

Administration: No Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) - Buoyed by a report showing the nation's economy is moving at an unexpectedly strong pace, the Carter administration says the dark clouds of a recession aren't anywhere on the horizon.

"We still don't see a recession - even at the end of 1979," Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps said Thursday.

Backing up that statement, the administration is predicting unemployment will rise only slightly this year, to 6.2 percent, and stay at that figure in 1980, it was learned.

That is well below the prediction of many private economists, who say it will hit nearly 7 percent. The December unemployment figure was 5.9 percent.

Some economists, such as Arthur Okun and Alan Greenspan, say inflation will force the government to tighten credit further.

That would prevent businesses and home buyers from borrowing money and may lead to a recession and more unemployment, they say.

However, Mrs. Kreps told reporters

President Carter's anti-inflation program will hold down inflation and make the credit tightening unnecessary.

The administration was encouraged by a report on the gross national product Thursday showing that the nation's economic output in the final three months of 1978 was far stronger than expected.

The GNP, the best measure of the nation's economic health, grew at an annual rate of 6.1 percent in the fourth quarter of last year, the department said.

That is stronger than the 2.6 percent rate in the third quarter and about double early predictions.

While the administration is trying to slow the economy in its fight against inflation, Mrs. Kreps said the fourth-quarter boom would not contribute to inflation.

One of the government's anti-inflation moves is to reduce the budget deficit, but two Republicans said Thursday the administration is not doing enough.

Rep. Philip M. Crane of Illinois and Sen. James A. McClure of Idaho proposed a constitutional amendment to restrict federal spending to one-third of the nation's personal and corporate income.

The GNP report showed that the inflation rate in the fourth quarter was 8.1 percent and prices in 1978 were 7.4 percent higher than in 1977. That was the worst performance since a 9.6 percent inflation rate in 1975.

The report showed that consumers led the fourth-quarter increase by buying more cars and spending more on Christmas gifts.

They also spent more money than they earned, saving only 4.8 percent of their after-tax income.

Tractors Pull Into Arkansas

VIAN, Okla. (AP) - The tractorcade of about 400 American Agriculture movement tractors and other vehicles was scheduled to depart Friday morning in an attempt to reach Thursday's goal of Fort Smith, Ark.

The caravan fell about 30 miles short of its destination Thursday and camped in the indoor Hamilton Sports Area near Vian on U.S. 64 for the night.

The caravan of about 100 tractors and 300 other vehicles is headed toward Washington, D.C. to protest for higher farm prices and crop parity. It plans to join tractorcades from other states in a Feb. 2 protest.

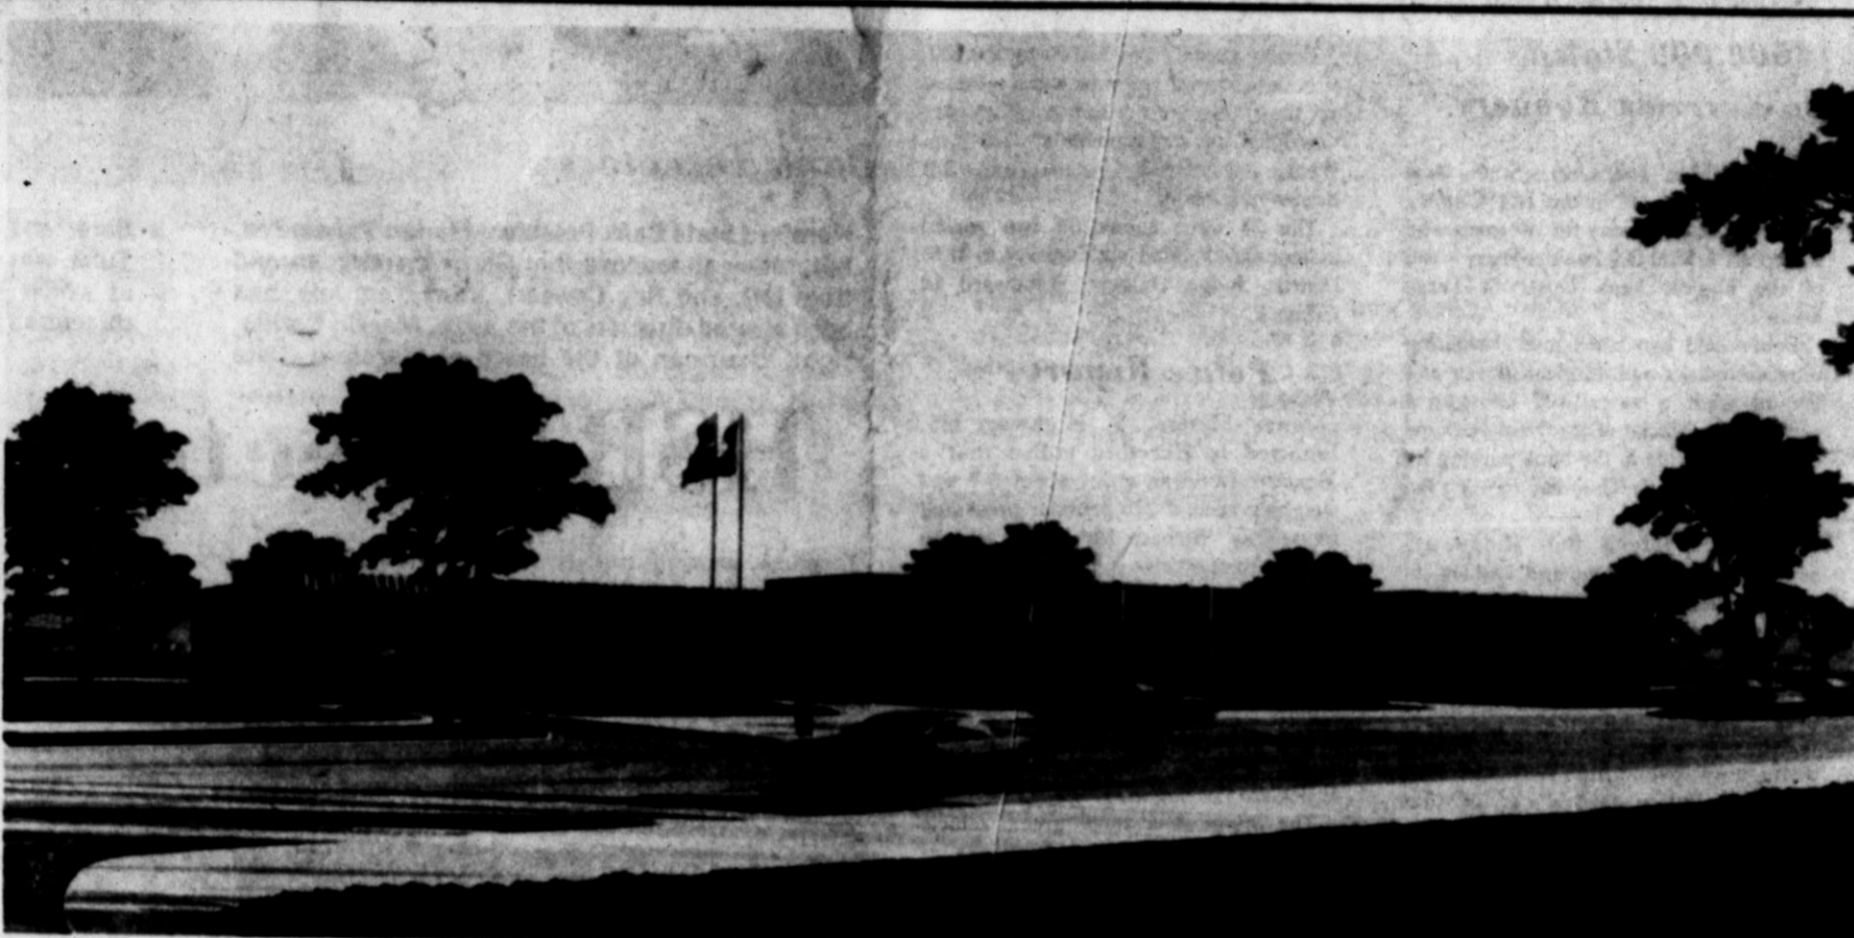

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol escorted the caravan to the overnight camping spot and will accompany them Friday on their journey out of Oklahoma.

The tractorcade left Amarillo, Texas Monday and drove to Sayre, where it spent Monday night.

On Tuesday, continuing along its Interstate 40 route, the group traveled to El Reno.

The tractorcade came through Oklahoma City on Wednesday morning and camped Wednesday night in Okemah.

It left Okemah Thursday morning and continued along I-40 until reaching its stopping place near here Thursday night.

Proposed City Hall

City Manager Dudley Bayne Thursday released the above sketch of the proposed 18,000-square-foot city hall, which this week is having its foundation laid by local and Amarillo subcontractors. The building, which included a police department with 5,500 square feet, will face west towards Lee St. and will include more than ample parking space, Bayne said. The present city hall will be razed to build a parking lot. Weather willing, the building should be completed late this year.

Underground Water District Election Set

An at-large election for two positions on the board of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 will be held Saturday at the Hereford Community Center.

The seats of 14 county committeemen also will be filled during the election, scheduled for 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. and open to qualified voters residing in the water district area of each county involved.

Jim Conkright of Deaf Smith County is running unopposed for Precinct 4 director.

County committeemen for Deaf Smith County are to be elected from Commissioner Precincts 3 and 4. Unopposed candidates are W.L. Davis Jr. and Bill Cleavinger, respectively.

