

Breeding Home Damaged in Freak Accident

The home of Mrs. D. Breeding was damaged in a freak accident July 29.

The home of Mrs. D. Breeding was damaged early Thursday morning, July 29, when a rim on an 18 wheeler broke, came off the trailer, bounced off the roof of the house next door and sailed through the air to crash through the brick wall of Mrs. Breeding's attic. The house next to Mrs. Breeding's, owned by Ray Thornhill, had some damage to the roof.

The truck driver, Kenneth Hopkins of Electra, was unaware of the lost wheel until the tire next to it blew out and the axle dropped; this happened just a few miles north of Rising Star.

On his way to scene of the accident, deputy sheriff Albert Biggs spotted the downed truck with a wheel missing and drew the conclusion that the wheel that damaged Mrs. Breeding's house came from that truck. He informed the driver of the damage and they drove to the house.

The truck is owned by John Swanson Drilling of Iowa Park and was hauling oilfield equipment at the time of the accident.

"Century of Blessings" Observed This Weekend at Rising Star Church

"A Century of Blessings" will be celebrated this weekend by members, present and past, former pastors, and a host of friends of First Baptist Church in Rising Star, as the church observes its 100th anniversary.

Activities are scheduled to begin at 7:00 p.m. on Saturday evening with a reception in the church's fellowship hall, honoring former members, pastors and friends of the church. This will be followed by a musical program in the sanctuary presented by current and former singers and instrumentalists from First Baptist Church.

Sunday's schedule begins with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m., followed by the morning worship service at 11:00 featuring an anthem by the church choir and the sermon by the pastor, the Rev. R.D. Williams. The congregation will then move to the church's activity center for a noon luncheon. At 2:00 p.m. the anniversary sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Jimmy Turner, pastor of the Ash Creek Baptist Church in Azle.

Rev. Turner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Turner of Rising Star, and is a graduate of Rising Star High School, Hardin-Simmons University, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. He has formerly pastored churches in Maryneal, Anson, Carbon, Loraine, Tahoka, and Big Spring. Rev. Turner is married to the former Sammie Harris, also of Rising Star. They are the parents of three children.

Also part of the afternoon anniversary program will be the presentation of the recently published history of First Baptist Church of Rising Star, "A Century of Blessings." Copies of the history will be available throughout the day.

Former pastors will be recognized and invited to give a brief response, and the oldest members of First Baptist Church in attendance will be recognized.

"Response has been tremendous to the many invitations sent to former staff members and friends of First Baptist Church," according to Mrs. George Steel, chairman of the Centennial planning committee. "We are expecting several of our former pastors and music directors to be here, in addition to a host of former members and friends to help make this a significant occasion in the life of First Baptist Church," Mrs. Steel added.

Rev. Williams and the membership of the church extend a cordial invitation to people of the community and area to attend the anniversary celebration. "We are indeed proud of this important occasion in the life of our church, and are thankful for the opportunity of 100 years of service in the Rising Star area. We invite you to come and share in the events of this special time with our church members," Rev. Williams stated.

Senior Center News

I wish you could have been with us at the Hico Old Settler's Reunion last week. It was truly a fun time for they have everything there in that park. I don't think any of the Star Brides rode on the ferris wheel or other rides, but we did have time to wander all over the grounds and see the booths and concessions.

but we wish her fun and relaxation on her vacation.

So long for this time; I wish you well. Submitted in love by your reporter, Hymn of affirmation—"Break Thou The Bread Of Life" was led by Deacon Robert Sparkman, with Janice Kilgo at the piano.

Riley gave charge to the church, and was presented by Deacon J.J. Smith. Laying on of the hands followed with all the council members participating, which included, ministers, Rev. May VFD Needs New Pump

The May Volunteer Fire Department met Monday, July 26, 1982, at 2:00 p.m. in the May Junior High School in monthly session.

The business agenda included decisions for items affecting the organization.

Officers present included; President, Fleta Gregory; Secretary-Treasurer, Sook Burnett; Fire Chief, Max Barker; Assistant Fire Chief, O.T. Horton; Captain, Jackie Michael; Truck drivers, Verdel Haney and Charley Taylor. Others attending were Ray Todd, Weldon Brown, Bo Allen and Jackie Brown.

President, Fleta Gregory announced she had purchased two fire extinguishers for the Fire Department. Instructions were given by the salesman how to install. Jackie Michael will get necessary pipe for installation.

Other tools needed to fight fires with were discussed such as axes, chains, bolt cutters, and fire poles. Fleta Gregory will contact a firm in Killeen, and possible purchase items there.

