one point to put the Dons ahead 7-0 with 7:29 left in the first quarter.

Dave Charest put points on the board for Hereford with a 1 yard touchdown that wrapped up a 7-play series. Brother Doug Charest had moved the Herd to within scoring range with a 26 yard run up the middle to the 17. The two-point conversion that would have put the Herd ahead failed and the Dons led 7-6.

Palo Duro added seven more points before the half was over when Rodney Towner found running room up the middle and scampered 41 yards to the end zone. Hereford went to the field house behind 14-6 at the half.

Hereford's first possession of the second half turned into gold after the Hereford defense stopped the Dons on a fourth down situation at the Palo Duro 38-yard line. Ten plays later Doug Charest carried the ball across the goal stripe from only inches out. Charest, one play before, had caught a 10-yard Mike Crim pass at the goal line but was dragged down by Don defenders before the score. One play earlier than that saw Ronnie Ohlig scoop a pass up in the end zone, but officials ruled it incomplete.

Crim completed a two point conversion with a toss to Mike Munnerlyn and tied the score at 14-14 with 7:31 left in the third quarter.

Midway in the fourth quarter, end Terry Bell left the game with leg cramps and the loss seemed to deflate Hereford. Four plays later, the Hereford defense let the Dons break another big play when David Beezley went 35 yards for a score. Dippel said Friday morning Bell would probably be back in action against Borger next Friday night.

Hereford never got out of their own territory for the duration of the game, and a fumble by Mike Crim turned the ball over to the Dons on the Hereford 25 on the next series of plays.

Palo Duro moved the ball downfield and got by the Hereford defense for a first down in a three and long-yardage situation. Rodney Towner capped the drive with a one-yard run to wrap up the scoring. The final score was 27-14.

Hereford has a no win-two loss record and travels to Borger to meet the Bulldogs Friday night. Borger has been rated among the top teams in District 3-AAAA.

AAU Boxing Sets Practice

The AAU Junior Olympic boxing program will begin a new season this week with the beginning of practice sessions for the Hereford Boxing Club.

Sponsor Harold Wheeler, urges all boys interested in boxing in the program to report to the Bull Barn Tuesday, Sept. 17 at 6 p.m. when the first practice session will begin.

The boxing club will practice five nights a week from that date throughout the season.

The first bouts for the club will be Oct. 5 when they will travel to Muleshoe. Clubs represented at that meet will include Hereford, Levelland, Olton and Muleshoe. Another set of bouts is scheduled for Oct. 11 at the Bull Barn. Amarillo, Plainview, Olton and Hereford clubs will be boxing that night.

More than 75 boys participated in the program last season and Wheeler has purchased a bus for the club to use for transportation to and from meets.

Benefit Set By OS Ranch

POST—Olin Young of Peralta, N. M., newly crowned 1974 world champion, will head a field of 32 of the nation's top steer ropers from five states competing in the fourth annual O. S. Ranch Benefit Steer Roping near here Sunday afternoon, Sept. 29, for a cash jackpot of about $15,000.

Young who won the recent National Steer Roping Finals in Laramie, Wyo., has earned an all-time record of $12,416 in Rodeo Cowboy Association sanctioned steer roping events this year.

Ten of the top 16 steer ropers in 1974 money winnings will be in the field.

An estimated 100 roping teams, 40 invited calf ropers, and 50 or more women's barrel racers will compete Saturday, Sept. 28 in the ranch's big roping arena in the first day of the OS benefit, all proceeds of which go to West Texas Boys Ranch

Sophomore on the Run

Sophomore back Roy Martinez has the ball and speeds toward the goal as Palo Duro defenders close in. Martinez is one of two sophomores chosen to play on the varsity squad. He carried the ball six times for 25 yards Thursday night.

Early Teal Hunt This Week

Recent cool spells which brought rains to the parched Texas Panhandle have also pushed the season's first migrant teal and pintails into the state.

The pintails won't be legal for a while but an early teal-only season is set for Sept. 14-22 across the state.

Texas has a resident population of teal which produces some young each year.

The Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Bob West of Canyon in the Panhandle says that most of the resident birds in his area are cinnamon teal and despite dry conditions this spring and summer, some of the more stable playa lakes in the area did host local teal and their brood.

"We had a fair crop of young this year," said West, "and I look to a good season."

"But with all the rain lately the birds will be scattered.

DAN WELTY

WE TOLD YOU last week that we're not trying to hurry the ski season. But we might change our minds after hearing reports of up to eight inches of snow this week in parts of Colorado.

The last 10 days of summer have turned into wintry days in high country and there is talk of ski-lifts opening much sooner than usual.

