Doggone it all, every time this kid gets a scoop, it's a secret and I can't tell it until everyone in town knows about it. I'm talking now about the Perrys selling the Slatonite, but I am still bitter about Richard's not allowing me to be the first to announce his engagement to Marilyn.

The Great Plains Beauty Show in Lubbock was really interesting this year according to Mary Banks who attended with Mrs. Hill. It was a two-day session with Buddy Francis and Luella Bailey as guest artists. Mary tells me that they learned the latest trends in hair styling and are now ready to pass them on to all interested Slatonites.

This seems a good time to sound out my new boss and see if he has a good sense of humor so I'll quote this little ditty I found somewhere. Showed it to Richard and he had a good laugh. The story goes like this: An editor died after a lingering illness. His savings barely covered hospital and doctor bills, leaving nothing for funeral expenses. A friend, after soliciting funds all day, lacked only $1 having enough. Wearily, he said to a stranger, "Could you give me a dollar to bury an editor?" The stranger pulled out a $5 bill, and said, "Here—bury five of them."—Anon.

Here is a quote from the Gooney Bird Bugle, a serviceman's newspaper, published on Midway Island. It concerns a local boy, and the item is lifted from a column called Midway Sports, written by Wes Wambold. "Waymon Muse of BASRON scored the evenings only KO when he belted out Gualupe Martinez, USMC, in fourteen seconds for his second KO in three fights."

Some people may share the misconception that I had about Midway so I will say a little more about the contents of Gooney Bird Bugle. There is a column called "Platter Chatter," "Household Hints" and one called "Teen Topics."

There is another one called "Chaplain's Corner," written by Father Geary. It would make good reading for any of us. All in all, it draws a clear picture of an organized community life. It seems not to be as drear and maddening as I had thought it must be.

Now one more word about the new editor of the Slatonite. I think you're going to like him. I believe he means it when he invites you to drop around and have a cup of coffee with him. So do so, won't you. Let's not let him be a stranger for long.

Change in ownership of Slatonite becomes effective this Saturday

Sale of The Slatonite was announced this week by its publishers, Francis E. Perry and Richard H. Perry. Change of ownership will become effective Saturday, October 18. New owners will be Joel R. Combs, formerly of Pampa; Woodie Rosser Jr., formerly of Houston, and Charles Cullin of McLean. Both Combs and Rosser have moved their families to Slaton and will be active in operation of the paper here. Cullin is publisher of the McLean News, and will remain there. Combs will serve as editor of The Slatonite, while Rosser will act as business manager. Present owners of The Slatonite purchased the paper in May, 1953, from A. M. Jackson. The paper will enter into its 48th year of publication with this issue. The plant was moved from its former location on Texas Ave. at Lynn st. to its present site, 163 S. 9th, early in 1954. Both families coming to Slaton to be active in operation of the paper are members of the Methodist Church. Combs is married, and he and his wife, Bobbye, are parents of a two-year old daughter, Carla. They will live on S. 20th street.

Rosser, who was formerly employed with a petroleum company in Houston, with his wife, Merle, are parents of two daughters, Carol, 16, and Jana, 11. They will live at 935 W. Crosby. The Perry families stated that immediate plans are indefinite. After a vacation in Tennessee, they will return to Slaton, prior to reentering the newspaper business elsewhere.

Clothing for needy school children being collected by Slaton Jaycees

Do you care enough to share? Apparently the Slaton Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes do. For beginning early next week they will be giving of their time and efforts to see that primary-age children in Slaton schools have enough clothing and shoes so that they can attend school without feeling ashamed. The plan is this—Members of the two organizations will collect old clothing and shoes and distribute it to children in the primary grades in the Slaton schools who at present do not have enough clothing. They are working in the belief that children can learn more and will grow into better adults if they have the self-confidence that is essential to all persons. Children will be more prone to attend school and take part in the school activities if they have clothing to wear of which they are not ashamed.

So it is the aim of the Jaycees and their wives, the Jaycee-ettes, to supply this clothing if at all possible. Clothing can be left at Slaton Hardware, or it will be picked up if persons will call VAB-4523. Donations of clothing, regardless of the condition, will be appreciated, according to John Schmidt, who is heading the drive.

