

Hereford School Board Incumbents Re-Elected

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

If the Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees looks familiar, it's only because the seven newly-elected members have survived a lawsuit, an attack from the federal government, a forced special election and a state nepotism statute.

Saturday, four incumbents—James Gentry, Clark Andrews, Mack Tubb and Jim Arney—were elected from a slate of seven candidates in a special election, bringing to six the number of trustees who have been re-elected in the past month.

And, if you count Paul Ramirez, the seventh trustee, the board is exactly the same as it was this time last year. Ramirez last year was elected to an unexpired one-year term, but had to resign because of a state nepotism law. His wife, the law said, must not have worked in the school system for less than two years.

On Saturday, 2,162 voted—the second largest turnout in Hereford school board history. Gentry received 1,717 voted in the at-large election, Andrews 1,706, Tubb 1,682 and Arney 1,681. The losers were Ernestina Tijerina 339, Sylvia Mae Wallace 327 and Elida Alonzo 307.

A federal three-judge panel in March at Dallas agreed with a lawsuit filed by Texas Rural Legal Aid for three Deaf Smith County Mexican-Americans that Gentry, Andrews, Tubb and Arney were illegal trustees since they were elected under the place system.

Therefore, the judges said, a special election was necessary for the four trustee places.

The U.S. Department of Justice won a courtroom battle against the Hereford school board last year after it refused to accept the local place system, stating the procedure might be discriminatory to minority voters and candidates.

On April 7 in an election the judges did not change, incumbents David Hutchins and Sallie Strain were elected to full three-year terms. Paul Ramirez regained his seat, again filling an unexpired one-year term.

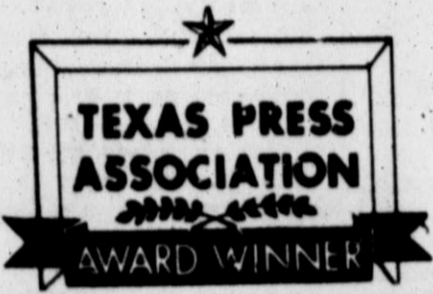

In that election, there were 88 absentee votes and 2,005 total ballots cast. Saturday, there were 148 absentee votes included in the total.

The school board will meet at 8 p.m. tonight to canvass election returns, swear in the four trustees who won seats Saturday and elected board officers.

Lots will be drawn by the four winners to determine their terms on the board. Three two-year terms and one for a single year will be drawn, in accordance with another ruling by the federal judges.

The drawing will allow the school board to maintain its staggered-term setup. Gentry, Arney and Andrews would have had two years remaining on the board, while Tubb would have had one more year.

Showers Soak Dryland Wheat

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Those April showers, although late in coming, fell nonetheless Monday night, following the suit of the song that made them famous on the final night of their namesake month.

Widespread moisture which fell over the county Monday night will likely have local dryland farmers singing too, as meaningful moisture has virtually assured a dryland wheat harvest for this summer.

Monday's thundershowers proved heaviest in the area where they were most needed, on the sprawling dryland wheat farms across the county's western sector.

Accumulations of up to an inch were reported from the dryland country, while reports of .50 inches and upward were received from virtually every side of Hereford.

Monday's showers were icing on the cake after a brief downpour Saturday evening drenched an isolated area of Hereford with up to an inch of moisture.

Other rainfall reports from Saturday's storm were skimpy.

The Walcott headquarters of the John Frank Martin farm reported the best accumulation of moisture from last night's showers.

A farm spokesman indicated that an

George To Leave HHS for Plainview

Jerry Don George, Hereford High School principal for the last 10 years, submitted his resignation to Superintendent Harrell Holder Monday, effective July 1, after accepting the principalship at Plainview High School.

George, at Plainview, will replace Bob Henry, who is going to Carlsbad, N.M., as high school principal.

George, who has worked in the Hereford Independent School District for 21 years, called the change "an opportunity for advancement."

George added: "The opportunities for further advancement are great. Some day a person just has to make a professional move. It's a gamble and a very, very difficult decision to make."

"Professionally, we just feel like we need to make a change at this time. This was difficult to decide because we've been in this community for 21 years, and we think Hereford is the best place to live anywhere around. Hereford will always be dear to us."

George said Hereford "is blessed" by the high school teaching staff.

George came to Hereford in 1958 as high school baseball and assistant football coach. In 1959, he and Alex Glass was transferred to Stanton Junior High to build a sports program. George was promoted to assistant principal at Stanton in 1961 and served for three years.

He was LaPlata Junior High's first principal, serving in that capacity for three years, before becoming assistant superintendent in 1969. When high school principal Bill Michaels moved to Belton, George accepted a temporary position as high school principal. Shortly thereafter, he accepted the job on a permanent basis.

George and his wife Sue have two sons, Mitchell, a freshman at West Texas State University, and Steve, a seventh-grader at La Plata; and a daughter, Monica, a Hereford High sophomore.

Holder was out of town and unavailable for comment this morning.

Band, Orchestra To Play in Arizona Music Festival

Hereford High School's bands and orchestra, back from the Greater Southwest Music Festival in Amarillo, will leave for Tempe, Ariz., Wednesday night for the Mountain State Musical Festival, which has attracted entrants from all over the Southwest.

The festival will begin Thursday and continue through Saturday. The HHS orchestra and symphonic band will compete in the large-school division, while the concert band will play in the No. 2 band division.

In the Greater Southwest Music Festival last week, the symphonic band received a II rating in concert and II in sight-reading. Ratings were from I, the highest, to V.

The Hereford orchestra received a II in concert and did not compete in sight-reading. The concert band earned a I in concert.

The Hereford mixed choir earned a III, the girls' choir a II, and the boys' choir a II.

The symphonic band presented a concert for the Hereford Rotary Club as practice for the Arizona festival.

Carter Defends SALT Importance

WASHINGTON (AP) President Carter says, if the Soviet Union violates a treaty to limit nuclear weapons, it might very well escalate into a nuclear confrontation.

Other consequences of Soviet cheating, Carter said Monday at a news conference, might include U.S. nullification of the treaty and termination of "the good relationship" between the two countries.

The president's remarks were offered in defense of the nearly-completed treaty to limit U.S. and Soviet long-range

Allsup's Hit

By Robbers

Two Mexican or Mexican-American males, one with a burlap bag over his head and the other with a paper sack, used a baseball bat and pocketknife to rob Allsup's Convenience Store No. 114, on the corner of S. Main and Austin Rd., early Monday morning.

An undetermined amount of cash was taken in the 2:15 a.m. robbery, police said.

The store clerk told police that the two males, described as about 5-feet, 7-inches, 125 to 135 pounds and 17 to 20 years old. One wore blue jeans and a blue T-shirt, and the other had on light-colored pants and a tan cotton shirt.

The men told the clerk they wanted "all the money" in the cash register. When she told them to get it themselves, they opened the register, took the money and fled the store. The clerk told police the pair jumped over a fenced on the north side of the building.

Police said today they have no suspects bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said they also were intended as a public warning to the Kremlin.

However, Carter gave no indication he expects the Russians to cheat. And he reiterated his confidence in U.S. means of verifying Soviet compliance "to our complete satisfaction."

Critics of the treaty have doubted both Soviet intentions and U.S. monitoring ability, particularly with the closing of two bases in Iran that gave the United States a ringside view of Soviet missile launchings.

Carter acknowledged "there are limits on what we can do." But he said the Soviets are aware of the risks of violating the treaty and that this lends "an element of stability and rationality" to the pursuit of weapons controls.

The Senate has the power to kill the treaty, with 34 negative votes. The administration needs the nod of at least 67 of the 100 senators for ratification.

