OUR EXPERIMENTAL STATION

THE THOUGHTS
OF A
MISGUIDED MAN

ATENTION has been called in previous issues of this paper to the effort being made for an experimental station in the Panhandle and more especially at Hereford. Our committee appointed to meet with the board appointed to locate the station recently provided for, met in Ft. Worth on the 6th. with said board on location and presented the claims of the Panhandle, and did so in a creditable way, not forgetting to let the board know what particular point in the Panhandle they represented.

Randolph Clark acted as spokesman for our committee, and created by his talk quite an interest in our section of the country, on the part of many who were strangers to the actualities or possibilities of the plains.

While we failed in securing the station sought for, the delegates as a whole did succeed in attracting the attention of the committee on location to the extent of agreeing to attach to their report to the legislature a memorial to that body setting forth the necessity of further appropriations for other stations.

Now that we have the attention turned to stations of this kind, and that the plains has had a large proportion of consideration, let us begin at once to lay our plans to land a station on the plains, and more particularly in Deaf Smith county, and, to be further specific, at Hereford.

Our population is increasing, our country is filling up with a people who are unacquainted with conditions here, who must revolutionize their methods of farming followed elsewhere, and at best many of them will make serious mistakes and meet with failure and disappointments that will be detrimental not alone to the individual but to the country generally. Let us make a hard fight for the assistance of the state in this formative period of this section of the country, and reduce to a minimum the mistakes and failures by giving information that could otherwise be gotten only by the sacrifice of the individual.

In the meantime farmers, stockmen, merchants and other business men should organize and lay well their plans to secure this station. It is not too soon now to begin this organization, since continual meeting and interchange of thought will be necessary to get before our minds our real needs and thus the more intelligently be able to present them at the right time to the right body. In this way the work of the station would be anticipated and begun already, so that at once greater mutual benefits would be derived by the ready cooperation with the station should it be secured.

To him only can Heaven's free and unobstructed air and sunshine tell their tidings of joy and peace. To him only can home and the companionship of those we love, with the singing birds, laughing brooks, fragrant flowers and all the myriad of blessings the free enjoy, bring blissful joy and appreciation they so richly merit.

Never until it is lost does the burning yearning for freedom strike such terror to our quivering hearts and makes its every pulsation one great and soul absorbing petition. Liberty! liberty! Oh, God! my life, my soul, my all for liberty! Far better never to have been born than to go on to such a fate. Better never to have lived than to leave behind you such a record.

It is not the people or the laws that are to blame when such evil befalls you. Nothing but your own erring and misguided self. O men and boys! O friends and acquaintances! be warned in time. Keep to the straight and narrow path, lead conscientious and law-abiding lives, lest, perchance, the time may come in your lives also when you meet the living death—a penitentiary wall.

You may be ever so penitent, but cannot appease. You may atone in sackcloth and ashes, yet an awful sentence stands frowning upon you with arms outstretched over outraged law and order. To the least and last jot does this grim justice demand satisfaction, to last quivering pound of flesh must the debt be paid. For clemency and mercy we may have hope, but only through this divine attribute made manifest in a pitying people. To my many friends here and elsewhere I want to say that I have no hope except their promised intercessions for my pardon and to renew to them my promise to continue in the future as I have in the past (except the one unfortunate blunder) an honorable and with God's help an upright life.

ROBERT E. WILLIAMS.

THE TRANSPORTATION OF CATTLE

MISGUIDED MAN

THE problem of the proper transportation of cattle, is, like many other questions connected with the treatment of dumb animals, essentially a modern question. In times when each country must feed its own, and the only way of getting cattle or sheep or horses from one place to another was to drive them in herds, under a drover, the problem was in one simple way. The animals could not be driven but a certain distance each day without definite injury, which would probably be visible to the prospective purchaser when they arrived at their destination. It was to the interests of the drover, therefore, to be very careful.

With the advent of cattle-trains, however, it became possible to transport all sorts of live stock round the world, if necessary, in less time than it used to take to cross a state. The railway takes the Texas steer and lands him in Chicago in a space of time which must seem to his bewildered brain like an eternity, but is in reality but a few days. His treatment en route cannot well be so

[CONCLUDED ON LAST PAGE.]

RETRIBUTION . . .

THE THOUGHTS
OF A
MISGUIDED MAN

The following terse lines, written by Robert E. Williams, alias William Teel, were found inscribed upon the walls of the cell in which he was detained at the county jail previous to his removal to Huntsville:

To those who may chance to see this, from one who knows whereof he speaks:

Honesty is the best policy; upright conduct the only road to a good conscience, the respect and esteem of your fellow man and happiness in the life beyond this vale of tears.

Dishonesty and lawlessness will surely bring dishonor, degradation, misery and despair.

Oh! that I could send the words in letters of fire throughout the wide world, driving living conviction and repentance to every wayward heart:

Be true to your God, yourself and your fellow man.

Shun evil companionship and be found only in those places where God, law and order reign.

Be not easily persuaded into questionable places and reckless conduct. Remember, such friends can only bring you to grief; that heeding their evil insinuations and bad advice will brand your soul with blackness and your name with shame and infamy.

