Sometimes it pays to be discontented and to kick about things.

Of course, no one likes to be around people who are continually finding fault.

"He said very shyly: 'Pass the cream' Everybody was too busy so he tried again: 'Please pass the cream!'"

The damp weather last week-end makes us wonder about the authenticity of the Sir Walter Scott—or rather—the Sir Walter Raleigh and the cloak incident.

Why be skeptical tho? Perhaps Sir Walter was really that chivalrous. Anyway, we might as well give him the benefit of the doubt.

A genuine hard luck story is told by a former postmaster.

"My post office was closed, which forced also the closing of the general store, bath parlors and other accommodations to the public.

These laws compel me to pay the merchant's tax, capital tax, excess tax, corporation tax, real estate tax, property tax, auto tax, gas tax, light tax, water tax, cigar tax, school tax, syntax, liquor tax, and carpet tax, and income tax.

"In addition to these taxes I am requested, required and demanded to contribute to every society and organization that the inventive mind of man can organize—the Community Chest Fund, the Unemployment Relief Fund, the Society of St. John, the Baptist, the Woman's Relief, the Navy League, the Children's Home, the Policeman's Benefit, the Dorcas

Brown Boy In Indian School Writes Letter To League

A letter from Siddoppa Solomon, nine-year-old boy in the Bidar Boys' school conducted by the Methodist Episcopal at Bidar, Decan, India, has been recently received by Mrs. A. Blair Grubb.

Mrs. Grubb, with the assistance of the junior and senior Epworth Leagues of the local church is supporting the small brown boy and enabling him to attend school.

The letter follows:

M. E. Mission, Bidar, Dn.

Dear Patron, I am doing well here. I hope the same with you. I am studying in the first standard and my age is about 9 years. I am working hard at my books and hope to pass this year and try to go to the higher class.

Before the Christianity came into our village we were all heathens. My parents were worshipping idols but now they are worshipping Jesus. Had it not been for the missionaries to come on our side, we would have been still heathens. But God is so kind enough to show us mercy that he sent the missionaries to teach us Jesus.

Our new principal is very kind and good to us. She is trying to look after us as best she can. We are very happy to have her in our school. We have games every evening. We are thus, very happy in the school. Please send your photo to me, because I like to have a new photo of yours. I have got your old photo.

Closing with my best wishes to you. I am your faithful boy, S. Solomon.

Mrs. M. D. Ross, principal of the school also wrote letters to Mrs. Grubb. She says:

"Mr. Ross came to Bidar from Hyderabad, where we have been since on furlough, at the time that Roy Mrs. Anderson left. Since the Bidar school closed March 30th, and as I had already planned to accompany my own two children to school 1000 miles north into the Himalayas, in May, I went along and remained until June. Mr. Ross and I both came down first week in June, stopped in Hyderabad to tell the folks goodbye, and came to Bidar for the opening of school.

I do not usually spend so much time away from work, but since our daughter, who is in Woodstock College plans to go home in 1933, I took this opportunity between moves to be with her. Nora is seventeen, and Dick, our boy, is past thirteen. He returned with us, and I am teaching

"A penny Saved Is A penny Earned"

The habit of thrift is a very important one to learn early in life. It is not so much what we earn but what we save that makes us rich. Considering this, it is very important to put away a part of our earnings, no matter how small they are.

The wise person makes a definite budget of his expenditures, and is careful to spend less than he earns. All successful business people have made it a practice to spend less than they earn.

Saving is very important not only for the one who saves but also for society and industry in general. The person who wastes his means may get along all right until his health breaks down, a member of his family becomes ill or until he loses his position or becomes too old to work. Then he is forced to depend upon relatives or the public.

The thrifty person is safeguarded against emergencies. When necessity overtakes him he does not have to fall back upon charity. He continues to be independent because he has used foresight and set aside money for future needs.

Thrift may be practiced in four ways: (1) by earning; (2) by spending wisely; (3) by saving; and (4) by investing.

The habit of thrift should be encouraged—not only during Thrift Week each January—but thruout every week in the year

The County Meet —and Cooperation

During this week-end several hundred school children of Lipscomb County are gathered at Follett for the annual Interscholastic League meet.

The meet attracts more attention thruout the county than any other gathering held during the year. No matter what the weather, large crowds of people will attend the various events.

In a meet of the large proportions that our county meet has assumed, it is very important that co-operation and good sportsmanship be shown by everyone present—teachers, contestants, and spectators, alike.

No matter what one's personal opinion may be, a strict and cheerful observance of the decision made by the official in charge should be shown. Officials have been selected for their positions by the teachers of this county on the basis of their capability. The good sportsman will respect the official's action in all cases.

Only thru loyal co-operation, good sportsmanship, and a cheerful, willing attitude, can any county hope to have a smooth and successful Interscholastic League meet.

