Livestock Weigh-Ins Scheduled

Weigh-ins for the Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show get underway tomorrow, with county lambs and hogs going across the scales from 8 a.m. to noon, and four county lambs and hogs being weighed from 1-5 p.m.

All steers will be weighed from 8-10 a.m. Thursday. Competition in the show, which is open to contestants from Deaf Smith, Castro, Parmer and Oldham counties, will get underway Thusday with swine classes.

Jim McManigal will begin judging market hogs at noon, with swine judging to continue throughout the afternoon. A large field of entries is expected to make competition close in the event. Judging continues Friday morning as lambs begin going into the ring before Bob Kropp, lamb judge, at 8 a.m.

Steer classes will be judged by Gene Raymond beginning at 2 p.m. Friday. A livestock judging contest, open to 4-H and FFA members, will be held at 8 a.m. Saturday, and the livestock show concludes with the annual auction, scheduled to get underway at 1 p.m.

A floor price will be established prior to premium bidding on the livestock, and purchasers will pay only the difference between their winning bid and the floor

Perrin, Bailey Declared Top Ag Man, Beet Grower at Affair

By JIM STEIERT Brand Farm Editor

Dudley Bailey of Clovis swept his third straight top grower award at the Texas-New Mexico Sugar Beet Growers Association banquet Saturday night at the Bull Barn.

While Bailey was honored as the top beet grower, Jim Perrin, who farms near the Adrian community, was honored by the Hereford Brand as Deaf Smith County's "Man of the Year in Agriculture" for 1978.

A crowd of well over 400 was on hand to honor the award winners, and to listen to the featured speaker, Robert Gadberry of Wichita, Kansas.

Bailey collected the $500 top grower prize, presented by Farr Better Feeds and Davis Implement Co., maintaining his dominance over the top grower award in the third year of its history.

The Clovis farmer produced 40.8 tons of sugarbeets per acre over a measured acreage of 14.8 acres, with a sugar content of 16.5 percent. He produced a total of 13,420 pounds of sugar per acre over the contest acreage.

Second prize winner Troy Christian of Bovina received a $300 cash prize, presented by Southwest Feedyards.

Christian's 11.49 acres had a yield of 40.4 tons of beets per acre with a sugar content of 15.09 percent, with a total production of 12,402 pounds of sugar per

Third place prize money of $200, presented by Western Bank of Clovis, went to Halaco Ag. Inc. of Bovina, represented by Melborn Jones. The award was received by Jones' son, Harold. The third place yield came from a measured acreage of 12.56 acres, and amounted to 37.2 tons per acre with a sugar content of 15.14 percent. Sugar production was 11,255 pounds per acre.

Perrin was singled out for his assistance to area farmers during a presentation by Jim Steiert, farm editor of the Brand.

Perrin farms a total of 24,393 acres of land, including 13,084 acres of dryland and irrigated cropland, either on his own or in family partnership, with his farm headquarters located 43 miles northwest (See BANQUET, Page 2)

Strong gusty winds pumped bitter cold air and whipped blowing snow across the Panhandle early today, reduced visibility to zero and forced the closure of some highways.

New Hereford Business Managers Make Presence Known

Managing Editor

A couple of newcomers to Hereford, neither of whom know the other, have accepted leading roles in the community because they felt a responsibility.

"No, I don't believe I've met him. But his name sounds familiar," says Jimmy Rowton of H.T. "Tim" Scott. "I may have met him one time," says

Scott of Rowton. No matter, though it's ironic that two men as involved in civic affairs as are the new managers of the Hereford Federal Credit Union and Montgomery Ward haven't seen much, if any, of each other. Rowton, who moved to Hereford from Temple last November, is a director of Hereford Industrial Foundation. He also is a member of the Noon Kiwanis Club and has been active in the Deaf Smith County United Way campaign.

"I think it is everyone's duty or responsibility to get involved in their community," said Rowton, who replaced Paul Mason as Credit Union manager. "Also, I enjoy it.

"I think it's good for the community to have people involved in its affairs. It shouldn't be up to just one or two people to run a town. Scott, who left a radio broadcasting and sales position at Roswell, N.M., to head up the Hereford Montgomery Ward store, has a similar philosophy.