He said that donations of money would also be appreciated, and that the funds would be used to purchase clothing and shoes.

Conference opens with Whirlwinds, Tigers

Slaton High School's Tigers have a chance to come up in the win-lost column and get their conference season off to a good start Friday as they tangle with the Whirlwinds of Floydada at 8 p.m. at Tiger Stadium. The first conference game of the season finds the Slaton crew, with a won 2, lost 4 record, going up against the unbeaten Floydada team. Whirlwind coach Preston Watson is bringing an experienced polished team to town to do battle with Slaton's game Tigers. Of particular interest to several fans in the game Friday night will be the play of Floydada's Johnny Fred Brown, an end who is also rated highly as a boxer and made quite a name for himself in the ring last winter. Whether or not he can play football as well remains to be seen.

Girl scout fund drive dates set

Dates for the annual fund drive for the Girl Scouts of America have been set, according to Melvin Kunkel, who will head the local drive.

The drive will begin on Monday, November 3, Kunkel stated.

Slaton's goal has been set at $1327.98. This represents a pro-rated share of the funds necessary for operation of the program in Slaton, with a portion of the money set aside for support of the Caprock Girl Scout Council.

Cotton ginnings pass 6,500 mark

Nearly 2,000 bales of cotton were ginned this week, as ginning totals passed the 6,500 mark in the nine areas gins.

Total ginnings Tuesday morning stood at 6,592 bales, as compared with last week's total of 4,609.

Individual ginnings were reported as follows:
Basinger Gin 772
Gordon Gin 240
Hackberry Gin 428
Pleasant Valley Gin 358
Posey Gin 396
Union Co-op Gin 750
Howard Gin 675
Campbell Gin 403
Slaton Co-op Gins 2,600

We're proud to be here . . .

As you may have noticed elsewhere on this page, Woodie Rosser Jr. of Houston, Charles Cullin of McLean and Joel R. Combs of Pampa have purchased The Slatonite, effective Saturday, Oct. 18.

The three of us looked long and hard for a paper situated in a progressive town where we could serve to the best of our ability. We feel that Slaton is that town in every particular. We have been told that this community has the friendliest residents, most "alive" merchants, finest churches, schools and civic organizations than can be found. You can rest assured that we will do all in our power to share in that outstanding reputation as soon as possible.

As you well know, however, no newspaper can be a positive influence in its community without the backing of its readers and the town's merchants. It is to this end, then, that we ask your continued support of your paper, The Slatonite. Without your open backing and participation, this paper cannot survive.

You have given evidence of your support to this paper in respect to the former owners, the Francis Perrys and the Richard Perrys.

We will endeavor to give you the same fine quality newspaper and service on printing and office supplies you have now grown accustomed to and perhaps, with your help, even better.

Mr. Combs shall edit the paper and Mr. Rosser will be business manager. Mr. Cullin will continue to publish The McLean News, a weekly in Gray County, and will not, therefore, move to Slaton.

We plan no change in personnel here. In fact, we feel lucky to have such fine employees as Jim and Mary Baggett, Joe Rubio, Chester Reese, James Vardy and Mrs. R. J. Clark.

Our politics is independent. Our purpose is to promote Slaton and surrounding area. A broad definition of our policies could be summed up thusly: We will do our best at all times to serve the interests of the residents of Slaton and neighboring territory, to fight for their individual rights, to provide them with a free exchange of information and to provide the merchants with an unsurpassed avenue of correspondence with a vast majority of the families and individuals in the area. We want to do this by giving our readers a paper which will be welcomed into their homes each week.

We sincerely hope that each of you will come by The Slatonite, let us know who you are, what you like or don't like about your paper, let us buy you a cup of coffee and become good friends. Won't you come in soon? We want to know each of you personally!

With kindest regards
Joel R. Combs and Woodie Rosser Jr.

Girl Scouts meeting planned

Members of the Slaton Neighborhood of Girl Scouts will meet in a called session at 9 a.m. Wednesday, October 22, Mrs. J. W. Pettigrew, neighborhood chairman, said this week.

