Taxes going up Thursday

AUSTIN (AP) — Record numbers of Texans are calling the state tax collector with questions and complaints about the sales tax increase that takes effect Thursday.

"It appears that nobody is happy," Claudia Stravato, deputy comptroller for enforcement, said Tuesday.

On Thursday, the state sales tax will increase to 6 percent from the current 5 1/4 percent. The sales tax also will be expanded to cover many services and some goods that had been exempt.

For Dallas, Austin and Houston residents, the increase means a total sales tax of 8 percent because of the 1 percent city sales tax and 1 percent transit sales tax.

Lawmakers approved the state sales tax increase during a special session called this year to balance the budget.

Ms. Stravato, who oversees the tax assistance telephone bank, said the 50 tax specialists there have been handling 5,000 to 8,000 calls a day since mid-August.

The number of tax-related calls to the toll-free line (1-800-252-5555) has been as high as 10,000 per day, she said.

Most of the calls are from businesses, Ms. Stravato said.

The 420,000 merchants now on the tax rolls must adjust cash registers or obtain new cards that show the increased state sales tax.

In addition, more than 64,000 businesses are expected to be collecting the sales tax for the first time.

Among the items that will fall under the sales tax beginning Thursday are garbage collection, landscaping, pest control, private club memberships and insurance damage appraisals.

"A lot of (the callers) are confused" because the $5.7 billion tax bill approved by lawmakers contains different effective dates for different tax increases, Ms. Stravato said.

The sales tax increase and base-broadening that take effect Thursday will together raise an estimated $3.6 billion over the next two years. Other increases took effect Sept. 1 or will take effect Jan. 1.

With the increase, Texas is tied with six other states in having the third-highest state sales tax rate in the nation.

Some of the merchants who are calling are irate because they must pay a new $25 fee for a permit to collect the sales tax, Ms. Stravato said. The fee became effective Sept. 1.

The state's motor vehicle sales tax and hotel-motel room taxes also went up Sept. 1.

Starting Thursday, the so-called Doughnut Rule, which applies the sales tax to ready-to-eat foods only if they are purchased for immediate consumption, will fall by the wayside.

The abolition of the rule, which got its nickname because the sales tax has not been charged on purchases of six doughnuts or more, means the sales tax will be charged on all food and drink purchases from such businesses as restaurants, hotels and drug stores.

Smokers also will pay a higher price beginning Thursday, when the cigarette tax will go from 20.5 cents to 26 cents a pack.

Starting Jan. 1, the sales tax will be extended to data processing services, including word processing and data entry.

Taxes also will be charged on repair and remodeling services, except on new construction and owner-occupied homes, beginning Jan. 1.

At DSGH

Morrison is acting chief

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Phillis Morrison has been named interim administrator of Deaf Smith General Hospital effective Oct. 15, and a two-man search committee has been appointed to lead the search for a new administrator to replace Jim Bullard.

Deaf Smith Hospital District board members Dr. Gerald Payne and Ralph Detton were appointed during a board meeting Tuesday at DSGH to lead the search to replace Bullard, who resigned earlier this month. Morrison will act as administrator until a replacement is found.

During the six-hour meeting, the board also approved a pathology contract; formally adopted procedures for accepting trust funds; looked at a staffing analysis, the proposed 1987-88 budget and contracts for therapy services; and reviewed the latest development in attempting to sell bonds to help pay off part of the hospital district's existing debts.

The board also received copies of petitions bearing about 200 signatures of county residents asking that the board reconsider its acceptance of Bullard's resignation. The board, however, took no action on the petitions.

Bullard was not at Tuesday's meeting.

The staffing analysis, prepared by the Texas Hospital Association, was reviewed as the board was going through the proposed budget and drew fire from board member Dr. Jim Herbertson, who said many department heads were not contacted during the analysis and were not asked to attend the board meeting as each department's staffing was scrutinized.

The staffing analysis, and the proposed budget, calls for cutting 20 "full-time equivalencies" from DSGH, from 149 FTE's to 129 FTE's.

"I think it's out-and-out wrong to do this," Herbertson said. "We never asked the director of nursing (Gerry Hollinger) to be at this meeting. If we're going to run this board by the book then, damn it, we need to do it that way."

"If we're going to do it this way (without the department heads) then to Hell with the department heads." (See HOSPITAL, Page 2)

Unemployment rate declines

After reaching a high of 12.5 percent in June, Deaf Smith County's unemployment rate declined to 8.9 percent in August, according to figures released by the Texas Employment Commission.

918 persons of a total civilian labor force of 10,294 are unemployed, according to TEC's "Monthly Labor Market Information Report." The size of the county workforce also shrank, from a high this summer of 10,943 persons.

The 8.9 percent unemployment rate is the lowest of the year, according to TEC. Unemployment in Deaf Smith County was 9.6 percent in January; 11.4 percent in February; 10.7 percent in March; 11.1 percent in April; 10.8 percent in May; and 9.1 percent in July.

Unemployment also dipped in Parmer County, while Castro County showed a slight rise.

In Parmer County, unemployment is 2.7 percent, or 184 persons from a workforce of 6,829. The current unemployment rate is the lowest in Parmer County in 1987, despite a listed rise in the workforce from a low of 5,217 persons in February.