"I just believe in doing my share," Scott said. "Also, what better way is there to meet people? You hear that there's nothing to do in a small town but there is a lot to do. Granted, you have to give up a lot of your own time.'

Scott is chairman of the local March of Dimes campaign, which kicks off in early February. He also is chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Business mittee and a member of Hereford Rotary Club.

"I also plan to become involved in Big Brothers/Big Sisters," Scott said. "I hope to become a big brother."

Rowton, who claims Hereford has "the friendliest people I've ever met," was manager of a credit union in Temple for 91/4 years. Prior to that, he was an assistant manager in Waco.

"I admit that it was hard to make the move to Hereford. But it was an increase in opportunity--Hereford has a larger credit union. And we had always thought we'd like to live in the Panhandle. We love the heck out of this cooler weather that everyone else has been griping about."

Rowton heads up a staff of seven at the credit union, which increased its deposits (See BRANDING, Page 2)

Darter, Crane Among Items of Discussion

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Endangered Species Committee is meeting for the first time to determine the fate of a small fish and large bird whose survival may be doomed by water projects.

The reports scheduled today were on whether the Tellico Dam in Tennessee and the Grayrocks Dam and Reservoir in Wyoming should be exempted from the strictures of the Endangered Species Act. It was not clear whether the committee would act today in either case.

Tellico, a dam built by the Tennessee Valley Authority, threatens the snail darter, a three-inch fish. Grayrocks poses a threat to whooping cranes that roost on Platte River sandbars some 275 miles downstream in Nebraska, project critics

Both the snail darter and whooping crane are classified as endangered.

The committee, created by Congress last year and chaired by Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, is designed to provide a means by which governmentfinanced projects can be completed - even if the project results in the extinction of a species.

To grant an exemption, the committee must find that no reasonable alternatives exist, that the benefits of the project clearly outweigh possible alternative courses of action, and that the project is of regional or national significance.

Yet, he said, the commission has only three inspectors to check out conditions in 254 county jails.

"I'm not here so much to ask for money as to justify our existence." Suttle said in presenting the commission's proposed budget to the finance committee. The commission's current two-year budget of $491,448 is totally funded by the federal government, but the agency has asked for $597,653 in state funds for 1980-81 and says it will try to raise an additional $125,666 in federal money.

The LBB, however, has recommended no state money and a federally funded budget of $497,259. In addition the LBB has recommended merging the commission with another state agency.

"I think in the next month or two you are going to see a real response to these recommendations,' said Suttle.

Clements Addresses

Both Houses Today

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements has dribbled out bits and pieces of his legislative program over the past few weeks - tax cuts, initiative and referendum, limitations on public officials' terms.

Legislators were to get a fuller idea today of what kind of plans the new Republican governor has for the 66th lawmaking session. Clements was scheduled to address the House and Senate.

Clements already has said he would recommend legislation reducing taxes by 51 billion and constitutional amendments limiting governors, lieutenant governors and attorneys general to two four-year

Another constitutional amendment Clements has urged in the past would let Texans initiate new laws and pass them by referendum.

He said last week his address to the Legislature would be just the beginning. "It will be the first chapter. There will be other chapters to come later," he said. In Monday's legislative activity, the Senate passed and sent to the Senate a $907,000 emergency appropriation for the attorney general's department and a $581,682 item to help the Texas Railroad Commission comply with the federal Natural Gas Policy Act.

Both emergency bills still need House action to become law.

Former Gov. Dolph Briscoe recommended the emergency spending before leaving office last Tuesday.

Iran Military Boss

Calls for Rule Defense

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Iran's military chief called on the 430,000-man army to defend Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar's government against Ayatullah Khomeini's attempts to replace it with an Islamic government controlled by the religious leader.

With the 78-year-old Shiite Moslem patriarch scheduled to return from exile Friday, Gen. Abbas Gharbaghi in an unprecedented broadcast Monday night said the military would not heed the religious leaders seeking Bakhtiar's overthrow and would defend the "legal and constitutional" government.

"The unity, security and well-being of the people are in danger," said Gharbaghi. "... The servants of the imperial armed forces, with decisive will and patriotism, will overcome their sentiments and will endeavor more than before to support the legal government."