Confidence Mounts For Davis Defense

HOUSTON (AP) - Prosecutors expressed fear that jurors still sifting through the maze of testimony in the murder-for-hire trial of millionaire Cullen Davis may be lost in a forest of trivia.

After 20 hours of deliberations the fate of the Fort Worth industrialist accused of trying to buy the murder of his divorce judge remained uncertain Thursday.

Jurors, who were to resume discussions today, repeatedly asked for the reading of testimony and the replaying of tape recordings. And as the hours passed the defense became more confident and the prosecution more concerned.

"Obviously, the defense is jubilant. Their objective all along was to obfuscate the issue and dwell on trivia. They've lost sight of the forest for the trees," said

Hereford Youth Claims Grand Champion Lamb

Hereford youth walked off with top honors in the first day of competition at the Amarillo Stock Show and Rodeo yesterday as Rodney Miller, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buster Miller of Hereford exhibited the Grand Champion lamb.

Miller, a member of the Hereford FFA, took his finewool cross to breed championship honors prior to capturing the lamb show's top prize.

The Grand Champion award was only part of an impressive showing by the local FFA chapter, as members copped eight ribbons in the large field of competition.

Miller also exhibited the second place finewool lightweight.

Other Hereford winners included Joey Mazurek, third place lightweight finewool; Mandi Mazurek, second place

USDA, EPA To Join in Cleanup

WASHINGTON (AP) - It was a cozy time as the Agriculture Department and the Environmental Protection Agency formally pledged to work together to help clean up the rural environment.

A five-year memorandum of understanding was signed Thursday by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and EPA Administrator Douglas M. Costle.

Bergland said the agreement itself is more symbolic than real.

"If I had hostile leaders here in USDA to enforce this document, it would matter little what we said on paper," Bergland said. "That's really the big difference. The elections do wonderful things."

Replacing an earlier agreement, it calls for the two agencies to pursue "common objectives, interests and statutory requirements, and to avoid duplication of effort."

Calling each other by their first names at the signing and a news conference that followed, Bergland and Costle said they had been working toward peaceful cooperation between the agencies since the Carter administration came into office two years ago.

During the Nixon and Ford administrations, USDA and EPA frequently sniped at each other. Earl L. Butz, Bergland's predecessor, often attacked environmentalists and EPA while defending the use of pesticides by farmers to boost crop production.

Although no names from the past were mentioned, Bergland and Costle made it clear they disagreed with the earlier

State police in Iowa rode in sand trucks to reach victims of auto accidents today as freezing rain, sleet and snow swept into the Midwest only days after a storm that has claimed 97 lives.

"Every kind of precipitation imaginable is falling," reported the state Highway Patrol. Police were called out to round up a load of hogs "running all over the place" on Interstate 80.

Power transformers burst into flames Thursday as the storm passed through Kansas, leaving many homes without electricity. Flooding was reported in Kansas and Missouri.

Speaker's Illness Postpones Appointments

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - "Billy likes drama. He likes to let the suspense build," one House member says of Speaker Bill Clayton.

Clayton has done just that with his committee assignments - but a fever and upset stomach, not a sense of the dramatic, kept him from issuing the long-awaited list Thursday.

The speaker said he definitely would make the appointments today.

"The speaker is home in bed," Clayton's press secretary, George Works, told reporters late Thursday afternoon.

Many House members had delayed trips home to await word on their assignments, which determine in large measure how important each will be in the legislative process.

Clayton indicated earlier he would lean heavily on his earliest backers and closest legislative friends - largely rural conservatives - in making the key assignments.

"I just think you can't forget who brought you, and I intend to look at those people and try to place them in some positions where they can serve better," Clayton said in a weekend radio interview.

Appointment of committees clears the way for formal introduction of bills and the start of House hearings. It probably will be week after next, however, before hearings begin because House rules requires five days' advance notice.

Li. Gov. Bill Hobby made his Senate committee appointments Jan. 9, opening day of the Legislature, and hearings have begun.

Although the Senate was out of session and the House met only for a few minutes Thursday, numerous bills were filed for introduction.

Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, and Rep. Nub Donaldson, D-Gatesville, filed legislation raising from 10 percent to 12 percent the permissible interest rate on home loans.

"If the Legislature does not act responsibly to put Texas back into

A statement issued by the two officials said the agreement "commits the two departments to share information, use one another's facilities, transfer funds, loan employees and review one another's programs."

The agreement also calls for an annual conference between USDA and EPA to monitor progress.

Water quality and conservation are among top priorities for the two agencies, the officials said.

With better cooperation, Bergland and Costle said the two agencies can concentrate resources on specific problems and areas and thus save money by not having to scatter their efforts so much.

Top Beet Growers, Ag Man To Be Honored during Banquet

The Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association will recognize its outstanding growers for 1978 at the organization's annual banquet, set for tomorrow night at 7 p.m. at the Bull Barn.

Tickets for the banquet are on sale at both city banks at 56 each, and will also be available at the door.

Outstanding growers will be recognized and presented with cash prizes, courtesy of area merchants, during tomorrow's ceremonies.

The Hereford Brand will also recognize

Deaf Smith County's "Man of the Year in Agriculture" during ceremonies tomorrow night.

The Brand award, now in its second year, recognizes achievement in farming and/or ranching enterprises, support and aid to the area's agribusiness industry, and participation in community affairs on the part of a local farmer.

The award is presented in conjunction with the beet grower banquet in order to recognize the award winner before a large gathering of fellow agriculturalists.

Presenting the award will be Brand Farm Editor Jim Steiert.

Robert Gadberry, a broadcaster turned banker, will be the banquet's featured speaker.

Gadberry is a vice president and director of public affairs for the Fourth National Bank and Trust Co., Wichita, Kansas, that state's largest bank.

Having traveled extensively abroad, Gadberry has been speaking professionally for the past 25 years, addressing convention, civic, school and church groups.

Labor Camp Election Set Saturday

Six candidates are running unopposed in the first-ever water district election at the San Jose labor camp, where around 70 voters are expected to turn out Saturday in the rectory of the Catholic church.

The election, scheduled for 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., was called in order that the camp could receive a $320,000 grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for the construction of a safe drinking-water system.

The water district board will be comprised of Jesus Garcia, Jose Angel Losolia, Jesse Galan, Fructoso Garcia and Salvador Morales. Robert Gallegos is running unopposed for the position of tax assessor-collector.

"There will probably be about 70 or 75 voters," Gallegos said today. "Everyone knows what's going on. We've informed them on what's going to happen."

The new board will create a subdivision known as Fresh Water Supply District No. 1. After its creation, the district will receive federal funds through Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court to construct a water system.

The system will include a well, distribution lines, storage tank and chlorinator. The camp originally asked for $400,000, which would have allowed the construction of an overhead storage tank, but HUD cut $80,000 from the request.

Election officers for Saturday are Domingo Pesina, presiding judge; Olga De Los Santos, judge; Ernesto Martinez, clerk; and Martina Ortiz, clerk. All four are residents of the labor camp, as are the six candidates.

Competition for mortgage funds, the home building and real estate industries will soon be laying off thousands of people in every part of the state," Meier said.

Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, submitted a bill raising marriage license fees from $7.50 to $12.50 and using the money for counseling of wife beaters and treatment of victims.

The bill would establish a system of battered spouse centers coordinated by the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, said she will offer legislation earmarking part of the cigarette tax for cancer research. She said the $1 per 1,000 ear-marked tax would raise $32 million a year.

Mitchell Released After 19 Months

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - Former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell walks through prison gates to freedom today, the last of 25 men convicted of Watergate crimes to resume a private life.

Mitchell was to be released from the federal prison camp at Maxwell Air Force Base after 19 months. Inmates planned a party to thank him for "free legal advice and good friendship," prison officials said.

Mitchell reportedly planned to return to Washington. He is barred from practicing law, and only close associates know of Mitchell's future plans.

The occasion marks the first time in six years that there are no jailed participants from the scandal that brought about former President Richard Nixon's resignation and disgrace.

Mitchell, one of Nixon's former law partners, was convicted along with White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and domestic adviser John D. Erlichman in a cover-up of a 1971 break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington.

All three were convicted of conspiracy to obstruct justice, obstructing justice and lying under oath on Jan. 1, 1975.

Mitchell was eligible for parole last June, but the U.S. Parole Commission ruled his Watergate crimes were of "high severity" and delayed his release for six months.

Mitchell appealed the commission's decision, but U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. rejected his plea without a hearing.

Contaminated Meat Reported in Markets

WASHINGTON (AP) - A draft report of a new government study indicates 14 percent of the dressed meat and poultry sold in supermarkets may contain illegal residues of chemicals suspected of causing cancer, birth defects or other toxic effects.

The study also warns there currently is no way to prevent contaminated fresh meat and poultry from reaching the consumer. By the time chemical tests are completed on slaughterhouse carcasses, the study said, the animals have been butchered and the meat sold.

The findings are contained in a proposed General Accounting Office report on illegal drugs, pesticides and "environmental contaminants" such as PCBs, arsenic and sulfa residues in meat and poultry.

"Of the 143 drugs and pesticides GAO identified as likely to leave residues in raw meat and poultry, 42 are suspected of causing cancer, 20 of causing birth defects, and six of causing mutations," GAO said in its draft.

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the proposed report, in which the GAO was critical of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"USDA reports that it found illegal residues in only about 2 percent of the raw meat and poultry sampled between 1974 and 1975," the report said.

Income Tax Sham Results in 23 Arrests

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - A 30-month investigation into a scheme that bilked pawn shops and lending companies of thousands of dollars has culminated with two sealed indictments by a federal grand jury naming 23 present or former Big Spring residents.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger McRoberts said the 23 are accused of getting blank W-2 forms, making up income tax returns as high as $2,000 and taking them to pawn shops or finance companies which offer cash for them at a discounted rate.

