

From The Editor Window

Speaking of the election, most of citizens had occasion to have a good laugh at the expense of the mayor...

So, these officials have been carefully and conscientiously directing the traffic and several offenders have willingly or unwillingly paid their fines.

On election day the mayor, who was very busy, took time out to drive to the polls to do his duty...

After a long continued drouth the rains have come and the people throughout this section were especially glad to see them.

The elections have come and gone. The people have spoken and the fate of our beloved country now rests, so to speak, in the hands of the President and the United States congress.

A member of the faculty of a London medical college was appointed an honorary physician to the King. He proudly wrote a notice on the blackboard in his classroom...

When he returned to the classroom in the afternoon, someone had written below the notice, this line: "God save the King!"

From Capper's Weekly we learn that the new movie, "Gone With the Wind," not only is the most expensive ever made, costing nearly $5,000,000 to produce...

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has recently announced the discovery of a new American synthetic rubber...

This discovery is said to be the fourth of different kinds of synthetic rubber, all homemade, here in the United States.

The election over, it is to be hoped that we will all forget our differences and hard-feelings and settle down as far as possible to normal life again.

We might add to these lines—and let us pray to the Heavenly Father above that these blessings may be continued to us here in the only free country and that He will speed the day democratic nation in the world when wars all over the earth shall cease.

One of Nation's Outstanding Women of 1939 Scientist Finds Work Is Secret of Success

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. — They have a name for diminutive Katherine Burr Blodgett, whose energetic scientific research won her designation as one of the nation's 10 outstanding women of 1939.

She's the "invisible glass lady," to fellow workers at General Electric Company.

Laboratory associates call her "Indefatigable."

Neighbors, observing her ardor for gardening, say she's "a farmer at heart."

But the little, 42-year-old Dr. Blodgett grins and insists: "I'm just another girl trying to get along."

And "get along" she has—since the day she graduated from Bryn Mawr 23 years ago at 19, the youngest and second highest in scholastic standing in her class.

Her work on surface chemistry long has been familiar to scientists and her development of non-reflecting glass brought her international prominence a year ago.

"Five feet one and a half inches tall and weighing 115 pounds, she epitomizes the theory of perpetual motion—always on the go in the laboratory and at her Lake George cabin where she tried "to forget everything about science."

"I chop down brush, pull out weeds and try to keep the place looking pretty," said Dr. Blodgett. "I'm crazy about working in the soil. When I leave the laboratory for good, I'll be a farmer."

Despite a belief that "the formula for success is work," the "invisible glass lady" concedes there's such a thing as "plain luck."

"But luck," she adds, "always seems to run hand in hand with those who work the hardest."

There is nothing hush-hush about her manner of work. As she stalks along the row of test tubes she often stops suddenly in her pacing, pulls a slide, murmurs "Why didn't I think of that before," and continues her task.

She finds it a successful means of concentration.

For it was a "Why not?" attitude that led to her discovery of a non-reflecting film for glass making it appear invisible.

"I was working on the properties of single layers of molecules, which I kept building on, top of one another to get a film with a definite number of layers. By seeing what color any transparent substance will reflect you can determine the thickness."

"After dipping the slide into a tank containing berium stearate and watching the molecular layers build up, I picked up the slide and accidentally held it to the window and to my surprise saw that the coated strip transmitted more light than the uncoated portion."

"I set down. Got up, walked around, thinking it over. The more I thought about it the plainer it became. Of course, that's exactly what should happen."

Dr. Blodgett explains as the light falls upon the film, rays are reflected from both upper and lower surfaces. Since the coating is exactly one-quarter the average wave-length—4,100,000 of an inch—in thickness, rays coming from the outer or upper surface are equal in intensity and opposite in phase to those rays reflected from the lower surface.

FOOD STAMP PLAN IS SURE TO BE A SUCCESS

COLLEGE STATION.—As flexible as an accordion, the food stamp plan is being expanded rapidly in Texas so that already this method of surplus commodity distribution is in operation in 14 counties though the program is barely over a year old.

Counties where the plan is operating are Wichita, Hall, Harris, Travis, McLennan, El Paso, Childress, Taylor, Eastland, Dallas, Tarrant, Hale, Lubbock, and Wilbarger. In addition, Hidalgo and Gregg counties are to begin operation within a few weeks, according to regional officials of the Surplus Marketing Administration.

Agricultural commodities and products which have been designated as surplus foods by the Secretary of Agriculture and may be exchanged for blue food order stamps in Texas and 10 other Southern states until further announcement of the Secretary are as follows: outer, raisins, rice, pork lard, pork, corn, meal, eggs, dried peaches, hominy grits, wheat and whole wheat flour, fresh oranges, cabbage, Irish potatoes, tomatoes, apples, pears and dry beans.

All fresh cuts, including chilled, frozen, pickled, salted, cured or smoked pork may be secured with blue food order stamps. However, cooked pork or pork packed in metal or glass containers are not included in the designation.

Under the food stamp plan surplus agricultural commodities are purchased through the regular channels of trade in any eligible retail store.

The Conscience Fund

In 1811 the Treasury at Washington started an account called the "conscience fund," into which was placed a remittance from a remorseful citizen who had evaded a federal tax.

