CANDIDATE

Alvin R. Allison

Alvin R. Allison, who was in Slaton Tuesday is presenting his platform which follows:

"In presenting my candidacy for State Representative of the 119th District, I do so fully aware of the problems confronting the people of this District. Being present County Judge of Hockley county, I have been brought to realize the significant need of adequate representation of this great District in our State Legislature.

"I refer the people of the 119th District to the citizens of Hockley county, where I have been County Judge for four years, as to my qualifications, my sincerity, and ability to do those vital things necessary for the best interests of those whom I represent.

"Within ten days after I reach the legislature I will present a bill, amending the present law, so the farmer may retain the four-cent gasoline tax upon purchase, when the fuel is to be used for non-road purposes. Such an amendment to the law would save the farmer valuable time and many dollars he now spends in getting the gasoline tax refund. In the last several legislatures bills have been introduced to prevent the farmer from collecting any part of the four cent gasoline tax, and I, as your representative, will vigorously oppose such bills and work to the end that the farmer may retain the four-cent gasoline tax upon purchase. I will also oppose any bill which attempts to make the farmer pay a registration fee on his farm tractor.

"I advocate an increase of the $22 per capita allotment for school children. As your representative I will lend my earnest efforts to see that it is raised—thus insuring greater efficiency in Public School administration, and less taxes for city and rural school districts.

"The tax problem in Texas is a simple problem, to my mind. I believe men should go to the legislature with backbone enough to equalize the tax on the owner of the natural resources proportionate to that now being paid by the 'little man.' I will show that necessary backbone as your next State Representative in Austin.

"A sales tax is a poverty tax in disguise, and I will fight a sales tax in any form. The State of Texas does not need additional taxation—it needs proper administration.

"In 1936 the Old Age Pension Law was deliberalized. Thousands of needy persons over 65 were ruthlessly cut from the rolls while many others were denied the chance to put their names in the eligible list. I favor immediate liberation of the law in the next legislature, according to the 4 to 1 mandate voted by the people in 1935.

"Less than one year ago, when 35,000 destitute children existed in Texas, the people passed a law to care for those unfortunate. Today we have 60,000 Destitute Children in our state who have not yet received the assistance granted them by a 3 to 1 mandate of the people.

"The only reason why these mandates of the people have not been fulfilled is 'lack of money.' Yet the last legislature spent $300,000 for eradication of ticks in East Texas, and appropriated $20,000,000 more money than any previous body. Surely, if our state can spend $300,000 to eradicate an East Texas insect, we CAN and MUST provide funds to care for our aged people—who have made Texas what it is today—and the Destitute Children—future citizens of this state.

"The above mandates of the people, as they are being administered today are a 'shame and disgrace' to a state like Texas. And I want the opportunity to do my part to 'bring the government back to the people.'

"When I am your representative the mandates of the people shall and will govern my every action in such a way that the state's greatest legislative district, the 119th, will have a Representative in Austin who considers the will, problems, and needs of its 130,000 people."

Mr. and Mrs. LeVern Johnson are away to Corpus for a week's fishing in the bright waters of the Gulf. Bennie nearly went, but after an inventory of his financial resources, he held a referendum and stayed at home. We hope to have some reports about the gulf fishing in our next.

SANTA FE LENGTHENS WORK WEEK EIGHT THOUSAND EMPLOYEES AFFECTED

A telegram received Thursday morning by Agent Smith of Slaton brings good news to Santa Fe Employees here. It reads as follows:

"Proposal to increase the number of work days of mechanical employees of the Santa Fe System Lines was announced today by W. K. Etter, Vice-President of the System.

Effective July 1, Employees of the mechanical department, including all shop forces, having been on a three day week since May 1, are to be placed on a five day week.

The increase will benefit approximately 8,000 employees over the entire system. In the Southwest more than 2,000 workers are involved in the increase.

Low Farm Interest Rates Continued

Houston — The reduced interest rates on Federal land bank and Commissioner loans have been extended by Federal legislation for a period of two years, according to word received today from the Federal Land Bank by Vincent W. Nesbitt, Acting Secretary-Treasurer of the Slaton National Farm Loan Association.

On Federal land bank loans through national farm loan associations the temporarily reduced rate of 3 1/2 per cent per annum will be continued for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940.

The temporarily reduced rate of 4 per cent on Land Bank Commissioner loans is also continued until July 1, 1940 Nesbitt said.

"The temporary interest reduction does not change the contract interest rate, that is, the rate written in the mortgage at the time a loan was made," Vincent W. Nesbitt said. "At present the contract rates on new land bank loans are 4 per cent for loans through unimpaired associations. The contract rate on all Commission loans made through the land bank is 5 per cent. Under the law, as now amended, both land bank and Commissioner borrowers will resume interest payments at their respective contract rates on July 1, 1940.

"Farmers who now obtain loans through an association at the 4 per cent contract rate," Mr. Nesbitt continued, "will get the benefit of the 3 1/2 per cent rate for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940, and after that will not have to pay more than the 4 per cent contract rate for the balance of the term of the loan, which may be for as long as 20 to 30-odd years."

176 Federal Land Bank Loans in force exceeding $605,625.00 and 79 Land Bank Commissioner Loans exceeding $16,550.00, hence this will assist more than 255 farmers in this territory.

Postmaster Scudder Is Re-Appointed May Get Life Tenure

Postmaster K. L. Scudder has just received official notice of his re-appointment to the Slaton Postmaster-ship for a term of four years.

However, if a bill enacted by Congress last week and sent to the White House for approval becomes law, Scudder, along with thousands of first, second, and third class postmasters in the United States will be granted life tenure. This tenure has been assured by presidential order already, but it would have required only another presidential order to withdraw the tenure. The act of congress if approved will become law and could not be revoked except through a similar act in the future.

STAMFORD OFFERS RODEO

"Some 200 top cowhands from Texas ranches will compete for $2,300 in prizes in the rodeo contests during the ninth annual Texas Cowboy Reunion in Stamford July 4, 5 and 6. The rodeo is the central attraction in an elaborate program of entertainment for the three-day celebration which is expected to bring 75,000 visitors to Stamford," says Cleburne Huston, publicity director in his invitation to all of Texas.

Mr. F. A. Steadley of Timpson, down in the piney woods, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. M. G. Martin. Mr. Steadley, though 72 years of age is active and likes walking better than riding in an automobile. He was born in Germany, but emigrated to America early in life and became a thorough American from the time he landed in the United States.

New City Pumps Being Installed

Insurance Rates May Be Lowered

City officials announce that Superintendent Hensley of the R. B. George Machinery Company has almost completed installation of two new diesel engines at the city pumping station north of town.

One of the engines will be set over a big well and the other will be set for a booster pump along the line to pump water into the elevated tower in the city. It is expected that the new machinery will be in operation not later than Saturday of this week.

In order to completely safeguard the water supply of the City of Slaton, the electric motor heads over the well and booster station will not be entirely removed, but will be re-installed just over the Diesels so that in case of failure of the latter the electric machinery can be used on a moments notice. It is hoped also that this double precaution will make possible a further reduction in our already favorable fire insurance rate.

Queen Of Fourth To Be Elected

Candidates Wage Hot Campaign

Contributors to the fund for the Fourth of July Celebration in Slaton will elect this week a local young lady to reign as Queen of the Fourth. The fortunate young lady will ride the Chamber of Commerce Float in company with the other nominees who will be ranking royalty according to their placing on the ballot when the votes are all recorded.

Voting will be done by the contributors to the fund, and one vote will be counted for each dollar contributed to the fund. Nominations may be made by the Clubs participating in the Pageant.

The following nominations have already been made, and candidates and their friends are soliciting the eligible voters for support: Misses Hope Hennington, May Beth Florence, Betty Ruth Stanford, Jerry Taylor, Marian Bechtel, June Scott, Doris Peavy, Elizabeth Stokes, Mazaeline Cooper.