The department is looking for a pump to replace the old one on the red truck. The number off the old one is needed before the purchase can be made.

The Lone Star Bas Company furnished several telephone numbers to call in case of needs.

Insurance coverage for the fire fighters was discussed, which will cost $75.00 per year. The Department voted to extend the funds to meet necessary requirements.

The Fire Department has set the regular meeting to be held the first Sunday of each month at 4:00 p.m. to be held at the May Rodeo grounds.

Eastern Star Observes Birthday

August 2 was the regular meeting time for the Rising Star Order of the Eastern Star with Worthy Matron Opal Dean and pro-tem Worthy Patron Freddie Harrell presiding. Eighteen members were present. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton of Cisco Chapter, Cisco.

Our Chapter closed with a memorial directed by our Worthy Matron honoring our member, Leroy Woody, who passed away. Resolutions of Respect were read and the Charter was draped. Doris Griffin sang, accompanied by Grace Glenn, "Just Over in the Glory Land" in Mr. Woody's memory.

Thirteen members then presented a program honoring our Order's founder, Dr. Robert Morris. Each member presented two facts about Dr. Morris' life as she displayed a letter of his name, thus spelling R-O-B-E-R-T M-O-R-R-I-S.

The Chapter retired to the refreshment hall where it was beautifully decorated in gold appointments. This was done by Pearl Anderson and Bertha Mae White.

Members and guests enjoyed delicious iced punch and a variety of home made cookies served by hostesses Grace Glenn and Opal Fleming.

This poem came from the pen of our Poet Laureate of the Order of the Easter

May Church Has New Pastor

Rev. Paul Doerschuk of Howard Payne University, recently accepted duties as pastor of the May First Baptist Church and has moved to May.

Star 1982, Dorothy Deane Orr.

THE UN-FUNNY BONE

When God took Adam's rib
And made a Maid of it
Could Adam guess what woe
Would come from this cute chit?

She wears such kooky clothes,
And bares a shapely shin
Then wonders why the world
Is in the shape it's in.

She works outside the home,
Although he raves and rants;
There's nothing he can do
For she now wears the pants!

Though Adam lost his throne,
His Madam found her bib—
Had he forseen his plight,
I doubt he'd spared that RIB!!!

Duties as pastor here began July 4th. Doerschuk is thirty-four years old, a graduate of Kent State University in 1972 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering. He is presently doing second year Post graduate work in Bible at Howard Payne University.

Paul and his wife, Sherra, were commissioned as Missionaries in 1979, by the First Baptist Church of Martagorda, Texas, and have served with the Southern Baptist Convention Home Mission Board, Church Extension Division in Texas since.

The Doerschuk's have three daughters, Lee-11, Lisa-10, and Lara-9 years old. Pending the completion of REPAIR WORK AND PAINTING OF THE PARSONAGE, the Doerschuk's live in their mobile home near the church.

May welcomes the Doerschuk family to our community and to our church.

REACT

React ambulance took Grady Bush from Rising Star to Brownwood Hospital and Mattie L. Harris from Dr. Carpenter's office to Eastland Hospital on July 26, Raymond A. McCowen from Blackwell Clinic to Gorman Hospital.

We wish to thank Retha Sanders for her donation this week. Please remember we continue to need your support.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The RSISD Board of Trustees will meet Aug. 17 at 8:00 p.m. in the regular meeting room.

The purpose of the meeting is the adoption of the budget for the fiscal year 1982-83.

WTU Files for Wholesale Rate Change

West Texas Utilities Company filed Monday for a change in wholesale rates for a total requirements electric service it supplies to 14 rural electric cooperatives, one municipality and one investor-owned distribution company, and for partial requirements electric service it supplies to two municipally owned electric systems.

It is filing with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, WTU proposed rates which will produce about $2.1 million in additional revenue for the Company during the 1983 calendar year. This amounts to an increase of approximately three percent from these wholesale customers.

WTU requested that the new rates become effective January 1, 1983. Present total requirements rates have been in effect since February, 1982 and the partial requirements rates have been in effect since 1977. Except for the rate level, no other major changes were proposed.

WTU officials said the rate change is needed to bring the Company's revenues from wholesale customers to a level equal to the cost of providing service.