We knew we could trust that old Indian prophet when he said there would be snow this winter.

AND ANOTHER PROPHECY we have come to believe is named Larry Dippel. At Noon Kiwanis Thursday, Dippel said the Herd would look much better than they did against Pampa. They did look better, and we think Dippel pointed out the reasons why to the Kiwanians.

He mentioned momentum and that if Hereford could get some of it, they could play right along with Palo Duro. They did get some momentum, and if you didn't know better, you'd think it was a completely different team than what we saw against Pampa.

Dippel also used the word "overcoached." This literally means that the players have had so much instruction that they can't organize all of it in their minds. Dippel said the Herd would back off against Palo Duro and try to use more basic plays, and by golly... it worked.

Because of these and several other points, our belief that the game of football is as much psychological as it is physical was more than reaffirmed.

Larry Dippel must have a magic ingredient that brings out that enthusiasm in his players, and as far as we're concerned... he can keep on using it.

HATS OFF TO the Big Red Band From Hustlin' Land. Sitting in the enclosed press box all the way across Amarillo's stadium, we could hear the Big Red Band strike up. Not so with the blue and white band.

Randy Vaughn and the 160 band members will be working hard throughout the season to keep spirits high while the Herd is on the gridiron.

A RECENT CONFLICT of interest came to our attention. Mrs. Gary Goodin, whose maiden name was Lily Koesjan, was not only a Palo Duro cheerleader herself, but her younger sister was head cheerleader for the Dons Thursday night.

Reminds me of last year when our alma mater, Caprock, met Hereford, my fiancee's alma mater, in a bi-district football game. But come to think of it, wouldn't mind if it happened again this year.

THE HARRIS RATING poll summary that usually appears in our Thursday edition was not there this week due to Uncle Sam's ever-efficient postal system.

IT'S THAT BUSYTIME of year for sports enthusiasts when you have a variety of chores to do. Should you clean up the fishing rods before winter storage or clean up your guns for hunting season? Should you winterize the outboard or wax the bottoms of your snow skis?

Armchair enthusiasts have a choice of college football, pro football (NFL, WFL, and Canadian), baseball, and believe it or not, it's almost time for the NBA and ABA to start playing again.

SEVERAL EVENTS coming in the next day or two. Booster Club meets Tuesday night in the high school auditorium. Coach Dippel always shows the game film and one of his assistants gives a scouting report on the week's opponent.

Guests this week at Booster Club will include all three teams from the Stanton Junior High.

Coming up this afternoon is a Scotch Foursome presented by the Women's Golf Association. Call pro Cal Garret for full details. Tee-off is set for 4:30.

Almost Over

A view down the sidelines at the Hereford bench in the closing minutes of Thursday night's loss to Palo Duro registers different emotions on the faces of the players.

WINTERIZING YOUR BOAT

could be a headache, but a necessary headache. Before you store that ski-boat or fishing rig, have the engine checked by a qualified mechanic so that you don't end up with a frozen and busted outboard next spring.

The Parks and Wildlife people pass along these words of wisdom about wooden boats. The best time to make sure your boat is in good shape is during the snow-storms this winter.

Check for dry rot, worm damage, fatigue or flexing, rusted or corroded fastenings along chine or in transom, split or cracked planking or soft spot or dark color along frames and keel inside hull.

Boat owners can test for rot by probing with an awl or ice pick, and they can also sound for "dull" spots which indicate unsound wood by tapping with a hammer.

Owners of plywood boats should look for delamination of the wood layers in addition to the conditions mentioned above. Wooden boats should be cleaned and painted periodically with anti-fouling paint, especially in waters where marine growth quickly accumulates. Department officials remind boaters that frequent maintenance helps prevent disastrous hull failure.

WORLD SERIES time just around the corner is almost as magical as Christmas time. Many sins are forgiven during this week in October that normally wouldn't be passed over.

Our favorite along these lines is told by an English teacher who was instructing an eighth grade literature class at the high school in Panhandle.

On this particular day, the class was told to study at their desks. Quiet prevailed, but the teacher noticed one of the school's athletes wasn't concentrating on the books in front of him. She maneuvered around the room and caught sight of a transistor earphone in his ear.

with the wire running down into the neckline of his shirt and to a concealed radio. It was no doubt tuned to the World Series.

The teacher decided to let the incident pass without comment. But the student got carried away with the excitement of the game only he could hear and jumped from his desk to split the silence with a deafening cheer for his team.

TANIA WILLSON

Honors Won at Playday

Tania Willson, 12-year-old member of the Deaf Smith County 4-H Horse Club, received a buckle and was named the "All Around Young Junior CowGirl" of the Muleshoe 4-H Playday, Saturday, Sept. 7. She won the title with a total of 19 points.

