White Named 'Citizen Of The Year' Surprises Greet Chamber Crowd

By BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

A few well planned surprises accompanied by some rather unexpected disturbances greeted over 750 persons who gathered Thursday evening in the Bull Barn to honor fellow civic leaders and to hear the words of wisdom and laughter of a zany character, who was introduced as an experienced Oklahoma farmer. The occasion was the annual Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce banquet.

The night began at a usual pace but picked up steam as the audience was kept busy trying to figure out what was going on. Questioning eyes first noticed the obviously empty chair to the right of the speaker's podium, where the guest spokesman usually sits.

But this was temporarily explained by master of ceremonies Roy Faubion as the typical situation when the speaker's chartered plane is delayed, and "he is expected to arrive shortly." Only, the guest speaker didn't come soon the night became later and later.

AS IT TURNED out, the alleged speaker was never to arrive and so Faubion called on the services of an unconspicuous person in the audience to fill in for the missing speaker. A bit of the confusion which kept the audience wondering was solved when this unnoticed soul turned out to be none other than Cecil Hunter, also known as "Stuttering Sam" to a few who might remember him from his earlier Amarillo radio days.

This was the first of unexpected occurrences as even during the highlight of the evening, a garbled, loud message blared forth from the overhead speakers during the introduction of the "Citizen of the Year." However, Wayne Lady, Hereford Lions Club president, maintained a nervous equilibrium and finished his presentation of the award winner.

This year the annual Lions Club sponsored award went to Raymond White, who has been part of the Hereford civic activities for more than 20 years. (See related story for specific accomplishments.)

White was presented an engraved plaque bearing the inscription of "Citizen of the Year." He was given a glowing round of applause.

During the wait for the alleged guest speaker's arrival, Chamber of Commerce Executive Vice President Bill Albright introduced out-of-town guests from as close as Friona and as far away as Reno, Nev. He paid a special tribute with the presentation of certificates to the following retired directors: Jim Conkright, Dick Montgomery, Tom Burdett and Dr. John McCrary.

ALSO HONORED, in more ways than one, was Faubion. Bud Eades, the new Chamber president, amiably opened up a brown paper bag and presented the outgoing president with a "beat-up" sugar beet, a large ribbon and pair of scissors to cut it with (as if he hadn't had enough of that), and a plaque.

But that wasn't all as the Chamber staff compiled and presented him with a thickly bound photo album of recording the activities of his tenure in office.

Before the presentation, Eades described the coming year as one in which an obligation on everyone's part should be felt in order to get things done.

"This is a community in which everyone can feel a part of, if you also feel obligated to do your part for your neighbor," Eades noted. "I may be calling you up nights, but don't feel shaken because you'll know I'm just going to ask you to do something."

He used the banquet theme of "Living Today — Planning for Tomorrow" as "the spirit for getting things done in 1975."

All this took a certain amount of time, but supposedly the speaker had still not arrived, so the evening's entertainment commenced. The Community singers treated the guests to booming renditions of such songs as "Maria," and "Hymn for Our Time." The group will be singing the second song all through the nation's bi-centennial celebration.

Another of the unexpected announcements during the course of the banquet was the announcement of a "ball of fire," in the sky. At first, it might have been thought to be a joke but actually happened as incoming witnesses verified.

FAUBION QUICKLY quashed thoughts that it might be our speaker coming in for a landing as the burning object was said to be either space trash or possibly a meteor.

Well, as you know, the speaker had been a part of the audience all along and treated those present with a combination of current jokes mixed with in with his own brand of humor, which is to stutter over words and misplace one here and there.

"I'm Oklahoma Lane farmer Charlie Watson," Hunter said. "I sure don't know what I'm doing up here but I guess I could tell you about my son-in-law's vegetable oil operation."

After going on with this routine for awhile, he continued to other subjects including a bit chiding both former

'75 Elections To Include School And City Races

During 1974, Hereford voters received enough campaigning to last for some time to come. But no rest is in sight for the weary voter as local politics continues annually even in odd numbered years such as 1975.

No national or state elections are scheduled, but the Hereford School Board and the City Commission are offering candidates six positions to vie for in the coming months. Both governmental bodies hold elections yearly since terms of office are staggered so that at least a couple of positions become vacated each year.

THE SCHOOL BOARD, as usual, will no doubt offer voters an interesting race as they will have to keep on their toes with not only a volume of possible candidates but a new method of balloting. The new method, decided on last year, will pit candidates against each other in specific places as is done in the city elections.

School board candidates drew for place positions in October and each candidate must file for election in his respective place if he decides to run again. Challenging candidates may choose anyplace in which to run since no candidate has to live in particular place districts.

School trustee places open this year include place 1, 2 and 3. These are presently held by Hugh Clearman, Jim Arney and Bobby Veigel respectively.

CITY COMMISSION places open are places 1 and 2 and the mayors slot. Jim Sears holds the mayor position with Paul Abalos and Dr. H.A. Caviness respectively filling the other places.

As of Saturday, no candidates had filed for any of the city or school offices.

The school board meets at 4 p.m. Tuesday to decide on the exact election date as well as election workers. Usually, the first Saturday in April is set aside for the election and tax office personnel are chosen as election workers.

This year, the election falls on April 5 with the deadline for filing occurring March 5. Absentee voting begins March 17 and continues through April 1.

The city election is set for April 1, the first Tuesday in that month. The last day to file is March 2 and absentee voting is Mar. 10-28. The actual last day to file will probably be the last business day before the deadline, since it falls on a Sunday.

Tax Collections Behind Last Year

Payment of property taxes locally is slightly behind last year's schedule with approximately 80 per cent of this debt currently submitted.

Jan. 31 is the last day to pay school, city and county taxes without penalty charges. As of Feb. 1, 1 1/2 per cent fine will be added to the face value of all property taxes.

NELL MILLER of the county tax office estimated that 82 per cent of Deaf Smith taxes had been paid at the close of 1974. She urged qualifying individuals to apply for homestead exemptions on county dues.

School tax collector Orpha Click stated that 81.6 per cent of this charge has been rendered. School taxes, including penalties, totaled about $2,150,000 last year.

APPROXIMATELY 80 per cent of city taxes have been collected, according to Henry Benson, tax official.

A discount program is offered to all persons who pay property taxes before January. October payments receive a 3 per cent cut, November a 2 per cent reduction and December a 1 per cent discount.

Branding Time

By Speedy Nieman

THAT FELLER on Tierra Blanca Creek says he's afraid his grandchildren know the price of everything but they don't know the value of anything.

THE CATTLE business has been so serious that we've tried to joke about it on occasions, just as some of the cattlemen do to keep from crying. Virgil Marsh tells us he's been getting a lot of "flak" about a remark we attributed to him in our column last week.

We assure our readers that Marsh was joking when he said he was putting away his boots and cowboy hat because he didn't want people to think he was "stupid enough to be in the cattle business." He made the facetious remark to emphasize the losing situation cattlemen are faced with.

IT'S REALLY no joking matter, of course, to those who are in the cattle feeding business. And, what's good for the industry is good for Hereford. All of us in the community should be concerned. We're sure many citizens would be willing to help, if they knew something they could do.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL Chamber banquet was held here Thursday night, and now many folks are planning to attend the other traditional big January banquet . . . that being the Sugar Beet event which is set for Jan. 18. Tickets for the Sugar Beet Banquet are on sale at the banks and C of C office at $5 per person.

Speaking of the C of C banquet Thursday, the principal speaker turned out to be quite a surprise for the audience. The speaker was "Stuttering Sam" Hunter (which explains our play on words in the preceding sentence).

Advance publicity on the speaker had him billed as Cecil M. Hunter, and a photo of another man was published in The Brand. Emcee Roy Faubion had everyone at the banquet nervous about the speaker not arriving on time, and asked "Charlie Watson", a guest of Mr. and Mrs. N.E. Tyler, to come up and say a few words.

"Charlie" was reluctant, but Faubion coaxed him to the speaker's stand anyway. The audience didn't know whether to laugh or try to hold it back when the stranger got his words all mixed up. It didn't take the listeners very long to realize, however, that a hoax had been perpetrated and the speaker was definitely a "pro."

THE REAL identity of the speaker was a well-kept secret, with only several of the chamber officials aware that "Stuttering Sam", formerly of Amarillo, was the guest. Faubion kept the secret so well, in fact, that he neglected to tell the folks at KPAN Radio. Hunter's talk was

Plans Revealed For Manure-to-Gas Plant

The much-discussed possibility of converting feedlot manure into methane gas may soon become a reality in Hereford.

Four east Hereford feedyards have recently entered into a contract with ERA, Inc. of Lubbock to provide manure for a gas conversion plant, according to James W. Witherspoon, Hereford attorney.

THE FEEDYARDS entering into the contract are Hereford Feedyard, Southwest Feedyard, Champion Feeders and Tri-State Cattle Feeders. The engineering on the plant is expected to be completed by March 1, with construction hopefully starting as soon thereafter as possible. ERA hopes to complete the plant within two years, said Witherspoon.

After the treatment process to obtain methane gas, the sludge would be used to make garden fertilizer. ERA is also working with the Food & Drug Administration to approve the use of the residue in making high protein animal food.

The residue reportedly constitutes about 50 per cent of the original amount of manure. Animal food made from the residue would be comparable to cottonseed cake, researchers report.

ERA is basically an engineering firm and has been active in reclamation of sewage waste. The company has a patented process for making methane gas from manure.

Meteor Scheme Hatched For Crisis Film Buffs

By KERRIE WOMBLE
Brand Staff Writer

That mammoth ball of fire which raced across Texas skies Thursday evening, startling local residents, was reportedly a piece of "space trash" which eventually crashed into the gulf of Mexico.

Piffle!

Actually, the burning globule was a movie prop gone awry. An ingenious stage technician obviously designed and launched the flaming object, in hopes of inspiring moviewriters across the Southwest. Consider the possibilities:

"THE COWERING INFERNO" — A fiery missile created by a crazed ecologist (whatever happened to mad scientists?) lands on a Volkswagen, trapping a wino, a voluptuous secretary, a gas thief and Gene Hackman. After hazardous attempts to escape through the roof, the trunk and the steering column, the reformed wino concocts a brilliant plan—open the doors. All are saved except the devious gas thief, who gains control of the vehicle and is consumed while driving to Reno. A cast of thousands.

"Scareport '75" — A super-slick jet populated by lovers, pregnant women and four old ladies (all resembling Helen Hayes) explodes in mid-air due to cheaply-made parts. The incident occurs over a cowtown banquet, reducing the main speaker to a stuttering idiot. Don Knotts stars.

"Earthshake!" — A burning meteor slams into the ground and causes a deep crack in the linoleum of a laundromat. Intense drama unfolds as the washateria doors are jammed shut and soap suds threaten the occupants. A sensitive performance is delivered by a girl who is tangled in the plumbing system.

THE REST of the news media will not retract the space trash theory, but this writer and you know the epic truth.

Construction Continues At Site Of New School

A name for the new elementary school, scheduled for occupancy during the '75-'76 term, will be decided by the school board April 15, according to Bill Phillips, school administrator.

Name suggestions are being accepted at the administrative office, Phillips said. The school is being erected on Baker St., which is south of Park Ave. and east of West Park Cemetery.

Board members will select a furniture contract for the school during the April 15 session. The exterior of this structure is nearly complete, Phillips stated. The school is designed to contain 700 students comfortably and will ease the load from the other six public elementaries.

PHILLIPS COMMENTED that enrollment figures had dropped over the holidays and that this decrease was expected. As of Monday, 5,291 students were registered in the Hereford Public School District. This included 973 high school youth, 1,367 junior high students and 2,555 elementary pupils. Phillips added that 421 children are enrolled in the HISD kindergarten program.

Phillips said that current enrollment statistics were almost level with figures at the beginning of 1974. About 65 students were dropped from the registers at the end of the '74 term.

School attendance is average and the flu has not taken a noticeable toll in classrooms here, he stated.

County Commissioners, School Trustees Set To Meet Monday And Tuesday

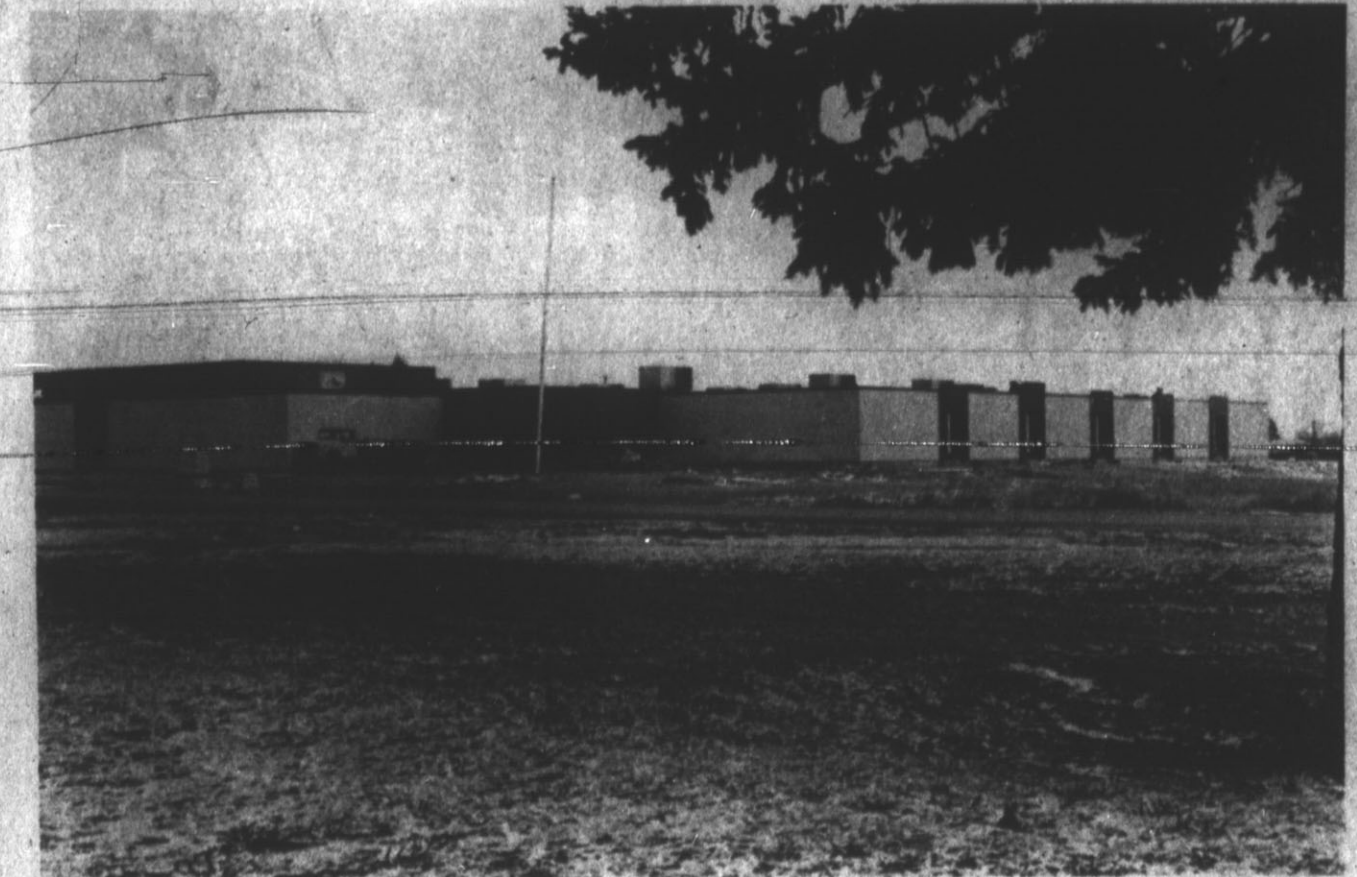

The Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court and the Hereford School Board of Trustees are both scheduled to meet next week.