I, the victim of such, know by bitter experience that there is only one road to a good name and a free and happy life. Law cannot safely be transgressed, nor right trampled under foot.

To the man only who has suffered its loss can the sweet word Liberty

The court of civil appeals in Ft. Worth last week declared the receivership of the Syndicate company vacated. This again puts the business in the condition as prior to the issuance of the injunction against the managers of the company.

In a baccalaureate sermon, recently, President Buckham of the University of Vermont thus defined a gentleman: "A gentleman is one who is more thoughtful of others' feelings than of his own rights, and more thoughtful of others' rights than of his own feelings."

The Baptist State Convention was in session last week in Ft. Worth. More than an ordinary number of delegates was in attendance and more than ordinary interest was manifested, and consequently much work was done. We congratulate the church for their victory in freeing all their state affiliated institutions out of debt.

The Territorial officials are considering the advisability of using $100,000 of the money received from the sale of town lots in the counties of Caddo, Kiowa and Comanche, for the building of 100 school houses and three high school buildings in those counties. It is a good idea and it is to be hoped that the secretary of the interior will approve of it.—Mangum Sun.

The supply of silver bullion in the treasury has dwindled until only about $42,000,000 worth is left. Under the act of 1890 the treasury purchased 168,674,682 ounces of silver for $155,931,002, but this has been constantly depleted by the coinage, and the depletion is now going on at the rate of about $22,000,000 a year. In two years there will be no silver bullion left in the treasury, and if coinage is continued the government will again have to become a purchaser of silver bullion. This will require a special act of Congress.

The Canal Treaty

Washington, Nov. 4.—The British ambassador at Washington having returned from England, presumably with a copy of the new canal treaty, everybody is chatting about the exact wording of the important document.

It is generally believed the negotiations will be at once resumed with Secretary Hay in order that the treaty may be perfected and put in readiness for submission to the senate. As a matter of fact, however, little remains to be done except to engross the document in treaty form, ready for signatures, as this government has known for many weeks what points were agreed upon in London.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay have long ago decided that the terms are entirely satisfactory and are of the opinion that they will be equally acceptable to the senate.

Several weeks ago Secretary Hay permitted it to become known officially that the treaty, as re-negotiated, contained everything the senate said last winter should be included in it, and that it did not contain those things the senate then objected to.

Woman and the Law.

It may be a surprise to know that in thirty-seven of these United States a married mother has no legal right to her children.

In sixteen states a wife has no right to her own earnings outside of her home.

In eight states a woman has no right to her own property after marriage.

In seven states there is no law compelling a man to support his own family.

DIVERSIFICATION of crops has become an absorbing topic in Texas. This means fortification against the periodical hard times from crop failures. Organizations all over the eastern and southern part of the state are being formed for the development of these sections to their greatest capabilities along the line for which the soils are adapted. Not abandoning altogether the old paths, but diversifying. Let the Panhandle not fall asleep in perfect assurance on account of a few prosperous years, but let us also imitate the example of our neighbors. Let us organize, meet and interchange views.

"NO CLASSES."

"No classes here?" Why that is idle talk,
The village beau sneers at the country
boor;
The importuning mendicants who walk
Our streets despise the parish poor.
The daily toiler at some busy loom Holds back her garments from the kitchen maid;
Meanwhile the latter leans upon her broom,
Unconscious of the bow the laundress made.
The grocer's daughter eyes the farmer's lass
With haughty glances, while the lawyer's wife
Would pay no visits to the trading class,
If policy were not the creed in life.
The merchant's son nods coldly to the clerk,
The proud possessor of a pedigree Ignores the youth whose father rose by work—
The title-seeking maiden scorns all these.
The aristocracy of blood looks down
Upon the "nouveux riches," and in disdain
The lovers of the intellectual frown
On both, and worship at the shrine of brain.
"No classes here," the clergyman has said,
"We are one family." Yet see his rage And horror, when his favorite son would wed
Some pure and pretty player on the stage.
It is the vain and narrow way
Of vaunting our weak selves, our pride, our worth!
Not till the long-delayed Millennial Day Shall we behold "No classes" on God's earth.

into Kansas City for Wednesday's market but it must be understood that we do not guarantee to make this market, as we are liable to be delayed in gathering shipments all along the road, as this train contemplates and may have to unload for feed and rest, in order to comply with the law. We have selected Wednesday's market for the reason that we are assured that the market on the following day, Thursday, is equally good, and our patrons are therefore protected and for as we can protect them against loss on account of possible delays above suggest them

We will still continue to handle loaded oad shipments, with proper notice, on any day of the week as suits shipper. This weekly stock train is simply intended to take care of shipments that would otherwise have to be handled by way of freight trains and necessarily suffer considerable delay.

The Bird on the Hat

The custom of decorating women's hats with the plumage of birds is probably as old as headgear itself, and may have arisen in part from the notion common to many savage tribes that the qualities of an animal slain become the property of the slayer.