Competition was in six events, which included halter, western pleasure, poles, flag race, barrels and goat race. Tania placed in five of the six events. She is competing on horses formerly owned by Jo and Renee Poarch of Hereford. Tania attended Lynn Poarch's Horse School this past summer and received all of her basic instructions and horse care procedures. Lynn and Mrs. Norene Poarch are still instructing and helping Tania with her horses.

Tania is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Willson and is a seventh grade student at La Plata Junior High.

Allyn Rowland, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jigger Rowland, won first place in halter and western pleasure. Allyn is a freshman at La Plata Junior High.

Back To The Land

A feature story appearing in a number of daily newspapers recently points out that there is a movement to return to the land in this country, the reason being that many of those doing so fear an impending social collapse.

One example, a man named Larry Lewis of Vermont, bought some land instead of a car. On the land, Lewis intends to grow his own food, produce his own power and live his own life, independent of what he called "the system."

Another man, a New Jersey chiropractor, pulled up stakes two years ago and moved from a 33-room house to a large, rustic farmhouse in West Virginia.

He explained, "We felt an imminent depression and foresaw food shortages." Now the family lives on 80 rolling acres and produces 90 per cent of its own food and is working on ways to develop power.

The chiropractor said the family has replaced its previous "heavy social life" by reading aloud, making ice cream and playing guitar with friends.

Both of these examples, and probably others, have one thing in common. They brought money with them when they went to the farm.

There is a lot of difference between retiring to 80 acres of rolling land with the secure knowledge that there is money in the bank to prepare the land and install the conveniences that make rural living so nice and scratching out a living on this land.

This is not a bona fide return to the land as farmers understand it. These are gentlemen farmers who do not intend to break sweat to grow crops. Neither does their living depend upon what they grow. It is more like a hobby.

Sometimes, when city people get tired of the traffic or the crime news gets too heavy or other problems of the day seem too much to cope with, there is a temptation to shuck it all and rush off to the peaceful countryside.

On those days, the home made ice cream and the guitar strumming and such look mighty good.

This is mainly daydreaming, however. Life on the farm is much more than sitting under a tree, munching a wisp of hay. Even with modern air conditioned tractors and power take-off implements, there are long hours and plenty of hard work to be done if farming is to be successful.

There may be some farms where the owner plows with a team of mules and avoids a fuel bill, but this conception of farm life is about as up to date as the conception of small town living centering around the ice cream parlor.

Looking at Texas Business

Rapid Rate of Inflation Stirs Up Depression Talk

Seated in the Petroleum Club atop the First National Bank Building in Dallas last week, a group of Texas oilmen and a guest suddenly turned the conversation toward a serious topic — the chances of another Great Depression.

The subject is one, of course, that is approached with great reluctance. People who lived through the Depression are often reluctant to talk about it at all. And businessmen, understanding that blind panic is one of the ingredients that can bring on a major financial disaster, guard their comments, not wanting to encourage any Chicken Littles ("The sky is falling!") who may be listening.

But prospects for a Depression of the 1970s is very much a live topic these days. A younger member of the Dallas Petroleum Club group revealed that he had recently checked three books about the Great Depression of the 1930s out of a local library, just to read up on what happened. (One of the best references is Studs Terkel's "Hard Times" published in 1970 by Pantheon Books.)

Dr. Arthur Smith, a columnist and former chief economist of the First National Bank in Dallas, has some views about the possibility of another depression that don't relieve anyone's anxiety. Smith believes that a severe recession or even an economic depression is very much a possibility, and soon.

The nation's rapid rate of inflation is what bothers Smith. With prices shooting upward, more and more consumers will be dropping out of the market for goods and services, even in crucial areas like food, clothing and transportation. This could severely depress business activity, throwing huge numbers of people out of work. (About one-third of the American labor force was out of work in late 1931.)

Smith blames federal deficits. He says that the federal government pours money into the economy but produces nothing. "More dollars are turned loose to chase the same amount of goods and services," he says.

Rather than a tax cut, as has been talked about from time to time in some political circles, Smith favors a tax increase. Perhaps this would act as a damper on our inflation-plagued economy, he suggests.

The type of consumer complaints that are most frequently encountered by the Texas Attorney General's office depends on where you live, says Joe K. Longley, head of the consumer protection division.

He divides the state into two areas by drawing a horizontal line that runs through Temple.

Below the line, his office deals more with what Longley calls "working class fraud" (car repairs, land problems and mobile home sales). Above the line, the biggest problems turn on "white collar fraud" (franchise purchases, mail order schemes, and larger land deals).