Uncle Geo. Marriott Returns From Visit

Uncle George Marriott returned last week from a visit to Iowa and Missouri. Some might have thought he walked our streets with somewhat less than his usual jaunty assurance. And there was good reason for it if it were so. It was discovered that he was carrying in his inside coat pocket a lot of candidate cards that announced the fact that the candidates named thereon were Republicans.

Naturally such a thing as that is a social error in Texas, but Uncle George pointed out that the cards were for Hood County, Missouri candidates. He was allowed to keep the cards and even show them, but strictly as souvenirs, and as examples of what is being done in our neighboring states.

After a brief discussion of the situation here and there, Uncle George caught the afternoon train for Lubbock where he heard Bill McCraw address South Plains people in his campaign for the governorship.

From Mayor Hood

Editor Slatonite: Just received a card from Our Mayor John Hood today, who states that he had a very enjoyable trip out to California, and he and his son Reo, who is a sailor on the U. S. Ship Chester, are taking on the sights at Long Beach. Having a good visit and time together.

NEW SOFTBALL TEAM

Bill Sledge, Salesman for Slaton Motor Company, has organized a softball team to make eight in the local league. The other added to the six originals is Hancock's Service Station and Grocery. The two new teams were matched for their initial game Monday night, which went to the Sledge-men, 15-11. Sledge thinks his team will win the league pennant easily—maybe.

Bill Evetts For Constable

We are authorized to make the announcement of Bill Evetts for the office of Constable, Precinct No. 2, Lubbock county.

Mr. Evetts was born in Clairemont in 1882, where he lived until his marriage at the age of 19. At that time he moved to El Paso County in time to help cut off Culberson County, which county he served as first deputy sheriff under sheriff John Fealey. After nine years as peace officer in Culberson County, he moved to New Mexico, and lived there three years. In 1932, being convinced that Texas is the best place to live, he returned and settled at Southland, where he has been ever since, and where he has been engaged in farming.

He wants to have opportunity now to serve the people of this precinct as constable. He believes his experience as a peace officer in the state, and his record as a citizen here entitled him to the consideration he respectfully asks of the voters of Precinct No. 2, in the Democratic Primary July 23.

Tree Surgery To Open Here

H. H. Barnes, owner and manager of West Texas Surgery announces that he will open a branch of his business in Slaton soon. Charley Hill, for the past six years, field superintendent for Barnes will be in charge of the Slaton establishment. He will be located at 705 South Seventh St., and will carry first class nursery stock.

Post Office Official To Call Here Soon

In a recent letter to Postmaster K. L. Scudder, A. S. Page, Building Inspector for Post Office Quarters in Texas, announces that he will be in Slaton soon after the first of July to meet with anyone interested in offering a building to house the local post office for the next five year period.

Prospective bidders may get submission blanks upon application to Postmaster Scudder.

Baby Thornton Ignores Fuss

Incubator Baby Gets Attention

Dark-haired, pink-faced Baby Thornton snoozed in apparent content as the reporter inspected the shiny incubator that provides comfort and protection for the little three and a half pound infant. He was born at Mercy Hospital, June 16, to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thornton of Littlefield.

Young Thornton didn't so much as open an eye as the visitor entered the nursery in violation of hospital rules, but chaperoned personally by the Superintendent. He completely ignored the extreme solicitude with which the nursery attendant lifted her brows at the intrusion. But he squalls lustily, we learn, and he goes greedily for his bottle as occasion moves him. He is doing well for a lad of his size, thank you. His mother returned to Littlefield the 22nd, but he will remain in the incubator for several days at least.

A SON FOR DONALDS

Robert Keith, eight pound son, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Reese Donald of Lubbock at eight o'clock Wednesday morning. The youngster is a grandson of Mrs. Bessie Donald of this city.

YARNELL DEFIES JAPS

American Admiral Refuses to Remove His Warships From the Yangtse River . . . Congress and Politics

Here Japanese soldiers with fixed bayonets are seen rushing a Chinese position in a part of Suchow which the Japanese artillery had reduced to flaming ruins. There, as elsewhere, the defenders practically destroyed the city before retreating.

Edward W. Pickard SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Japan's Demands Rejected

AMERICAN warships will remain in the Yangtze river and will go to any place where Americans are in danger. This despite the demands of Japan. Naval officials of Japan asked that all foreign warships leave the Yangtze river area between Wuhu and Kiukiang because the invaders were about to start an offensive toward Hankow, provisional Chinese capital. But Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, rejected the demand sharply. Furthermore, he at once planned an inspection trip up the Yangtze and through the war zone, and he did not ask Japan's permission.

These three "principles" of American naval operations in Asiatic waters were set forth by Admiral Yarnell in his note to the Japanese: The United States navy will retain complete freedom of movement on the Yangtze, and will proceed to any place where Americans are in danger. The American command will not change the color of its warships, which are painted white, to conform to any color scheme suggested by the Japanese.

The United States does not regard the warning of Japanese naval officials relative to the Yangtze as relieving the Japanese "in the slightest degree" of responsibility for damage or injury to United States warships. Chinese claimed the drive of the Japanese on the central front was held up by Yellow river floods. Chengchow, once a prosperous railway center, was still held by the Chinese, but had been reduced to ruins by Japanese shells and bombs and by the Chinese themselves in pursuing their "scorched earth" policy.

Japanese air raids on Canton continued by day and night. Perhaps 10,000 persons had been killed there, many thousands were injured and the metropolis was shattered. A great portion of the population fled from the city.

Kennedy to Resign? AMBASSADOR J. P. KENNEDY left London for the United States and, according to the London Daily Express, he intends to report to the President as soon as he arrives in Washington on his plan to settle the British war debt, and then will resign his post. He has held the position only three months.

Healing Party Rifts THOUGH it was believed Tommy Corcoran and his "eliminating committee" would continue the efforts to "purge" the Democratic party of opponents of administration policies, the President himself undertook to repair some of the breaks in the party ranks. For instance, he invited Senator Gillette, victor in the Iowa primary, to the White House where they took off their coats, ate luncheon together and, according to reports, planned common action against the Republican enemy in November. Also, it was disclosed, Mr. Roosevelt had sent word to the New York Democrats that the renomination of Governor Lehman would be acceptable to him. He has not liked Lehman since the governor came out against the court packing bill. There had been a plan to run Lehman for senator and Wagner for governor, but this switch presumably is now out.

Railway Aid Postponed WHEN the leaders of the senate and house made up their minds to adjourn congress not later than June 15, they went to the White House and told the President the proposed legislation to expedite the reorganization of railroads would have to be postponed to the next session. They agreed, however, to put through two other railway measures. One permits RFC loans to railroads without interstate commerce commission certification. The other establishes a special unemployment insurance system for rail workers.

Sloan on Wage Law ALFRED P. SLOAN Jr., chairman of General Motors, told the stockholders of the corporation that federal legislation for minimum wages and maximum hours will increase unemployment, penalize small business and further unbalance the entire national economy. He criticized the spending-recovery program as recovery medicine and said "There certainly is nothing in the picture to warrant optimism so far as the immediate future is concerned, or to establish my confidence as to any intelligent solution of our difficulties."

Sloan said that one of the two major contributing causes of the present depression has been the unbalancing of the national economy by too rapid an increase in wages and too rapid a shortening of hours in many key industries—thus unbalancing purchasing power in relation to prices.

The second cause, superimposed on the first, Sloan continued, "is the fact that there has been developing a growing lack of confidence and a fear as to the attitude of government toward business, as well as to economic policies that have been enacted as affecting the national economy and penalizing the operating effectiveness of industry."

Martin Suspends Five PRESIDENT HOMER MARTIN of the United Automobile Workers suspended five members of the union's international board on the ground that they were disturbing union harmony. The five were Vice Presidents Richard T. Frankenstein, Wyndham Mortimer, Ed Hall, and Walter N. Wells, and Secretary-Treasurer George Adress.

