Carter Calls Governors For Package Support

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter has called 15 governors who previously had indicated their support of his energy legislation to ask for their help in urging Congress to pass the package, a White House spokesman said.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the resident placed a 25-minute telephone conference call to the governors Monday from Camp David, Md., and asked them to contact their House delegations to urge that they vote for the bill.

The House is expected to begin the last big congressional fight over Carter's energy plan late this week, probably Thursday.

Powell said some of the governors may come to Washington this week "to work in support of this legislation."

The governors included Jerry Apodaca of New Mexico, George Busbee of Georgia, Brendan T. Byrne of New Jersey, Hugh L. Carey of New York, Julian M. Carroll of Kentucky, John N. Dalton of Virginia.

J. Joseph Garrahy of Rhode Island, James B. Hunt Jr. of North Carolina, Arthur A. Link of North Dakota, Scott M. Matheson of Utah, William G. Milliken of Michigan, Mike O'Callaghan of Nevada, David H. Pryor of Arkansas, Dixy Lee Ray of Washington and John D. Rockefeller of West Virginia.

All are Democrats except Dalton and Milliken.

Farber Must Return To New York Jail

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) - New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber was ordered today to return to jail Thursday unless he surrenders his files in a murder case.

Superior Court Judge Theodore W. Trautwein said Farber, who is Jewish, would be given the extra time so that he could observe Yom Kippur, a holiday in the Jewish religion.

"I want this man to be able to observe his High Holy Day," Trautwein said. "Maybe there will be a change of mind Thursday morning. Think about it, Mr. Farber."

In other developments, Clements released a personal financial report showing he is worth more than $30 million.

The statement showed that Clements owns 630,191 shares of Sedco Inc., which the New York Stock Exchange quotation Monday would make the holding worth about $25.3 million. Clements also said he owns or leases real estate worth $4.9 million in Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Virginia.

Trautwein asked Farber if he still insisted on withholding files subpoenaed by attorneys for Dg. Mario Jascsevich, who is accused of three counts of murder in the deaths of patients at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell, N.J.

"Your honor, I respectfully decline to comply with that order in accordance with my rights under the Constitution and the New York and New Jersey shield laws," Farber said.

An attorney for The Times had said Monday he "would not be surprised" if Farber continued to withhold the files.

Last July, Trautwein sentenced Farber to an indefinite jail term and fined the Times $5,000 a day because of Farber's refusal to hand over files on Jascsevich, the defendant in a 7-month-old murder trial.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Friday that Farber's freedom is governed by Trautwein, pending on appeal, if he continues to withhold the files.

Rhodesia Leader Urges American Support

WASHINGTON (AP) - After making no progress at persuading their leaders, Rhodesia's Prime Minister Ian Smith today returned to his effort to persuade the American people themselves to support his plan for majority rule in the African nation.

Smith met for two hours with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance on Monday afternoon, but neither side gave ground in their opposing views of the Rhodesian problem. "There was no progress made," State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said.

Smith still believes the United States and Great Britain are morally bound to support the "internal settlement" reached by him and three black leaders.

The Carter administration is still pushing Smith to agree to an all-parties conference in which he, his black allies, and black guerrilla leaders would in effect scrap the internal settlement and start over in the search for an acceptable solution.

Smith told a group of reporters at a breakfast meeting this morning that while American and British support would solve many of his country's problem, its absence will not cause his government to collapse.

Parton Named Biggest Star of Awards Show

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - With millions of television viewers watching, Dolly Parton held a coat in front of her split dress as she began her reign as country music's entertainer of the year.

"I busted it all the way down the front-wide open," she said later. The buxom Miss Parton ripped the low-cut, pink and white dress as she sat in the audience at the Grand Ole Opry House moments before she was chosen top entertainer at the Country Music Association's nationally televised 12th annual awards show Monday night.

Miss Parton, whose big hit this year was the million-selling "Here You Come Again," held a black coat in front of her as millions watched her accept country music's top award.

After the show, she dashed to her dressing room and an aide, Denise Patrick, sewed up what may become country music's most talked-about tear.

She told reporters later, "It was just a strain on it. It was real thin material."

About 5,000 singers, songwriters, musicians and music industry officials chose Crystal Gayle female vocalist of the year for the second straight year and Don Williams top male vocalist, breaking a two-year hold on that award by blind pianist Ronnie Milsap.

Grandpa Jones, a veteran banjo player, guitarist, songwriter and comedian on the "Hee Haw" television show, was selected the 31st member of the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Jeffrey Lane Ricketts, 23, of Lubbock, was treated at Deaf Smith General Hospital for bruises and abrasions Sunday after his eastbound car entered the west lane of Park Ave. and struck a car driven by Charles Mullin, 309 Elm.

Mullin was not injured in the accident, which occurred near Ave. C and Park Ave.

Jim Anderson, 545 Westhaven, reported today that someone broke out the front glass window of Anderson's Wholesale Co., 213 S. Main.

C.L. Layman, 326 Ave. J, reported the theft of his son's drum set Friday at Stanton Junior High.

Police arrested several persons, including two juveniles, for public intoxication over the weekend.

Farmunism

If communists have any good ideas let's steal 'em. That's what they do with our good ideas. What about "farmunism"?

There are crops rotting in farm fields in the United States. There are no crops going to waste in communist China.

For what I am about to report I would not trust just one set of ears and eyes--not even my own. These evaluations are gleaned from on-site inspection by several professional observers including U.S. Agricultural attache William Davis, President Allan Grant of the Farm Bureau, Ambassador Leonard Woodcock and professional farmers from South Dakota and California.

If you think only in terms of mechanization, China's farmers are desperately "backward."

Yet how can you use that word to describe a system of agriculture which is doing an adequate job of feeding a fourth of the world's people on only eight percent of the world's arable land?

How do they do it? Hand labor. Yet the way in which they double and triple crop on the same piece of land, there may be no other way to do the job.

South of Peking, for example, they tie the heads of wheat together and then transplant cotton between the bound plants. Of course you could not drive a combine through the wheat without destroying the cotton; it has to be hand harvested.

But China has lots of "hands."