Several items of business need to be discussed, Mrs. Pettigrew said, particularly the forthcoming fund drive. Reports will be given by representatives from Slaton who attended a Caprock Council meeting in Lubbock last week.

Mrs. Fane Downs, of the Lubbock office, will attend and assist at the meeting.

Posey Church set homecoming Sunday, Oct. 19

Guest speaker at the annual Mission Festival and Homecoming at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Posey, will be the Rev. A. B. Weiss, Odessa.

The church will observe the festival and hold its homecoming Sunday, October 19. Rev. Weiss will speak at 10:45 a.m. and again at 2:30 p.m. He formerly served the Posey area from 1919 until 1929.

Renowned photographer will tell of search for 'Disciples' Tuesday

"History in the making!" So says "Together" Magazine about the color pictorials of the Twelve Disciples and Women of the Bible by Mrs. Sune Richards, nationally known lecture-artist who is to speak Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at First Methodist Church.

Announcement was made by the Rev. James B. Sharp, pastor, that Mrs. Richards, now on a cross-country tour, is being brought to Slaton from Oklahoma City by Fredric and Marinell deVries, personal friends of the speaker.

The deVrieses said they were especially happy to have a part in making it possible for people in this area to hear and see the dramatic presentation of the speaker that was 10 years in the making.

Mrs. Richards' lecture, "My Search for the Disciples," will be free to the public, although admission will be by ticket only. Tickets are available at The Slatonite, Citizens State Bank, the Methodist Church office, Wheeler's, Webb's, as well as from Rev. Sharp, and Fredric and Marinell deVries of Marinell Portraits.

Tickets are being issued in order that those in charge of the program will have some indication as to the number of people expecting to attend.

Mrs. Richards stated her portrayal of biblical characters graphically when something inside kept telling her that among the men she was seeing on the streets, on buses, trains and trolley cars were counterparts of the men chosen by Jesus to be his disciples.

As she performed her daily tasks of teaching art and photography she kept seeing on the streets as "Matthew, John, Simon, Judas and the others." She started a world-wide search for information about these followers of Christ. Her quest lasted 10 years, and the results are a triumphant combination of photographic and artistic skills. She is bringing to Slaton her original photo-paintings, which combined with the fantastic story of her experiences in following her project to completion makes a presentation that has done more to acquaint people with these fabulous men than anything else in the field of religion.

More than 300,000 reproductions of Mrs. Richards' disciples have been circulated throughout the world. A life-size painting by her of one of the disciples hangs in the foyer of a church in Washington, D.C.

Last winter she turned down more than 200 invitations to speak because she was attending a ministerial school on a scholarship awarded her by a member of an audience before which she spoke. She has received letters from prominent personages from the world over.

Outstanding Young Farmer from Slaton area will be selected

Selection of Slaton area's Outstanding Young Farmer will be accomplished sometime after November 15, a spokesman for the Slaton Junior Chamber of Commerce said this week.

Nominations for the award are now being accepted by the Jaycees. Andy Kitten, a Slaton farmer, won the award for Lubbock County last year.

The nominee must farm somewhere within the Slaton trade area, and must be between the ages of 21 and 36, inclusive. Application blanks should be turned in to the Jaycees not later than November 15. Blanks are available from Otis Rogers, John Schmidt, or Tom Swanner.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Peterson of Ralls visited his mother, Mrs. T. L. Peterson, Saturday night.

Mike Brown son of Mrs. Martha Brown spent the week end with his grandmother, Mrs. Lane of Lubbock.

TRAFFIC SAFETY DOLLS—Books containing doll cut-outs such as this one will be distributed today to children in first grade throughout the Slaton schools by members of the Slaton Junior Chamber of Commerce. Each of the cut-outs contains a safety slogan, and ties in the drawing to teach the child a point in safety. Otis Rogers is head of this project which ties in with a nation-wide Jaycee effort toward school safety.

BUSINESS IN POLITICS

In recent years the political activities of organized labor have come in for a vigorous drubbing by business interests. This censure seems to have sprung in part from a feeling that, whereas business has been involved in politics mostly by contributing to campaign funds, labor has played a much more overt and active role.

Now there are indications that business interests may undertake to play just such a role themselves. A campaign launched by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce hints at a switch on an old saying, to wit, "If you can't lick 'em, emulate 'em."

