4,400 Join Army Reserves During Last Half 1956; Highest Total Ever

The Department of the Army has announced that the number of Army Reservists in a paid participating status shot up 34,400 in the last six months of 1956 to reach a total of more than 240,000 by December 31, the highest total yet recorded, it was announced today by Major General Lewis S. Griffing, chief of Army military district, Texas.

This net gain for the first half fiscal year 1957 included 30,700 active men and 3,700 officers.

Of the enlisted strength, 18,000, or 17 to 18 percent, signed up for the months active duty for training program. Many of these are among the 12,000 reserve component trainees now undergoing active duty training.

At the present rate of increase, Army Reservist gains in a paid participating status will by June 30, 1957, the end of the fiscal year, considerably exceed the 43,000 recorded the year previous when that figure was the greatest yearly net gain ever made in the history of the Army reserve.

FROGS?—IN WEST TEXAS?? Literally hundreds and thousands of tiny frogs have invaded West Texas following recent rains. Highways have been practically covered with the tiny animals as they have crossed from one side of the road to the other. And it's been the delight of children all over town to catch the small frogs and play with them. These four frogs were caught by children living in Slaton, and have been "converted" into what might be called pets... but rather unusual pets at that.

THE CAUSES GO DEEP

Whenever a community suffers an outbreak of teen-age hoodlumism, there is bound to be a public outcry. Usually those who are heard may be divided into two classes—the ones who demand that the young rowdies be given a taste of their medicine, and the ones who declare that the problem would be solved by having better recreation programs to "get the kids off the streets."

Neither of these suggested remedies is anything like an adequate answer to the problem of juvenile delinquency. It is a dangerous fallacy to conclude that severe punishment alone will set delinquents back on the right path and dissuade other young people from breaking the law. It is equally fallacious to assume that providing a big program of fun and games is going to lick the problem.

This is not to say that young law-breakers and disturbers of the peace should go scot free or be given the equivalent of a pat on the wrist. Nor can one deny that organized recreation programs do help to some extent. But the reasons for misbehavior by young people are many, and they go deep.

For youngsters as well as adults, punishment to fit the crime is a healthy deterrent to further crime. And recreation programs may tend to keep young people from roving about looking for trouble. However, these approaches deal only with the surface manifestations; they do not get at the individual and social causes which lie beneath the surface.

Before society can deal adequately with juvenile misbehavior and crime, much more must be known about the causes, and ways in which these causes can be eliminated. This is the most promising point of attack on the whole broad problem of teen-age delinquency.

DAILY MIRACLE

Most of us, at one time or another, are oppressed by a mood of cynicism and disenchantment with life. The burden of troubles, of disappointments and frustrations, seems too much to bear at such moments. We tend to shake our fists at life, then, taking a kind of childish satisfaction in this act of defiance.

At times like these, one could do worse than consider the advice of Judge Coates, a wise old character in James Gould Cozzens' novel "The Just and the Unjust." Noting that "nobody promises you a good time or an easy time," Judge Coates adds:

"There is the present to think of, and as long as you live there always will be. In the present, every day is a miracle. The world gets up in the morning and is fed and goes to work, and in the evening it comes home and is fed again and perhaps has a little amusement and goes to sleep. To make that possible, so much has to be done by so many people that, on the face of it, it is impossible. Well, every day we do it; and every day, come hell, come high water, we are going to have to go on doing it as well as we can."

There you have it, the philosophy of a man who has seen much of life and has concluded that "every day is a miracle." It is something worth mulling over when the going seems rough.

HARD TO ENTER COLLEGE

"Your application for admission to this medical school shows your previous scholastic record to consist entirely of B's. We are sorry to state that enough applicants whose work has been consistently graded A are available to fill all the places in our classes. We are compelled therefore to reject your application."

This disheartening message has been received by many youths with good school records who wanted to study medicine. Much the same experience is the fate of many boys and girls who seek admission to a college of their choice. Nowadays they have to apply to several colleges at once, in the hope of landing one.

What is to be done? To increase adequately the size and number of our institutions of higher learning will be immensely costly. Yet such increases will have to be made if the rising generation is to have adequate training. In the future we will need more, rather than less, higher education.

HOME-MADE PARKING

A common sight in almost any residential area of almost any American community is the lineup of cars along the streets at night. From time to time, someone notes that this is both unsightly and hazardous.