We have no idea who it will be but some automobile driver who reads this paragraph will be injured or killed within the next twelve months. Without charge for the advice, may we suggest "drive cautiously always."

The old-fashioned family doctor, says a writer, has disappeared. Interpreted this means that the medical men are beginning to send out monthly statements of account.

There may be doubt as to whether the government knows how to run a business but, after seeing how the U. S. sold its ships, there is no doubt but that it hasn't got sense enough to get out.

Never pay out your money without a receipt in return, but don't get the idea that it is safe because somebody gives you one.

Some authors think that the way to write a best seller is to report ordinary smut, and, it seems some readers agree with them.

Independence means having more money than you need; not having the largest salary in town.

YOUTH and AGE

By Mildred Crabtree Speer

The years go by so swiftly
And our eyes are set steadfastly
On the distant heights of a mountain:
The morning is cool, God is good,
And friends are there to enjoy.
Near the end of the day we Reach the goal—the mountain top,—
But the sun goes quickly down
And it is cold. Then, Oh God,
How dark and friendless the long night;
How sweet and hopeless the memory
Of the warm friendly valley.

LEFT OVERS

"Oh do you smoke?"
"Why, yes, I do."
"Do you like it?"
"No, I cannot say that I do."
"Does your mother know that you smoke?"
"Yes."
"Does she care?"
"Yes, she does not like it, but I bobbed my hair, wore short skirts, and use lipstick, because it is a passing fad which I shall drop as soon as it is out of style."

The above dialogue was between a new roomer and a house-mother in a girl's rooming house in a not-far-away college town.

As I think of this conversation I first hope, then wonder. I hope that smoking among girls may be a passing fad, and I wonder if it may be as easily dropped as this young woman thinks.

I am a woman nearer sixty than fifty, and I well remember when I was a child two old women who smoked and were, I am sure, "left-overs" from a "passing fad" of perhaps a previous quarter century. One was a brown, bear-eyed old crone of whom the children of the neighborhood stood in fear, yet taking every opportunity to peek in to see her smoke her old clay pipe, then running away as fast as their sturdy legs could carry them.

The other one was the grandmother of a family of beautiful girls, all of whom were ashamed of her, and dreaded her visits to them.

Twenty-five years from now, in every neighborhood there will be two or three of these disgraceful old smokers left over from the "passing fad" of today.

Girls! Do you want to be one of these "left-overs?"—Mrs. E. N. Durfee, Ann Arbor, in "The Michigan Christian Advocate," June 18, 1931.

The third grade geography booklets, named "Children in Other Lands" were finished last week and the best ones are on display.

The students plan to start their flower gardens at school soon, perhaps right after track meet when more time and thought can be given to the work.

Roy and Arthur Helfenbein and Logan Walker are health inspectors this week.

Lowell Hennigh, who is very much interested in mechanics and especially motors, entertained the class and the other two rooms at the west end of the building by showing them a very simple motor which he had ordered and set up. He borrowed some batteries from the science department and showed the students how the motor ran, and told all about it. His talk was very interesting and enjoyable.

Lloyd Mosley was elected president of the room for the next two weeks; Roy Helfenbein is his assistant.

Bird books are being made in busy work period this week. A common spring bird is colored each day and a story of that particular bird's habits is written. All of these stories will be fastened together and a booklet made after all of our common birds are studied.

Character Sketches

If you add pep, sportsmanship, blonde hair and blue eyes, you'll probably be able to guess who this little Junior girl is. I like to go places and do things. WHO AM I?

I'm a sassy little freshman
 With brown, brown eyes
 And in classes, am I wise?
 I always get on the honor list
 And furthermore, I've never been kissed!

I'm as quiet and slow as can be, but wait and see; someday I'll be an Edison, and my fame will be envied then.

Sophomore Class Notes

Because of the track meet being this week, we have been working very hard on our Interscholastic League work.

But even track-meet can not keep us from working on our subjects.

In Algebra II we are studying graphs. (We even stay in sometimes to finish them.)

In history we are studying the Industrial Revolution. We have learned that Eli Whitney "discovered" the spinning wheel and the steam engine.

We are doing our best to place our commas in English; and in Spanish we are trying to decide whether Spanish is a necessary subject or not. If we decide it is not, we will continue to study it anyway. L. D.

Fifth and Sixth Grade Notes

We have been working on track meet work with renewed effort this week. As several of our students have chicken-pox, some of our work is rather delayed.

We feel very proud to have won the P. T. A. banner again. Eleven parents representing our room attended the P. T. A. meeting last Friday night.