On other subjects, Carter:

Said the swap of two Soviets convicted of spying in the U.S. for five Soviet dissidents was a fair exchange. "We've not forgotten any human rights activists in the Soviet Union who is being punished or is in prison," he said.

Said he would welcome a move by Congress to stiffen his proposed special tax on additional revenue earned by oil companies under price decontrol and urged Congress to approve his standby gasoline rationing plan, saying: "We must be prepared for the worst. We face the possibility of gasoline shortages as early as this summer."

In his news conference, Carter defended his decision to decontrol domestic oil production and criticized as "just a lot of baloney" a claim by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that the decision amounted to surrender to the oil industry.

The Branding Iron

Her Agency Caters to Travel-Minded Folks

By PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

Joan Coupe's job allows her to travel. In fact, she considers visiting far-away places absolutely necessary.

"I've got to go and check all these places out," said Mrs. Coupe, who runs the Hereford Travel, 144 W. 2nd.

Since she opened the travel agency in 1976, Mrs. Coupe has visited French Morocco; Lisbon, Portugal; London; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Santiago, Chile; Mexico (several cities there); and numerous spots in the United States.

"I travel to these places so I can recommend them to customers. I wouldn't want to send someone with an active night life to some dull city in Mexico where they don't do anything at night," she said.

Mrs. Coupe, a member of the American Society of Travel Agents, said her agency is responsible for securing airline tickets, setting up cruises and tours, car rentals, hotel reservations and passport applications. Services do not cost the customer extra.

"We just arrange all sorts of travel—domestic and international. I think this type of service is important in Hereford because Hereford people like to travel. They travel a lot because our median age is so young. And we have a lot of commercial travelers, our businessmen," she said.

Mrs. Coupe took a correspondence course from North American School of Travel, located in California, in 1976 when Hereford didn't have a travel agency. While she was taking the course, four out-of-town men opened the Hereford Travel Center.

"It didn't bother me, even though I was planning to open one myself. I didn't think an outsider could make it go," she said.

It didn't go, and Mrs. Coupe bought the center. In her first year, it didn't pay its way.

"It's paying its bills now," she said. "We're not making much money, but Hereford is supporting us."

Mrs. Coupe and husband Dick, a cattle buyer, have lived in Hereford since 1966, moving from Profitstown, Ill. Though she has a midwest accent, Mrs. Coupe was born and raised in the Canadian province of Saskatchewan. She lived there until

Limited Draft Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed renewal of a limited draft lost its first vote in Congress in a House subcommittee Monday, but proposed renewal of draft registration for young men was easily approved.

The House military personnel subcommittee rejected 5-4 a proposal by Rep. G.V. Montgomery, D-Miss., to draft up to 200,000 young men a year into the Individual Ready Reserve.

But it approved by voice vote a proposal to require young men turning 18 years of age after Dec. 31, 1980, to register in case a draft is ever reinstated for a war or other national emergency.

The subcommittee's proposal would register only young men, but it would require the president to report back recommendations on how the registration should be conducted and whether women should have to register as well. The legislation also would require the president to report back to Congress whether he believes young men should be drafted into the Individual Ready Reserve.

In arguing for the limited draft, Montgomery said the reserves have only 200,000 of the 700,000 people they want. "There is a need and if there is a need the time is to do it now," Montgomery said.

But several other members said that although they agreed that some sort of draft might be needed in the future, it would not be realistic to try to get Congress to approve it now.

After voting down the draft plan, the panel turned to a related proposal to revive draft registration.

Although its numbers are small, the subcommittee's decision will influence its parent Armed Services Committee's recommendation and that panel in turn will influence the full House's eventual decision.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have called for only renewing draft registration — not to increase numbers of people in the military but to increase the speed with which they could be called in a war or emergency.

International Holiday Celebrated Today

By The Associated Press An ailing Leonid Brezhnev climbed slowly up the steps of the Lenin Mausoleum at May Day festivities in Moscow today as his Chinese rivals called for belt-tightening. Moslem revolutionaries celebrated their victory in Iran and other nations' workers marched on their international holiday.

An official on Brezhnev's left escorted the 72-year-old Soviet president up the stairs of the mausoleum in Red Square, but it was not possible to see whether the escort actually helped the Kremlin leader make the climb.

Soviet television, which broadcast the parade live, did not zoom in on Brezhnev going up the steps of the mausoleum as it usually does. Brezhnev has had difficulty walking in recent appearances and an aide usually is nearby to help him.

During last week's summit with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, Brezhnev was markedly less vigorous and alert than ever in his up-and-down health history.

Brezhnev and other Politburo leaders wore hats and topcoats against overcast skies and intermittent drizzles today. The Soviet leader waved to the crowd, estimated at 100,000, which cheered for at least 90 seconds when he arrived.

Clear Lake Fights To Avoid Annexation

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Residents of suburban Clear Lake City thought they had won the fight two years ago to avoid being annexed by Houston.

The 1977 Legislature passed a law allowing the community to incorporate. Before it could act, Houston reached out and annexed the suburb.

Clear Lake City residents are again before the Legislature trying to escape Houston. And Houston is fighting back.

"This would be a dangerous precedent," Steve Oaks, lawyer for the city of Houston, told the Senate Economic Development Committee on Monday.

"This does in fact have statewide impact," said Oaks, former secretary of state. "Others will find ways to escape the financial burdens of a large metropolitan city."

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, told the committee that Clear Lake City was a "planned community" that grew up around the National Aeronautics and Space Administration manned spacecraft complex.

Houston thwarted the will of Clear Lake City residents two years ago, he added.

The committee voted 4-1 to send the House-passed bill to a subcommittee.

Mayor Suspends City Official

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Mayor Jim McConn said Monday he had asked suspended City Purchasing Director Jack Key for help in arranging a $6,000 loan to cover Las Vegas gambling debts.

But, McConn told newsmen the money had nothing to do with federal extortion charges recently filed against Key.

The first-term mayor said he was in debt $3,200 by shooting dice and playing blackjack during a homebuilders convention in January and called Key for help. He said he asked for $6,000 to cover his debt and to provide money in an effort to recoup the losses.

McConn said within two hours Key had instructions for him to go to a hotel cashier and get the money.

Key was charged recently with asking a tire repair company owner who does business with the city for $6,000 in kickback money.

The contractor notified the FBI and Key was arrested.

After an appearance before a federal grand jury, McConn told a news conference, "I don't think I have done anything, except perhaps commit an indiscretion in my personal life. ... I'm embarrassed. If any one of you have ever gone anywhere and lost money, you know you feel like an idiot after it's happened. And I felt like an idiot when it was over."

4 Oil Companies Receive Indictments

HOUSTON (AP) — Four oil companies and five individuals have been indicted on charges of selling oil at higher new oil prices and U.S. Attorney Tony Canales says more indictments will follow in the continuing investigation.

The federal grand jury panel charged Thomas M. "Mick" Hajecate, Thomas H. "Tom" Hajecate, Charles R. Akin, R. Stanley Corbett and John Allen Masek with conspiring to violate the federal racketeering law and acquiring millions of dollars in illegal profits.

The men were charged Monday, along with Uni Oil Inc., Houston, The Crude Co., Casper, Wyo., and Mid-Atlantic Petroleum Co. Ltd. MAPCO and H.C. Iran Ltd. of Grand Cayman Island with mail fraud and making false statements to the Energy Department.

The indictments, which followed an extensive FBI investigation, alleged the Hajecates and Akin, through Uni Oil, sold oil at a higher new oil price of $8.4 million to MAPCO, which resold the oil to Masek and Crude for $9.2 million.