In Castro County, the current unemployment rate is 5.6 percent, or 330 persons from a work force of 5,908. Castro County's unemployment rate is significantly lower than the high, 8.9 percent, in January, and is up only .4 percent from July's rate.

The big topic of conversation around Hereford Tuesday was the public announcement that the Whitefaces had to forfeit two football games because of an ineligible player. In these times of no-pass, no-play, it is difficult for some folks to understand how a mistake could be made on a player's records. Let's just remember that to err is human.

The important thing is that school officials admitted to the error as soon as it was discovered. Now, we can take the minimum penalty and go forward. The season is not over and the Herd can still control its own destiny. If the team is talented enough to be in the playoffs, it can still capture the remaining six games and be in a position to go into post-season play.

Another controversial topic for some folks in the community is the resignation of Jim Bullard as administrator at Deaf Smith General Hospital. A petition with about 200 names was presented to the hospital board Tuesday night, and it requested the board to reverse its decision on accepting Bullard's resignation.

Bullard had told the board he would stay if a contract was offered to provide some job security. The administrator had worked without benefit of a contract since his employment nine years ago. The board, however, accepted his resignation by a 4-2 vote without considering a contract. Bullard had apparently lost favor with some of the directors, and it appears the petitions and letters of support will not change the matter. When someone submits a resignation, in whatever capacity, it usually closes the book.

The next week is very important in the United Way campaign for Deaf Smith County. The UW board will hold its next report meeting on Oct. 6 and we hope the pledged amounts will increase dramatically toward this year's goal of $120,000. Remember—volunteers are working the pledge cards, so be considerate when they call!

Aquino turns back attempt

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Hundreds of troops backed by armored personnel carriers were deployed at entrances to Manila for several hours today after reports that rebel soldiers might attempt to overthrow President Corazon Aquino.

Troops were recalled to their barracks at midnight when no uprising occurred, said Col. Emiliano Tempo, chief of staff of the Capital Regional Command.

Tempo said the troops detained 37 soldiers at the southeastern edge of the city but the men denied plans to join any mutiny. Military sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said a civilian bus rammed through a checkpoint north of the city early today, but the driver claimed his brakes failed.

The flurry of military activity began hours after a funeral march Tuesday for slain leftist leader Leon Alejandro. More than 60,000 people joined the funeral procession, which turned into the largest protest rally in the city this year.

Military sources said commanders had received reports that four renegade officers had joined forces in Bulacan province, north of Manila. The reports said the four were gathering followers for a new strike against the Aquino government.

About 2,000 mutineers attacked the presidential palace, broadcast stations and military garrisons on Aug. 28 in the most serious threat yet to Mrs. Aquino's rule. At least 53 people were killed and hundreds wounded in the failed coup attempt.

Mutiny leader Col. Gregorio "Gringo" Honasan escaped with about half his force and has vowed to continue his struggle against Mrs. Aquino.

Tempo said Brig. Gen. Ramon Montano, commander of a new anti-coup force, deployed a 300-man army battalion at the Malinta intersection at the northern edge of the city and dispatched constabulary and army troops to Muntinlupa and Antipolo southeast of Manila.

The troops stopped and searched vehicles entering and leaving the city.

He said the 37 soldiers, members of an army platoon based in Laguna province, were detained at a checkpoint in Taytay on the southeastern edge of Manila and taken to provincial headquarters.

Constabulary sources said the platoon leader claimed the men were going to Manila to demand the removal of their company commander. They were disarmed and detained without incident, the sources said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Intelligence reports said Honasan had joined forces with three other renegade officers — Brig. Gen. Jose (See AQUINO, Page 5)

A local business reported unauthorized use of a motor vehicle to effect. The suspect in the theft was located near Amarillo and will be transported to Hereford to face charges.

Other offenses reported included a dispute over a check of one of the employees at a local business in the 100 block of North 20th Ave., a dispute over custody of a child in the 100 block of Lawton, telephone harassment in the 600 block of Ross, and a gas meter which was run over in the 300 block of Ave. D.

From Sesquicentennial train

Mules killed by lightning

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The two mules that led the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train across Texas last year have been killed by a lightning bolt.

Bonnie and Beth, who pulled the train's lead wagon 3,235 miles, died after lightning struck a North Texas ranch's tree under which they stood during a thunderstorm, officials say. The mules were owned by Garry and Jan France of Sulphur Springs, the originators of the Sesquicentennial Wagon Train. The Frances bought Bonnie in South Dakota. Beth was purchased from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"Beth weighed 1,660 pounds and was well known before the wagon train," said Ida Nell Wood of Fort Worth, who drove the two mules for five of the six months they were on the trail.

"She used to pull a tour wagon for sightseers on the Lyndon Johnson Ranch at Johnson City. When the wagon train went through Johnson City, residents gave Beth special recognition, she said.

Ms. Wood described the mules as large but gentle animals, saying Beth flirted along the trail and "talked" often.

"I would imagine thousands of children have their pictures sitting on Bonnie and Beth," Ms. Wood said.

"A quiet funeral was held with a few words said over them," Ms. Wood said.

"Only members of the owner's family and close friends were there, but we plan a full-fledged funeral later this fall when a bunch of us go on a trail ride through that area," she said.

Several mules and horses died along the Sesquicentennial Trail, which commemorated the state's 150th anniversary of freedom from Mexico. Two people were killed and many others were injured.