This does not mean there is no "modernization." If we can accept their figures (and we can't always) since 1975 in Shantung Province, China's most populous province, acres plowed by machine rose from 28 to 48 percent, fields under irrigation rose from 48 to 60 percent, fertilizer application is up 27.6 percent.

Farmunism does not increase the production of beef. Poor transportation, poorer roads and very little refrigeration--these factors limit beef production and marketing.

China does produce port--exports 8,500 live hogs through Hong Kong every day.

But under farmunism, most agricultural production is consumed within 25 to 30 miles of where it is grown. Again the deciding factor is transportation.

In southern provinces lemons may be plentiful while in Peking, just 200 miles away, there will be few.

China's farmers do envy Americans the bigger horse-power tractors, is planning to import some.

China wants to send young farmers to America to study our technology. The American Farm Bureau in California is expanding its farmer trainee program to accommodate them.

We need to know what they are up to--because Asia someday could dominate the world food supply as Arabs now dominate the world oil supply unless we--on seven percent of the earth's land--manage to stay ahead.

Hand planting and hand harvesting, they multiply their production of peanuts and sugar cane, jute and soybeans, vegetables and fruits.

Our delegation asked him, "How do you handle the lazy or unwilling worker?"

He said, "That's easy; if they don't work they don't eat."

Pope Ballots Due

VATICAN CITY (AP)--The Vatican announced Monday that the secret conclave of cardinals that will convene Saturday to elect a new pope will cast its first ballots on Sunday.

The Congregation of Cardinals, which has been overseeing the day-to-day affairs of the Roman Catholic Church since the death of Pope John Paul I on Sept. 28, decided that the 111 cardinal-electors will begin the conclave Saturday by concelebrating a Mass in St. Peter's Basilica.

The cardinals will then be sealed into the conclave area, which is centered on the Sistine Chapel. On Sunday morning, they will say Mass in the three chapels inside the conclave area, and then will begin the voting, scheduled for two rounds each morning and two each afternoon until the new pope is chosen. Election requires a vote of two-thirds plus one.

This procedure is the same as followed by the August conclave that elected Cardinal Albino Luciani, who reigned afterward as Pope John Paul for only 34 days.

The election of a pope is signaled by a white smoke billowing from a chimney over the Sistine Chapel. Black smoke signals inconclusive ballots.

Kemp Tough On Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Start Jack Kemp talking about taxes and the athlete shows through the politician. He's up, he's down, the words and numbers tumbling out non-stop.

He sheds his jacket, gestures his point, then slumps back in his seat so quickly he bangs his head on the wall. He shakes it off and keeps talking.

After all, Kemp learned how to play hurt during 13 years as a professional football quarterback.

These days, he's playing the tax issue for all it's worth. By Republican reckoning, that's a lot, although there is as yet no evidence to show that GOP efforts to ride the taxpayer revolt are going to pay off at the polls.

Kemp, 43, seeking his fifth term in the House from the Buffalo, N.Y., area, is one of the authors of the tax cut bill the national Republican Party has chosen as its major theme in the off-year election campaign.

With Sen. William V. Roth of Delaware, Kemp is co-sponsoring a three-year, 33 percent cut in federal tax rates. To describe Kemp as intense on the subject is to underestimate the case.

By comparison, his Senate partner on the GOP tax bill is relatively reserved. In a joint interview, Sen. Roth sometimes has trouble getting a word in, save when Rep. Kemp pauses for breath.

Never mind that the bill doesn't stand a realistic chance in a heavily Democratic Congress. Republican strategists are so convinced that the issue will work to their advantage that they've just staged a cross-country campaign swing with some of the party's biggest names arguing the case for the Kemp-Roth bill.

Kemp and Roth got there first with a phased tax cut plan they say would break not only with Democratic economic prescriptions but with the traditional formulas of their own party. The Republican way has been to insist on cuts in spending as the price of tax cuts.

Kemp and Roth say they are for restraint, holding down the growth of federal spending, but not as a prerequisite for their big tax-reduction bill.

Child Raising Recipe

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Because of my husband's business I am subjected to the cocktail circuit more than I want to be. It seems the principal topic for discussion is "our crazy, mixed-up kids."

Those who have no nutty offspring to talk about feel strangely deprived. Here is a superb recipe for creating one. After observing several nieces and nephews, as well as the progeny of my friends, I can attest to its authenticity.

START WITH ONE KID. ADD A LITTLE HOT AIR—Two hours of "When I was your age" will get a rise out of him.

STIR IN A LITTLE SARCASM—the heavy variety. It will bring out the bitter flavor.

FILL WITH BAD EXAMPLES—preferably your own. Instruct the kid how to lie about his age so you can sneak him into the movie at half price. Take "souvenirs" from restaurants and hotels. Towels are nice.

SEASON WITH INDIFFERENCE—Most families have a lot of "I don't give a damn what you do so long as you don't bother me" lying around.

SIFT IN SOME INDECISION.—Not being able to decide what you stand for will give your child that subtle, no-texture, no-substance look.

ADD A DASH OF ALCOHOL.—Drink in front of them, behind them and all around them. They will then get the impression it's a normal and natural part of life. And be sure they see you take a belt when the going gets rough. In a crisis say, "Jeez, I need a drink!" They will then get the idea that the way to deal with a problem is by getting bombed.

TOSS IN A FEW PILLS.—This will teach your children there are chemical solutions to all problems. They should get the idea early in life that nobody has to suffer because there is a capsule or a tablet made to order that can protect them against any kind of disappointment, failure or discomfort.

LET SIMMER UNTIL READY TO BOIL.—Ignore all symptoms of your child's anger, anxiety or fears. If you pretend they don't exist they will automatically disappear.

BEAT REGULARLY.—It's your job to see that the kids shape up. Reasoning takes too long and sometimes they don't know what you're talking about. (Too young or too stupid.) A crack across the mouth is easily understood.

BAKE IN THE HEAT OF YOUR OWN TEMPER.—Being screamed at will give a kid that "fresh" quality. It will also make HIM a screamer, which will make him very popular with his peers, teachers, colleagues and bosses.

OMIT GOD.—Teach your kid early that sleeping or golf or tennis is more important than church. On special occasions (severe illness or death) you may have to mention God, but don't overdo it. God is to be used only in case of emergency.