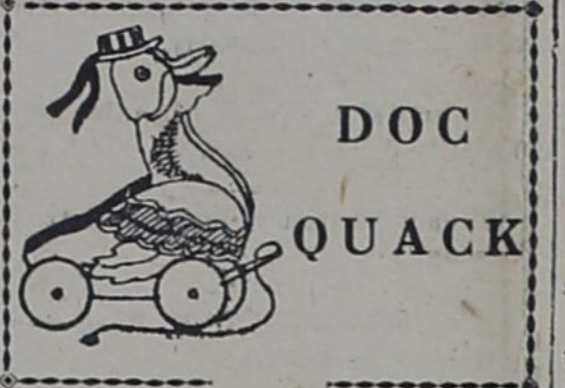

Naomi Rush drew a vase of spring flowers on our black board last week.

Rachel Littau, Gertrude Stranske, Erma Hennigh, and Naomi Rush drew a boarder of pink and yellow tulips on our blackboard.

Lionel Settles, Rachel and Ida Littau, Wilma Lash, and George Kammerer were absent from school on Monday.

 Illustrated arithmetic problems were handed in by the sixth grade arithmetic class on Monday. Gerald Ludlum's paper was selected as the neatest.

We were all very interested in the little engine which Lowell Hennigh brought into our room last Friday. Lowell had made the engine from parts he had received from a magazine advertisement.

Dear Doc,
 Won't you please tell me when is the proper time to remove the hat? Thanks alot for your trouble.
 Jake

Jake,
 Of course, I'd be delighted to tell you the proper times to remove the hat. (without consulting an etiquette book, or Emily Post).

At the following place, respectively, the hat should be removed as the circumstances indicate: When moping the brow; when taking a bath; when eating; when going to bed; when taking up a collection; when having the hair trimmed; when being shampooed; and when standing on the head.

Darrouzett's Fair Maidens

by Alberta Reger

Florella's hair is nice and red,
 And Edith's auburn too.
 Mary's hair is awfully dark.
 To have such eyes of blue.

Faynell has the color;
 Coeta has the style;
 And though Marguerite is little
 She makes small things worth while.

Olive has it for the form;
 Doris has the perfect hair;
 Eva has the cutest legs;
 Nina Mae is sweet and fair.

Thelma knows her P's and Q's;
 Oklahoma knows her line;
 Lavelle knows two Sophie boys;
 She is trying to two-time.

Laura B. is fair and small;
 Blossom's name will tell you all;
 Louise has the clothes to wear;
 Violet has the voice so rare.

Ruth is our dark-eyed Spanish type;
 Margaret's just the kind we like;
 Gwen's complexion's like a peach
 With cream upon it in a dish.

Among the girls that we have named
 Are happy ones and lone;
 But the only one that's left unnamed
 Is the one that wrote this poem.

Primary Room Notes

By MRS. J. E. SPEER

George Helfenbein and Esther Littau were absent from school Monday.

The students of the primary room made an Easter sandtable on last Thursday and Friday. A large nest was made in the sandtable; eggs were brought from home and colored for the nest; some cotton chickens were secured; and pasteboard rabbits were made during busy period to be placed in and around the nest. Mr. Speer was invited down to see the sandtable and each student was allowed to bring in one friend during recess and noon.

Class A of the beginning group won the picture last week offered to the class having the best reading lessons for a week.

Eulala Altmiller had to go home Monday at noon on account of illness.

About fifty per cent of the students of the primary room are planning to attend the track meet at Follett this week end. Five students of the room are in the choral singing event.

Dorothy Woods took her goldfish home on Friday. The students hated to see them go, and, are planning to have some more in the room next year.

You can make a fool out of the average man if you begin to ask him questions about geography, but so long as you let him talk on such simple subjects as finance, taxation, spiritualism, etc. he knows a lot.

Students See Special Train

Approximately thirty students from Darrouzett attended the Farm and Home Train Special at Booker on Wednesday, March 23.

Interesting as well as instructive exhibits were shown in the several cars.

Miniature homes, machinery, stock, electric equipment, terraced land, and barns were among the exhibits shown.

ADVANTAGES OF INTERSCHOLASTIC DEBATE (Editorial)

by Coeta Terrel

There is an old saying, "There are two sides to every question." Interscholastic debates show pupils this. When a person can see both sides to a question, he can usually make good at anything he attempts.

One who debates well is broad minded and a clever thinker. He can pick out important points of a subject; therefore, debate makes a person see major details, thus overlooking unimportant ones.

Debate teaches people to argue in a friendly manner and to avoid sarcasm. If one can "keep his head" through his most critical moments, he is likely to make a success of life.

Interscholastic debate deals with problems confronting our government today. Americans, especially the younger generation, do not pay enough attention to the problems of our nation; therefore, debate relates to some of us the outstanding United States of wide-world problems.

Declaimers Speak In Assembly

The assembly program was given to the declaimers and extemporaneous speakers. Mrs. Hiram Wright acted as chairman.