Cranston says Bork can't win Senate confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senator who counts votes for the Democrats says Robert H. Bork is "licked" as a Supreme Court nominee, but President Reagan and Bork aren't buying the prediction.

Senate Majority Whip Alan Cranston, D-Calif., told reporters Tuesday that his latest head-count shows 49 senators likely to oppose Bork, 40 likely to support him and 11 undecided.

"This reflects a loss of five potential votes for Bork since September 15," the day Bork's confirmation hearings began before the Senate Judiciary Committee, Cranston said. The hearings are expected to conclude today.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Tuesday that the administration had launched a new drive to woo votes. Bork has been meeting with individual senators and Reagan will be lobbying senators in person and on the telephone.

Fitzwater said Reagan is not even considering whom he might nominate if Bork is rejected and "gets angry at the very thought of even mentioning a replacement."

At Bork's confirmation hearing Tuesday, held in the same Senate Caucus Room where the Watergate hearings were held, the Judiciary Committee heard different accounts of Bork's role in the so-called Saturday Night Massacre.

On Oct. 20, 1973, former Attorney General Elliot Richardson resigned rather than carry out President Nixon's order to fire Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox. Bork, then solicitor general, ultimately handled the dismissal.

Richardson told senators Tuesday that he resigned because he promised the Senate and Cox that he would not fire the prosecutor. Bork, he said, had made no such commitment and did the right thing. He then saved the prosecution team by keeping it together, Richardson testified.

Bork testified two weeks ago that after Cox was gone, he immediately tried to find a strong new prosecutor to replace him and make sure the investigation would proceed.

But Henry Ruth and George Frampton, members of Cox's prosecution team, challenged those accounts in their testimony Tuesday.

They questioned whether Bork had the inclination or power to replace Cox with a strong successor who would pursue the truth. They said Leon Jaworski, Cox's successor, was named because the Nixon administration bowed to "a firestorm" of public opinion and congressional pressure.

Zumel, Lt. Col. Reynaldo Cabauatan and Lt. Col. Reynaldo Berroya — for a "last-ditch attempt" to topple the government, sources said.

Cabauatan and Zumel, the former superintendent of the Philippine Military Academy, are being sought in connection with a January coup attempt. They also took part in the July 1986 mutiny at the Manila Hotel, the first overt attempt against Mrs. Aquino, who came to power in a civilian-military uprising in February 1986.

That uprising ended the 20-year tenure of President Ferdinand Marcos, who fled to Hawaii.

Survey says "low level" waste should be reclassified

With just three months remaining before states must meet a federal deadline regarding "low-level" radioactive waste disposal, a comprehensive national survey has found significant quantities of "low-level" waste will remain deadly for more than 100,000 years, and should be reclassified as high-level waste. The Campaign concludes that these materials are too hazardous for disposal in the landfills most states plan to rely upon.

The report also shows that the nation's 115 nuclear power reactors produce 99% of the radioactivity found in "low-level" waste. This statistic dispels the utility-sponsored myth that most "low-level" radioactivity is contained in harmless trash generated by medical and research institutions and other industries.

(Currently, high-level waste consists of irradiated nuclear fuel.)

"The nuclear power industry is engaged in an extensive disinformation campaign deliberately misleading the public on the hazards of "low-level" waste," said Dr. Marvin Resnikoff, a nuclear physicist and Research Director for the New York-based Radioactive Waste Campaign and author of the survey, Living Without Landfills. Present regulations call for monitoring waste facilities for just 100 years, a time Resnikoff calls "grossly inadequate."

"Citizens who live near potential "low-level" waste facilities need to know that this is not a 100-year commitment, but a 100,000 year commitment."

Although the term "low-level" waste is often associated with slightly contaminated bottles, test tubes and other refuse with short hazardous lives, it also includes powerfully radioactive materials from nuclear reactors. Thus, while some "low-level" waste may remain radioactive for only a few hours, other types such as resins from decommissioned nuclear power plants have hazardous lives in excess of 100,000 years—virtually forever.

The Radioactive Waste Campaign's survey questions the need for contaminating new waste facilities when 99% of the nation's radioactivity in "low-level" waste is already located at 115 reactors. The Campaign is calling for:

- a halt to the search for new dump sites and a halt to further landfilling of "low-level" nuclear waste;

- a massive federal research project to develop an environmentally sound plan for nuclear waste;

- a reclassification of significant portions of the "low-level" waste stream as high-level;

- minimizing the production of nuclear waste through energy conservation and the phaseout of nuclear reactors; and

- use of monitored, retrievable, above-ground storage systems.

In particular, the Campaign is urging Congress to more precisely define "low-level" waste, and to establish a more effective waste management program to separate out the highly concentrated and long-lived waste components from less hazardous materials.

"Living Without Landfills will have a major impact on the national debate regarding new dumps," said Minard Hamilton, Campaign Director.

Numerous regions of the country are involved in a desperate search to meet the January, 1988, deadline mandated by Congress to select host states for new waste facilities, and have sitting plans in place. Michigan and North Carolina have been chosen as host states for the midwest and southeast regions, but have introduced legislation to withdraw from their respective regional agreements.

Kansas, Nebraska, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma are locked in a battle to prevent a waste facility from being constructed in any of those states. And numerous large waste generating states, including New York, Massachusetts, California, Illinois and Pennsylvania, are still searching for waste facility locations.