The Commissioners will convene at 10 a.m. Monday to consider a 15 item agenda. Among the considerations are appointment of a Historical Survey Committee, a tax percentage change, the city fire report, overtime pay for the sheriff's department, and a 100 per cent schedule of values for personal property.

Other items include two water lines in Precinct 2, approval of $759.96 in dues to the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, acceptance of a contract with Perdue, Brandon and Blair to collect delinquent taxes, appointment of Commissioner Bruce Coleman to Juvenile Board, an equipment purchase for precinct 4 and review of county officials salary basis.

The school board will meet at 4 p.m. Tuesday and set election dates and select election workers, discuss data concerning personnel procedures for staff and teachers, review non-food funding grants, hear information on proposed state financing plans for schools and other listed agenda items.

Hereford's newest elementary school, located in the southwest side of town, will be open for occupancy this fall. Nominations are being sought for the school's name.

Hereford Jeweler Warns Against Bogus Watches

By DAN WELTY
Brand Staff Writer

If you're approached on the street by a person who gives you a sob story and wants to sell you his watch, chances are you're going to be taken.

Bill Kester, of Kester's Jewelry, says that fake watches have turned up in Hereford in recent months. The watches are copies or near-copies of well-known brand name timepieces, but instead of a quality mechanism inside, the unsuspecting victim buys a watch worth about $2.

COUNTERFEIT WATCHES are made in America, Hong Kong, Italy, Germany, and Switzerland. The November issue of National Jeweler magazine estimates that if legitimate companies in Switzerland manufacture 80 million watches annually, counterfeiters succeed in making 12 million. The magazine also states that in the poor sections of large U.S. cities, the limited sale of bogus Swiss watches is an activity of organized crime.

Kester said the watches that have turned up here most likely are bogus pieces from Mexico or were brought through town by travelers who picked them up elsewhere. About the only source for the watches in Hereford is from street peddlers.

The street peddler is a con man who usually gives some reason to sell the bogus expensive watch for an unbelievable price. A favorite story, says Kester, is that the seller is a college student who has run out of money. To stay in college he must sell his expensive watch. The average citizen who falls for this story and others like it is looking for trouble.

movement is usually handmade. The jewels are the axles for the cogs and wheels that turn inside the watch. The jewel-to-metal movement is almost non-wearing.

Kester said one watch that he has seen copied complete in every detail is the Mido brand. The counterfeit watch has an identical face, identical case, and identical back. But the inside of the watch is the pinlever movement, not a jeweled movement. An out and out copy. Omega is another brand often copied outright.

Hereford jeweler Bill Kester pulls the casing apart on a jeweled movement wristwatch. The main difference in the bogus watches and the real thing is the time mechanism inside. The bogus watches, Kester warns, use a cheap pinlever movement.

WHAT APPEARS to be a brand name watch often turns out a counterfeit piece. The magazine mentioned above told of a watch turned in by a retailer in New York. The face of the watch bears the name "Longine." To the citizen who believes he is getting a good deal, the substitution of a "U" in place of an "I" in the name is easily overlooked. The buyer thinks he is getting an expensive Longine brand watch when in reality it is a poor imitation.

Kester says there are several name brands that are handled in this fashion by the counterfeiters. Elgin becomes Elben, Omega instead of Omega, Bulova instead of Bulova, and small letter changes in Wittnauer, Gruen, Hamilton and many other brand names.

Most of these bogus watches can be spotted quickly by a reputable jeweler. After the case is removed, a pinlever movement will be found. It is a stamped-plate mechanism with no jewels. The points of movement inside are metal-to-metal. Such movements can be bought for about $2.

On the other hand, the jeweled movement is usually handmade. The jewels are the axles for the cogs and wheels that turn inside the watch. The jewel-to-metal movement is almost non-wearing.

Kester points out the difference in the pinlever movement and jeweled movement. The bogus watches contain the pinlever movement at the left, with the main wheel rotating on metal. The quality-made watch at the right rotates on jewels, an almost non-wearing mechanism.

has revealed the pinlever movement and bogus faces.

THE BEST PROTECTION against being taken by con artists, of course, is to never buy a watch on the street. A reputable firm never handles the bogus watches, and will probably be happy to show you the movement inside and explain its origin.

Kester said that if the deal seems too good to pass up, ask the seller to allow you to have the watch appraised by a jeweler. If he will not consent to the appraisal, chances are the watch will turn out to be a fake.

Another type of watch to be wary of is the digital watch, warned Kester. The true digital watches are actually mini-computers, electronic timepieces powered by a battery.

The fake timepieces may copy genuine watches so close that the unsuspecting buyer overlooks the discrepancy. This series of pictures from the National Jeweler magazine shows a counterfeit with a closely-imitated brand name.

Timepieces billed as digital watches are now on the market that feature digital numbers instead of the conventional sweep hands. These watches are quite often pinlever movements. Kester again said the best protection is to buy watches from reputable firms.

Contributions Remembered

White Leaves Brand On Hereford

Raymond White, 53, has made his mark on Hereford and that brand will no doubt stay for sometime to come.

This brand is embellished in the numerous contributions this man has made to the community since he first arrived here about 20 years ago. He was honored for these achievements as the recipient of the "Citizen of the Year Award" presented at the Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday night.

In introducing White, Lions Club President Wayne Lady said, "This man has made Hereford a better place to live and work."

WHITE, a native of Lockney, Tex., began his adult career at Texas Tech, where he received a bachelors degree in agriculture in 1947. He became a teacher in agriculture department of the Littlefield High School.

He came to Hereford after having lived in Friona, where he was involved in a farm implement business. Here, he runs White Implements.

He has served as president of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce in 1966, Lions Club president from 1964 to 1965, and chairman of Encounter '71 (A nondenominational Christian crusade which drew about 2,500 persons).

He holds life memberships in the Lion

High Plains Eye Bank and the Texas Lions Camp for crippled children at Kerrville. He was chairman of board of deacons at the First Baptist Church.

IN EDUCATION, White has been a Hereford School Board member for eight years having served as both board president and vice president. He is on the Board of Directors of the Region 16 Education Service Center in Amarillo. It covers the Panhandle area.

Also, the civic leader served as the chairman of the 1974 United Way Drive and was District Governor of Lions International in 1971 and 1972.

When not enjoying his hobbies of fishing, snow skiing and sports, White devotes time to his wife Avis and three children. They include Chris, a freshman at the University of Texas in Austin; Sherry, a senior at Texas Tech University; and Mrs. Sid Shaw, a teacher at Tierra Blanca Elementary School here. The White's reside at 214 N. Texas Dr.

Past recipients of the Citizen of the Year Award include A.J. "Major" Schroeter, 1973; Jewel Smith, 1972; Rev. Russell A. Wingert, 1971; Hugh Clearman, 1970; Earnest Langley, 1969; Ray Cowsert, 1968; John Douglas Pitman, 1967; Ed Skypala, 1966; Rev. Don Davidson, 1965; and Clint Formby, 1964.

Also, Mrs. Earl Springer, 1963; Dr. Lena Edwards, 1962; Jimmie Witherpoon, 1961; Faye Plank, 1960; Wayne Lawrence, 1959; Della Zimmermah, 1958; Argen Draper, 1957; Della Stagner, 1956; D.C. Kinsey, 1955; Earl Phillips, 1954; and S.O. Wilson, 1953.

Also, Father Raymond Gillis, 1952; Henry Sears, 1951; Lyle Blanton, 1950; Dr. L.B. Barnett, 1949; W.E. Dameron, 1948; Dub Reeves, 1947; and Wayne Evans, 1946.

President Nixon and President Ford.

Relating a serious message inbetween stutters, Hunter said, "This is a great country and let's not let any politician give it away to anyone."

"We started out as 13 teams working together and now we've grown to 48 teams," he said. Then caught his mistake and said, "Oh yes, I forgot to include Mississippi and Alabama."

This as all his jokes received a roar of laughter and he ended his speech by thanking everyone for letting him play a hoax on them.

supposed to be recorded by the station, but the man at the switch kept waiting for the speaker to be introduced. By the time he realized what was happening, it was too late!

Hunter's "address" was hilarious and it was another great banquet to highlight the past chamber year. Congratulations, again, to Raymond White on being selected as "Citizen of the Year". As is often the case with such honorees, White has been an asset in the community for a number of years—not just in 1974.

SPECIAL MUSIC by the Hereford Community Choir—making only its second public appearance—was well received by the banquet crowd.

Bicentennial Flags Raised Over Area

Ceremonies were conducted Thursday to raise three U.S. flags and three Texas flags over the poles of the courthouse, the city hall and Chamber of Commerce building.

What is so significant about that?

Well, the flags, representing the nation's bicentennial celebration were flown over the state and national capitals respectively. And Deaf Smith County and Hereford are the first bicentennial committees to receive the flags and have them flown.

After here, the flags will be rotated to other West Texas locations at official ceremonies of various types. A set containing one U.S. and one Texas flag will ultimately be given to U.S. Representative George Mahon and U.S. Senators Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower, who will then display them in their respective offices.

The flag rotations are being arranged through the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Girls Rodeo Proposed For Hereford In May

The Girls Rodeo Association has approved Hereford as the site for a GRA Rodeo May 16-18, and the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board will decide at a directors' meeting Thursday whether to accept sponsorship of the event.

Butch White, member of the local planning committee, attended a GRA board meeting in Denver, Colo., Thursday and reported that the directors voted unanimously to place Hereford on the GRA schedule.

BILL ALBRIGHT, C of C executive vice president, said White also talked to the board about the possibility of installing a "Cowgirls Hall of Fame" in Hereford. GRA directors were also receptive to this proposal, requesting only that one of their directors be allowed to serve on such a project committee.

The GRA approval for a rodeo here came after the planning group secured pledges from local businessmen and firms for prize money of at least $7,000. Albright said the group quickly contacted about 14 firms to subscribe for $500 each, with the possibility that all, or part, of the investment will be refunded.

MARGARET CLEMONS, GRA president, had visited Hereford recently and was very enthusiastic about the rodeo. "A GRA Rodeo in Hereford could be the largest rodeo we've ever had."

She said that a guaranteed purse of $7,000 would draw many of the top GRA performers and a total of some 250 to 300 entries. A turnout of that many could swell the prize money to between $17,000 and $25,000.

Back To The Farm

The U.S. Census Bureau has come up with some new figures on the nation's farm population. In April of 1973, it was estimated there were 9.5 million people on America's farms, and this amounted to around 4.5 per cent of total U.S. population.

This, it is thought, is an indication that the decline of farm workers may have halted. Also, the Bureau reports that in 1973 only 1.9 per cent of farm workers were unemployed, and this compared with a 5.3 per cent unemployment rate for the rest of the nation's working force.

It may be that the factory whistle and the city lights are losing their lure for some people, and it is little wonder. In most cities, only those with a death wish would dare walk around the block after dark.

Tickets Available For Benefit Concert

A limited number of tickets are now on sale for a Muscular Dystrophy benefit concert to be given by country western singers, Susan Raye and Pat Roberts.

The performances are scheduled at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. Feb. 25 in the Camelot Inn, I-40 and Nelson, Amarillo, with all proceeds going to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Only 1,400 tickets will be available for the concert with 700 admitted to each show. Tickets are now on sale at Hereford State Bank and First National Bank for $7 each.

Susan Raye appears on the "Hee Haw" television series and is a featured singer with the Buck Owens Band.

Flags Raised

Kiwanis Hears Lung Association Speaker

Charles McIntosh, representative of the Top of Texas branch of the American Lung Association, outlined lung diseases and work that organization is doing at the Thursday meeting of the Noon Kiwanis.

Dub Boyd was named Kiwanian of the Month for November and Bud Eades was given the same honor for December.

McIntosh told the Kiwanians that the American Lung Association is often confused with Heart Association, Cancer Society and many other of the major disease organizations. Another misconception is that tuberculosis has been whipped. Not so, said McIntosh, with 2,500 new cases of TB reported in Texas every year. One in ten of those cases dies from the disease. One in ten has a relapse into the disease. And one in ten becomes a pulmonary invalid, who must rely on machines and other devices to breathe.

The American Lung Association, said McIntosh, is concerned with all lung diseases, including tuberculosis. Major fund raising for the association is accomplished through the Christmas seal program.

The association is doing extensive and expensive research in the fields of pulmonary blood clots, clots that form in another part of the body and pass into the lungs; membrane diseases in newborn babies; and emphysema.

Emphysema is the disease usually associated with smokers, but McIntosh indicated the disease can strike others. There are over 500,000 new cases every year and that number is expected to double in five years. Emphysema is not curable or not reversible. Emphysema patients never get well and care can reach $100 a day.

A method has been found to stop lung cancer and emphysema according to McIntosh: stop using tobacco. A major part of the association's program is education on smoking. Programs in public schools are aimed at preventing smoking in addition to programs to keep adults from continuing to smoke.