By late Thursday, 17 of the 23 had been arrested, McRoberts said. Of the 17 arrested, 11 are said to live in Big Spring and the other six are former residents - two now living in Abilene, two in Wichita Falls, one in Lubbock and one in Columbia, S.C.

Six of the suspects were in their 20s; two were 19.

Bonds ranged from $1,000 to $50,000, although several persons were released on their own recognizance. They are scheduled for arraignment at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday before federal magistrate Bill Brister in Lubbock.

The 23 were named in two sealed indictments handed up Tuesday to U.S. District Judge Halbert Woodward in Lubbock.

$500,000 Stolen In Kerrville Robbery

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) - State, local and federal officers in the Hill Country pressed a search today for two men who pulled off a $500,000 bank robbery - one of the biggest bank heists in Texas history.

Police said two black men - wearing blue ski masks and surgical gloves and armed with a sawed-off shotgun - accosted an official of the First National Bank of Kerrville in the bank parking lot as he arrived early Thursday to open the bank.

The men forced Bob Ridgway, assistant vice president and cashier, to open the bank vault, police added. They ignored small bills and put approximately a half million dollars in mostly $50 and $100 bills into a black sack and box and fled.

Ridgway said they left in a white-vinyl-over-blue 1968 to 1970 Cadillac. Police said a car of that description was seen later in the morning headed north on Texas 16 between Kerrville and Fredericksburg.

The bank's bonding company offered a $10,000 reward for arrest and conviction of the robbers.

Road blocks were set up on all roads leading out of Kerrville, but were gradually eliminated, the last ones at 3 p.m. Thursday.

Ridgway said one of the robbers seemed to do all the talking. He said the man was about 6-feet-3, 200 pounds and wore an Army field jacket, dark blue trousers or jeans, and muddy work shoes.

Police Report

Jones Motors, S. Highway 385, reported to Hereford police that a Mexican-American male, about 5-7 and weighing around 225 pounds, presented himself as "Richard Morales," said he wanted to test-drive a 1979 pickup, and never returned with the vehicle.

The man was said to be around 35 or 40 years old.

Harmon Drake, 309 Ave. I, reported around 9:15 p.m. Thursday that someone shattered a window at his house with an unknown object while he was home. Police are investigating.

The driver of a small green vehicle reportedly ordered two soft drinks at McDonald's restaurant Thursday night, pulled up to the drive-up window, took the drinks from the attendant and left without paying.

HSB Directors Named

Longtime Hereford attorney Ray Cowser and Garth Merrick, owner of Hereford Bi-Products Inc., have been elected to the board of directors of Hereford State Bank. It was announced today.

Cowser and Merrick assumed their board duties in a regularly-scheduled meeting of directors Thursday.

Cowser, who began his law practice in Hereford in 1946, was in partnership with the late Owen L. Bybee, who also served as a director of Hereford State Bank until his death last year.

Cowser has served a mayor of Hereford, has been active in both the Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club and has been named Citizen of the Year for his community leadership.

Merrick, 32, and his father, Lee Merrick, established Hereford Bi-Products Inc. in 1968. Hereford Bi-Products is one of three plants in the country producing mechanically-deboned beef for the canned pet-food industry.

Merrick and his wife, the former Susan Schilling, have one son, Tyler, born May 29, 1978. The Merricks attend the Presbyterian Church and are members of several civic organizations.

In making the announcement of the new directors, President Harlan VanderZee and Executive Vice President Jeff Carlile expressed in a written statement, their appreciation for Cowser and Merrick for their "acceptance of the responsibility and their loyalty and support to both the Hereford area and the Hereford State Bank."

Stock Expert Optimistic

NEW YORK (AP) - Arnold Bernhard, builder of the nation's largest stock and advisory firm, survivor of 47 years of economic boom and bust, esteemed by colleagues, admired by subscribers, still risks it all at age 77.

"I think the Dow Jones industrial average will be between 1500 and 2000 in the foreseeable future," said the patriarch, a precise gentleman who believes "foreseeable" may be as soon as 1982.

He voices no uncertainty. He bases his opinion, he says, on fundamental, quantitative analysis, rather than subjective criteria.

In fact, he hasn't wavered in his optimism since December 1974 at the University of California, Los Angeles when he first made his forecast.

Why is Bernhard, who is staking a reputation built since the Great Depression when he founded Arnold Bernhard & Co., so certain? Because 1500 to 2000 points on the Dow would be "normal," he says. Based on mathematical criteria developed by his Value Line Investment Survey, stock prices now are out of proportion, he adds.

Consider just one, the payout ratio, he suggests. The ratio of the Dow Jones average to earnings was just 43 percent in 1978, he said. Over a 50-year period, however, it is 59.5 percent.

Value Line relies almost totally on hard factors, such as price-earnings ratios, earnings growth and price momentum, in rating the relative attractiveness and safety of the 1,700 stocks it follows.

But a small judgmental factor also is worked into the regression analyses, as is an earnings "surprise factor," which weighs deviations in reported earnings from the expectations of analysts.

When the computer finishes its work, every one of the stocks has a relative rating - that is, against each other - that suggests future performance and safety. A rating of "1" is best and "5" worst.

Into the highest category go 100 stocks, the very best of the universe of 1,700. In group two are 300 more, followed by 900 in group three, 300 in four, and 100 in five, the lowest ranking.

Between 1965 and 1978, according to Value Line literature, stocks in category one showed a price appreciation of 1028 percent, excluding dividends, a growth many times that of the market's popular indices.

While Bernhard appears chagrined at what he feels has been little attention from the academic community, it isn't quite so. He speaks at universities. Scholars have evaluated his work.

Most important of the academic judgments is that of Dr. Fischer Black of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who holds to the widely accepted "random walk" theory of the "total efficient" market.

In this his thesis, the market is efficient because stock prices always reflect their true value. Over time, Black says, "attempts to pick stocks that do better than others are not successful."

But Black makes an exception. In a paper presented at a seminar some years ago, he conceded that "the Value Line ranking system appears to be one of the few exceptions."

Man Likes Bricks

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) - One Spring morning a decade ago Ray Chase, spading his garden, turned up an old brick. Tossing it aside, he noticed the lettering on it: "Peekskill No. 1."

"For several days the brick nagged at me," he recalled. "I couldn't get it out of my head. 'I brought it inside and washed it off. I kept going back to it, handling it. Finally I took it to a local historian and found out it was made here in town about the turn of the century.'"

That was the start. Now Ray Chase's collection of bricks number 827, his collection of new friends nearly as large and his store of historical footnotes and brick-making lore rich and growing.

Brickmakers the nation over, the world over, it seems, found it fashionable to autograph their work in a conspicuous place, like right on top, long before that practice became a status gimmick among the makers of T-shirts, neckties and jeans.

One brick in the Chase collection circa 1900 is proudly etched "O.S.P." which stands for Oklahoma State Prison. Another manufactory of the same era, in Oregon, so there would be no mistake, added the slogan "Convict Made."

Such information about the origins of bricks does a reading tour of Ray Chase's basement yield, data from A to Z. To wit: Adamole, Bickerstaff, Camargo, Diablo, Excelsior, Fiske, Griffen, Hosket, Ivermore, Jova, his basement wall.

"Look at this one. It was put out by a doctor in Kansas named S.J. Crumbine who was trying to stamp out tuberculosis. The bricks were used in Abilene around 1900. There aren't many left."

"We hope the jury explores all avenues. The time they come in with a not guilty verdict is the perfect time to stop deliberations," said defense team member Phil Burleson.

The seven men and five women can either convict Davis of solicitation of capital murder or conspiracy to commit capital murder or find him innocent.

"It could go either way, but they (the jury) are asking good questions," commented lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes.

"The jury can draw any conclusion that they want from the testimony," said a defense investigator. "All their questions go to an area that we think is favorable." The jurors apparently were exploring every avenue, listening to the testimony read by State District Judge Wallace "Pete" Moore and hearing the tapes of the meetings between Davis and FBI informant David McCrory over and over.

The state had built the foundation of its case on the video and audio tapes.

The millionaire defendant said he thought he was to "play along" with McCrory on orders from a purported FBI agent in an effort to expose an extortion scheme.

The state contends Davis ordered McCrory to hire a gunman to kill State District Judge Joe Eidson and others.

Eidson had presided for some four years over the high-stakes divorce trial of Davis and his estranged wife Priscilla.

The defense argued that Davis was the target of a conspiracy plotted by his wife, McCrory and others.

The jury requested that it listen once again to testimony of a lawyer friend of Davis and the defendant's girlfriend, Karen Master.

The pretty divorcee said she received a call Aug. 10 who identified himself as FBI Special Agent Jim Acree.

Davis told the jury Acree called him and said he was to help break an extortion scheme setup by McCrory.

Meanwhile, tempers flared as the nation's second-largest city struggled to dig out from one of its worst storms. Milwaukee residents sought refuge in warmer climates. Police were called to settle an unruly crowd in a transit station when a passenger illness delayed a Chicago Transit Authority subway train for nearly an hour.

In Milwaukee, the Common Council issued its first emergency declaration in 12 years, giving police authority to remove an estimated 3,000 abandoned cars. Church and school parking lots were offered as temporary auto holding areas.

Texas Produces Much Oil

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Mack Wallace of the Texas Railroad Commission acknowledged Thursday that the price paid for natural gas in the state market was increased at a greater rate than the price in the national market but Texas has drilled more wells and produced greater supplies of oil.

