Things go better with snow. At least they look a lot prettier, as is evidence by this scene in a local yard this morning after the city received an inch of snow. It marked the first snowfall of the season as a cold front passed over the area Wednesday. Warmer temperatures were forecasted for this afternoon and Friday, however.

United Way Sets Report Meeting For Friday Morn

Deaf Smith County United Way board members, captains and workers, along with representatives of participating agencies, will meet for a fourth time to determine the status of this year's fund drive at 10 a.m. Friday in the Hereford Community Center.

The public also is invited to the report meeting. A new total for money collected and pledges will be announced.

Volunteers already have raised more money than in any fund-raising drive ever in Hereford, reporting $101,000 in last week's third report meeting. The United Way goal is $199,815, and volunteers will try to reach that amount by the end of the month.

Volunteers who are unable to contact businesses should turn in their cards at Friday's meeting. UW campaign committeeman Raymond White said today.

HUD Approves San Jose Grant

Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a $360,000 grant for upgrading the water system at the San Jose labor camp, County Judge Sam Morgan reported today.

Morgan said he received notification of the grant in a letter from HUD. The camp had asked for $400,000.

economist. Robert Reiersen, who works for one of the nation's largest feedlot and packing firms, told an outlook session at the Agriculture Department that most experts think the current liquidation phase in the cattle business will end next year.

But for this to happen, he said Wednesday, producers will have to begin moving more heifers into breeding herds in addition to reducing the number of older cows they are sending to slaughter plants.

So far, Reiersen said, this has not occurred to a significant degree, although cow slaughter is declining.

Meat comprises nearly one-third of consumers' grocery spending, and beef is the biggest item in the meat bill.

A cutback in cattle numbers the past several years has resulted in much higher animal prices and is a major factor in overall food prices going up 10 percent in 1978, the sharpest rise in four years.

Led by beef and pork, food prices are expected to go up again in 1979, "most likely" by about 7.5 percent, according to department economists.

Reiersen said that "for whatever the reason, cow-calf operators are not yet sufficiently encouraged" by higher market prices to expand their herds.

Reiersen said U.S. cow slaughter in 1976 totaled about 10.5 million head but has declined to an estimated 8.5 million head this year. He said the slaughter will probably be less than 7 million head in 1979 and drop "towards or ever under" the level of 6 million head a year in 1980-82.

Cow beef is the main source of hamburger. Thus, with reduced cow slaughter, hamburger prices probably will go up relatively faster than cuts from grain-fed cattle.

But Reiersen and others said that as hamburger prices rise, more meat from chucks and other cuts of grain-fed beef

Americans Lay Down Packs as 'Smokeout No. 2' Begins

BY LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Marleen Duley started smoking seven years ago. Today, the 29-year-old Philadelphia woman joins Americans across the country in trying to give up cigarettes for 24 hours as part of the second annual "Great American Smokeout."

"I decided for one day I can take the chance," said Ms. Duley, administrative assistant to the chief of Philadelphia's smoking prevention program.

"If things really get rough, there's always the next day....I know you shouldn't smoke, that it's bad for your health, but I do enjoy it. I felt this one-day stopping may encourage me to really stop. I hope."

The American Cancer Society, which is sponsoring the smokeout, estimates that at least 5 million people will participate. Like Ms. Duley, local society officials say they hope the effects of the one-day action will linger.

"It's psychological," said Dot Zellner, public relations director for the South Florida chapter of the cancer society. "If they know that they can stop for one day, they can do it for longer."

Julius Richmond, the surgeon general of the United States, said he hoped those who stop smoking today "will then find the willpower to join permanently the growing ranks of former smokers."

The society estimates that 31 percent of the nation's more than 50 million smokers tried to quit during last year's smokeout on Nov. 17. Thirteen percent of them lasted through the day, the society said. When contacted 60 days later, 10 percent of those who passed the 24-hour test said they had quit for good. About 34 percent of the nation's adult population now smoked, compared to 42 percent in 1964.

The smokeout was criticized by the Tobacco Institute. The group said the society was "misleading the public with its tunnel vision of the cancer problem" and added: "No individual needs the advice of the American Cancer Society or the Tobacco Institute for that matter - as to whether he or she may enjoy smoking."

In advance of the smokeout, supporters handed out buttons and pledge cards and organized contests and parades. The Colorado chapter of the cancer society used the slogan "Stamp Out Dragon Breath" to win support for the smokeout. Promoting the campaign was a six-foot green and yellow dragon with pink wings.

Ray Schweitzer, city manager of North Las Vegas, who quit during last year's smokeout and hasn't gone back to cigarettes, was honored Wednesday night at a cancer society party.

Mayor R. Paul Saylor of Berlin, Pa., a Somerset County town of about 1,700, urged all community residents to join the smokeout. "I wouldn't guarantee that everyone will quit," said Saylor, a cigar smoker himself. "But I think it's a good thing." Berlin high school students will help out by running "crisis centers" at banks and shopping malls. Anyone who craves a cigarette can stop by for carrot and celery sticks or sugarless gum instead.

Egyptians Study Carter Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter awaited an Egyptian response today to a proposed American compromise for clearing a major hurdle to a peace treaty with Israel.

President Anwar Sadat's response on how to deal with the Palestinian issue was being delivered to the White House by Hosni Mubarak, the Egyptian vice president.

On Wednesday, Sadat said the peace talks are facing a "serious crisis" and suggested a suspension might be needed while both sides think things over.

Meanwhile, the Israeli cabinet delayed its consideration of the latest U.S. proposal, waiting for the Egyptian presentation to Carter. The president had urged Israel not to take a final position on the American proposal until he had heard from Egypt.

The American compromise offer deals with several unsettled issues, including the link between the talks and future discussions on the fate of Palestinians on the West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

Sadat, in remarks to university professors and students, said "we have gone a long way at the Washington talks and have achieved 90 percent of the road."

But he added that the discussions "are at a serious crisis and if we can avoid it in order to achieve the remaining 10 percent by suspending the talks for a while to allow the parties to think again and then resume, so be it."

He neither elaborated nor referred to the response Mubarak was carrying to Carter. The vice president arrived late Wednesday but said nothing to reporters about the response.

Informed Egyptian sources, requesting anonymity, said the Cairo government had formulated new proposals in hopes of avoiding a complete deadlock in the peace talks.

The sources, noting Israel's rejection of Cairo's linkage demands, said Sadat was trying to limit initial discussions to the Gaza issue, leaving the West Bank for later.

One Egyptian source said, "It is less emotional for them than for the West Bank. It would be easier to implement steps in Gaza than in the West Bank."

The U.S. ambassador to Israel, Samuel Lewis, spoke with Prime Minister Menachem Begin and said afterward that "there is no crisis."

Begin, announcing the delay of the cabinet review originally set Wednesday, told reporters that, "according to the latest reports received, Egypt is about to submit new proposals and demands related to the negotiations between the two countries. These reports are not yet official and complete."

"In view of this fact, the cabinet decided to hold the political debate after it has received all the necessary clarifications concerning the additional positions of Egypt," he added.

Bodies May Be Couple Missing from Amarillo

PAGOSA SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) - A frustrating three-month search has ended with the discovery of two bodies believed to be a missing Texas couple whose van was used by two escaped Arizona convicts to crash a roadblock, authorities say.

Archuleta County Sheriff Neal Smith issued a statement saying the bodies found southwest of here Wednesday "from all appearances and information available" were believed to be those of James Judge, 23, and Jeanette Margene Judge, 26, of Amarillo.

The couple had been married less than a week and were on a honeymoon camping trip in southern Colorado when they disappeared Aug. 8. For several weeks, dozens of searchers combed the rural areas of southern Colorado for a trace of the Judges.

Their van was used by Gary Tison and four members of his gang to crash through a roadblock near Casa Grande, Ariz., on Aug. 11.

Judge's brother, John Judge of Amarillo, an attorney, said Wednesday that relatives of the slain couple had been notified.

"They have some pretty positive identification," he said. "We're glad they're found. It's over as far as we're concerned."

Jeanette Judge's father, F.M. Davis, said in Berger that he had seen the bodies "did show gunshot wounds."

District Attorney Craig Westberg told reporters in Durango that the deaths were being classified as homicides and he expected to file murder and kidnapping charges against three members of the Tison gang, who still are alive and being held by Arizona authorities.

The bodies will be taken to the Bernalillo County Medical Center in Albuquerque, N.M., for an autopsy, Westberg said.

Smith's statement said the bodies were found about 11 a.m. Wednesday by himself and other law enforcement officers, but provided no other details.

Tison, 42, and another convicted killer, Raddy, Greenawalt, 29, of Thornton, Colo., escaped from the Arizona State Prison on July 31. They were aided by Tison's three sons, Donald, 20, Rick, 18, and Raymond, 19, who held guards at bay in the visitors' center with guns apparently smuggled into the prison in an ice chest.

The gang was suspected of then killing four members of a Yuma, Ariz., family near Quartzsite, Ariz., on Aug. 2. They bodies of John Lyons, 24; his wife, Donalda, 24; and son Christopher, 22-month-old; were found four days later by a game warden. The body of a niece, Teresa Tyson, 15, was found several days later. She apparently had crawled some distance away.

The five men allegedly used the Lyons car to travel to Flagstaff, Ariz., and New Mexico and finally to the South Fork. (See BODIES, Page 2)

Prosecution Uses Tape Recording To Prove McCrory-Davis Meeting

HOUSTON (AP) - "I have got the money," the voice on the tape recording reports. "He has got the gun. I have to drive to the front...so he won't get suspicious..."

With that disclosure, FBI informant David McCrory ended a videotaped encounter Aug. 20 with Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis, 45.

Minutes later, FBI agents seized Davis with a silencer-equipped pistol and recovered $25,000 from McCrory which they said was earmarked for a phantom "hit man."

A sound-over-film reproduction of that pivotal meeting is the trump card in the state's case against Davis for allegedly masterminding a bizarre murder for hire scheme.

The darkly handsome oilman-industrialist is accused of soliciting the capital murder of Fort Worth Judge Joe Eidson, the presiding jurist in Davis' divorce case.

Davis contends he was framed by a vindictive wife and others, including McCrory. The Aug. 20 tape is from the second of two recorded parking lot meetings between Davis and McCrory, a one-time pool-shooting friend and employee and now the state's key witness.

McCrory, 40, was wired for sound on both occasions. Jurors heard the first tape Wednesday along with three recorded telephone conversations in which the Aug. 20 encounter was arranged between the accused and the accuser.

According to the transcripts of the tapes, there was a cryptic exchange between the two at 2:49 a.m. that day, just minutes after Davis and his girlfriend returned home from a Dallas Cowboys football game.

McCrory: "...need to uh, see you. Oh, he's finished with the job and he's

Ray Wasn't Paid, Claims Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) - House investigators say they have found no evidence that James Earl Ray was a paid triggerman in a conspiracy to assassinate Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Chief Counsel G. Robert Blakey told the House Assassinations Committee Wednesday that Ray conceivably could have been part of such a conspiracy - but if he was there is no evidence he got his money.

"The fact is that a lot of triggermen carry out a contract and then don't get paid for it," Blakey said.

Blakey's investigators concluded instead that Ray probably financed his escape from Memphis, Tenn., to Europe after King's assassination April 4, 1968, with money from a $27,000 bank robbery. He said they found no payoff stubs in any bank or with any of Ray's relatives or associates.

And if Ray had been paid off, Blakey said, he would not likely have risked robbing a bank in London when he was wanted worldwide for King's murder. Investigators say Ray robbed a London bank just before he was arrested June 8, 1968.

Ray pleaded guilty to King's killing and is now serving a 99-year prison sentence. He recanted his plea almost immediately after making it and now contends he was framed.

Ray tentatively had been scheduled to testify today but the committee voted not to call him and canceled today's meeting on grounds the cost was not justified.

Doc Taped Mouth To 'Comfort' Woman

CLEBURNE, Tex. (AP) - A doctor on trial accused of trying to suffocate his mother by taping her mouth shut and stuffing tissue into her nostrils says he was actually trying to make the woman more comfortable.

Nurses at Johnson County Memorial Hospital testified previously they found the woman, Bertha Brown, with her mouth taped shut, her nose stuffed with tissue and a sheet pulled over her face - and the defendant, Dr. Milton Rains standing at the head of her hospital bed.

She died three months later of stomach cancer, and Rains, 52, of Littlefield, Texas, is on trial charged with attempted murder.

But the doctor Wednesday denied murder was intent when he went to the room of his mother about 3 a.m. July 29.