Professional education is another facet of the association. Funds raised by the American Lung Association are used to train chest physicians, special nurses, respiratory technicians. Grants are given to schools, and to research. Professional seminars are held to educate professionals about new developments in the field of lung diseases.

Nursing Program Opens Registrar

Applications for participation in the 49th licensed vocational nursing program may now be submitted to the West campus School of Vocational Arts, 6222 W. 9th, Amarillo College.

Preparatory test for the program is slated for Jan. 14 at 8:30 a.m. in Room 204 of the Administration Building at SVA, said Sue Ann Hicks, coordinator/instructor for the program. Mrs. Hicks said interested students should call for their names to be added to the list.

Classes, which begin Feb. 10 in the AC nurse training, are offered on a 12-month basis and conducted in cooperation with High Plains Baptist Hospital, St. Anthony's Hospital, and Northwest Texas Hospital.

Upon completion of the course, students may take the Texas State Board Examination to become a licensed vocational nurse. These nurses are employed in hospitals, nursing homes, public health offices, and physician's offices, said Mrs. Hicks.

Mrs. Ellen Collins Awarded Boy Scout Silver Beaver

In what is probably an unusual event, a Silver Beaver Award was presented a Hereford woman for her contributions to the Boy Scouts of America.

Mrs. Ellen Collins received the award at the annual Llano Estacado Boy Scout Council banquet in Amarillo Friday night. It is the highest award an adult Scout volunteer can receive.

The wife of Boyd Collins, she has been an assistant den mother, den leader coach and pow-wow chairman for Pack 151. She is presently registered with Troop and Pack 147 in Hereford.

She has been a Cub roundtable leader, a scout commissioner, and served on council training committees at Camp Don Herrington. At Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico, she conducted cub leader training sessions.

The Tierra Blanca District Award of Merit was presented her in 1973. Also, Mrs. Collins is involved in Campfire, girls and the Wesley United Methodist Church.

Tech Enrollment Open For Part-Time Students

Part-time students at Texas Tech University can enroll for the spring semester now. While registration for regular students is scheduled to begin Jan. 15.

Registration for part-time students (persons taking one or two courses) will be conducted in the Continuing Education Office in Building X-15 across from the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium. Dates and times for registration are: 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 8 p.m.

Texas Tech offers 239 night classes during the spring semester. Night classes begin at 6 p.m. 6:30 or 7 p.m. None last past 10 p.m. Some classes meet once a week for three hours; some meet twice a week for one and one-half hours.

"Night classes serve not only the needs of regular students, but also the special needs of students who otherwise might not be able to attend college," said D.M. McElroy, director of Continuing Education.

Night students include people in pursuit of a degree through part-time study. Some are college graduates working toward advanced degrees. Others are people studying for the fun of it, or to increase their knowledge in special interest areas.

Class schedules for night courses, registration and cost information may be obtained through the Division of Continuing Education, ph: 742-7201; or the Office of Academic Affairs, ph: 742-6214, Texas Tech University, Lubbock 79409.

Police Beat Exhibitionist Reported Seen In Parts Of City

An exhibitionist has been reported all over the city of Hereford, or a couple of exhibitionists have appeared. Two cases of indecent exposure were reported to police during the last part of the week.

A man described as about 5'9", slim build, wearing a blue T-shirt reportedly exposed himself to a woman as she was leaving a business on East First Street. The woman said she was leaving her place of employment at about 6:55 p.m. Thursday evening.

After she had gotten into her car, she heard a funny noise. She saw the male described above, throwing rocks at her car apparently to gain her attention. He was wearing nothing but the T-shirt. He fled between two buildings.

Two teenage girls told police they were confronted by an exhibitionist while walking home Wednesday evening. The girls said they were walking down 13th Street and that between Avenue A and B a young man approached, pulled his shirt over his head and pulled down his pants.

The two girls ran for home in the 200 block of Avenue A, and the subject followed, exposing himself again before the girls reached home. He was described as between 15 and 18-years-old, standing 5'6" tall, weighed about 135 pounds and having black hair.

Officers were called to an apartment complex in the city late Friday evening. The manager of the apartment had complained of a "wild" party in one of the rooms. Officers arrested two men for drunk in a residence not their own in connection with the case.

Gerald Reed of 218 Beach reported two guns stolen from a pickup parked in front of his residence Thursday night. Reed said a Marlin goose gun and a Stevens 22 mag rifle with a Daylight 4 power scope were missing. Value of the guns was estimated at $120.

A Giemenhardt flute was reported stolen from a locker at Hereford High School Thursday afternoon. A student told officers she placed the instrument in her locker after band practice and when she returned after school, the flute was gone.

Vandals evidently used a brick to break out a plate-glass window at Northwest School. The incident occurred Thursday evening.

Reverend Prentice D. Smith reported some lumber missing from the rear of the Greenwood Baptist Church Wednesday. Rev. Smith told officers the lumber had been stored behind the church building. Value of the missing wood was placed at $22.

Minor accidents during the last part of the week included a pickup-station wagon collision and a two-car accident. A station wagon driven by Agnes Hunt Hicks of 107 Douglas was southbound in the 400 block of Main when it was in collision with a pickup driven by Jack Bentley Coleman. The pickup was apparently backing from a parking space when the accident occurred shortly before noon Wednesday.

A two-car collision occurred Tuesday morning about 8:30 at the intersection of Avenue K and 14th. Shirley Kaster Carr of 714 Blevins was southbound on Avenue K and collided with a vehicle driven by Wanda G. Burdine of 109 Avenue K which was westbound on 14th.

Firemen answered two alarms during the past part of the week. Both alarms were to the Big Tex Feedyard six miles west of Hereford. Firemen extinguished a pile of cotton burs in both cases.

In County Court actions listed in the Thursday Brand, it was reported that Douglas M. Kelley was in jail pending trial on a first offense DWI charge. The information should have been updated to report that he was released on bond after the charge was filed.

Stock Show Planned Here

Entry for steers, barrows and lambs is open in the Hereford Young Farmers Stock Show, which will be held in the Bull Barn Jan. 23-25.

Entrants aged 9-20 are welcome to participate in the annual contest, according to Joe Shultz, president of the Young Farmers and superintendent of the stock show. Entry cards are available from County Agent Justin McBride and FFA sponsors. This blank should be completed and mailed, with an entry fee, to P.O. Box 1091, Hereford.

Entry must be submitted before Jan. 18.

The fee for steer entry is $7 and lamb and hog participation is $3. All proceeds of the competition will go to cover show expenses, Shultz said.

At 2 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 23, market hogs will be judged by Bob Robinson, assistant county agent for Farmer County. Lambs will be shown at 8 a.m. Jan. 24 for judge Ed Garnett, district supervisor from Vernon. Larry Schicken-dance, head of the ag department at Frank Phillips Jr. College, will determine winners in the steer division at 2 p.m. on the 24th.

FFA and 4-H judging teams will compare wits with livestock officials Saturday at 9 a.m. These teams will grade different classes of animals according to what they have learned in their individual programs.

Shultz said the livestock sale will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 25 in the Bull Barn with consignments going to individual entrants.

Hogs and lambs must be in their places before 10 p.m. Jan. 22 and steers must be located in the Bull Barn before 10 a.m. Jan. 23. Entry cards must be submitted before Jan. 18.

Layton Sawyer and George Muse are sharing general superintendent responsibilities with Shultz. Anyone with questions about livestock requirements are invited to call one of the trio.

Division superintendents are: steers—Tommy Sparkman, Jack Andrews and Roy Carlson; barrows—Jimmy Christie, Joe West and Connie Urbanczyk; lambs—Robert Higgins, Jim Bob Perrin, Ronnie and Rocky Andrews.

Ribbons will be awarded to individuals ranking in the top 10 places in each category. Recognition will be awarded to the best entries from Deaf Smith County and to the best in a four-county region (Deaf Smith, Farmer, Oldham and Castro).

The Hereford Young Farmers were organized about 12 years ago by young men from farming backgrounds. Their annual livestock show is a community service project.

Consumer Alert

By John L. Hill
Attorney General

This is the time of year when many of us begin to think of putting our financial house in order, what with federal income tax filing time approaching and many local taxes due.

And it's often at this time that many of us realize our family records are in such a disorganized state that the job is going to be more difficult than it has to be. Necessary records may be lost or misplaced, scattered in several different locations, illogically grouped, or buried among unimportant papers.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S Consumer Protection Division attorneys say that many consumer experts recommend reviewing your personal or family record-keeping system annually to determine if it is adequate, thus avoiding such a situation.

A review would include checking to be sure other family members or responsible persons know where records are kept and who legal and financial advisers are and how to reach them. Each person should know how to contact the individual's or the family's attorney, banker, broker, insurance agent, employer, creditors, and debtors.

Reviewing the state of your records would also include determining which records are vital and should be protected, which are important but replaceable, and which can be thrown away to save space.

A GOOD RULE of thumb might be to put whatever would be impossible, costly, or troublesome to replace in a safe place, such as a safety deposit box. Using such a guide, then, the following records normally would need to be protected:

- Family birth and death certificates. Although these can be replaced, it might take several weeks to do so.

- Marriage certificates, divorce or other legal papers relating to dissolution of marriage, adoption papers, citizenship records, service papers, and any other government or court-recorded document.

- Wills or carbon copies of wills. If the original will is kept in the safe of the attorney who prepared it, one carbon copy should be in a safe place and another should be kept where it will be readily available.

- Certificates for securities. These are non-negotiable until signed by the owner, but replacement involves cost and delay. If they are not kept by the broker, they should be stored in a safe place.

- Government bonds. These can be replaced at no cost, but it can take several months.

- Papers showing proof of ownership, such as real estate deeds, other mortgage papers, important contracts, car titles, leases, notes, and any special papers such as patents and copyrights.

- A detailed household inventory. This is a list of important items, their purchase dates, prices, descriptions (model numbers, brands, etc.), and often photographs. Such an inventory can be invaluable in making insurance claims after fires or burglaries and in assisting police recover any stolen items. Keep one copy in a safe place, one at home, and perhaps give one to your insurance company.

YOU WOULD LIKELY want to keep the following records handy as long as they are relevant, but in general they need not be kept in a safety deposit box or other special place: income tax returns, education and employment records, bank books, Social Security cards, guarantees, copies of insurance policies (copies are available from the company), and cancelled checks (copies are available at most banks).

Any cancelled checks or receipts that may be needed for income tax purposes or as proof of payment of consumer installment debts, however, should be readily available.

For assistance with a consumer problem, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, your county or district attorney, or the local Better Business Bureau.

Richard L. Roudebush, appointed by President Ford as Administrator of Veterans Affairs, is the ninth man to head the nation's largest independent federal agency since its establishment in 1930.

There were about 4.7 million veterans in the United States when the Veterans Administration was established in 1930. Today there are more than 29 million veterans eligible for VA benefits.

The World War II GI Bill, signed into law June 22, 1944, is said to have had more impact on the American way of life than any law since passage of the Homestead Act more than a century ago.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

By Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN, Tex.—The men who will preside over the 1975 legislative session are busy preparing for action-packed days ahead.

Rep. Bill Clayton of Springlake, expected to be elected Speaker of the House of Representatives when the session convenes January 14, has more advance work to do than his Senate counterpart, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

Clayton is just beginning the job of lining up the standing committees which process legislation. Obviously, the House will be operating under largely new leadership on the major committees.

The opposite will be the case in the Senate. Hobby has indicated he plans no shakups in committee chairmanships there. Sen. Don Adams of Jasper will become chairman of the Senate administration panel, succeeding Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon who was elected to Congress.

Resignation of Sen. Jim Wallace as intergovernmental relations chairman to accept a judgeship appointment created another vacancy. Sen. John Traeger is vice chairman of the committee.

Both Hobby and Clayton rate these measures high on the priority agenda:

- School finance reform, constitutional revision and proposals to create a state utilities regulatory commission. Their ideas on the latter two vary widely, however.

Hobby has advocated naming an elected citizens convention to draft a proposed new constitution, in the wake of the legislature's failure to agree on a revision plan during a 1974 convention.

Clayton would like to see the legislature make another try during 1975 at rewriting the constitution before handing over the job to others.

While Hobby has endorsed creation of an elected commission to regulate telephone and electrical services and rates, Clayton displays little enthusiasm for the proposal. As Speaker, however, Clayton says he would not try to dictate House policy on the issue.

HOME INSURANCE UP — Homeowners insurance rates are going up too—an average of 19.3 per cent statewide.

The State Board of Insurance, which already had ordered an average 8.8 per cent auto coverage rate boost, followed up with the finding that homeowners policies must cost more effective January 20.

Insurance firms are expected to receive $25 million in additional revenues from the building policies at new prices.

Actually, rates vary by territories on extended coverage and homeowners policies. State wide fire insurance rates will go up 3.8 per cent for private homes and decrease 24.4 per cent for other types of buildings.

Board Chairman Joe Christie noted that policy holders can "shop for bargains" with companies offering discounted rates of from 10 to 30 per cent below the uniform state level.

RECESSION COULD COME —Some indicators point to a critical period ahead for the Texas economy, the Texas Industrial Commission director's year-end report warns.

Unemployment in Texas remains under five per cent—well below the rate in states experiencing a major industrial shutdown—but new business activity has begun to slow down, according to TIC executive Jim Harwell's report.

While new plant locations coordinated by TIC fell from 38 in 1973 to 30 this year and prospective industries seeking new locations dropped from 286 to 218, inquiries from businesses considering expansion or relocation increased 12 per cent to 2,440.

Harwell said businesses are becoming "extremely cautious" and wary of risk.

AG OPINIONS—The Board of Examiners in Basic Sciences may close part of a meeting while discussing confidential information about an applicant, Atty. Gen. John Hill said.

In a related opinion, Hill said the same agency can withhold from public disclosure records concerning a matter in litigation.

In other recent opinions,

Hill concluded:

- Jefferson County commissioners cannot ratify a contract for $900 worth of building supplies and labor made improperly by an individual member.
- Alcoholic Beverage Commission should limit information it makes public about private club licensing to the name of the applicant, location of the club and type license sought or held.
- Houston Independent School District may appoint a tax assessor-collector other than the City of Houston assessor-collector.
- A member of an architectural firm employed by a university may serve as a teacher there.
- School athletic trainers must be certified by the state board governing their activities. Coaches and athletic trainers are authorized to use diathermy and ultrasound in rehabilitation and treatment of athletes.
- Information including reports, audits, evaluations and investigations of nursing and convalescent homes by the State Department of Health is public to the extent it can be released without identifying individuals or institutions.
- AIR SERVICE APPROVED —A Texas Aeronautics Commission examiner has recommended that Southwest Airlines be allowed to serve the Rio Grande Valley with reduced-fare jet flights daily to and from Harlingen, originating in Dallas through Houston, with a connection in San Antonio.