Wallace described Texas "as the fuel tank for the nation" and said the federal government should "model its production after Texas."

Wallace addressed the state-wide oil allowable hearing after the commission had routinely set the allowable for February at 100 percent.

As usual, the large East Texas Field was restricted to 86 percent production to avoid possible waste.

Wallace said he wanted to "set the record straight" on recent remarks by Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger. Wallace said, in effect, that Schlesinger has described the Texas intrastate market as "highly injurious, destructive and deadly."

"The secretary is wrong, and the number bear me out," said Wallace.

He said from 1972 to 1977 the price paid for natural gas in the Texas market increased by 5.6 times, and the price paid for natural gas in the national market increased by 3.5 times.

Since 1972, however, "the number of operating rigs, total number of wells, total number of exploration wells, and total number of new field wildcat wells drilled increased in numbers greater in the Texas market than in the national market," Wallace said. "As a result, supplies from new field discoveries and added reserves from 1972 to 1977 increased in Texas in numbers greater than the national market."

Nominations for Texas crude for February total 2,825,861 barrels daily a decrease of 25,395 barrels daily from January nominations. The figures are lower for February because "additional demand" estimates received from some purchasers were dropped from the monthly calculations.

Executive Aggie Moms Decide on Scholarship

Scholarship plans were the main subject of discussion at the recent executive board meeting of Hereford Aggie Mothers Club. These officers voted to contribute one $500 scholarship this spring to a graduating senior planning to enter Texas A&M University next fall. Last year two scholarships were presented and now with the club membership growing rapidly, more treasury funds are needed for other expenses.

The annual holiday dinner was also discussed and plans were made to look more closely for easier methods to serve the ever increasing crowd of Aggies and their families and guests. More than 100 attended this year's dinner at the Community Center.

Mrs. Walter Hardin announced that the nominating committee will meet next week to select nominees for president, vice president in charge of membership and telephoning, recording secretary and historian. Committee members are Mmes. Alton Hollingsworth, chairman, Kenneth Walter-schied, Frank Ford, Billy Brown, Adrian, and Donald Wright, Dmmit. The new officers will be elected at the club's next regular noon meeting on Jan. 29 at The Railroad Crossing.

Meeting at Mrs. Hardin's home were Mmes. Hollis Klett, vice president in charge of projects; J.J. Durham, sunshine chairman; Austin Rose Jr., historian; Hilrey Aven, recording secretary; David Beavers, corresponding secretary; Werner Koelzer, publicity; Hollingsworth, parliamentarian; and Hardin.

Annual Heart Ball Tomorrow

Tickets are still available for the third annual Heart Ball, which is a non-profit, fund-raising benefit for the American Heart Association. The formal dinner/dance is scheduled tomorrow evening at the Country Club.

Tickets can be bought for $50 per couple at either local bank, from any local Heart Association member or from a member of Kappa Iota Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Providing dance music during the party will be Tiffany Brass from Amarillo. A gourmet meal will be prepared by the Country Club chefs. The Heart Ball officially kicks off the local heart fund drive in Deaf Smith County. Dean Stallings, chairman of this year's drive, reminds local residents that February will be Heart Month here. The annual door-to-door drive will be Feb. 4.

Mrs. Neill Attends National Beauty Show

LAS VEGAS - Phyllis Neill of A-1 Beauty Salon has reviewed Retro Hair, the new hair fashion collection for spring-summer 1979, at the National Beauty Show here Jan. 14-17.

Retro Hair was designed by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association (NHCA) in response to the contemporary woman's renewed interest in looking glamorous and feminine. The soft curls, gentle waves and elegant shapes of Retro Hair echo the styles and glamorous fashions of Hollywood's golden era. The new hair fashions can be styled for any length of hair but is particularly adaptable to the shorter lengths. The rich luster of well-conditioned, precision cut Retro Hair shows off the shortest styles to the best advantage.

Extremely versatile, Retro Hair displays fashion's current emphasis on broad distinctions between day, weekend and after-dark fashion appearances, offering today's woman dramatically different looks for every side of her life.

In addition to reviewing the latest hair fashions, the local stylist was present for a national fashion presentation which featured Retro Hair coordinated with spring-summer designer fashions and original Edith Head motion pictures costumes.

Other National Beauty Show events included hairstyling competitions, educational classes and entertainment.

GET ALONG
The one thing all people have in common is each other. And the most important task everyone faces daily is to get along with his fellow being. How can you develop skill in getting along with others?

1. Change your critical attitude. Find something to praise in everyone. When someone else makes a negative remark about a person, follow it with a positive one.
2. If you dislike someone, make a list of everything you could possibly admire in that person. Work on it daily.
3. Believe in people and show them you do. Your belief in a person will help him to believe in himself and thus improve your relationship.
4. Help others. Do something for someone every day. But don't expect anything in return, and DON'T TELL ANYONE ABOUT IT!!
5. Congratulate people. Remember birthdays, anniversaries and accomplishments. Thinking something doesn't get the message across--you must speak or write it.

Be loving, trusting, helpful and demonstrative...I guarantee you'll find it easy to GET ALONG.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

Ann Landers

Devoted Wife

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is a person obligated to care for his or her physical well-being under any and all circumstances? Is this a duty as far as the bible is concerned?

Several members of my family have died from cancer so I'm sure it runs in the family. I had an operation for a malignancy two years ago, but I have not been back to see my doctor for a checkup although I was told I must return every six months.

The reason I don't want a checkup is because my husband is not in good health and may have to quit his job before he reaches retirement age, which is four years away. When he does retire we will have no insurance except his Medicare.

If I am doomed to die from cancer (and I feel I am), wouldn't it be better for all concerned if it happened sooner rather than later? I don't want my husband to be saddled with hospital and doctor bills if he must quit work.

Am I going against God's wishes? Are there medicines these days to help people who are dying from cancer so they won't have to go through days of agony? — Very Anonymous, Please

DEAR V. ANON.: Go to your doctor immediately for a checkup and continue to go as often as he wants to see you. You owe it to your family and to yourself to stay alive and well. You must do everything you can to sustain the gift of life.

Cancer is the most feared of all diseases. Millions of people are sure they are going to die of it — but they don't HAVE to if they are alert to the symptoms and recognize them early. (If you don't know what the symptoms are, please call your local American Cancer Society and ask for their free pamphlet.) Has it ever occurred to you that your husband might predecease you? It could happen. What if it does and you have a recurrence of cancer which has spread to a hopeless stage because you decided it would be better to go "sooner than later?"

Cancer researchers have made tremendous progress in the past ten years. There are many more survivors than there used to be — and yes, some new techniques and drugs to ease the pain in terminal stages. And now to answer your questions about a person's duty to "the Bible" to stay alive. One of the Ten Commandments is "Thou Shalt Not Kill." When you let yourself die, you are killing yourself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was divorced after three years of a miserable marriage. My ex-husband was a camera nut. He talked me into posing for pictures with no bra. All he wanted were closeups from the waist up. I'm not overly endowed. The pictures are nothing special and would have no commercial value.

I've asked him for the pictures twice. He said, "I'd like to keep them as memories." I still have a key to the apartment. I want those pictures. If I go in and get them can he have me arrested for breaking and entering? Is there any way I can protect myself against these charges if he should decide to prosecute? I value your judgement. — Over-Exposed in N.J.

DEAR N.J.: Too bad you didn't make the pictures part of the property settlement. Now, my dear, you must talk to your lawyer about them. The advice you seek is more than a matter of judgment — it's a legal matter.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Cramer

Cat leaves a smell POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — My cat does not always wait to go outside so my red rug smells quite strongly of urine. I have tried several commercial deodorizers and steam cleaning but the odor remains. Any suggestions? — SHERRY

DEAR SHERRY — A rug cleaning firm suggests covering the odor-infected area with a layer of table salt at least one-half inch thick. Leave on a day or two and then vacuum up. Do be sure to empty the vacuum immediately and wipe off the bottom or any parts that have come in contact with the salt. The salt can also be put on damp spots just after an accident. Sparging with club soda will sometimes remove such odors — the sooner it is used the better. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When cleaning windows I use three tablespoons of corn starch in four quarts of warm water. Always stir well to mix, wash the windows and dry with a dry soft cloth. The windows really shine and the rain does not seem to spot them when washed this way.

When making out my grocery list I put a mark before each item that I have a coupon for, as well as the brand name and size. This saves me lots of time when shopping. — V.M.

DEAR POLLY — I heard the following on a TV game show: "Because of the shortage of cosmetics in Russia do some women use shoe polish for lipstick?" The answer was "Yes." Any shoe polish I have ever had smelled too awful to be used that way. However that question did pay off for me.

I have a pair of very good old red shoes and all shoes, new or old, need a protective coating. My red polish was used up long ago so I decided to use up some old red lipstick. Now my red shoes have their "skin" well protected with lipstick and look like new. I really think the lipstick is better than the shoe cream I used to buy. (Polly's Note — Be sure to rub it in well or you may get it on other clothing.) — BLANCHE Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

A question of balance

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing about a balance problem I have had for 10 years, but it is getting worse. Other than that, I am as healthy as a horse. I can't stand still without weaving unless I steady myself against something. I can sit in a chair sometimes and it seems like I lean to the left. I feel better sitting, though.

I can be standing and maybe turn my head and it feels like I'm falling or moving. My feet and legs seem weak and unsteady. Sometimes it bothers my eyes, but I have glasses and can see well. I don't go out much anymore because I feel so foolish. I walk like a drunk and kind of sideways.

My doctor said it was my nerves and gave me Valium, but that hasn't helped my balance problem. Any helpful suggestions would be appreciated.