Masek and Crude sold one-half old and one-half new oil at a new oil price of $43.5 million to MAPCO and H.C. Iran, which resold the oil to Corbett and International Petroleum Trading Co. IPTCO for $47.8 million, the indictment also alleges.

AUSTIN — After sometimes petty, sometimes passionate debate, the Texas House this week passed a beefed-up version, at least where salaries are concerned, of a state budget.

The price tag on the House spending plan for 1980-81 is $20.3 billion. Gov. Bill Clements says that's about $600 million too much. House members increased various salaries by almost $200 million. Clements had made it clear long before the House began its work that he was against many of those pay hikes.

It took the House four days and part of a fifth to "finish the initial step in the appropriations process that now moves on to the Senate. Afterwards, the budget will probably be hammered out in a conference committee, and then, the governor must approve it.

Acting as if they didn't know Clements had threatened to veto teacher pay hikes that exceeded 5.1 percent, House members voted teachers a 7 percent raise for 1980 and 1981, on top of step increases. That amounts to a 20 percent increase in pay for teachers over the next two years. Teachers say that will just about keep them up with the inflation rate.

The House also approved raises for Department of Public Safety troopers (40 percent), state employees who make less than $20,000-a-year (seven percent), district "babies," and that lawmakers should do their duty and vote without waiting to see what he will do if the bill reaches his desk.

From now on, Clements seemed to be saying, lawmakers would no longer have advance notice of how the governor would act regarding certain pieces of legislation. "We are not going to play this game that way," Clements declared.

The way the Senate was playing this week left the governor with little to cheer about. Senators rejected attempts to bring up legislation that would have given Clements budgetary powers. Senators opposing the bill said it would have given the governor the power to almost rewrite the budget. Opposition forces were quick to point out that the Senate also refused to give such powers to Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Wiretap Bill

Wiretap legislation that Clements supports emerged from a Senate subcommittee this week even though the bill's author had pronounced the legislation "dead" only a week before. The bill would legalize electronic surveillance in hard drug cases. Sen. Ed Howard, sponsor of the wiretap legislation, appeared to have the votes necessary to move the measure out of the Jurisprudence

Bailey County law enforcement units were dispatched to an area seven to 15 miles south of Muleshoe where residents reported the damage. They could not reach the area because the roads were heavily coated with hail and standing water.

DPS units stopped traffic near Needmore and the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge, while sheriff's officers, fire department personnel and county employees cleared the roads.

Vehicles stalled along Texas 214 and several farm-to-market roads, said Cleve Bland, Bailey County civil defense spokesman. The thunderstorms cropped up in West Texas Monday night and moved easterly.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were issued Monday night for portions of Northwest Texas and early this morning for portions of North Central Texas.

Rainfall amounts across Texas Monday night and this morning ranged from .01 of an inch at Del Rio to .21 at Lubbock, although a widespread area just south of Lubbock reported rainfall in excess of an inch.

Cloudy skies covered Texas early today. Fog reduced visibility to two miles in the Panhandle and in portions of South Texas. Predawn temperatures ranged from the 50s in the Panhandle to the middle 70s in far West Texas and in the lower Rio Grande Valley.

The National Weather Service predicted afternoon highs would be in the 70s and 80s for most of Texas and in the 90s in the Big Bend.

inch of precipitation was recorded, with a light shower also received in that vicinity on Saturday.

"We were really beginning to worry about the wheat crop," said a spokesman for the farm, located three miles north and one mile west of the Walcott School.

"This rainfall should put us in pretty good shape. We might cut some 10 to 15 bushel wheat this summer with this moisture, and the harvest could be even better if we get some additional rainfall," he continued.

In the far northwestern stretches of the county, near the New Mexico border, Clint Homfeld reported that his farm, 47 miles northwest of Hereford received .80 inches of rainfall last night.

A sprinkle was also recorded at the Homfeld farm for Saturday, and with recent favorable rainfall in that region, the wheat crop should be standing in good condition to yield favorably.

The Bruce Coleman farm at Walcott reported .70 inches of precipitation.

Rainfall for the county's dryland wheat crop has proven particularly timely, as moisture stress had begun to set in and the vast wheat acreage was rapidly approaching a now-or-never situation where moisture was concerned.

A spokesman for Westway Fertilizer reported only .20 inches of rainfall accumulated in that area last night, but that community and its farmlands received nearly .50 inches Saturday.

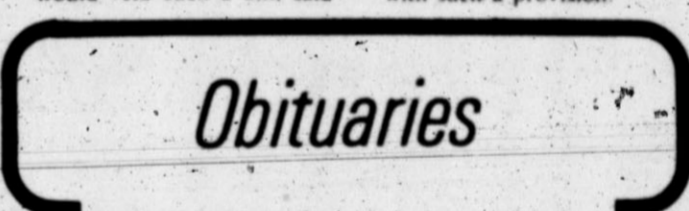

Rainfall picked up to the north of Hereford as well, with Northwest Grain, west of Farmer's Corner reporting .70 inches of rainfall from last night's storm and an additional .50 inches which fell Saturday, for an appreciable 1.20 inch total.

Pioneer Fertilizer recorded a rainfall total of .90 inches since Saturday, with a .30 inches falling last night.

Sam Nunnally of Hereford will address the Young Farmers on the grain reserve program and the bearing it has on modern farmers.

May Fellowship Day To Be Celebrated

Church Women United will celebrate May Fellowship Day on Friday, May 4 with a service at First United Methodist Church, with guest speaker The Rev. Charles Threewit. The program will be given by the Episcopal Church Women.

A covered dish luncheon will be held at 12 p.m. A nursery will be provided and all church persons are urged to attend.

The needs and rights of children are the focus of the May Fellowship Day celebration: "Our Children: Our Promise." The United Nations has proclaimed 1979 International Year of the Child, during which many nations are examining their programs for children in light of the UN Declaration of the Rights of the Child.

Concern for children and for family stability has long been a priority for Church Women United. This concern surfaced most recently in the 1976 People's Platform for a Global Society which incorporated priority issues from the 2,000 local units of Church Women United all over the country. The Platform reads: "A concern for the plight of children and the elderly is at the base of the family stability planks. Child-care facilities which provide a comprehensive learning experience for children are positive indications of our commitment to the future. The increase in single-parent households and in families where both parents work makes the establishment of child-care facilities a pressing need."

Church Women United has sponsored May Fellowship Day since 1933. Each year the theme stresses the promotion of creative and healing relationships in every community. This year's May Fellowship Day celebration will call participants to consider the needs of children in local communities and to become advocates for children in this country as well as overseas.

The expression, "to rain cats and dogs," originated in 17th-century England, where dead animals would clutter up the gutters after a cloudburst.

Preparing For Celebration

Church Women United will be celebrating May Fellowship Day Friday, May 4 with a service at First United Methodist Church, with guest speaker The Rev. Charles Threewit. Looking over a few of the plans are left, Louise Roberson, president of Church Women United and the Rev. Charles Threewit.

Ann Landers

Eating Habits

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you ran a letter about some children whose mother forced them to eat. I agreed with your answer and would like to relate my own experience in the hope that such parents might realize the lifelong anxieties they may be instilling in their children.

When I was four, my mother made me sit at the table until I finished everything on my plate. Many times I spent hours in the dining room facing cold food. When we ate in a restaurant, I was yelled at and punished when I didn't clean my plate. I vividly recall the times I vomited after forcing myself to eat so as not to be "bad" or "waste food." ("There are children starving in India.")

I am not in my 20s and have a fear of food -- fretful that if I eat I'll vomit.