According to the survey, three of the six existing radioactive landfills are now closed due to leakage problems. Iodine-129, with a hazardous life of millions of years, has been detected leaking from waste facilities at Hanford, Washington, and West Valley, New York. Says Dr. Resnikoff, "Radioactive landfills have a proven record—a proven record of failure. Landfills will not solve the waste problem."

The Campaign's Director, Mina Hamilton, urged citizens to participate in upcoming decisions concerning radioactive waste. "New dump sites must not be selected by a handful of gubernatorial appointees. Plans that will leave a nuclear legacy to our grandchildren and their grandchildren must be decided upon in an open democratic process."

Congress considers Columbus coin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move is afoot to replace the $1 bill with a coin, despite the failure of the Susan B. Anthony dollar coin, which was introduced in 1979.

Advocates of the changeover say it would reduce government spending, hold down the cost of vending-machine products, aid the visually handicapped and remove hidden costs of what they call the outmoded dollar bill.

Sens. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., and John W. Warner, R-Va., and Reps. Jim Kolbe, R-Ariz., and Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., introduced legislation Tuesday to begin minting a new coin dollar that would be "gold in color" but made of 90 percent copper.

It would retain the dimensions of the Susan B. Anthony dollar, but would be made without the reeding, or small ribs on the edges.

Kolbe, one of the early supporters of the change, said minting the Anthony dollar in the late 1970s was a sensible acknowledgement of inflation.

"The 'Susie' failed, not because the need didn't exist, but because it was an alternative dollar rather than a replacement dollar," he said. "The coin lacked public support because it looked and felt like a quarter. It was about the same size, it was the same color, and it had the same reeded edge."

However, Kolbe acknowledged that public support must be generated for the new proposal.

"This is a long-term project," he said. "It is not going to happen quickly. We have to generate a lot more steam."

The new coin would succeed the Anthony dollar, which was introduced in 1979 but never caught on. The government now has 500 million unused Anthony coins stored in various vaults around the country, out of 800 million that were minted.

The new coin would bear the likeness of Christopher Columbus, in honor of the 500th anniversary of his landing in America.

Udall joked that Domenici, New York Gov. Mario Cuomo and House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J. — all of Italian descent — declined the honor, "so we settled on the likeness of Columbus."

The legislators and the Coin Coalition, a diverse group of retailers, vending machine operators and metal producers and fabricators, say American taxpayers would save more than $50 million annually if a coin replaced the dollar bill. They say each coin would last 20 years while bills average just 18 months before they are shredded.

Officials say 3.8 billion $1 bills are now in circulation.

similar size, and it takes in our acuity of care."

The proposed budget, which calls for a profit of about $400,000, will be reviewed at a public hearing at 7 p.m. on Oct. 20 at the Hereford Community Center.

DSGH attorney Jerry Smith and Pat McGinty, a consulting certified public accountant, asked the board for a chance to further review the terms of a proposed bond agreement with the Texas Fixed Pool Bond Fund, on which the board has been working for several months to obtain $1.5 million to pay off much of the district's existing debt.

McGinty said he had several questions concerning the Internal Revenue Code and "potential wording changes or review so I can be comfortable with what's in there" in the bond agreement.

Smith said he simply needed more time to look at the document, since he had not seen the agreement before the meeting and had only a few minutes during the meeting to review it.

The agreement, which still must have the final interest rate and other terms pencilled in, calls for the hospital to pledge, in a deed of trust, all assets other than equipment, inventory, accounts receivable, pledges, gifts and donations.

The board, in a related matter, extended the due date for a $250,000 loan from First National Bank of Hereford to Dec. 1, and extended the due date for a $100,000 loan from Hereford State Bank for 90 days.

Both notes were past due, and the due dates were changed at the request of the two banks. DSGH officials hope the bond money will be in hand to repay the notes before the

"The administrator has proposed this budget," Morrison said. "At the end of the public hearing we can make changes. I'm not suggesting that we adopt this."

"This (staffing analysis) is what the budget is predicated on," said board president Margie Ford. "It is compared to other hospitals of new due dates."

The board officially established a trust fund Tuesday, with memorials to be placed into the fund and the interest used to purchase equipment for the hospital, at the discretion of the board.

The funds, including the principal, may not be used to pay operating expenses unless they are needed to "save the hospital" in some future emergency.

The board formalized a handshake agreement with Amarillo Pathology Associates, which operates the laboratory at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo, to do pathology and histology work for DSGH, and agreed to pursue renegotiation of a contract with New Concepts Therapy Services, which currently runs the respiratory and physical therapy departments at DSGH.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I want to take this opportunity to voice my support and appreciation of Jim Bullard as hospital administrator. I fear for the well being of DSGH and ask that he reconsider his resignation and further ask the hospital board to reconsider their acceptance of his resignation.

My family has lived in several small towns where the community hospital was only a "stopping off" point for a metropolitan hospital within an hours' drive. We've witnessed the struggle and defeat of these hospitals. As administrator, Mr. Bullard has not settled for that kind of hospital for us. He's recruited the finest of specialists and nursing staff so that we have a viable choice regarding our health care. He's gone to bat in Washington for all rural hospitals and just last week we saw the returns of that plea in the form of money from Medicare.