If you follow these instructions you are sure to have a Problem Child of your very own to discuss at cocktail parties—just like everyone else. — I Prefer Plain Cooking Myself

DEAR COOKIE: Now that's what I call a dynamite recipe. I hope nobody tries it because there are already too many unhappy, maladjusted kids out there.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

At 5-4, Kylene Barker of Virginia has become the shortest Miss America since 1926.

I can't tell you all the ramifications yet, but for someone who walks under coffee tables, this has to be the most exciting news since the secret sauce stains came out of my car upholstery.

Hopefully, it will mean the end of discrimination for women 5-5 or under. The long legs who can braid their legs and still have them touch the floor are out of style. We've lived in a tall world too long. Maybe some of it will change.

Are you listening, Ann Landers? There may be a day when we don't have to go on an elevator and be sick with worry about what we'll do if we have to push the button for the 14th floor.

Rejoice, Rona (Barrett)! This could mean a breakthrough in ready-made clothes where we don't have to chop 14 inches of material off every dress, skirt or coat we buy. (Which if sewn together would be enough to put a band-aid on the world.)

Think about it, Bette Midler. We can get a drink of water without a reach 'n seat, and hold onto straps on the bus without looking like we're being strung up for horse stealing.

And you, Helen Hayes, who has long fought the war of short people. Imagine being able to climb into the driver's seat of a car and not have to dig your heels into the floor and scoot your way to the steering wheel.

Tracy Austin, can you appreciate what it will be not to have to jog alongside a companion who is "walking or skipping" in order to keep up?

Imagine, Bonnie Franklin, no more treading water in the wading pool, or dancing and getting your hair caught in a belt buckle.

Ah, Nancy Walker, Sally Struthers. Pay phones you can reach. Shoes that don't give a nosebleed.

It's a new day, gang. Let's stand up and hear it out there for short. I said stand up. Oh, you are standing...

"T'WAS THE NIGHT BEFORE FAIR"
By GLENA WEST

'Twas the night before Fair, and all through the house,
Not a person was sleeping - not even the mouse.

The unfinished clothes were hung with care,
In hopes to be finished in time for the fair.

The children were hustling, making mother see red,
While visions of blue ribbons danced in their heads.

As Judy sewed a kerchief and Sue knitted a cap,
Mom and Dad wished for a long winter's nap.

When out by the lots, there arose such a clatter,
Those darn steers were out! That was the matter.

Away to the window flew Mom like a flash,
Pulled open the drapes and threw up the sash.

The moon on the breast of the lawn freshly mowed,
Gave a luster of mid-day to creatures below.

Bill ran for the halters, Dad put on his shoes,
The girls smelled bread burning - there go the blues!

Around about 10, it's hard to be lively and quick,
But they knew at the moment they couldn't be licked.

More rapid than eagles, the running steers came,
As Dad whistled and shouted, he called them by name.

'Come Dasher, come Dancer, come Prancer and Vixen,
Here Comet, here Cupid, here Donder and Blitzen.

To the corn on the porch, they charged at the walls,
Mom grabbed the broom, screaming, "Get away all!"

Out to the barn the steers quickly flew
Followed by Dad, Mom, and her broom, too.

Meanwhile, the girls fixed out fair tags, too fast,
Forgetting that first names always go last.

As they started again to turn names around,
In came the rest of the folks with a bound.

Bill was covered with hay from his head to his boot,
So Mom quickly scolded and told him to "scoot!"

Washing her hands, she eyed clothes on the door
And wondered if others followed this pre-fair score.

"I'll finish the tags, you finish your sewing, John wash the sheep. Where is this night going?"

The bread a bit brown, but preserves looking merry,
Sue iced coffee cake, topping it with a cherry.

Mom finished the tags and proceeded to wrap
The foods in plastic when ran out with a snap!

New blouses have buttons, skirts hemmed at last,
The long dress looks better with seams all pressed flat.

By two in the morning, the sheep clean at best,
John sat in the kitchen and took a short rest.

Bill said his tool box paint was still wet,
But Mom said, "At this hour? - To late to fret."

"Go take your shower," said she, tweaking his nose,
With yawns and a stretch, the children arose.

Mom cleaned the kitchen, while Dad sipped iced tea,
Glanced at his watch, and said, "You'll agree -
"the kids really did it - they've got time to spare."
Said kids, "4-H is really a family affair!"

With a wink of his eye and a nod of his head,
He said, "Let's go to bed Mother, we've a big day ahead."

The theme of this story, in case you can't guess
Is "a 4-H family, together works best."

Home Gardens Big Money

COLLEGE STATION - Today's home gardens are a far cry from "quite contrary Mary's" to the tune of $14 billion in 1977.

Their produce value last year represents a $4 billion increase over those of 1976, according to Mary K. Sweeten, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Also, the 1977 per capita consumption of home-processed fruits and vegetables was 11 percent of all processed fruits and vegetables, she reports.

Mrs. Sweeten is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

About 60 percent of garden households in 1977 said they froze some of their homegrown fruits and vegetables, while only 12 percent said they froze none.

About 17 million garden households—half of those surveyed, said they canned some of their fruits and vegetables. Those that canned no produce totaled 17 percent.

Second Test-Tube Baby Reported Doing Fine

CALCUTTA, India (AP) - The world's second test-tube baby, a seven-pound, six-ounce girl whose birth was announced dramatically on a television program in India's most populous city, is normal and doing fine, her doctors reported Friday.

The baby's mother, who gave birth Tuesday by Caesarean section, was progressing "very satisfactorily," said Dr. Saroj K. Bhattacharya, one of a three-member team that carried out the laboratory conception last January.

The mother was identified only as a 31-year-old orthodox Hindu housewife from Calcutta. The doctors told the Calcutta newspapers Amrita Bazar Patrika that delivery was carried out a week early to avoid possible complications. They did not elaborate.

They said a lack of sophisticated equipment here forced them to improvise a technique different than the one which led to the July 25 birth in Oldham, England, of Louise Brown, the world's first baby conceived outside the human body.

"The baby showed reflex movement 24 hours after birth," said Dr. Bhattacharya, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Calcutta Medical College. "She is completely normal."

The baby's parents, married for 16 years, were unable to conceive because of the father's low sperm count and blocked Fallopian tubes of the mother.