The Chamber's news service says that William A. McDonnell, national Chamber president, recently called on businessmen to "meet the challenge of labor's political power with campaigns for candidates sympathetic to business." Its Washington Report told members that next January it "will launch a long-range program to stimulate the participation of businessmen in politics through the party of their choice."

This will be more than merely an effort to round up campaign funds. The Chamber says its program "will emphasize down-to-earth techniques for getting out the vote, selecting candidates, serving as a precinct leader, organizing a political club, conducting meetings and participating in campaigns."

If this comes to pass it will be a welcome development, much better than the negative attitude that labor's political activities are somehow subversive. If businessmen feel that union political power is too great, this is the sensible course of action—to take an active part in politics themselves. The more Americans of all political persuasions work for candidates and parties of their choice, the better the cause of democracy will be served.

POVERTY AMID PLENTY

The United States is the most prosperous great nation on earth. Within our national borders, then, surely no one goes hungry, surely there is comfortable shelter for all, surely none are denied a good education and equal opportunity. So it would seem.

The shameful truth is that hunger and discomfort and denial of opportunity are common among the hundreds of thousands of migratory workers who do the bulk of the nation's fruit and vegetable harvesting. Jamaicans, Bahamians, Puerto Ricans, Mexicans, Negroes from the deep South—these and others move from region to region, living in a state of poverty and deprivation beyond the ken of most Americans.

These workers and their families are not without hope. They have their champions. As the conscience of the American people is aroused, their lot will be improved. But in the meantime children suffer hunger in the midst of plenty, tents and shacks are the only homes available for many families, thousands suffer from lack of adequate medical care, schooling is often interrupted by the need to follow the harvests.

It is time for the popular conscience to stir to effective action.

ENTANGLING ALLIANCE

"Honest friendship with all nations, entangling alliances with none." This statement from Thomas Jefferson's first inaugural address, and especially the last four words of it, have been quoted by American public men and writers on public questions more than almost any other.

The words were used, for example, by opponents of our entry into the League of Nations and the United Nations. In those instances, however, no distinction was drawn between general alliances and the entangling variety.

Though the phrase has not been widely applied to our relations with Chiang Kai-shek, it would be apt in this connection. As Walter Lippmann and other writers have pointed out, we have followed Chiang's lead. The United States would be little concerned about the fate of Quemoy and Matsu if Chiang had not chosen to move a large part of his army to them. The fact that we are bound to Chiang's cause is a strong element in our inability to come to terms with Communist China.

If ever an alliance deserved the name entangling, it is this one with Chiang. It may be justifiable, but it marks a troublesome departure in our foreign policy.

The Best News in the World

What would you say would be the best news in the world? Would it be that you have inherited a large sum of money? Or would it be that all mankind would be at peace with one another? Possibly either of these would be good news. But what is the best news in the world?

Let us see what one person thought was the best news in the world. A helpless sick man was lowered through the ceiling of a house. Instead of simply healing this man, Jesus said, "Son, be of good cheer; thy sins are forgiven." What sort of message is this?

Surely this can't cure the crippling ailment that this sick man had. But Jesus with his deeply penetrating eyes saw that this man was trembling with fears. In order to really cure this man, the Lord knew that his fears needed to be cured also. So the Lord relieved him of his sins before healing his bodily afflictions.

We, too, need to be healed of sickness of soul and mind. We go around, always afraid that our sins will show. We are afraid that someone will point us out as the one who made some great mistake that will be brought to other's attention and be laughed at.

One of our greatest sins is that we do not forgive ourselves of sins committed. We can forgive others their mistakes or sins, but we can't seem to forgive ourselves.

Our Lord tells us that if we come to Him in prayer our sins are forgiven. (1 John 1:9) So why can't we forgive our sins? There are many people who carry all their past mistakes and sins upon their backs. They become old before their time. Our Lord did not want this to happen so He came into the world that we may be cleansed from our sins. It is up to us to take Him at His word.

Don't you agree that these words are the best news in the world? "Son, be of good cheer, thy sins are forgiven." For if these words are not true, we would have to bear our every sin throughout our lives. So let us accept this great news and let it work in our lives. Amen.