"I've always had a close relationship with my mother," he said. He said he noticed her lips were parched and said she asked for a drink of water.

"He said he tried to moisten her lips with glycerin swabs, but ran out of swabs, so he said he decided to use Kleenex."

"I folded it, saturated it with glycerin, and put it on her open mouth and lips," Rains told the jury.

But he said the elevation of her head in the bed made the tissue slide off repeatedly.

"I took some of the tape and anchored some of the glycerin-saturated tissue to her mouth," he said. "My mother reached down and pulled the sheet up over her chin like she was cold."

Natural Gas Use Lauded By Newton

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - State Railroad Commissioner Jon Newton said today the federal government should encourage the use of natural gas or risk higher consumer costs.

Newton noted at the statewide oil allowable hearing that imports of crude oil and petroleum products had increased approximately 17 percent from a year ago.

The three-member commission routinely set the statewide allowable at 100 percent of market demand for December. The large East Texas Field once again was restricted to 86 percent production to avoid possible waste.

Newton said the country "has not seen a conversion to coal" in the industrial sector as hoped for by national policy makers. "Obviously there is a conversion to fuel oil," he said.

Newton said, "If we discourage the use of natural gas by industry, the only people left to pay the cost of the pipelines are residential consumers."

This, he said, would result in consumers paying pipeline costs on a year-around basis even though their major use of gas - for home heating - comes only five months of the year. "It's time that all governments took a new and different look at the use of natural gas," Newton said.

Inflation Fighter Warns Of Depression

WASHINGTON (AP) - The man in charge of the government's battle against inflation warns that "if inflation accelerates, there will be a breakdown of the economy - a deep depression."

"Recession is too soft a word to describe the consequences," Alfred Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, told a group of retail store owners Wednesday.

Kahn said mandatory wage and price controls are the only alternatives to President Carter's anti-inflation program, but he added: "The public won't accept them and they won't work. I wouldn't be a party to them. I will not take a job running them."

Kahn said the problem is that "we must stop demanding more income when we know the economy can't deliver it. That's what inflation is."

He said the administration "will be rigorously inflexible in meeting our objectives of voluntary wage and price controls." But he said "we must assure union leaders and others that we are being even-handed."

Kahn said he was considering seeking removal of some federal controls on the trucking industry and added that the administration has "floated the idea" of seeking to cut back planned increases in

Lions Club Speaker

Texas Department of Corrections director W.J. Estelle took shots at federal bureaucracy and the United States judicial system Wednesday during the Hereford Lions Club noon meeting at the Community Center. Rotarians and a few Kiwanians also attended the luncheon to hear Estelle.

Estelle Blasts Fed Courts

There is a new brand of activism abroad in the land, and the goal is one but the targets are many," W.J. Estelle, head of the Texas Department of Corrections, told a Hereford Lions Club audience Wednesday.

Estelle hopes citizens will make citizens-in and out of government—who will make a commitment to dealing with cause and not effect.

Lions Club audience Wednesday at the Community Center.

Aside from the goals of reduced taxes and more efficient use of tax dollars, Estelle says he lives "with the hope that there will be a return a commitment to their children and youth, understanding that "prevention is the word; responsibility is the tool. Right and wrong, obligation and duty, decency and honor—these are the credos. They always were, and we need them now more than ever."

Estelle was introduced by Judge Glen Nelson, a Lion, local justice of the peace and county judge-elect. The audience included Rotarians and Kiwanis members who were invited to the luncheon, along with a number of local law enforcement officials.

Estelle said that prison officials in Texas are criticized by politicians, courts and citizens, but "we are running the smallest part of the show and even then sometimes barely allowed to run it."

He stated that federal courts, which include lifetime judges, are a detriment to society.

"Life-time appointment to any public job, in my opinion, is a contradiction to what we profess to believe about representative government."

Estelle accused federal courts of encouraging suits from plaintiffs "who are not noted for veracity who are allowed to make any allegation however outlandish, and we must respond to baseless allegations with sworn depositions and testimony under oath."

"I do resent the incursion of the federal courts, not only on states' rights but their playing loose and easy with matters clearly defined as the responsibility of legislative executive branches of government."

"It is my opinion, too, that there is too close a relationship between federal judges and the Justice Department. Again, a possible breach of the concept of separation of power between the branches of government."

Estelle said it is wrong to worry about rights of convicts more than their responsibilities.

"When you turn prisons over to convicts under guise of peer group pressure, participative management, prisoners' unions and laboratories in Democracy...in my opinion, we are charged with running institutions safely, humanely, economically, and the taxpayers and victims do not expect these things from their prisoners."

Exodus Of Vietnamese Worse Than Expected

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
The elderly captain of a fishing boat crammed with 73 Vietnamese refugees was trying to navigate with a small sketch map from an old American news magazine. He said he had not sailed the ocean before.

His peril was similar to that of other "boat people" encountered by an American-sponsored expedition that sailed the South China Sea for five months dispensing aid to Vietnamese fleeing their homeland.

"They were worse off than I ever expected," said Bert Singleton, captain of the converted navy landing ship that was outfitted by World Vision International, a Christian relief organization.

The ship returned to Singapore in October because of the stormy monsoon seas. It had aided 228 Vietnamese in coming across in crossing the South China Sea between Thailand, Malaysia and Vietnam.

Singleton had expected the flow to abate with the storms, but apparently it is continuing. In September, with the monsoons already blowing, a total of 7,300 refugees arrived in neighboring countries, U.N. officials reported.

"I couldn't believe that the refugee boats were so inadequately equipped or in such poor shape," Singleton said. One craft he encountered 200 miles at sea had apparently been traveling in circles for days. The 64 people aboard were out of food and down to a spoonful of water a day. None of them could use a compass and when offered a nautical chart, they turned it upside down.

Many thousands of Vietnamese are thought to have perished at sea since the exodus began after the fall of Saigon in April 1975.

Singleton, a World Vision executive who has a private navigator's license, recalled locating the boat that had the news magazine clipping map. It was near midnight in a bowing gale.

"We loaded the 73 people aboard our rescue ship, and took their 40-foot boat in tow, but within 30 hours it had sunk," Singleton said. "There is no doubt that if we hadn't arrived on the scene, the refugees would have gone down with it."

Another boat they found had been at sea nine days, out of food and water for four, and still had at least a weeks travel ahead. Singleton said one of the refugees told him, "We had already steeled ourselves for death. We believed we would die that night."

The World Vision ship dispensed medical help, food, water, and mechanical and nautical assistance. The $50,000-a-month mission may be resumed next year when the monsoon season ends.

Milt Kobut, a World Vision executive, said the old landing ship was chartered "as one step toward changing the inhumanity that since 1975 encouraged international shipping to pass by the Vietnamese refugees without helping them."

Because the chartered ship was of Thai registry, it did not qualify under recent regulations permitting American vessels to pick up refugees with the guarantee that the United States would accept them. Consequently Kobut said, "We were under frequent surveillance by gunboats from Malaysia and Thailand to determine that we were not landing refugees illegally in those countries."

Leasing Land More Common In Farmbelt Partly Because of Rising Acreage Prices

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Leasing land as an alternative to owning has become more common in the farmbelt, partly because of rising acreage prices and the increased amount of capital needed to operate large tracts.

Some of the lands that this year produced the biggest corn crop ever are owned by outsiders - investors from the city, from surrounding communities, and perhaps even from West Germany, France or elsewhere.

"It's about impossible for a young guy out of agricultural school to farm unless he was born fortuitously or marries fortuitously," says Lee Schuster, a farmer of 2,700 acres in Northwest Missouri.

Schuster is also executive vice president of Oppenheimer Industries, Inc., which buys, sells and manages farms, and which through its various services provides a conduit for capital to nourish farming.

Farm investments return 3 percent to 5 percent a year, a yield hardly competitive with other mediums. But there's a fairly steady appreciation of land values, and security - the land will always be there.

"City interest is growing, what else can an investor buy?" asks Schuster, a sophisticated, knowledgeable fellow whose father was a partner in Lehman Brothers securities.

"Stocks are a poor hedge against inflation in recent years. Gold has a negative return," he says. Diamonds? Too much chicanery, he implies. Art? "Subject to fads." Bonds, savings accounts? He grimaces.

"But people realize that in rampant inflation land is holding its value," he states. He believes it. And the Oppenheimer company does too. It currently manages a million acres or so for absentee owners.

A question sometimes arises over whether the farmer, who leases from investors as well as probably owning land himself, is therefore a mere tenant. Correlatively, is rural life somehow being undermined? Schuster dismisses the notions.

"I think we're going to find it isn't an all or nothing situation, in which the farmer isn't completely tenant or owner," he comments.

More likely, he indicates, the leasing of land indicates a successful farmer's expansion. "As he increases his management skills he will use his own land ownership as a base." And then lease more.

The lessor - the individual, family or company that leases out its land for a fee - also benefits, according to Schuster. It helps to retain local ownership when families might otherwise be forced to sell.

Schuster cites the retired farmer with 160 acres which he desires his children to have. To divide would make little sense. To sell would be to cease ownership. But leasing it out keeps the land in the family.

Schuster Farm, near St. Joseph, Mo., illustrates the extent of the farmer-investor alliance. It is home to the Lee Schuster family, but they don't own all of it. They share ownership with others.

wanting to get out of here." Davis: "Oh...I have it - how - how do I know?"

McCroly: "I got the proof. That's no sweat."

Davis: "...all that information is down at the office."

The state contends the "information" was an allusion to the payoff money for the hit man hired to kill Edison.

President Carter's decision to veto a new meat-import law favored by cattlemen and uncertainty about future prospects for price controls and other federal regulations are contributing to the situation, he said.

Pork production has not increased nearly as much as USDA experts had counted on, and Reiser said that the largest capital requirements and I looked around for my wife and saw her wedged in the debris. People around were wailing. I was dragging my wife out when I saw the first flames." His wife was hospitalized with serious injuries.

Icelandic Airlines said there were 240 passengers and 13 airline employees aboard - eight crew members and five flying as passengers. Five of the airline personnel survived.

The nationalities of the crew members were not immediately reported, but the airline said no Americans were aboard the plane. The Indonesian Embassy here said today the death toll stood at 199 and all the dead were Indonesians.

"It passes all understanding how uncertainty about federal controls - including what to do about the use of nitrite as a bacon preservative - are factors that are similar to those in the cattle business.

"The bankers are a strong factor, and some of the bankers have said they are not going along with the cowman who wants to increase his cow herd," Reiser said. "They're saying you'd better get your loans paid down to a lower level first and be a little more sure of the future."

Reiser did not predict that the liquidation phase of the cattle cycle will continue through next year but suggested that this is one "scenario" of what could happen.

If so, he said, "it would indicate that we would still have lower cow slaughter but the heifers will continue to be slaughtered at a high level."

That would mean slightly more beef for consumers next year and a help in the fight against inflation. But it also would mean that per capita beef supplies would be less in 1980 and 1981 than otherwise might occur, Reiser said.

Sri Lankan aviation officials said they had recovered the two "black boxes" - the plane's flight recorder. They said the devices would be sent to the United States for expert analysis of what might have caused the crash.

The plane was chartered by Garuda Indonesian Airlines in October to carry Muslims from East Java to Saudi Arabia for a month's pilgrimage to Mecca and Medina, Islam's holiest shrines. Some 70,000 Indonesians are making the pilgrimage this year.

The Tison brothers and Greenawalt face trial Dec. 9 in Florence, Ariz., for prison escape and Dec. 12 in Yuma, Ariz., on charges of four counts of murder, two of armed robbery and one of auto theft.

Lower Pay Scale Keeps British Mail on Schedule

LONDON (AP) - What? A postal service that wants to handle magazines, delivers first-class mail in a single day and still turns a profit?

Britain has one - and has this advice for its money-losing cousin in America: Kick the habit of government support, trim off the fat, and get out and sell your service.

Oh, and don't pay your employees too much.

That does of old-fashioned capitalism is credited with turning the money-losing mail service into the pride of Britain's score of nationalized industries - from a $242 million profit last year.

Service isn't what is used to be. The Post Office admits that the day is gone forever when a Briton could get up from lunch, mail a penny postcard and be sure it would reach a hostess in time to count him in for 4 o'clock tea.

But 93 percent of first-class letters are delivered the first working day after mailing, and the service takes seriously its failure by 1 percent to get 95.5 percent of second-class mail to its destination by the third day.

Though distances are obviously not as great in Britain, even across-town deliveries have been a problem in the United States.