After two years of treatment, the father's sperm level became normal. His doctor, Subhash Mukherjee, decided to try fertilizing an ovum from the mother outside the uterus instead of opting for recanalization of one of her Fallopian tubes.

Mukherjee joined with Sunit Mukherjee, a professor of bioengineering at Jadavpur University, and Bhattacharya, to attempt this approach. The Mukherjees are not related.

An ovum was collected by a "new method," the Amrita Bazar Patrika quoted the doctors as saying, and kept in a controlled environment for 53 days. It was then exposed to sperm collected from the father.

"We are glad to see the mixed ovum and sperm fertilize after 75 hours of incubation," Bhattacharya told the United News of India.

Describing the subsequent transfer to the mother, he said: "We had to keep the fertilized embryo till the next menstrual cycle of the mother in a freeze ... For this, we developed an absolutely new technique." He did not elaborate.

The names of the parents and child were kept shielded, apparently because the stigma of laboratory conception might hamper the baby's future marriage prospects in India's conservative Hindu society.

First word of the birth, at a unidentified nursing home in this teeming city of 7 million on India's east coast, came Thursday in broadcasts by Calcutta's state radio. The three researchers later appeared on Calcutta television and made their announcement.

Lighter Side

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) - Paul and Phillip Cassibry have military and medical personnel at the army hospital in Fort Benning, Ga., seeing double.

For years the twins - both chaplains in the U.S. Army - were separated by their assignments. Now the Army has placed them both at nearby Fort Benning and the confusion has started.

Maj. Phillip Cassibry had been at the post about a year before his brother arrived, and he already was well known at the military hospital.

Even when they were assigned to posts on opposite sides of the globe, their identical features were sometimes a problem.

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) - Mike Trachiotis began eating worms as a lark, but now he's grown rather fond of the wiggly little creatures. And he hopes they'll bring him fame and fortune.

The Delta Junior College student claims to hold the world record for worm-eating - 38 at a single sitting. However, the current Guinness Book of World Records doesn't list a worm-eating category.

"If someone eats more than me, I'll eat more than them," Trachiotis boasts.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - It didn't rain on Joel Valdez but Tucson's city manager got a soaking anyway.

Valdez, participating in the filming of a television program Wednesday, was near the elephant enclosure at the Reid Park Zoo for one scene when Sabu, the bull elephant, sucked up a trunkful of water and shot it at Valdez, drenching his back.

Valdez calmly continued reading from his cue cards and said "that's show biz" when the scene was over.

The untidy incident wasn't the first involving the zoo and a city program. While Charles Sacamano of the University of Arizona was filming an advertisement urging Tucsonans to follow a water use program this spring, one of the zoo's camels threw up on him.

Success Stressed

NEW YORK (AP) - Has your employer ever rejected your "better mousetrap" idea? If your answer is yes you might possess one of the qualities or experiences that could contribute to business success.

Bill McCrae, chairman of The Entrepreneurship Institute, has distilled 16 questions he feels can tip off a would-be business person on his or her chances of success. The better mousetrap question is one of them.

Corporations frequently do more to encourage entrepreneurship than they know, McCrae says, referring to a host of small electronics companies begun by frustrated employees of large firms.

Based on experience, of the 500,000 or 600,000 companies formed each year, one-half will have disappeared within five years, and the most common explanation offered will be "bad management."

Interesting, but the term is such as amorphous catchall it conveys little information. It might mean poor relations with people, but it can also mean inferior record-keeping and inadequate capitalization. McCrae, himself an entrepreneur, thinks it also involves experiences and traits that can be pre-measured, helping to steer potential failures away from business or aiding them in overcoming weaknesses.

McCrae is founder of the non-profit institute and, with the best legal, financial, management and other brains he can find in a given area, conducts entrepreneurial seminars throughout the country.

A pilot program for women entrepreneurs, for example, is scheduled for Dallas on Nov. 3 and 4. And a regional seminar for serious beginners and small operators is scheduled Dec. 2 and 3 in New York.

From these projects and seminars, McCrae and his staff distilled their 16 questions.

A sampler: Question: Do I have a close relative that is or was in business for himself or herself?

Significance: "The available date show that the majority of entrepreneurs had a father or other close relative in business for himself.

"The importance of a role model is well documented. To make being in business for yourself credible, it is considered important that you see people in action who have started firms.

"Strangely, studies show that a close relative entrepreneur will frequently discourage entrepreneurship, so don't be dismayed if everyone tells you how tough it is and why you shouldn't do it."

Have you been fired? McCrae and his staff say most entrepreneurs rebel at working for others. Are you a loner? A lot of entrepreneurs are, but successful ones quickly learn to work well with others.

The institute offers the questions, their significance, and a rating guide to those who might benefit. 90 E. Wilson Bridge Road, Suite 247, Worthington, Ohio 43085.

McCrae cautions poor scores not to be overly discouraged, since they remain in rather good company. There are more than 200 million Americans who are not entrepreneurs, he says.

Woman Head Wants To Maintain College's Status

SOUTH HADLEY, Mass. (AP) - The brilliant reds and yellows of fall welcome the native's return to a campus she knew differently at a different time.

In 1960, when Elizabeth Topham Kennan graduated summa cum laude from Mount Holyoke College, the falling leaves drifted to a less complicated ground. Now, as the president of the venerable women's institution, she will tread on soil fraught with all the complexities of college administration in the inflation-riddled '70s.

Ms. Kennan's inauguration Saturday as the first woman president of Mount Holyoke in 41 years - replacing David B. Truman, who is retiring - marks the first time that all seven sister colleges have female heads.

The name was coined for seven exclusive eastern women's colleges - the others are Bryn Mawr, Vassar, Smith, Barnard, Radcliffe and Wellesley. One, Vassar, now has become a totally coed institution.

At Mount Holyoke, Ms. Kennan says she wants to preserve a college that is for women only.

"The difficulty of any coed institution is that it doesn't offer a particular opportunity to face and come to terms with one's identity or offer strengthening to a young woman in her personal or professional development," said Ms. Kennan.

"Women themselves are realizing that by being here they forge an invisible bond with other women who have had extraordinary careers and have made personal sacrifices," she said. "That sense of community with a large body of women is a bond that gives them roots. Those roots are a source of strength."