I tried therapy only once. The therapist told me my problems are not rooted in my childhood but in my teen years when the symptoms first became apparent. He refused to let me explain in detail what I'd been through, so I never went back. The problems are still there but I'm trying to overcome them alone. Any suggestions?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In every field you will find competent and incompetent people. Unfortunately your first therapist was a lemon. For heaven's sake don't give up. Find yourself another therapist and work at getting well.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It blows my mind that I am writing to Ann Landers. I never thought it would happen to me, but sooner or later you get us all.

I'm a 22-year-old male whose best friend married five months ago. Since their wedding I have been a house guest several times. They live about 40 miles from here. I find myself strongly attracted to the young bride. I'm afraid it's blossoming into something more than friendship.

Last weekend we went for a walk. I confessed that I was falling in love with her. She said the feeling was mutual. We are both concerned about this attraction we seem to have for one another and would like your advice. -- Feeling Guilty

DEAR F.G.: My advice is to visit the newlyweds a lot less often -- and stay in a nearby hotel or motel. If you are not dating a few women in your own town, I strongly recommend it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read in your column about that man Mr. Eugene Jerome Dupuis Jr. in Tulsa, who named all his six children Eugene Jerome Dupuis Jr., just to prove YOU were wrong. (Apparently he wrote to you several years ago and asked if he could name both his newborn twins sons, "Jr." You replied, "Sorry, only one Jr. to a family." The man's wife has since had four more children, three of them girls. They are ALL named Eugene Jerome Dupuis Jr.)

Didn't that father consider the confusion in birth records, social security numbers, marriage certificates, bank obligations, bills, newspaper and magazine subscriptions, etc.? How can the government permit such foolishness? -- Googled-Eyed In Garden City

DEAR GOOGLED: Thank the good Lord the government CAN'T tell us what to name our children. They are telling us enough already. Mr. Eugene Jerome Dupuis, is within his legal rights. I agree, however, that his children are going to face some difficulties later in life.

EVENTS IN PROGRESS FOR UPCOMING 4-H ROUNDUP

Fun, meeting people, and sharing ideas are all a part of the annual State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University. And 4-Hers in Deaf Smith County are working hard to prepare for qualification for the event to be held June 5-6.

Roundup includes a number of "show and tell" activities or method demonstrations and illustrated talks, judging, speaking, share-the-fun, and food show. The second annual State 4-H Project Show will also be held in conjunction with Roundup.

Each Extension district throughout Texas has a District 4-H Roundup during the spring. For seniors (14 and older), winners are selected to participate in the state roundup.

4-Hers gain in communication skills by learning how to get up in front of an audience and present information or talent with the audience. Organizing information to present to an audience can be a great help not only in 4-H but in school, business, or at work.

Through "show and tell" 4-Hers help others to learn skills that they know how to do themselves. Boys and girls can share their talents or ideas gained in 4-H with other civic or community organizations.

Older 4-Hers often have an opportunity to gain leadership experience. In turn, they help younger 4-Hers develop their "show and tell" or prepare for other events and activities.

It's a big help for younger 4-Hers to be involved in Roundup activities at an early age. In addition to gaining experience and self-confidence, they also have an opportunity to participate in contests at county and district levels.

Become involved in 4-H Roundup today. Contact the county Extension office to learn more about the many opportunities for 4-Hers to participate in 37 different categories.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

We can now report that the child-proof caps on aspirin bottles are a success. The rate of headaches among adults has never been higher.

Toddlers saw the caps for what they were... a challenge to their dexterity. They regarded them much as they regarded Daddy's camera, where you twist a dial, the back falls off, and the exposed film wriggles all over the floor. And we all know what a good time they had with Daddy's camera.

The statistics are now in. In 1979, 35,000 toddlers assisted adults in getting the caps off the aspirin bottles (of this number 15,000 of them were rent-a-toddlers who were hired by the elderly).

Sixty-five thousand adults despaired and turned to bottles with the traditional twist tops which resulted in bigger headaches.

A whopping 85,000 adults simply learned to live with pain. The child-proof cap has been a real breakthrough in child ingenuity. I think we can do more. We used to have a small dog and when we threw him a rubber toy hermetically sealed and encased in a waterproof, airtight, perma-plastic card, we would set our watch to see how many seconds it took for him to not only open the package, but to remove the whistle from the toy. That little devil worked his way down to 12 seconds.

The point is, toddlers are now ready for the big time. They're ready for combs contained in plastic bubbles and lunch meat that can be opened and resealed simply by "peeling back the flap with your fingernail."

"They're ready for bags of dog food that you open by simply pulling a string, and tin lids of cough drops that you open by "pressing firmly on the top with your thumb."

Maybe not today or tomorrow, but sometime soon, toddlers may be able to open bacon for us, or a canned ham with a key that breaks off halfway around. Or possible a box of soap powder where you push your thumb in at the dotted line.

Children have brought a new meaning to all of our lives. How do you spell relief in this country? K-I-D-S!

Misses Mitts, Warden Crowned

Pageant Reaches Feverish Pitch

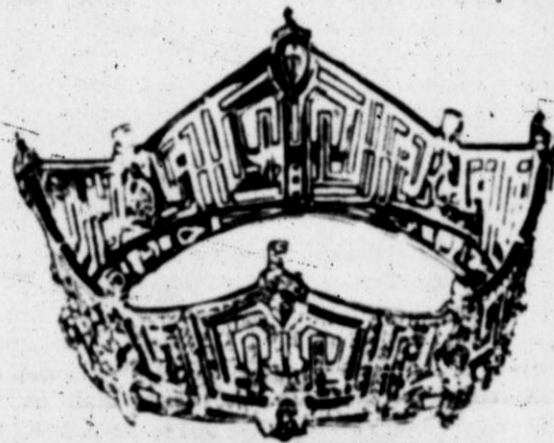

The prized title of Miss Congeniality was awarded in both the Miss Hereford and Miss Teen divisions of Saturday's pageant. The honor goes to the girls who were most cooperative and helpful during the pageant preparations. Miss Congeniality is chosen by the pageant entrants themselves. Receiving the honor in the Miss Hereford category was Joni Webb, left. Miss Teen contestants chose Sheri Whitaker as their Miss Congeniality.

The opening number of the Miss Hereford Pageant was a disco dance routine, which brought alive the theme of "Saturday Night Fever." All 26 Miss Hereford and Miss Teen entrants participated in this production number amidst an appropriate decor of mirrored disco balls, strobe lighting and glistening drapes.

In fashionable disco attire, several of the pageant contestants line up for the judges' scrutiny during Saturday night's competition. This was the eighth consecutive year for the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division to sponsor a Miss Hereford-Miss Teen Pageant. This year's scholarships totaled $1,200.

MISS HEREFORD 1979
Lynn Mitts

Bearing roses and trophies, the three top competitors in the Miss Teen category are seen after the pageant's conclusion Saturday evening. Diane Warden, at center, captured the Teen title and a scholarship of $150. At left is first runner-up Brenda Brown, who will receive a $100 scholarship. Also shown is the second runner-up Linda Walker, winning a $50 scholarship.

By accident, The Brand photographer caught the three top winners in the Miss Hereford division during the swimsuit competition Saturday night. Seen in the background are strobe lights and reflective foil, which lent to the disco atmosphere created by Kathryn Kester and her granddaughter, Mrs. Chris White.

In a climactic moment, Lynn Mitts is named winner of the 1979 Miss Hereford crown, which was transferred from the brow of the reigning queen, Cindy Heard. Lynn is the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Mitts.

Incarceration Changed

WASHINGTON (AP) - A unanimous Supreme Court ruled Monday that an individual may be committed involuntarily to a mental institution without showing "beyond a reasonable doubt" that he is insane and a danger to himself and the community.