At the top of the list is car repairs, says Longley. "Generally, we've had the most problems with transmission companies," he says. "If you're going to file one of these cases, you need expert testimony to determine if the right part was put in or if a part was ever put in. And such companies' sales techniques are somewhat subtle, too."

The Texas shrimp market is depressed, a consequence of bulging warehouses in Japan.

Trouble started with the energy crisis, says Texas shrimp marketing specialist Bill Schwartz. At that point, Japan, the world's leading shrimp market (the U.S. is second), was paying 50 cents per pound over the U.S. domestic price and buying all it could get. But energy shortages further fueled Japan's raging inflation, cutting into demand, and now the island country has a shrimp glut.

"In addition," says Schwartz, "with rising food prices, American housewives started passing shrimp by and stopped impulse buying. This hurt us in the supermarkets. And less travel has hurt the restaurant business and therefore the shrimp market."

Texas shrimp processors' prices are down about a dollar a pound. (For the housewife, the smaller shrimp are currently the best buy.)

One of the hottest land sales areas in Texas during recent years has been around the new Dallas/Fort Worth Regional Airport. Now, warnings are going out to land investors.

People who buy blindly may be hurt, cautions Kenneth M. Good, president of Dallas Good Financial Corp. He says that it is a mistake to assume that "all land within 10 miles of the airport will be commercial or industrial, or to assume that development will absorb the bulk of the presently vacant land."

Good defines the affected areas as including about 285 square miles around the huge airport, located 17 miles northwest of Dallas. Only 20 to 25 per cent of this land, says Good, will be developed within the next 10 years. Most of this is already held by developers he says.

A $2 billion loss for Texas farmers and ranchers? That is the prediction from Texas Agriculture Commissioner John White, and his predictions have a way of coming true.

The drought — in White's view — has resulted in these losses: $500 million in cotton, $200 million in wheat, $250 million in grain sorghum, and $1 billion in livestock. If White is right, and he was right on the nose in predicting $6.4 billion in ag income last year, the state's farm income will drop to $4.4 billion this year.

Recently, rains have fallen generally over the state. But for many farmers, they were a crop late and a bucket short.

QUICK CHECKS:

□ Prior to January, 1974, 872 oil and gas wells had been drilled off Texas shores, a poor second to Louisiana's 13,773.

□ At the end of July, Texas cities had the nation's cheapest gasoline prices. According to "The Oil and Gas Journal," the Texas check points were the only ones reporting prices for regular under 50 cents a gallon.

□ The Texas unemployment rate averaged 4 per cent for the first six months of '74, down one per cent from the national rate.

□ Nonresidential construction rose 25 per cent during the first six months of '74, but homebuilding continued to drop.

Talk of Texas

By Jack Maguire

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — Had he chosen to do so, Stephen F. Austin could have made himself dictator over the colonists he brought to Texas.

The Mexican government gave empresarios like Austin enormous powers along with their grants of land. They had the right to appoint all officials of the colony without any election. In Austin's case, he was specifically permitted to write all of the laws governing the settlements, and he could change them at will.

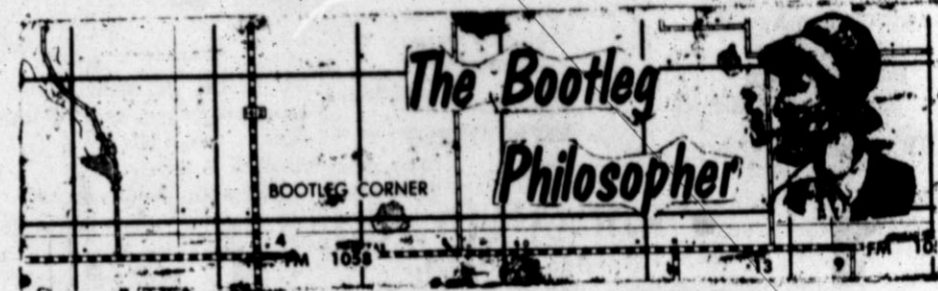

Mexico not only regarded Austin as the political head of the colony but its military governor as well. He was commissioned a lieutenant colonel in the Army of Mexico with all powers of that rank. No settler could enter the colony without his permission and he could evict them as easily as he could admit them.

In practice, however, Austin exercised few of his dictatorial powers. He allowed the settlements to elect their own officials, then left to them most of the administration.

CORRECTING THE HISTORIANS — Contrary to legend Luling, Caldwell County, was not named for an early-day Chinese laundry owner named Lu Ling.

Stephen J. Flood, director of industrial development for the community, writes "Talk of Texas" that the town took its name from a pioneer resident who had immigrated there from Germany.