And while British Post Office spokesman Robert Hannah says his country's postal profit is not one "that a private sector company of comparable size would be happy with," it looks pretty good next to the $1,686 a minute lost by state-owned British Steel or the U.S. Postal Service's $688 million loss in 1977.

Counting its other activities, such as telephone and telegraph services, data processing and National Giro postal banking, the British Post Office's profit - including the $77 million from mail services - came to $708 million last year.

"The major differences between us and most other postal services is that we have a financial target set by the government, and we are allowed to manage commercially without detailed control from government," says Denis E. Roberts, postal system managing director.

"Three years ago the government told us they weren't going to make up our losses any longer. It was the best thing that could have happened to us."

Hannah says that produced "a massive exercise in good housekeeping. It meant virtually no promotions for anybody for a couple of years. The staff was reduced by several thousand, but it saved us literally millions and millions of pounds. And we used to expect that people would just come to us because we are the Post Office. Now we're going out and marketing postal business."

Magazines and parcels, those pariahs of the postal profession, are not despised in Britain. Mailers are actually courted with discounts. The average magazine of 2.8 ounces goes for 15 cents - about 4 cents less than the regular charge.

Parcel services lost $32.4 million two years ago and $11 million last year, but with the business being built up by sales pitches and cut rates, Hannah says: "We hope in the coming year for a profit."

The theory is that the facilities are there anyway and it costs little more to expand volume, so why not share the benefits and attract more business.

Two new special parcel services - which charge premium prices and are promoted by brightly-painted mini-vans, advertising campaigns and even a nude calendar - are actually making money.

The U.S. postal service claims underpriced postage is the main reason for its losses. Americans, it points out, pay less for the first weight unit of postage: 15 cents compared to 18 cents for Britain and as much as 27 cents for France and Switzerland.

But the Briton can get more than twice as much weight - 2.1 ounces compared to 1 ounce - for his first-class stamp than the American.

The U.S. service counters that Americans work less time to buy that stamp - 1.1 minute compared to 3.2 minutes in Britain, 1.5 minutes in Switzerland and 2.7 minutes in France.

And it says it is much more efficient - with nearly 140,000 letters handled for each of its 655,000 employees annually, compared to fewer than 57,000 for each of the British service's 168,000 people.

A big advantage for Britain - so far - has been low pay scales. British mailmen average $7,602 a year for an average 52-hour week that includes nine hours of overtime. That compares to average national earnings of more than $9,000. And it's less than two-thirds the base pay of a beginner in the U.S. Postal Service, who in time can move up as high as $14,983 even without overtime.

Low pay - coupled with a 5 a.m. starting time in a country that gets moving around 10 - have made it harder and harder to attract postmen. There are 2,500 jobs vacant in London alone. And postal union leaders won't settle for less forever. They have shown militant muscle before, blacklisting a photo processing plant that wouldn't unionize and forcing abandonment of plans for a cheap Christmas stamp.

Hannah admits too that postal officials and unionists have been slow to modernize and automate. Typically of Britain, a 51-year-old device is still key to London's quick delivery service - a robot railroad that zips letters 6 1/2 miles across the city underground.

Another lifesaver the British will never give up: cats. Hundreds of them, official and unofficial, guard the mail from rodents. Regulars are eligible for a 1.70 pound $3.40 food allowance each week.

Minimum Wage Urged for Farms

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Minimum wages for American farm workers - and not the Tortilla Curtain - would stem the flow of illegal aliens from Mexico into the United States, four Mexican-American spokesmen said Friday.

"If farm work and other kinds of service work were covered by minimum wage, the 'pull factor' would not be there," said Armando Gutierrez of La Raza Unida Party.

The argument behind his statement is that if there were a minimum wage for farm work, those jobs would be eagerly filled by Americans, leaving no jobs for aliens who are at present lured across the border by the available jobs despite the low pay.

Gutierrez was joined at a Capitol news conference by State Director Ruben Bonilla of the League of United Latin-American Citizens, editor Robert Maggiani Para La Gente and Paul Velez, the Central Texas director of the American G.G. Forum.

The United States has announced plans to build fences in El Paso and San Diego, for a total of 12 miles along the Mexican border.

Gutierrez criticized President Carter and Leonel Castillo, director of the immigration and Naturalization Service, for proposing the steel, concrete and barbed wire structure.

"It should be called the Carter-Castillo Curtain, all spelled with 'K's,'" he said. "It seems more appropriate for the atmosphere created in putting up the curtain."

A meeting between Mexican-American groups and the Mexican president is planned for November 23rd to discuss the fence, Gutierrez said.

There were over 185 million broilers raised in Texas during 1977, making the state the seventh highest producer in the nation, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.

Texas produced 2.38 billion eggs during 1977, the ninth highest total in the nation, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.

Hillside Strangler Still Mystery to LA Police Force

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Hillside Strangler, who terrorized this city for months, killed 13 women between September 1977 and last February. Then nothing. Why not? Is he dead? Lyng low? Perhaps somewhere else?

They're tough questions, and the detectives who have been chasing the strangler for a year are just as baffled as anyone.

"You got 20 investigators, you got 20 theories," said Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department investigator Frank Salerno, who has been on the case more than a year.

Of the 13 Hillside Strangler killings, police list one in September, two in October, eight in November and one in December, all of last year, and one last February.

It was a year ago this month that police set up the Hillside Strangler Task Force to track down whoever was strangling young women and leaving their nude bodies on the city's hillsides. At its peak last winter the Task Force had 140 members and occupied a large room where phones were ringing off the hooks with tips from citizens.

Rewards totaling $125,000 were offered by the city and the county, but they have since been withdrawn. Gradually the phones stopped ringing, the tips dried up and the Task Force, reduced to 18 investigators, was moved to a smaller room.

The failure to solve this case has been a sore point with police officials for a long time. Last December, Assistant Police Chief Daryl Gates, who headed the investigation, said, "I'm embarrassed every time I look at myself in the mirror."

Gates, who has since been promoted to chief, has insisted all along that his men would solve the case. The department's top spokesman, Cmdr. William Booth, says the chief still feels the case will be solved. "He does, I do and the investigators do," Booth said.

According to Booth, the Task Force is now "sharpening its focus, separating the wheat from the chaff as to what is a valuable lead and what is not."

He says that even now, nine months after the latest killing, investigators "have a number of good leads."

But sheriff's investigator Salerno tells a different story. "At this point we have no tangible leads," he said. The sheriff has jurisdiction in two of the murders and works closely with the police Task Force.

About a year ago women here were scared. Many wouldn't venture out alone, especially after dark. Self-defense classes sprang up at colleges and high schools.

But time has dimmed the fears and interest. There have been other things to think about - heavy rains and mudslides, Proposition 13, mandatory school busing, brushfires that burned 200 homes, the San Diego air collision, the election.

denial of the worm rumor after the story spread and caused "some financial damage...in individual stores," he said.

Timberlake, corporate communications manager for McDonald's, said company officials believe the rumor began in Chattanooga, Tenn., in August. "It is taking the traditional course of a rumor and it's moving," he added.

Timberlake said it was difficult to estimate how much money had been lost because of the rumor.

But McDonald's officials decided to issue an emphatic

Worm Rumor Hurts McDonald's

ATLANTA (AP) - A rumor that McDonald's hamburgers contain worms has eaten away at profits, forcing officials of the billion-dollar fast food chain to publicly deny a story they first had tried to ignore.

"The basic rumor is so ludicrous that we didn't pay much attention to it" at first, McDonald's spokesman Doug Timberlake said at a news conference.

But McDonald's officials decided to issue an emphatic

Turkey Shoot Set Saturday

Easter Lions Club will sponsor a turkey shoot beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday in Easter.

The public is invited to the shoot. Hams and turkeys will be awarded as prizes.

Proceeds from the shoot will be used for charitable purposes.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - A Wichita man accused of attacking a referee during a football game between Kansas and Texas A&M Sept. 9 faces 60 days in jail or 50 hours of community service work in Lawrence.

That was the alternative given David Dwyer, 30, Wednesday by Douglas County District Judge Mike Elwell.

"I'm sorry it happened," said Dwyer, who pleaded no contest Nov. 2 to misdemeanor charges of battery against a police officer and simple battery.

Elwell stayed a 60-day sentence, provided Dwyer completes the community service work within the next month. Dwyer will commute between Wichita and Lawrence on weekends, a round trip of 300 miles.

He was accused of shoving a policeman and running on the field at Memorial Stadium to strike referee Tom Fincken, who had signaled a touchdown for Texas A&M.

NEW YORK (AP) - Ithaca College edged St. Lawrence by a single point, 66-65, to win the 1978 Lambert Bowl, symbol of NCAA Division III football supremacy.

The award, announced Wednesday, was Ithaca's third.

The Bombers won the bowl in 1974 and 1975 on the way to consecutive losing efforts in the Division III national championship game.

Ithaca finished 9-1 this year, losing only to Albany State in a regionally televised game Nov. 4. Albany finished fifth in bowl rankings with 42 points.

Both Ithaca and St. Lawrence, as well as Carnegie-Mellon, third in the Lambert voting with 53 points, will compete in the NCAA national quarter-finals Saturday.

Defending Division III national champion Widener, 8-1, was fourth in the Lambert Bowl voting with 48 points.

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) - Brand Robinson scored 23 points and had nine rebounds to lead Idaho State to a 102-81 exhibition basketball victory over the Australian National team Wednesday night.

Robinson scored 12 of ISU's 22 points in the initial eight minutes.

Idaho State led by as many as 22 points in the second half, although the Australians were able to close within 11, at 77-66, on a Darryl West free throw with 8:33 left.

Talent-Laden Lakers Win 11th Straight

By The Associated Press
It isn't the kind of talent you have, says Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, it's the way you use it.

And the Los Angeles Lakers are in the enviable position of having both the talent and the ability to use it wisely. That was evidence Wednesday night after the Lakers posted their 11th straight National Basketball Association victory with a 133-126 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

Coach Jerry West has certainly seen the dramatic difference from last season, when the Lakers finished fourth in the Pacific Division. Currently, they're just a half-game off Seattle's division-leading pace with a solid 12-4 record.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Denver Nuggets 109-103 in overtime; the Seattle SuperSonics routed the New Orleans Jazz 135-118; the Washington Bullets hammered the Milwaukee Bucks 138-111; the Chicago Bulls turned back the Houston Rockets 117-103; the Phoenix Suns stopped the San Antonio Spurs 125-119 and the Kansas City Kings turned back the Atlanta Hawks 109-100.

Adrian Dantley's early scoring and Abdul-Jabbar's late flurry provided the Lakers with their victory. Dantley, who finished with 33 points, had 17 in the second period when the Lakers outscored Detroit 43-20 and added eight more early in the third to help Los Angeles roar in front 86-71.

At that point, Abdul-Jabbar was sidelined with his fifth personal foul and Detroit countered with a 25-10 uprising of its own, led by rookie John Long's five baskets to even the score at 96. But Abdul-Jabbar returned and hit four straight baskets to put the Lakers in front to stay.

76ers 109, Nuggets 103
Julius Erving scored 10 of his game-high 33 points in a five-minute overtime period as Philadelphia defeated Denver.

The 76ers scored their 10th victory in the last 11 games despite a 29-point performance by Denver's George McGinnis, who returned to Philadelphia for the first time since being traded to the Nuggets last summer for Bobby Jones. McGinnis fouled out with 4:17 remaining in the overtime period.

Sonics 135, Jazz 118
Fred Brown led seven Seattle scorers in double figures with 20 points as the SuperSonics defeated New Orleans.

Seattle trailed 26-22 with 2:39 left in the first period, but took control with a 16-5 spurt that carried into the second period. Wally Walker, who scored 14 points, capped the rally with a basket that gave Seattle a 38-31 lead with 9:36 left in the half.

Bullets 138, Bucks 111
Kevin Grevey's 24 points led Washington over listless Milwaukee. The Bullets jumped to a 31-14 lead midway through the first quarter and never were threatened while coasting past the slumping Bucks, who now have lost nine straight road games.

Elvin Hayes and Bob

Dandridge scored 21 points each while playing about half the game for the Bullets.

Bulls 117, Rockets 103
Reggie Theus scored a career-high 27 points and Mickey Johnson added 25 more as Chicago raced past Houston. Artis Gilmore added 20 points and pulled down 11 rebounds as the Bulls spurred to a 12-point halftime lead and never were headed.

Spikers Post Wins

The Hereford High School volleyball teams rounded out the season last Monday night at home against Plainview, with the Herd squads both posting wins. The HHS varsity took a 17-15, 11-13, 15-5 win, while the Herd JV won a 15-9, 8-15, 15-13 match.