Lindberghs on Island COL. AND MRS. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH and their two sons are now established in their new home on little Illic island just off the Brittany coast of France. Illic island is large enough only for its castle, formerly the home of the opera singer, Mme. Adelina Patti. It is near St. Gildas island, home of Dr. Alexis Carrel, American scientist with whom Lindbergh developed the mechanical heart.

Son James Won't Run JAMES ROOSEVELT, son and secretary of the President, rejected a citizens committee's request that he run for lieutenant governor of Massachusetts, declaring "I feel that I have an obligation above all else to remain at my duties in Washington."

C. Houston Goudiss Offers More Advice About Reducing

Describes the Perils of Unscientific Methods for Losing Weight

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York City.

MY RECENT discussion of reducing in these columns brought many letters, indicating that the modern woman is, fortunately, weight conscious. This is an encouraging sign. For it shows that you are alert to the dangers of overweight, which not only destroys beauty but may indirectly contribute to heart disease, kidney disorders and diabetes, which take their greatest toll from among the heavyweights.

Guard Against Unscientific Reducing Methods

Some of these letters caused me great concern, however, because they indicate that in spite of my warning against unscientific methods of weight reduction, many women still cling to the idea that there is some magic in the various pills, powders, capsules, saps, salts and mechanical devices that are sold at fancy prices and hold out alluring promises of speedy reducing without dieting or exercise.

It is bad enough that most of these fail to reduce. For they may delay the day when the victim of overweight will undertake a sound and scientific program of weight reduction that will effectively take off weight—thus improving appearance, benefiting health and increasing the chances of longevity. But what is far more serious is that some of these preparations may endanger health or cause lifelong physical impairment.

Drugging is particularly to be condemned, and no one should attempt to reduce by this method except under the advice and watchful eye of a physician. There are many invalids today who would be happy and healthy if they had not attempted to take some "reducing medicine" without consulting a physician.

One preparation that is still bought by foolish women—in spite of repeated warnings against its use—may even result in permanent blindness. Almost equally objectionable are excessive purging—which may leave you a wobbly wreck—and fasting, which is even more dangerous to women than men.

Don't Diet Without Direction A carefully regulated diet will not only maintain normal weight, but will banish overweight by forcing the body to burn its own excess fat as fuel. Having heard of this scientific principle, many women frantically and foolishly attempt to prescribe their own reducing diets—often with disastrous results.

There is always the possibility that one may omit calcium-bearing foods and thus impair the Counting Calories the Easy Way to Reduce The one safe, sure and scientific method of getting rid of surplus weight and at the same time maintaining top health—is to consume a diet that is balanced in every respect, but to count your calories at every meal, making certain that you consume fewer calories each day than your body requires for its normal energy expenditure.

I will gladly send to every reader of this newspaper, a copy of my reducing bulletin. This includes a chart showing the caloric value of all the commonly used foods—plus a week's sample reducing menus. By following this scientific plan for weight reduction, you can easily lose from one to two pounds weekly. A more rapid reduction is not advisable. At that rate, you can lose from six to eight pounds in the course of a month—twenty-four pounds at the end of three months. That is a lot of weight to lose and will make a vast difference in your appearance and in the enthusiasm with which you greet your daily tasks.

The Film Stars' Method This simple and scientific method of controlling the weight is the one used by film stars in Hollywood. It is essential that they keep slim and practically every important film player has a clause in her contract calling for a cancellation if she permits her weight to increase beyond a certain point. But at the same time, film stars must safeguard their health, for their work is the most strenuous of occupations!

Counting Calories Is Fun In Hollywood they make a game of counting calories. You, too, will find it amusing, as well as beneficial to health and looks. And you will be rewarded by noting a drop in weight every time you step on the scales.

If Your Weight Is Normal Keep It That Way It has been determined that the ideal weight—that is the weight that best promotes health and longevity—after thirty, is the normal weight for one's height at the age of thirty.

If you are approximately thirty and your weight is normal, you should send for my Calorie Chart and Reducing Bulletin and use it to help maintain your present weight!

If you are over thirty and overweight, you should not lose another day before sending for the bulletin so that you can begin at once to regain your normal weight by the safe, simple, scientific and Aisle of Woman's Dreams Suppose you knew that one aisle of one store had everything you needed to purchase! Suppose on that aisle you could buy household necessities, smart clothing, thrilling gifts for bride, graduate, voyager! How much time, trouble and fretful shopping you would be spared! That, in effect, is what advertisements in this paper can do for you. They bring all the needs of your daily life into review . . . in one convenient place. Shop from your easy-chair, with the advertisements. Keep abreast of bargains, instead of chasing them. Spend time in your newspaper to save time—and money—in the stores.

Houston Goudiss, at 6 East 39th Street, New York City, for his scientific Reducing Bulletin. It shows how to reduce by the safe and sane method of counting calories. The bulletin is complete, contains a chart showing the caloric value of all the commonly used foods, plus a week's sample reducing menus. It is a beautiful weight reducing comfortable method of counting calories. As the pounds disappear, you will feel as though you have stepped out of a prison of fat into a new world of physical freedom.

Questions Answered Miss L. T. B.—Though fat and vitamin A, skim milk is a rich source of calcium and phosphorus, and also furnishes a grade protein. A quart of milk, plus one and one-half ounces of butter is the equivalent of a quart of whole milk.

Mrs. J. M. T.—It is impossible to generalize regarding the asthma. This condition is due to allergy, and the symptoms produced by different foods are different individuals. Almost all certain substances are capable of causing distress.

Mrs. G. B., Jr.—There is absolutely no truth in the fallacy that aluminum cooking utensils may adversely affect health. Numerous experiments have demonstrated that they are perfectly safe.

Miss A. G.—One tablespoon cod-liver oil provides about 400 calories, which is equal in value to one slice of bread, a medium potato, or three-quarters of a cup of cooked macaroni.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—It is perhaps just as well that Crosby Gaige is a bachelor. He drags home 200,000 patent models, including a corpse preserver, hog-catcher, burglar alarm, an early Hoe printing press, a dentist's chair, a machine gun, an egg-beater, an engine, a steamboat, a pretzel-bending machine—and so on—and on.

The patent office models had been gathered by the late Sir Henry Wellcome and kept at his estate in 3,251 packing cases. Mr. Gaige bought them.

A friend of this writer, remembering with remorse he hadn't bought a birthday present for his wife, stepped into an auction room. He became confused and bought ten barrels of tin cookie cutters. It almost broke up his home. Mr. Gaige will have no such trouble.

Mr. Gaige was born the son of the postmaster at Skunk Hollow, N. Y., and became a Broadway theatrical producer, with a 300-acre estate at Peekskill on the Hudson, where he indulges his taste for knickknacks such as the above, but with more discrimination than this ensemble suggests.

He is a gourmet, with 300 cook books in his kitchen, has a de luxe machine shop where he makes art objects, is a master of viticulture and a maker and connoisseur of beautiful wines.

He has cattle folds and breeds blooded cattle, a printing plant where he prints typographical knock-outs in limited editions, a huge library with 5,000 reference books, and is distinguished both as a bibliophile and a cook—one of the best cooks in the world, his friends say.

All these concerns are merely extra-curricular. In his 29 years on Broadway, he has hit off his full share of successes, built three theaters and kept steadily out of the red. In Columbia university, he wrote the 1903 varsity show, "Illusia."

He got a job with the late Elizabeth Marbury, famous play broker, reading plays at ten cents an act. He saved his money and headed into the show business with a fast running start.

His life is the fulfillment of every commuter's dream. He is of clerical, almost monkish mien, of somewhat austere countenance, with octagonal pince-nez and, like all epicures, abstemious in all things—saving such things as patent models.

He wears red, white and blue suspenders and is very fussy about his handkerchief pocket. He always has the tailor sew a button on it.

AN ATTACK of laryngitis gave Margaret Sullivan her big start. Lee Shubert saw her in "Three Artists and a Lady" at Princeton, and rushed back-stage with a contract.

"You have a voice just like Ethel Barrymore," he said. She explained that it was merely laryngitis, but the excited Mr. Shubert wouldn't listen. There was nothing to be done about it, so the helpless girl was signed for five years.