DEAR READER — The control of balance is a fairly complex mechanism. It involves the little balance channels inside your ears. They register the position of your head.

It also involves signals that you get from all the nerves that go to your arms, legs and other parts of your body. These signals literally tell you where your feet and legs pass through your spinal cord to your brain.

If you have changes in your spinal cord, you might have trouble with your position sense of your feet and legs and this could affect your walking ability. We see this in a number of diseases such as inadequately treated pernicious anemia. That's just one example. Also, your balance mechanism depends upon your vision.

Finally, the signals from your eyes, ears and position sense nerves must all be integrated simultaneously by your brain. If there is some abnormality of function in the brain, this too can affect the person's sense of balance and his ability to walk.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-10, Dizziness and Vertigo, which will give you more information on the balance problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This issue will give you more information about how your balance is maintained and things that can be done about it.

You may have to see more than one specialist to clarify your problem. Your description, however, suggests to me that you should start with a neurologist, a specialist in disorders of the brain. That does not mean that you're nervous although I wouldn't be surprised at your being nervous considering the problem.

The neurologist will evaluate the relationship of signals from your position sense nerves to your brain and determine if there is any factor related to your brain, such as poor circulation that might be a factor in your balance problem.

He may also want you to see an ear, nose and throat specialist to check on the balance canals in the ears or any disorder in the ears that may affect their functions. I would urge you to do this because I don't believe your condition is going to get any better.

It's true that you might take various tranquilizers that might make you feel less disturbed about it but they will not solve the underlying problem.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I must comment on your column about foot odors. I am 50 and wear sturdy nurses shoes daily and have tried everything. I find standard foot soaps and powders irritating. Feminine deodorant sprays, mild and effective, do the trick. Cleanliness comes first. Plain cornstarch sprinkled lightly in the shoes helps also. Stockings with cotton feet are better than nylons.

A wintergreen lotion for the feet after cleansing is heavenly at the end of a hot summer day. And, as you said, open sandals for off-duty hours are great. I also sponge the insides of my shoes periodically with a mild solution of water and laundry bleach and I haven't had a complaint in years.

DEAR READER — Thank you for your comments. I've received a lot of letters from people who have had foot odor problems. This merely serves to point out how common the problem is. I'm also intrigued about how many different forms of treatment people use.

The most important thing, of course, is to find a treatment that works for you. As I stressed in my earlier column, frequent washing of the feet is important. Changing shoes so that you have a different pair of shoes each day while another pair is airing out is also important.

CANCER ANSWER LINE American Cancer Society M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute

A middle-aged woman writes: "I use a face cream that contains estrogen, and I know that there is talk about that hormone and cancer. But can it hurt me to just use the cream on my skin?"

ANSWERline: Hormone creams have to be carefully used, and your own individual situation is something to discuss with your physician. You should know that the estrogen in the cream can be absorbed into your body where its action will be the same as if you swallowed an estrogen pill by mouth. This kind of cream is not a good idea for anyone with a cancer history.

A college student writes: "I am planning to do a term paper on the emotional and social effects of different diseases. Can you suggest some reading for me about cancer?"

ANSWERline: There are a number of moving and informative books written by people who have had cancer. Among them are "Reach to Recovery," by Mrs. Terese Lasser, founder of the American Cancer Society's program of that name for women who have had breast cancer; "Why Me?" by actor William Gargan, who lost his voice to cancer. Another compelling book was recently written by Dr. Ernest H. Rosenbaum, a cancer specialist. It is entitled, "Living With Cancer" and can provide you with much insight. Your local ACS Unit also will be glad to suggest other material, and perhaps arrange for you to speak with people who work with cancer patients and their families.

A reader asks: "Do black people get skin cancer?"

ANSWERline: Most skin cancer is directly related to overexposure to the sun's damaging ultraviolet rays, and while black people do indeed develop skin cancer, they do so much less frequently than Caucasians because of the protective pigmentation in their skin. Very fair people are especially susceptible to skin cancer

A policeman writes: "I am a heavy cigarette smoker and up until now, I haven't been impressed by the anti-cigarette people enough to quit. But now a friend tells me that he read that cigarettes have poison gas in them. Is that true?"

ANSWERline: Yes. Approximately 92 percent of cigarette smoke is composed mostly of a number of lethal gases including carbon monoxide. This means that even though a cigarette is low in damaging tar and nicotine, it can still be dangerous to health. In fact, Sweden, a nation with a high rate of cigarette-related diseases, has just passed a law requiring the listing of carbon monoxide content on cigarette packages to let the smoking public know just what it is getting. Cigarette gas has been getting increased attention since the Third World Conference on Smoking and Health which was held in 1975 in the U.S. with the support of the American Cancer Society. This is just one more reason for a cigarette smoker like yourself to give thought to quitting. Your local ACS Unit can help.

Do you have further questions? Call your local unit of the American Cancer Society or call M. D. Anderson Hospital & Tumor Institute's Cancer Information Service, 1-800-392-2040 toll-free in Texas, 792-3245 in the Houston area.

Bulldogs 19-1 For Season

Fems Start District Against Plainview

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor

Statistics for the Hereford girls basketball non-district games have been released by Coach Roy Shipp with sophomore Louise Mays leading most categories.

After 22 games in which the Herd scored a total of 751 points the average of Mays is 7.9 to lead the team. Other averages for scoring are Marie Schilling with 2.9, Denise Albracht with a 2.7, Beverly Nixon with a 5.7, Darlene Sanders with a 6.2 and Terri Harkins with a 4.8 average.

Other team members averages are LuAnna Berryman .9, Rhonda Foard 2.3, Penny Whiteside 3.7, Lisa Duggan .7 and JeanAnn Bartels 1.4 scoring average.

Mays also leads in the area of rebounds having controlled 199 caroms of the team's 619. Other rebounding totals are Schilling 95, Albracht 71, Nixon 36, Sanders 93, and Harkins 39.

The categories of field goal average, and points scored are the two other areas of the game that Mays leads the team. She shoots from the floor at a 34 percent clip and has scored 173 points thus far. In free throws Mays has made 45 out of 99 for 45 percent.

Leading the team in free throws is senior Berryman and sophomore Harkins with 64 percent. The assist leader on the team is junior Whiteside with seven, followed by Foard with six.

As a team the Whitesides are shooting from the floor at 27 percent while their opponents have made 34 percent of its shots from the field. Free throw percentages are 48 for Hereford and 50 for the opposition, rebounds 619 for the 'Faces and 634 for the other teams and Hereford has been averaging 34 points a game while allowing their opposition to score 47 per game.

All of this is meaningless as the season starts all over tonight as they play host to the 20-1 Plainview team.

"Plainview has only lost to Dumas -- the number one girls team in Texas for class 3A -- but then beat them later in the year to avenge its loss," Coach Shipp said. "This will be a very tough game for us since they are tall and have the ability to shoot from the outside. We have much the same problem that the boys' team has in that there is not any height to play with on our team."

This will be Hereford's first district contest ever in district 4-4A since going to the five player rule implemented by the governing board last spring.

The contest will start at 7:30 p.m. with a junior varsity contest to precede the game at 6

Clark Wins Lombardi Trophy

HOUSTON (AP) - As a 6-2, 240-pound high school pole vaulter, Penn State All-America defensive tackle Bruce Clark shocked his peers by pole vaulting 13 feet two inches in a schoolboy track meet.

Clark pulled another surprise Thursday night when he was named the winner of the ninth annual Vince Lombardi Award as the nation's outstanding collegiate lineman of 1978.

All-America offensive guard Greg Roberts of Oklahoma, had been the pre-dinner favorite based on his earlier selection as the Outland Trophy winner. Five of the previous eight Lombardi winners also had won the Outland.

Clark also was an underdog because no junior had ever won the award, named in honor of the former Green Bay and Washington coach who died of cancer.

Clark probably was the most stunned of all.

"Again I'd like to thank the Rotary Club sponsors of the $100 per plate dinner of Houston-Oh boy, I'm going to choke up-for this award," Clark stammered. "I have to thank a lot of people for my being here."

Clark, who blossomed from a freshman linebacker into a 6-2 268 pound defensive tackle, thanked head Coach Joe Paterno, his line coach J.T. White and his girlfriend Jane Pascarella.

"Coach White taught me everything about defensive tackle, I didn't even know the stance," Clark said. "I want to thank Coach Paterno, who decided I should become a part of the Penn State organization and my girlfriend who helped me through.

"I'd sometimes get uptight before a ball game and she's tell me to just relax and go out and hurt somebody. That sounded funny coming from a girl but it helped."

Clark said his schoolboy pole vaulting career ended as soon as he signed to play football for the Nittany Lions. His slimmer peers were surprised to see his 240-pound frame skimming over the cross bar and he was just as surprised to be named the Lombardi winner.

"I wasn't even thinking about winning," Clark said. "I just thought Matt Millen and I would be coming down to have a good time."

Millen, Penn State's other defensive tackle, and UCLA linebacker Jerry Robinson were the other finalists for the award.

Both Millen and Clark came to Penn State as highly touted schoolboy linebackers but following their freshmen years they were moved to defensive tackle positions.

"We've helped each other," Millen said. "We'll talk during games and usually what's working for one will help the other."

Clark said it was tough getting accustomed to playing a down position. "Matt pulled me through," Clark said. "I'd see him over there working his butt off and I decided if he could do it, so could I."

Texas Gov. Bill Clements was the principal speaker at the dinner and broadcaster Tom Harmon was master of ceremonies.