Wellesley College also is dedicated to preserving itself as a single sex institution, and its president, Barbara Newell, said this decision was made after a four-year study.

"It was crucial in the present social structure to maintain some educational institutions that take their women seriously as individuals," she said. "We also find women's colleges have been far more receptive to women faculty."

Ms. Kennan concedes that women's colleges are not ideal for every woman, but she feels they are an important alternative.

Though strictly speaking she is not a native of Mount Holyoke - she was born in Philadelphia - it was here she began the education that led to her speciality in medieval monasticism and intellectual history. She is a former associate professor at The Catholic University of America and has served on the President's Emergency Advisory Board on University Finance.

One area where Ms. Kennan feels women's colleges have fallen behind coed schools is in woman's athletics, and she said more of her $17-million budget eventually will go for a better athletic program.

Another area of improvement she is thinking of is in "strengthening liberal arts rather than diluting" them, which has happened over the past 15 years as more women studied for business and the professions.

The chief administrative problem Ms. Kennan faces is inflation. When she was a student at Mount Holyoke, tuition, room and board amounted to $2,500. Today's Holyoke student annually pays $6,300.

"Every year we try to hold the line on tuition and make tuition increases as little as we can," she said. "Holyoke was always for students who were members of the middle class and it always had a high percentage of scholarship students. Our founder, Mary Lyon, wanted a schoolteacher to be able to pay out of her earnings in order to go to school. So she charged $40."

"We've had an elegant frugality from the beginning. We don't want to price ourselves out."

But there's also the problem of setting salaries for faculty and other staff at a fair level, she said, and the threat to the institution's independence posed by federal aid.

"As information causes more pressure for aid, there is further auditing and the imposition of regulating," she said. "We must be articulate over the next few years or we might find our independence honed away."

Ms. Kennan's voice does not intrude upon the senses. It is as soft and gentle as she is assertive and purposeful.

At 40, she says she can find as much fulfillment in watching the growth of her 11-year-old son as she can in improving her Greek or grooming her mare. Her husband, Martin L. Budd, is an attorney.

There is mirth and almost innocent abandon as she peers from behind granny glasses at a muskrat paddling in a brook outside the campus center. And the warmth of her smile is as radiant as her sunlit red hair as she greets students on campus.

"You know," she says. "It makes me a little nervous to think of myself as a role model in the strictest sense. There are 1,850 extremely bright people on this campus and I don't think I can be role model to them all."

The native has returned. And the return is not without nervousness.

"It makes the stakes very high," the native said. "This is a college I clearly want to serve well. It means more to me than just a position."

'Three's Company' Tops Tube Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) - It was a story told many times last season - ABC's "Three's Company" tops in the week's prime-time TV ratings, eight of the network's shows in the first 10 ranked by the A.C. Nielsen Co.

But it was the second week of the new television season - third by ABC's accounting - and the clear message was that ABC had picked up where it left off late last spring.

After "Three's Company" ABC had two holdovers, last season's top show, "Laverne and Shirley," in the second, and "Happy Days" in fourth, and three newcomers, including No. 5 "Battletar Galactica," No. 8 "Mork and Mindy" and No. 10 "Taxi," in the first 10.

ABC called the week ending Oct. 3 the third of the new season; competing CBS and NBC, who began their full programming a week after ABC, said it was the second. The argument was academic: it was the second - or third - triumph in a row for ABC.

CBS and NBC each had a single show in the Top 10. "M-A-S-H" on CBS was fourth for the week. "Little House on the Prairie" on NBC was seventh.

The heavy concentration at the top left ABC with a rating for the week of 21.2, followed by NBC at 17.7 and CBS at 16.3. The networks say that means in an average prime time minute during the week, 21.2 percent of the country's homes with TV were tuned to ABC.

NBC, which spent much of last season in third place, was runnerup for the second week in a row.

The rating for the week's top program, "Three's Company" was 30. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 30 percent saw at least part of the program.

New shows, on the whole, did not fare well. In addition to the three ABC programs in the Top 10 - "Battletar Galactica" with fifth, "Mork and Mindy" eighth, "Taxi" 10th - the only other new programs in the first 20 were ABC's "Vegas," No. 14, and the first installment in NBC's miniseries, "Centennial," No. 15 for the week.

CBS' new "People" show, starring Phyllis George, was No. 36 in the ratings, and "Dick Clark's Live Wednesday," a new offering from NBC, was No. 39.

The six programs at the bottom of the ratings were new this season - NBC's "Waverly Wonders" and CBS' "American Girls," tied for 62nd, followed by "Who's Watching the Kids?" on NBC, "Paper Chase" on CBS, NBC's "W.E.B." and "Apple Pie" on ABC.

Here are the week's Top 10 shows:

"Three's Company," with a rating of 30 representing 22.4 million homes, "Laverne and Shirley," 29.8 or 22.2 million, and "Happy Days," 28.1 or 21 million, all ABC; "M-A-S-H," 27.1 or 20.2 million, CBS; "Battletar Galactica," 26.9 or 20 million, and "Charlie's Angels," 26.6 or 19.8 million.

Senate Breathes Life into ERA

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate breathed new life into the Equal Rights Amendments Friday, voting to add 39 months to the original seven-year period for states to ratify the women's equality measure.

The action completed congressional approval of the extension, which was approved by the House in August and does not require the signature of President Carter.

The vote marked the first time Congress has extended the deadline for ratification of a constitutional amendment since it began setting seven-year time limits in 1917.

Phyllis Schlafly, national chairman of Stop ERA, an organization formed to fight the amendment, said the extension "is a fraud and will have no legal effect when tested in the courts."

At a news conference shortly before the vote, Mrs. Schlafly said: "Regardless of what the Senate purports to do today, ERA will expire on March 22, 1979, if it does not receive the ratifications of 38 states."

The extension resolution sets a deadline of June 30, 1982.

Thirty-five state legislatures have ratified the ERA, but four of these have voted to rescind their action. The validity of the votes to rescind has not been determined.

Mrs. Schlafly predicted that more states will vote to rescind and "the 15 states that have rejected it will continue to do so."