That was a bit of luck which, in Miss Sullivan's career, offsets embarrassing entanglements in some of the most elaborate flops in current stage history. Today, she is at the peak of her career as critics turn cartwheels and back flips over the new film, "Three Comrades," and Miss Sullivan's performance therein.

Her story has none of the up-ram-poverty success routine. She is the daughter of a proud family of Norfolk, Va., a descendant of Robert E. Lee. Her journey to Boston to study dancing was indulged as a passing whim, but there was considerable family eye-rolling when she switched to the theater and began adventuring in summer stock, on Cape Cod and way points.

Her father got her home once, but only for a short time. It is to be hoped that her story won't be widely circulated around Hollywood. It would start all the extra girls sleeping in a draft.

The Average Month We are apt to think of our present months as having four weeks apiece, but that is not true. The average month contains just about four and one-third weeks. The only month with four weeks in it is February, and in leap year even February has one day over four weeks.

“What has Lou got to do with it?” Howard asked.

“He’s one of the gang that did this. We caught him. He’s our prisoner now. A hostage, you might say. If anything happens to Miss Ruth, it’s all off with him.”

“What d’you mean, he’s one of the gang that did this? Lou doesn’t go around carrying girls up into the hills, if that’s what happened, though so far I can’t make head or tail of it.” Howard looked reproachfully at the L. C. man.

“No need to begin at the first of it, Sherm. You know that better than I do. Through yore spies you found out some Mexican smugglers were going to run silver through Live Oak canyon to Tough Nut. You sent five of yore gang out to waylay them.”

“Wa-ait a minute, Dan.” Howard raised a fat hand to stop him. “No such a thing. Some of the boys headed for Tough Nut to see the elephant. They may have gone by way of Live Oak canyon. I wouldn’t know about that.”

“It isn’t more than 40 miles off the direct route to Tough Nut,” Brand said contemptuously. “Don’t try to load me, Sherm. I know what that outlaw bunch went to Live Oak for. We found two Mexicans they had rubbed out and the pack-mule with the silver. Yore crowd was still shootin’ when we took a hand.”

“The Mexicans must have attacked them,” Howard protested. “That would be the way of it.”

“Sure. When a brush rabbit gets nerve enough to spit in the eye of a rattlesnake. Like I said, Lou is our prisoner. That boy hasn’t any sand in his craw. He wilted right off and blabbed all he knew. Don’t waste my time trying to lie. Here’s the nub of it. Two of yore men slipped away from us up a side canyon. They cut across to the L. C. ranch-house and picked up Miss Ruth. After she had rustled grub for them, they took her with them into the hills.”

“What two men?” “Morg Norris and Kansas.” “I’m not responsible for what that killer Morg Norris does,” the fat man burst out. “You know that, Dan. He’s a bad hombre. Long ago, soon as I saw what he was, I washed my hands of him.”

“Lee holds you responsible. So do the rest of us. You can’t get away with that, Sherm. Every decent man in this country will be against you in this thing. If that devil Norris hurts Miss Ruth, you’ll be in a jam. Don’t think anything else for a minute.”

The big moon face of Howard was pallid. The reverse at Live Oak was bad enough. Not much chance to play innocent with Lou a prisoner. But this crazy adventure of Morgan Norris was ruinous. Sherm did not know which way to turn. Lee Chiswick hated him, anyhow. The oldest son of the L. C. ranchman had been a private in the Texas Rangers and had been killed while on duty. The father of the dead boy had always suspected Howard of betraying the youngster to his death, though he had never been able to prove it. If this girl was injured, Lee would go hog wild. His revenge would never stop at Norris—not even at Lou Howard.

“We want to be reasonable, Dan,” he said. “I wouldn’t have had this happen for all the money in the world—if it has happened. I can’t believe it. Morg is a good-looking fellow. Maybe he just persuaded her to ride along a ways. If it was Morg. We want to be sure of that.”

“Morg left a note,” Brand said quietly. “Besides, the girl who works at the ranch got away and told us. What’s the sense in trying to fool yourself? If it is yoreself and not me you’re trying to load, I’m here to tell you to get busy. Send some of yore scallawags out to shoot down Norris. Get Miss Ruth back somehow safely. If you don’t, you’re out of luck, Sherm.” The face of the foreman was harsh and grim.

Howard mopped his perspiring face with a bandanna. He made up his mind to sacrifice Norris. It was too bad Mile High was present, since it would be fatal for the idea to get out that he would not stand by any of his gang in trouble. But even Mile High must see they had throw Morg to the lions after doing such a thing.

“We’d better talk turkey,” he admitted. “First thing is to get Miss Chiswick back. I can promise to put 30 men to combing the hills inside of two hours, Dan. I’ll go the limit on this thing.”

“Good, if you send them to the right place,” Brand made blunt answer. “I don’t know where he is any more than you do,” Howard cut back sharply. “And I won’t have you saying I do, Dan. There’s one thing more I’ll say. My boy Lou isn’t in this. If you—or Lee—or any of his riders—do that boy any harm, I’ll never quit till I’ve cleaned up the whole Chiswick nest. You can put that in your pipe and smoke it.”

“All I’m saying is that you’d better find Miss Ruth and get her home,” Brand replied, frowning at him.

The foreman turned and strode out of the room. Mile High said to Howard angrily, “Is it yore idea to throw down on Morg?”

The lifeless eyes of Howard slid round to meet those of the other. “Don’t always be a lunthead, Mile High. What has this fellow done but throw down on you and me and all of us? You know this country won’t stand for such stuff as he has just pulled off. He’d know it, too, if he wasn’t crazy. We’ve got to play our hands to save ourselves. When Morg Norris took this girl with him against her will, he signed his death-warrant. Don’t you go signing yours. We’re going after

He pushed through the brush for half a mile.

Morg to get him. You had better get you a horse and trail along with one of the posses. You’ll find it’s doggoned good insurance against a few years in the pen at Yuma.”

CHAPTER X

Jeff Gray had to fight down an impulse to hurry. It would be folly to wear out the horses getting to the Walsh cabin, only to find out that Kansas had sent them on a wild-goose chase. After all, the man was one of the gang. What more likely than that, under instruction of Norris, he had been trying to direct the pursuit in the wrong direction when he freed Nelly?

With a heavy heart Jeff admitted to himself that this was very likely a job that could not be done in a hurry. He might have to sleep on Norris’ trail for a week. The fellow knew every pocket in these hills. If Kansas were false-carding, they might not find the outlaws at all.

The two men traveled steadily, Sorley in the lead. The little Irishman was a good guide. He had an instinct for short cuts, and he held his horse to the fastest gait that would not sap its strength. They flung the miles behind them, moving always deeper and deeper into the hills.

“Much farther?” Gray asked once, his mouth set to a grim straight slit.

“Not so far,” Sorley answered. “That’s Crowfoot over to the left. We’re swingin’ round it now.” They circled back of the mountain, dropped into a gulch, and clambered up its stony bed. Near the top of the canyon Sorley stopped his horse.

“The cabin is in a little park just over the ridge,” he said. “What do we do? Bust right down on them? Or wait till it’s dark?”

“Better have a look first from the ridge,” Gray suggested. They left their horses just below the lip of the park, climbed up to the ledge, and looked down. No smoke rose from the house. There were no horses in the corral, but one saddled bronco was grazing near the spring.

“They sure have been here,” Sorley said. “But they have done gone, and in some hurry, looks like. Didn’t even take time to unsaddle. Why-for did they leave one of the horses here?” Gray was looking down at something sprawled out in front of the cabin. “They didn’t need but two horses,” he said, his voice harsh and cold. “One of them stayed here.” He pointed at the still body. A pulse of excitement hammered in the scrawny throat of the line-riders. “Begorry, you’re right. There has been a fight, and one of them got killed.”

The younger man differed. “Not a fight, but a murder. For some reason Norris made up his mind to get rid of Kansas. He did so, and then lit out. I’m going down.”