Texas International Airlines, contesting the application, has stated it will move to discontinue its service to Harlingen if the Commission approves the examiner's report.

A court fight is anticipated if the Southwest application is approved by the agency. Southwest proposes night and weekend fares of $15 and $25 and regular daily fares of $25 between Houston and Harlingen and $40 between Dallas and Harlingen.

APPOINTMENTS ANNOUNCED — Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed State Sen. James F. "Jim" Wallace of Houston district judge of the new 215th district court effective January 20.

A special election is scheduled January 11 to pick Wallace's successor and to fill a House vacancy in Harris County District 96, due to resignation of Rep. Lindon Williams to run for the Senate. Five candidates are running for the Wallace seat and nine for Williams' House place.

Briscoe also appointed George E. Dowlen of Canyon as 181st district judge, succeeding Judge Don M. Dean of Amarillo who resigned.

The governor will be making about 600 new appointments within the next two months.

Auditions Slated For 'Texas' Play

The directors for "Texas", Paul Grinn's summer musical drama of Texas Panhandle History, will soon begin to hear and see actors, singers, and dancers who wish to appear in the tenth season of this exciting spectacle.

Auditions will open in Canyon at the Branding Iron Theatre on the campus of West Texas State University on Jan. 18, and will be followed by hearings in Lubbock at the Women's Gym at Texas Tech University on the following day, Sunday.

The schedule is:

- Canyon: 10 a.m. - 12 noon and 1:30-4 p.m. Dancers only at 5 p.m.
- Lubbock: 1-3 p.m. Dancers only at 3 p.m.

An appearance in "Texas" is an opportunity to be part of a project which has already attracted 677,472 people and is a chance to gain professional theatre experience in an inspiring outdoor setting, the magnificent Palo Duro Canyon.

For more information please write: "Texas", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015 or call 806-655-2182.

Lions Praised For Aid To Handicapped, Blind

The Texas Lions' umbrella of service to the handicapped of the Lone Star State was highlighted by a special program Wednesday at the Hereford Lions Club.

Milton E. Laurie of Kress, past district governor of the Kress Lions Club, paid tribute to the Lions of Texas and their friends who are providing the handicapped children and adult blind of Texas with new opportunities for happier lives.

The League now has three fields of service: The Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children, the Texas Center for the Blind and the Texas Lions Camps for Diabetic Children.

The crippled children's camp at Kerrville was opened in 1963 and since then has provided—free!—two weeks of summer fun for 15,582 blind, deaf, mute and crippled youngsters.

Since 1967, the Camp at Kerrville has been used during the other nine months of the year as the Texas Center for the Blind, helping 1,038 blind adults return to the sighted world as more productive citizens.

The Texas Lions Camp for Diabetic Children is a new project—only four years old—but already has served 824 campers.

The League's unique and beneficial projects of service are financed by dues of Lions and by gifts from members, clubs and others interested in happier lives for the handicapped.

Driver Tours Scenic Isles

Larry Driver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floy Driver of 415 Western, is taking an extensive trip through the South Sea Islands with the Austin College tour group.

Dr. Howard Star is directing the tour, which promises to unveil the beauty of Mexico City, Acapulco, Tahiti, the Fiji Islands and New Zealand. The entourage, involving students from all over the United States, left Dallas-Fort Worth Airport Dec. 28 and is currently visiting New Zealand.

Although Driver has seen many portions of North America, this is his first trip away from the continent. He speaks German and Spanish fluently.

The local youth is a junior student at Austin College at Sherman, a school which offers foreign travel as part of the curriculum. He is majoring in biology and psychology. Larry plans to graduate in 1976.

Driver is a member of several honor fraternities, including Beta Beta Psi and Alpha Phi Omega. He is a lifetime member of Phi Chi.

Larry graduated from Hereford High School in 1972 and ranked high in National Honor Society. He filled the guard slot on the varsity football squad and branched out his interests by performing in high school productions, such as "Li'l Abner."

The youth attended West Texas State University and earned a 4.0 grade average on a 4.0 scale.

He has worked on his father's farm and was employed part-time at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN

WITHIN the week we've been asked by those in charge of both the county library and Deaf Smith Museum to please repeat the hours those neighboring buildings are open to the public. With a new library building and now a full-time director of the museum, changes have been made that people still aren't used to.

Those at the museum are the latest. Since Lois Gilliland began work last week as the museum's first paid director, it is open every day except Monday instead of the former Wednesday-Saturday-Sunday afternoon schedule. Sunday hours remain the same, 2 to 5 p.m.

Weekdays, from Tuesday through Saturday, hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. except for the lunch hour. Groups that want tours arranged at other times are invited to see Mrs. Gilliland or phone the museum, which is listed in the phone book under Deaf Smith, County Of.

Although the library has had its extended hours in effect since July, some people still aren't aware that it is open until 9 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays, Librarian Gwen London has discovered. Doors open at 9 a.m. Monday through Saturday; it closes at 12 noon on Saturdays, 5 p.m. the remaining three weekdays, and all day Sunday.

RECENT visitors with the R.L. Ethridges were her sister, Mrs. B.R. Stafford, and Mr. Stafford of Buffalo, Mo., who were on their way home after visiting a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ethridge and their daughter, Clea Passmore of Amarillo, lately visited their son, Clayton Gene Rudder, and his family at Austin.

A NEW granddaughter, Tiffany Don Blackburn, is boasted by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blackburn. Born Dec. 30 in Amarillo, the baby is the daughter of Joan and Jerry Blackburn of that city. She weighed 6 lbs. 8 ozs. at birth.

JUST mentioning Miss Millicent Griffith, a pioneer educator here, always brings some response from people who knew her, and when we used her picture last week it evoked even more.

First from Edwin Ramey of Dimmitt, who is better known by his nickname of Goose. That's no appraisal of his intellect; he earned the name because he not only likes to hunt geese, but raised wild geese at one time, and experimented with cross-breeding wild and domestic geese. Which has nothing to do with Miss Millicent.

Mr. Ramey just wanted to add to the recollections about her, that he often heard her speak in public, and couldn't remember a time when she didn't work in her favorite remark, "Energy is the engine that propels our lives." Evidently she had plenty of energy herself, as she taught in early-day towns of the Southwest.

THE DIMMITT man also heard her say why she came from a city home in Chicago to teach in the raw country here. She visited a friend in Hereford, a former Chicagoan and wife of one of the real estate men who brought settlers to the Plains, and she simply liked the friendly people she met, so she applied for a teaching position.

Another old-timer, Ezra Norton, adds that his father, the late R.H. Norton, was on the school board that hired the young Chicago woman who made such a fine record as teacher and school administrator here.

Incidentally, I learned in conversations with these men that Mr. Norton will celebrate his 87th birthday Friday, and Mr. Ramey was planning to go to Lubbock where his twin brother was in a hospital, to celebrate their birthday—85th, I believe.

THEN Opal Bookout tells me that she began her teaching career at Hartley in the early 1930's, and Miss Griffith was teaching there then—that was after she left Hereford the second time; she went to Dimmitt schools earlier, and into New Mexico and Arizona.

After Opal and Jim Bookout were married, and Miss Griffith had gone back to Chicago where she died in the 1950's, they kept in touch with her, at least with notes on Christmas cards, for years.

Opal had a letter the veteran teacher wrote in November of 1951, saying she had been very ill but had left the hospital for a nursing home in the country.

In China, gongs were beaten to cure children of convulsions.

New Food Stamp Series To Be Issued

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will replace the current $9 cent, $2 and $5 food stamp series with a $1, $5, and $10 series on March 1. USDA's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) said that the larger denominations were prompted by the volume of coupons needed to meet increased food stamp allotments, paper shortages, and increased production and shipping cost. The new food stamps—brown ($1), purple ($5), and blue-green ($10)—use a more sophisticated design to deter counterfeiting. They are incorporated into redesigned, revalued coupon books. All current coupons not issued by February 28 of this year, will be collected and destroyed. FNS said that food stamp recipients must spend their current food stamps by June 30, since retailers will not accept any old coupons after that date. Authorized food stamp stores will use the $1 coupon for making change instead of the current $9 cent coupon and credit slips of 99 cents or less for change under $1. FNS advised retailers to redeem the current food coupons as soon as possible; banks will continue to accept them for redemption until August 1.

You can test your own intelligence by your reaction to a new idea.

Law Enforcement Selects Priorities

BY CLARENCE M. KELLEY
FBI Director

The outset of the new year is traditionally a period of reflection. It is an opportune time to weigh accomplishments, reexamine priorities, and rededicate oneself to the tasks ahead.

In recent years, the law enforcement profession has, in my opinion, accomplished much. As a result, we are on the threshold of an era of major change in the structure and performance of our profession. And, this is all to the good.

We should be frank in acknowledging, however, that there are many inadequacies which have shackled the fulfillment of our responsibilities. Some of these are giving way to enlightened programs and procedures that greatly enhance our ability to serve the community in the just and effective administration of the law.

THERE HAS NEVER been a time in my more than 30-year law enforcement career when the profession has been better equipped to meet its challenges. Our material and intellectual resources have never been greater — not the least of these is a clearer understanding among the profession, and a growing appreciation by the public as well, of the role of the police in our society.

Without these insights into our responsibilities, I am certain that the great strides which have been made in law enforcement training, equipment, planning, research, technology, and personnel selection would not have been possible.

While we are indebted to a host of separate public and private efforts in support of law enforcement, there is considerable room for pride in the fact that many improvements have been initiated and cultivated within the profession.

ALTHOUGH MUCH has been accomplished, there is still much left to do. Our maturing professional competence must be more efficiently harnessed to combat the continued growth of crime.

I believe the more immediate priorities for law enforcement in the new year are: emphasizing creative management of police efforts, removing opportunities for crime by vigorous involvement in prevention programs...intensifying the search for more meaningful measurements of police performance...educating the public about the integrity of and the need for police technological systems, which are regrettably viewed by too many persons as unreasonable encroachments on personal privacy...maintaining the confidentiality of law enforcement investigations...seeking responsible guidance from concerned experts in other professional disciplines...and heightening cooperation with other segments of the administration of justice system in order to further unify the front against lawlessness.

THERE ARE other worthy priorities. I invite all members of the law enforcement profession to join me in seriously taking stock of our strengths and our weaknesses. We owe it to ourselves, to our profession, and more importantly, to our profession, and more importantly, to the public, which has every right to expect that we do so.

50 YEARS AGO

A sixteen-year-old bank draft, issued by a bank that ceased to exist fifteen years ago and drawn on a bank that is now only a financial memory, was presented for payment and was honored by a Hereford bank Thursday. The unique document was dated September 25, 1906. It has been cold at night, with clear, crisp days, for a long time, but moisture is now beginning to be needed and the snow Thursday was welcomed.

35 YEARS AGO

Serving hot lunches to school children, the cafeteria opened at the Central School yesterday. The cafeteria is open to all children. Money to buy the milk is raised partly by donations in the milk fund bottles which are scattered over the business district...Laying of bricks on the new Post Office, long delayed by unseasonable weather, will probably begin next Monday.

20 YEARS AGO

Summary of statements from Hereford banks this week showed the Hereford territory is possibly the best condition to ever be recorded. Deposits in the two banks soared to a total of $11,822,468.25 Jan. 6. Cold weather took over this week and had most people of this area shivering.

10 YEARS AGO

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees Tuesday night approved plans for remodeling the present high school library and the construction of a new band hall and also considered a new junior high school with a separate gymnasium. The construction is part of a massive $2.4 million building program authorized by the school district taxpayers in a special election early in 1964. Meeting for the first time with two freshmen members, the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court Monday reviewed a number of topics, but took action only on a few, including a new car for the sheriff's department.

5 YEARS AGO

The Hotel Jim Hill, a landmark in the Texas Panhandle since it was constructed in 1950, is presently undergoing changes which will see it used, in the very near future, as a meeting place for almost every civic club organization in Hereford. In their first meeting of the new decade, the county commissioners went through a light session Monday with the major topic concerning the appointment of Tom Carnahan to the post of director for the hospital board.

1 YEAR AGO

Hereford School lunchroom prices were raised 10 cents per student and Supt. Roy Hartman got a year's extension on his five-year contract in major action at the Board of Trustees Tuesday night. The hike in lunch prices was made after school officials reported the cafeterias were $11,000 in the red. A total of $25,000 was reported lost in school cafeterias over the past four months. The price hike will become effective Feb. 1 and will raise lunch prices at the elementary level from 40 cents per student to 50 cents per student. Prices in the two junior highs and high school were raised from 50 cents per plate to 60 cents.

How Secure Is Social Security?

BY ARCH BOOTH

Cato the Elder, a crusty old Roman Senator, so feared and despised Rome's ancient enemy Carthage that he adopted the custom of ending every speech he made to the Senate — no matter what the subject of the speech — with the sentence: "Carthage must be destroyed."

Eventually the noble Romans did destroy Carthage, although whether it was because they were tired of listening to Cato's commercials or for other reasons I don't remember.

In the tradition of Cato, I have over the years tried repeatedly to call attention to the growing problems of the Social Security system, in hopes of provoking some constructive action.

I have occasionally alarmed some kind souls into misinterpreting my remarks as an attack on the system in general and present benefit levels in particular. That is not my intention. I am simply trying to warn one and all that the ship of Social Security is steaming directly for an iceberg.

The problem — unlike so many today — is not immediate. Present recipients on benefits have little to fear. But the younger members of the workforce will face some grim choices ten or twenty years down the road, if we don't wake up to reality right now.

SOCIAL SECURITY is heading for trouble because two key assumptions governing the adequacy of future funding levels have proven faulty.

One of these is the assumption that pay levels would continue to increase roughly twice as fast as prices. They haven't.

The other assumption is that U.S. population growth would take much longer to reach a "replacement," or "zero population growth," level than now appears to be the case.

Why are these faulty assumptions so potentially dangerous? Because Social Security is not funded like an insurance company. Present beneficiaries are paid from the taxes on present workers and their employers. And, the level of benefits for both present and future retirees is programmed to rise along with increases in the cost of living.