The following wholesale customers will be affected:

Coleman County Electric Cooperative, Inc., Concho Valley Electric Cooperative, Inc., Dickens Electric Cooperative, Inc., Gate City Electric Cooperative, Inc.,

Greenbelt Electric Cooperative, Inc., Lighthouse Electric Cooperative, Inc., McCulloch Electric Cooperative, Inc., Midwest Electric Cooperative, Inc., Rio Grande Electric Cooperative, Inc., Southwest Texas Electric Cooperative, Inc., Stamford Electric Cooperative, Inc., Taylor Electric Cooperative, Inc., Western Farmers Electric Cooperative, Inc. (which supplies Southwest Rural Electric Association), Brazos Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. (which supplies B-K Electric Cooperative, Inc., Comanche County, Electric Cooperative, Inc. and Ft. Belknap Electric Cooperative, Inc.) City of Brady, City of Coleman, City of Sonora and Texas-New Mexico Power Company.

SUPER SNACKER!

Snacks are an important source of everyone's daily nutrient and calorie intake. Although habit influences food selection more than health, eating nutritious snacks can be a choice, not a change. Through a state-wide campaign, the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is introducing a BE A SUPER SNACKER! program to promote snacking as a super way of keeping up with good nutrition.

Super snacks are delicious, a snap to fix and super for you—whether you're on a restricted diet or trying to lose weight; whether you're on the go at home or at the office.

Who Needs Super Snacks?

Young children generally are so active that they are constantly burning up energy and calories. They have small appetites and small stomachs so they can't eat enough in one meal. Children need enough energy to last until the next meal and still be able to play, grow and feel well.

Active teen-agers often are too busy to sit down to eat a full meal. Those involved in athletics require an extra large number of calories to meet their energy needs. Super snacks can help balance the meals teenagers miss, as well as supply extra energy.

Older adults often feel more comfortable when they eat several small meals. Overweight people may find they can better control appetite when they eat five or six small meals a day to keep from getting too hungry and "pigging out" at the next meal. Underweight persons, on the other hand, sometimes have trouble eating a large meal and can eat more if the food they need is spread out with snacks between meals.

People in poor health, particularly those who have an ulcer or gastric intestinal problems, generally respond better to treatment when they eat several small meals during the day.

RECIPE FOR THE WEEK:

This week I am featuring a wonderful super snack recipe which is very high in nutrition and low in calories. This will make a great snack for the family.

ORANGE BRAN COOKIES

Mix and sift together:
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
ADD:
1 cup bran flakes
1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
1 egg
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
Artificial sweetener (equal to 2 cups sugar)
2 Tablespoons unsweetened orange juice

Mix until well-blended. Form into 2 rolls, 1-1/4 inches in diameter; wrap in foil. Chill in refrigerator overnight or several hours. Slice thin. Place on greased baking sheets. Bake at 400 degrees for 8 to 12 minutes. Makes about 6 dozen cookies.

A muffin tin makes a great bed tray for feeding a sick child. Place food in compartments, a small glass of beverages in another. Include a small, surprise treat.

Education—Our Money's Worth?

In my travels over Texas, it has become clear that Texans rate crime, the economy, and the education of their children among their principal concerns.

This week I would like to discuss education. As the father of six children, this has long been one of my principal concerns also.

We currently spend over half our tax revenue on education, and many people raise the question to me: "Are we getting our money's worth?" The questions put to me indicate some think we are spending too much; others, not enough.

I too am concerned about the amount of money we spend on education, but I am more concerned about the quality of that education. I believe the quality of education our children receive can be improved by making some fundamental changes in the way we pay and treat our teachers.

I believe in merit pay for teachers. Frankly, I think good teachers ought to be paid more than poor teachers. A good, conscientious teacher cannot help but become discouraged and disillusioned when he or she ends the month with the same pay as one whom they know to be indifferent. The result is apt to be that they leave the teaching profession altogether.

I also think we ought to enter a system of competency testing not only for new teachers, but for those who are currently teaching. We test our kids, why not also test those who teach them?