A Texas mental patient asked the court to adopt that standard, which normally is reserved for criminal cases and places the greatest burden on officials to prove their case.

At the same time, taking a middle ground, the high court rejected a standard used by the Texas Supreme Court which made it easier for state officials to commit a person for treatment of mental illness. The state court had held that the standard of proof should be a "preponderance of the evidence."

In an 8-2 decision, Chief Justice Warren Burger said an acceptable standard - a middle course - would be that involuntary incarceration be based on "clear and convincing evidence," or other similar approaches.

In considering the appeal of Frank O'Neal Addington, Burger said: "The subtleties and nuances of psychiatric diagnosis render certainties virtually beyond reach in most situations."

"Given the lack of certainty and the fallibility of psychiatric diagnosis, there is a serious question as to whether a state could ever prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that an individual is both mentally ill and likely to be dangerous."

Monday's decision left little hope that Addington will be freed until state officials decide to release him.

Burger said the reasonable doubt standard was restricted to criminal cases, where, he maintained, a mistaken conviction was more serious.

A mental patient is under constant review by doctors and "the concern of family and friends generally will provide continuous opportunities for an erroneous commitment to be corrected," said Burger.

"Moreover, it is not true that the release of a genuinely mentally ill person is no worse for the individual than the failure to convict the guilty," he said. "One who is suffering from a debilitating mental illness and in need of treatment is neither wholly at liberty nor free of stigma."

Addington had a history of temporary commitments to mental institutions when he was arrested in December 1975 on a misdemeanor charge of threatening his mother.

After a six-day jury trial, he was committed to Austin State Hospital on the ground there was "clear, unequivocal and convincing evidence" he was insane.

The Texas Supreme Court rejected his claim that the jury should have considered whether the proof of his insanity was beyond a reasonable doubt. The court based its decision on one of its own previous rulings that "a preponderance of the evidence" standard of proof was adequate in such cases.

Burger noted that the Texas court was the only one in the nation to endorse the idea that "a preponderance of the evidence" was sufficient for involuntary commitments. Burger said this standard would violate an individual's due process rights under the Constitution.

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. did not take part in the decision for unexplained reasons.

Clements Security Increases

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Security surrounding Gov. Bill Clements has quietly doubled since he took office Jan. 16, KTBC-TV said Friday.

"That security is provided by the Department of Public Safety and is paid for by the taxpayer at a price of almost $600,000 every two years," the story said.

KTBC-TV said that sources in the governor's office say "Clements is not that security-conscious but his special assistant Alan Clark and his wife, Rita, are."

The story noted that Clements is highly visible to the public and in terms of security is vulnerable. It said several threats had been made against his life.

KTBC-TV said, without giving any names or figures for security reasons, that a full-time around-the-clock security force guards the Mansion. Some of them escort the governor when he travels.

Supreme Court Won't Consider Man's Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court refused Monday to reconsider the appeal of a Florida death row inmate who is likely to become the second U.S. prisoner executed since 1967.

The justices, without comment, denied a "petition for rehearing," submitted by John A. Spenkelink, sentenced to die in Florida's electric chair for a 1973 murder.

Spenkelink's fate now appears to rest with Florida Gov. Bob Graham. A state clemency board already has completed its review of Spenkelink's case, but Graham withheld word pending the prisoner's last bid for help from the nation's highest court.

"There is no comment on when the governor will make up his mind on this," Graham spokeswoman Jill Chamberlain said Monday. "It's his decision, and he will do it when he thinks it's appropriate."

She would not say whether Graham would wait for a decision on Spenkelink's request that the circuit court which sentenced him reduce that sentence.

The justices rejected Spenkelink's final appeal last month, and Monday's action came as no surprise. The court almost never grants requests for reconsideration.

A 30-year-old drifter from Buena Park, Calif., Spenkelink was convicted six years ago in Tallahassee, Fla., for the murder of Joseph Szymakiewicz, 43, of Detroit, who had been traveling with Spenkelink.

In all, Spenkelink made three unsuccessful appeals that reached the Supreme Court. Once, his execution was postponed only three days before he was to die.

The Supreme Court in 1976 used Florida's death penalty law, as well as laws in Georgia and Texas, to rule that capital punishment may be constitutionally imposed for convicted murderers.

Since then, 33 states have sentenced nearly 500 people to death. But only one prisoner has been executed. He was Gary Gilmore, who rather than appeal his murder conviction and sentence asked authorities to kill him. He was shot by a Utah firing squad in January 1977.

In other action, the high court:

- Struck down as unconstitutional a California property tax imposed on cargo containers owned by foreign shippers. The justices said only the federal government can regulate foreign commerce.
- Left intact the Laetrile smuggling conviction of Robert W. Bradford of California, who charged he was denied a fair trial when he was barred from presenting evidence purporting to show that the substance is beneficial to cancer patients.
- Turned down arguments by three Illinois coal miners that they suffered illegal wage losses after switching jobs to help ease the effects of black lung disease.
- Struck down rulings that forced Arkansas officials to accept grievances filed on behalf of highway department employees by their union.

Texaco Owners Gripe

BY KATHLEEN CARROLL, Associated Press Writer

Big oil companies are reporting soaring profits as gasoline prices skyrocket, but many Texaco service station operators across Texas say for them, it's tougher than ever to stay in business.

Texaco retailers complain they are having to pay higher prices for their gasoline than competitors, and some say only customer loyalty keeps them afloat in the face of the added problems of rising rents and allocation cut-backs.

Texaco wholesale distributor Thomas "Buck" Abraham agreed the situation isn't good, but he says customers don't always give the dealers a fair break.

"I don't know why everyone has to put a black hat on everybody in the oil business," he said.

Dale Maron, who runs a Texaco in Tyler says he's paying more for gasoline, but his regular customers keep him going.

"My prices are high, I'll be the first to admit it," he said. "But I've got to pass it on to the customer."

"And I'm still below ceiling," Texaco spokesman Tom Norwood in Houston admitted the company is higher in price than many competitors, but said the increases are legitimate.

"I can appreciate that they (the dealers) are unhappy," he said. "We are unhappy with the situation in that we are having to allocate our product and all the while costs are going up continually."

President Andrew Johnson pardoned all Civil War rebels in 1868.

Man Arrested For 4 Killings

"Texaco is plumb out of the ballpark," said Dave Cook, who runs a Texaco service station in Lubbock. "Their gas is so much higher, I've got a competitor who pays eight cents less a gallon than I do. I'm lucky he's a small station."

"The only people who are sticking by us are the truehearted Texaco customers plus those people who don't have much choice. Like when I'm the only station open," Cook added. "Why should they pay more for self-serve than they can for full-serve down the street? They drive on through, and I don't blame them."

"A lot of dealers figure Texaco is the first to go up and the last to come down."

Last week, Texaco reported a first-quarter net income of $137.27 million, a profit increase of 81 percent over last MARTINSVILLE, Ind. (AP) - A man free on bail on an armed robbery charge has been arrested in the strangulation of a young woman and the drowning of her three children, authorities said Monday.

Morgan County Prosecutor G. Thomas Gray said Steven Judy, 22, an Indianapolis construction worker, was being held on four preliminary counts of murder.

The bodies of Terry Lee Chasteen, 21, Indianapolis, and her children - Misty Ann, 5, Stephen, 4, and Mark, 2 - were found Saturday in a creek about 25 miles south of Indianapolis. Autopsy results on the four were scheduled for release today.

The killings were "very brutal," Morgan County Sheriff Richard Allen said. "The person who did this is an animal as far as I'm concerned."

Two unidentified persons hunting mushrooms in a heavily wooded area Saturday found the body of Mrs. Chasteen, police said. Officers said she apparently was strangled, possibly with the scarf of her work uniform that was found knotted around her neck. Investigators believe the children were held in the creek until they drowned.