The community of Rockville, Md., has come up with an answer that might make a lot of sense elsewhere. Encouraged by city officials, citizens are building their own off-street residential parking. According to the American Municipal Association, the city is providing the citizens with basic plans, locating dump grounds, even conducting night classes in the techniques of building driveways.

As a result of all this, a lot of cars will be parked off the streets out of harm's way. Both car owners and the community as a whole will benefit. This is a project that many a town might profitably undertake.

President Eisenhower's common cold received enough publicity to make it the most uncommon cold in history.

Delivery of Cypress Trees to Area Farmers Prevented by Weather Conditions

All Arizona Cypress Trees available for delivery have been picked up, nurserymen told the Board of Supervisors for the Lubbock County Soil Conservation District Friday.

Because of unusual weather conditions and unforeseen developments, only 7,700 trees were secured, despite applications for 17,000 in this area. Nurserymen assured the board that provisions are now being made for a supply of about 30,000 trees to be available for 1958 delivery.

Agreements covering 2,698 acres of land were signed with 13 landowners. They included G. E. Clifton, E. G. Thompson, Eugene Roland, Henry Hollinden, L. B. Holland, Mrs. Amerson, J. B. Ireland, Mrs. E. E. Ireland, D. D. and S. E. Davis, Dan Martin, Ed Buxkemper, and J. P. Jamison.

Special recognition was given persons and groups who assisted in the observance of Soil Stewardship Week, May 26 through June 2. Special votes of appreciation were extended to the Rev. Melvin Rathel, the Rev. Milton Poole, Bob Stephens, Western Cotton Oil Co., Downtown Lions Club of Lubbock, and the Lions and Rotary Clubs of Slaton, who assisted in special programs.

Board members also recognized splendid cooperation of Soil Conservation Service personnel and assistant County Agents, in promotion of the observance.

Figures ran high as the district prepared statistics for release to the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts on estimated losses in Lubbock County because of recent floods, heavy rains, and other adverse weather conditions. Investigations indicate much less loss on lands that had been properly protected with adequate soil and water conservation practices.

Electric Living is FUN!

HOMEMAKING STUDENT AT LOCKNEY HIGH SCHOOL

"Our daughter sold us on ELECTRIC COOKING!"

says Mrs. CLYDE BAXTER
College and 5th Streets
LOCKNEY, TEXAS

Mrs. Clyde Baxter, like many adults, has had the advantages of electric cooking pointed out to her by her high school student daughter, who learned that the modern way is the accurate, dependable way. Of course, it's electric! Says Mrs. Baxter, "I'm mighty glad we installed an electric range when we built our new home. The counter-top height oven gives perfect baking results and we get more broiled foods since getting the new range".

Sixteen-year old Linda Baxter is a sophomore student with two semesters in homemaking. Her teacher, Mrs. Quentin Adams, says, "Although our department has both types of household cooking equipment, most of our girls prefer to use the electric range".

Why not "take a tip from your teenager"? If you are not yet cooking electrically, ask your daughter to tell you why you should.

Watch Due Dates On July Bills

To improve working conditions and to give our customers better service we have made a slight change in our meter and billing dates:

The due dates are as follows: 5th, 9th, 12th and 15th of the month.

These Forty Years!

Forty years ago, in June of 1917, the Humble Company received its charter from the State of Texas.

The Company was formed through a merger of the properties of a number of independent oil operators. Its founding brought together a remarkable group of men who occupy an important place in the annals of the oil industry:

R. S. Sterling and his brother, F. P. Sterling, the principal organizers of Humble Oil Company from which the present company acquired its name; W. S. Farish and R. L. Blaffer composing Blaffer and Farish; H. C. Wiess with assets from Paraffine and Reliance Oil Companies; Walter W. Fondren and C. B. Goddard, producers; and L. A. Carlton and E. E. Townes as lawyers.

All of these men contributed greatly in adopting the principles, in shaping the policies, and in laying out procedures that have guided the Company's progress through these forty years. Their influence will survive as long as the Company continues.

They possessed courage and business judgment. They established high standards of performance. They built a strong organization of competent men and women.

The Company, as it stands today, is a tribute to the leadership, the vision, and the work of its founders.

But it is doubtful that these men, with all their foresight, visualized the changes that have occurred in the oil industry since 1917, or the size and complexity of Humble's present operations, or the extent of the Company's contributions through the years to the progress of our society.