Prayer: O Lord God, You know that I have many sins that I am bearing in the secret of my heart. Help me to ask for Your forgiveness. Help me also after Your forgiveness to forgive myself. Help me daily to unburden myself of many sins so that I may ever be refreshed here on earth. Amen.

Cline Industries' planter in cotton field of L. P. Hinds, Levelland, Tex., who took up the planter this year after having to replant four times in 1957. Diagram shows plateau seedbed, protected by gullies to trap excess rainwater and furrows to keep wind and blowing soil from damaging emerging cotton plants.

New 'W' type planter offers new security to farmers in planting

The problem of having to replant their fields after heavy rains and severe winds has long plagued cotton farmers. This repeat process has regularly cut into the yields and profits of the business particularly in cotton-growing areas of Texas and Oklahoma, where rainfall is often of a hard, dashing nature and can place a crust of soil over seed rows which impairs emergence. Moreover, wind and blowing soil also take their toll.

IN A BID to eliminate or sharply reduce this difficulty, Cline Industries, Rush Springs, Oklahoma, is offering their Plateau Profile Planter attachment, which creates a new type of seed bed.

Originally designed and perfected by J. C. Porterfield and associates at Oklahoma State University, the attachment creates a plateau for the seed about two inches below the original ground level, with furrows on each side of the plateau which run about five inches below the original ground level, providing a trap for water which could impair the cotton's emergence if it were placed in a deep or shallow furrow, as is common.

In addition, the attachment places earth several inches above the original ground level between each row to block winds and damaging the young crop.

ALTHOUGH basically designed for use in cotton planting, field tests have shown an attachment to work equally well with other crops planted in lister furrows, such as grain sorghum, peanuts, soybeans, corn and castor beans, according to a report in the May issue of the Oklahoma Farmer Stockman.

Tests in 1954 and 1955 at Oklahoma State's Cotton Research Station at Chickasha, Oklahoma, indicated that the device develops a seed bed which substantially improves emergence over standard procedures, especially when rain follows shortly after planting.

ON MAY 7, 1954, the researchers planted cotton in both the new seed bed and in conventional shallow furrows. A dashing three-inch rain came within 10 days and as a result, the ordinary furrow produced an average of one emerging plant per 10 feet or more while the new method came up with 20 plants per 10 feet.

The following year the same experiment was tried. The planting was done May 6 and was followed by a rain of about nine inches. The shallow furrow was able to develop 10 plants per 10 feet while the new seed bed produced 47.

Plantings which were not disturbed by severe rains did not reveal as broad a difference in emergence, although reports generally indicated a slightly better stand. Plantings on May 21 and June 8, 1954 came up at 25-20 and 14-10 ratios in favor of the new method.

OKLAHOMA'S extension cotton specialist, G. E. Stroup, in discussing the seed bed in his service's circular No. 640, "A New Seedbed for Cotton," pointed out that it probably works best where land is flat broken. "However," he continued, "Where land has been listed the ridges may be dragged down and satisfactory results obtained with this method. . . . Some difficulty has been encountered in using this new type planter where soils are extremely tight. On such soils the disk does not scour sufficiently and the seed covering devices are ineffective. Cline Industries cites two operations in western Texas which have claimed considerable success in using the Plateau Profile (or "W") planter.

France Baker, Lubbock, head of Baker Empire Cotton Seed farms, said that he planted 300 acres beginning April 24, 1958 and has his finest crop ever. "We are about the only farmers in Lubbock County who did not have to replant on account of excessive rains. Our cotton is about 30 days old and has been worked twice already, while no other farmers we know of in the area have their cotton up. We estimate the planter will make us many thousands of dollars as a result of our not having to replant." Similarly, L. P. Hines, Levelland, estimates that he would have saved $4,000 or more in 1957 planting, and perhaps would have gained from $20,000 to $25,000 by using the new planter, according to a report in the Levelland Daily Sun News. Four replantings that year by Hines shortened his growing season by 40 days and resulted in lowered grades and yields.

Fred, an ineffectual but talkative worker, spent most of his time complaining that fortune seemed to smile at everyone else, but merely sneered at him. When an older employee with less seniority was promoted, his wails of self-pity filled the boss' office.