Mrs. Chasteen apparently had a flat tire on Interstate 465 early Saturday as she was taking the children to a baby-sitter before going to work, said State Police Lt. Merle McKinney. He said he believed a motorist stopped to help the woman change the tire, disabled the car and then drove the victims away. The bodies were found at White Lick Creek, about 10 miles from where the car was located.

Mrs. Chasteen, a supermarket clerk, was divorced about two years ago, authorities said, and her husband is in the Navy in California.

Wanted: No-Work Jobs

Everybody should retire as actively and fruitfully as has Vermont Rostler.

Every essay he has written since his retirement eclipses in dimension most of what he wrote before.

What inspired his most recent classic was hearing these words from an economics professor at George Washington University:

"To be a busboy is an unacceptable job for a black. Blacks will not take it."

There is an understandable demand: these days for "no-work jobs."

The quest for individual recognition is not new. Generations ago the most mental and tedious craftsmanship was performed at least partly because the craftsman got to sign his name on his product.

Mechanized mass production has destroyed that incentive.

Also, it is understandable if black people, after generations of sweeping factory floors, digging ditches, bootblacking and such, now consider such chores beneath their dignity.

Also, of course, in most states one can collect as much or more after-tax income from welfare as he can from such employment.

Thus it is that young blacks and other indoctrinated students are resenting and resisting and refusing jobs that lack "dignity."

Scripture is highly repetitious with references which Carlyle distilled in a single phrase: "All work is Godly."

But many Americans are unwilling in 1979 to accept that dictum.

Now onto the American scene moves a tide of Mexican migratory workers willing to work.

They will perform stoop labor on farms, household chores, despite language handicaps they'll work as busboys, dishwashers and floor sweepers.

They will do this less-than-dignified work in preference to loafing on welfare because of tax factors.

- 1- They are grateful to escape the 50 percent unemployment poverty of their homeland.
- 2- They have been indoctrinated for generations with pride in self-sufficiency. In Mexico no work is ignoble.

The poorest Mexican - exceptions notwithstanding - takes pride in his labor.

Unfortunately, our welfare system which tends to reward idleness may indoctrinate the next generation with another perspective. But for now Mexican immigrants generally tend to derive self-pride from self-sufficiency, at whatever kind of job.

There are enough jobs to employ everybody in the United States.

Our economy has created 3.5 million new jobs in the past 12 months.

But among teen-agers the unemployment rate is 15 percent, among black teen-

May Fems Dominate PJHAL Track

By MARC HERRING

The La Plata Maverick girls dominated the Panhandle Junior High Athletic League's district track meet over the weekend, winning two of the three team titles.

The seventh grade fems, using its quality and depth, placed itself firmly in the top spot with a team total of 132 points, with second place coming a distant 116 1/2.

The Mavs won five events and had double finishes in five events to secure the district crowns. First places were collected by Paula Mason in the 440, Dana Cabiness in the 220, Sheri Templeton in the triple jump and double wins in the shot and discus by Laura Thomas.

The three relay teams were second each time, with Paige Phillips, Mason, Templeton, and Cabiness taking the honors in the sprint relay, Phillips, Lori Walterscheid, Templeton and Cabiness in the 880 baton event and Phillips, Maria Carline, Walterscheid and Mason in the mile relay.

The Maverick eighth grader were not to be outdone by their younger classmates as they also won their division, reaping 121 1/2 points to outdistance Plainview's second place finish of 93 1/2.

Relay team members included Jana Morgan, Kari Walterscheid, Dede Dobbins and Michelle Osborn in the sprint event, while in the 880 Sara Martinez and Allyson Thomas joined Dobbins and Osborn to turn the two lap relay with a time of 1:58.6. Laura Kosub won her specialty, the mile, in a time of 6:18.1 and Dobbins took top honors in the 100 with a clocking of 11.9.

The only firsts captured by the ninth grade team were by Deborah Rogers in the 100 and 220 dashes. Christie Arthro finished less than a half second behind Rogers in the 220 to hold second place.

The other seconds on the team were in the high jump by Straffuss and the sprint relay team consisting of Delynn Dickerson, Arthro, Sandy Brownlow and Rogers.

The boys side of the track meet at Borger had the ninth grade finish in fifth, the eighth in fourth and the seventh in second.

The freshman boys did not secure any firsts but collected three seconds enroute to their team total of 52 points. Joe Soliz was second in the 880 with a time of 2:10 and Rodolfo Carasco took second in the mile with a time of 5:00. The other second was in high jump as Bruce Clark leaped 5-10 for the silver medal.

The freshmen girls were not as fortunate as the other two Maverick teams as they finished in second with 111 points behind the 158 first place points of Canyon.

The Mavs dominance in the middle distance events still shone through as the girls won the mile relay with a time of 4:29.5 and took second and third in the 440 and third and fourth in the 880 to help with the team point total.

The four lap relay consisted of Brenda Straffuss, Cathy Lane, Rhonda Reinart and Kellie Howell, with Lane, Reinart and Howell taking places in the individual middle races.

Baylor's Hot Bat Leads Angels Past New York Yankees, 2-1

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

April was a hot month for Don Baylor figuratively speaking, of course. And his figures include 28 runs batted in.

The California Angels' excited outfielder simply tore through April and ripped up the American League record book in the process.

Continuing to produce in machine-like fashion, Baylor delivered a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday night to provide the Angels with a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees.

29, set by Ron Cey in 1977. Baylor not only drove in the winning run, but was partly responsible for California's initial run. He broke up a no-hit bid by Ed Figueroa with a single in the fifth and eventually scored on Carney Lansford's base hit. The Angels' victory set a club record for triumphs in April—15.

In other American League action Monday night, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Seattle Mariners 8-7 in 10 innings; the Oakland A's defeated the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 11 innings; the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Cleveland Indians 8-0; the Minnesota Twins beat the Toronto Blue Jays 6-3 and the Texas Rangers nipped the Kansas City Royals 8-7.

Orioles 8, Mariners 7
Eddie Murray's third RBI of the game, a bases-loaded grounder in the 10th, boosted Baltimore over Seattle. Billy Smith led off the Baltimore 10th with a single but was forced at second on Al Bumbry's grounder to third base. Rich Dauer then singled and Ken Singleton walked to load the bases, setting up Murray's game-winning grounder.

The Mariners led the game 7-2 in the bottom of the ninth when Bill Stein walked to lead off and pinch-hitter Joe Simpson hit his second home run of the

A's 5, Red Sox 4
Jeff Newman tied the score with a two-out home run in the bottom of the ninth inning and then socked a two-out, run-scoring single in the 11th to lead Oakland over Boston.

The A's totaled only five hits in the game played before their biggest home crowd of the year—14,716—but three of those hits were homers. Besides Newman, Dave Revere smashed a two-run homer in the fourth and a solo shot in the sixth.

Brewers 8, Indians 0
Jim Slaton fired a two-hitter. Ben Oglive powdered two home runs and Gorman Thomas slammed a three-run shot to pace Milwaukee over Cleveland.

A two-out single by Bobby Bonds in the fourth and Bo Diaz' leadoff single in the ninth were Cleveland's only hits and the Indians' only baserunners of the night off Slaton, 2-1.

Twins 6, Blue Jays 3
Butch Wynegar smashed a two-run homer and a run-scoring single to spark Minnesota over Toronto. Winner Paul Hartzell scattered seven hits.