“Look out for a trap,” the old-timer advised.

“Don’t think it’s that. Two of the horses have gone.” But Gray did not take any unnecessary chances. His rifle was across the saddle as he rode down into the park. He made sure nobody was in the house before he took a close look at the dead man.

“Kansas, like you said,” Sorley looked at his companion and then looked away. Both of them were thinking of what this meant to Ruth. “They can’t be far ahead of us, if we knew which way they had gone.”

It would be possible to find in what direction they had started, but both the men knew there was little chance of running down Norris in hundreds of miles of rough mountain terrain.

Sorley began to quarter over the park looking for sign.

“He shot Kansas in the back of the head, from off to one side,” Gray mentioned.

“The horses headed up toward that patch of little pines near the ridge,” Sorley called to him. “Two of them. Morg was in a sweat to get away.”

“Yes,” Gray’s voice raised in sudden excitement. “Come here, Pat. Someone left a message for us.” Sorley ran to him. He pointed to some writing scratched in the sand. The old man read it aloud slowly.

“Wild Horse basin.” “It’s meant for us,” Gray said. “Either the girl wrote it—or Norris did. It’s signed with her initial, but that doesn’t mean a thing. The scoundrel may have left it to fool us. The letters are done kinda shaky, as if she had made them in a hurry, on the sly.” His eyes were back again on the writing.

“That’s right,” agreed the line-riders. “If Norris had done it, he would have fixed the letters deeper, so we wouldn’t miss seeing them. I’d say Miss Ruth wrote it.”

“Where is Wild Horse basin?” Sorley pointed to the north. “Up in the high hills, back thataway. Say, how would the girl know where he was heading for?”

“She might have heard him say—or Kansas may have told her before he was killed. Likely Kansas made some move to help her. Morg wouldn’t have shot him if he hadn’t figured the other fellow was turning against him. Let’s get going.”

“For Wild Horse basin?” “Yes. I have a hunch the girl did that writing. Morg never would have thought of it.” Sorley looked down at the dead man. “I hate not to bury him before we go, even if he was a scallawag. But we’ve got to jump. It will be night soon.”

They carried the body into the cabin and covered it with two gunnysacks.

The riders followed the trail left by Norris and his prisoner. Once out of the park, Sorley waited only to make sure of the direction taken by those in front of them. He struck into the hills, dipping across gulches and winding round the shoulders of elephant humps. The country grew wilder and more rugged. Sometimes they were in a region of stunted pines. More often the hills were dry and scarred with rock outcroppings. From the summits they could see a saw-toothed range lifting its crest into a sky of violet haze. Behind a crotch of the hills the sun was setting. Already dusk had softened the vivid tints of orange and scarlet to a faint pink glow. Night soon would sift down upon the highlands.

The pursuers dropped down into the basin, came to a little stream tumbling down through the rocks. Sorley pulled up his horse.

“No use going any farther,” he said. “Got to wait till we can see. All we’d do is get lost if we kept traveling.”

Gray read the despondency in the old line-rider’s voice. He understood it because his own heart was sick. What Pat said was true. They might as well throw off and make camp.

“There’s one thing,” he said. “If they came here, Norris would camp on a creek. Maybe on this one, since it’s the first he would come to in the basin. You fix up something to eat while I drift up along the bank for a ways.”

“Sure,” Pat answered hopelessly. “Won’t do any harm.” The younger man swung from the saddle and turned his horse over to Sorley. “Reckon I’ll make better time on foot,” he decided.

The stars were pricking out of the sky. Black, shadowy outlines marked where the hill boundaries had been. In the vast emptiness Jeff had an acute sense of insignificance. He was an atom in an immense universe. His will to do held no more potency than that of one of the trout in this rippling stream.

He pushed through the brush for a half a mile or more. Abruptly he stopped. In front of him, two or three hundred yards distant, was a light which he knew must come from a campfire. A hot gladness poured through his blood.

Swiftly, with as little rustling as possible, he moved toward the camp. It was in an open place, close to the bank of the stream. On the edge of the clearing, as Jeff drew near, he made out the vague shadow of horses. Two figures were seated by the fire. He heard the murmur of a voice.

Gray crept forward with more care. There was no immediate hurry. Norris sat cross-legged at his ease. He had no faintest suspicion that there was any friend of Ruth Chiswick within a score of miles.

He was talking. The slur of his mocking speech came to Jeff before the words.

“I sure picked a fine spot for our honeymoon, sweetheart,” he jeered. “A million candles in yore bedroom, honey. I’d say you were in luck I picked you up. Some break for you to get me instead of that pink-ear Lou Howard.”

The girl’s head was low. Jeff could see she was sobbing. Her courage had washed out. There could be no help in heaven or on earth for her now, she must be thinking.

Norris rose, stretched himself, and yawned, his arms above his head. The man’s evil smile looked down on her. He opened his mouth to speak, but words were frozen on his lips. From out of the brush came a chill crisp order.

“Keep yore arms right up where they are, Norris.” The figure of the outlaw grew rigid. A man was coming out of the scrub, revolver in hand.

“Don’t make any mistake,” Gray ordered, “or it will be yore last.” He moved toward the outlaw slowly.

Fragments of thoughts raced phatically through the brain of the bad man. He yielded to a desperate impulse and dived back of the fire, dragging at his gun.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON.—A considerable bloc of railroad officials do not want any more government help in the form of loans. They think more borrowing merely increases the interest they are already groaning under, and making the future blacker instead of brighter.

They are strongly in favor of permitting such railroads as cannot now pay their bond interest to go through the wringer. Of course this does not include borrowing from the government to retire existing bond issues. For example, if a bond issue of $10,000,000 should fall due next month for railroad A, and this bond issue bears interest at 6 per cent, while the government is willing to lend railroad A the ten million at 4 per cent, then the road will save $200,000 in interest charges every year from now on by taking advantage of the RFC offer.

That is quite a different thing from borrowing money for no other reason than to pay bond interest, and thus keep out of the hands of receivers. In this latter case, which is typical of most of them, the railroad would be in a worse fix next year than this, so far as interest charges are concerned. Next year it would have to pay as much interest on outstanding bonds as this year, and in addition would have to pay interest on the money it borrowed from RFC to pay the interest this year.

There are plenty of reasons for the present difficulty of the railroads, but most of them are not susceptible to much change. The only improvement, apparently, can come from increased traffic, and this can come only with better times. Even that is threatened here and there by the development of more and more rivers for navigation. It is not important, from the standpoint of the railroads, that these rivers may never actually handle much traffic. The important thing is that the development of the rivers for traffic will prove an ample excuse for shippers in that territory to obtain rate reductions on heavy products from the interstate commerce commission.

Hit by River Traffic It is only on heavy products that the railroads at present can depend for revenue. A very small increase in rates on light products will drive shippers to trucks. So that the railroads are menaced from the top by trucks, and from the bottom, measuring in terms of revenue per pound, by river traffic.

The administration, however, is anxious to avoid a flood of railroad receiverships. It sounds bad. It tends to make conditions generally worse. From the cold-blooded Treasury standpoint, it tends to reduce revenue, particularly from personal income tax returns. For obviously every time a railroad defaults payment of bond interest a good many personal incomes are reduced, and this reduction is the cream of the income from the Treasury standpoint. Naturally it comes off the top, and hence out of the higher tax brackets.

There is the additional worry to the administration that default of railroad bond interest bears heavily on the savings banks and life insurance companies, which have a heavy stake in these securities, once considered the most prudent investments in the world.

Some of the railroad men who do not wish to increase the present debt load of their properties are not averse, however, to advertising to the country the tremendous burden the roads are bearing in taxation, not only federal but state, county and local.

Tennessee Is Next The next political question involved in the “purge,” now that the Iowa contest has become history, is what is to be done about Tennessee. Senator George L. Berry has from the administration standpoint “stuck his neck out” and is sure to face attempted reprisals.