"It's the same old story," Fred moaned. "Other guys get all the breaks. But how come my ship never comes in?"

"Perhaps," his boss suggested quietly, "you never discovered that steam replaced wind."

Pros, cons on upcoming amendments state constitution given by League

(Editor's Note: Beginning this week are resumes of the nine proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Texas which will come before the voters for their consideration in the November General Election. The resumes are written by the League of Women Voters of Texas.)

Amendment 1: Annual sessions of the Legislature; annual salaries of Legislators; residence provided for officers.

This amendment would provide for annual sessions of the Legislature, an annual salary of $7,500 plus an unspecified amount per diem for Legislators, and a temporary residence in the Capitol Building for the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker of the House of Representatives. The Constitution now provides that the Legislature meet biennially and that Legislators be paid $25 per day for the first 120 days; no provision is made for the residence of the presiding officers.

FOR: Annual sessions would allow time or adequate and proper consideration of legislative matters and would permit attention to emergency problems which now are allowed to wait for the every-two-year session.

Projected financing for state agencies over a two-year period is difficult and unsound. Annual sessions would permit yearly budgeting and appropriations.

Salaries and allowances equal to actual expenses to the office are realistic approaches to the problem of attracting the best qualified persons to make our laws and develop a strong state government. Texas is the only state among the top 10 in population which does not provide legislative salaries.

AGAINST: This amendment would add to the confusion of state government and to the burdens of its lawmakers since the proposed First Regular Session will be identical to the present overloaded biennial session and the Second Session could consider only the budget appropriations and emergency matters submitted by the Governor.

Not only does the amendment propose an annual salary of $7500, it also permits the legislators to vote themselves a per diem—with no limit set. It is estimated that these costs will more than double the expenses of the legislative department.

The pay offered would still not be adequate to attract top-notch lawmakers. This amendment would open the door to incompetents and professional office holders—candidates whose motivation is financial gain.

Retirement, Disability, Death benefits for County and Precinct Officers and Employees.

This amendment would permit extension of participation in a county's retirement, disability, and death compensation fund to appointive and elective officers and employees of the county and precinct. The ceiling on contributions made by the county and the county and precinct officers and employees would be raised from 5 per cent to 7½ per cent and the present $180 per person limitation removed. Contributions by employees and officials would have to be matched by the county, but the county could contribute more, not to exceed the 7½ per cent ceiling.

FOR: This is permissive legislation. No county would be required to adopt this plan unless the majority of its voters approved. If the people of the county want to adopt such a plan, they should be permitted to do so.

Elective officers of the county and precinct officers and employees should be allowed to participate in the county retirement, disability and death compensation fund.

One of the greatest attractions offered by business and industry is the fringe benefit of a good retirement plan. A better county retirement plan with a maximum participation increased from 5 per cent to 7½ per cent and removal of the $180 ceiling will help secure and retain well qualified personnel for office and employment in the county and precincts.

AGAINST: This amendment would be deficient in that no period of service is required nor an age limit set for pension eligibility. Other business and industries—even the Texas Constitution in setting up other pension plans—specify a 25 or 30 year period of service or an age limit of 60 or 65 years. Under this proposal an official would be eligible to receive benefits after four years service—or less.

This retirement plan is more costly than others now available to other employees and officials in State public service (5 per cent allowed for state employees and 6 per cent for teachers.) Social security, now permitted under county option for all employees and officials, would provide adequate retirement and disability funds without this added tax burden.

This amendment would not permit a broader investment policy for the fund, which the Constitution now provides for other retirement funds.

PETROLEUM—basic to the needs of our time

Oil and natural gas have powered most of the great technological advances of modern times; petroleum hydrocarbons have transformed the dreams of inventors into the realities of engineers . . . Today, in the United States, oil and natural gas provide about 75% of the country's energy requirements; and large quantities of oil, available for production beyond immediate need, are necessary to the national security.

An obvious example is the gasoline that powers our automobiles; another is the diesel fuel burned by post-war railway engines. But do not overlook electric power plants, the airplane, whether jet or propeller driven, factory power plants, farm mechanization, and the revolution since World War II in home heating devices. Oil provides the energy that moves the trucks, airplanes, ships and tanks of our Armed Forces.