Montreal's Hottest Sticks Belong To Expo Trio

By HERSHEL NISSONSON

The hottest sticks in Montreal aren't being wielded by Guy Lafleur, Jacques Lemaire and Steve Shutt of Les Canadiens but rather by Warren Cromartie, Gary Carter and Andre Dawson of the Club de Baseball Montreal—limites—alias the Expos.

National League East with the Philadelphia Phillies, who handed the San Francisco Giants their eighth consecutive setback 4-1.

Elsewhere, the Houston Astros rallied for four runs in the top of the ninth inning and nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 6-5 while the New York Mets edged the San Diego Padres 4-3. Atlanta, Chicago, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Mets 4, Padres 3
Doug Flynn singled home the winning run in the seventh inning after Joel Youngblood singled off reliever Bob Shirley, 0-4, with one out and stole second. The Padres had tied it on Fernando Gonzalez' home run in the top of the seventh off Leonard Glee with a sacrifice fly to tie the score and one out later Puhl hit his second home run in as many games. Ken Reitz homered for St. Louis, which collected six extra base hits.

Astros 6, Cardinals 5
Terry Puhl's two-run homer capped a four-run Houston rally in the top of the ninth, trailing 4-2. The Astros tied off on Tom Bruno and Buddy Schultz. Enos Cabell's double and singles by Bob Watson and Art Howe chased Bruno. Pinch-hitter Jeff Leonard greeted Schultz with a sacrifice fly to tie the score and one out later Puhl hit his second home run in as many games. Ken Reitz homered for St. Louis, which collected six extra base hits.

since they moved from New York to San Francisco in 1958.

Phillies 4, Giants 1
Greg Luzinski's two-run homer and a solo shot by Garry Maddox powered Philadelphia over San Francisco, Dick Ruthven, 4-0, pitched six innings before leaving with a tender elbow. He was relieved by Tug McGraw, who hurled three scoreless innings. Luzinski singled a run across in the first inning. Maddox homered in the second and Luzinski connected in the third.

Fidrych To Join Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—The Bird returns.

Pitcher Mark Fidrych was back on the Detroit Tigers' roster Monday, probably the best news the fifth-place American League club has had since the season began.

He will start against the Minnesota Twins on Saturday, the American League baseball club said.

Ridrych, the league's rookie of the year in 1976, has suffered from tendonitis in his right arm, his pitching arm. The start against Minnesota will be his first in a regular game since April 17, 1978.

On the disabled list since April 1, Fidrych looked strong in two recent exhibition appearances. He lasted six innings against the Cincinnati Reds on April 23.

Chamberlain, who flew to Springfield from Australia where he was promoting a rock n' roll concert, has the most NBA career points, the highest per-game average in a season and for a career and holds game, season and career rebound marks.

Chamberlain, besides promoting rock concerts, appears in TV commercials and is a coach and player in the International Volleyball Association.

Meyer, 65, directed his team this season to the NCAA semifinals.

"Sure, I've won awards before, but this is the epitome," said Meyer. "Before the season started, I figured winning 16-18 games would be a great year. Then, to make the final four... it has to be the most exciting year of my life.

Others who entered the Hall of Fame in the 12th annual enshrinement ceremony were former coaches, Edgar Hickey of Creighton, John McClendon of Tennessee State, and Pete Newell, who directed the California team which won the 1959 NCAA title, and the late Justin "Sam" Barry of Southern California; and referee James Enright of Chicago.

Wilt Chamberlain Makes Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) - Five years after his bitter National Basketball Association rival, Bill Russell, made it, seven-footer Wilt Chamberlain entered basketball's Hall of Fame on Monday.

"Being elected means more to me than just being a great player," said the 42-year-old former Philadelphia and Los Angeles superstar. "It's the honor of being identified with all the greats of the game - people I've admired all my life."

Chamberlain was the lone NBA player among seven Hall of Fame inductees, including the winningest coach in the college game, DePaul's Ray Meyer who in 37 years at the Illinois university has won 597 games. Meyer was the only active coach in the group.

Others who entered the Hall of Fame in the 12th annual enshrinement ceremony were former coaches, Edgar Hickey of Creighton, John McClendon of Tennessee State, and Pete Newell, who directed the California team which won the 1959 NCAA title, and the late Justin "Sam" Barry of Southern California; and referee James Enright of Chicago.

championship this year. I wasn't going to get out. I love to coach, and sitting around the house would kill me."

At the ceremony in the Hall, on the campus of Springfield College where basketball was started in 1891, were Larry O'Brien, a Springfield native and NBA commissioner; and coaches Dean Smith of North Carolina, Ned Foster of Arizona State, and Bill Foster of Duke, members of the Hall's board of trustees.

The baseball All-Star game has been played in Cincinnati three times, and each time the National League has won.

Spurs Have To Stop Cheeks, Dawkins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The San Antonio Spurs are going to have to stop "Little Mo" and "Double D" if they hope to beat the Philadelphia 76ers Wednesday night and reach the Eastern finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The 76ers tied the best-of-seven Eastern quarterfinals against the Spurs at three games apiece with a 92-90 victory here Sunday afternoon. The seventh game in the Texas city.

Little Mo is rookie Maurice Cheeks, who is averaging 20.7 points in the series against the Spurs. 12 above his regular season average. His left-handed layup with 10 seconds remaining accounted for Sunday's winning points.

close to 20 points in the six games.

In turn, the 76ers have to keep the lid on San Antonio's George "Iceman" Gervin, Larry Kenon and James Silas. Gervin has averaged slightly over 25, Kenon 23, and Silas 22 in the series thus far.

The question was asked as to where Cheeks has been hiding his shooting ability all season.

Sixers assistant coach Jack McMahon said it was because the former West Texas State player was asserting himself more. McMahon said the rookie has more confidence in both shooting and running the team's offense.

in a voice that sometimes sounds like a whisper. "I'm doing basically the same things that I've done all season. It seems like it's all coming together at the right time, the playoffs."

Dawkins, who is as loud and contentious as Cheeks is quiet and docile, was still grousing about the Spurs even after the 76ers had tied the series. The 258-pound Dawkins, who came to the NBA right out of high school four years ago, looks upon the series as a war.

"I think it's even going to be a tougher, more physical game down there Wednesday," Dawkins said. "Everybody better be playing with their fangs out. Everybody's going to be banging, scrambling and scratching."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Rare blood condition

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a multiple anemia. The bones don't make blood and my doctor has tried medicines but it doesn't work. The only way to build up my blood is to take transfusions. My blood is extremely low and I have difficulty in walking. My thighs and hips are sore and hurt. Is there any cure for this? I have a mild heart condition and take medicines for that. I'm 78 years old and live alone.

DEAR READER — The condition you have is reasonably uncommon. In adults the major source of our blood cells is from the bone marrow. Sometimes it quits functioning and doesn't replace the cells that our body destroys regularly. Each one of your red cells has an average life span of only 120 days.

There are so many red cells in the blood that to replace these as they are destroyed, your bone marrow has to manufacture three million new red cells each second. You have so many tiny red cells in your blood that if you measured the surface area it would represent an area of 40,000 square feet.

We tend to take all these things for granted and are only aware of what enormous changes are occurring in our body when some balance is disturbed. There are many reasons why the bone marrow may stop producing enough blood cells to maintain a proper balance.

While hunting the murderer of a policeman, Pepper learns that another policeman has been savagely attacked.

Bell Heading To State Meet

By MARC HERRING
Brand Sports Editor

Kirkland after Bell finished second in the 220 at the regional track meet Saturday at Lubbock qualifying for the state track meet May 11-12.