The win upped coach Helen Reed's varsity record to 3-5 in District 4-4A play this year and improved the team's overall record to 12-16.

Top scorers for Hereford Monday included Diana Valdez for the varsity and Mary Lou Maldonado for the JV. Top Spikers were Teresa Lambert for the varsity and Faviana Valdez for the JV, while Martha Gavina led varsity setters and Diane McNaney led the JV setters.

Parker May Sign Easy

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Dave Parker, whose line drives helped make him the National League's Most Valuable Player, apparently isn't driving too hard a bargain for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Right now, I'm going to say that we will sign Dave Parker," Pirates General Manager Pete Peterson said Wednesday after Parker was named MVP.

With one year left on a three-year contract, Parker

Richard Sheppard, D.D.S.
General Dentistry
Hours by appointment.
909 E. Park 364-7490

could become a free-agent after next season. But talks are underway on a new pact.

"I'm very optimistic that Dave is going to spend the rest of his career with Pittsburgh," said Peterson.

Parker, winner of two straight NL batting titles, took the same positive stance, but he put his thoughts to rhyme.

"I said last season, 'When the leaves turn brown, I'll be wearing my second batting crown,'" he said.

"At this time, I'll say that when the leaves turn green, I'll be playing for the same team."

That brought grins from Peterson and Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, who flanked

Parker at a press conference.

"Dave's the best ballplayer in the game today. Nobody can do it better," said Tanner, who watched the 6-foot-5, 225-pound right fielder lead a stretch drive last season despite a cracked cheekbone.

"The amazing thing about it is that he hasn't even begun to hit his peak yet. Dave Parker is going to have his good years starting now," Tanner added.

While Tanner rates Parker the best in baseball, Parker apparently isn't insisting on the top salary.

Parker currently does no product endorsements on television or in print. He said doesn't crave them either.

Notre Dame Not In Fiesta Bowl

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Notre Dame has been eliminated from consideration for the Fiesta Bowl game because it will be played on Christmas Day.

Bill Shover, bowl president, said Wednesday Notre Dame decided its appearance in a postseason game on a religious holiday was not in keeping with the school's image.

"The decision was made by Father T.M. Hesburgh," Shover said of the Notre Dame president. "The team and athletic department were very interested in the bowl. But Father Hesburgh decided against it. He decided a Christmas Day game was not consistent with the university's image and status. Notre Dame is a Catholic university."

Notre Dame was a leading candidate for a Fiesta Bowl invitation. Because of the school's decision, Shover said bowl officials will not scout the Fighting Irish's game Saturday with Georgia Tech.

Six schools remain on the Fiesta list, with two expected to receive invitations Saturday afternoon, the first day bowls can extend bids.

The Fiesta candidates include Arkansas, Michigan, Oklahoma, Texas, UCLA and Southern California.

Herd To Scrimmage

Basketball Coach Bobby Decker has the opportunity today to see his team in action for the first time since last spring as the Whiteface varsity hosts Portales, N.M., in a scrimmage beginning at 4:30 p.m. at La Plata.

In a girls' scrimmage, Hereford will meet powerful Canyon at 4 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

The second officially opens for both the boys and girls' teams Saturday. The boys' varsity and junior varsity travel to Amarillo Tascosa, while the girls' teams host Tascosa.

Paul Harvey News Do it Yourself Religion

Take away any man's god and he will invent another. Robert Ruark tried to warn us a generation ago that our opposition to African tribal rites was failing to replace that discipline with "something of value."

Every man has to believe in something, even if—as with atheists—it is a "belief in disbelief."

And let's face it, the difference between a religion and a cult is that yours is a "religion" and any other is a "cult."

Both are flourishing. Recent formalities in Rome during the selections of Popes were in sharp contrast to the informal, improvised do-it-yourself religions which are capturing disciples worldwide.

The Rev. Moon, Hare Krishna, Scientology, Children of God and the guru sects which have beguiled many young Americans are sweeping Europe now.

Some of these "fringe religions" spawn crime, fraud, sexual abuse, suicides.

Ten Hare Krishna "monks" were caught in Frankfurt, West Germany, begging and receiving more than a million dollars—ostensibly for starving people in India—and actually used to buy a castle for their commune.

There's been a pox of suicides in West Germany and Switzerland among members of the small India-Indian sect called Ananda Marga.

Recent Gallup Polls show 94 percent of Americans believe in "God" or in "a universal spirit."

Seventy-one percent believe in life after death. But only 44 percent have much confidence in organized religion.

The only mainline churches which have continued to grow and prosper in numbers and in resources are those which are most evangelical, most nearly what we used to call "fundamental"; those which adhere closest to a belief that the Bible means what it says.

This "absolute" apparently is reassuring. The mainline churches which have compromised, modernized, diluted dogma, are shrinking. And thus encouraging informal, untraditional worship. Religious books are a $600 million-a-year business. Among the best-sellers are the new plain-speech Bibles.

Do-it-yourself religion is not new to our nation. Two hundred years ago Thomas Paine wrote: "My own mind is my own church."

But the mavericks—the overdoers—are all demanding "equal time."

Any group that gathers in anybody's living room can adopt a name, proclaim itself a "religion" and demand tax advantages and free speech privileges.

In the United States a proliferation of celebrity preachers on radio and television has now been augmented by enough others who are trying to get on—so that the result could become a total ban on all religious programming.

That, most of us agree, would leave a tragic void in what is already a secular imbalance.

Viewers Turned Off Elections

NEW YORK (AP) - Television viewers election night turned in droves to movies and specials offered by independent stations, or they left their sets off altogether, ratings from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

The networks' prime-time election programs Nov. 7 showed up at the bottom of the ratings for the week ending Nov. 12. CBS' "Campaign '78" ranked No. 54, followed by "Decision '78" on NBC and

"78 Vote" on ABC.

The rating for the best of the three was 10, and Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with TV, just 10 percent saw all or part of the show.

The networks wouldn't say exactly how much the election night programming cost - it was in the millions - and the effect on the ratings was barely felt.

ABC, with six of the week's Top 10 programs, finished with a rating of 18.9. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute, 18.9 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to ABC.

CBS was second at 17.9, NBC third at 17.8. It was the third consecutive week that the networks finished in that order.

Election night programming did put something of a wrinkle in the ratings - with ABC's Tuesday night comedy lineup pre-empted, NBC's "Little House on the Prairie" nudged its way into first in the ratings.

"Three's Company" or "Laverne and Shirley," both on ABC generally grab the No. 1 spot.

"Little House on the Prairie" had a rating of 27.1.

Second place went to the first chapter in a CBS miniseries, "The Word," with three ABC shows trailing - "Love Boat," "Mork and Mindy" and "Eight is Enough."

CBS had two other shows in the first 10, No. 6 "60 Minutes" and No. 9 "M-A-S-H."

Other shows at the bottom of the ratings were "Li'l Abner in Dogpatch" on NBC, ranked 52nd, and CBS' "Hollywood's Diamond Jubilee," No. 53.

Here are the week's Top 10 shows:

"Little House on the Prairie," with a rating of 27.8 representing 20.7 million homes, NBC; "The Word," Part 1, 26 or 19.4 million, CBS; "Love Boat," 25.9 or 19.3 million, "Mork and Mindy," 25.1 or 18.7 million, and "Eight is Enough," 24.9 or 18.6 million, all ABC; "60 Minutes," 24.8 or 18.5 million, CBS; "Charlie's Angels," 24.1 or 18 million, and "What's Happening," 23.9 or 17.0 million, both ABC; "M-A-S-H," 23.7 17.7 million, CBS, and "Fantasy Island," 22.8 or 17 million.

The second 10 shows:

"Monday Night Football," ABC; "One Day at a Time," CBS; "Barney Miller" and "Soap," both ABC; Monday Movie: "Rainbow," Big Event - "Ode to Billy Joe," and "CHiPs," all NBC; and "Dallas," Wednesday Movie: "First You Cry," and "Barnaby Jones," all CBS.

Dentist Turns to Cooking

CUERO, Texas (AP) - It wasn't that Dr. John Wheeler was bored or that he didn't have enough to do. The appointment book in his Cuero dentist office was filled for six months in advance.

It was just that Dr. Wheeler felt he needed some outside activities.

So, he purchased a home built back in the 1930s, one of those old places that appear to be falling down with the yard

Court Says AG's Can't Sue State Agencies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The State Supreme Court said in a landmark ruling Wednesday that Texas attorneys general lack the right to sue state agencies to wipe out actions they consider illegal.

Without writing a new opinion, the court said merely it found "no reversible error" in two decisions of the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals here.

Attorney General John Hill had sued to block orders of the old Texas Water Quality Board and Texas Water Rights Commission.

Both agencies since have been absorbed into the Texas Department of Water Resources.

In one suit, Hill contended the water quality board's Edwards Aquifer order did not provide enough protection for the water supply of San Antonio and others who tap the giant underground reservoir.

In the other, Hill challenged the water rights commission's approval of a contract under which the South Texas Nuclear Project will buy some 550 million worth of water from the Lower Colorado River Authority.

Both agencies had acted against Hill's advice.

The appeals court ruled on July 12 that the attorney general is bound by the Texas Constitution to defend state agencies in court and, therefore, cannot sue them himself.

In his appeal to the supreme court, Hill said the lower court decision "threatens the most fundamental powers and duties of the office of the attorney general."

As if to prove that point, he talked of building a new motel on the outskirts of Cuero and pointed to a nearby building where he has a successful nursery operating.

"My family always had an interest in plants," he said, "and so I came by it naturally. The nursery is going good and I do find a few hours a week to work there."

A visit to Dr. John's is a return to the past. The old home, built of pine and cypress, and the gardens surrounding appear to be untouched from those days when horses and buggies were tied at front, instead of fast cars parked along the side.

"I like the present and the future," Dr. Wheeler said, "but one should never let the past blow away. I even saved that old player-piano in the front parlor and it is as good as new. Go try it."

The dentist also chips in when needed to wash dishes, serve tables and sweep the floors.

The next morning he is back in his crowded office to handle the dental needs of the community.

"This whole thing was a real challenge," the 59-year-old Wheeler said, "from the renovation to the yard to the restaurant. If you don't have a challenge, you can grow stale. And it helps to do some sweating now and then."

A dentist for the past 36 years, Wheeler said he planned to continue his practice "as long as possible, but to keep other interests at the same time."

Alternative Candidate Has Strong Loss Streak

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (AP) - If you had voted for a loser in all 10 general elections since 1960, would you be dismayed? Shoot, Mahalchik has not just voted for a loser, he's been a loser, in all 10.

Correction: Nine. He missed losing one election, in 1970, but it wasn't Mahalchik's fault. He was in jail and couldn't run.

He has lost races for the presidency and the Senate. On Tuesday, he lost his ninth election, running for the House. He got 1,135 votes out of 118,718 cast, but he is not dismayed.

"I am the alternative," Mahalchik orated. "Better to vote for me than for the pre-picked bums and lice the two-party system puts up. I am for the people. The royal blood of peasants - I mean royal - flows in my veins. I will bow to no tyrant."

If the name Mahalchik is unfamiliar, then you are a stranger to the stretch of Route 206 that passes "Mahalchik's Fabulous Fifty Acres" just north of Mount Holly.

His residence, a teepee, stands next to his white locomotive in front of his seven dirigible hulls alongside his fleet of rusting Army trucks near his airplane carcasses behind his billboard showing the faces of Richard Nixon and Henry Kissinger on the bodies of big red hats. Mahalchik is not one for understatement.

"I once had 141 signs out front," Mahalchik said. "Not many are left. They destroyed most of them when they burned down my house."

Mahalchik's signs tell some of the things he is against. He is against the two-party system, of course, and the court system, and taxation. He is against politicians. "They are so crooked that when they die they should screw them into the ground."

He's rather down on communists. A sign recommends: "Drag 'em from their rat holes, hang 'em, stab 'em, burn 'em, bomb 'em, gas, choke, strangle, drown, shoot, but kill 'em all."

Has Mahalchik mellowed? Some think, at 60, he has. After all, he didn't bother to make a single speech during the campaign.

Then he got into a row with some people who wanted to buy up his Fabulous Fifty Acres and he wound up before a judge.

The judge asked if Mahalchik was contemptuous of his court. Mahalchik said damn right. The judge tossed him in the cooler. While languishing there, Mahalchik's house burned.