In the 129 years since the fund was started it has received nearly a million dollars, a considerable amount of balm for guilty consciences.

A recent check came from a former dough-boy who pilfered some chocolate candy bars from a government supply truck in France during the World War. He sent $2 to pay for the stolen sweets.

The "conscience fund" would swell to enormous proportions if all American who have evaded their indebtedness to the Government would follow the example of those who have already repented of their sins against Uncle Sam.

Every year, merchandise which would yield large sums in customs duties is sneaked into the country by tourists returning home after foreign vacations, as well as by professional smugglers.

There is widespread evasion also of many federal taxes, particularly the income tax, for which many have been severely punished.

The Americans who have poured money into the "conscience fund" apparently decided, after thinking it over, that one should be as honest with the Government as with his fellow citizens. Which is thought many more could ponder with profit.

We wish to express our thanks to our many friends for their kindness shown us during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother.

A. A. Brazil and family.

DENTIST, X-RAY Phone 26180 BAIRD, — TEXAS

My friend, Mr. Cohen, makes this comment on the axis powers getting Japan to join up, "Ven a beezness is making money, it don't take in no new partner."

Towns are like people is that they have individuality. It would be difficult to imagine a town with a more complex personality than Huntsville has. It is the home of ore of the State teachers' colleges and there are stately buildings and a campus, green and smooth, overhung with grand wide-spreading trees.

The town is rich with memories of Sam Houston. His home is there, his tomb is there. One of the banks has his picture printed on its checks. One of the main cafes is called "the Raven," the name that the Indians bestowed on Houston.

But when Huntsville is mentioned almost every Texan thinks— not about the hero of San Jacinto or about Sam Houston State Teachers College—but about the penitentiary. The grim ramparts are only a stone's throw from the business district. And on the eve of an execution, the nearness of "the Walls" and the impending event to affect the conversation of the citizenry for they talk in lower voices than usual.

I hunted all over town unsuccessfully for some picture post cards of the penitentiary. There were several friends that I wanted to send them to with the customary vacation greeting, "Wish you were here."

"It's in the bag" is the slogan of an attractive booklet just received with the joint compliments of President Jack P. Burrus of the Burrus Feed Mills and Wiley Atkins, Texas Feed Manufacturers Association president and general managers of the Burrus Feed Mills, whose products use Texas materials and employ Texas labor, the workers having an average experience of 15 years. Did you know (probably you did) that buttermilk and cod liver oil are in "chick starter," the first food for chicks? And there are separate foods for growing, for broilers, for layers and as "fatners"—and a different but similar kind of diet for turkeys. Besides the mills turn out (right here in Texas) rabbit feed, pigeon feed and dog food; likewise, feeds for dairy cattle, horses and mules, and even a protein supplement for swine. Why doesn't somebody tell me these things? And do you know what range cubes are? A postal card to the Burrus Feed Mills either in Dallas, Fort Worth or San Benito will bring anyone interested a free copy of the interesting booklet.

There never was a more wonderful place than Grandpa-and-Grandma's farm. The berries that you buy today in nice little wooden boxes don't taste half so good as those that grew wild up there in the hills and that were all the more delicious because the briars pricked your fingers. The wild plums were just the right combination of sweetness and tartness. And there were muscadines and persimmons (the latter fooling the unwary by being puckery when they looked ripe and not being actually ripe till they looked rotten).

Besides, there was a small orchard of pear, peach and apple trees. Those apples looked different and tasted different from any I've ever eaten anywhere else. They were a sort of dusky and dusty red with a firmness that reluctantly yielded its nectar-like juice. Why some enterprising firm hasn't grown and marketed apples like those instead of these sawdust-tasting substitutes I have never been able to understand. Maybe they couldn't send along with the apples the ravenous appetite of a romping boy, however.

A Matador reader sends in two jokes for the contest: A white woman had just engaged a colored girl who had recently lost her husband. Going into the maid's room, she discovered her placing a suit of black underwear on the bed, with the explanation, "Missus, when Ah mourns, Ah mourns all over."

Another colored maid, about to be married, asked her mistress to keep her savings, $50, for her, giving as her reason, "Ah hates to keep all dat money in de house wid a strange niggah man."

LANE BURIAL ASSOCIATION
This association provides a plan of Burial Benefit, at a rate so reasonable, practically everyone can afford to carry the protection. (Ages 1 month to 80 years.)
This is a home enterprise, organized under approval of Board of Insurance Commissioners of Texas. It is directed by men who have been in the funeral business for many years, who understand the needs and emergencies that arise at the time of death.
Burial Benefit is not life insurance. All of the investment features have been eliminated. Therefore it is operated at the very lowest cost.
We are not in competition with any Life Insurance Company, but we offer you this additional Burial Protection at a price you can afford to pay. Carry it along with your regular Life Insurance.
It does not cost you any more to become a member of our Association than it does to pay your regular monthly premiums. You can pay by the year or month at our office.
We are not interested in Insurance Profits. We offer this protection to our friends who feel the need of burial benefits. The rates are low, but high enough to insure a fund large enough to meet the needs of the Association.
We urge you to investigate the plan and purpose of this burial association with as much sincerity and consideration as we had in you in bringing this highly desirable benefit to you.