Furthermore, the main reason I feel he is the best administrator for our hospital is his genuine love and concern for our community. I guarantee you won't find many administrators visiting patients every day like Jim does, not many administrators willing to check on families waiting on loved ones in surgery, not many administrators willing to assist however necessary during an emergency, no matter the hour.

Thank you, Jim Bullard. We need you.

County Represented

Deaf Smith County was represented by six local women at the Texas Extension Homemakers Association State Convention held in Fort Worth Sept. 22-24. Among the 861 in attendance were delegates Gayle Carter, Mary Carter and Carol Odom. The convention was dedicated to Mrs. John Golightly, state president of 1955-56. Two special guests were also

Council hears reports on meeting

Members of the Deaf Smith County Extension Council met at noon Monday in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room for a meeting and covered dish luncheon.

Delegates to the Texas Extension Homemakers Association State Meeting gave their reports. Mary Carter reported on membership enlistment and enlargement and leadership. One key thought of the workshop was "communication brings us together."

Maudette Smith gave excerpts of the cultural arts (international understanding). She noted many things an alien must learn before he becomes a citizen of the United States.

Carol Odom provided highlights on the "Health and Safety" workshop. In relation to the dangers of AIDS and drugs, she stated, "Take your head out of the sand." She noted that the states where AIDS is most prominent are New York, California, and Texas. Odom said there are brochures and pamphlets available in the extension office located on the third floor of the Court House.

It was announced that next year's meeting will be in Abilene.

Johnnie Messer, chairman, presided over the business meeting. Helen Caraway of the Dawn Extension Club led all those present in singing "God Bless America." Messer led the TEHA prayer and the Pledge to the flags.

Council will have a booth at the Westway Country Christmas Bazaar where they will demonstrate making microwave candies.

Club members were urged to present ideas as soon as possible to the yearbook committee for programs for the new year books.

On Tuesday, Oct. 6, there will be a Festive Foods Show in the Reddy Room at 2 and 7 p.m.

There were eight clubs represented with five clubs numbering 100% in attendance.

Present were: Messer, Odom,

Carter, Smith, Gayle Carter, Bertha Dettman, Toni Vaughn, Edith Hunter, Sherri Blackwell, Edith Higgins, Martha Lueb, Naomi Brisen-dine, Kate Bradley, Mariellen Homfeld, Grace Covington, and visitors Nell Pope and Lazelle Fowler.

Aikman P.T.O. begins year

Aikman Elementary P.T.O. had its first meeting of the year recently at the school, with an open house following.

Leslie Poarch led the pledge to open the meeting. The teachers and new officers were introduced by the principal, Mr. Poindexter.

The third grade class then performed a short program entitled "We The People."

It was announced that the school would once again sponsor a P.T.O. contest between the classes. Anyone that is interested in joining is welcome. The class with the highest enrollment will win a $10 prize; second place garners $8, and third place receives $5.

A charge of $1 per couple or 50 cents per person will be charged. The money will be placed in a fund for the purpose of acquiring more playground equipment for the children.

Consumers should compare policies

Many middle-aged couples, having planned for children's college educations or retirement activities, may now need to think about the cost of long-term care for their elderly parents and for their own later years.

"Perhaps the reason so few people seem to plan for long-term care costs is the mistaken belief that Medicare and Medicare supplement insurance policies will pay for it," says Mary Clayton Nance, an expert in family economics.

"However, Medicaid is the only government program that provides any extended coverage for nursing home care, and only those who are impoverished can qualify."

With the cost of a nursing home stay averaging over $20,000 a year, she says it's not surprising that two-thirds of all nursing home patients who start out paying their own bills become impoverished within a year of entering the nursing home, and many within the first four months.

"A combination of Medicare and a good Medicare supplement policy can provide excellent coverage against acute illnesses such as heart attack or injuries such as broken bones, from which there is a reasonable expectation of recovery," concedes Nance.

"However, once a person becomes so ill that there is little or no hope of making him or her self-sufficient, Medicare and supplemental plans typically cease coverage," she cautions.

Nance, who is a specialist with the home economics program of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, designs educational materials to help families better manage their resources.

She points out that in 1987, Medicare pays 100% of the bill for the first 20 days in a Medicare-approved skilled nursing facility, a varying percentage of the cost for the next 80 days, and nothing beyond that point.

This 100 days of coverage must follow a hospital stay of at least three days.

According to the specialist, Medicare supplement policies are typically limited to providing coverage for Medicare's deductibles and coinsurance only, and most do not offer coverage for services not covered by Medicare, including long-term, custodial care.

"Private long-term care insurance is a new product emerging from the life and health insurance industries to help finance long-term care," she remarks. "While not intended to replace Medicaid, long-term care insurance offers another option for protection against the potentially devastating costs of long-term chronic diseases and disabilities."

"Long-term care insurance is not designed to pay all bills associated with long-term care. Whether long-term care insurance is appropriate for you or your family depends on age, health and the family's financial condition," she observes.

Because the long-term care insurance industry is in its infancy, policies may vary greatly from company to company.

"It's especially important to determine if a long-term care policy offers custodial care, because many do not," emphasizes Nance.

She advises consumers to carefully study and comparison shop among policies to find one that meets their needs.