So, benefits will increase in the future faster than the ability of the workforce to pay for them, if present trends continue. On top of this condition there will come a day when those born during the "baby boom" of the years immediately after WWII reach retirement age and there is left in the workforce only the smaller "baby bust" of the present to support them.

WHAT CAN BE done to return the system to a sound financial basis? There are four possibilities currently under discussion:

1. Increase the tax rate. The present rate — 11.7 per cent divided between employer and employee — is already scheduled to go up to 14.9 per cent by 2011.

2. Increase the wage base. This is the amount of pay the tax is levied on. It is up to $14,100 for 1975, from $13,200 for 1974. A federal commission studying Social Security has recommended increasing the wage base to $24,000.

3. Hold constant the percentage of working pay that a participant may collect in Social Security when he retires...say, 30 per cent of final wage. As the law is now written, the percentage of final wage collected in Social Security payments after retirement will continue to drift upward toward the 60 per cent - 70 per cent range.

4. Finance additional benefits out of the Treasury's general revenues. This alternative is both seductive and dangerous, because it divorces benefits from costs. The costs would still have to be paid, of course, but they would be hidden.

I'd guess the ultimate resolution will involve some combination of options one, two and three.

Dean's Misery

Of all the former White House aides caught up in Watergate, John Dean must be under the most pressure. Now a star witness for the prosecution in the trial of former fellow officials, he is being used by the prosecution in its attempt to convict the others.

He has admitted using money he obtained from the office of one without replacing it until eight months later. He has admitted destroying evidence. He has admitted being part of a plan to let John Mitchell take the blame for the White House group, etc.

Thus Dean admits his guilt and is to be punished. In addition, he is being used to convict his former associates, which must be a vexing obsession, not much easier to live with than his Watergate behavior. And so the government witness, as is so often the case, may come out of it the most devastated individual of those involved — accused from both sides.

"(This) Christmas...the United States Court of Appeals has ruled the Nativity scene must be dropped from the Pageant of Peace because of excessive government entanglement with religion. That's pretty strange. I've often wondered how a government can claim to be totally divorced from any association with religion — and then call a national holiday to celebrate the birthday of Christ...or set a Thursday in November as a national holiday to give thanks to God." — SISSETON, S.D., COURIER.

"Being particularly conscious of the cost of paper, our main contribution to economy is trying to conserve paper and gasoline. There are a lot of things you can carry home under your arm without a paper sack — or those little string carryalls are dandy. After all, Ben Franklin hit Philadelphia carrying a bun in his pocket and made a fortune preaching 'a penny saved is a penny earned.'" — FREDONIA, KANS. CITIZEN.

"Many Americans are going too fast and are showing too little compassion for their fellowman as they travel hurriedly from the cradle to the grave. A case in point was a tragedy in Los Angeles, when at least six, and possibly nine speeding autos struck and killed a youth when he plunged from a freeway overpass. Officers said only one driver bothered to stop. The drivers could not help striking the boy. He was apparently under mental stress, and made a suicidal leap from the overpass. The point is that traffic moves at such a high rate of speed today that a human body can be run over by nine cars before anyone notices or cares enough to stop and investigate." — PARIS, TENN., POST-INTELLIGENCE.

Talk of Texas

By Jack Maguire

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — The inauguration of Dolph Briscoe on January 21 for his second term as governor recalls the unique role that a Packard automobile played in the lives of two of Texas' chief executives.

It was in the Packard that Governor and Mrs. James E. Ferguson, the shadow of impeachment upon them, drove away from the Executive Mansion in Austin in the fall of 1917. Mrs. Ferguson was driving, and as they left the grounds, she smilingly told her husband that someday the same car would bring them back to occupy the governor's office again.

Two years later, the Packard — its tires worn thin and its engine in need of repair — was stored in a Temple garage. And there it remained until November, 1924, when Texas voters elected Mrs. Ferguson to the office from which her husband has been removed.

Mindful of her prediction seven years before, Mrs. Ferguson had the Packard removed from storage. It was given a general overhaul, a new battery, new tires and polished until it looked like new. And on January 19, 1924, with the governor-elect at the wheel and her husband at her side, Mrs. Ferguson drove the Packard to Austin for her own inauguration.

NATIVE SON — Texas had 19 governors before it got around to electing one who was born in the state.

He was James Stephen Hogg, born March 24, 1851, near Rusk. He was inaugurated for his first term on January 20, 1891.

FORFEIT — Sam Houston is the only governor who refused to attend his own inauguration, so his lieutenant governor was sworn in to replace him.

Houston had completed one term as governor and had won reelection in 1860. By inauguration day — March 16, 1861 — the Civil War was a reality, and Houston was unalterably opposed to involving Texas in the cause of the South. He refused to sign an oath of fealty to the Confederate States.

He felt so deeply against leading Texas into secession from the Union that he didn't appear to take the oath for his second term as governor. Lieutenant Governor Edward Clark assumed the office.

VEXING MOMENT

Traditionally, the outgoing governor prepares a hot meal for his successor and serves it at the Executive Mansion on inauguration day.

It isn't always a pleasant task. In 1932, the campaign in which Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson unseated incumbent Ross Sterling was a bitter one. Wounded feelings were still so strong on inauguration day, January 17, 1933, that the servants of Governor Sterling refused to prepare the traditional meal for Mrs. Ferguson.

After a short sit-down strike, during which the Sterlings exerted some pressure, the Executive Mansion staff finally agreed to serve up lunch for the new governor and her family.

FORGOTTEN MAN — Governor-elect S.W.T. Lanham and his family had to walk unescorted to the state capitol for his inauguration on January 20, 1903.

In the excitement of the occasion, the inaugural committee simply forgot to make any arrangements to get the new governor to the ceremonies.

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith grass farm on Bootleg corner takes a short look at the new year this week.

Dear editor:

I had intended to fill this letter this week with my predictions for 1975 but gave up when I got through reading all the predictions by the experts.

As I understand them, some say 1975 will be worse than 1974, some say better, and the rest have their fingers crossed. The one I liked best was the expert on television who squared his shoulders and said we'll be all right if we adopt a program that will stop a recession and whip inflation, but time ran out before he could say what the program is. Runner-up was the one who said the big automobile companies have got to stop making cars and switch to bicycles.

AT THE HEART of our troubles, most of them agreed, is oil and the way the Arab nations are pricing it so high they'll eventually own all the money in the world.

This is probably true and I have figured out why Arab oil is so high. I'll explain.

Have you noticed that when an Arab leader appears on television invariably he speaks English fluently? I got to checking into this and found that most of them got their higher education in America.

THAT'S WHERE the trouble started. American universities thought they were over here learning our culture when all the time they were learning how to charge for something somebody else can't get along without. They may have made good grades in American history but what they were fascinated with was seeing how companies can put a high price on sugar and get by with it, or how to buy meat cheap on the hoof and sell it high in the sum-permarket, or how to get $100 a day for a hospital room.

They took one look at all the cars and filling stations over here and said, "There's no future in sand and camels; oil is where the money is."

What's Washington hung on? Why isn't it sending American farmers to study a while in Arab universities? Arabs have to eat, the same as we have to drive cars.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Hurricane George

It had to happen someday, but was anyone really prepared for "men's lib"? It seems the struggle for sexual equality has now assumed a new meaning for American males.

In response to the women's liberation movement, many men are taking a second look at traditional "female jobs." The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission reports that male charges of sex discrimination are on the rise, and some men are stepping into new careers as nurses, airline stewards, clerical personnel and telephone operators. Some groups feel divorce laws must be revised because they are unfair to ex-husbands. Indeed, the entire concept of masculinity is being changed.

Where it will end is anyone's guess, but don't be surprised if your newspaper someday carries an article deploring the destruction evoked by Father Nature as "Hurricane George" roared in off the Gulf of Mexico — it will only be men's lib at work.

Beefalo, Anyone?

Don't look now but there may be a beefaloburger in your future! In an attempt to fight inflation, U.S. ranchers have successfully crossed cattle with buffalo to produce an animal known as the beefalo.

The meat is said to be nutritious and economical in price. Unlike buffalo, this new breed is mild-mannered and costs less to feed than cattle, since it matures at a more rapid rate and dines exclusively on grass, requiring no expensive grain. It is little wonder that the United States is the world's leading food producer. With Yankee Ingenuity, at our command, we can do almost anything — even fool Mother Nature.

Woman Is Family Financial Wizard

by Joyce Shipp

Every woman is expected to be a financial wizard. And it does take a wizard to be able to cope with today's problems of stretching money to meet family needs and wants.

The consumer price index, which measures average changes in prices of goods and services, shows a 38 per cent increase from 1962-1972. While the consumer price index measures changes in prices, it does not indicate how much families actually spend on living expenses.

Actual money spent depends upon many things. Most families are feeling the money pinch, especially when it's time to make major purchases such as a new car, new roof for the house or sending the children to college.

Why can't we just flip a coin and solve our money problems? If money grew on trees we would probably have problems spending all of it, but wouldn't it be fun to have that kind of problem?

One way to help beat the inflation pinch is to take a long look at the way your family is spending money now. Does your family decide together what is important to spend money for? Being a financial wizard takes getting the family together to plan how to spend the family money.

Major purchases can be made if enough planning is done to see where to cut out unnecessary expenditures. Planning several years in advance may be necessary for some purchases. In fact, it may take years of planning before a family can afford to buy a major purchase like a new home.

A financial wizard saves money in advance of a purchase to pay cash or make a large down payment to cut the extra cost of credit. Having cash on hand allows you to buy when the price is reduced for sale. It also gives you the opportunity to shop around.

If credit is used be sure the item is worth the extra cost you pay for credit. Be sure to shop for credit just like you shop for the item to be purchased. It is easy to overbuy or to spend more than you can afford with use of credit. Assume no more debt than you can safely repay out of current income.

Another part of being a wizard is taking time to consider the life expectancy of major purchases. Few things last a lifetime. Most major appliances have an estimated life expectancy of from about nine years to 18.

Proper maintenance and care will increase the life expectancy of most major purchases. Determine when your appliance will need to be replaced. Set up a savings account to have the money on hand when that time comes.

As the family plans the use of money, consider what is

The Texas State Teachers Association legislative committee has voted to ask the Texas Legislature for a $10,000 beginning salary for Texas teachers effective in September 1975.

Mrs. Carolyn Harrell of Gonzales, chairman of the TSTA legislative committee, cited research figures indicating that the proposed schedule would provide an average salary of $13,865 in 1975-76, which would put Texas teachers above the national average.

Texas teachers ranked 37th in the nation in average pay last year, with a current $6,000 starting salary on the state minimum schedule. The average Texas teacher's salary last year was $8,967. This was $1,760 below the national average.

Joint state-local cost of the new salary proposal was unofficially estimated to be $1.7 billion for the next two-year period.

The TSTA panel previously had adopted a salary package with an $8,200 starting salary, but many teachers felt that was not enough. The TSTA Executive Committee last month asked the legislative committee to reconsider the earlier plan. The committee action came in an all-day meeting in Austin on Friday.

Salary is just one part of a major bill TSTA will submit to the Legislature this month to update the public school program and revise Texas public school finance.

This measure proposes, among other things, state-financed compensatory education for educationally disadvantaged children; funds for reduction of class sizes; more specialized education personnel such as librarians and counselors; and increased state aid for transportation and maintenance and operation of schools.

The TSTA bill would not mean greatly increased employment of teaching personnel. It simply would provide state aid to school districts which already provide such personnel at their own local tax expense, and it would also provide those personnel to districts which cannot afford them at present.

Mrs. Harrell said the TSTA plan, in most cases, would not require a local property tax increase.

Total cost of the bill, including salary, was unofficially pegged at $2.7 billion for the next biennium.

The 10-step salary proposal includes yearly increments of six per cent, enabling a teacher with a bachelor's degree to reach $16,000 at the top of the schedule. A master's degree teacher would start at $11,000 and reach $17,500 at the top of the schedule. Local districts could still supplement the minimum program, as some now do.

A cost-of-living factor would require. It was estimated that local school districts raised $1 billion in property taxes last year on an average maintenance and operation tax rate of 62 cents.

The TSTA proposal — prior to the new salary plan — would have "captured" the amount of local funds which a 25-cent tax rate would raise based on full market value of local property.

The new proposal increases that to a 35-cent tax rate requirement in 1975-76 and a 40-cent rate in 1976-77. Poorer school districts are protected in the TSTA proposal by guaranteeing that equal tax effort will provide an equal school program with school aid.

A two-step plan of local leeway funds would also provide additional funds to the district desiring to make additional effort. This would benefit the poor district more than the wealth district.

In other action, the TSTA legislative committee endorsed Governor Dolph Briscoe's plan to ask the 64th Legislature for emergency funds to aid teachers who are already retired with insufficient benefits to meet the inflation crunch.

Lice Recognized As Public Health Problem

"Head lice—they're getting into everyone's hair these days." While not literally true, this line from a new State Health Department film, "Head Lice: Questions and Answers", points to a continuing and growing problem in cities and towns through Texas, and the nation, for that matter. School nurses and public health clinic nurses may see "pediculosis", an infestation with human lice, from time to time. Of late, this has been a more frequent occurrence. The general public may not hear so much about pediculosis, for those affected are reluctant to spread this information. And, it isn't a reportable disease, thus keeping it from public attention. THE PERSON WHO does understand a lice problem is the victim. Pediculosis can be a night and day torment with the itching and burning and discomfort which it causes. The constant scratching can produce an infection. And, it can be so distracting as to cause learning problems in school. Human lice are a group of insect parasites which live on the bodies of their victims. They are known as sucking lice and depend on the blood for nourishment. The warm human body also provides warmth and moisture, says the Health Department. The three types of human lice are: Pediculus humanus capitis, the head louse; Pediculus humanus humanus, the body louse; and the crab or public louse, Phthirus pubis. The head and body louse have almost the same physical size and shape, but the crab louse has a rounder body and its second and third pairs of legs are larger than the first pair near its head. All types are small, with adults ranging from 1-16th to 1-8th of an inch in length. The eggs of lice—called nits—are attached to the hair shafts of the hosts with a cement-like substance. In the case of the body louse, the nit may be attached to clothing fibers. THREE TYPES OF lice infesting humans live only on humans. Animal lice, on the other hand, can't maintain themselves on humans. And, it's possible for a person to have more than one type of lice. Of the three kinds of human lice, only the body louse has been implicated as a vector of louse-borne relapsing fever and epidemic typhus in times past. While head lice are being experienced more often in school situations, the other forms of lice also are prevalent in our society. While lack of cleanliness may contribute to the spread of lice, it is possible for anyone to become infested. Crab lice are sluggish and dependent on man, dying within 24 hours of removal from the host. An infestation will spread slowly through a group of individuals such as ship's crew or commune residents. They are spread chiefly by sexual contact, but often are acquired by such other means as infested toilet seats or beds and by close personal contact. Bodylice infest the clothing of man, particularly undergarments next to the skin. They are also known to wander about extensively. The habit of living mainly on clothing—and traveling to the skin for nourishment—has restricted body lice in civilized communities to a small minority of people who seldom wash or change their clothes. All forms of lice may be found on clothing, however.