Newspaper and radio reports said five to eight persons were killed and 25 were injured Monday when a crowd opposed to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi attacked a pro-shah demonstration by troops in Rezayieh, in western Iran. The newspaper Kayhan said four of the dead were soldiers.

Khomeini, who has led the uprising against the shah and his regime from France, has appealed to the men of the armed forces to support his crusade to convert Iran to an Islamic republic with a government named by him.

The local farmer was instrumental in getting regulations governing corn silage changed in 1977, when drought and attacks by spider mites severely reduced corn yields in the local area. His actions helped to secure disaster payments which meant an additional $3 million to Deaf Smith County corn growers.

During 1978, Perrin was instrumental in getting wheat program regulations changed, after poor stands of wheat due to drought in the fall later became choked with weed growth due to heavy rainfall in the spring.

Much of the wheat crop was so weed-infested that it could not be harvested, but a provision which Perrin helped to secure from the ASCS permitted area farmers to zero out wheat that was not harvestable. This resulted in an estimated $1 million increase in disaster payments to wheat producers in as uncollectible should not be construed as writeoffs.

"Everybody is staying after these accounts, trying to collect them." Reinauer said. "We're not taking off anyone's name and the money he owes. We're just saying that chances are we're not going to collect this much money ($455,000)."

Reinauer, in presenting recommendations from the finance committee, which met last week, also said that a quarterly report of hospital finances should be published in The Branc "because taxpayers ought to know where we stand."

Reinauer added that taxpayers need to realize "how much they are paying for indigent care or deadbeats or whatever."

The board accepted the recommendations, which followed a report by Allen on the hospital's financial status on Dec. 31, 1978, as compared to the same date a year ago.

Figures compiled by the auditor showed that net patient revenue over expenses generated $18.51 per patient day in 1978, as compared to a $3.86 deficit in 1977. "That is substantial." Allen said.

However, $16.43 per patient day was deducted for uncollectible accounts in 1978, $2.06 for the public health clinic and 41 cents for indigent care, as the hospital was forced to provide $18.90 per patient day for those services.

Allen said that cash on hand at the end of the first quarter of the current fiscal year totalled $88,201, compared to a $13,960 deficit in 1977-78. The board then voted to pay $35,500 of

In December, 1978, the hospital received $179,933 in total patient revenues, paid $151,376 in expenses and finished with $23,833 in revenue over expenses. That figure also includes $12,884 in taxes collected during the month.

The hospital closed out 1977 with a $23,618 deficit in revenue over expenses. "That's a 201 percent variance from 1977 to 1978. We're very pleased with that." Bullard said.

There were 238 patients admitted last month, as compared to 162 in December of the previous year. The average daily census during the final month of 1978 was 27.6, up two patients from the year before.

"I'd like to tell you I'm pleased, but actually I'm ecstatic," Bullard said. "The numbers speak for themselves--we're way ahead of where I anticipated we would be."

Director Deward Roberson asked Bullard: "How do you exlain this?"

Bullard said that the hospital's strong finish in 1978 was due to the staff "doing a more conscientious job of collecting our accounts," and a better control of expenses.

Patient days in this fiscal year which started Oct. 1 have totalled 2,696, down from 2,719.

"What that says is our patients are averaging 4.6 days on each stay in the hospital, as compared to 5.5 the year before," Bullard said. "The reason, the most significant thing, is our medical staff is a staff which is most conscious as to what the patient as a consum r pays for his hospital stay."

Bullard closed out the meeting by stating that Hereford State Bank had "gone out of its way" in helping Deaf Smith General out of a financial crisis in early 1978.

Third Heart Ball Collects $4,500

Bessie Story relaxed during the Heart Ball with her escort, L.B. "Scat" Russell, as she watched the results of her work as special events chairman unfold as planned. The Heart Ball has been the largest money-making special event for the Heart Association since it was begun three years ago.

Guests at Saturday evening's Heart Ball were recognized as benefactors of the Heart Association by the official Heart insignie, presented at the door of the Country Club. Shown here "being pinned" by Gerald Paetzold, left, and Johnny Wall, right, are SIII and Rosle Wall, who are currently serving as president of the Heart board. Paetzold sold the greatest number of tickets to the ball.

Contributors to the Heart Association danced Saturday night in the Country Cub ballroom to the music of Tiffany Brass, a band from Amarillo. The dance began after a gourmet meal prepared by the Country Club chefs.