Never was any senator closer to the White House at the time Major Berry took his oath before Vice President Garner. He had worked for President Roosevelt in a dozen different capacities. He had been put in the senate, on appointment by Governor Gordon Browning, by the persuasive powers of the President. In fact, Browning had very different ideas when the vacancy in the senate occurred through the death of Senator Nathan L. Bachman.

But all that has been changed. The split began, apparently, about the time Senator Berry discovered that David E. Lillenthal, of the TVA was not as friendly as had appeared. Or perhaps Lillenthal had been sincere in his friendship but was compelled to change his attitude.

At any rate Berry thought Lillenthal was treating him fairly, and bitterly resented the implications of Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the TVA, the latter plainly implying, as he later testified, that Berry was just trying to hold up the government, and get some millions of dollars for “worthless marble” submerged by the TVA development.

Berry lost his fight before a tribunal, but, much worse, he not only was deprived of the money he had expected, but he was maligned in a public hearing by the TVA congressional investigating committee. Berry had expected A. E. Morgan to attack him. In fact he probably knew that some admirers of A. E. Morgan hoped the “Berry marble case” would prove very effective in turning public opinion against Lillenthal.

Turns on Berry But the senator was shocked beyond measure when Lillenthal virtually joined A. E. Morgan in attacking Berry, thus taking this case, unless A. E. Morgan springs something now unanticipated to clinch this particular point against Lillenthal, virtually out of the controversy.

Since this “reputation” Senator Berry has stopped being an administration rubber stamp. He actually voted to curb federal loans and grants for the construction of government electric plants—with the relief money—to compete with privately-owned electric plants. He voted for several other amendments to the relief bill which were distinctly distasteful to the White House and Harry L. Hopkins.

So now he’s on the list, and the administration hopes very much that he will be missed after the November election. Tennessee being overwhelmingly Democratic, the arrangements to have him missing when the senate convenes next January in its next session will have to be aimed at the primary. Which is rather amusing when it is recalled that President Roosevelt just a few weeks back was writing an earnest letter to Representative Samuel D. McReynolds to keep that veteran in Tennessee politics from opposing Berry.

Also the Berry case may complicate an existing very warm struggle in Tennessee politics, in which armed clashes threaten between Ed Crump’s police down in Memphis with special state police appointed by Governor Browning. Crump backed Browning two years ago for the nomination for governor, but he has turned on him, so that the gubernatorial battle so far has overshadowed the senate fight.

St. Lawrence Seaway Prospects for the St. Lawrence seaway, despite the beautiful picture of what could be done as painted in the note to Canada by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, continue to be very dark indeed. This is revealed by conversations with senators as to the probability of any treaty involving the idea being ratified.

It might not be difficult to obtain senate approval for a St. Lawrence river development, including all the features of the Tennessee valley development, if only the one phase of navigation should be left out. The privately owned utilities of course would fight it, but they have not shown themselves very successful in blocking legislation, and there is not much indication that they would be successful on the St. Lawrence. In fact, they would be more impotent there than in some other proposals, for whatever they may think about other power projects, the general impression on Capitol Hill is that Niagara power is a good idea. The senators can sense the power possibilities there, and harnessing the falling water seems to even the least informed of them a practical matter.

The sticking point in the whole beautiful picture is navigation and nothing else. Incidentally navigation has been the driving force behind the whole movement ever since its inception. Originally it was in two parts. The cities on the Great Lakes, with the exception of Buffalo, were intrigued with the idea of becoming world ports, with ships from all over the globe steaming into their harbors. It aroused the chamber of commerce and civic booster spirit to the nth degree. Buffalo had a different angle on the situation. Its citizens feared in the early days, and still fear, that if ocean-going ships could navigate right into the Great Lakes, Buffalo would lose its present tremendous trans-shipment business.

Farmers Interested Even more important, politically, was the desire of the farmers in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Montana, Iowa, and other nearby states to obtain lower freight rates on their wheat shipped to Liverpool. For many years the price of wheat anywhere in the world has been determined by the price in that British city. The price anywhere else was and is the Liverpool price, less the freight rate from the point in question to Liverpool. Various estimates as to how much the freight from northwestern points to Liverpool could be cut by the St. Lawrence seaway have been made, but whatever figure was used appealed very strongly to farmers shipping large quantities of wheat.

However, since the early days of the movement, the exports of wheat by the United States have been declining. Manufactured goods bulk much larger now in the export totals of this country.

Geologist Sees Third Ice Age in Next Two Thousand Years’ Period

A new ice age, the third, in geologic history, is being indicated by measured risings of parts of the eastern hemisphere, according to Prof. F. X. Schaffer of the University of Vienna, writes a Berkeley, Calif., United Press correspondent.

Dr. Schaffer, who is an internationally known geologist, said that exhaustive measurements taken at Stockholm show that in the last 50 years Sweden has risen about eight inches, while similar measurements in Finland show that that country has risen 10 inches in 34 years.

An increase in the altitude of a continent,” declared Schaffer, “or even a portion of a continent by approximately 600 feet lowers the annual average temperature by one degree, centigrade. We know that a decrease in the present temperature of Scandinavia by about three degrees centigrade would start a glaciation in Europe as big as that of the Quarternary, in which period the last ice age took place.

“During the last period of glaciation ice covered one-fourth to one-fifth of the present area of continents. Before that time man had appeared on the eastern hemisphere and he moved south ahead of the oncoming ice until he reached Africa, where he was secure.

“A study of the deposits left by glaciers in Sweden shows that the flow started northward some 12,000 years ago. In other words, it took the ice 5,000 years to recede to its present limits in the polar areas, where it has remained for 7,000 years.

“At last, however, signs indicate that it is again getting ready to move southward, and unless those signs should fail it should start within the next 2,000 years.”

Oysters Are Prolific Oysters are very prolific. The Atlantic coast species spawn five or six times during the season—from May to August. An oyster may discharge as many as one-half billion eggs in a season. Only a few survive. Less than one per cent hatch and reach maturity. The eggs hatch and the young begin to swim in a few hours. At the end of the day they form a bivalve shell, then attach themselves permanently to rocks or other submerged objects. They feed on microscopic water life and grow rapidly.

Pure Milk Drive
Made By Texas

Austin-In view of the fact that Governor Allred has proclaimed the month of June 9 to July 6th as Milk and Dairy Products Month, Dr. Geo.
W. Cox, State Health Officer, urged with this more extensive use of milk,

that both producer and consumer be concerned as to its quality. The use of clean safe milk is a health measure.

Local interest in improved methods of producing wholesome milk has increased greatly in the past two decades and the striking advance in milk control has been responsible for the enormous saving in infant life.

Milk is perishable and especially during hot weather. To insure milk of good quality requires cleanliness, sterile utensils, protection against flies, careful bottling and maintenance at low temperature. The presence in fresh milk of large numbers of bacteria due to insanitary methods of production is a health hazard.

Among the diseases which may be transmitted through milk are tuberculosis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat, undulant fever, diarrhea and enteritis. Numerous milk-borne outbreaks of disease occur every year in this country and from the use of milk that might have been safe with proper care.

We should firmly insist that the milk we drink be carefully produced,

so that we will have the maximum practicable protection along the line from the cow to the consumer.

Tennis Matches
For Fourth

The recreation chairman of Slaton's
Fourth of July Celebration committee has placed on their list of entertainments for the big day, a tennis tournament. It will consist only of mixed doubles. First and second place awards will be given.

Those who are interested will please send in their names before Thursday,
June 30, to J. G. Wilhite, Tennis Chairman, 905 South 11th, Slaton. It is necessary to have a final date of entry in order to make the necessary arrangements for courts.

Each team will supply its own balls and rackets, but the committee will try to have courts provided with nets.

The following blank may be used for sending in names. If the subscriber does not use the blank, please offer it to anyone who may wish to enter.