Mrs. A. Blair Grubb was an assembly visitor.

The school wishes to urge people to attend assembly programs given each Thursday morning at 9:20.

Brown Boy

him this year. This will be his last year at home except vacations. These separations are the hardest part of missionary life.

The rains began soon after we reached Bidar and we are having a real Monsoon. Bidar is very beautiful in consequence. Every thing looked simply burned up and dead after the dry season, then the rain began and Bidar put on a new frock and I can hardly believe it is the same place. We have visited Bidar during our almost twenty years in India, but have never lived here before. We were glad to come as Mr. Ross likes the District Evangelistic work, and I enjoy the work in a Boy's School.

The Bidar school has no school building proper. We have classes wherever we find a place. Our little old church houses three classes. I wish you could see our church. We have not been long back from the U. S. A. and I cannot but contrast the U. S. A. Churches with the Bidar Church. But after all, God is working in a wonderful way in the Bidar Church, and the folk make up the Church of God—not the buildings. We really do not wish for large elaborate buildings.

We hope to build several small sanitary cottages from Bidar's beautiful red stone to house the boys and teachers, and hold classes on the verandas. Each cottage will cost something like $100 to $150. If friends reading this would like to build one of these cottages and name it for a friend or loved one, we will be glad to hear from them.

The little boys we will keep in the rooms here near the bungalow. Some people do not like them so near, but it is easy to look after them. Last year the school had forty boys in the boarding department. When school opened this year, sixty boys presented themselves. There seemed good reason why each boy should be received into the school. I cannot bear to turn away bright boys wanting to learn, so feeling sure that we could manage twenty more, we took them all.

Within two weeks we had a letter from Bishop Warne saying that the Mission Field could expect another cut this year. We receive nothing except the designated gifts, and our salary. We refuse to expect a cut. If our friends will continue to support their children, and if our other gifts come, I do not see how a cut can affect us. We hope that each person will give just a little extra, if not more than one dollar. It will mean quite a lot by the end of the year and will keep the Devil away. I do not believe that cuts are of the Lord. We have some fifteen boys in high school, and industrial school. Bidar has always sent a few boys to industrial school every year. We have a community of eleven Christian carpenters settled here in Bidar now. They own their own homes, send their children to day school, paying fees. They support the Pastor. We hope they are only a nucleus of a large Christian Community.

As you see by my letter head, we are planning great things in the way of Industry for Bidar School. I brought chickens and turkeys with me as the beginning of our poultry industry. Within a week from the day of arrival, I had one pair of turkeys left and not one chicken. We had raised our chickens and turkeys and had some valuable ones, (I guess they picked up some disease in the train), so we are beginning over again. We will appreciate literature on the subject of poultry raising.

In our school we are teaching in three languages: English, Kanarese, and Telugu. I devote the forenoon teach English classes. The boarding home takes much time. I find no trouble keeping busy. We have an efficient headmaster, born in a village near Bidar, who has passed high school, and has had four years in our Theological college. Another "official" in the school is the "House Father." Aside from teaching he has charge of the home life, food supplies, and general health observation. Games and boy scout work is being taught. Our plan is that each boy shall learn some trade.

When the boys finish our school, they are supposed to be ready to complete High School in English in three years. This preparatory course requires much patience and effort. In all we have eight teachers on the staff beside myself. The average salary is about $80 per year, not including the head-master, who gets $200. I have yet to find definite support for five of the teachers. Perhaps some one reading this would like to help me take care of these jolly little brown boys, than whom a finer lot is hard to find.

In glad service,
Annie S. Ross.

Why Adjusted-Service Certificates Should Be Paid In Cash—Now!

In an address on the subject, "Why Adjusted-Service Certificates Should Be Paid in Cash," Hon. Wright Patman, representative from Texas, brought out many interesting facts why such certificates should be paid. He states that the certificates are debts that should be paid, and not merely pensions. The government agreed to allow soldiers this much extra for the time they served during the World War, and the entire amount of their certificates was to be paid at the end of 20 years. Hon. Wright Patman says that they should be paid now instead of waiting until the 20 years is up, and in that way get more money into circulation.

Following is a list of the amount of money that would be put into circulation in this part of the country if these certificates were paid. Lipscomb County, $74,087.04; Ochiltree county, $85,778.08; Beaver county, $190,332.24; Hemphill county, $76,139.54; Hansford county, $58,258.16; and Ellis County, Oklahoma, $175,191.42.

Cotton from certified cotton seed introduced into Parker county last year added about $20,000 net profit to farmers' incomes, the county agent says. The turn-out was five percent higher and the lint 1-8 inch longer on the average than cotton from common seed.

At an average cost of three dollars, 15,386 home demonstration gardeners last season gathered an average of $80 worth of vegetables.