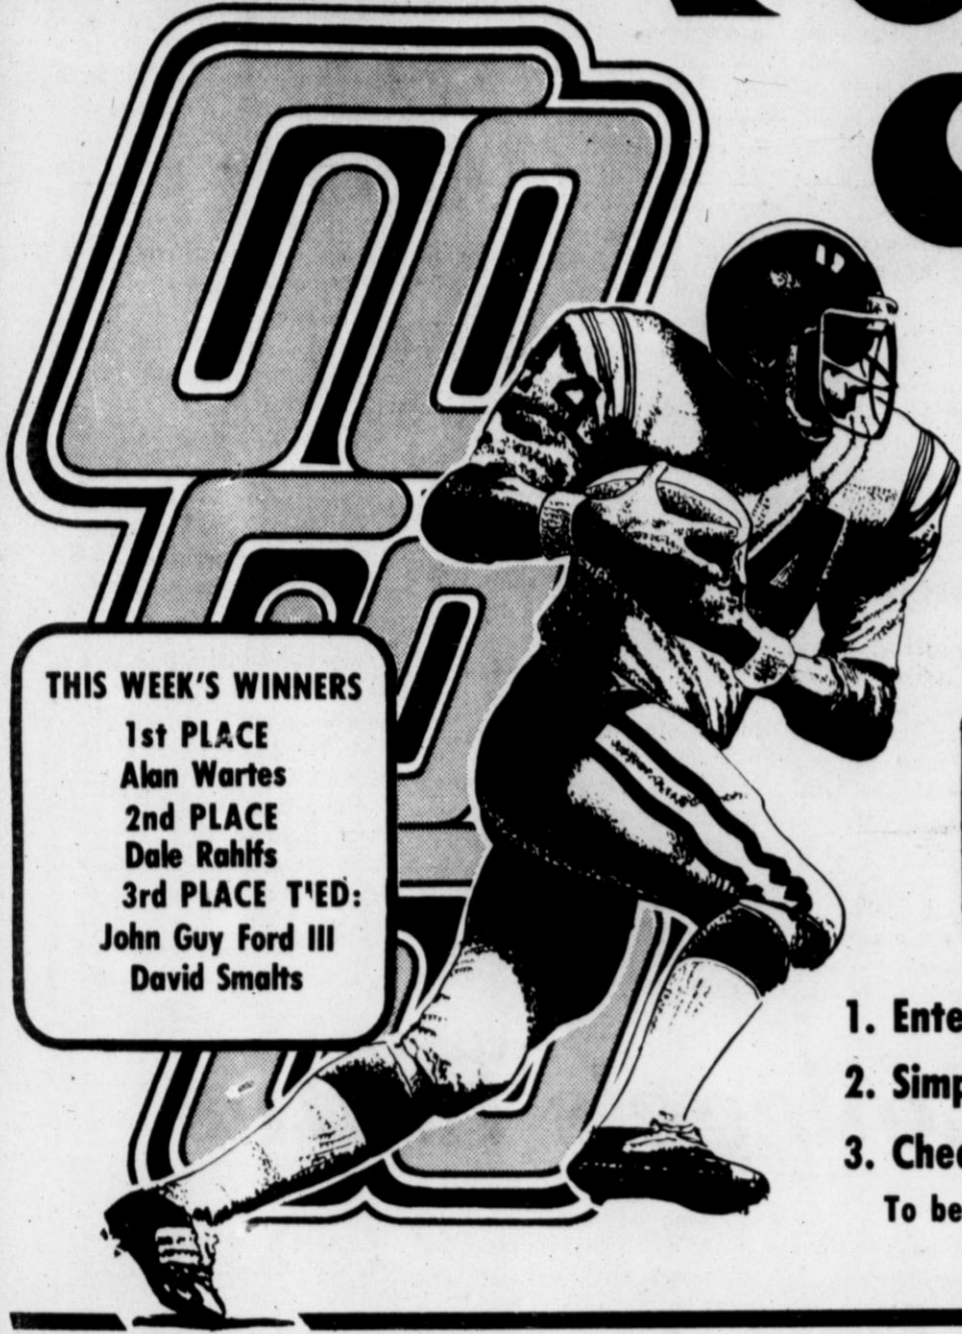

She said federal court lawsuits challenging the extension would be filed by states which have not ratified, states which have not and states which have rescinded their action.

ERA opponents argue that the extension is illegal, partly because it was not approved by the two-thirds majority required for congressional passage of constitutional amendments. Supporters argued that only a simple majority was needed because the time period was not part of the constitutional amendment itself.

Dolphins Blank Bengals, 21-0

MIAMI (AP) - Don Strock has hardly been a Cinderella story as the Miami Dolphins' quarterback, but he can take pride in his accomplishments as the clock nears midnight in his striking tenure.

Strock tossed two touchdowns Monday night and nose tackle Bob Baumhower returned a fumble 13 yards for a touchdown as the Dolphins blanked the winless Cincinnati Bengals 21-0. Strock, who has been booed each home game, yielded to Bob Griese in the fourth quarter.

The crowd greeted Griese, making his first appearance since a knee injury in the final exhibition game, with a thunderous ovation. Griese opened with a 17-yard pass completion, finished with two of four, and indicated he's ready to pick up where last season - the best of his career - ended.

"It felt great to be in there. I'm able to set up and throw, and the knee feels fine. It's hard to answer how much more time I need, but it's mainly just timing now," said Griese, who quarterbacked the Dolphins' final two possessions.

Coach Don Shula said he won't decide until Thursday whether Griese will start at San Diego Sunday, but added, "It goes without saying how good it was to see No. 12 back on the field."

Griese's return to the starting position will mean Strock's return to the bench, where he's languished most of his five-year career.

"I've made my share of mistakes, but the offense was moving tonight. Our goal has been to make the playoffs. As far as who's quarterback, that doesn't make any difference," Strock said.

He reflected, "We're 4-2 and we're tied for the lead. I kept us in the race. I've got to be happy about that."

Strock completed 12 of 20 passes for 154 yards against the Bengals. As he was being hit by Reggie Williams in the first quarter, he hit on a 4-yard scoring pass to Duriel Harris. The Dolphins took a 14-0 lead in the second quarter on a 27-yard Pottstown-to-Pittston pass. Strock is from Pottstown, Pa., and the recipient, rookie Jimmy Cefalo, is from Pittston, Pa.