To all who have made those contributions possible—employees, customers, shareholders and the people of the states in which the Company operates—Humble extends its thanks.

HUMBLE OIL & REFINING COMPANY

The full story of "These Forty Years" is told in the anniversary edition of The Humble Way. If you would like a copy, it is yours for the asking. Address Humble Oil & Refining Co., Room 1158, P. O. Box 2180, Houston 1, Texas.

Internationally Famous Reporter To Speak Texas Newsmen at TPA 78th Convention

Who actually lives the glamorous, dangerous and glamorous Hollywood style globe-trotting life will be the feature speaker when newsmen from Texas gather at the Gunter Hotel in San Antonio June 28-29 for the 78th Annual Convention of the Texas Press Association.

Renowned "First"
The Smith who, on New Year's Eve, 1933, became the first newspaper to be since deposed

Washington bureau chief, who paid him this tribute:
Accurate Predicting
"No one could read Smith's articles from day to day and be surprised, as were so many persons, by the major turn of events in 1941. He forecast Hitler's invasion of Russia; he forecast that Russia would be able to survive Hitler's attack throughout the winter of 1941-42; and he came closer than any other newspaperman to forecasting Japan's attack on the United States, when, ten days before the Hawaiian treachery, he forecast a Japanese attack in the Far East 'within a few days.'"

Joined INS in '24
He joined INS as a copy boy at 16 in 1924. Just three years later, at 19, following an intensive training period in the New York headquarters, he was assigned to the INS London bureau, where he eventually became bureau chief.

General Manager
About two years ago he was flown back to the United States and made general manager of INS. Now he and two other widely known newsmen, William Randolph Hearst Jr. and Frank Conniff, go all over the world interviewing people, with the stories appearing under Smith's internationally recognized byline.

It was with these two that he interviewed the four top Russian leaders, for which the three winners were awarded the Pulitzer prize in 1956.

Texas publishers will hear this famous reporter at the luncheon Saturday, June 29.

Two other newspapermen, widely known in their own right, get top billing on the action-packed program. They are Eugene Cervi, hard-punching editor-publisher of the unique Cervi's Rocky Mountain Journal in Denver, Colo., and Jack Stamper, Hugo, Okla., publisher who has made his city famous with his talks on "The Hugo Story."

no holds barred
Cervi is known for his "no holds barred" method of making people think. Frontier magazine once profiled Cervi under the headline, "He Minds Their Business—Publisher is Denver's Saddle Burr, Makes Life Livelier in the Rocky Mountains."

Stamper will tell the dynamic story of the dramatic comeback of Hugo, Okla., once on its death bed and now a mushrooming industrial city. For publishers whose cities may be suffering from the lack of new blood and new money, Stamper's suggestion-loaded talk will give them ideas on bringing industry into their territories.

Also on the 78th Convention program will be Howard N. King of Intertype Corp. of New York, who will tell newsmen how to improve the appearance and readability of their newspapers. He is a widely known expert on type usage and newspaper makeup.

Texas Water
A look at Texas' serious water problem will be given conventionaires in the graphic talk on that subject by its number one champion, Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas. Chairman of the Water Resources Committee, Parkhouse has made a concentrated study of the problems and their possible solutions, which he will explain to publishers.

Another young man in Texas politics, Rep. Waggoner Carr, Speaker of the House, also will address TPA'ers. He will give his viewpoint of the 55th Legislature, which caused public reaction to run both cold.

Senator Yarborough
Another possible speaker is Texas' new junior senator, Ralph Yarborough, who has accepted the invitation, subject to change in his Congressional schedule.

Entertainment planned for the convention includes tours, dinners at San Antonio's scenic spots, and other treats.

One of the highlights of the last day's activities will be the presentation of awards in the Texas newspaper contests. A special feature will be the presentation of plaques to TPA past presidents. New officers also will be elected on Saturday. Current president is David C. Leavelle, publisher of the Galveston News-Tribune. Jimmie Gilentine, publisher of the Hereford Brand, is vice president, and L. A. Duwall, publisher of the La Grange Journal, is secretary-treasurer.

TEAGUE DRUG MONTHLY NEWS

A Message from Teague Drug "Your Pharmacist"

You have to live in your body the rest of your life. You can't turn it in for a new model every year or two as you would an automobile.