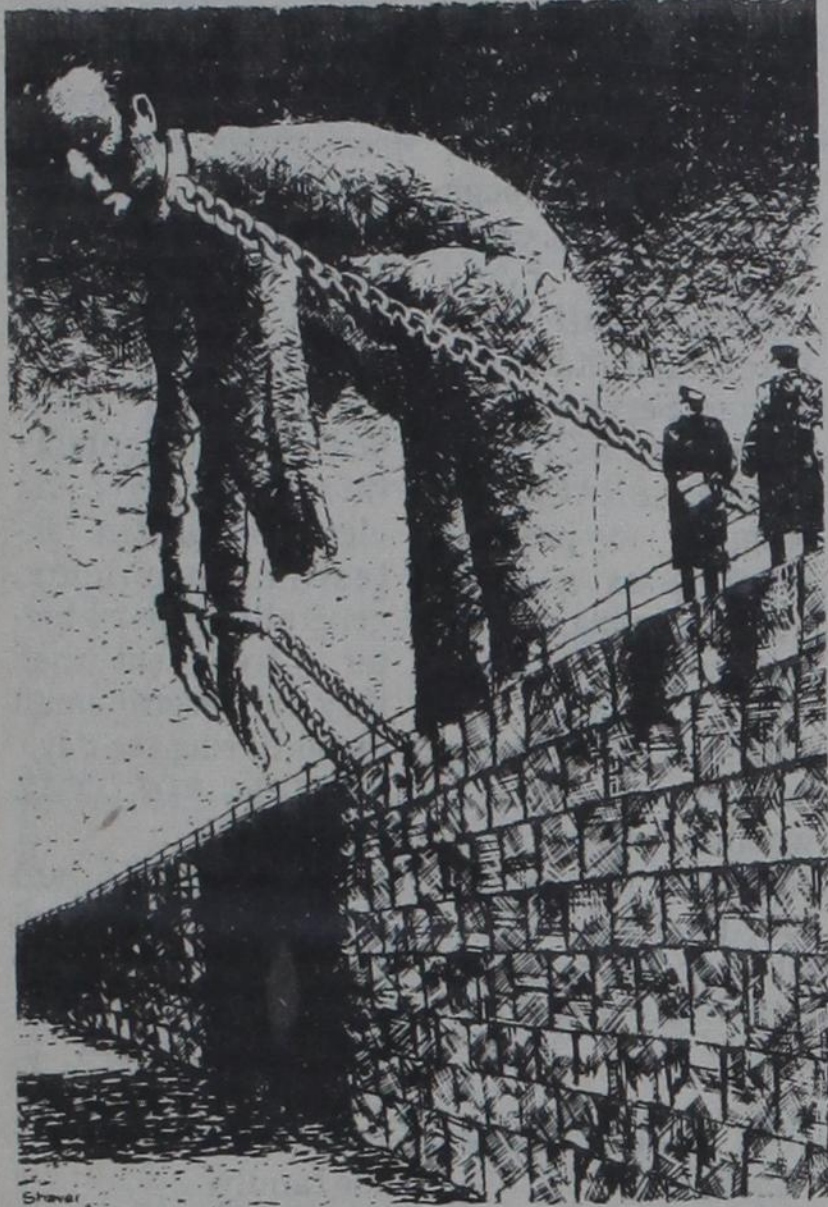

In short, I think we ought to bear down on the basics, relieve our teachers of burdensome paper work now placed upon them, and recognize and reward our better teachers with better pay, for the sake of our children, and our future.

If you have thoughts on this subject, I would welcome them. Just write to me at 1213 W. 34th in Austin, 78705.

The Berlin Wall After 21 Years

By David Keithly

On the hot summer night of August 13, 1961, East German Police and military units sealed off the 28 mile boundary between East and West Berlin with cement block and barbed wire. Through this action East Germany slammed shut the last escape route out of a drab police state, a police state which to this day is bolstered by 19 Soviet divisions.

As President John Kennedy noted, the Berlin Wall was an admission of failure. By 1961 the stream of refugees from East Germany had reached unprecedented levels. Between 1945 and 1960 some 3,300,000 East Germans - one fifth of the population of the Soviet zone - had fled to the West. A majority of these refugees were young people and a sizeable number consists of professionals, technicians, engineers, teachers and doctors who had become disillusioned with what their leaders had called a "worker's paradise." In the first half of 1961 over 150,000 had "voted with their feet" against the East German regime. During July alone more than 30,000 had fled. In the words of Secretary of state Dean Rusk: "East Germany was hemorrhaging to death."

The Berlin Wall reflects the regime's need to quarantine itself from the "infection" of Western ideas. The regime has consistently demonstrated its refusal to adhere to the third "basket" of the Helsinki Accords, which aims to widen East-West contacts and to facilitate the flow of information. Laws passed in the summer of 1979 prohibit East German writers from publishing in the West without the regime's permission and make unofficial contact with Western journalists a criminal offense. In the fall of 1980 East Germany raised the required exchange rate for visiting the country. Upper and middle level party members are forbidden to maintain contacts with Westerners. The regime's continuous desire to isolate itself shows that its sole interest in the Helsinki Accords is the recognition of post World War II boundaries, not the freer exchange of ideas.

The Wall thus serves as a reminder of what communism stands for in practice: first, the denial of individual freedoms and equality before the law, which are the cornerstones of Western democracy; second, the concentration of power in the hands of a party elite that disdains criticism and opposition of any kind; third, an ideology that totally subordinates the individual to the state.