Elderly susceptible to diverticular disease

As we grow older, the body becomes more susceptible to certain medical disorders. Two related diseases for which this is true are diverticulosis and the more serious diverticulitis. Both conditions can cause cramping pain and tenderness in the left side of the abdomen.

Diverticulosis is a condition in which small sac-like swellings, called diverticula, form in the wall of the large intestine. If these pouches become infected, then the condition is diverticulitis. Diverticulosis often causes no symptoms, and in these cases no treatment is necessary. More than half of all people over 60 have diverticulosis. Only a small number of these ever develop diverticulitis.

These diseases seem to be connected with the Western diet, which is low in fiber. Serious cases rarely occur in Africa and Asia, where more fiber is consumed.

although diverticulosis may have no symptoms, passing gas or a bowel movement may bring relief to any abdominal pain or tenderness. Bowel movements are often small and hard, but diarrhea may occur occasionally. If the diverticula bleed, bright red blood will be visible in bowel movements.

With diverticulitis, severe abdominal pain usually comes and goes at first and then becomes more constant. Touching the spot on the lower left side of the abdomen brings more pain. In some people, the symptoms may be mild for several days before becoming serious. In others, diverticulitis flares up and causes severe pain within a few hours. This disorder requires medical attention.

Treating diverticulitis usually involves bed rest and antibiotics. Sometimes antispasmodic drugs and pain relievers are prescribed to relieve symptoms. During flareups, most patients are restricted to a diet of clear liquids. Surgery is necessary for only a small number of cases.

In District 1-4A volleyball standings

HHS girls move into second place

Hereford High School's victory over Levelland Tuesday night, coupled with a Pampa win over Borger, put Hereford in a second place tie in the District 1-4A volleyball standings.

The victory gives Hereford an opportunity to move into a first place tie on Saturday, when the HHS girls host Pampa.

Hereford, by beating Levelland, 15-11, 15-3, upped its district record to 4-1. Pampa leads the district with a 5-0 record, and Borger is 4-1. Dumas is in fourth place at 3-2, and Levelland is 2-3.

In Tuesday night's junior varsity match, Levelland beat Hereford, 13-15, 16-14, 15-13. The HHS junior varsity's season record is 9-3.

Hereford plays Pampa Saturday at the HHS gym, with the junior varsity match scheduled for 2 p.m. and the varsity match after the junior varsity contest.

Coach Brenda Reeh said keys for Hereford's win over Pampa included Tricia Kahlich's serving, and team confidence and enthusiasm. Kahlich served 12 points in the match, including three service aces.

"Tricia had a super serving game for us. We won several points off of her serves and that really helped to build our confidence," Coach Reeh said.

"Levelland's gym and tradition can be intimidating factors when you're on the road against them. They've been district champs for the past two years in volleyball and that fact makes our victory that much more fun," Reeh continues.

"Our girls came out from the very start of the match showing lots of hustle and enthusiasm. They took that energy and channeled it into strong, consistent, fundamental volleyball.

"We didn't allow ourselves to become controlled by our mistakes or Levelland's winners — that's what won it for us. It's a sweet victory when you know you had to work really hard to earn it," she adds.

Wisly Mars had eight points served and led Hereford in kills with four. Mars also had 10 good service receptions in 10 attempts.

Cande Robbins, who had two kills, was 13 for 14 in service receptions, and Libby Kosub was 13 for 16 in service receptions.

Statistical leaders for the Hereford junior varsity team included Poppy Richardson with 12 points service and six kills, Krystal Sims with 25 good service receptions in 26 attempts, and Jill West with six points served and 11 good service receptions in 11 attempts.

Four other team members each had five points served, and three team members each had three kills.

Cowboys' Danny White crosses picket lines

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas quarterback Danny White crossed the picket line of striking Cowboys players early today, saying his reasons for doing so "are strictly private."

White, who lost $45,000 last week when he honored the players' strike, slipped across the picket line at 7:50 a.m. as it was formed by late-arriving strikers.

White joined veterans Randy White and Don Smerek. Also in the Cowboys' camp are two players off the injured reserve, Chris Dulan and Johnny "Lam" Jones.

Also expected to cross the picket lines this week were running back Tony Dorsett, one of the most outspoken pro-union members of the team, and defensive end Ed Jones. Both received letters from Cowboys management saying they would jeopardize their annuities if they didn't show up.

White informed the rest of the team during a meeting on Monday that because of financial problems he would have to cross the picket line later in the week and return to work.

Dorsett said he received a letter from Cowboys President Tex Schramm on Tuesday that informed him he stands to lose a portion of his $6 million annuity if he doesn't return soon.

On Sunday, the Cowboys are scheduled to play Jets in East Rutherford, N.J., their first game since the National Football League Players Association announced the strike Sept. 21.

"He (White) figured that it was time for him to go in," Dorsett said. "He has an economic situation where he needs to go back to work."

Edward Allison is named 'Fan of Week'

Edward Allison is the Hereford Whiteface Booster Club's "Fan of the Week," an honor announced Tuesday night at the club's weekly meeting at the Hereford High School fieldhouse.

Players from three high school football teams and one junior high school team received honors announced by coaches at the meeting.

HHS varsity head Coach Don Cumpston announced that pass receiver Pat Mercer was the offensive MVP in last week's game and that linebacker Joe Medrano was the defensive MVP.