Staubach And Bradshaw Different In Styles

MIAMI (AP) - Only one-tenth of a point separated them in the final passing statistics during the season, but Dallas' Roger Staubach and Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw are two very different people.

Bradshaw, the National Football League's Most Valuable Player, led the league with his 28 touchdown passes, three more than Staubach, but also threw four more interceptions than Roger's 16. Each completed about 56 percent of his passes. In all, the NFL's complicated rating formula gave Staubach 84.9 points to Bradshaw's 84.8.

But they are a study in contrast.

Staubach, long acknowledged as one of the game's finest quarterbacks, remains spoonfed by Dallas Coach Tom Landry, who sends in every play from the sidelines and is almost never overruled.

Bradshaw, conversely, has come of age this season, having shed for good the rap that he was less than brilliant by proving he can lead as well as anyone - and better than most.

"The criticism he's gotten is totally unjust. Terry's a very smart young guy," says Staubach, six years older than the 30-year-old Bradshaw. "He was thrown in as a rookie in some very tough situations and made mistakes. I did the same thing as a rookie, but I didn't play nearly as much at the start, so it wasn't noticed as much."

Bring up the subject of Bradshaw's intelligence and Terry winces, but he has come to terms with it. "I have nothing to prove to anyone," he says emphatically.

"I've always said that you never live down an image that's created about you. It haunts you throughout your playing career, and perhaps even when your playing days are over. It just stays there and will not leave ... I don't like talking about it. It's a touchy subject I've lived with for nine or 10 years."

The question of brains aside, it is Bradshaw, not Staubach, who maintains almost total control of the Steelers' offense while Staubach merely carries out his boss' orders.

Chuck Noll, Pittsburgh's coach, doesn't say Dallas' why is the wrong way. "Teams that win as many games as they do and get to as many Super Bowls as they do don't do too many things wrong," he observed. But he feels more comfortable with Bradshaw in command.

"We feel that having him in command takes some of the pressure off of us on the sidelines. That's one less thing - and it's a big thing - that we have to worry about. We can be a lot more efficient."

"I wouldn't want the sidelines to send in the plays," says Bradshaw. "I like it the way it is now. I think when a quarterback calls the signals, his players react and respond better to his own plays."

"You get the blame if you lose and the credit if you win, so you might as well do it yourself."

Staubach, on the other hand, "is stronger working with our system," says Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "He adapts well. He works with everybody well. He fits in. Whether Bradshaw could do that, I don't know. Terry works his own way."

Is Staubach ready to call his own plays? "I've been ready for a long time, but I'm working in an organization where the head coach is a great coach and he doesn't believe in that philosophy. It has nothing to do with me - he keeps saying, 'It's just his way and you know you're not going to change it. I have no complaints about it because we're successful.'"

When the comparisons arise, Noll puts them in perspective. "It's not one guy," he says. "Everyone wants to talk about the quarterbacks, but we're talking about a team sport."

"If he gets time to throw the ball, he can be effective. If his receivers run the proper routes, he can be effective. If his view isn't obstructed ... if he's not forced to move around quite a bit ... you're got a lot of things going on there."

Staubach was willing to make a comparison. For the most part, he seemed to come out second best to Bradshaw. "He's stronger than I am. He's faster than I am. He's younger than I am. ... Staubach intoned.

Is there any area where Roger has more going for him?"

"I have more hair than he does," Staubach laughed.

Mavericks, Dogies Win Three Against Plainview

Stanton and La Plata Junior High played the two junior highs of Plainview, winning three and losing nine, in basketball action Thursday night.

Playing at Plainview, the La Plata boys lost all three of the games despite strong scoring by individuals in each class. In the seventh grade the 14 points of Steve George was not enough to overcome the strong offensive showing of the Plainview Blue team as they lost 51-40. Ricky McCracken and Kerry Beard each scored 12 points and Robby Christie added 10 points for the eighth graded but they could not score enough to offset the Blues 52 points as they fell 52-40.

The freshman team playing without starter Aubrey Richburg also lost to the host team 79-64, despite the 34 points of Alan Wartes. Don Delozier contributed 14 points in the cause for the Mavericks.

The girls of La Plata were more fortunate as they were able to win one against the Blue team, a 67-45 win for the ninth grade. Scoring for the upperclassmen were Brenda Straffuss with 14 and Deborah Rogers with 11. Eighth grade action was dismal for the Mavericks as they lost 35-28. The 10 points of Sherri Ellis and the nine points of Stephanie Foster led the Mavs in the game.

For the seventh grade Kristi Lytal tossed in six points and the team managed 16 points but it was 13 short as the Plainview team won 29-16.

The Stanton girls also played a Plainview team, the Red squad and was able to collect two victories, one in the seventh and one for the ninth grade.

In the seventh grade Cynthia Ray had 10 points and Minnie Morales had nine as the Dogies whipped the Red team 27-23. Eighth grade action was not as satisfying for the Dogies as the Plainview Red team won 37-15. Scoring for the Stanton team was Angie White with eight points.

For the ninth grade a powerful display of offense gave Stanton the game, a 51-39 victory over the Red team. Leading the scoring for the Dogies were Joyce High with 15 and Laurie Albracht with 12.

Next action for the junior high teams will be when they meet each in their annual matchup Jan. 22. The boys will be playing at La Plata while the girls play at Stanton.

All four are members of the Hereford Running Club.

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) - Victory in the 70-meter jumping event at the annual Steamboat Nordic Games came as no surprise to Jim Denney, top jumper on the United States Ski Team.

Olaf Hanssen of the University of Utah was second with 77.5 and 79.5 meters and 237.4 points.

Combined jumping championship point leaders were Mike Deveckag, 216.5 points; Gary Crawford, 209.4; Adrian Watts, 196.1; Cary Lynch, 185.7, and John Zdechlik, 151.2. All are Americans.

Carew Signs With Angels

ANAHEIM: Calif. (AP) — California Angels General Manager Buzie Bavasi has finished half the task with rather surprising ease — signing Rod Carew — but now faces what promises to be the difficult part of the job.

After Carew signed an Angels' agreement Thursday, believed to call for some $4 million over five years, Bavasi made plans to fly East to try to work out a trade with Minnesota Twins owner Calvin Griffith for the rights to the seven-time American League batting champion.

A stumbling block in the negotiations between the Twins and Angels apparently centers on California third baseman Carney Lansford, who hit .294 as a rookie last year. Minnesota wants Lansford included in the trade for Carew, but the Angels have declared him untouchable.

Carew said after signing the contract — with a contingency clause dependent on the successful conclusion of a California-Minnesota deal — that he was optimistic he would be wearing an Angels' uniform this year.

"If the deal goes through with the Twins, I'm looking forward to coming out here and doing my part to help the Angels win a pennant," the 33-year-old first baseman said. "The contract part is over and done with, and I'm happy. Now it's all up to California to try to satisfy the Twins. I'm optimistic."

Although neither the Angels nor Carew would divulge the terms of his contract, it would make him one of baseball's highest paid players.

"I wasn't really looking too much at being the highest paid player in baseball," Carew said. "I just wanted to be properly compensated, just wanted to be happy. The Angels have made me very happy."

Jerry Simon, Carew's agent, was asked if the contract with the Angels would put his client in the same financial neighborhood with Pete Rose, the former Cincinnati star who signed a reported four-year, $3.2 million free-agent contract with the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I think that's probably a fair statement: I don't know of a better contract," said Simon. "It's very substantial."

Carew, who has played for Minnesota since 1967, has a .334 career batting average, highest among active players. His best year was in 1977 when he won the AL Most Valuable Player award, hitting .388 — the major's highest since Ted Williams had the save average in 1957.

Carew, who will become a free agent following the 1979 season if he remains with the Twins, asked to be traded to a West Coast team.

Truck Leads Suns Over Pistons

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — If the automotive industry wants to learn something about fuel economy, it might take a lesson from the Phoenix Suns.

The Suns, you see, have found a way to get 42 minutes worth of work in just 36 minutes of basketball playing time from a used Truck they aquired recently.

That would be forward Leonard "Truck" Robinson who hit 20 points, many in a key third-quarter come-from-behind surge, to help the Suns to a 97-87 victory over the Detroit Pistons in the only National Basketball Association game scheduled Thursday night.

Playing in the Silverdome, Robinson clicked for eight points late in the third period when the Suns rallied from a 48-40 deficit to take a lead.

After a brief see-saw, the Suns surged into the lead for keeps.

The game was only Robinson's third with Phoenix since being traded from the New Orleans Jazz.

"It's fun playing with these guys," Robinson said after the game. "I get open and they get me the ball. I'm working harder here — getting shorter playing time but still getting the same performance."

Robinson said he was getting about 42 minutes of playing time a game with the Jazz. He played about 36 minutes against Detroit.

Suns Coach John MacLeod said he felt the addition of Robinson would help his club in its bid for playoff berth.

"He (Robinson) gives us more inside punch," MacLeod said. "His defensive rebounding gets our fast break started. All we have needed was a big inside man and he gives us that strength inside."

Suns guard Walter Davis led all scorers with 26 points while Paul Westphal chipped in with 23 for Phoenix.

Center Bob Lanier and forward M.L. Carr each had 19 points for the Pistons, who are struggling under first-year Coach Dick Vitale.

"The Suns really took us to the cleaners in the last 15 minutes," Vitale said the effort that saw Phoenix outscore Detroit 39-27 in the last 11

The first official 18-hole golf course in the United States was the Chicago Golf Club in Wheaton, Ill., in 1892.

minutes of play. "They sure put on a clinic in dominating us."

Vitale also blamed the defeat on his club's thin talent supply.