It would be unjust, of course, to assume that there is real cruelty under this passive obedience to the dictates of fashion. But since hats and bonnets quite as becoming and pretty can be evolved without the bird decoration as can be devised with it, it does seem that women of sense and feeling might be content without shocking the sensibilities of the Audubon Society and outraging the fitness of things by demanding a yearly sacrifice of bird life to adorn their heads.

Denver Field and Farm says that all the progressive ranchmen of Colorado are finding out that the raising of scrub stock is not a paying investment and the herds are being improved as rapidly as possible. A two year old steer of improved breed is selling for as much as three or four year old scrub. The realization has also been reached that stock to be the best must not be neglected and uncared for during the three or four stormy days of winter. A steer will lose as much flesh in that time as can be built up in a month of ordinary weather. The number of steers on a ranch does not always give evidence of the owner's wealth. It is the condition that counts. A small, well fed herd is better and commands more profit than a large starved one.

Blacksmith Work Cash.

We, the undersigned, take this method of notifying our patrons and the general public that after this date we will do blacksmith work for Cash Only. We regret very much to do this on account of some of our patrons, but circumstances demand it. We pay cash for material and help and will be obliged to have cash or quit business. No more book work goes.

While the war with Spain took very few of Uncle Sam's men it carried off a great number of his horses, but in despoiling him of the latter it was done with his un- qualified approbation. According to Major Carson of the war department, this country owned 16,000,000 horses before we went to war with Spain and now we have but 11,000,000. During the last three years horses have risen in price from $40 to $140. The report says: "It is said that unless our army officers decide to pay the price asked by the dealers the latter can at once sell their horses to agents of England, France and Russia, who are now scouring the west for cavalry mounts. The English have bought for two years past all the horses they could find in the west and the regulations of the British army have even been somewhat modified in order to admit the tough, undersized horses of the trans-Mississippi in their purchases. The life of a cavalry horse in South Africa has been found to be about four months and the British have spent at least $6,000,000 for western horses since the Boer war began and are still in the market for more."—Denver Field and Farm.

ORDER OF COMMISSIONERS

Court Prohibiting the Sale of Intoxicating Liquors in Deaf Smith County.

Be it remembered:—That on the 19th day of October A. D. 1901, there was begun and holden a special term of the Hon. Commissioners court of Deaf Smith county, Texas, for the purpose of opening the polls and counting the votes cast at an election held October 5th A. D. 1901, for the purpose of determining whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquors shall be prohibited in Deaf Smith county, Texas at which the Hon. W. B. Boyd, County Judge, was presiding and R. N. Mounts Commissioner of Precinct No. 2, and Ira Aten, Commissioner of Precinct No. 3 were present and County clerk F. B. Fuller, and Sheriff J. T. Inman were in attendance when the following proceedings were had, to-wit:

The court proceeded to open the polls and canvass the returns of the said special Election, which said canvass shows the result of the ballot to be 105 votes for prohibition and 86 votes against prohibition. It appearing that of the total vote cast in Deaf Smith County at said election there is a majority of 19 votes for prohibition.

We the Commissioners Court of Deaf Smith County therefore declare the result of ballot in the aforesaid election to be 105 votes for, and 86 votes against prohibition.

It is therefore ordered by this court that the sale of intoxicating liquors, except for the purposes and under the regulations provided by law, under title 69 of the revised statutes, be and the same is prohibited in Deaf Smith county, Texas, until such time as the qualified voters there-in, may at a legal election held for that purpose by a majority vote decide otherwise.

The foregoing minutes read and approved in open court; It is ordered that this court do now stand adjourned.

Approved, Oct. 19th, 1901.

W. B. BOYD, County Judge.

Attest, F. B. Fuller, Co. clerk.

STATE OF TEXAS

COUNTY OF DEAF SMITH, I, F. B. Fuller, Clerk of the county court in and for Deaf Smith county, Texas, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original order as recorded in Commissioners Court Minutes, Vol. I, page 599.

Given under my hand and seal of office, this 19th day of October, A. D. 1901.

cruel as to depreciate his ultimate value in any way which the purchaser can see; moreover, the purchaser often buys on faith, and pays without seeing. So long as most of the cattle get through all right, if a few die of neglect, or lack of water, or some other cause, the seller's reputation is good.

In this case the trader and railway man do not suffer much even when their treatment of cattle is absolutely cruel. It is the public which suffers, and it is the public which will therefore have to take matter in hand. There is a great difference in the systems of various railroads and dealers in their treatment of cattle and sheep, and some are much more humane than others. But it is not so very long since sheep were packed like sardines in close cars, without a drop of water during long journeys, in the hottest weather; and cattle were subjected to the same treatment.

The experimental station was located in eastern Texas. The exact location is not determined, but Lindale, in Smith county, will likely be the location.

Frank Morris, our genial real estate rustler of Gainesville, is in town this week with a number of good-looking prospectors. Hope we may succeed in locating them.

Our committee sent to Ft. Worth in the interest of an experimental station report a pleasant trip. A. J. Lipscomb is reported in the daily papers as delivering a splendid address before the Board of Trade of Ft. Worth. We hear it whispered that this is a stolen honor from Judge Gough.