For instance, it states that lice seldom live longer than 48 hours when removed from the human body. Under ideal laboratory conditions, male body lice have lived as long as 32 days and female body lice have survived for 46 days; however, under normal conditions, even body lice seldom live longer than a day or two when deprived of their human host. Each female head louse may lay from 50 to 150 eggs in its lifetime while the female body or crab louse may produce 200 or more. What effect does temperature have on lice? Hot temperatures will kill them. Such high temperatures are suitable for laundering purposes but not for shampooing the head or for bathing. Dry heat, steam, or pressing with a hot iron will destroy lice since they can live only a few minutes at 120 degrees. Washing in cold or lukewarm water won't kill them. How do head lice travel? They are transported by people and do not hop, jump or fly. They have powerfully developed legs, each provided with a claw and an opposing thumb-like process that is adapted for clinging.

REC Men Attend Course

Seven local men are attending a 30-hour basic electric short course sponsored by Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative and conducted by the Electric Short Schools, Engineering Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

The instructor, Ronald Jones, head of the short course program, is guiding these men and five others through a specially designed program where they will gain advanced learning in electric fundamentals and calculations. They will receive special training in specific devices so that they can better serve their cooperative and their members.

Attending from Deaf Smith REC are George Bullard, Jerry Deckard, Bill Drake, Jimmy Holmes, Donald Rieves, Charles Wall and Jimmy Yeager. Also, Jim Hall, George Willard Jr. and Mark Muller from Lamb County REC; Littlefield; James Kelly and Ronnie Tinney, Rita Blanca REC, Dalhart.

In the past, the electric power industry was founded and operated by engineers and the labor was provided by the linemen. The industry has grown to a point when the engineers have more complex problems to deal with, and the technicians must take over.

The lineman has found himself in the technician position, and now he is expected to do a great deal of the work that the engineer did in the past. Some say, "The engineer of yesterday is the lineman of today."

Because of the new technical demands placed on the electric cooperative employees, managers and supervisors in the Panhandle area of Texas have seen the need to train or retrain their men and women in the basic fundamentals of electricity.

In India, ape weddings are occasionally performed by the clergy.

Letter to the Editor

Estimado Señor,

Jose Luis, Peter, y yo, el equipo de jornada de vida cristiana, queremos agradecerles a todos los empleadores, especialmente Ideal Food y Holly Sugar, tanto como los principales de Hereford High School y Stanton High, y los padres de los jóvenes, y a Vda. mismos The Hereford Brand, por su cooperación en que el último fin de semana haya tenido un gran éxito.

Como la jornada de vida cristiana entrena a jóvenes como líderes para poder servir mejor la comunidad; sabemos que tal experiencia de liderazgo va a resultar en su bienestar, especialmente, hoy día es preciso que nosotros los adultos podamos enfocar y encauzar sus energías e ideales juveniles para formar un myndo mejor.

Muchas gracia,
Alfonso Rosania

Dear Sir,

Jose Luis, Peter and I, the Christian Formation Team of the Jornada, would like to express our thanks and appreciation for all the co-operation we received from the manager and foreman of Ideal Food and Holly Sugar, the principals of Hereford High School and Stanton High, the youth, their parents and yourself, The Hereford Brand. The result of assistance helped to make last week-end a big success.

Since the Jornada trains youth to be Christian leaders who will better serve the larger community, we are sure that such a leadership program can only result in the enrichment of the community. This is especially important today when it is so necessary to direct and channel our youth's ideals and energies in order to form a better world.

Thank you for everything,
Alfonso Rosania
Jornada representative

Driver Education Proposed

Governor Dolph Briscoe will recommend an expander driver education program in his legislative proposal to be presented to the next session of the Texas Legislature.

The plan is one of many, designed by Governor Briscoe, to upgrade and provide the necessary financial support for driver education in the state's high schools.

Recently, the State Board of Education included driver education expansion in one of fourteen propositions for improvements of the school systems.

While many students are participating in the program, thousands of eligible high school pupils are not being reached, primarily because behind-the-wheel instruction requires a laboratory fee of between $40 and $60. Currently, federal funding provides only $10 per student and federal regulations prohibit even this amount of funding beyond June 30.

Essentially, this means that the student is presently required to pay a large percentage of the fee and will be required to pay 100 per cent of the fee after that date.

Often, this prohibits lower-income students from participation in the driver education program. One observer termed the high fees as "discriminatory" to students with a desire to improve themselves despite a lack of money.

Should the legislation be approved, 100 per cent funding would be provided for behind the-wheel instruction. This would permit an estimated additional 74,000 eligible students being offered driver education in 1975-76 school year. Presently, 158,983 students are receiving driver education courses in the Texas school system.

Other advantages of additional state funding would allow districts to provide more comprehensive courses, authorize cooperative programs among districts, and would assure a continuing driver education program.

Council To Meet

Representatives of ethnic and racial groups from more than 200 communities across the country will meet in Washington, D.C. in late January to discuss participation in the nation's Bicentennial.

The three-day meeting of the National Bicentennial Ethnic Racial Council (BERC) will be held at the Shoreham Americana Hotel Jan. 20-22.

The Council is an independent group which met for the first time last June to develop methods to increase ethnic and racial participation in the commemoration of the nation's 200th anniversary.

The January BERC meeting, an expanded version of the June conference, is sponsored by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) and convened by the National Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs (NCUEA) and the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission and Assembly (DCBC/A).

The meeting will be co-chaired by Geno Baroni, President of NCUEA and by James O. Gibson, Chairman of DCBC/A.

The June session led to the selection of a steering committee which has met twice since to develop an agenda for the upcoming meeting.

Among the major concerns that surfaced at the earlier session were that the terms "minority" and "melting pot" did not apply to the group. As a whole, the groups represent a national majority, "where diversity and variety of heritage and tradition should be valued and preserved," according to Baroni.

Gibson pointed out: "The emphasis will be on community in its broadest meaning."

He added that BERC's concerns fit under the ARBA umbrella themes of Heritage '76, Festival USA, and Horizons '76. "BERC is addressing heritage as an integral part of education; working for the preservation and further development of ethnic and community arts; and the economic and social revitalization of neighborhoods," he said.

John W. Warner, Administrator of the ARBA, had emphasized ARBA's commitment of the continuation of BERC and its work and expressed the hope of total involvement of all Americans in the Bicentennial commemoration.

Liberties Union Elects Officers

Hereford's branch of the High Plains Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union elected officers and formed committees Tuesday when they met in the Episcopal Church.

Directing ACLU activities will be Father Jose Gilligan as president, Wayne Woodward vice president, and Margaret Griego secretary.

Approximately 28 members listened to a brief history of the ACLU by the district president, Bert Allen. Also, committees to attend school board meetings were chosen.

The problems of civil liberties and possible solutions were discussed.

The annual chamber banquet is a perfect example of many people working together to accomplish a very complex task. At the risk of overlooking someone, I'm going to recap what it takes and in the process, extend a great big THANK YOU to each and everyone and add my own personal appreciation.

The original banquet chairman was Dale Young and he was responsible for getting our speaker; Larry Wartes and Pat Hughes worked on special arrangements which included the head table, the directors tables and all the tables and chairs — they even had some extras on hand in case of an overflow; Mike Patrick provided a special phone hook up so the program would not be interrupted by a "ringing telephone."

Bill Thompson provided his electric organ and Jan Walsler played dinner music for more than an hour; Bill Devers and the wonderful Hereford Community Singers supplied the outstanding entertainment; Kesters Jewelry engraved the Honorary Hereford Bull.

The Santa Fe Railroad curtailed switching traffic so we could get across the tracks; the Hereford Police provided Officer Joe Brown to be on hand for any emergency and traffic control; the Women's Division provided their expert decorations committee under the capable guidance of Marian Goodin and the telephone committee chaired by Jane Copen.

The Hereford Hustlers, (Ray Chambliss chairman) met and greeted the guests and helped with tickets; the Horizon Club Campfire girls and leaders served and helped with the tables; Bill Brady for pictures; the Hereford Brand for publicity and the annual report. KPAN for publicity and radio coverage; Mr. & Mrs. Kenneth

Herd Plays Well But Falls To Dogs

By DAN WELTY
Brand Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces played what was probably one of their better ball games of the year Friday night at the Berger Bulldog fieldhouse, but the awesome Dogs proved too tough for Hereford to gain the win.

The Bulldogs, picked to win district 3-AAAA, pushed to a 53-44 win in the closing seconds of the contest. Charlie Brown, a hot-shooting wingman, led the Bulldogs with 18 points. Joe Kerr, who some have classed as the best player in that district, gained 14 points for the Dogs. Jim Arney and Lynn Tarr shared scoring honors for the Herd with 14 points each. Arney hit only two field goals, but was 10 of 10 from the charity stripe. Tarr scored no free throws, but hit seven field goals.

THE ADVANTAGE to Berger was obvious just by looking at the Bulldog roster. Thirteen players were listed with three at 6'5 1/2" tall. Lynn Tarr and Mike Hull, Hereford's two tallest players, are listed at 6'4". During the game, Berger had seven reserves on the bench waiting to see action. Hereford had only three reserves, with Dave Charest and Archie Crim switching in and out of the game.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 16-12 with the Herd trailing by four points. A slack period in the second quarter hurt the Herd as they missed rebound after rebound and gave up turnovers. Just before the half the Whitefaces sparked, though, bringing a much wider lead by the Bulldogs down to 11 points at intermission. In the closing minutes of that quarter the Herd outplayed Berger, stealing the ball and blocking shots to gain advantageous turnovers. The score was 33-22 at the half.

The third quarter proved another good period for the Herd as they pulled to within five points of Berger at one point, making the score 37-32. Some questionable officiating proved tough luck for the Herd, though, as the Bulldogs pulled away to lead 41-32 at the end of the third period.

Another scoring streak in the early part of the fourth period had the Herd within five points at 45-40 with 3:39 left in the contest. Defense picked up on both teams as minutes passed before any points were added to the board. With 1:32 left, Lynn Tarr scored two points from beneath the basket. Two of the Bulldogs tried to prevent the shot, felling Tarr with elbows, arms and legs but officials refused to blow the whistle.

COMING BACK down the floor, Craig Nieman was able to put both hands on the ball in an apparent attempt to tie-up the ball. His surprise was apparent when the official pointed to him for a foul instead of a jump ball. Charlie Brown put the ball up and scored twice from the charity stripe to push the Bulldogs ahead 47-42.

Hereford went back down the floor and put up a shot, but missed. As Berger headed for their end of the court, Jim Arney tied Tom Hood, but again the official indicated a foul on the part of the Hereford player. Hood swished the net with both shots to give the Bulldogs a 49-42 lead.

Charlie Brown added two points to edge Berger farther ahead at 51-42. The ball was in Berger's possession with the clock running down. Arney stole the ball and tried for a layup, but was brutally fouled as he went for the basket by Gary Benton. The two free throws added to Hereford's score, but with 15 seconds remaining, there was little hope for a victory. Berger ran the ball back downcourt and Jon Griffin hit a bucket as the buzzer sounded to make the final score 53-44.

If basketball games were judged as boxing and collegiate wrestling matches are, Hereford could possibly have won the game on a decision. They dealt the bigger and taller opponents several staggering blows and stayed in the fight till the finish.

Berger also won the two underclass contests as the Herd junior varsity lost 64-35 and the Berger sophomores beat Hereford 49-37.

Hereford 12 10 10 12-44
Berger 16 17 8 12-53

Hereford—Arney 2-10-14, Tarr 7-0-14, Nieman 4-0-8, Crim 3-0-11, Hull 1-0-2. Totals 17-10-44

Berger—Charlie Brown 8-2-18, Joe Kerr 6-2-14, Phillip Wagner 2-4-8, Jon Griffin 3-0-6, Don Keener 1-0-2, Gary Benton 0-1-1. Totals 21-11-53.

Blocked Shots

Craig Nieman is obliterated from view by arms of Berger players as he tries a shot in the fourth period of the contest. Berger listed three players on their roster taller than the Herd's tallest player. A good showing by the Herd could not swindle the Bulldogs out of the win.

January 10, 1975

Dear Friends:

Today, I am a free man. I am no longer under condemnation. I have been purchased for a price.

When the pressures of this life become too great to bear, I have a place where I may leave them.

When I run out of answers to the problems which arise in my life, I have somewhere to go for the answers.

When I am beaten, sore, and in need of rest, I have a refuge.

When I am lonely, and need a shoulder to lean on, I have a friend who is always willing to listen; I don't have to put on a front with him. He accepts me just as I am.

My friend is Jesus Christ. He never leaves me, because He lives with me. My constant companion.

Jesus said: "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls". For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light." Matthew 11:28-30

His yoke is easy to carry. I gave him my sin, and He gave me His Spirit. "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law." Galatians 5:22-23

By His Spirit I am being washed, cleansed, renewed and revived. Our's is a one to one relationship.

He is merciful. He wants me to be his own. He gave me His faith and righteousness. "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; Not of works, lest any man should boast." Ephesians 2:8-9

"For if by one man's offence death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall live reign by one, Jesus Christ." Romans 5:17

Friend, there is no defeat in Jesus Christ. You cannot find one word of defeat in God's word. Read God's word. For those who will believe in Jesus, he has already taken the sting of death on himself. He is the VICTORY.

The Old Testament tells of God's plan for my salvation. The New Testament tells me how His plan was fulfilled. The Epistles bear witness of the fulfillment and show me what I can do to make this a victorious life, and Revelation tells me our side won and what is in store for those who are willing to claim the VICTORY IN JESUS CHRIST.

Join the winning team. Ask Jesus to come into your heart today.

With love,
A Friend PS. Please, take your family to church this Sunday.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

Trailer Warning
Due to the unusually high price charged for gasoline today, many motorists are purchasing the smallest automobiles possible.