Raiph Detten and his wife Judy take to the dance floor in support of the American Heart Association as the annual fund-raising drive was launched here Saturday evening with the Heart Ball. Detten is vice-president of the Deaf Smith County division board of directors.

This year, members of Kappe lets Chapter of sens Sigms Phi Security, volunteered to sell tickets and make decorations for the Heart Ball. Representing

This heart-shaped archway, entwined with fresh greenery, has become a traditional backdrop for the Heart Ball. Shown here within its frame are Mr. and Mrs. Deen Stallings. Stallings is heading up this year's fund-raising drive, which will be conducted during the month of February.

Receiving Guests

Miss Stephanie Stringer, bride-elect of Kirk Pitman, was the guest of honor Saturday morning during a prenuptial shower in the Country Club ballroom. Receiving guests were, from left, Ada Emerick, grandmother of the prospective bridegroom; Marie Stringer, the honoree's mother; Miss Stringer; and Mrs. John Douglas Pitman, mother of the future groom. The marriage will be solemnized here Saturday in First Baptist Church.

Miss Stringer Honored At Morning Courtesy

The ballroom of Hereford Country Club was appointed with pint, wine and mauve colored silk flowers Saturday morning for a bridal shower honoring Miss Stephanie Strin-

Miss Stringer and Kirk will be married Saturday, Jan. 27 in First Baptist Church here.

The bride-elect received guests during the courtesy with her mother, Marie Stringer; her fiance's mother, Mrs. John Douglas Pitman; and her fiance's grandmother, Mrs. Ada

Joe Reinauer Sr., Eugene Hendon and Kenneth Gooch. Securing the signatures of approximately 85 guests was Mrs. E.C. Reinauer.

Miniature sweet rolls, sausage balls fruit and coffee were served during the morning by Mmes. Harlan VanderZee. R.W. Eades, Dennis Lomas and Lois Matchett.

A large silver bowl brimming with pink, wine and mauve silk flowers was flanked on the main serving table by a pair of silver, ouglas Pitman; and her three-branched candelabra hol-ance's grandmother, Mrs. Ada ding wine-colored tapers. The merick.

Guests were greeted at the ced by crystal goblets containnestled in nosegays of roses and wine-colored ribbons.

Hostesses for the recent shower were Mmes. E.C. Reinauer, Harlan VanderZee, Joe Reinauer Sr., Truman Hazelrigg, Howard Godwin, Wayne Thomas, Kenneth Gooch, Warner Lawson, W.E. #### At Wits End BY ERMA BOMBECK

It's amazing to me how influential advertising is in this country.

Take disco...please.

You can't pick up an ad these days without seeing a new product born out of disco fever. There are disco dresses, disco hair, disco suits, disco shoes, disco perfume, disco water beds, disco handbags, disco cars, and disco crackers.

I have asked 600 people of varying ages about disco and have yet to find one who actually dances a la disco.

Where are all these people who must be choreographed right down to the frenzied flex of an elbow, lest they inflict serious pain on one another? Where is that vast population who picks up a stranger to dance, goes out on the floor and proceeds to twirl and spin in complete harmony like they had four size C batteries in their backs?

Everyone talks disco, but who does it?

Most dances are like that. I have only my mother's word, but the minuet was more PR than action. How many men do you know who could count, dip, sway, run in a circle, stand toe-to-toe and be devastatingly clever at the same time?

It was the same with the Virginia Reel. Of course, skipping was considerably easier because chewing gum hadn't been invented yet and you didn't have that distraction.

People never got into the "twist" either. Oh, there were a couple of women at parties who looked like they were a corkscrew trying to get a stubbord cork out of the bottle, but they never got the hang of it.

And the "Hustle" always reminded me of an encounter group with rhythm.

The only dancing that ever made sense to me was the do-your-own-thing craze of a few years back. You could groove to the restroom and return and your partner would never know you were gone. No stepping on feet, no apologizing for not bending, no head getting caught in an armpit...just keeping time in your own little world.

I suspect there are lot of district disto dancers who themselves in a three-piece white suit with a cleft in their chin about three feet deep who dance frenetically in front of the mirror and never sweat.