Bell was joined at the regional meet by Juan Flores in the 880 and the relay teams consisting of Joe Walker, Norman Brown and Keith Adams in the spring relay and the addition of Glen Yosten in the mile relay. Bell and Flores were the only two to make it to the finals Saturday, as the relay teams came up against bad luck and stiff competition that thwarted their attempts. The sprint relay team earned its place at the regional meet with a first place finish at district, the first Whiteface sprint team to do so since 1968, and then came up against some of the fastest teams in the state and failed to qualify despite running a 43.6.

Bell, the speedster suffered a slight muscle pull that hampered the team's effort even more. "Even with the two injuries we ran pretty well, a 3:30, but that was just not good enough to make the finals," Kirkland said.

Saturday morning took second in the furlong with a time of 21.6, behind the winner's 21.5. "Paul ran heavily taped, which hindered his speed dramatically," Kirkland said.

Woolf: Auerbach A Dictator

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Red Auerbach has been acting like a dictator, not a negotiator, during contract talks involving All-America Larry Bird and the Boston Celtics, attorney Bob Woolf claimed Friday.

Woolf, who is representing the 6-foot-9 senior who led Indiana State to a second-place finish in this year's NCAA basketball tournament, made the comment in a press conference he held concerning the stalemated negotiations. The Celtics, of the National Basketball Association, had announced earlier this week they were breaking off negotiations for Bird, their No. 1 draft pick after his junior season last year. "Dealing with Red Auerbach is a very difficult situation," said Woolf. "He treats everybody like he used to treat the referees. He taunts you, he baits you, he tries to intimidate you. He never lets up ... he's more of a dictator than a negotiator and I don't think Larry deserves this kind of treatment."

Woolf was in Terre Haute to attend activities conducted as part of "Larry Bird Day" and to discuss the contract situation with his client. At night, Bird was honored at a $50 a plate banquet. Money raised from the banquet is to be used to create a scholarship in his name. Woolf said he was willing to resume negotiations, but feels the next move is up to Boston.

Woolf read a statement concerning the negotiations. He said he and Bird agreed on its contents. The statement claimed that the Celtics had made only one contract offer. "If the Celtics wish to remain with their first and only offer, then as much as we would like to be with Boston, we will choose to go elsewhere or enter the 1979 draft in June," the statement said.

Earlier, Bird spoke at a news conference after the mayor issued a proclamation honoring him. He supported Woolf's role in the negotiations. "He's done a great job, negotiating and keeping his word," said Bird. He said any decision concerning a contract was up to Woolf.

Both Bird and Woolf said they had hoped to reach a settlement with Boston. "They broke off the negotiations," said Woolf. "I've negotiated some 1,800 contracts in my career and I've never had anyone do that before ... Maybe it's an effort to put us on the defensive."

There have been reports that Bird is seeking a six-year contract worth $6 million. Boston reportedly was offering $3 million over six years. However, Woolf refused to give any figures. In the statement, Woolf said: "Larry Bird is a very private person and he considers his contract negotiations to be a private matter. He further considers the Celtics' public announcements of real or fictitious figures to be an invasion of his privacy."

The statement asked the Celtics to stop making public announcements of contract demands or offers it talks resume. The Celtics retain Bird's rights until the NBA draft June 25. Until then, they can sell or trade the rights. If Bird is unsigned when the draft is held, he can be selected by another team. Los Angeles has the first pick and Chicago the second.

NEW YORK (AP)—Minnesota Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton will quit football and become a sports commentator for ABC-TV, the New York Post said Monday. Tarkenton, 39, holds virtually all the major National Football League passing records in a pro career that has spanned 18 seasons.

ABC would not comment on the report, but The Associated Press reported last week that television industry sources felt ABC had the inside track on Tarkenton's services. His contract with NBC as an occasional sports commentator has expired.

Tarkenton reportedly has told the Vikings of his decision to quit. Minnesota general manager Mike Lynn denied that the quarterback had told the club of his decision.

Sonics Face Suns In 'Battle Of The Boards'

SEATTLE (AP)—The Battle of the Boards begins tonight when the Seattle SuperSonics begin defense of their National Basketball Association Western Conference title against the Phoenix Suns in the sold out Seattle Center Coliseum. The Sonics enter the best-of-seven series fresh from a 4-1 semifinal series victory over the Los Angeles Lakers. The Suns reached the conference championship round by dispatching the Kansas City Kings in their series 4-2.

NEW YORK (AP)—Minnesota Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton will quit football and become a sports commentator for ABC-TV, the New York Post said Monday.

long-term contract with the television network. "The only thing remaining," according to the unnamed source, "is Fran's signature.

ABC would not comment on the report, but The Associated Press reported last week that television industry sources felt ABC had the inside track on Tarkenton's services. His contract with NBC as an occasional sports commentator has expired.

Rebounding is expected to be the key in the Seattle-Phoenix matchup. Seattle runs when the opportunity exists, while Phoenix prefers to run all the time. But, without the basketball, that's impossible.

Phoenix forward Walter Davis, one of the best small forwards in the NBA, says he thinks the Suns will be able to run against Seattle. "The critical thing in running the break is to get the ball. You've got to force the other team to shoot the low percentage shot because you can't run when you're taking the ball out of bounds under the basket," Davis explained. "If we play good defense and hit the boards, the rest of it should fall into place," Davis said. Seattle beat Phoenix in three of four regular season games and in the process held the Suns to an average of 104 points a game, far below their average of 115.

look for a dynamite series," said Silas. Sonics guard Gus Williams ripped the Lakers for an average of 30.8 points a game in that series, and hopes to continue the pace against Phoenix. He expects the Sonics to run whenever they can. "It's what we do best," he said. "I don't think we should change unless somebody starts hurting us. We play good defense, rebound well and run well. If you do those three things, you hope you can win."

Seattle guard Fred Brown said, "Our front line is probably our biggest strength, that and our backcourt, because it adds so many things to the games. I would say the guards and rebounding will be the key. They (Suns) have guys who can get out on the break real fast, but you can't run without the ball."

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers, one of major league baseball's most economically viable franchise despite its low television market, considered folding just seven years ago, club President Bud Selig said Friday night. "We took a marketing survey that year after we had drawn 600,000 people, the fewest in the major leagues, and found that only 25 percent of the fans could name even one of our players," he said. "That tells, I think, everything about the magnitude of our problem. It seemed like everything in the deck was stacked against us. We gave at least fleeting consideration to packing it in."

Brewers Popular Without TV Audience
The Brewers have sustained their economic health despite contracts to free agents Jerry Hyde, Sal Bando, Jim Slaton and Ray Fosse. Selig indicated the Brewers will continue to try to sign free agents, despite their seemingly inflated salary demands.

"Look at it this way," he said. "If you let a member of your ballclub go, you are destroying part of the value of your club. We (the Brewers) don't like the new free agency rules any more than any other clubs, but we have to play by the new ground rules. Free agency is a part of those new ground rules."

DETROIT (AP)—Rusty Staub hit 24 home runs for the Detroit Tigers in 1978 and then informed running expert Bob Glover, one of the officials for the Leggs Mini Marathon, that he planned to start long-distance running. Glover was interested enough to ask: "How far?" Staub said: "I expect to stretch out to about a mile a day."
NEW YORK (AP)—Folksy Hubert Green, one of the stars of the golfing tour, says he still treasures a remark Ben Hogan made to him at the 1978 Masters. "Some people have told me I have an unusual swing," Green said. "But Mr. Hogan commented that my swing was good. I figure that I went from having a funny swing to a classic one."
LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—You can call Tex Winter, the coach of the Long Beach State basketball team, a high-flying recruiter. His team was 16-12 in the 1978-79 season and reached the Pacific Coast Athletic Association post-season tournament before being eliminated. Winter kept looking for more talent. He jumped into a private plane and flew to Lompoc, Calif., to scout a high-school player.