Junior varsity coaches Bill Bridge and Craig Yenser honored fullback John Tohm and middle linebacker Moses Casas as that team's players of the week.

For the sophomore football team, coaches Ron Young and Stan Carter honored Steve Tucker and Jason Laeb as defensive players of the week and kicker-running back Eddie Cantu as the offensive player of the week.

La Plata ninth grader Greg Urbanczyk, a fullback, was honored as the Maverick ninth grade player of the week, announced by Coach Ed Coplen.

Coach Cumpston reviewed what had already been announced on Monday and earlier Tuesday concerning the ineligible player who participated in the varsity victories over Andrews and Pampa.

Cumpston said the players on the varsity football team "have handled it well."

"I told them if they play like they practiced the last two days, they will win a lot of ball games," Cumpston added.

The Whiteface Booster Club meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. each Tuesday during football season at the HHS fieldhouse.

Studies help patients fight emotional stress

More cancer patients than ever are living longer. Consequently, more attention is being paid to the psychological and emotional reactions that long-term cancer patients experience. Recent studies are finding new data to help treat these reactions, according to the September issue of Texas Medicine.

Cancer patients face two difficult psychological adjustments. First, they must cope with the initial fear often associated with the diagnosis of cancer. That fear can be of many things including death, medical treatment, pain, and loss of a body part or function.

According to the official journal of Texas Medical Association, a second adjustment involves coming to grips with the rigors of living with a chronic illness and its treatment. In learning to make these adjustments, patients and their families can have a variety of concerns about the emotional, physical, sexual, or material impact of the disease and its treatment. The studies show it is important to avoid stereotyping cancer patients and their concerns and remember that emotional distress and concerns may evolve over time. Many cancer patients use a variety of psychological defenses to help cope with the rigors of treatment and living with a long-term illness, writes Dr. Terry McMahon, assistant professor of psychiatry at Texas Tech University Health Science Center, Lubbock. Some of these defenses can help patients minimize emotional distress and foster a sense of control. However, some patients and families may forego effective, more conventional therapies and seek unproven remedies. According to the article, it is important for health professionals to understand and address the emotional basis for this, while avoiding judging or condemning the patient.

The article also notes studies that show that many cancer survivors adjust well, while others may develop a variety of problems including low energy levels, chronically depressed moods, reduced interest in and pleasure from sexual activity, a decreased sense of self-control, and more general health concerns.

In the battle against cancer, the emotional distress faced by long-term cancer survivors presents a new challenge that these studies have begun to address. The author explains the importance of these studies and the need for more research. He writes, "As the knowledge in this area of cancer care continues to expand, we likewise improve our ability to address and relieve more effectively and efficiently the emotional and psychosocial problems that some patients experience in the course of cancer."

STRESS

CLEVELAND (AP) — A manager who becomes especially irritable with employees or shows a lack of interest in his work may be suffering from executive stress, a psychiatrist says. "When these signals flash and when they continue to affect a person's behavior, it's time to reduce the stress that goes hand in hand with managing people," says Dr. Herbert Meltzer, a psychiatrist at Case Western Reserve University School of Medicine here. He suggests reducing stress by establishing realistic personal and corporate goals and learning to deal with setbacks. Other techniques include opening the decision-making process to key employees and broadening one's horizons beyond business.

Next Tuesday, Stanton plays at Plainview again, against the Plainview Blue teams. "A" and "B" team games are scheduled, with the first contest starting at 4 p.m.

In other football action Tuesday, Stanton's eighth grade "B" team suffered a 28-0 loss at Muleshoe.

Stanton's seventh grade "A" team held an 18-16 halftime lead over Plainview Red, and then scored 30 points in the third quarter enroute to the 56-16 victory.

Colvin's scored four touchdowns' rushing and also had a 90-yard kickoff return. His touchdown runs were for 60 yards, 70 yards, 40 yards, and 10 yards.

Also scoring touchdowns for Stanton were Vincente Castillo with a two-yard run and a 15-yard run, and Richard Wilbanks with a 35-yard touchdown pass reception from Chad Sandoval.

Here are the players who scored the two-point conversions: Jason Taterovich on a pass from Sandoval; Ruben Gutierrez on a pass from Sandoval; and Castillo with two runs.

Care of contact lenses essential

Recent stories in the news media about problems with contact lenses, especially extended-wear lenses, have caused some wearers to wonder about the safety of their lenses. The Texas Medical Association says caring for your lenses properly can reduce your chance of eye infections and extend the life of your lenses.

Here are some "do's and don'ts" that are true for all types of contact lenses:

—Heed warning signs. Eye problems can develop rapidly, so if you experience eye pain, excessive tearing, vision changes, or redness of the eye, immediately remove your lenses and contact your eye doctor right away.

—Don't wear your lenses longer than prescribed by your eye doctor.

—Clean and disinfect your lenses each time they are removed. Daily-wear lenses should be cleaned and disinfected not just once a day, but each time they are removed — for swimming or any other reason.

—Rinse with sterile saline solution. Soft lenses must be rinsed with sterile saline solution, not water. Soft lenses should not be rinsed with homemade saline solution. Use only commercially available sterile saline solution to rinse lenses before inserting them into your eyes.