It's time to come out of the closet and keep the momentum going. If you don't I'm going to get stuck with a pair of disco shoes that have never been anywhere but under a table.

4-H Firsthand

FIRST AID FROM 4-H

What does first aid mean? You know what the word "first" means. The word "aid" means to help. First aid is first help. You are the first to help a person who is sick or hurt. Then, you are giving first aid.

It is important to make certain that essential first aid supplies for emergency use are aways kept in the home. You can make your own first aid kit. All you need is the following: 1. adhesive bandages (various sizes and shapes)

2. antiseptics

3. sterile gauze pads 4. surgical adhesive tape 5. sterile cotton or cotton

You must know two things to give first aid. You must know what is wrong with the sick or hurt person. You must know how to help. Here are some first aid techniques. Dog, cat or rat bites: A dog. cat or rat bite can be dangerous. Wash the bite very. well with soap and running water. Do this quickly. Then put on a sterile dressing. Call the police. You must tell them what happened. They may have to catch the animal. Then, go to the doctor or clinic right away.

Bee stings: Bee stings can hurt. Sometimes, the stinger stays in your skin. Use your fingernail or the side of tweezers to take it out. Gently scrape out the stinger. Do not pull it out. Then, soak the bite in Epsom salts and water.

Cuts & scratches: Small cuts, scratches and broken blisters need first aid, too. Wash them with soap and running water. Then, cover them with an adhesive bandage. Keep the bandage clean. Your fingers should not touch the part of the bandage that goes over the cut, scratch or blister.

Nosebleeds: Most nosebleeds are easy to stop. Sit very quietly to stop a nosebleed. Try not to move. Squeeze your nose together. Tilt your head forward. A cold, wet cloth over your nose will help, too. If the nosebleed does not stop, get Eyes: If you get something in your eye, do not rub it. First, shut your eye until tears start, or pour clean water on the eye. If there is no water, do this: pull out the top eyelid. Pull down ever the lower eyelid. Get help if this does not work.

Texas Takes SWC Lead

A Texas Longhorn stampede over ran Texas A&M Monday night and trampled the 11th-ranked Aggies 89-66 in the big Southwest Conference shootout in Austin Monday

The Aggies tried man-to-man coverage, a zone defense, a half court trap and a full court press. But all to no avail as 17th-ranked Texas, paced by Jim Krivac's 28 points. smothered the Aggies' to take sole possession of first place in the conference race.

"You gotta give 'em credit for trying things." said Longhorn Coach Abe Lemons. "But I doubt that anything they would have tried tonight could have helped. It was just one of those cases where we played better."

Texas tops the league standings with a 5-1 record. followed by A&M and Baylor, both 4-2. Arkansas and Texas Tech are deadlocked at 3-3.

Baylor moved ahead of 15th-ranked Arkansas in the rankings on the strength of its narrow 70-67 win over the Razorbacks Monday night.

Despite Williams' heroics. SMU had a chance to tie with 11 seconds remaining, but Gordon Welch's 18-foot shot rimmed out. Leonard Mitchell swept the rebound for Houston, and Victor Ewing dunked it at the buzzer. In the only other conference game Monday, Rice edged TCU 59-56 behind the shooting of Elbert Darden who popped the net for 19 points.

"TCU gave a good effort," said Rice Coach Mike Schuler. "Our kids had to gut it out."

"We played horribly in the first half, but we started going for the ball on the boards in the second half and that made a difference," said TCU Coach Tim Sommerville, who watched his team rally from a 12-point deficit to make it a game.

Super Bowl XIII The Best Yet

MIAMI (AP) - It was the superest of the Super Bowls. It destroyed the myth that Super Bowls, by their very nature, are doomed to dullness. It slew perhaps for all-time the charge that the National Football League's grand climax is more circus than contest, more hype than substance.

How's that again. Fran

Tarkenton? "A manufactured megabucks extravaganza with lousy play." said the veteran Minnesota quarterback in his dual role as a frustrated three-time Super Bowl loser and announcer for NBC. "A circus . . . Quality of play absurd."

Would Francis today - 24 hours after watching Terry (Lil Abner) Bradshaw and his rough and tumble Pittsburgh Steelers dethrone the disciplined Dallas Cowboys 35-31 in a real pulsator like to amend his judgment?