But petroleum as a source of energy is only part of the story. In the past two decades, the petrochemicals have supplied the country with a vigorous new industry; already most of our rubber is made from petrochemicals . . . the ubiquitous plastics derive from petroleum products . . . paraxylene, a petrochemical, is the raw material for one of the most useful of the new fabrics. In this area, wonders never cease; the petrochemicals contribute more each year to the efficiency, comfort, and convenience of modern living.

Thus, oil's progress has made other progress possible all along the front of American industry . . . Petroleum is the American resource that is basic to the needs of our time . . . that is essential to our national security.

 The Humble Company, established in 1917, has developed with the industry.

Humble's exploration activities extend from Florida around the rim of the country to California, Oregon and Washington, and beyond to the new State of Alaska . . . The Company is a leader in the production of oil and gas in the United States . . . Humble Pipe Line Company is a public carrier transporting not only Humble's oil but that of many other companies and independent producers to Gulf Coast terminals . . . Baytown refinery is one of the nation's great manufacturing plants . . . And Humble is a marketer in the Southwest, supplying the needs of motorists in modern service stations.

The Humble Company believes strongly in research, maintains two outstanding research facilities, and annually budgets considerable sums for this activity . . . Humble research has made substantial contributions to the discovery, production, and utilization of petroleum.

Legion Auxiliary ask for gifts for disabled

The American Legion Auxiliary is preparing their annual Christmas Gift Box for the hospitalized veterans at the Veterans Hospital in Big Spring. These gifts enable the hospitalized veterans to select individual gifts for members of their immediate family at Christmas time. These men are disabled veterans of the wars and are not able to shop for their families; so by this means, it is possible for them to remember their families.

If you wish to contribute gifts or make a cash donation, boxes will be placed at C. R. Anthony Co. and Teague Drug for the gifts. You may contact Mrs. M. M. Schlueter, Gift Box Chairman, (Phone VA8-3816) if you wish to have your donations or gifts picked up.

Kitten home is club meeting place

Slaton Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. August Kitten for the October meeting with Mrs. Grady Wilson and Mrs. Earl Wilson as hostesses.

Mrs. E. R. Legg, vice president, presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. B. A. Hanna.

For their October project the club voted to decorate the table for the Golden Age luncheons during the month.

A program on "Driftwood" and several arrangements of driftwood combined with dried flowers were given by Mrs. Jack Nowlin.

The decorations done by Mrs. Grady Wilson carried out the Halloween motif.

Refreshments were served to 14 members and two guests, Mrs. Joe Walker Jr. and Mrs. Earl Reasoner.

Plans for civic projects made at club meeting

Five new members were taken into the membership of the Jaycee-ettes, an organization for the wives of members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce members, at their meeting last Thursday evening. They were Mesdames Pete Phillips, Pete Williams, Tommy LeMaster, Marvin Smith and Lannie Swanner. The meeting was held in the Junior Chamber room over the Citizen's State Bank building.

Plans were made for remembering some needy family with a dinner on Thanksgiving Day, a gesture which was begun last year. Final plans were also made for the 25 inch doll sponsored by the organization, to be placed in the window at Champion Jewelry. Contributions to the Jaycee-ettes may be given any of their members.

On September 21, the Jaycee-ettes had a "come as you are" breakfast for their members and prospective members. Thirteen members and six prospective members attended the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Glen Akin.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Reed of Justiceburg were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Brooks on Monday of this week.

Panel discusses budget at P-TA

Mrs. James Perkins furnished music preceding the program of the Slaton Elementary Parent-teacher Association meeting Monday evening at West Ward School.

The association voted to have a fall festival on November 21.

Mrs. Bob Ayers, program chairman for the evening presented a panel composed of Robert Hall Davis, Clark Self Sr., and Dr. P. L. Vardy who answered questions about the school in general. Among those phases of school operation discussed were the budget, playground, water fountains, rest rooms, teachers' lounge and school financing.