This is a commendable way to economize on gasoline, but it's not so good from the standpoint of safety if you are going to be pulling a boat or trailer, unless the entire rig is a mighty light one.

Many a fisherman has discovered that a sudden and strong gust of wind can cause a loaded trailer to "flip" and in the process of doing so cause further damage by overturning the light automobile.

So, it is well to remember that the pulling car must outweigh the trailing unit, and then some.

Smallest damage that can be done is to crash your trailer and your boat. There's also a likelihood of seriously injuring yourself and your companions, and a possibility of crashing into an approaching or parked vehicle.

It's not worth the risk to underpower any automobile. But it is well worth the investment to overpower, just in case extra weight or added speed is needed for one purpose or another.

Junior Hi Results

Stan'on's Dogies traveled to Plainview to meet Coronado's three teams Thursday. Stanton came away with two wins and one loss.

The seventh graders lost a close game to Coronado 37-35. The score was close throughout the contest, but Coronado finally grabbed the lead. Belen Ramirez led Stanton with 12 points.

In the eighth grade contest, Stanton grabbed an early lead and held on all the way to beat Coronado 57-46. Buzzy Abalos and Antonio Garcia shared high point honors with 12 each.

Kelly Kitchens scored 21 points and Randy Marrs had 17 to spark the Stanton freshmen to a 97-65 win over Plainview. The Dogies led 27-8 at the end of the first quarter, and coasted three more quarters to an easy win.

The Canyon Purple teams Monday with games beginning at 5 p.m.

The La Plata Mavericks were hosts to that Canyon Purple team Thursday, and won two of three contests.

An early lead turned into an easy win for the seventh grade Mavericks as they downed the Canyon Purple 40-26. Joe Walker paced the Mavericks with 12 points, Steve Vigil and Steve Farran had eight points each.

Paul Bell scored 10 points and Richard Olson hit nine points to lead the eighth grade team to a 42-37 win over the Canyon Purple. At times the score was close, but the Mavericks went ahead for the win.

A rough second half for the freshmen Mavericks ended with their defeat 58-50 by the Canyon Purple. Halftime score was 22-22, but Canyon pushed hard in the second half for the win. David Arney led La Plata with 12 points, Kent Ellis had 10.

La Plata will travel to Plainview to meet Estacado Monday afternoon with games beginning at 4 p.m.

SCENTS MAKE A DIFFERENCE

A lot of people think fish smell, but did you know that some fish think people smell? Odd as it seems, the natural body odors of some people seem to bother fish, making them shy away from baits and lures which have the offensive smell.

Human smells aren't the only things that bother fish. Anglers sometimes get a little of the gasoline and oil mixture used to fuel outdoor motors on their hands during the normal course of operating a motor. Unless the fisherman washes his hands, some of the fuel is transmitted to his lures and what is then supposed to catch fish actually repels them.

The outdoor recreation staff at Mercury outdoors has found that lures tend to build up a deposit of foreign material which may drastically affect an angler's success.

One precaution against this is to wash your fishing lures in a mild soap solution several times a year. This removes repulsive odors and brightens the finish of the lure. Rinse the lures thoroughly and hang them indoors to dry. Afterward, polish them with a clean, soft cotton cloth to bring out their lustre.

Biologists became aware of the human smell/fish repellent association quite by accident some years ago. While at a fish passage station on a western stream, a biologist noticed that when a certain person put his hands into the water upstream from the observation point, all the fish in the area immediately left.

With some experimenting, it was determined that natural smells from several individuals would cause the erratic behavior, while other persons could dip their hands into the water and not affect the fish.

There's no known way for any one fisherman to determine if his smell is repulsive to fish. Some anglers assume the worst and doctor their lures with an artificial smell that is attractive to fish, such as oil of anise. Others wear thin rubber gloves when handling lures. Most anglers, however, don't worry about how they smell to a fish.

Home is what the family makes it.

THE HOLY BIBLE

This BOOK contains — the mind of God, the state of man, the way of salvation, the doom of sinners, and the happiness of believers. Its doctrines are holy, its precepts are binding, its histories are true, and its decisions are immutable. Read it to be wise, believe it to be safe, and practice it to be holy.

It contains light to direct you, food to support you, and comfort to cheer you. It is the traveller's map, the pilgrim's staff, the pilot's compass, the soldier's sword, and the Christian's character.

Here, heaven is opened, and the gates of hell disclosed. Christ is its grand subject, our God its design, and the glory of God its end. It should fill the memory, rule the heart, and guide the feet.

Read it slowly, frequently, prayerfully. It is a mine of wealth, a paradise of glory, and a river of pleasure. It is given you in life, will be opened at the judgment, and be remembered forever. It involves the highest responsibility, will reward the greatest labor, and condemn all who trifle with its sacred contents.

"Forever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven." [Psalm 119:89] Author unknown

Joe Kerr, rated by some as the best player in District 3-AAAA, jumps for a tie ball against Hereford's Craig Nieman. Teammates Lynn Tarr and Dave Charest wait for a chance at the ball on the

THIS IS THE AFTERNOON when most husbands will be glued to the front of the tube, watching Super Bowl IX. There's not going to be much else on anyway, so you ladies might as well take a nap or something. However, your problem could get worse instead of better.

According to the recent issue of Sports Illustrated, a move is underway to make the Super Bowl a two-out of three affair. And a former player named Johnny Blood wants to make it a triple crown event. A three game playoff in which all three games must be played regardless of who wins the first two. Johnny believes the odds against winning all three would soon give his playoff system the magic of baseball's triple crown (batting, home run and runs-batted-in title) and of racing's (Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont).

To insure that the players would go all out, Blood suggests a $1 million, winner-take-all pot for the third game, whether it is for the championship or the triple crown.

Blood wants this to go through to raise enough revenue for the NFL to establish a pension fund for players who retired before 1958. He fits into that category.

Wives, just wait until football is a year-round sport. Yuck!

OUR APOLOGIES to Lynn Tarr. In a recent article concerning the Borger Tournament, we failed to mention that Lynn was chosen to be the All-Tournament team. Only five players were named from the seven teams, so it's quite an honor. Congratulations to Lynn.

THE GRANDSON of a local man has been named the world champion for speed and endurance on a pogo stick. Louis Le Grand III of Edmund, Okla. set the record recently in Edmund. He is the grandson of Louis Le Grande of 106 Aspen.

Louis III broke all previous records for pogoing when he pogoed 17,230 times in two hours, and then went on to complete 25,519 jumps in three hours. The pogo master is 10 years old.

His grandfather has lived in Hereford since 1903, and great-grandfather Le Grand was a well-known doctor here for many years.

ALSO SAW IN THAT issue of SI

mentioned above, that a surfer-turned-snow-skier has invented a single ski. The ski looks like a mini-surfboard about six inches wide and 185 cm long.

It has bindings just as regular skis, but your feet are stationary in a fixed-parallel position. Doesn't look too exciting to me. Think I'll stay with my conventional two skis.

LARRY DIPPEL, who if you remember, has left Hereford to coach at Amarillo High, will be joined by Bob Keyes. Keyes was one of Dippel's assistants on the varsity and track coach. Never did coach much track, though, as it was his first year with the Herd and he didn't even make it to track season.

New head football coach and athletic director Fred Upshaw will probably come up with a track coach before the first track meet, though.

A YOUNG HEREFORD resident is beaming with delight after an adventure in the wilds over the Christmas Holidays. Shamon Wilburn, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wilburn of 1500 Brevard St., went on his first hunting trip and returned home with a proud accomplishment.

He went to the Sweetwater area with his father and grandfather and grew a little more into manhood as he fought down his first doe. His mother said Shamon didn't mind the kill, but he wasn't about to process the meat himself. That, he left up to professionals.

Comment On Sports

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- The Miami Dolphins, in a way, deserved to win that classic battle with Oakland last month. They came back like a championship team and when they had to go through Oakland's line, they went through.

But time ran out and one of those miracle catches in the end zone deprived them of another comeback chance. Oakland deserved the win and Ken Stabler earned it, along with his teammates.

It might be said this was a game both teams deserved to win. It was, truly, the big game of pro football's play-offs. This writer has the sneaky feeling, however, that Oakland couldn't pull it off again, that if these teams had played three or five games the Dolphins would have won most of them.

That brings us to the argument for a series. If not between every playoff pair, at least between the two finalists. Football is about the only team sport in which the finals are one game. Basketball, baseball, hockey, etc., decide their champions in a series.

Those who never make a compliment remains the best way of insuring cooperation. People must learn to get along with less than perfect persons.

THE HEAT PUMP

ENERGY EFFICIENT...

We call the heat pump a "Bright Star" because although the idea has been around for some-time now... there's a lot more interest in saving energy than ever before... people want to save energy, but they don't have to give up their comfort. With the heat pump, you don't have to give up anything. The heat pump makes wise use of energy because it uses otherwise wasted heat and electricity to heat and cool your home. Electric heat, in any form, is a wise use of precious energy and the heat pump is today's star of the system... more than 100% efficient at the point of use - actually provides more energy than it uses. Call us this week for a free electric heat cost survey of your home... and ask about the heat pump!

A gown of white jersey was worn by Miss Paetzold, with Venice lace trim forming a yoke effect and high neckline in Edwardian style. Lace circled the fitted sleeves at the wrist, and edged the illusion veil which fell from a high headpiece to extend over the circular train which was attached at the back of the A-line skirt.

Red roses, white carnations and babybreath were in her cascade bouquet. She wore a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

With their red velvet dresses, the bridesmaids carried white muffs with clusters of red roses pinned atop.

The wedding reception was held in St. Anthony's hall, where Miss Margie Paetzold invited guests to register. ## Comings And Goings At King's Manor

BY FAY GAUGGEL

Mrs. Jessie Boardman had as her guests recently her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Tom L. Boardman, of Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Boardman is editor and publisher of the Cleveland Press.

Mr. and Mrs. N.O. Wright visited her grandmother, Mrs. Lena Menefee during the month of December. They are from Plainview. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jesko of Lubbock visited Mrs. Menefee Sunday.

Mark Cleveland of Clovis, a young student and composer of country western music entertained us Friday evening. He aspires to popularity and prosperity via the tape recording bit.

Mr. Cleveland is young, vivacious and nattily and colorfully groomed. He is a relative of Billie Brown of Westgate. Much of his program Mark composed. His strategy of establishing relationship with us was simple and direct: "I have a grandmother. I love her and I love you".

Accompanying himself on guitar and a tape recorder he did two love songs to imaginer girls in Amarillo in The Mornin' and Saginett. Dear Mom depicted a dying soldier in a war zone.

Some of his own works were Cindy and I'll Never Fall in Love Again - It doesn't Pay.

Come back, Mark. We like what we heard and saw.

Mrs. Louise Vaughan and Mrs. Leota Moore gave a tea Jan. 7 in the home of the latter at 205-B Cottage Drive. It was a come-and-go affair. Minorities attended early and cottagers later.

Since the hostesses are both artists, it was appropriate that the house is appointed with oils done by them and other artists in the family. Mrs. Moore took us over the lovely cottage while Mrs. Vaughan supervised the refreshment center.

We are all close friends so conversation flowed easily. After refreshments, Bethany Williams snapped our picture. This proved to be hilarious in that we had much ado getting situated so all could be seen in the picture. We scrambled, unscrambled, some sat in, some sat out. We did gymnastics there for a spell. Never underestimate fossils in a gym class.

Then the posing bit: Cheeses, all kinds of prunes and prims and "look at the birdie" etc.

Those assisting in pairs were Ellen Lloyd and Alma Cross, Dixie Stewart and Bethany Williams, Jessie Mae Dodson and Roxie Travis.

About 50 guests came. Our men turned out unusually well.

Marriage Service Read At Flower-Decked Altar

Wedding vows were exchanged in an early evening ceremony Saturday by Miss Gayla Gamez and Sgt. Roger Allen Grant of Amarillo, Dr. Jordan Grooms, pastor, read the marriage service in First United Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ismael Gamez of 112 Greenwood are the parents of the bride, and the bridegroom, now in the United States Air Force, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hines of Phoenix, Arizona.

Miss Rosemary Alderete and Farrell Dean Long, both of Amarillo, were the honor attendants. Others were Mr. and Mrs. Michael McCrimmon of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Eluterio Mariscal Sr., Mrs. Anita Castillo and Eluterio Mariscal Jr.

A cousin of the bride, Horace Gamez, and Chris Anderson of Amarillo served as ushers. Wedding music was by Mrs. Bill Brady, pianist.

Paired candelabra twined with green foliage flanked a large central bouquet of white gladiolas and red carnations. Smaller bouquets were set on pedestals on either side of the altar. White bows marked pews on the center aisle.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in pearl white silk organza with wide bands of pearl-embroidered lace outlining the square neckline, the empire waistline and cuffs of the full sleeves. The softly gathered skirt fell floor length, finished with a deep flounce of the organza.

A pearl necklace and earrings complemented the dress trim. Her bouquet was a cascade of sweetheart roses, white pixie carnations and gypsophilla tied with satin ribbon streamers.

Her attendants wore floor-length red gowns and their flowers were nosegays of white carnations and gypsophilla centered with single red roses the ribbons that tied them.

The couple received guests after the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. Miss Eleanor Gamez, cousin of the bride, was at the registry book.

Mmes. Joe A. Balderas, Paul Aguirre and Abel Aguirre, the bride's aunts, Mrs. Manuel Pacheco and Miss Yolanda Ramirez served refreshments at a table covered with a white organza cloth over red in frosted effect, with a red gathered skirt. Silver candelabra held red tapers in the center arranged with white carnations.

The wedding cake was in four tiers, set on a base of five round layers. It was decorated with lace icing and a cascade of red roses swirling around the side.

For a wedding trip to Dallas and then to Phoenix, Mrs. Grant wore a pantsuit in pastel blue. After the trip the couple will be at home at 1613 South Polk in Amarillo until July, when they plan to go to Phoenix for the bridegroom to continue medical studies.

The bride, employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company at Amarillo, is a graduate of Hereford High School. Grant was graduated from Carl Hyden High School in Phoenix and is stationed in Amarillo with the USAF.

Deborah Clark Married And Lives In Oklahoma

At home after a recent marriage, John Winslow Snyder and his bride, the former Miss Deborah Sue Clark, reside at 623 West Elm, Enid, Okla. Mrs. Snyder and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Clark, now of Friona, are former Hereford residents.