INVENTORS AT WORK — There's a good reason why an aging Volkswagen in Burkburnett bears a license plate with the legend:

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his nearby grass farm on Bootleg Corner is back on inflation again this week.

Dear editor:

Inflation reminds me of a famous statement — I forget who made it — about unemployment: "When you have high unemployment a lot of people are out of work." When you have run-away inflation you're in for some awfully high prices.

That's all I know about it, but what intrigues me is the attack that's going to be made on this world-wide problem. As I understand it, 700 of the "best brains in the United States" are what to do about it, all wearing belts I guess so they can tighten them.

I'm not interested at this point in their answers which will range from less spending to more spending, from higher taxes to lower taxes, to stiff wage and price controls to no wage and price controls, but I am interested in finding out who those 700 people are with the best brains in the country.

For instance, will they be selected on a geographic basis? I "Steam 1." It's the first automobile in the U.S., steam-powered or otherwise, to meet the strict new emission standards set by the government.

In fact "Steam 1" could be the car of the future. Its developers, Jay Carter, Sr., and his son, Jay, Jr., hope so.

The steamer runs on almost any kind of fuel — coal tar, kerosene, diesel fuel, alcohol and even gasoline. It cruises at 50, has a top speed of 90 and gets about 22 miles to the gallon of whatever fuel it is burning. And unlike the conventional engine, this one burns every drop of fuel.

The Carters don't plan to build the car for the market. However, they hope that some automobile manufacturer will.

TRAVELING TEXAS — San Antonio boasts the oldest brewery in the state. It was built in 1881 and still is in operation.

Texas' first brewery also was in the Alamo city. William Menger, who built the hotel that still operates under his name, began making beer in 1855. Most of his product was consumed by guests in his inn.

PECULIAR POLL TAX — In the 1890's, voters in Quanah, Hardeman County, sometimes resorted to unique documents to prove their residence.

If they were not property owners, they could prove their right to vote by producing a slip from a local laundry. If the slip showed that the voter had his shirts washed at least six weeks before the election, he was regarded as a citizen.

mean, will they pick the best brains in say a congressional district or so many per state or will they rub out such lines and just pick the best 700 brains in the whole country? Will it be by professions? Will it include football coaches? Congressmen? And who's going to do the picking?

IT'S NOT GOING to be easy. For example how would you go about picking the best brain in Hereford? What if there's more than one? What if there aren't any? What if you pick the best brain in the whole country and he can't go to the meeting because he's busy trying to cover an over-draft?

And furthermore, if those 700 top brains have the answer to inflation, how come they've been keeping it to themselves for the last 24 months? Or have they been thinking so hard they didn't know chewing gum is now 15 cents a package, gasoline 55 cents a gallon and sugar $2.60 pound?

As I see it, the cure for inflation is lower prices, if you're buying, not if you're selling.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Main Street, U.S.A.

BY BERT MILLS

Recycling of materials and products is an idea millions of Americans have embraced as they became aware of the environmental crisis but the shocking fact is the U.S. today recycles a lower percentage of its resources than ever before in history.

The Environmental Protection Agency estimates that the U.S. consumes about 190 million tons a year of products subject to recycling. Only about 48 million tons — about one-quarter — is recycled. The rest is wasted.

Percentages of key materials that are salvaged and reused are as follows: copper and lead 50; iron and steel 31; rubber 26; paper 19; aluminum 18; glass and textiles 4.

Almost all this salvaged waste comes from manufacturers and other business concerns. There is a well-established secondary materials industry which boasts annual sales of $8 billion and employs 80,000 people. In addition to salvaged waste, this industry recovers a large amount of scrap left over from the manufacturing process and recycles it at the plant of origin.

Communities from coast to coast collect, at great expense to the public, another 125 million tons of solid waste each year. "Unfortunately," EPA has noted, "almost nothing is salvaged once it is in the garbage can." It costs too much to separate wastes, purify them, and reprocess them into usable materials.

EPA HAS undertaken to tell the public how concerned citizens can help the recycling cause. It has published a new pamphlet called "Recycling and the Consumer". Single copies are available free by writing Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

"Separation at the source" — meaning keeping household waste out of the garbage can — is the key. This is an old story to many Americans, who have been saving newspapers for Boy Scout collections, or contributing old clothes to charity organizations.

Among the barriers to recycling are the life-long habits of Americans. Our national affluence as compared to most other countries has made us a throwaway society. Almost everything we buy comes in a package, with the wrappings intended to be discarded.

The Federal Government is doing many things to encourage recycling, such as changing specifications for materials and products purchased. If enough citizens back the program, a better America is a certain result.