O'Daniel In News

Candidate For Gov.
Draws Big Crowds

Ft. Worth-Throwing a bonshell into political circles by drawing throng of unprecedented size wherever he appears, W. Lee O'Daniel, Ft.
Worth business man and former president of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, shattered all local records for political turnouts as he opened his campaign in Waco Monday night and set out through West Texas on a speaking tour that will take him over the entire state in the next six weeks.

Unknown in political circles until his opening speech, the "Common Citizens Candidate" demonstrated a sensational drawing power wherever he appeared, accompanied by his Hillbilly ambassadors of his commercial flour broadcasts. Mounting the top of the bus in which the party is covering the state, Mr. O'Daniel brought cheers from his audiences,

most of them numbered among his radio listeners, as he expounded his policies for a "business administration in the governor's office, shaken free of political leeches and class legislation."

Veteran observers called the throng not political gatherings but a revolution in politics. The Fort Worth business man spoke extemporaneously, saying little about his opponents,

and addressing the crowds as "friends and relatives." He declared that he knew little of how to make a political speech like the professional candidate, "who makes you think the cotton shirt you wear is silk."

He said he was just an ordinary citizen, raised on a ranch, running for Governor because he had received 58,000 letters from average voters asking him to make the race.

"Most people think my support is just from the forks of the creeks," Mr. O'Daniel said, "but I want you to know a whole lot of business men agree with me there are some screws loose at Austin. They are going with me. They think I, or some business man, can find these loose screws."

"There are two white horses in this race. They call me a dark horse.
And then it looks like there are about 11 blind horses in it."

A bunch of professional politicians came to him and offered to make him governor, after he got those 58,000
letters asking him to run, Mr.
O'Daniel said. They offered to write his platform and speeches and "furnish all the money it takes." The audiences cheered when he said he turned them down and was going to make the fight on the common people's dimes and quarters and dollars, so that they would be the only ones he would be responsible to in Austin.

"Is there a one of you here who has ever had a hand in running your state except by casting a ballot every two years?" Mr. O'Daniel asked. "Did any of you have anything to do with selecting any of the other candidates? No, the professional politicians attended to that, just like they've been doing for a long time.
Now you have chosen your own candidate so that your interests will be protected and your state will be returned to you for your benefit."

When he said the politicians offered to take him on, Mr. O'Daniel laughed,
"I was afraid I'd get the third carbon copy of that platform."

Regarding his views of issues, the candidate declared one of the loose screws was charging $1.75 poll tax in order to cut the number of votes in half and make it easier for the professional politicians to pick the officials. Many common citizens, he said, needed that $1.75 to feed their families
but deserved, nevertheless, to vote for their public officials. Another, he said, is too high transportation rates and regulations to prevent trucking Texas products at lower rates, "and fining a fellow if he tries to help the farmer get a market."

On old age pensions, "the people voted for Texas to give everybody

we should pay," he said.

He would work out a plan to aid legitimate industry to set up more factories and develop the state's resional politicians out of state offices, and I'd cut tax rate until you'd be surprised," he declared.

Lubbock County REA
Asks More Mileage

The Rural Electrification Adminstration has given preliminary consideration to an application of the South Plains Electric Cooperative, Inc., Lubbock, Texas, for an additional loan to extend its rural lines centering in Lubbock County, and has outlined the steps which must be completed before an allotment of funds can be made. REA is corresponding with W. M. Ross, President of the cooperative.

The original application covered 201 miles to serve 548 customers.
REA has already allotted $100,000 for this project. The proposed extensions would total 100 miles of line to serve 320 new customers.

It will be necessary for the project sponsors to obtain and submit signed applications for membership in the cooperative as well as applications for electrical service from it; also obtain signed easements for the right-of-way for the power lines, and prepare and send to REA a detailed map of the proposed extension.

The same retail rate which has already been established for the first section of the project will probably apply on this new section. Under this rate, residential customers pay a minimum bill of $2.50 a month, for which they may receive 25 kw, enough electricity to light the average size home and operate such appliances as a washing machine, or an iron and $5.85 pays for 100 kw, enough for these uses, a radio, a water pump and one major appliance,
such as a refrigerator.

Speed in further development of this project depends in large measure upon a continuance of the community cooperation which is principally responsible for the success of the project so far. If the information about this proposed addition is satisfactory, REA expects to be able to allot money to meet the entire construction costs.
No money will be lent to pay for rights-of-way.

A. AND M. COLLEGE ARRANGES
COURSE FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

College Station-About 2,500 boys and girls from Texas farms and ranches will have the undivided attention of Texas A. and M. College July 6 to 9 when the Junior section of the annual Farmers' Short Course will be held at College Station. This is the first time that adult and junior Short Course visitors have met on different dates, according to Roy W.
Snyder, Short Course general chairman.

The arrangement has been made because the yearly increased attendance at Short Course has taken place at the same time when summer sessions of the College have also been growing.

Each year it has been harder to make room for both groups and this year it was impossible.

General assembly every morning and the night programs will be joint meetings of the boys and girls, with music in charge of the famous Rotary International song leader, Walter H.
Jenkins, of Houston. Speakers and picture shows will feature these meetings. A tea honoring the gold star boys and girls will be given one afternoon.

Programs for the boys have been arranged on the subjects of livestock;
field crops; entomology; horticulture;
plant propagation; cotton classing;
and meat. For the girls, the program will center around home making subjects, wild-flower legends, and "The 4-H Club Girls' Dollar and Sense."
One series of talks by the girls themselves will be presented under the title "How I got on friendly terms with the things around me."

"What 4-H Experience Means to a College Girl" is the subject of a talk by Ruth Fooshee, former Hunt county 4-H club girl, winner of the Texas Home Demonstration Association college scholarship. "A 4-H Club Girl
as a Homemaker" will be discussed by Mrs. Paul Stauffer, former 4-H club girl of Wheeler county.

The Washington trip winners will tell about the club camp.

Songs, Stars, Laughs
Girls Feature Film

A brilliant cast of top radio and film stars, scintillating music and dancing, high comedy and gorgeous settings make "The Big Broadcast," which opens Friday and Saturday at the Palace Theatre, one of the most thoroughly delightful bits of movie fare to hit the screen in a long time.

Headed by W. C. Fields and directed by Mitchell Leisen, the cast includes Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Shirley Ross, Ben Blue, Bob
Hope, Lynne Overman, Lief Erikson, Grace Bradley and Tito Guizar, with specialties by Mme. Kirsten Flagstad of the Metropolitan Opera and Shep Fields and his Rippling Rhythm Orchestra.

Bib Hope, a radio announcer and master-of-ceremonies, has trouble aboard the S. S. Gigantic, out to set a new transatlantic record. Not only has W. C. Fields, owner of the ship, come aboard to try to slow it down,
thinking that he is aboard a rival ship, but all three of Hope's ex-wives have booked passage, to supervise his love-making with Dorothy Lamour,
the girl he hopes to make Number Four.

En route, the ship slows down to pick up Martha Raye, Fields' daughter, and her boy friend, Lynne Overman, who are afloat on a raft after being wrecked in mid-ocean.

After mixups so hilarious that only Fields and Mis Raye could arrange them, the ship finally makes its new record.

Poultry Raisers Warned
Against Coccidiosis

College Station-During June and July coccidiosis will threaten baby chicks between the ages of 4 to 12 weeks, according to Geo. P. McCarthy, poultryman of the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College.

Coccidiosis, caused by microscopic parasites which multiply rapidly in the intestinal tract, is easily recognized by such symptoms as ruffled feathers, loss of color, rapid emaciation, and bloody droppings.

The disease is spread by contamination of the feed, water, and soil with droppings of the fowls, and may be carried by water, or on shoes, grain sacks, and other objects. It is also spread by birds and insects which fly from one poultry yard to another.

It is almost impossible to eradicate the disease, but poultry demonstrators and county agricultural and home demonstration agents have found that rigid sanitation may keep it from getting a start in a flock.

Dry floors, especially around the water fountains, and the use of deep, dry litter that is stirred frequently will help keep down the disease.