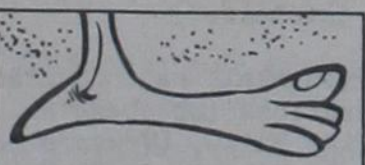

The popular song-writer, Wolf Biermann, was expelled from East Germany in 1977 for "slandering the East German state" although he professes to be a communist. The scientist, Robert Havemann, was arrested in 1978 for criticizing the East German leadership. The economist and industrial manager, Rudolf Bahro, was expelled in 1979 for the "crime" of publishing his suggestions for improving East German economic efficiency in the West. In open violation of the Helsinki Accords, the East German leadership continues to pursue a determined witch-hunt against writers.

The Wall has had far-reaching effects upon the political situation in divided Germany. It extinguished the last spark of hope for German reunification while strengthening in certain ways the East German regime. East Germans, realizing the total absence of an alternative, tacitly support the regime and work for their own material prosperity. Political stability has brought tremendous economic advancement, and East Germans have become conscious of the fact that theirs is the richest of the communist states.

The Berlin Wall stabilized the East German regime, strengthened the country economically, and therefore brought it international recognition. Prior to 1961 the very survival of East Germany, drained of its strength by the constant flow of refugees, was doubtful. Its economic and political stability enabled the country to become a member of the United Nations and to establish full diplomatic relations with most countries.

Viewing the Wall, how can one respect a regime that is anathema to all Western democratic values? What kind of regime is it which needs to wall in its citizens in order to maintain economic and political stability? Those who are relieved to hear Soviet professions of peace - despite Czechoslovakia, despite Poland, despite Afghanistan - need only to gaze at the Berlin Wall for a silent but penetrating reminder of the harsh reality of communism. This is a 21st anniversary which should not go unnoticed.

Maude Bailey With Stories To Share

By Viola Payne

Summer is family reunion time in Eastland County, and among the June and July reunions were those of the Arnold and Bailey families. The main attraction at both of these was 92 yr. old Mrs. Maude Bailey of Cisco, a daughter of the late E.J. Arnold, and wife of the late M.D. Bailey.

Only one of Mrs. Bailey's seven children - Judge Scott Bailey - lives in Cisco now. The others are scattered across the southwest and as far away as Oregon. All have made remarkable contributions in various professions - in the Air Force, in education, and in government Community Development work. There are also 21 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

The grandchildren are a bonus - they add life to all the gatherings. When the grandchildren cluster around Maude Bailey, they are always interested in her stories and the poems she recites.

"Tell us about when you were a little girl! And how did you meet Grandfather? And why were you always so interested in your children getting an education?"

Mrs. Bailey has lived through a number of these "stories", leaving a kaleidoscope of memories. But her sweet smile and the sparkle in her gray-blue eyes show that happy times have far outweighed the sad ones.

Maude Bailey's first "story" concerns the Cisco tornado, which hit the town April 28, 1893. Although she was only three years old at the time, she has a vivid recollection of the event.

Maude was living with her family about 12 miles S. of Cisco, in the Long Branch Community, on the banks of the Sabanno river. Her father had a 321 acre stockfarm, and most of his crops were planted for the year.

The family had a good frame home, but their storm cellar had not been finished. The men of the community were working together to build each family a cellar, and had not quite completed the Arnolds.

A nearby neighbor, George Branton, had invited the Arnolds to use their cellar if necessary. "Now Jim, if it comes a storm, you bring your family on down. There'll be plenty of room."

By April 28 E.J. Arnold was very worried about the weather. He had a special interest in weather signs, and an almost uncanny ability to forecast. He had been telling Maude's mother, Melinda Arnold, that there was going to be a storm.

"The moon and stars are in the right position. And you notice how the wind has been making quick changes to different directions for several days. Blowing from first one, then another."

their children, rolled the baby in a quilt, and headed for Mr. Branton's cellar.

As they were walking along, about 9:00 p.m., a loud roaring came from the cloud. This was accompanied by a strange sound which Maude Bailey describes as "a rattling clatter - like tin pans hitting a wire fence."

It was the sound of a town being destroyed.

"Cisco is being blown away right now," her father said.

The next morning Arnold found out how correct his statement was! The mailman brought tragic news from Cisco. A direct hit by a tornado - 23 people killed - about 93 injured.

E.J. Arnold drove his empty wagon into town to help. He stayed overnight, working among demolished buildings. Maude Bailey remembers that when he came home and told of the sad experiences, her kind-hearted mother wept.

Other times were happier ones for the Arnold family. They visited friends and neighbors, attended the local Church of Christ (where E.J. Arnold was Elder) and most the school events.