LEGAL NOTICE PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Harold Kriegshauser Dairy, Route 3, Hereford, Texas 79045, has applied to the Texas Water Quality Board for a permit pertaining to a variable amount of rainfall runoff water containing wastes from the dairy (120 head) which is located adjacent to FM Road 1259, approximately three (3) miles east of Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas. The rainfall runoff water containing wastes will be retained and utilized for irrigation. There will be no discharge to the surface waters in the State. A public hearing on this application will be held in the Conference Room C, Municipal Building, 509 E. 7th Street, Amarillo, Texas, 10:00 a.m. - October 16, 1974 to receive evidence on the conditions, if any, under which the permit may be issued, and to determine whether State Certification in accordance with Section 401 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972 may be issued. Preliminary information available to the staff of the Texas Water Quality Board indicates that a waste discharge conforming to the conditions shown in the Fact Sheet would not unreasonably impair the quality of waters in the State. Additional data will be developed at the hearing, but further technical information concerning any specific aspect of the discharge, if available, can be obtained by writing the Texas Water Quality Board, P.O. Box 13246, Capital Station, Austin, Texas 78711. S-11-1c

SHERIFF'S SALE THE STATE OF TEXAS COUNTY OF DEAF SMITH

By virtue of an Order of Sale issued out of the Honorable 69th Judicial District Court of Deaf Smith County on the 29 day of August, A.D. 1974, by the Clerk thereof, in the case of STATE OF TEXAS, DEAF SMITH COUNTY, HEREFORD INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT and CITY OF HEREFORD VS. WESLEY HIGH, Cause No. 6736, and to me, as Sheriff, directed and delivered, I will proceed to sell, with the hours prescribed by law for Sheriff's sales, on the FIRST TUESDAY in October, A.D., 1974, it being the 1st day of said month before the Court house door of said Deaf Smith County in the City of Hereford, Texas, the following described property, to-wit:

All that certain lot, tract, or parcel of land more particularly described as all that certain Lot 3, Block 3, Meachem Sub-division of Block 16, Mabry Addition to the town of Hereford, Deaf Smith County, Texas.

Levied on this 3 day of Sept., 1974, as the property of WESLEY HIGH to satisfy a judgment amounting to $523.28 with interest from the 27 day of February, 1974, at 6 per cent per annum and all cost of suit, in favor of State of Texas, Deaf Smith County, Hereford Independent School District and City of Hereford.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND this 3 day of September, A.D., 1974. Travis McPherson Sheriff, Deaf Smith County, Texas S-10-3c

Local 4-H Center Is Reached

Deaf Smith County has attained its objective of $3,000 the goal to be the county's part in the $1.5 - million cost of a Texas 4-H Center.

This was the word this week from Justin McBride, Deaf Smith County Agriculture Agent.

The center is one of two goals this year in Texas 4-H work according to McBride. The other is the involvement of 250,000 young people in the 4-H program. There are 2.5 - million potential 4-H Club members in the Lone Star state and he noted that 250 of these live in Deaf Smith County.

Counties that have not as yet raised their quota of the cost of the center are now in fund-raising campaigns as a part of the effort to complete the center this year.

The multi-unit facility is now under construction on a 78 acre tract at Lake Brownwood, which is as near centrally located as possible since the nearby city of Brownwood is only 26 miles from the exact geographic center of the state.

In addition to providing a site for summer youth camps, the facility will be used for other educational programs as well as the adult training program for Texas youth workers.

Some 20 states now have such year-round 4-H centers.

McBride said the present program in Texas will have to be greatly expanded to meet the goal of reaching the youth potential in the state. Many new approaches to involving people will have to be used and that will require more leaders, 40,000 will be needed. It is the lot of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to provide new programs and train adequate leaders to implement them. The state 4-H center will be a vital tool in this.

Tom Davison is the 4-H and youth specialist of the extension service working with T. Lewis Austin, Dallas utilities executive, who is chairman of the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation responsible for the development program for the center.

Grain Directors Set Meeting

The annual meeting of stockholders in Hereford Grain Corp. is set for Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Bull Barn.

The meeting is to be combined with a barbeque dinner according to Joe Artho, company official.

Artho noted it would be a significant meeting in that it is the first since notes were paid off and burned at the annual conclave last year. He said company shareholders, officials and personnel operating the grain firm on Loop 211, south of Highway 60, working as a team had paid off all indebtedness just 20 years after the venture was started.

TEXAS BUSINESS

by Dudley Lynch

By DUDLEY LYNCH

The latest word on Christmas is that we'll all be buying long and selling short — and nobody has any choice in the matter.