"Next thing they did was pull out some zoning law that said I couldn't rebuild my house or live in a trailer, a bus, anything I had. Is that America? Is that freedom?"

"I checked. The law didn't mention a teepee, so I live in a teepee. Not by choice. I'm not some kind of kook."

Mahalchik trades in horses now. A few chickens peck around the teepee and provide fresh eggs for sale.

Mainly, though, he remains Mahalchik, just Mahalchik, the name emblazoned on his teepee and on his fading signs. Mahalchik, some of the angriest of the angry men.

Does he have a full name? "Yes. Remember it. I am John Valjean Mahalchik. The royal blood of peasants..."

Open House Set For Jack Walkers

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walker of Titusville, Fla., former residents of Hereford, will be honored here during a reception from 3-6 p.m. Sunday. The couple are celebrating their 50th golden wedding anniversary.

Friends and relatives of the Walkers, who farmed northwest of Hereford for approximately 14 years, are invited to greet the couple in home of their daughter, Mrs. C.P. (Betty Sue) Worthan, 405 Star St.

Also honoring their parents will be the Walkers' other children, including Mrs. Bill (Frances) Jennings of Lazbuddie, Jackie Walker of Dallas and Gene Walker of St. John's, Ariz.

The former Roberta Trimmer and Jack Walker were married Nov. 28, 1928 in Sallisaw, Okla. They came to Deaf Smith County in approximately 1938 and farmed here until 1952, when they moved to Florida. They have six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, Dale and Jill West of Hereford.

Forum Discusses Membership Tea

More than 70 persons attended the recent Pro-Family Forum annual membership tea, it was announced Monday night during the group's monthly business meeting at the Community Center.

Fourteen new members and three associate members joined the Forum during the tea, which featured Skeet Workman of Amarillo as guest speaker. Mrs. Workman focused on the importance of people being aware of the humanism movement.

In Monday night's business session, president Irene Mullins urged concerned citizens to write their Congressmen about the proposal to lift tax exempt status from private schools and the International Year of the Child.

It was announced that a seminar is to be held on the topic "Humanism in Public Schools" Nov. 30 at Dimmitt High School. Keynote speaker will be Lottie Beth Hobbs, national president of Pro-Family Forum. The program, which is open to the public, will begin at 6 p.m.

The Forum voted to charter at least one passenger bus so that local residents can attend the Pro-Family Rally Nov. 25 at Fort Worth in the Tarrant County Convention Center. The local delegation will depart at 4 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 25, and return Saturday night. Reservations, which must be made before noon Nov. 22, can be confirmed by calling one of those numbers: 364-4436 or 364-1077.

Bus fare will be $30 per person. Donations are being accepted from groups interested in sending a representative to the rally.

Also, members were reminded to prepare articles for their booth at Westway Extension Club's Country Christmas Bazaar Dec. 9-10. Proceeds from the Forum's table will go into the treasury.

National Leaders Focus On Christian Concerns

BY KERRIE STEIERT
Women's Editor

Esther Springer recently returned from Washington, D.C., where she attended a National Affairs Seminar featuring internationally-known leaders who had one interest in common—the survival of Christianity.

Among the seminar speakers were Dr. James Schlesinger, General William Westmoreland, Dr. George Gallup and the Honorable John B. Conlan. They and a dozen other speakers addressed themselves to international and domestic affairs having impact on the Christian community.

Mrs. Springer and Mary Alice Frye, both stockholders in Christian Book Store here, were among more than 250 Christian businessmen and women who attended the seminar. "We were not Republicans, nor Democrats, just all Christians," Mrs. Springer said of the non-denominational event.

Mrs. Springer described the seminar as "hard," but was gratified that she and Mrs. Frye attended (at their own expense.) "I was very eager to go after I was invited. I wanted to know what America's leaders had to say concerning Christian issues," she said.

Mrs. Springer had attended regional programs on similar issues earlier this year and was "scared to death by what I heard about such things as the Trilateral Commission." However, the seminar in the nation's capital was "rather calming" to the local resident.

"These national speakers did not say that everything was alright in our country, but I was reassured for the simple reason that all these people are very dedicated citizens and Christians. Someone is trying to do something for this country," she remarked.

The seminar delegates were exposed to a handful of sobering thoughts by the host of speakers. One spokesman did not deny the existence of the Tri-Lateral Commission, stating that it "carries substantial influence." Also, Morgan Maxfield, who moderated a seminar discussion on business and investment strategies, declared that, although he is not pessimistic, there will be a national recession.

Communism and humanism were two weighty philosophies discussed at length by seminar speakers. One speaker outlined the two steps employed in a Communist takeover: 1) external encirclement, and 2) internal Moral decay. General Westmoreland continued this line of thinking when he said, "Fighting is the crudest way to win the enemy. Break the will of the enemy and you have accomplished the true technique of war."

Westmoreland also said, "We must get our house in order both economically and morally. Only history will record if all the people in our system have the ability to reverse our standards and revitalize our society."

Mrs. Springer was concerned about the concept of humanism, which is a belief in humans, not a supreme being. The Humanist Manifesto adheres to the philosophy "The belief that there is one who hears their prayers and can do something about it has been proven untrue and an outmoded faith." Mrs. Springer stated that the leader of the feminist movement has said, "Feminism is our path to humanism and humanism is our goal."

Dr. George Gallup, who instigated the respected Gallup Poll, spoke about the importance of Christian teachings in the home. He expessed a need for parents to share Christian concepts with their children, adding that the home and not the church should be the key training center. Dr. Gallup also stressed the growing problem of alcoholism in teenagers.

In retrospect, Mrs. Springer termed the seminar as "thought-provoking." She explained, "It made me think 'How can I do something to help the Christian community?' We particularly need to help young couples. That's what we're here for."

Of Swiss extraction, Mrs. Springer was taught by her parents that everything the government did "was wonderful." She said, "I want to do everything I can to preserve democracy."

Ann Landers Allergic To Marriage

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please don't think I'm some kind of a nut. I'm writing because there may be others out there who have the same problem and don't know it.

Subject: Allergic to male perspiration. Yes, I broke an engagement to a fine man because I developed a terrible skin rash from his sweat. He didn't sweat profusely -- just a small amount -- but it was enough to make me break out all over. (As you have probably guessed, the rash appeared within minutes after we had sex.)

All this happened three years ago. No, I'm not married and I don't want to be. Prayer has filled the void in my life that I used to think had to be filled by a lover or a husband. I am signing myself--Happier With The Lord

DEAR HAPPIER: I doubt you were allergic to your fiance's perspiration. More to the point, you felt guilty about having sex with him and this is what produced the rash. It's a good thing your body gave you the message. The marriage could have been a disaster. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are right when you say sometimes the only guidance children get is from their teachers. I know, because I was one of those children.

Due to an intolerable (and inescapable) home situation I turned to school as a substitute for home and family. How fortunate I was that several teachers sensed my need and were willing to spend the time to listen to me and give me solid counsel and emotional support. Those wonderful people provided me the caring and guidance I was unable to find anywhere else.

Next June I will graduate from college. I would never have had the incentive (or confidence) to go on to higher education had it not been for the encouragement and sympathetic ear of my teachers.

I still keep in touch and feel closer to them than I do to some of my blood relatives. -- Betty K.

DEAR BETTY: I received dozens of letters from readers who expressed deep appreciation and affection for teachers who, like yours, made an enormous difference in their lives.

I hope your letter will encourage other teachers to be on the alert for the lost lambs who are reaching out for the love and understanding they aren't getting at home. Today, because of the disintegration of family life, care teachers are more vital than ever.

DEAR ANN: I'm a hard-working waitress who gives good service. Last night I received the following:

On a $37 check -- $2 tip.
$27 check -- $2 tip.
$22 check -- $1 tip.
$16 check -- NO tip.

What do you think of this? -- Mad in Madison

DEAR MAD: I think if the service is really good, a $37 check merits a $5 tip, a $27 check rates a $4 tip, a $22 check deserves a $3.25 tip, and a $16 check calls for $2.50 tip.

These days it's 15 percent -- or a little more for spectacular service and special attention.

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Young people nowadays are resisting marriage because they want guarantees. They want to know that before they say, "I do," he "will" and she'll "try."

I don't blame 'em. Marriage is not a commitment to be taken lightly. I've always felt there are several ways a couple can test themselves to see if they could survive a term as husband and wife.

1. Nurse him through a simple cold.
2. Have him give you directions anywhere.
3. Have a meaningful conversation.
4. See one another with your hair wet.
5. Hang a picture together.

These are all "stress situations," but if you really want to test compatibility, you can go for the big one by playing Monopoly with your future spouse.

If I had played Monopoly with my husband just once before we were married, there is no doubt in my mind that today I would be on the arm of Duane Farquardt. If I saw my present husband across a crowded room, I'd say, "Let's get out of here, Duane, he's the turkey I was telling you about who once charged me $3,020 for landing on Park Place."

Something happens to a man when he sits down to play Monopoly.

His eyes become cold and impersonal, his jaw his set. He coolly surveys the entire board with the intensity of a hostess who has just found something moving in her raisin pudding.

As you throw the dice, he meets your gaze across the board and pronounces sharply, "I own the Boardwalk. If you want to stay in the game, you'll have to sell me all your utilities. I'll give you $150 for all three."

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS FOR ALL THREE! Is this the man talking for whom you have borne three children, picked lint off his socks, hand-washed his elastic stockings, trimmed his hair over the ears when he couldn't get to the barber, burnt your fingers on his three-minute eggs, kissed good night when he had a lip full of Novocaine?

I told him one night, "There are winners and there are winners, but Lord, I hate a winner who smiles when he wins!"

So all of you people out there contemplating marriage (and you all know who you are), sit down at the Monopoly board and play a game. Better to know now that a man will not give you fake funny money when it's just lying there in a box than to find out after you're married.

Center To Carol Dec. 13

Mental Health and Mental Retardation Satellite Center will be singing Christmas carols Dec. 13.

Anyone wishing to have the clients carol at their home should call the center at 364-5861.

After caroling, the carolers will enjoy cookies and hot chocolate at the home of Billie Sonnenberg, volunteer.

The Satellite Center now has 14 clients and 6 volunteers. Sandy Stockstill is the director.

Believers Plan Agenda

The Believers Group of St. Thomas Episcopal Church met Sunday after the Church service for their monthly dinner and meeting. Hostesses for the dinner were Patty Brock, Margaret Betzen and Virginia Anstey and daughters.

The meeting was conducted by Robert Betzen, vice president. In the future, the Believers will meet the third Sunday in the month instead of the second. In January it will be combined with the annual Parish meeting after the morning service.

A work day is to be held Sunday, Dec. 3, after the morning Church service. A sack lunch is to be brought.

A yearbook will be compiled of all Church members, including a short history of each with Billie Ham in charge.

In a well-decorated home, the color scheme of one room compliments the other, and hallways visually link one room with another, says Sue Young, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

Regular daily exercise, rather than "only on weekends," will pave the way to better physical fitness, says Carla Shearer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

Managing Money Differs

COLLEGE STATION - Families with two money earners face unique challenges in managing their money, a family resource management specialist says.

Although two incomes have helped push median family income to over $18,000, or 34 percent more than for single earner families, more money doesn't necessarily mean fewer problems, Nancy Granovsky points out.

Mrs. Granovsky is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

First of all, the second paycheck doesn't always go as far as people thought it would. It costs money to earn money.

Some of the costs of earning a second income are obvious ones: taxes, insurance, social security and other expenses, transportation, and extra clothing.

But, there are also hidden costs, the specialist continues.

INCOME TAX
When there are two earners, the "marriage penalty" of the progressive income tax system affects family income.

When this happens, the first dollar of the second income is taxed at the same high rate as the last dollar earned by the first earner.

For example, if a husband earns $15,000 and his wife earns $8,000, her first dollar is taxed at the same rate as the last dollar he earned, not at the same rate as his first dollar.

The effect is higher taxes.

SPENDING FOR SERVICES
Another "hidden cost" of two incomes is increased spending for services usually provided by the family for itself.

The growth of fast-food establishments is testimony to the growing number of families who eat many meals away from home because time and energy for meal preparation are limited.

Housekeeping services are also bought by some two-job families.

As more money is spent for services, less money may be left over to meet other expenses or for special purchases, the specialist says.

AVOID OVER-SPENDING
Having two pay-checks can lead to unrealistic expectations about what money can buy.

Families who know a second income will be only temporary should time any long-term credit purchases carefully, Mrs. Granovsky advises.

When the second income stops but installment payments are still due, serious financial problems can arise.