Touchy Tark probably is correct in a portion of his ill-timed gripe. No question the Super Bowl is a big hype, a revved up job, the product of a nation's addiction to the bash-and-butting gridiron sport and Madison Avenue techniques.

But why not?

On a Sunday afternoon in mid-winter, with weather atrocious almost everywhere, Christmas bills pouring in, inflation eating away at the pocketbooks and Uncle Sam sending out reminders of the income tax filing deadline, the event serves to help us all drown our pressures and miseries momentarily in a few hours of high excitement. It is both a tonic and tranquilizer.

If a TV network wants to pay 56 million for the broadcast privileges, fine. If big companies choose to shell out $370,000 a minute to hawk their products on the air, who are we to argue? If Commissioner Pete Rozelle wants to make the Super Bowl the greatest one-day sports: spectacle in the world - which it is, virtually paralyzing normal life for a few hours and freezing 100 million viewers in front of the tube, more power to him.

He'd given himself a 4-shot lead with a spectacular. 10-under-par 61 in Sunday's second round. No one caught him in the third and final round Monday, but Jay Haas, playing in front of Ben, dropped a 12-foot birdie putt on the last hole to cut the margin to 1. Then it was up to Ben. He needed only a par 5 on the water-guarded finishing hole at the Phoenix Country Club to win it. And he almost let it get away.

He hooked his tee shot into the trees, a position with which he has become familiar over the years. His second shot was still behind the tree line, but he did have a shoot to the green. Haas was standing behind the putting surface watching.

"He hit about the only shot he had out of the trees." Haas said. "He kept it low. When it rolled on the green, well, I didn't think much of my chances. Ben 2-putted from a long distance, maybe 30-40 feet, to win it with a final round of par 71 and a 199 total, 14 shots under par."

He claimed $33,750 from the total purse of $187,500, which had been trimmed down from $250,000 when two days of rain delayed the start of the tournament and forced officials to cut the event to 54 holes.

Lanier Left Off All-Star Team

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

Bob Lanier's scarred knees bear witness to the nine long. hard years of meritorious service he has given pro basketball in general and the Detroit Pistons in particular.

He's played on good teams and bad ones, exciting teams and boring ones, and he's always lent a measure of class to the game. When the team around him was in turmoil, Lanier was one man you could rely on - for points and rebounds, for leadership, for courteous answers during postgame interviews, for unpublicized appearances before youth groups and charity fundraisers. Now, in a bizarre bungle. Lanier has been left off the East team for the 29th annual National Basketball Association All-Star Game.

Lanier finished third among East centers in the fan balloting for starting positions in the game, to be played Feb. 4 at the Pontiac Silverdome, the Pistons' home court. And when the six reserves - chosen by a vote of conference coaches - were announced Monday, Lanier was not among them. It is an insult - unintended. perhaps, but an insult nonetheless - to a man who deserves much better.

Lanier has been an all-star each of the past six seasons and was the most valuable player in the 1974 game. On statistics alone, he deserved to make the team again this year.

Ironically, the East coaches didn't select a backup man to starting center Moses Malone. Instead they named forwards Russell, Dandridge, Elvin Hayes of Washington and Larry Kenon of San Antonio, and guards Doug Collins of Philadelphia and Calvin Murphy of Houston.

There is still a chance Lanier might make the team. One of the 11 players chosen could get hurt over the next two weeks. and hopefully Lanier would be considered as a replacement.

If that doesn't happen, it would be a fitting gesture on the league's part to name Lanier an honorary host for the game. This could be the start of a tradition in which the NBA honors a man who has meant something special to pro basketball in the city in which the All-Star Game is being played.

Lanier isn't the only noteworthy absentee from the All-Star rosters.

Guard Lloyd Free of San Diego, the league's secondleading scorer, was not chosen for the West team. Forward Bernard King of New Jersey. No. 5 on the scoring list, failed to make the East squad.

Truck Robinson, last year's rebounding champion who was recently traded from New in the West, is another absentee. And none of the league's assists leaders - Kevin Porter of Detroit, John Lucas of Golden State and Norm Nixon of Los Angeles - was picked.

Other fixtures who'll be missing included Rick Barry of York and Dave Cowens of Boston. There also won't be any rookies, the West coaches passing up Kansas City playmaker Phil Ford and instead choosing his backcourtmate, Otis Birdsong.