The "short" end of the equation involves this year's Christmas shopping season, the shortest since 1968. There are only 23 shopping days between Thanksgiving and Christmas this year. Most merchants will launch their Christmas pushes several days before the traditional "Day After Thanksgiving," and prudent shoppers will begin even earlier, since shortages are expected to hit Texas merchants in many areas, especially toys.

As for the "long" element, it has to do with prices. Nearly everything will cost more this year, and some purchases in common areas like jewelry, housewares and "gift shop" items will average as much as 25 per cent above 1973 prices.

One distributor attending the annual late summer Gift, Jewelry and Housewares Show at Dallas Market Center noted the items containing steel, wood and cotton have increased most. But Al Cohen added, "All products have increased because of freight and labor increases."

While shortages are almost general in the U.S. economy at this point, one potentially troublesome category for those of us with children is toys. "There's going to be shortages," says G.C. Knott, manager of Dallas' Toy World. "That's especially true of higher quality and better selling toys."

Knott doesn't know how severe the shortage will be. But his store is getting only half of what it orders on some items and is finding imports often impossible to get.

Texas toy merchants say there is no trendy toy this year. Customers are buying "staple toys," the kind that sell well from year to year. And they are buying early for Christmas. Says Knott, "Our lay-aways are up and we are already selling toys in Christmas wrappings. People are probably buying early because of the short Christmas season and also because they may be trying to avoid price increases."

IF YOU are wondering what a depression would do to your business, you might look up a homebuilder in your area and ask.

Authorized residential construction in Texas dropped 25 per cent from comparable '73 levels during the first seven months of 1974. The Bureau of Business Research at Texas U. recorded a seasonally adjusted index for residential units of 78.5, the lowest index recorded since February, 1967.

In the metropolitan areas, the biggest declines came in one-family units and apartments. Outside the metro areas, the declines were more moderate in those areas, and in one category — duplexes — there was a startling 88 per cent increase in new units authorized.

The average cost of a new house in Texas' largest cities is approaching $40,000. There are Doubting Thomases around who are talking about the end to any dreams of a new house or even a new car (see following item) for vast numbers of the American Middle Class, even if an eventual solution can be found to the double-digit inflation that now plagues us.

THE HIGHER prices ($450 and more) on 1975-model cars may force Texas bankers and finance company people to get in step with a growing trend in other parts of the country: the 42- and 46-month auto loan.

Already, Ford Motor Credit Corp. says that 14 per cent of its loans nationwide are for 42 months. The practice has been slow in coming to Texas, primarily because of the state's strong economy, but the steep hikes in '75 prices may speed the arrival.

The state's financial community and car dealers would rather not extend the car payments schedule. The chief reason is a matter of equity.

Explains Dan Boone, president of a Houston Oldsmobile dealership, "There are many reasons — emergencies, for instance — why a buyer may need to get rid of a new car and be free of the monthly payments. In the early stages of even a 36-month loan, the interest charges may cause a buyer to owe more than he can get for the car if he is forced to sell."

But many car dealers apparently view the longer payment schedule as inevitable.

THERE ARE Texans out there who are getting ready to meet the future. Here's a capsule account of three intriguing research projects:

(1) Dresser Industries, Dallas, has put millions of dollars the past six years into development of a new way to get gasoline into your car's engine. You use a carburetor today; tomorrow, Dresser hopes that you'll be using its Dresserator, a relatively simple device that accelerates air to supersonic speeds, thereby breaking up the fuel into a highly "burnable" fog, before sending the air-fuel mixture on to the cylinders, where it fires.

The tests of the Dresserator show that it causes car engines to emit far fewer contaminants and get better gas mileage than today's carburetors plus all that emission control equipment. It reduces the octane requirements of an engine, and it will, the Dresser people say, allow car manufacturers to return to the more economical high compression engines.

Understandably, the company's code name for the project in the early stages was Panacea. Dresser, heretofore a capital goods manufacturer for petroleum and extraction industries, has licensed Ford Motor Co. and Holley Carburetor to make the devices, but even if the big car makers aren't that interested, Dresser makes Dresserators itself for the "after" market (those cars already on the road).

(2) A major Texas-based food processor, the foods division of Anderson-Clayton, is getting ready for the disappearance of the dairy farmer. Says Robert McDonald, president of the food division, "The average dairy farmer is in his 60s. I don't know what will happen to the industry when he's gone."

McDonald suspects that there will be a shortage of dairy products. So the chemists at his company's Richardson laboratory are rushing to produce synthetic foods. They have two out now: American and mozzarella cheeses. "They're not nibbling cheese," says vice president Harold N. Keezee. "But they work fine in cooked cheese dishes."