At Hallmark - a new school in the community - there was a Literary Society which presented a program each month. A teacher named Ola Ezell was in charge of these exciting events. Maude was very impressed by this teacher and the programs.

One evening, when she was only seven, Maude Arnold began the program by giving a "Welcoming Address" to the community. She stepped before a large crowd and said:

"I have been called on to give the 'Welcome Address' tonight, but I am so small I think they have imposed on me. But when I have a task to perform, I try to do my best."

The audience was delighted with the small, blonde girl with the clear voice.

These events were so interesting to the children that they often played at "giving programs". This led to a mishap for Maude - but it also brought her the most beautiful dress of her girlhood.

One day the Arnolds were visiting the Noland family, who lived between Pioneer and Cross Plains. A group of girls were "giving a program", using a big stump for a stage. Maude gave her speech, then jumped off the stump like a "tomboy" rather than the little lady she was supposed to be. A piece of limb caught her long dress, and ripped it right off her!

Mrs. Noland came to the rescue. She took Maude in the house, found a dress which fit, and gave it to her. "I thought it was the most beautiful dress I had ever seen," Mrs. Bailey says. "It was thin white material, with white stripes in it which looked like lace. There were ruffles on the long skirt, and a pretty belt. I felt so dressed up - I kept it and wore it for ages!"

Families attending the Church of Christ often carried their noon meal, and ate together after the service. Maude's mother had a little "trunk" which was always packed with the best food the family could afford. You can be sure the children were curious about what was in it!

In the summer there would be fried or baked chicken, fresh vegetables, and good homemade cakes and pies. Church was scheduled at 11:00 a.m., which allowed the families time to reach there by wagon or horseback.

Sometimes preaching, singing, and Bible discussions would resume after the noon meal, and last most of the afternoon.

"The fellowship - the joy of being there with my family - is something I have never forgotten," says Maude

Her family was soon broken by death. When she was 10 her father died, leaving her mother with seven daughters (two older ones had married) and a four yr. old son.

For several years the family stayed on the home place, with the girls trying to do the work of men. Then Melinda Arnold made a far-reaching decision. She realized that education was very important for her girls, and that they should be more nearer a High School. So they rented out the land and moved to Rising Star, where she bought a home.

This decision in favor of higher education was a turning point in Maude's life, and it continued to bring good things. After High School she attended Hankins Normal College in Gorman. Within a year she was able to pass a State teacher's Examination and obtain her certificate.

This began her career in teaching in pioneer schools in Hamilton and Eastland Counties. It would have been difficult to find a more dedicated teacher than Maude Arnold, or one who tried as hard to instill a sense of values into her pupils.

In 1916 Maude Arnold was Principal of a two-teacher school (Cook) west of Cisco. An attractive young man from Kentucky was visiting relatives - the Gardeners - in the area. He enrolled in a Teacher's Training Class Maude Arnold was coaching.

Maude was impressed with M.D. Bailey, but conversations between them were impersonal. She scarcely hoped to see him again after school closed.

She went ahead with plans to enter N. Texas State at Denton in September, where she planned to major in Home Economics. At the beginning of the term she rode the train over to Denton to enroll. A group of welcoming students were waiting at the station to give official greetings. Imagine her surprise to see M.D. Bailey right in the middle of the group!

No doubt his welcome was quite sincere, for he did remember her. Who could forget that pretty little teacher from Cisco?

The "welcome" included a party that night, and M.D. Bailey continued to be attentive. He escorted Maude Arnold back to her dormitory after the party was over.

This began a courtship which lasted during the whole school year. The young people attended lectures, ball games - and the 1916 Dallas Fair. By spring they had decided that marriage to each other was the most important thing in the world to them.

On May 30, 1917, M.D. Bailey and Maude Arnold were married at the Texas Hotel, in downtown Ft. Worth. The groom wore a neat dark suit - the bride a lovely crepe de cheen white dress. The ceremony was performed by A.O. Collie, a Church of Christ minister. Shortly afterward the Baileys left from the Depot on the Sunshine Special, with a destination of Morgantown, Ky.

As the train pulled out of the station, Maude Bailey felt that life was working out beautifully. Her mother had encouraged her to get an education - and this had placed her in a position to meet someone she could be happy with. But it was sad, in a way, to leave her home area. Of course she could not foresee the future - how she and M.D. Bailey would someday return to Cisco to make their home.

Nor could she realize they would have a family of seven children, who would reap the benefits of her education and training.