On the other hand, it's good

Yanks Want To Sign Carew

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - The California Angels' prospects for landing Rod Carew appeared dimmer Friday, and the New York Yankees waited eagerly on the sidelines for their chance at the seven-time American League batting champion.

Angels' General Manager Buzzie Bavasi said he is not optimistic that California will be able to work out a trade with Minnesota owner Calvin Griffin for Carew, who has already agreed to an Angels' contract calling for a reported $4 million over five years.

But the World Champion Yankees have received permission to talk with Carew as of midnight Saturday, and will have a week to negotiate with the 33-year-old first baseman. Since the Angels and Carew have agreed to terms, there's no deadline for them.

Bavasi was definitely not pleased by the Yankees' eagerness to go after Carew. The Angels GM, referring to comments earlier this week by Yankees' President Al Rosen, said, "If that's not tampering, I don't know what is."

Rosen was quoted as saying: "Why should Carew or Calvin Griffith agree to deal with the Angels right away when New York can offer things California can't. What George wants. George gets."

"George is Yankees owner George Steinbrenner, who had some thoughts of his own about a California-Minnesota deal.

Bavasi said he believes the 6-4. 6-4. ## Ann Landers

Puzzled Spouse

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It's true. You never know a man until you live with him. I've been married two months and I'm finding out things that make me question my husband's sanity.

When he goes to bed at night, he alv. , lines up his shoes so the toes point out to form a "V." When he hangs up his trousers the cuffs must be precisely together. If one hangs half an inch longer, he fiddles around with it until it is perfect. Before he tossess his socks in the hamper he ties them together. When he turnes off the bed lamp, he always smiles at me -- even if we've just had an argument and he is in a foul mood.

I've asked him a dozen times why he does these things, and he says, "I don't know. It's just a habit, I guess." "I'm beginning to think something is mentally wrong with him. Do you have any other explanation? Is he trying to get my goat, or what? -- Puzzled Spouse

DEAR PUZZLED: Your husband's strange little habits are actually neurotic compulsions that have probably been with him for a long time. (He thinks something bad will happen to him if he doesn't go through these little rituals.)

It might take years of therapy to understand why he does these things, and actually, neurotic compulsions are harmless (though time-consuming) so long as they don't take over a rson's life. There are worse things than being smiled at by a husband who is in a foul mood. Be happy you are not married to a compulsive drinker, gambler, or woman-chaser.

DEAR ANN: Our teenage daughter had a houseguest here for one week. She left several days ago. Margie (the houseguest) was well-behaved and we enjoyed having her with us. The telephone bill arrived this The World Almanac morning, and I see charges for two long-distance calls totaling $14.50. These calls were made to a city where Margie's boyfriend is going to school. When I asked my daughter about the calls, she said she didn't know anything about them and added, "I can't imagine Margie doing such a thing."

What should be done? Should our daughter be made to pay for her friend's long-distance telephone calls? We've agreed to abide by your decision. -- Wires Crossed

DEAR CROSSED: Your daughter should ask her friend about the calls. Margie should reimburse you. If she doesn't, she should not be invited back. I don't feel that it would be fair to make your daughter pay this bill. She should not be held responsible for her girlfriend's lack of integrity.

DEAR ANN: Do you have enough clout with the newspaper to get them to quit printing the bride's picture in the newspaper? Everybody knows what the bride looks like -- what they really want to see is the guy she is marrying.

Please suggest to the newspapers around the country that it would make a lot more sense to run the picture of the guy than the gal. You could start a terrific trend, Ann. -- Wanted -- New Faces

DEAR WANTED: I'm a little long on trends at the moment, but your suggestion makes a lot of sense.

I suspect most guys would be a little reluctant, but maybe if their sweethearts asked them to, they'd go along.

Robert Rauschenberg was a struggling painter in the late 1950s, a collector of "pop" art bought one of his works for $960 and resold it later for $85,000. The collector made a profit of 8.754 percent in the resale. "I've worked my tail off for you to make all this profit." the painter heatedly, and publicly, told him right after the auction. That has long been a problem for artists, but now hundreds of them are supporting a proposal to change their finances by guaranteeing them royalties much like those which writers and composers get.