—Use an enzymatic cleaner as directed. Enzymatic cleaning is a deep-cleaning step to remove protein deposits on lenses that is prescribed by many eye doctors. Disinfection is required after enzymatic cleaning.

—Read and follow lens-care instructions. Read package instructions before using lens-care solutions, and read and keep for future reference all instructions provided with your lenses.

—Schedule and keep follow-up visits. Visit your eye doctor regularly to make sure that your eyes are healthy and that any problems are detected early.

—Don't use other types of solutions. Use only the types of solutions your eye doctor suggests. If you've forgotten which solutions were prescribed, contact your eye doctor's office.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Back in the 1960s, there was a program on TV called "The Millionaire." Every week I watched that show and was thrilled when the lucky winner appeared and told what he or she was going to do with the money.

I know this seems crazy, Ann, but every day I expected that million-dollar check to be delivered to me.

When I married we had a terrible time making ends meet, but I kept saying to myself, "Don't worry, when you get that check for a million dollars you can take care of everything."

Ann, I am now a 57-year-old widow and even though that program hasn't been on for years I still expect that check. But that is not the worst of it. When night comes I become very depressed because the check didn't arrive.

My problem is that I have believed in a fantasy for so long that now that my life is almost over I can't bear the thought that my dreams never came true.

Please tell me how to handle the feeling of failure and the awful depression that takes hold of me. I need your help.—Thomasville, Texas

DEAR TEXAS: Dream castles in the air are wonderful places to visit but when people try to live in them they run into trouble.

Over the years you have escaped from the harsh realities of life by retreating into a world of make-believe. Now I hope you will see a doctor and try therapy and/or medication to help you meet life on its own terms and find some happiness. Good luck to you, dear.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter just began college a few weeks ago. She is in a two-girl room in an all-girls' dormitory.

"Rita's" boyfriend spends weekends at the college and sleeps on the floor in her room. Her roommate goes home almost every weekend and when she is gone, Rita's boyfriend sleeps in her roommate's bed.

I've let my daughter know that I'm opposed to this arrangement but she insists that since she is being so open and honest with me, I should accept her word that nothing is going on.

"All the girls do this," Rita says, "and their parents trust them." So now I am a terrible person because I tell her I don't like the looks of it.

Since her father and I pay for this girl's housing and tuition, I feel we should have something to say about her lifestyle. Please tell me if I am right, or am I out of touch and living in a different century, as she claims?—Mom

DEAR MOM: You don't say whether or not the school allows men to stay all night in the women's dorms. I find such permissiveness mind-boggling, but that's the way it is on many campuses.

You have the right to register strong disapproval of Rita's boyfriend sleeping in her room (on the floor or whatever), but I hope you realize that when a young woman goes away to college she has unlimited freedom. She can (and will) cross that line if she is so inclined, whether the fellow is in her dorm room or they are under the moon in the park or in the back seat of his car.

I say, Mother, your role insofar as shaping your daughter's moral values is finished. From here on in she is strictly on her own.

What's the story on pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, downers, speed? Can you handle them if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2, plus a No. 10, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Abundant Life

OUR CREDIBILITY

By Bob Wear

Much is being said about 'credibility', and its worth. It is important to each of us and to the order and effectiveness of our social order that we behave ourselves so that our conduct is credible, 'worthy of belief.' It means that we are 'trustworthy', 'dependable', 'honorable'; that we are open and above board, that we are straightforward.

We may get by without proper concern for 'our credibility', but we will not be pleased with ourselves, or have the continuing confidence of those with whom we are associated. In the long-run, we will be known for what we are. We may continue to 'get by', but there will be loss which we cannot afford. Without 'credibility' everything is thrown out of balance. There will be tragic misunderstandings; false conclusions, with almost endless hurtful consequences; and a continuing accumulation of problems and difficulties.

Everything of value to us, and to our life situation is tied to our 'credibility.' Therefore we must not be careless or neglectful, because the consequences are much to undesirable and unpleasant. On the other hand, we must not be 'stuffy' or 'self-righteous' about it, because 'our credibility' must be maintained as a wholesome and workable quality in our life structure.

Disorganization of one's life is one sad result of discarding 'our credibility', because we are trying to be two people; wear two faces. This duplicity will eventually fragmentize our self-image and our personal life pattern. The persistent practice of pretending to feel and act one way while acting another way will eventually lead us into a living situation in which we neither know who we are nor what we are.

"No man, for any considerable period, can wear one face to himself and another to the multitude, without finally getting bewildered as to which may be true."—Hawthorne.

We need the trust, confidence and respect of others; and our own self-respect; and the only way we can have these is in our 'sustained credibility.'

Col. T.E. Lawrence, "Lawrence of Arabia," occupied Damascus Oct. 1, 1918. Lawrence led insurgent Arab forces during the fighting against Turkey in World War I. Using Arab recruits, he scored remarkable successes in the desert fighting, including disruption of Turkish rail communications in Sinai.

AN OIL BY ANY OTHER NAME
BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — There was a time when buying motor oil required only a decision on a brand name.

But, with the introduction of viscosity index improvers, detergent-dispersants and oxidation inhibitors, choosing the right motor oil has become more complex.

Viscosity improvers keep oil from thinning out when heated and from thickening up when cooled. Detergent dispersants are the additives that keep the engine clean. Oxidation inhibitors keep the oil from being attacked by oxygen in the atmosphere.
