COCHISE? SITTING BULL? TONTO?

Berl joined a Jumping school and the jump instructor showed the class how to pull the rip cord. "Yell 'Geronimo!' and pull the rip cord," he told them. "If the parachute doesn't open, flap your arms like you're flying," he added.

Berl jumped and frantically knocked on the door of the plane, yelling, 'What was that Indian's name, again?'

Berl was thrown from his car when the train was derailed. He flew a dozen feet through the air before he hit headfirst against a concrete post. For a moment he lay dazed, rubbing his head. A fellow passenger ran up. "Don't move," yelled the passenger. "We're calling a doctor!" "Naw," said Berl getting to his feet, "I'm not hurt too bad. That concrete post musta broke my fall."

Speech play

"Keep Your Halo Straight" is a quite appropriate title for the Speech Class play. The story is about Johnny, our hero, who is portrayed by Don L. Grimes, and his hard times with his conscience, who is, in reality, Richard Krebbs. Johnny's kid sister Pam is played by Sandra Hardin and Mrs. Bennet, Johnny's mother, is Dessie Taylor. Roberta, Johnny's bossy girlfriend is Vicky Bush and Chet's cute cousin, she is Cindy Cowart. Chet is Alex Grice and his girlsfriend, Ginny is Vicki Roberts.

The play is a story of Johnny, who tries to be true to his steady girlfriend, Roberta. His conscience seems to be good for nothing but trouble, turns out to be an angel, as his halo and wings The production was put on 2nd period, Tuesday, May 8, 1973.