And of course she could hardly visualize that she would be active more than sixty years later, involved in Community work. Queen of the Senior Citizens group in 1980 - other honors bestowed upon her. And then, in 1982, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren thronging home to see her again - interested in hearing the stories which bound them all together.

But that's one of the great things about living a long time - you get to see some of the results of your work!

There are about 290 species of pigeons in the world.

Laws

Laws are passed against something to stop it altogether or at least to curtail the situation whereby we can at least tolerate it. So let's talk about some of the ones that do neither.

DWI: This is the one that we as citizens need to get mad enough about to change the law to stop people who drink from driving. Actually it is first degree murder.

Murderers: This is one of the criminals who needs to receive the same as they dish out. Any person that uses a lethal weapon to rob or commit any other crime, should at least be given enough time that they could not do it again in their life time.

Robbers: They are potential murderers, should they be accosted, would certainly kill to keep from being apprehended.

Insanity: To receive a verdict of insanity the person should not be capable of loading a gun, much less emptying it at a person. In the case of the president, not a one of the people that I have heard express themselves believe that his assailant was in any way insane, so this law certainly needs changing.

These are not the only laws that are not getting the job done. We can't stop crime catering to the criminal. The laws were supposed to protect the people, not the criminal.

When the Sheriff was approached about protecting our homes, he stated that you had better drag the criminal inside the house should you shoot him.

Let's put people in our government that are not liberal minded and who will get tough with the ones who commit crimes.

Did you know that each criminal in prison now, his family receives some fifteen thousand dollars yearly to keep up their needs. Lets put them to work and let them keep up their own family.

It is my understanding that the money to keep up the criminal's family comes out of Social Security. Anyway we don't need to give them an incentive to rob or steal.

Dana Rice Weds David Stacey

Dana Rice Stacey

Slanted ranks of candles glowed softly and then merged into a bright flame of unity as Dana Lyn Rice became the bride of David Kent Stacey in the First United Methodist Church of Stephenville June 26. The bride was given in marriage by her parents, Garner and Verita Rice of Lingleville, to the youngest son of Billie Joe and Mary John Stacey of Stephenville. Her father escorted her to the altar where the double ring ritual was said by Dr. Bobby Weathers, superintendent of the Brownwood District of the United Methodist Church.

Organ music by Dr. Don Martin, dean emeritus of the Tarleton State University music department, and nuptial songs by Miss Becky Moon of Lingleville and Jackson Bowen of DeLeon, set a mood of quiet solemnity for the service.

The wedding party, in formal attire, included:

Matron of honor, Dawn Pendleton of Stephenville; bridesmaids, Marsha Rice of Lingleville, sister of the bride, and Sandy McCarty and Selena Sparkman of Stephenville; best man, Gary Stacey of Stephenville, brother of the groom; groomsmen, Mike Stacey of Irving, also a brother, and John Mike Pendleton and Kyle Fornes of Stephenville; ringbearer, Chris Stacey, the groom's nephew; Ushers, Benny Frank Rice of Brookemsmith, the bride's brother, and Kyle Fornes, and candlelighters, Jeven cuffs. Pleated chiffon scallops extended the full skirt on two sides and Chantilly lace flowed down the chapel length train. The front of the dress had a pleated chiffon inset with marginal Chantilly lace. The bride wore a lace and pearl encrusted matching picture hat with a large chiffon bow at the back tapering into streamers, and she carried a cascade of bouquet of bridal blue and white roses with white daisies and others of varied shades of blue, secured by satin bows and streamers of greenery and baby's breath.

A unity candleholder of brass held a blue, handcarved unity candle with a blue bow and greenery on the steam. Tapers on either side of the unity candle were lit by the bride's and groom's mothers after they were escorted down the aisle. An arrangement of carnations and roses were placed between the two candles to be lit by the candlelighters preceding the ceremony.

The pews were marked with blue and white satin and crepe-ribbons and sprays of baby's breath and greenery.

Two candlebra of brass, decorated with blue bows and greenery, held 28 tapers that were lit by the groom's nephew and niece while Miss Moon sang "Evergreen" to the organ's accompaniment. Mr. Bowen sang "The Rose" as the two mothers were escorted to the altar for their part in the ceremony. After the ritual and while Becky and Jackson sang "We've Only Just Begun" in duet, the bride and groom together lit the unity candle.

Some 150 or more friends and relatives were served from a bride's and a groom's table at a following reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The couple will make their home at Tarleton Arms Apartments in Stephenville.

WHERE DO YOU FIT IN?