"We are just not a good basketball team," he said. "We don't have the depth and personnel you need. You have to be able to bring guys in off the bench who can do the job — and we don't have them."

The Suns played without center Alvin Adams, who suffered an eye injury in Wednesday's game at Milwaukee.

Hoop Shoot Winners

Winners in the Elks district Hoop Shoot Meet that took place in Amarillo last weekend are Ricky McCracken, second place in 12-13 year old division, Jill Brorman, second place 12-13 year old division, Jeanette Mumau, third place in 8-9 year old group, and Jana Johnson, first place in the 10-11 year old division. Johnson will represent the Elks of Hereford in the state Meet that will be held in Temple Feb. 17.

Johnson Is Mouth Of Steeler Huddle

MIAMI (AP) — Cornerback Ron Johnson of the Pittsburgh Steelers, the lone rookie starter at Super Bowl XIII, drew respect from foes and ribbing from teammates this season.

It goes back to something Johnson said in the defensive huddle during a game with Kansas City. Let me rehash it. "I've been a pro football fan until this year," said the first-round draft pick from Eastern Michigan.

"I knew most of the Steelers by name and face when I got here ... and I also knew the nicknames.

"Kansas City was moving the ball on the ground. I couldn't believe it. So I had to remind the guys.

"I said, 'You are the STEEL CURTAIN! You are the PITTSBURGH STEELERS! Nobody in the world is supposed to run the ball down our throats.'"

There was no immediate response. But after the Steelers beat the Chiefs 27-24, Johnson learned that not even Steeler fans, let alone Steelers, use that 'Steel Curtain' stuff.

What's more, most any rah-rahs are foreign to the Steelers.

"Joe Greene started calling me, 'The New Mouth of the Huddle,'" said Johnson, laughing.

"Dwight White told me I reminded him of John Rower," referring to a very verbal Steeler cornerback of seasons past.

"Dwight still brings it up sometimes," Johnson said.

Ribbing aside, Johnson has done the job at a position left vacant when J.T. Thomas was sidelined by a rare blood disease.

Johnson hits hard, runs fast and thinks hard and fast. He had four interceptions and 48 solo tackles, sixth best on the team.

"I'm down here having a good time, practicing hard and getting ready to play a lot of football," he said.

"This is a pressure-packed game, it's for the world championship, but basically I think of it as one heck of a football game."

When he watched Dallas win on television last year, he was impressed.

"I thought it would be beautiful to go to the Super Bowl as a rookie.

"Last year, when I saw the players being introduced I thought, 'Wow, look at these guys. The whole world is watching.'"

They'll watch again Sunday. The better Johnson plays, the less attention he'll get.

"I'm not nervous," he said. "In that secondary, if you get nervous, you are in for a long day.

Stalls Wants Honor

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Dave Stalls has been fantasizing lately about being the Most Valuable Player in Super Bowl XIII — that is until he was awakened by a bite from a hungry pelican.

Stalls, the super sub who specializes in quarterback sacks, was blissfully whiling away the hours on the Bahia Mar dock when he tried to feed a small fish to a pelican.

Instead, the pelican took a piece of Stalls, a card-carrying member of the Audubon Society.

"I study birds and animals," said Stalls, eyeing his cut hand. "I've learned on this trip pelicans have sharp beaks."

Stalls is a second-year Dallas Cowboys defensive tackle from Northern Colorado, a seventh-round draft pick in 1977. During the regular season and into the National Football League playoffs, he became a vital part of Coach Tom Landry's game plan.

"I had some good practices against our offense so the coaches started putting me in on passing downs for Larry Cole," said Stalls. "I got my first pro sack when I tackled Washington quarterback Joe Theismann Thanksgiving Day. What a thrill ... I had finally broken the barrier."

Stalls, who stands 6-feet-4 and weighs 245-pounds, somewhat light for a pro tackle, said: "I can get in and make a good pass rush because the other team is doubling Randy White, Harvey Martin and sometimes Ed Jones. They know what those guys can do.

"But they don't know what I can do. I feel I can beat one person anytime."

Stalls, who admits it's hard for him to watch even the Super Bowl on television, says: "Boy, I'd love to have five sacks in the game and be the Most Valuable Player. That would be the ultimate. I've thought about it a lot."

Stalls has five sacks during the regular season and the playoffs which certainly makes his dream a tall order.

"I just hope they (the Pittsburgh Steelers) don't know my name," said Stalls. "I just want to kind of slip up on them."

He said: "I never expected anybody to draft me because I went to a small college. I watched Oklahoma and Texas on television and wondered if I could compete with players from those programs in the pros. I found out I could."

Stalls didn't watch much pro football.

"I only watched one quarter of the first Super Bowl game I saw on television," he said. "I'm just not that patient with pro football. It kind of bothers me when the ads come on. I get nasty. I'm a hyper person."

Stalls, whose major in college was zoology, hopes to do marine behavioral research in the off-season.

"I've always been fascinated by animals nobody loves like snakes and sharks," said Stalls.

Stalls had no comment on whether he loved pelicans.

Phoenix Golf Starts Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Officials tried again today to get in the first round of play in the rain-delayed, $250,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The tournament now is scheduled to run through Monday. Under the contract between the PGA Tour and the tournament sponsors, the event could run as late as Tuesday if further delays are experienced.

The three-day storm, which produced about two inches of rain and caused flooding in the Phoenix area, dropped occasional showers again Thursday. It was expected to clear today, however.

The 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club was inundated. "We had no choice but to postpone," said Clyde Mangum, the PGA deputy commissioner for tour operations.

The rains washed out Wednesday's pro-am, left the course unplayable for Thursday's scheduled first round and pushed back the tournament schedule one full day.

After inspecting the flat, desert course early Thursday morning, officials found seven holes completely unplayable and two others in marginal condition.

Pools and puddles covered fairways, greens and tees. Sand traps were filled with standing water.

Some of the veteran players — among them, defending champion Miller Barber and Billy Casper — waited around the clubhouse and practiced putting between the showers before eventually drifting back to their hotels.

Two major factors prompted officials to schedule the final round on Monday rather than setting a double round of 36 holes for Sunday, which often happens in situations such as this.

"There could be a problem with daylight," a Tour spokesman said. "At this time of the year there may not be enough daylight to get in two rounds."

The other involved the weekend television schedule. The CBS telecast of the golf tournament was scheduled to end Sunday prior to the start of the Super Bowl game on another network. If two rounds were played, the golf telecast would extend into the football game.

CBS now plans to telecast the golf tournament on its original schedule Saturday and Sunday, with the addition of Monday coverage 2-4:30 p.m. EST.

Johnson Wins Hoop Shoot

It's 'Wagons-Ho' for AAM

By KATHLEEN HAST
Associated Press Writer
Monday, January 15, 1979.
6:45 a.m.

The sky is dark, the pink edges of sunrise are visible on the distant West Texas horizon. A din rises from the activity of half a hundred farmers milling about on the Abilene Fair Grounds parking lot.

They are as excited as cub scouts on their first overnight trip.

They are - as some of their posters exclaim - "goin' to Washington."

Forty-some-odd tractors roar to life, their lights wink in the blue-gray morning. Specially-mounted American, Texas, Christian and American Agriculture Movement flags whip and snap in the razor-sharp wind blowing 35 miles per hour across the unbroken prairie.

Sometime after 9 a.m., they thunder toward Interstate 20, the asphalt artery that will carry them more than half of the 1,800 miles to Washington.

The column of tractors, campers and pick-up trucks expands and contracts like an accordion, between four and seven miles long. Two pickups zip back and forth along the highway, the wagonmasters barking orders over citizen's band radios.

"All right all you boys from Lamb County, let's tighten up that line over there."

"Number 229, turn on your blinking lights."

Inside the cabs, CB radios crackle and drivers bounce along, groaning each time five-foot tires drop into highway chugholes. It's too noisy for much conversation - but for most of the drivers, there's no one to talk to anyway.

To save money, the farmers sleep in campers plastered with signs such as:

"It's not ours, we rented it from a city friend who likes to eat three meals a day."

"We rented up every camper from Amarillo to Odessa," said Marvin Meek, the Plainview farmer who organized the Abilene to Washington route. His wife and 4-month-old daughter are with him on the 18-day trip, sleeping, cooking and coordinating the drive from a tiny trailer.

The classiest accommodations probably are at the "Parity Hilton," a refurbished trailer on an 18-wheeler. Lined with 3-tiered iron bunks that sleep 16, the Hilton features a kitchen, shower, toilet and insulated water and food supplies for a month.

The trailer originally was built by Dan Taylor for his Future Farmers of America group in 1969. Like most of the farmers on the tractorcade, he decided about a week ago to hook up with the protesting group. So he and Dan "I hate to tell you my last name" Carter bought it for about $2,000 and other farmers helped him whip it into shape.

"I'll tell you one thing ... these guys can finagle anything," said 20-year-old Wes Gray, running a hand through his wheat-colored hair.

"We worked on this thing 10-16 hours a day for a week. If something needed fixing, somebody knew how to do it. If nobody knew how, two guys got together and figured it out."

said the Ropesville farmer, spitting snuff juice near a spot where three men were bent in deep concentration over the Parity Hilton's generator.

Down the road, two Ropesville farmers inspect their "Ford-a-line." The week-old creation, also known as "Old Yeller" was born in Arlin Ryals yard, the offspring of an old Minneapolis Moline tractor and a scrap Ford body.

"I do a lot of rebuilding," Larry Chaney said later. "And when all the wrecking yards found out what we were doing, they just donated a little of this and that."