Baumhower's return of Dave Turner's fumble was the first touchdown by a Miami lineman in nine seasons.

Bum Still Proud Of Oiler Crew

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers' disheartening 21-17 loss to Oakland in the final minute has done nothing to diminish the Oilers' prestige in the eyes of Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips.

"I felt when the game started we had the best football team and I felt the same way when it was over," Phillips said Monday. "I said all week to beat

Alan Wartes Collects 1st In Contest

Alan Wartes won the weekend grid guessing contest promoted by the Brand and sponsored by Hereford merchants.

Wartes missed four of the weekend games and had a tiebreaker of 27. The actual tiebreaker score between Amarillo and Hereford was 41.

Dale Rahlfs won 2nd place with five misses and a tiebreaker of 24.

Two contestants tied for third place. John Guy Ford, III and David Smalts both missed five games and had the same tiebreaker score of 21.

Marie Leorwald narrowly missed out of 3rd, missing five games and having a tiebreaker score of 19.

According to Brand ad salesman Paul Hamilton, 231 contestants participated in the contest.

First place winner receives $25 while 2nd and 3rd places collect $15 and $10 respectively.

Get'em

Amarillo High running back Mark Isaacson [23] tested the Herd defense repeatedly last Friday night at Whiteface Stadium. The Sandies eventually edged Hereford 21-20 with Isaacson getting two of the touchdowns and rushing for 155 yards. Hereford faces Brownfield there Friday night in the last non-district game.

Key Club Schedules 25-Mile Pledge Run

The Hereford Key Club and other high school students this weekend will hold a 25-mile track run for mental retardation.

During October, the Texas-Oklahoma-District of Key Clubs International is sponsoring a prevention awareness/education program entitled "Together We Can Do More."

The local Key Club run this weekend is just a part of the district's TWCDM program to educate students and adults on the needs and potentials of mentally retarded people.

The 25 mile relay will occur at Whiteface Stadium Saturday.

High school teams representing Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes will compete in the 25-mile relay.

High school Key Club president Ronald Plummer said here Monday that about 75 high school students, from the three various classes, will participate Saturday.

Twenty-five runners from each class will be running for pledges from local merchants and individuals, hopefully, amounting to the Key Club goal of $1,000.

All of the funds will be going toward helping mental retardation in Texas, said Plummer. Anyone wishing to pledge $1 or more should contact Plummer at 364-3329 or club sponsor Gene Brock at 364-6991.

No time goal for the relay has been set according to Plummer, but he expects with 75 students the relay to last about three hours.

Flag Team Meeting Set Thursday

A Men's Flag Football meeting will be held Thursday night at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will take place at the Community Center.

All interested participants need to attend this organizational meeting.

Schedules will be drawn and league play will commence Sunday, Oct. 15.

Ackers Believes In Okies' No. 1

By The Associated Press - After losing to Oklahoma on Saturday, Texas Coach Fred Akers voiced the opinion that the Sooners, indeed, were deserving of the nation's No. 1 ranking.

The Sooners solidified their position atop of The Associated Press poll Monday by collecting 52 of 63 first-place votes for a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters for 1,260 points.

That widened their lead over Southern Cal's Trojans, who were idle over the weekend. The country's No. 2 team received five first-place votes and 1,144 points. Last week, Oklahoma's lead was 1,226-1,166.

Michigan dropped from third to fifth despite a 21-17 victory over Arizona and relinquished the spot to Arkansas and Penn State, which tied for No. 3 with 1,071 points and three first-place votes apiece. Arkansas crushed Texas Christian 42-3 while Penn State trounced Kentucky 30-0.

Michigan didn't get any votes for first place this time and accumulated 1,040 points.

The defeat by Oklahoma cost

Texas a six-place drop in the standings - the Longhorns falling from No. 6 to No. 12. Southwestern Conference colleague Texas A&M, meanwhile, moved up a notch to No. 6 with 931 points following a 38-9 rout of Texas Tech.

Alabama climbed a spot to No. 7 after beating Washington 20-17. Nebraska moved two spots to No. 8 following a 23-0 beating of previously undefeated Iowa State; Pittsburgh, whipped Boston College 32-15 and held on to No. 9, and Maryland climbed from 12th to 10th with a 31-7 shellacking of North Carolina State.

The Second Ten consists of Louisiana State; Texas; Colorado; UCLA; Florida State; Ohio State; Houston; Stanford; Missouri; and Iowa State.

Cyclists Win 1st at Clovis

Roger Hamilton, Kevin and Kris Cardinal racked up 1st place wins over the weekend at Midway Cycle Park in Clovis, N.M.

The motorcycle action happened Sunday and in all, five Hereford cyclists participated.

Hamilton collected 1st place in the Maxi-Man Division while Kevin Cardinal won 1st in the 250 Class. Cardinal's brother Kris won 1st place in the 425 Class.

Others winning included Kenneth Hicks who won 2nd in the 250 Division and Orfan Douglas who was 3rd in the 125 Division.

A Motorcycle Rodeo is planned here Sunday, Oct. 29 at the Pit located by Caviness Packing on West Highway 60.

They expect taxes to remain high to finance ambitious development schemes and military spending - more than $1 billion last year - to continue unchanged because of the need to replace obsolete weapons and upgrade salaries.

"It is a dangerous attitude to assume that because there is peace, Egypt will have prosperity," said one Western economist. "Peace is not a panacea."

And said an Egyptian official: "This is why it is important that the West makes Egypt a model like West-Berlin after World War II. This will show moderate Arab states the benefits of the peace."

Egypt's economy has already improved since it reached its nadir at the time of the 1973 Middle East war. Growth for the next two years is forecast at 7 percent.

Serious problems remain, however. Inflation on non-subsidized goods is running at an annual rate of 25 percent, urban unemployment is 12 percent and the trade balance is currently $3.2 billion in the red.

Billions of dollars are needed to meet a housing shortage of 1.1 million units and billions more to upgrade long-neglected utilities such as telephones, sewer lines and electricity.

Western economists say peace will provide no solution to Egypt's population crisis - small economic improvements have led to bigger families - nor will peace solve the problem of declining agricultural productivity that results in part from migration to the cities.