A national survey of churches in the United States revealed the following about church members:

- 10% cannot be found anywhere.
- 20% never attend a service.
- 25% admit they never pray.
- 35% admit they never read God's Word.
- 40% never contribute to the church or its missions.
- 60% never read or study the Bible lessons.
- 70% never attend the

Sunday evening service. 75% never assume any responsibility in their church. 95% never win a soul to Christ.

But 100% expect to go to heaven.

It seems a lot of church people do not understand what a commitment to Christ and His church is all about.

A commitment to Christ as Savior and Lord is also a commitment to attend His church each Lord's Day.

Getting along with family members? If not, try "strength bombardment," says Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist with the TAES.

Use this technique to develop the ability to express appreciation and improve family relationships.

All-Risk Wheat Insurance Has Individual Yield Guarantees

Eastland County wheat farmers can participate in a new All-Risk insurance program that includes yield guarantees based on their individual production records. The program, known as Individual Yield Coverage (IYC) was announced by Ardell M. Kalmbach District Director of All-Risk Crop Insurance.

Kalmbach explains that the plan will provide higher levels of insurance protection for wheat producers who can verify higher than average yields for at least the most recent three years. In the past, insurance guarantees have been based on the average yield in the area where the crop was produced. Farmers interested in participating should contact the local ASCS Office in Eastland for information concerning yield verification procedures.

All-Risk Crop Insurance, which has been expanded to replace the Disaster Payments program abolished by Congress a year ago, is designed to provide reasonably priced protection against the loss of money invested in crop production. A subsidy by the federal government reduces the cost of carrying insurance by as much as 30%, according to Kalmbach. The policies are available through private insurance agents.

The deadline to apply for insurance on 1983 crop winter wheat in Eastland County is September 15th. Growers wishing to participate in the Individual Yield Coverage program, however, are urged to contact their ASCS office as far in advance of this date as possible to allow time for yield verification.

Increased Energy Corporation of Coleman today announced a conference to be held in Brownwood, August 12, 1982. The purpose of the conference is to discuss the Duffer Formation.

A detailed research project is being conducted into the completion and production problems of the Duffer. "We have met many producers and pumpers who have had numerous problems with the Duffer Formation," said an IEC officer. from the wells." Extensive testing and analysis has been recently performed by IEC, an oil field chemical manufacturer.

Operators, pumpers, owners and all related personnel are invited to come share their knowledge and experience with the Duffer. This information will be used to compile a detailed report on how the Duffer can be made more productive. Free copies of the report will be made available to those attending the conference.

The conference will be held at 800 South Greenleaf, Brownwood at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, August 12, 1982. There will be no charge for admittance. Refreshments will be served. For further information please call: Increased Energy Corporation (915) 625-2182.

Peanut growers don't become complacent about peanut leafspot and its control. In recent years control of leafspot, especially dryland peanuts, has not been extensive due to dry weather.

Operators, pumpers, owners and all related personnel are invited to come share their knowledge and experience with the Duffer. This information will be used to compile a detailed report on how the Duffer can be made more productive. Free copies of the report will be made available to those attending the conference.

Requirements for peanut leafspot development include presence of the fungus, a susceptible host and favorable weather conditions. Fungi causing the disease are present in all peanut growing areas. The fungus and susceptible host are present. Therefore, the limiting factor to disease development is favorable weather conditions.

Prolonged high relative humidity is conducive to disease infection. Early season inoculum potential is the number of spores available to initiate infection. The infection process occurs in 4 to 12 hours when the relative humidity is 95% or more at the leaf surface. Infection is most rapid when humidity and temperatures are high.

which has resulted in higher than normal relative humidities, especially in the plant canopy.

Low levels of infection are occurring in local fields. These low level infections serve to increase inoculum potential. The inoculum potential is the number of spores available to initiate infection.

The infection process occurs in 4 to 12 hours when the relative humidity is 95% or more at the leaf surface. Infection is most rapid when humidity and temperatures are high.

excessive rainfall has provided an abundance of soil moisture

Because of leafspot is not visible to the unaided eye until 10 to 12 days after the infection occurs, infection must be anticipated. In dryland peanuts (Florrunners or Spanish), begin fungicide applications at the first evidence of leafspot or when rains or dews favor disease development. In irrigated runner peanuts, fungicide applications should be 60-65 days after planting (35 to 40 for Spanish).

Take some tips on selecting pantyhose, says Becky Saunders, a clothing specialist with the TAES.

Since this item represents a sizable budget amount throughout the year, consider these points: ---sheers and semisheers fit best, while ultrasheers tend to bag,

---hose with reinforced toes and top will last longer as will support hose, which are almost indestructible and can be machine washed, ---price does not