The Anderson-Clayton chemists are also experimenting with steak, turkey, frankfurters and hamburger made from protein-rich soybeans. McDonald makes a statement that could get him hung at a meeting of the Texas Cattle Feeders Assn. "The cow is inefficient," says McDonald. "And in the long-range, it will be gone."

(3) Experimenters paved a 380-foot section of a Houston street this summer with garbage — an aggregate made up of glass from broken bottles, bottle caps, pieces of metal and blobs of melted aluminum. A layer of asphalt is placed over this to keep any jagged edges from cutting tires. If the layer holds up for three years, it could signal a far more salutary use for garbage than dumping it in landfills, says Dr. W.B. Ledbetter, a Texas A&M professor who is supervising the project.

WATCHING HAL HOLBROOK perform (superbly in this part-time critic's opinion) the other night in his TV characterization of Carl Sandberg's version of Abe Lincoln reminded me of a rumor. (Lincoln was reputedly told about a rumor once and reminded the bearer of the news about what the boarding house manager said when the boiler exploded: "Roomers are flying!")

There have been a lot of rumors around Texas about an influx of Arab oil money. It's sometimes difficult to tell an Arab oil dollar from a U.S. dollar, since often they both came from the same printing press, but you can usually tell an Arab when you see one. And one came to Texas recently, Mr. S.S. Hishmech out of Beirut, and he was, indeed, looking for a place to put some Arab oil money.

However, there's no "influx" as yet. The problem, as an executive for a major Dallas-Houston-Austin realtor was telling me recently, is that the Arabs haven't really set up yet means for examining U.S. investment opportunities. Sending a man from Beirut is one way, but perhaps not the most efficient. The big Texas realty firm, meanwhile, has been going to the Arabs, working primarily through their

The Sunday Brand, Hereford, Texas, Sunday, September 15, 1974
London bankers and some mutual Paris acquaintances. There have been some sales, but nothing like a landslide.

BUSINESS BRIEFS:

When it opens early next year, the 56-story First International Bancshares building in Dallas will be only fourth skyscraper on the American continent to use double-decker elevators.

A new Houston company, Pipe Logix, Inc., is using computers to put oil operators who have critical need for drill pipe in touch with people who have pipe for sale.

Texas International Airline earned $827,000 the first six months of '74, compared to a '73 six-month loss of $269,000 and cites as reasons: 14 per cent more passengers, 8 per cent longer trips, 6 per cent more yield per passenger.

A source indicates that the Fort Worth office of the Securities & Exchange Commission will take legal moves shortly against more Texas land syndicators who have handled investors funds too loosely. A Dallas syndicator has already been forced into receivership, and the case against a Hurst-based firm is before a Fort Worth federal judge.

QUICK CHECKS

□ The Sheshunoff Texas Bank Index for August 29 was 841.35, the low for 1973-74; the previous week's index was 849.66.

□ Personal income in Texas rose to $28.6 billion the first six months of '74, a 13-per cent increase over the first half of '73.

□ Despite a downturn in recent months, prices received by Texas farmers and ranchers averaged 22 per cent higher than a year earlier during the first half of '74.

□ More than two-thirds of Texas' counties — 185 out of 254 — lost population through migration in the 1960-70 decade.

□ The largest gain in population due to migration between 1960 and 1970 occurred in the metropolitan areas of Houston (21.9%), Austin (21.8%), and Dallas (21.7%); the largest declines occurred in Brownsville-Harlingen-San Benito (32.1%), McAllen-Pharr-Edinburg (25.4%), Abilene (19.7%), Amarillo (19.5%), Midland (19.1%) and Laredo (17.8%).

Morning Kiwanis To Sell Pecans

Whiteface Kiwanis Club members will sell whole pecans this year as a fund-raising project, it was decided at their regular morning meeting Friday at Dickie's Restaurant.

The one-pound bag of shelled pecan halves will be available from all morning Kiwanians in advance of the upcoming holiday baking season. The 16 oz. cellophane bags will sell for $2.50 a piece and proceeds will be used for community service projects. The pecans should be stored in a cool place.

The annual Whiteface

Kiwanis Club's Installation Banquet will be held Saturday, Sept. 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Center. Officers for the new year will be installed. Dickie's Restaurant will cater the banquet and admission will be $3.75 per plate. All members of other area Kiwanis clubs are invited to attend.

At the club meeting, member John Mathews presented a slide program on North Africa.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

By April Rhodes

Play it safe, get your home heating system checked before Fire Prevention Week in October.

Did you know that a good coat of wax on your door frames will save hours of cleaning children's (and sometimes adult) finger smudges from painted frames?

Keep your costume jewelry shining clean by placing it in a bowl and pouring rubbing alcohol over it. Let it stand a few minutes and wipe dry.