But what "Old Yeller" lacks in comfort it makes up in style. If drivers don't waver, they are least gawk at the bright yellow and red machine that resembles a hot rod Sherman tank with overinflated tires.

The clatter of machinery and tools disturbs the quiet evening as hungry, dirty protesters crowd inside the trailers. They look forward to Saturday when they will join Louisiana farmers at a rally at Monroe.

"They told me it would be warmer," said Kenneth Means, also from Ropesville. "But I don't know."

Dinner is a long-term proposition. Finding out whose turn it is to cook often takes longer than fixing the grub.

Cakes and brownies sent from home disappear quickly on the second day.

"In another couple of weeks, we'll be eating nothing but canned beans," quipped one farmer, passing around a tin of his own brownie crumbs.

"There you go. Shiny as a new dime," said Rufus Dill, holding a scrubbed skillet, which he shakes at bunkmate Bill Burris. "If my wife finds out I washed these ... somebody's gonna get killed."

After dinner, checkboards and playing cards emerge. A few people watch for their images on the evening news and talk to sustain the anger they hope will bring them some relief in Washington.

"We plowed under 3,800 acres of crops that didn't make this year," said Burris, who farms with his sons just outside Lubbock. "And the rest didn't make much."

Burris still makes payments on a $38,500 tractor bought last spring, and stolen before Thanksgiving.

"The Department of Public Safety trooper said he understood. But he didn't have a tractor stolen. How could he understand?"

To strangers, especially reporters, they talk the party line, echoing memorized statistics they say supports complaints of low farm prices.

But they recognize the difficulty of convincing folks struggling on $20,000 a year that anyone who can float a loan for $200,000 is broke.

"But you see, it's all operating money," Ryals said. "We're mortgaged to the hilt. We're eating up our equity, the land we've paid for, by refinancing it just to make it year to year."

Even the older farmers seem proud of their new-found political activity. It's time, they say, to chuck their "Johnny Hayseed" image.

"We laugh and kid a lot, but this is really serious," said one. "We're really hurting."

"The problem is, we've been down on the farm too long," said Mel Cherry, sporting a button that reads "I was arrested in McAllen."

"We should have done this 10-12 years ago."

In 1955, the liner Queen of Bermuda sped far off course to rescue the 10-man crew of a Newfoundland fishing boat that sank during an Atlantic gale off Bermuda.

ATTENTION ALL CORN GROWERS

The High Plains Farm Bargaining Association is now legally chartered to bargain for producers of food grade corn and other commodities in the State of Texas.

A committee has been in contact with purchasers of food grade corn (both white and yellow). We recommend that farmers thoroughly read, consider and understand all aspects that regard price, grade, variety, moisture, crackage, shrinkage and shrinkage per centage, hauling, long lines, field loss, extra spraying, and lower yields before signing any contract. All of these things considered, we believe that the contract offered to date is less than the present market price.

The committee believes that anything less than $6 for yellow food corn and $7 for white food corn will be a loss for the grower considering inflation in costs of production. Plans are being made to consider ensilage contracts and high moisture corn contracts.

The cooperation is vitally needed by all corn growers and potential corn growers to support this bargaining effort. There may never be another opportunity like this one.

Blind Judge Hasn't Given Up Hope Yet

DURANT, Okla. (AP) - District Judge John Allen Phillips is blind, but he won't give up hope that he will see again.

"I insist on holding onto my hope," Phillips says, despite a medical opinion that he will never see. "After you lose hope, what do you have?"

Phillips, 67, went blind

during his first year on the bench in 1977 during a period he had cryptococcus meningitis, a rare fungus disease that was considered incurable only a decade ago.

He returned to the bench last April, convinced that he would experience "a drastic improvement in my sight."

His physicians in Texas had indicated it was too soon to know for certain whether his optic nerves would regenerate. Phillips more recently went to the Dean A. McGee Eye Institute in Oklahoma City for a second opinion.

"They told me the ends of the nerves had atrophied and would never get better," he recalls. "I was completely stunned. I couldn't have been more stunned if they had hit me in the head with a baseball bat."

Now in his second term as judge, Phillips said he will finish the term regardless of whether he regains his sight.

"I am doing everything I would be doing if I had my sight," he said. "My duties are becoming easier and that surprises me. Psychologically, I am in much better health than I was when I was first returned."

Phillips says his sight is improving, even if very slightly.

"I saw the telephone poles whizzing by the other day when Hollis Calhoun, his bailiff took me home. If my sight can improve a little bit, why can't it improve a lot?"

The bailiff puts in a lot of reading to help the judge run the court.

Truck Driver Indicted

SWEETWATER, Texas (AP) - The driver of a truck that collided with a school bus in West Texas last Dec. 8, killing five and injuring 20, has been indicted on three counts of involuntary manslaughter.

Assistant District Attorney Russell Carroll of Sweetwater said William Clarence Dixon, 21, of Snyder, was released after posting $7,500 bond in Ector County.

Dixon was the driver of a truck operated by the Odessa-based Cardinal Survey Co. It collided with a bus carrying members of the McCauley High School boys' and girls' basketball teams on U.S. 180 near Roby.

Dixon himself was seriously injured, and recently was released from an Abilene hospital.

A grand jury named Dixon in sealed indictments Wednesday. They were released Thursday.

Jordan Refutes Rumor of Illness

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Former U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan reiterated Thursday that she is not terminally ill and added, "I do not have, nor have I ever had, the illness described" in a news story Wednesday.

A copyright article in the Dallas Morning News said Miss Jordan is battling an incurable bone disease known as multiple myeloma.

Miss Jordan has lost a great deal of weight, which she attributed at a news conference to a two-year diet, and walks with a cane because she limps.

"My knee has for some three or four years received more attention than my mind, heart and soul...I am weary of talk about my knee...I have now, and shall have, nothing more to say about the unfortunate news story or my knee except to emphasize that my right knee - for better or for worse - is mine," she said.

Miss Jordan told reporters packed into a conference room at the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs that she would only accept questions related to her work.

She is in her first week of teaching and has two graduate seminars, with 15 students in one and 20 in the other.

The Abundant Life

RELAXED LIVING

BY BOB WEAR

DIFFERENT PEOPLE probably have different notions about relaxation, and this is understandable because the word "relax" has different meanings. Unfortunately, many folk think that in order to relax we must become lax, weak, loose or inactive. It can mean all of these, but it has other meanings. As it is used in this writing, to refer to "living," it means "to make less tense, or less rigid; to cast off nervous tension, or cast off attitudes of anxiety."

RELAXED LIVING does not require a lessening of interest in anything that is worthy of our interest. It does not require a decrease of activity in anything that is worth the doing. We have a choice between being tense and rigid in our interests and our actions, or being relaxed, being what many people call "cool." Relaxed living will give us the strength and energy we need to function at our very best, with less wear and tear upon ourselves and upon the people with whom we are associated.

ALL OF US KNOW that many potentially good situations are spoiled because people approach them with tenseness and rigidity. It might be a parent-child situation; or a teacher-pupil situation; or an employer-employee situation; or any one of a number of very important situations. Less tension, less anxiety, and less rigidity will always create a more favorable climate for human interaction. With calmness, we will be able to handle ourselves more efficiently and obtain a better response from other people.

IT IS A MISTAKE to assume that "relaxed living" is just a small part of the total living experience, and can be enjoyed only at special times and in special places. It can be and should be the whole manner of life. It has room, in it, for all of the justified convictions; all of the wholesome drive and ambition; all of the motivation we need; all of the industry; all of the steadfastness; and all of everything else essential to a satisfactory life.

YES, IT IS POSSIBLE to take life too easy; and this is a mistake; but it is also possible to go to the other extreme. This is a mistake, too. The balance is found in "relaxed living," in which we accept all responsibilities and meet all obligations in the very best way we can; without tension, or rigidity, or anxiety. We make the best plans we can, we do our work as efficiently as we know how, and we are thankful that all is as well with us as it is.

WE ACCEPT OUR LIMITATIONS, we have sensible expectations for ourselves and others, we don't become overwrought about what we can't help, and we place the best possible construction on everything. Thus, we live.

FOR GREATER EFFECTIVENESS, try "relaxed living."

Fellowship To Hear Cattleman

Gruver cattleman J.S. "Wes" Whitaker will be the featured speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Hereford High School Cafeteria.

A buffet is planned for 7 p.m., with serving continued until 7:30. Cost of the buffet is $3.50 per person.

Whitaker is owner of Whitaker Cattle Co. in Gruver and Panhandle Spraying Service. A 2,500-hour commercial pilot, Whitaker is president of the Spearman chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

Ray and Judy Diesel of Amarillo will provide special music for the meeting.

Families of fellowship members and the general public are invited to the buffet and meeting.

The fellowship works with churches "to lead men and women to salvation," according to Jonnie Cloud of the Hereford chapter.

GOD'S WISDOM WILL EMERGE FROM THE DEPTHS OF SORROW

At some time in our lives there comes a moment of tragedy that compels us even in the midst of our grief to ask the eternal question, "Why?" Yet what seems so cruel and senseless to us nevertheless happens for a reason that we are unable to comprehend. Somewhere, hidden from our eyes and our understanding, there is a divine purpose in everything. It is all part of the preordained pattern of our lives, the building of our character and the preparation for an ultimate destiny as yet unrevealed to us until the dawn of some bright tomorrow. At the Church of your choice, you will receive the comfort and strength you need, as well as the wisdom to trust God; because He has a master plan for the universe and you are a part of it.

God's ways seem dark, but, soon or late,
They touch the shining hills of day.
— John Greenleaf Whittier

"Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."
— I Corinthians 2:9