These artists, both struggling and successful, say it is only right that they get a share of the profits from the resale of their work.

California Rep. Henry A. Waxman is proposing that Congress pass a law to do just that, but there is a major problem. He says the "full support of dealers, collectors and others who would be paying royalties on visual art." is needed for congressional appro-

The California law, which dates to 1976, entitles an artist to collect 5 percent of the price of "a registered work which was profitably resold at over

The artists' argument is that their work is a commodity and should be treated as such. They want to sell art works as they would novels if they were writers - with a contract.

Even without a law, Judy Pendleton, an artist who heads a New York City-based group called the Artist Rights' Association, has begun selling her paintings with a contract entitling her to a share of resale profits. She claims that "it hasn't proven to be a hindrance in selling my work" - and that she has received 500 request for a copy of the so-called agreement.

A couple of years ago, her 14-member group held two shows in which buyers had to sign the contract. Since then, 18 more artists have joined the group, and the member plan another exhibit next spring. Once more, they will sell only to those who agree to the contract.

But if economic justice is the aim, a Visual Arts federal law wouldn't fully solve the problem, says Ralph Colin, president of New York's Art Dealers Association. He claims that only a third of the 30,000 new artists emerging every year in America are successful enough to dictate the price of their work.

Texas Leads

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong reported a survey of states receiving income from lease of state lands shows Texas led the nation in 1978 with $400 million in oil and gas royalties, bonuses and rentals.

Armstrong prepared the survey for presentation at a meeting of western state land commissioners.

Texas received $261 million in oil and gas royalties from production on stateowned lands last year, $6 million in other mineral royalties, $93 million in bonuses paid by oil and gas companies to obtain leases on state lands, and $8 million for oil and gas rentals of state lands.

Other states with major revenues from oil and gas production on state lands were Alaska, with $180 million; California with $97 million and Louisiana with $201 million.

Lost interest in sex

DEAR DR. LAMB Please help me. I am a 55year-old woman and just passed the menopause which I got through very easily. My problem is I have lost complete interest in sex. This has been happening for the last two to three years, but now it has gotten worse. My husband is a year younger than I and he is still very active - maybe more so. My obstetrician shrugs his shoulders and says this his shoulders and says this happens when women get this age. My internist is more interested and prescribed an estrogen ointment which did help with discomfort that I was experiencing, but it didn't help improve my sex drive.

My husband is becoming more and more discouraged as am I. He is not unfaithful to me but I wouldn't blame him if he was. I am sure he feels like he's making love to a broom stick. I can't believe that at age 55 my sex drive should be completely gone. We've always enjoyed a good sex life and I want it to be that way again. I have talked to a couple of friends of mine my age and they don't seem to be having this problem. Is there any hormone I could take that would help? At one time during my menopause I took estrogen tablets but gave them up because of the cancer scare. My husband says he is beginning to think it's all in my mind, but I can't buy this. I miss the feeling as much as he does.

Please give me some advice. I don't want to take anything that would give me cancer but, at this point, I am desperate enough to try anything that will help. DEAR READER — I'm sure you are distressed and there are a number of women in your age group who have similar problems. When sex goes out the window, that doesn't mean people stop loving each other. There is more to love than that. Certainly after a long marriage, as you apparently have had, marriage has been built on besides just sex. I will have to tell you that the loss of interest in sex in mid-life is a symptom. The next step is finding out why. The middle years is a time when many people have a depression. If you are depressed, you may not realize it yourself. A lot of people have a misconception about depression and think it means you have to sit there in a chair almost immobile or with tears streaming down your cheeks. Depressions can masquerade in many forms. I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-10, Depression: The Ups And Downs Of Life. It will give you a better idea about this. Loss of interest in sex in both men and women is frequently a symptom of a

I don't know whether you have a depression or not. It is certainly one of the possi-bilities that shouldn't be left out. If you do, it doesn't mean that you can control it, either. It more likely would mean that you could use some professional help to get you through this phase of life and regain your former vim and vigor. vim and vigor.

I also don't know whether you are low on hormones or not. You need tests to find out. If you are, hormone replacement with a proper cycle of withdrawing the hormones for one week out of four might be very useful. The fact that estrogen oint-ments helped suggests that you might be low on hor-