If you neglect your body, just like any good machine, it may develop trouble. Nature warns you before it becomes serious. You suffer occasional pains, sleepless nights, wake up tired, and more often acquire colds.

How much is a healthy body worth to you? Of course, it is priceless. Therefore, it will pay you to make a small investment to insure your continuous good health.

Follow this proved plan. Visit your physician twice a year for a body check-up. He knows what trouble spots to look for. Perhaps you need one of the new medicines that will help you ease excessive nervous tension. If he thinks your resistance to infection needs strengthening, he may prescribe a high potency vitamin. Your present diet might not be the best for your particular body. He has the knowledge to properly guide you.

It is your body and you might as well enjoy it. In our pharmacy are the medicines, vitamins and health-aids that your body may need to serve you best.

Highlights and Sidelights from Your State Capitol

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association
 DALLAS, Tex.—It's vacation time in Texas. During the next three weeks millions of people will stream to every corner of the state in search of relaxation. A lot of home folks will stay in the state. They make a living catering to the tourists. Vacationing is big business in Texas. And it promises to get bigger.
 Last year nearly 8 1/2 million out-of-state visitors visited Texas—only 12 percent on business. They spent $1,000,000,000 for food, lodging, gas, and entertainment.
 Next year voters will decide whether to try to hustle in even more visitors and money through statewide advertising. A proposed constitutional amendment to restrict the ban on spending state funds for advertising was passed by the last Legislature. It will come up for a vote at the November, 1958, general election.
 Meanwhile, several state agencies are busy with municipal and private organizations give out information on how to have fun in Texas.
 The State Highway Department has issued a brand new map telling how to find your way over the 100,000 miles of roads. It features 20 full-color pictures and is a welcome to the "land of opportunity." Available free from the department.
 State Parks Board, housekeeper of 48 state parks, plans many new things, swimming and picnicking facilities. It got a generous appropriation from the Legislature, said Board.
 Texas Game and Fish Commission has help and advice for the fisherman in every Texas who hunts fish. Its numerous publications give guidance ranging from where fish are biting to what to do with a water supply.
WATER SUPPLY—With another drop of rain, Texas' 35 reservoirs now have enough water stored to last a year.
 Heavy spring rains poured 6 million feet of water into the reservoirs filling them to 92 per cent capacity, reports the State Board of Water Engineers.
WATER SURVEY SOUGHT—But unprecedented rains brought down State Water Board wants to make an emergency survey of what the floods did with a view to learning how to prevent their destruction.
 The Board and Gov. Price

HERE'S THE MAYFLOWER—This cutaway drawing, which was prepared by Charles Strickland, gives an indication of the probable arrangement within the original Mayflower. The Mayflower II arrived in Plymouth, Massachusetts recently. After being there for two weeks, the ship will move to New York, where it will be on exhibition until November 15. The ship will be on permanent exhibition at the Plimoth Plantation, Plymouth, Massachusetts, after Thanksgiving Day. Key to the drawing is as follows: 1. Poop deck. 2. Quarter deck. 3. Upper deck. 4. Forecastle. 5. Main Deck. Here, with their belongings, lived most of the Pilgrims. Beds were made up on deck. 6. Crew quarters. 7. Bosun's stores. 8. Galley. 9. Main hold, containing general cargo, barrelled beer, dried meat, vegetables. 10. Cargo. 11. General Stores. 12. Barrels of water. 13. Barrels of biscuit and flour. 14. Typical temporary cabin, made with canvas partitions. 15. Special cabins—two on each side. 16. Tiller room. 17. Helmsman with whipstaff connection to tiller. 18. Captain's "Great Room." 19. Pens for livestock. 20. Beak (not shown) 21. Bow-sprit (not shown) 22. Foremast. 23. Mainmast. 24. Mizzen mast.

blocking the mouth of the Brazos where it enters the Gulf. Recent floods have shown the need for adequate discharge channels, he said. . . . State Supreme Court upheld an order of the Industrial Accident Board preventing two Waco attorneys from practicing before it. While the Board does not have authority to disbar attorneys, ruled the court, it does have a right to require ethical practice from those appearing before it. . . . At the end of the first five months of '57 Texas farm products were commanding the highest prices since February, 1955. Prices of hogs, beef, lambs, chickens, eggs and wool were up substantially over the previous months. Overall in-