Even if the second income is permanent, couples should exercise caution in spending beyond their means and their needs.

SPENDING PLAN
Two-job families can receive maximum satisfaction from their money if they base their financial decisions on open communication and thoughtful planning.

Establish financial goals both spouses agree on, and set realistic time tables in achieving them, she recommends.

Discuss how to handle in-coming money. Should it be "his," "hers" or "ours?"

Some alternatives include:
-pooling all the money into one account and paying everything from a single account with special allowances for each spouse.

-letting each spouse control his/her own income with contributions for household operation or with each responsible for paying specific items each month.

Community justice

CHICAGO (NEA) — In a city of this size, with the usual quota of rape, murder and mayhem, it's not easy to get the powers-that-be to focus much attention on petty street crime or a rash of teenage vandalism.

It's not easy, but it's no longer impossible — thanks to a unique criminal justice program that Chicago has developed specifically to combat the type of crime that most directly affects, and discourages, ordinary citizens.

Felony cases get all the headlines, but they're not what's important at the neighborhood level. The real disgust with the system stems from the way it handles things like traffic cases and misdemeanors, says Raymond Grossman, head of the Community Prosecutions Division of the Cook County State's Attorney's Office.

Grossman runs a four-year-old network of community prosecution offices located in four Chicago neighborhoods. They are, in effect, walk-in justice centers — a place where citizens can go to get action on everything from a landlord-tenant dispute to an outbreak of burglaries and muggings.

Those are the kinds of cases that usually get lost in the shuffle of a big city court system. The 400 criminal prosecutors in Chicago handle 12,000 to 13,000 felony cases per year and 200,000 to 300,000 misdemeanors. The felonies get most of the attention. On misdemeanor felonies, a different prosecutor is assigned at each step of the case, with no time to learn the details, no time to interview witnesses, no incentive to care very much about the outcome.

The Community Prosecutions Division is different. Where the average prosecutor must juggle 150 to 250 cases at a time, Grossman's attorneys carry 30 to 40. One lawyer will stick with a case from beginning to end, keeping in touch at every stage with the complainants and the community groups concerned about the crime in question.

Chicago's strong community organizations are vital to the success of the program. They work closely with the neighborhood prosecutors, alerting them to particular crime problems in the area, rounding up witnesses and encouraging cooperation.

"In all bad neighborhoods, the people know a lot more about what's going on than the cops do," Grossman notes. And when people see that arrests can indeed lead to convictions, because "their" prosecutor will take the time to nurse the case through the court labyrinth, then they will cooperate with the police and prosecutors in a way they might not otherwise bother to do.

There's nothing cost-efficient about the operation. "My men and women can only handle one or two cases per day. That's certainly not 'efficient' in dollar terms," Grossman cheerfully concedes.

But "efficiency" without effectiveness is meaningless, and by every indicator, the personalized approach of the community prosecutors is producing results. In the neighborhoods served by the program, crime rates are down and convictions are up. More importantly, people are part of the criminal justice system, not pawns of it.

The federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration now provides the bulk of the program's funding, and LEAA has publicized the Chicago experiment widely through its agency newsletter.

Other cities may soon follow Chicago's example. Community organizations in Cleveland, Providence and New York are hoping to emulate the program here and have already started pressuring their own city prosecutors to set up neighborhood offices like Chicago's.

Taxpayers must foot the bill for any criminal justice system. The community prosecutions office at least lets those who pay for the system help determine the priorities that system adopts.

Local Women Help Make Braille Books

A handful of Hereford women travel each month to St. John's Lutheran Church at Lariat to help produce Braille books for the blind. Local women participating in the project include Anna Vogler, Ruth Groneman, Ella Caudle, Ella Stehr, Lilah Grubb, Mary Alice Frye and Bertha Tiefel.

The area group of volunteers forms one of 112 work centers throughout the United States and it is not unusual for the St. John's Chapter to complete 35 books (each 63 pages in length) in a day's work. All materials are donated to St. John's by the National Lutheran Braille Workers Organization.

In an assembly line production, the volunteers organize the metal plates in correct sequence and insert special paper which can be "punched" on both sides with Braille. This special variety of paper provides a more compact Braille book and cuts down on the cost of bulk printing.

After the pages have been printed, punch in Braille and arranged in correct order, they are bound in plastic spirals by machine. The Braille books are then packaged and shipped to blind people around the world.

Although the St. John volunteers are currently working on "A Prayer for the World," which is written in English, they recently helped complete a book written in Korean.

Iron Deficiency Plagues Americans

IRONING OUT ANEMIA

Iron is the cheapest and most useful metal known to man. Yet, great numbers of American women and children suffer from iron deficiency anemia because of a diet low in this essential mineral.

Scientists have determined that the body needs a supply of iron every day, as humans are only able to store it in small amounts. Men seem to be able to store two to five times more iron than women.

Scientific studies have shown that American girls and women consume, on the average, less than two-thirds of the recommended dietary allowance of 18 milligrams of iron each day. This low intake of iron, combined with already low stores of the mineral, can result in iron deficiency anemia.

Some of the symptoms of this anemia include weakness, a tendency to tire easily, and irritability. However, since these signs are often indications of other medical problems, a doctor should be consulted for diagnosis and treatment.

Infants and children often develop iron deficiency during their rapid growth periods. Babies should have their milk diets supplemented with enriched cereals as soon as possible, while children should be served foods from the four food groups.

Dairy Council, Inc. nutritionists have selected the following foods as being good sources of iron: enriched or whole wheat bread, cereals and flour; pork, calf or beef liver; lean beef, pork or lamb; leafy green vegetables; oysters and other shellfish; dried beans; eggs; and prunes and other dried fruits.

BASIC MEAT LOAF

2 pounds ground beef

1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/4 cup instant minced onion
2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 cup evaporated milk
1/4 cup catsup

Combine ground beef, bread crumbs, onion, salt, pepper and evaporated milk just until blended. Shape to form a loaf in a shallow baking pan. Bake in preheated 350 degree F. oven one hour. Spoon catsup over top. Bake 10 additional minutes. Eight servings.

FROSTED MEAT LOAF: Omit catsup. Combine meat mixture, shape and bake one hour as directed. Drain off excess fat. Prepare 8 servings instant mashed potatoes according to package directions, substituting 1/2 cup evaporated milk for milk. Frost loaf with potato mixture. Sprinkle top with 1/2 cup (2 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese. Bake 10 to 15 additional minutes.

MEATBALLS: Prepare 1/2 Meat Loaf recipe. Shape to form eight balls. Bake in buttered muffin cups in preheated 350 degree F. oven 20 to 25 minutes. Spoon one teaspoon barbecue sauce over each meatball halfway through baking period, if desired.

RICE AWARD

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Dr. William K. Frankena has been named the first recipient of the Warner G. Rice Humanities Award.

Frankena is a University of Michigan professor of philosophy. The award is to be presented annually "in recognition of outstanding scholarly achievement in the humanities."

The Bodleian Library at Oxford University in England is named after Sir Thomas Bodley, who restored the library in 1598.

Public Hearings to Be Held On Foods Sold in Schools

The Department of Agriculture will go to the public early next year with a series of hearings on the question of banning the sale of candy and other competitive foods in schools, according to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman.

Based on comments given in next year's hearings, the department will issue new proposed regulations which will become final in time for the 1979-80 school year. The Secretary of Agriculture has been directed by Congress to regulate the sale in schools of competitive foods of little nutritional value.

Last April, the department proposed banning the sale of competitive foods—candy, soda water, frozen desserts and chewing gum—in schools until the end of the lunch period. These are called "competitive" foods because they are sold in competition with the school lunch and breakfast programs.

More than 2,000 students, parents, teachers, school administrators, medical people and others commented on the proposals. The public comments, said Foreman, "raised fundamental questions we feel we must address before going further. How should we determine which competitive foods are sufficiently nutritious to be sold, and which are not? What are the public's concerns about the relationship between diet and health?"

"Most supported some sort of ban," Foreman said, "but we want to hear more from the public before proceeding further."

The department is considering a ban on competitive foods, said Foreman, "because we are concerned about the increasing numbers of students eating these foods and then skipping lunch or only eating part of their lunch."

Cosmetics Can Cause Allergic Reactions

COLLEGE STATION — Consumer "watch words" for cosmetic safety are "use with care," a consumer information specialist says.

Using cosmetics with care is important because occasionally severe allergic reactions to some products occur, Claudia Kerbel explains.

At other times, consumers may misuse cosmetics and endanger their health. Mrs. Kerbel is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She recommends following these "use with care" guidelines: *Read labels on containers and packages, and follow directions exactly.

COSMETIC ALLERGY, REACTION

*Determine possible allergy by placing a small amount of the cosmetic on the inside forearm, and leave it for 24 hours.

For hair products, choose an inconspicuous area on the back of the head, and do a patch test following directions in the package.

Check for any signs of redness or itching before using the product completely.

*If a reaction occurs, such as redness, itching, swelling, soreness or blisters, stop using all cosmetics that may be affecting that area.

*If the reaction persists, see a doctor immediately. Take the suspect cosmetic along.

If that cosmetic was responsible for the reaction, write letter to the product manufacturer whose address is on the package.

Send a copy of the letter to the Food and Drug Administration, 3032 Bryan Street, Dallas, Texas 75204.

COSMETIC CONTAMINATION

*To prevent contamination, keep containers closed tightly when not in use, and always wash hands before applying any cosmetic.

Cosmetics are usually bacteria free before they are opened. The consumer is usually the one to introduce bacteria into a cosmetic.

*Throw out old cosmetics, because preservatives lose effectiveness over time.

*Never borrow another person's cosmetics—they may be contaminated.

EXTRA PRECAUTIONS

*Use aerosols carefully, and avoid inhaling the spray.

*Keep all cosmetics out of children's reach.

Ag Dept. Analysis Shows

Cattle Herd Thinning Continues at Record Pace

WASHINGTON (AP) - Milk production, down about 1 percent this year, probably will hold about steady in 1979, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

Relatively lower-priced feed could stimulate milk output per cow this winter. But with market prices for slaughter cows expected to remain high, dairymen will be under pressure to continue thinning out their herds, the department said today.

"Milk production later in 1979 will depend on the impact of 1979 crop conditions on feed prices, the rate of increase in other production costs, the impact of demand conditions on milk prices, and other factors," the department's annual outlook conference was told.

Charles N. Shaw and James J. Miller, specialists in the USDA's Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service, said that milk production has remained below year-earlier levels since last March and for all of 1978, probably will total about 122 billion pounds, down from 123 billion pounds in 1977.

Because of higher prices, cash receipts from dairying are expected to be about $12.5 billion this year, up 7 percent from 1977, they said.

"In early 1979, milk prices will ease seasonally but the expected very low commercial stocks at the start of the year may keep prices above the government price support level until well into the seasonal upswing in milk production," the report said.

The analysts said that "higher consumer incomes and rising prices for other foods" have helped to increase the demand for milk and other dairy products this year.

That has resulted in reduced stocks of dairy products since early this year. With farm prices generally above the support price, federal buying of milk products under the support program has declined.

Other outlook conference reports Wednesday and Tuesday included:

SOYBEANS - With use, including exports, rising, farmers may boost acreage again in 1979 if prices remain favorable in relation to corn. Futures market indicators point to a 3-to-1 soybean-corn price ratio next March. A ratio of 2.5 to 1 is considered favorable for soybeans.

"On the other hand, the soybean-cotton price relationships are not favorable for soybean expansion so some land in the Delta area may be switched from soybeans back to cotton in 1979," analyst George W. Kromer said Tuesday.

Poultry and Eggs - Economist William E. Cathcart said in remarks prepared for Wednesday's outlook session that "broiler and turkey producers had a good year in 1978 and prospects point to continued favorable conditions in 1979."

Egg producers saw profits decline in the first three quarters of this year but returns are improving this fall, he said.

LIVESTOCK AND MEAT - The cattle inventory continues to decline and may be only about 111 million head on Jan. 1, down 16 percent from a record peak of more than 132 million head at the beginning of 1975, the sharpest drop on record.

James E. Nix, a USDA livestock economist, said the nation's cow inventory - the basis of the beef supply, has been cut from a high of 56.9 million head in 1975 to 49.7 million at the start of this year. A further cut of about two million head probably will be made by the end of this year.

"This smaller cow herd suggests that the 1979 calf crop will be smaller than this year's estimated 44.1 million head," he said.

But Nix added that the decline in the total cattle inventory "is expected to be slowed considerably, if not halted" in 1979.