The wedding was in First Church of the Nazarene at Enid with Dale Barnes, pastor of Grace Chapel, as officiant. Miss Nancy Hutchins of Enid was maid of honor, John Chambers of Enid best man, and attendants included the bride's brothers, Steven Clark of Hereford, Alan Clark and Mrs. Calr of Enid, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Jane Snyder.

Miss Clark wore a gown of snowflake polyester trimmed Venice lace, and a lace picture hat with satin band and streamers. Bridesmaids were dressed in maroon and pink floral print and pink hats.

After the wedding, a reception was held at Grace Chapel, where tables were decorated all in white. The couple left for a short trip to an Eastern Oklahoma lake resort.

Miss Clark graduated from Hereford High School while the family lived here, and is employed by Chapel Play School in Enid. Snyder is with an Enid construction firm.

Past, New Entrants Listed

Girls seeking the title of Miss Hereford 1975 in the annual pageant Feb. 15 will include blonde Monica Lyn Herring, Miss Teenage Hereford 1974. A number of others who have appeared in pageants in past years are among entrants, with some like Michelle Moore making their first attempt as contestants.

Miss Hereford will be chosen in the local event to represent the city in the Miss Texas pageant at Fort Worth next summer, when the state competitor for the title of Miss America will be selected. Rules of the Miss America pageant are observed here, with judging for beauty, poise and talent.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Herring, north of Hereford, Miss Herring has grown up with five brothers, reason enough for every day in her life to be different and exciting. She is a senior at Hereford High School where she has earned a 5.0 honor roll listing.

Named Sweetheart of the Kiwanis Club, she acts as club pianist. Membership in the Leo Club, Future Teachers, Future Business Leaders and HHS tennis team indicates her varied interests.

Writing poetry, playing the piano and tennis are her favorite spare-time activities. She prefers music in country-western style, pop and from Broadway musicals. To accent her blue eyes, her favorite color is blue. After high school Miss Teenage Hereford plans to attend West Texas State University and major in physical therapy with a minor in sociology, to prepare for work with disabled people to help them overcome handicaps and be an important part of society.

One of the first-time entrants this year is Miss Moore, five foot two, with eyes of green and dark hair. Her parents are the J.J. Moores, and Michelle is an HHS junior.

She has lived in Mexico, an experience that she enjoyed. Meeting new people and watching the sunrise on camping trips are her ideas of most interesting things in life.

Her talents in music include playing the violin, French horn and piano. She likes to spend time in creative crafts such as sewing, crochet and "making things out of practically nothing." Dancing is another favorite pastime and she likes to go to football games.

At school she is a member of the National Forensic League and has received its degree of merit. She holds the office of charity in the Order of Rainbow for Girls. Wearing formal dress pleases her most, especially if the gown is in her best-liked color, vivid orange.

Western Art In Bronze Is Gaining Recognition

BY SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

BEGINNING to receive attention as a serious artist, Mrs. Johnny Trotter, a young homemaker of the Easter community, says sculpture of western subjects is nothing new for her.

"When I was about five and Mother gave me some modeling clay I began trying to mold horses and other animals, and I've been at it ever since," explains slight, green-eyed Pam Trotter as she shows much more sophisticated work, now done in bronze.

Shortly over a year ago she began modeling groups of figures — horses, cattle and cowboys, in wax for bronze casting. Now she has enough ready for a display in First National Bank next week and at Deaf Smith County Library in February, when she will be Artist Of The Month in the library's series.

SHE PLANS to have some work in the Hereford Art Guild's show March 15 and 16, and has already displayed some in an Amarillo art show. That experience might be termed a success for the young artist, as someone liked her work enough to steal her small figure of a buffalo during the show!

Encouragement from Don Ray of Channing, a widely known western artist, has given Pam Trotter the motive to concentrate on bronze sculpture the past year, to study and practice to perfect her technique. She watches him work when she can, and says that has taught her much about composition, both in painting and sculpture.

Drawing and molding or carving figures has been part of her activity since she can remember, at first merely as play. She grew up as Pam Myers in Espanola, N.M., near Santa Fe, and says her father liked to paint and to carve wood or soap so she learned from him first.

ART CLASSES interested her in school, and she credits her art teacher in high school, F.J. Montoya, with giving her individual help that added to her skills. She studied painting for a time with Anna Kovacs, local teacher, but says that mostly she learned by herself, a matter of trial and error.

Mother of a two-and-a-half-year-old son, Rick, she is pleased that he likes to work with her, modeling "kitty-cats" in clay while she works in wax. Her choice of western subjects reflects her father's interests and her lifelong liking for horses.

"We always had horses and I began riding when I was a kid," she explains. She competed in 4-H Club riding events and was a 4-H leader to train younger members for horse shows. She competed in riding shows at Santa Fe, was 4-H Queen and Rodeo Queen.

RODEO participation was not confined to riding horses; tiny teenage Pam entered the steering events "Until Mama found out about it and threw a fit and that was the end of that." Mrs. Trotter still likes to ride and help her husband work with cattle in his farm-ranch operations.

The Trotters live in an attractive mobile home about two miles northwest of Easter community center. Paintings she had done, along with one by her father and one by her husband's father, Dr. Clifford Trotter, hang in the living room.

Mrs. Trotter works on her kitchen table and has a shelf in the refrigerator reserves for the wax figures she molds.

"THIS WORK IS much more complicated than most people think," she says, "with several steps necessary to make a bronze figure or group. It's rather expensive, too, and when I sell a piece I use the money for more material and the expense of casting."

First she makes a wire skeleton, applies wax and shapes it to the human or animal figure she wants. Then using a candle and a dental tool, she adds details until the wax model is complete.

Final work is done at a foundry; until recently hers were cast at Santa Fe, but her last two pieces were cast by Bob Honeycutt at Channing. Waxes are required for the process, which entails covering the wax model with a plastic and then plaster of Paris to make a mold into which the hot bronze is poured and cooled.

THE ROUGH bronze cast then must be smoothed and given final touches by the artist before it is ready for display.

Mrs. Trotter is happy that she has qualified for membership in Woman Artists Of The American West, headquartered at Norco, Calif., and in the Texas Fine Arts Association.

But just now she is proud of the invitations to exhibit her work locally, and eager to produce more of the art which depicts the western country of which she is a native.

Child's Fun Grows Up

Animal and human figures like those she molded for fun as a child are now winning Pam Trotter a place as an artist as she produces them in bronze. Initial step in her work, wax figures like those in top photo are molded and then cast in metal. She puts details in a horse's mane with a knife. The separate figures will be assembled in groups like those in lower photo, which are ready for display after the young artist smoothed and completed the bronze castings.

In most discussions, those who talk most can be eliminated.

CHRISTMAS Eve found me on the way to Big D to spend the holidays with the Manjots "4". Trip down was a bit hectic as plane was late and the north wind was very, very cold and traffic on I-40 was almost bumper to bumper. Christmas lighting in the big city was limited, also in the residential areas. However there was some which were very attractive and made one respond to the real meaning of Christmas. Lloyd Jr. had picked out some which appealed to him to share with me. The Manjot home had an air of hospitality with lighting effects, sparkling X-mas tree, crackling fire in the fireplace. Happiness was the keynote. ROBERT Rodale, editor of Organic Gardening, has declared 1975 as a year to be one of building security through living on the land. Gardening will be one of our means of security. World-wide uncertainty about our economic future is swinging things around. The old habits are returning, forced upon people by the inflation crunch. Home food gardening is now looked on as much more than a hobby or a way to get good-tasting food, rather a basic means of food production. The home garden is the center of this new effort to bring production of food back into the hands of the family (which will add strength to family togetherness) and foods with higher nutrient value. Many gardeners realized this to a great extent last year as they grew vegetables for their table, for canning and freezing. To sum up the matter we can agree that overconsumption of many of our products and major needs has brought about our present lack of security, and that we are headed for the key of life and much more happiness if we will meet the issues and do our part to aid in producing foods. It is now time to start planning and getting the ground ready for gardening. January should be a month of planning and studying books and catalogues, also conferring with other gardeners. Organic gardeners will want to get manure into their garden soil now so it can be rotting during the winter months and be ready for spring. Others will use organic fertilizers in gardens and around trees and shrubs. If you do this use 10-10-5 or 12-4-4 or other similar balanced soil foods. Remember the middle number (as shown on the container) acts to stimulate new roots. It's a chief ingredient in the root activating additives. Another thing we can do during winter is to raise garden herbs for seasoning and also for creative beauty. Small pots planted with seeds of chive, parsley, basil, sage or leeks, will give you that certain something which is often needed in many of our foods. For many years I have done this and I have found that parsley is a very attractive plant and is excellent for soups, and also for that certain at-

THE SCIENTISTS TELL ME...

By Robert L. Haney, Science Writer
The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station

Weed-Eating Bugs Offer Goathead Control

Scientists have come up with a new one-a-weed-eating bug that won't eat anything else. The weed is puncturevine (goathead to most Texans), and the insect is the puncturevine seed-weevil. Besides goatheads, the weevil eats a close relative of goathead called kallstroemia.

Scientists first observed the weevil feeding on goatheads in India. After noting that it lived exclusively on goatheads, the insect was moved to Italy for additional observation. After more studies on the weevil's feeding habits, it was brought to the U. S. and later released.

The life cycle of this unusual insect begins when the female weevil chews a small pit in the side of a young bur, deposits her egg and seals the pit with fecal cement. A small larva hatches and feeds on the inside of the bur. The fully grown grub transforms to a pupa and later to an adult which bores itself out of the seed. One, two or three weevils may complete their development within a single bur. The egg to adult cycle usually requires about 25 days. The lifespan of the overwintering adult is about 1 year. Adults will suck juice from puncturevine leaves and stems but do not cause appreciable damage to goathead plants by this type of feeding. In August, 1962, N. E. Daniels and A. F. Wiese, two Experiment Station scientists at the USDA Research Center at Bushland, obtained 250 of these "goathead weevils" from the Biological Control Section of the USDA in California. One-half were turned loose in a goathead patch at Big Spring and the others at Bushland. Those released at Big Spring survived over winter, but weevils were not found the next year at Bushland.

In 1963 at Big Spring, the first year after release, the weevils spread over an area with a 0.5 mile radius. In spots, up to 60 to 70 percent of the burs were infested. During the fall of 1963, weevil-infested goatheads were spread on marked areas near Wellington and Amarillo. In 1964, farmers and researchers spread infested plants over the entire Panhandle and as far south as Midland. By the fall of 1966, the goathead weevil covered an area extending from Wheeler to Lubbock and west to the New Mexico line.

The southern boundary of infestation extended from the New Mexico line east to Midland and northeast through Abilene to Vernon. Infestations varied from 40 to 98 percent of the burs. The weevil had spread to most areas in Texas where goatheads were a problem except in the Panhandle north of Lubbock.

The scientists observed that the adult weevils hibernate in weedy and trashy places from October until late May. In dry springs, weevils get off to a slow start because there isn't any food.

Since 1966, either weather conditions have been more favorable in the northern Panhandle or the weevils have become more cold tolerant. By 1974, this beneficial bug had spread northward to every county in the Panhandle. Infestations ranged from 40 to 80 percent. The weevil was found on goatheads as far south as Temple, Texas, west to Albuquerque, New Mexico, and throughout central Oklahoma. Other releases spread the weevil over most of the southwest part of the United States.

After observing this unusual insect for over 10 years, Daniels and Wiese state that "the weevil offers some promise of reducing but not eliminating goatheads." In areas where weevils infest over 90 percent of the burs, enough seed escape to start a new crop. The scientists, however, are confident their efforts will reduce weed control costs in sorghum and cotton.

And it will reduce some of these weeds in cities and small towns. Thinning out goatheads in alleys and vacant lots might save one or two patch jobs a year on bicycles. This obscure benefit alone might save Texans over $100,000 a year. But there's no way to put a dollar value on the saving of pain to the bare feet of children and pets.

First 1975 Stamp Honors Artist

The first U.S. commemorative stamp of 1975, which honors American painter Benjamin West, will be issued Feb. 10 at Swarthmore, Pa., the U.S. Postal Service has announced.

West is the subject of the painting stamp in a three-stamp American Arts Set to be issued in 1975. Other stamps in the set will honor motion picture pioneer D.W. Griffith and poet Paul Laurence Dunbar.

West was born in 1738 at Swarthmore where the first day of issue ceremony for the stamp will be conducted at Swarthmore College. The West home is on the campus of the college.

He was the first American born painter to go abroad, and the first to gain an international reputation. After three years in Italy, West made his way to London where he enjoyed great success and established a permanent residence. He was a co-founder and later President of the British Royal Academy of Painting, where his portraiture attracted the attention of King George III. He died in London in 1820.

Although he spent most of his life in England, West maintained strong ties with his American heritage. His paintings include many subjects from the New World, notably the American Indian.

Compared to the "Grand Style" of Sir Joshua Reynolds, with whom he was associated at the British Royal Academy, his paintings struck a realistic note, and he became an innovator of styles in historical figure compositions. Probably the best-known of his works in this regard is his "Death of General Wolfe," (c. 1771, National Gallery of Canada, Ottawa, a painting in which the customary Greco-Roman trappings of an artistic army were replaced with realistic costumes.

West's talent and reputation made him an example for other Americans who studied abroad, and his influence upon such American artists as Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully, and S.F.B. Morse was considerable.

The vertical 10-cent stamp, designed by Bradbury Thompson of Riverside, Conn., is based upon a self-portrait of the artist which hangs in the National Gallery of Art. It was modeled by Esther Porter of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The image area of the stamp is 0.84 x 1.44 inches or 21.336 x 36.576 millimeters. There are 50 stamps per pane and five pane numbers.

The colors are yellow, blue, red, black and gray. Across the top of the stamp, in black, appears "Benjamin West." At the bottom, also in black, is the two-line inscription "American Artist" and "10 cents U.S. postage."

The stamps are being printed by the conventional gravure method on the Andros press, using electrostatic assist devices that introduce charges into the impression cylinders, thus emptying the cells more completely of ink. Use of the device gives a better reproduction of the stamp design.

Conventional gravure cylinders, in which the cells are uniform in size with varying depths, are being used with the electrostatic devices. The lateral "hard-dot" cylinders used to print many previous stamps on the Andros press had cells which varied in both size and depth.

First day cancellation requests should be addressed to "Benjamin West Stamp, Postmaster, Swarthmore, PA 19381."