Mr. Davis pointed out some facts about the budget of the school. He said that all revenue for the operation of the school system comes from local and state taxes, with 25% coming from local taxes and 75% from the state.

Of the $375,000 needed for the annual budget of the school, 81% or approximately $304,000 is used for salaries. Supplies account for about 4% or $16,000 while buses and custodians account for another 4%. Bus expense and repairs each take 1.3% and another $30,000 is needed for miscellaneous expenses.

Mrs. Brooks and Mrs. Cummings' rooms tied for the most parents present.

Second taste of victory given Tigers in tilt with Longhorns from Lockney Friday

—by Deen Jackson

Behind the passing of the quarterback, the running of fullback Howard Limmer and the running of halfback Pat Adamek, the Slaton Tigers rolled to 12-8 victory over the Lockney Longhorns last Friday, giving the Tigers their second taste of victory this season.

The game opened with Slaton kicking off to Lockney on the Lockney 29 yard line. A net gain of three yards in three plays moved the ball to the Lockney 32, where the Longhorns punted.

With the ball killed on the Tiger 34, quarterback Gary Ward carried for three yards; halfback Giles Smith fumbled for a 15-yard loss and Adamek punted from his own 16 yard line.

Lockney took the ball on their 44, moved for a first down on the Slaton 43. On the next play the Longhorns fumbled and Slaton recovered on their own 43 yard line.

The Tigers ran four plays and were held for downs on the Lockney 49. From this point Longhorn back Bill Race moved the ball to the Slaton 35 in three plays. An attempted pass lost 17 yards, and on fourth down the ball was punted to the Tiger 15.

Limmer took the ball for five over tackle; Ward made three on a keeper play, and Limmer again over tackle gained one. Ward went down the middle for the first down.

In the next series of plays the Tigers had fourth down and 10 on their own 25 when Adamek punted to the Lockney 30. There the Longhorns were held and forced to punt on fourth down.

Slaton took the ball on their own 41 yard line, and moved the ball to the Longhorn 44, where Limmer quick-kicked to the Lockney 25.

Bill Race carried four times for a first down on the 35, then three plays moved the ball to the Tiger 49 yard line. The Longhorns' march played out on the Tiger 34, when Slaton took the ball and controlled it for the remainder of the half.

Half-time score was 0-0.

On receiving the kickoff after half-time, the Tigers went from their own 41 to the Lockney 49 in three plays. From there Limmer went through the line for a 49-yard run, and the TD. The try for point failed.

Lockney, in their series of downs, was held, and forced to punt from their 12. The Tigers took the ball on the Longhorn 48, where Pat Adamek went over tackle on the first play for 43 yards and a score. Again the try for point was not successful, leaving the score at 12-0.

With the ball game played between the 30 yard lines until midway in the fourth quarter, Slaton took a punt on their own 15. Limmer fumbled and Lockney recovered on the Tiger 17. It took the Longhorns' Bill Race five plays to carry into pay dirt, and he also made the extra points, bringing the score to Slaton 12, Lockney 8.

Slaton received the ball on their own 35, and had moved it to the Longhorn 35 when the game ended.

Benefits available for children over 18 if totally disabled

Even though a child is over 18 years of age, he or she may be entitled to benefits as a disabled child, according to John G. Hutton, district manager of the Lubbock social security office.

A child's benefit under the old-age and survivor's insurance program is usually terminated by the attainment of age 18.

Hutton offered the explanation that a disabled child may receive child's insurance benefits regardless of age if certain conditions are met. To receive monthly benefits as a disabled child, it would be necessary that the parent upon whose work record the claim would be based, have an insured status under the social security law. The child's disability must have occurred prior to the time the child had reached age 19, according to the local office.

The disability must be of such severity as to prevent the child from engaging in gainful activity, have lasted for six months or more and be medically determinable.

This physical or mental condition must be of an indefinite or long-term duration. The child must be unmarried at the time of application, and be the child of a person currently receiving social security old-age insurance benefits or of a parent who died after 1939 insured under the law.

Hutton suggested that contact be made at the local social security office for further information or for help in filing a claim by or on behalf of a disabled child.

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security office will be in Slaton at 9 a.m. Tuesday, October 21, at the Red Cross Room, City Hall.