Predicting hog production has been trickier, and output this year has not matched USDA's forecasts of a year ago.

Nix said that based on this fall's surveys, pork production in the first half of 1979 may be up 2 percent to 4 percent from the first six months of this year.

Market prices of both cattle and hogs are expected to continue strong for some time.

possibility of 1979 production exceeding disappearance," he said. "As a result, we could see a rebuilding of cotton stocks during the 1979-80 season, the reverse of developments this season."

Evans said that cotton farmers planted about 13 million acres in 1978, down about 700,000 acres from 1977. How many are planted next spring will be guided by many factors, including the price of cotton relative to other crops.

"If current price relationships prevail, cotton acreage could increase next year to nearly 14 million acres with no acreage set-aside or diversion program," he said.

Acreage could be less if prices relative to other crops decline, however.

see cotton acreage dropping below 13 million on the basis of market prices alone," Evans said.

TOBACCO - Rising export demand and "steady" domestic demand for tobacco appear on tap next year.

Economists Robert H. Miller and Richard Hall said Tuesday in an outlook report that U.S. cigarette production next year should reach a new high of 700 billion cigarettes, about 2 percent more than this year.

"With vigorous auction bidding and higher support levels, flue-cured tobacco prices averaged 14 percent above 1977's record level," their report said.

"When burley markets open next week, prices may rise and set a new record, surpassing 1977's record of $1.20 per pound."

Area Swine Specialist Is Named

LUBBOCK - A swine specialist for the South Plains, the Panhandle and parts of the Rolling Plains has been named by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Robert S. Cohen, formerly of College Station, will provide leadership for Extension educational programs for swine producers in the area. He is stationed at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Lubbock.

Since 1974, Dr. Cohen has been an assistant professor and swine specialist at Texas A&M University, College Station. In that position, he worked with the adult specialist program with vocational agriculture teachers throughout the state.

He has served as an assistant Extension agent for agriculture in Williamson and Eastland counties.

Cohen received his B.S. in animal science from Texas A&M in 1965. His M.S. and Ph.D. in animal nutrition also are from Texas A&M. His research is in the area of energy and protein nutrition of swine.

Dr. Cohen was reared on a cattle, swine and poultry operation in southeastern Llano County and was graduated from Llano High School. He was active in 4-H for 10 years and in FFA for four years.

In 4-H, he received the Santa Fe Award and attended National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. At A&M he received the Santa Fe Scholarship Award and was editor and chairman of the Saddle and Sirolo yearbook committee.

Earlier this year, he received the Distinguished Service Award from the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas.

He is married to the former Jane Watkins. Mrs. Cohen is the Lubbock County Extension agent for home energy conservation.

"In summary, market conditions today indicate a good

County Will Participate In Water District Election

As its meeting on November 6, the board of directors of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 officially called for an election to be held on January 20, 1979, to elect two members of the Board of Directors and two county committeemen from each of its northernmost counties.

Positions open for election are board members from Director's Precinct Three, which is composed of Bailey, Castro and Parmer Counties, and Director's Precinct Four which includes Armstrong, Deaf Smith, Potter and Randall Counties. Also being elected will be two county committeemen from each of the counties in these two Director's Precincts.

In related action the board approved the abolition of County Committee Precinct boundaries in Randall County so that all Randall County Committee members would be elected at-large. This action was taken by the directors to give a more even distribution of representation, taking into account the population dispersion in Randall County.

The Directors also appointed Johnny Studer to serve out the unexpired term of Joe Albracht, who has moved out of the district, on the Randall County Committee.

The District Manager, A. Wayne Wyatt, presented two purchase proposals to the directors for their consideration. The board approved the purchase of four new vehicles to be used for field purposes and approved fund expenditure for the neutron logging equipment necessary to perform work in conjunction with the Texas Department of Water Resources contract.

The continuing membership of the district in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was approved. The board indicated that it hoped the district's Information and Education Division can become deeply involved in this organization in an effort to stimulate the WTCC into taking a more active role in promoting water conservation. Along with this action the directors voted to pay the district's membership in the Texas Water Conservation Association and to retain the Legislative News Service provided by TWCA.

The district manager discussed with the directors the possibility of building storage space onto the back of the district office building and the possibility that the district might be able to purchase unused ballot boxes from the Lubbock County Clerk's Office.

The board authorized Wyatt to submit a bid for the ballot boxes and to check further into contracting for the storage unit.

In other action the board approved 54 water well permit applications, ten permit extensions and three amended permits; heard and approved the district's financial status as of October 31, 1978; and heard representatives of the Lubbock Property Owners Association in presenting a list of concerns about the operation of the district.

Drought Causes Honey Reduction

AUSTIN--The Texas honey industry is feeling the effects of this year's widespread drought, and production from commercial apiaries is expected to drop by 22 percent, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

With 16,000 fewer bee colonies this year than in 1977, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service predicts honey production will be down to less than five million pounds, compared to 6.36 million pounds last year.

"Texas ranked third in the nation in number of bee colonies in 1977," commented Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V.

Brown, "but dry weather, plus heavy flooding when the rains did come, caused many apiaries to move to more favorable out-of-state locations."

"We hope this is a temporary move," Brown said, "and that the weather improves next year to help the industry gain strength in the state."

Throughout the rest of the U.S., production is expected to increase 44 percent above last year, up to almost 150 million pounds.

Yield per colony is predicted at 74.6 pounds in 20 selected honey producing states, compared to only 55 pounds per colony in Texas.

Annual Agri-Business Seminar is Scheduled

The annual Golden Spread Agri-Business seminar will be held in Amarillo Friday at the Villa Inn, 1-40 and Grand, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

The seminar is sponsored by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.

Speakers for the seminar include E.M. Gossett Jr., Dr. Bill Pope, James R. Cook, Harvey Davis and Dr. W.T. Berry.

Gossett has been engaged in farming and ranching in Moore, Sherman, Ochiltree and Lipscomb counties since 1962, and is president of Gossett Inc., a family owned corporation engaged in farming and ranching. He is a former county agent for Moore and Lipscomb counties, and will speak on "Managing for Profit."

Dr. Pope is a nationally recognized speaker on cattle production and agriculture. In 1976 he was named a dean and director of New Mexico State University's agriculture department and experiment station. He will speak on "Future Trends in Crop and Livestock Management."

Cook, president and chief executive officer of American National Bank, was raised on a grain and livestock ranch in northwest Missouri, and has 18 years of experience in rural and financial center banks. He will speak on "Money and Inflation as it Affects Agriculture."

Davis is executive director of the Texas Dept. of Water Resources, and served as executive director of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board in Temple for 16 years prior to his present position.

He will address the topic, "Future Resource Alternatives."

Berry is senior vice president and director for both Western Farm Management Co., Visalia, Calif. and its parent, The Victorio Co., Phoenix. He serves as a company consultant in the analysis, financing and sale of agricultural operations and properties.

Local residents interested in attending the seminar may contact Donald Hicks, chairman of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee.

Most good farmers don't wait until planting time to buy Pioneer-brand seed . . . not anymore.

The best farmers seem to think that having the seed with the greatest potential is too important to leave to chance. So ordering next year's seed as soon as they've seen this year's results is becoming a habit . . . practically a tradition.

Why? Because, when you compare Pioneer performance to brands that are always available and compare the advantages of ordering early to the disadvantages, you've got to pick up the phone and call a Pioneer dealer.

AND TO CAP IT OFF - Pioneer will acknowledge your early order by sending you a brightly green, foam-lined gabardine cap.

A GENTLE REMINDER OF LAST WINTER:

THIS WINTER, ADD A CARRIER HEAT PUMP TO YOUR FURNACE AND SAVE HEATING DOLLARS!

Carrier's Year-round One heat pump is an efficient, economical heating and cooling system all by itself. It can replace any old, worn-out forced-air furnace. But if your forced-air furnace (electric, gas, or oil) is in good shape, you can add a heat pump to it — and get really low heating costs! That's because your new combination furnace-heat pump system heats with either the furnace or heat pump. Depending on outside temperature, the system automatically chooses whichever heating method can save you the most money!

Add a Carrier Year-round One — get lower heating bills and high-efficiency air conditioning, too!

Let us tell you all about it. We'll be happy to give you an estimate and a free Heat-Saving Analysis of your home. Call us today!

Slumping Economy Could Offset Favorable Outlook for Cotton

RALEIGH - The cotton market looks good now--but watch the economy.

In a nutshell, that's the conclusion of Cotton Incorporated economists in their latest analysis for American cotton producers of the cotton marketing scene.

Writing in the November issue of their monthly publication, the Cotton Summary, they say that current supply-and-demand fundamentals point to a continued strong cotton market.

with prices holding at present levels or moving even higher.

However, they quickly add, "demand fundamentals are dependent upon overall economic conditions, which could quickly turn the cotton market sour. U.S. economic growth is somewhat lackluster now, and if consumer spending slows and the economy sags, textile mills undoubtedly will cut back operations. Should this happen, cotton prices will fall."

Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of American cotton producers, financed entirely by producers' pre-bale assessments to carry out a comprehensive program of research and marketing. Through the Cotton Summary, the company's Economic and Research Development staff keeps producers up-to-date on trends in the cotton market and the general world economy to help them make their planting and marketing decisions.

Lawrence Shaw, associate director for supply economics, notes that throughout October, cotton prices moved strongly upward with both domestic and foreign growths reaching their highest price levels in well over a year by the end of the month.

"One reason for these increases is clear," says Shaw. "World cotton consumption in the 1978-79 cotton marketing year is expected to exceed production by nearly two million bales. Consequently, world cotton carryover will decline, and the supply/demand balance for cotton will tighten." This is based on present production estimates of 10.4 million bales for the U.S. crop and 49.1 million bales for the foreign crop.

Shaw notes that many producers may put cotton in the government loan in anticipation of still higher price levels. He says that before making that decision, however, each producer should keep in mind these considerations:

--Current estimates of world output could be wrong. Even the best information available on China and Russia is sketchy. Producers should closely monitor harvest progress in the major cotton producing countries of the world.

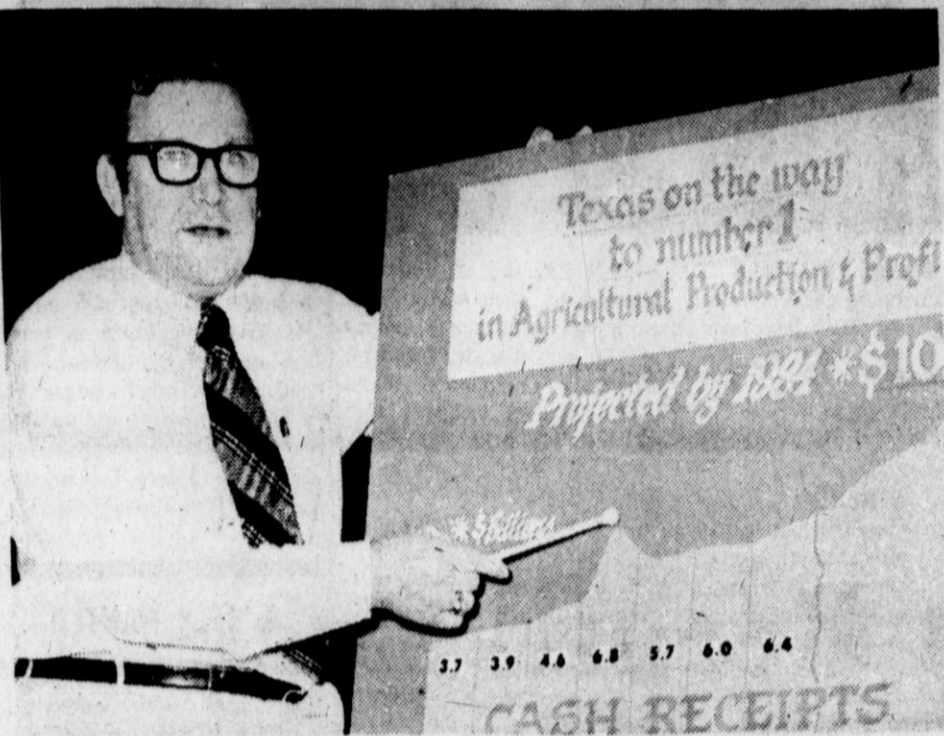

--The U.S. economy appears unsettled, and if it slows significantly, cotton prices probably will drop. "Watching the economy should be just as important to producers as watching the progress of harvesting," says Shaw.