Ribbon Cutting

Egyptian, Western Economists Say Peace Won't Affect Much

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - The average Egyptian looks at the prospects of peace with Israel and sees a television set, a working telephone, better prices, a better salary - indeed, a better life. He sees an Egyptian-Israeli treaty as the end of 30 years of sacrifice and austerity in the name of national defense. But economists - both Egyptian and Western ones - take a more sober view. They predict the economy will improve gradually but say peace is unlikely to produce the immediate changes expected by the man in the street. The Egyptian government says that four wars with Israel have cost an estimated $40 billion. As a result, Egyptians are heavily taxed. A middle-class family of four with a monthly income of $643, for example, pays $51 a month in national security and defense taxes. The same family pays a 12 percent extra defense tax on every theater ticket, and is allowed to buy meat only three times a week, in part so that the half-million man army can be fed. The man in the street not only expects this burden to be lifted, but he anticipates an economic boom as well. And this, he expects, will improve the roads, telephones and utilities that have fallen into disrepair as the government dug deeper for guns and warplanes. Signs of this optimism are already evident. Observed Cairo merchant Abdel Aal Hamad: "The people are happy. Their appetite is whetted and they want to buy. People who never paid their accounts are now paying and business is up about 20 percent."

The economists, however, fear this optimism could sour into disillusionment should the economy not live up to expectations. They expect taxes to remain high to finance ambitious development schemes and military spending - more than $1 billion last year - to continue unchanged because of the need to replace obsolete weapons and upgrade salaries. "This is why it is important that the West makes Egypt a model like West-Berlin after World War II. This will show moderate Arab states the benefits of the peace."

Western economists say peace will provide no solution to Egypt's population crisis - small economic improvements have led to bigger families - nor will peace solve the problem of declining agricultural productivity that results in part from migration to the cities.

There will be 60 million mouths to feed in 20 years instead of 40 million now," said one Western economist. "Peace cannot provide the answers to these problems." Egyptian Planning Minister Abdel Rezzak Abdel Meguid said in an interview, however, that the proposed peace treaty would have several positive results: "Oil from Sinai fields now in Israeli hands will boost overall output to over one million barrels a day. Earnings from oil will total $1 billion a year - three times the current level - within 18 months. And Egypt will qualify for membership in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC)."

Foreign investment, $205-million last year, "could easily be doubled" in an improved business climate resulting from peace. Demobilization of troops would put more food in the stores for civilians. "This will be the most visible impact for the average Egyptian," he said. The return of Sinai will provide a potential harvest of minerals and a half-million acres of arable land. But both will require time and sizable amounts of capital to develop. "There cannot be immediate relief for all our problems," Abdel Meguid said. "But we can now concentrate on the economy so that we don't have to live hand-to-mouth all the time looking for next week's supply of wheat."

Trade with Israel is not expected to have a major impact on the economy since the major exports of both countries are textiles and citrus. But the curiosity of Egyptians and Israelis for each other's country is likely to spur tourism. Economists say, too, that cooperation is likely in developing the oil fields that Israel has already begun to exploit. And reliable sources say Israeli businessmen have already contacted the American Embassy in Cairo about the possibilities of setting up shop in Egypt.

Dr. Lutfi Abdel Azzim, editor of the economic weekly newspaper Al Ahram Iqtisadi, suggested in an interview that Egypt and Israel might set up joint venture manufacturing projects on their border in Sinai. "What better way to assure a peaceful border?" he said. WASHINGTON (AP) - Liberal Democrats trying to split up President Carter's energy bill to make the natural-gas deregulation part more vulnerable failed Friday to muster enough members to put the question to a vote. Only 98 members, far short of the 144 needed for a quorum, showed up for a 9 a.m. meeting of the House Democratic Caucus, called to vote on the issue of breathing up the package.

Those pressing for the action had claimed in advance that the House leadership was urging Democratic members to boycott the caucus so no vote could be taken. "We will take our fight on this matter to the Rules Committee," vowed Rep. Anthony Moffett, D-Conn., a strong opponent of the natural-gas compromise. The House Rules Committee must vote this week on sending the final energy legislation to the floor and will determine in what form it will be for that vote - one large package or five separate bills. Moffett complained that the natural gas legislation calling for deregulation of newly produced gas in 1985 is a far cry from the bill the House passed in August 1977 calling for indefinitely continuing price controls on gas. The gas measure "is too important to bury among the other parts of this package," Moffett claimed.

Misunderstandings Abound in Issues

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) - Perhaps no three economic issues generated more negative comments today than jobs, prices and taxes. Respectively, we say, they are too few, too high and too pervasive.

That might be so, but on each issue there are great misunderstandings, as the answers to these questions reveal: Q. With unemployment stalled at about 6 percent of the labor force, isn't it obvious that the U.S. economy is failing to produce jobs?

A. No. In fact, the ratio of employed to population is at an all-time high. More than 94 million Americans have jobs. Nearly 3 million jobs were added in 1976, more than 4 million in 1977, and through June of this year another 2.8 million.

What stalls the jobless rate at what many consider an unacceptably high level is the continued growth in the labor force, both from increases in population and changes in our attitude toward work.

Women, for example, have joined the labor market in great numbers. So have parttimers, many of them holding more than one job. Since 1954, the number of these part-timers has more than doubled to 17.6 million.

Several factors - demographic, social, financial - are involved. But there are other factors involved too. Student assistance programs, for example, enable more youngsters to combine education and part-time work, and the Social Security program permits a certain amount of work without loss of benefits.

In addition, the growth of service-oriented industries, which are better adapted than are manufacturing plants to using part-timers, allows for jobholding by people who otherwise might remain at home.

Q. Is there any doubt that the United States has the worst consumer price inflation record of any major nation? A. Yes, there is. The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, which includes Japan and the major European nations, as well as Canada and the United States, has just released price figures. In the six months to July, it lists the annual rate of increase in the United States of 10.5 percent. But Canada had a 12.1 percent rate. France a rate of 11.9 percent and Italy a price-growth percentage of 11.6 percent.

Among smaller nations, there were many with rates far greater than in the United States. In Turkey and Iceland, for example, the consumer price inflation rate exceeded 50 percent, and in Spain, 16.5 percent.