--For use of the government loan to be profitable, cotton prices will have to increase or prices will have to increase more than storage and interest charges. Producers should be aware of the full costs involved in keeping cotton in the government loan--particularly if long-term use of the loan is being considered.

--Selling an entire crop at the peak of the market is "easy to wish for and hard to do." That is the reason, says Shaw, that Cotton Incorporated has repeatedly stressed spreading out selling by the producer, with the objective of getting a high average price for his crop.

"Although such a plan obviously sacrifices some potential for the very highest profit, it substitutes strategy for luck," Shaw adds. "Current conditions again suggest the wisdom of this advice."

Ag Productivity Highlighted During Annual Farm-City Week

COLLEGE STATION - Agriculture is one of the most efficient and productive industries in the United States. Thanks to that fact, Americans continue to enjoy a bountiful food supply at reasonable prices.

The contribution of agriculture and its role in the total economy of Texas and the nation should be recognized during Farm-City Week Nov. 17-23, contends Dr. Carl Anderson, marketing economist with the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

Farm-City Week, sponsored annually by the National Farm-City Council, Inc. and Kiwanis International, is designed to promote better understanding between farm and city residents.

"Americans should be thankful for a strong and efficient agricultural industry, one in which output per manhour of farm work has increased 30 percent from 1970 to 1976. At the same time output per manhour for non-farm business rose about 10 percent. Along with the increased output, crop and livestock production rose 16 percent during those six years," points out Anderson.

"Our nation's farmers account for only 3.6 percent of the total population--a far cry from the Soviet Union, for example, where one-third of the people are engaged in farming," notes the economist. "With most Americans freed from producing food, they can devote their efforts to producing goods and providing services that enhance the overall standard of living."

Americans reap the benefits of our efficient agricultural industry as they typically spend only about 17 percent of their disposable incomes for food. This reflects a decrease of 15 percent in 15 years. During the same period, per capita food consumption increased 10 percent. While food costs have risen some in recent years due to increased marketing, processing and related costs, the actual farm value of food costs amounts to only 40 cents of every food dollar.

"Agriculture also carries the load as far as our foreign trade is concerned," emphasizes Anderson. "It is the only sector of the U.S. economy with a trade surplus, which should total about $13 billion for 1977-78. This surplus has been a tremendous factor in partially offsetting the huge trade deficit brought on by imported oil costs."

In Texas agriculture is a mainstay of the state's economy. The total agribusiness industry is expected to add some $30 million to the economic activity of Texas in 1978. This is based on cash receipts of farm and ranch marketings of about $8 billion and the result of a 3.7 multiplier effect. Further depicting the immensity of Texas agriculture is the fact that the value of farm assets--land, buildings, livestock, machinery, crops and related inventory--totals more than $50 billion.

"While agriculture is strong and vibrant both in Texas and the U.S., farm folks must depend on their urban neighbors to consume their products while at the same time needing products and services provided by people in the city. This makes it all the more important that both farm and city people understand and recognize the contributions of each to a unified and prosperous America," contends Anderson.

Weedy Pastures Are Inefficient

COLLEGE STATION - Weedy pastures contribute little to a profitable cattle operation. Yet, both native and improved pastures often fall victim to the invasion of weeds, and the result is reduced forage production.

"Weedy pastures are quite abundant this fall over Texas," points out Don Dorsett, forage specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "This is undoubtedly a result of the cost-price squeeze that livestock producers have been facing the past few years. However, with an improved cattle market, producers will hopefully direct more attention to weed control next spring so as to make pastures more productive."

Along with neglecting weed control, weed populations tend to increase after extremely cold winters that break weed seed dormancy, explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. Also, lack of a proper fertilization program can cause an increase in weeds in improved pastures. "Since weeds use the same nutrients as grasses, high weed populations reduce grass production," points out Dorsett. "By controlling weeds, more nutrients are available for grass growth, and that's the name of the game for cattlemen."

"Actually, controlling weeds can be as effective as applying a moderate amount of fertilizer," contends the specialist. "Some pasture demonstrations have shown that a pound of weeds replaces a pound of grass."

As far as weed-control programs are concerned, mowing is a basic step that should be taken in the spring and early summer before weeds mature and produce seed heads. Applying herbicides early in the spring is probably the best and more efficient means of controlling pasture weeds, advises Dorsett.

So, for more and better pasture grass next spring and summer to boost beef production, producers need to key in on weed control.

Judge Rules Fire Ant Bait To Be Removed from Market

AUSTIN--A federal judge's ruling to stall the use of ferriamicide leaves Texans without an effective pesticide to combat fire ants between now and the first frost. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has stated.

"The recent rains and cool weather have prompted an increase in fire ant activity and a rash of calls from people who want help in controlling them," Brown said.

In an Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) lawsuit against the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Judge Gerhard Gesell ruled that the EPA acted in a "confusing and clumsy manner" in approving the use of ferriamicide, a substitute for the banned pesticide mirex.

Brown said control of fire ants will be impossible if ferriamicide is banned. Other pesticides available for fire ant control must be sprayed directly on the insects. They do not get into the heart of the huge mounds where the queens live.

"Recent reports that fire ants eliminate boll weevils is true," Brown continued. "They also eliminate earthworms, ground mice, birds and baby calves. The American public is becoming more hostile toward the people who want to leave them with no weapons to fight fire ants and other pests. The insects are winning in this country, and we had better wake up before it is too late."

There were 17.1 million broiler chicks hatched in August, 5 per cent more than a year ago, but 11 per cent less than the previous month, reports Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

Leasing Land Alternative To Outright Farm Ownership

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Leasing-land as an alternative to owning has become more common in the farmbelt, partly because of rising acreage prices and the increased amount of capital needed to operate large tracts.

Some of the lands that this year produced the biggest corn crop ever are owned by outsiders - investors from the city, from surrounding communities, and perhaps even from West Germany, France or elsewhere.

"It's about impossible for a young guy out of agricultural school to farm unless he was born fortuitously or marries fortuitously," says Lee Schuster, himself a farmer of 2,700 acres in Northwest Missouri.

Schuster is also executive vice president of Oppenheimer Industries, Inc., which buys, sells and manages farms, and which through its various services provides a conduit for capital to nourish farming.

Farm investments return 3 percent to 5 percent a year, a yield hardly competitive with other mediums. But there's fairly steady appreciation of land values, and security - the land will always be there.

A question sometimes arises over whether the farmer, who leases from investors as well as probably owning land himself, is therefore a mere tenant. Correlatively, is rural life somehow being undermined? Schuster dismisses the notions. "I think we're going to find it isn't all or nothing situation, in which the farmer isn't completely tenant or owner," he comments.

More likely, he indicates, the leasing of land indicates a successful farmer's expansion.

Russian Government Buys 460 Santa Gertrudis on TDA Tour

AUSTIN--A purchase of 460 head of Santa Gertrudis breeding stock from six Texas ranches has been made by the Russian government, reports Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

The 450 purebred heifers and 10 bulls were selected from ranches in Bay City, Palo Pinto, Fort Worth, Alice, Riviera and Waco.

"The Russians are just now going into the beef business on a large scale," said Brown. "Because Texas has the finest breeding cattle, they came to us."

Representing the Soviet government were Dr. Ivan I. Yashenko, deputy director of the All-Union Williams Fodder Research Institute, Moscow region, and Dr. Yuri Shatokhin. They also purchased some Holstein dairy cattle.

Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) export personnel provided transportation for the Russians during the three-week visit. TDA personnel also took blood samples to laboratories for testing, a step necessary for health certification of export animals.

Texas poultrymen produced 194 million eggs in August, a 7-percent rise over last year, reports Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown.

To March One More Time

Hereford High School's Big Red Band will march for the last time this year during halftime of the Hereford-Lubbock Monterey football game scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday in Whiteface Stadium. The band's concert season is upcoming, director Randy Vaughn said this week. The band, for the 21st consecutive year, earned a Division I rating in University Interscholastic League competition.

The Lighter Side

PROVO, Utah (AP) - A Brigham Young University coed found a way to slip out of the school's strict dress code. She took off her denim and buttoned up her long coat. The unidentified student criticized the dress code in a letter to the campus newspaper. The code says women can't attend classes in slacks made of denim material, although other fabrics are OK. She said there is something strangely perverse and incongruous about a dress code which outlaw denim slacks, but allows underpants and an overcoat. The coed said an employee at the BYU Testing Center wouldn't let her take a test recently because she was wearing denims. It was snowing outside, and the coed said she didn't want to walk all the way home to change clothes. So she slipped into the ladies' room, took off her slacks and buttoned up her coat. She was admitted and allowed to take the test. "I was quite cold while taking my test, but I accomplished my purpose and passed it," she wrote.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) - Neither the police nor the residents of this city's Vila Anaslum can figure out where the "pennies from heaven" came from. In the wee hours of the morning Friday, envelopes containing sums of money in Brazilian cruzeiro equivalent to $50 to $250 were distributed throughout the slum. Each envelope, in addition to the money, held a slip of paper with the message, "Just thank God." An estimated $10,000 was given away - quite a sum in this country where the minimum monthly salary is about $75. "I didn't believe it when I saw so much money," said Reinaldo Dias Rocha who received the equivalent of $150. "I even told my wife that it probably was counterfeit. But then I compared it with a 100 cruzeiro $5 bill I had and I saw that it was real. In my opinion, this money came from some politician running for office."

SLICK, Okla. (AP) - It took an act of Santa Claus, but Neil Grooms' Country Store finally got the ton and a half of shelving it wanted. It seems that the Oklahoma Corporation Commission does not allow trucks to make deliveries in Slick, a community of about 150 residents in east Oklahoma. And a tongue-in-cheek news story suggested that maybe only Santa Claus could drop off goods here because of the delivery ban. That story sparked an idea with Frank Sawyer of Tulsa. "I wanted to do something to help those young people the Grooms so a friend, dressed like Santa Claus, and I loaded the shelves on my pickup and hauled them to Slick," Sawyer said Tuesday. "They couldn't believe we went through with it."

Sawyer, a retired Tulsa policeman, said 25 helpers showed up to help unload the shelves. "Everyone wanted to see Santa," he said.

Mormons comprise 72 percent of Utah's population.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) - Chris Evert said her four-month break from professional tennis was "a long dark period in my life." Ms. Evert says in an interview with People magazine that she had been "crying two or three times a day for no reason. I didn't know why...I had to take time off." She said that winning all the time may have caused her problem. "Maybe I was winning too much. Night after night after night, it was just too much of a strain to get psyched up like that."

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) - Dick Gregory says he is planning to run for Edward Kennedy's seat in the U.S. Senate in four years. Gregory, a comedian and civil rights activist, told WNAAC-TV that he would run against Kennedy in the 1982 Democratic primary. Gregory said that for the first time, Kennedy had campaigned against Sen. Edward Brooke, the nation's only black senator and a Republican, who lost last Tuesday to Sen.-elect Paul Tsongas. Kennedy had not stumped for Brooke's previous rivals.

HOMESTEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) - Former President Richard Nixon is spending a couple of days with close friends Bebe Rebozo and Robert Abplanalp in the Florida Keys. Nixon, who arrived here Sunday for the planned visit, was met by about 40 people when he stepped from a private plane and posed for pictures. Nixon will stay at the exclusive Ocean Reef Club in the eys, said Abplanalp, an industrialist who made a fortune with aerosol spray cans. "It's just a couple days of vacation in the sun," Abplanalp said. "He's doing very fine. He's in very good spirits. His health is very good; in fact, I'm going to ask him what his diet is."

Also at Sunday's meeting were Sen. and Mrs. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.; Sen. Pete Domenici, D-N.M.; Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla.; Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.; and Mrs. Sam Nunn, wife of the Democratic senator from Georgia.

Disease Causes Most Defects

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - A new vaccine is the big gun being tested in the battle against a disease that has few symptoms, but has replaced German measles as the leading cause of infectious birth defects.

The vaccine is cytomegalovirus (CMV). Doctors say its symptoms are so mild that victims often don't seek treatment, but its effect on newborn children can be severe. The vaccine, if successful, would ideally be given to all women of child-bearing age; researchers say that once a woman becomes pregnant, it is too late for treatment because of danger to the fetus.

"Most women who get the illness would not even suspect it and would not consult a physician," said Dr. Stanley Plotkin, head of the Department of Infectious Diseases at Children's Hospital. "And a physician might not suspect the disease. It's not like German measles, where there's a rash. They suffer no symptoms or only non-specific ones - perhaps just not feeling well or having a little fever."

CMV is one of the herpesviruses - a group including chicken pox, infectious mononucleosis, cold sores and fever blisters.