"A mild soda flush made of one tablespoon of soda to each gallon of drinking water, when given to the chicks once each week, seems to be a very effective control practice," Mc-Carthy said. "The milk flush is also very popular and should be given instead of water for a day as soon as blood is noticed in the droppings."

"After the first day, the water may be replaced, and both milk and water offered to the chicks for a ten day period. Skim milk may be used."

BOARD of CITY DEVELOPMENT and CHAMBER of COMMERCE NEWS

A. J. PAYNE, SECRETARY

Committee as appointed by President F. H. Schmidt of Webber Williams as Chairman, Mesdames J. H. Brewer, K. C. Scott, Dick Ragsdale, and Wilbur Jones with Sec-Mgr. A. J. Payne met in the B.C.D. Office last Monday 4 P. M. for the purpose of getting up a Float representing the B.C.D. and Chamber of Commerce for the 4th. of July and in which the Queen will ride in the parade at 10 o'clock. The picture of the Float has been picked out and the proper stuff that goes to fix the Float has been ordered from Chicago. This catalogue is in the B.C.D. Office and is open for any committee if they so desire to pick from or get ideas from to help in their building a Float.

We understand that all committees are at work on the coming 4th of July celebration, except a part of the Finance Committee of which we have had no report, and which we would be glad to have at an early date so we may know just how much is to be used or can be used by each committee.

Weather permitting, we expect to have the largest crowd here the 4th. that we have ever had, as we are getting inquiries from far and near about our celebration, and the Concession committee report that concessions are going fast.

The Soft Ball games are in progress and much pleasure and fun is being manifested at all of the games. There is to be a good game the 4th. so President Chick Garland says of a team from Lubbock to play our All Stars of Slaton.

Regular meeting of the Directors next Tuesday night, June 28th.

An eligible unemployed man may receive unemployment benefits for his first "compensable" week. A "compensable" week is the week following the waiting period of not less than two weeks. If he files a claim with the Employment Service after the compensable week, he can expect his first benefits check in from eight to ten days.

Persons seeking a change of employment should register at the State Employment Service. The Service not only finds jobs for the unemployed man but it helps anyone desirous of changing jobs. They aim to find the best man for the job and the best job for the man.

Among the twenty-five states paying unemployment compensation Texas ranks among the first ten in the number of claims received. About 152,000 original claims (the first claim an unemployed man files is called "original") have been received since January 1, of which more than 97,000 have been paid benefits in the amount of $3,261,501.11.

Most of the letters that come to the Unemployment Commission in Austin are from people who think the money subtracted from their checks is for unemployment compensation. This money is for old age insurance. The Employee does not contribute to the Unemployment Compensation Fund. These contributions are made only by the Employer.

Whether or not an unemployed man obtain unemployment benefits depends upon his "work record" which is listed with the Unemployment Compensation Commission in Austin. Employers supply this work record when the man is working. It shows for whom he worked, how long he worked and what his salary was.

Residents of many Texas rural areas not served by gas or electric lines now enjoy the convenience of gas ranges, lights and heaters through "canned" butane gas, which is delivered in liquid form but expands, forms its own pressure and is piped into the various gas appliances in the form of dry natural gas.

Texas cities are in the forefront in number and scope of air-conditioning installations in stores. In the nation, more than 700 department stores now have conditioned air as an aid to maintaining sales regardless of outside weather.

In 1937 the state of Texas collected $18,245,000 in taxes (production taxes only—exclusive of ad valorem taxes by local units) on natural resources, a sum greater than was collected by all the other 47 states combined in such taxes ($17,443,000) for 1936—latest year for which complete figures from other states are available.

Dean Frank C. Whitmore of Pennsylvania State college says the South will be the "chemical frontier" of the nation during the next 25 years, citing the region's ability to supply, in proximity to each other, such basic chemical materials as sugar, petroleum, sulphur, natural gas, cellulose, starch and vegetable oils.

Manufacture of citrus meal as a livestock feed, from formerly waste fruit peels by dehydration process is a growing by-product industry of Texas' lower Rio Grande Valley's citrus industry.

Lesson for June 26

SHARING SERVICE WITH THE LIVING CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:1-8, 14-16, 19, 20. GOLDEN TEXT—And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them. Mark 16:20. PRIMARY TOPIC—At Work With Jesus. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Our Living Lord. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making a New World With Christ. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Making a New World With Christ.

Easter again? No, the calendar does not say so, nor have we forgotten that we observed Easter ten weeks ago, but quite properly we study the resurrection story again today. Not only does it come in the sequence of our lessons as our final study in the Gospel of Mark, but the fact is that every Sunday is a reminder of Easter. The reason why we worship on the first day of the week is that it is the resurrection day. What life it would put into our Sunday worship if the glory of the risen Lord would shine forth (as it should) each Lord's Day in all of our service and worship.

It is difficult to think or write about the living Christ without using superlatives. Our lesson for today brings before us the most important truth that the world has ever heard—"He is risen"; it speaks of the worst thing in the world—"unbelief"; and it presents the world's greatest commission—"Go . . . and preach."

I. The Transcendent Truth (vv. 1-8).

"Ye seek Jesus, the Nazarene, who hath been crucified; He is risen. He is not here" (v. 6).

The world anxiously awaits news, and, hoping almost against hope, it longs for good news. This is the good news—the Gospel—the all-important tidings that the Son of God who had taken upon Himself not only the form of man, but the sins of mankind as well, who had tasted the bitter death of Calvary's cross, could not be holden of death, but breaking its bands asunder had risen from the dead.

This truth becomes the chief burden of the messages of the disciples as they soon went everywhere proclaiming the Gospel. See the sermons recorded in the Book of Acts (2:24, 32; 3:14, 15; 4:10, 23; 10:40; 13:30). It was such preaching that was at the foundation of the Christian church. It may be that we should emphasize it more.

II. The Impassable Barrier (v. 14).

"He upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not." Many are the sins that men commit, but at the root of them all we find the heart of all sin—unbelief.

The tragic consequence of unbelief is that it shuts the door, throws up a barrier to God's blessing that is virtually impassable until God himself gives grace to believe. The astonishing thing is that the hardness of heart and lack of faith here were on the part of those who had been the disciples of Jesus, to whom He had made known the fact that He was to die and to arise on the third day, and to whom there had now come the word of eye-witnesses that they had seen the Lord.

While we marvel at their short-sighted unbelief, shall we not ask ourselves what hindrances we have placed in God's way in our own lives?

III. The Supreme Commission (vv. 15, 16, 19, 20).

"Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation" (v. 15). "And they went . . . and preached, the Lord working with them and confirming the word" (v. 20).

The great commission of Christ is still the "marching orders of the church," but how slowly we have marched. The writer of these notes was recently startled by statistics revealing anew the fact that "Christian" America is rapidly returning to the status of a mission field. It is said that last year 60,000 churches in America had no converts, and 9,000 churches were closed during the year. There are 10,000 villages reported to be without church services, and 30,000 communities without a resident pastor.

The command of Christ is that we should go to these pagan communities in our own land with the gospel, and surely it is our double shame that there are still lands where Christ has never been preached, yes, tribes that do not even have a word in their language for the blessed name—Jesus!

If we will go He will indeed work with us (v. 20) and accompany the message and ministry with divine authority and power. Who will go?

Select Good Company

When a man lingers in the neighborhood of sinners he may expect to be tempted. Our company has not a little to do with our conduct.

Try Again

The diligent searcher after truth will not be deterred by many disappointments. His hope may fail, but he will try again.

Key to Success

There is only one key to success, and that is perseverance.

What's New in Swim and Beach Togs

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

TWO features stand out pre-eminently in connection with this season's swim and beach togs, namely the vast variety of materials in use, the other the fact of the dressmaker touch given their styling. It adds to the interest that gadgets in the way of costume jewelry tuned to sea and sand and outdoor themes usually complete the "picture" of each costume.

Citing a few of the smartest materials employed, first and foremost comes lastex, which is a boon to womankind in that it conforms to "lines" perfectly with a magic this-way, that-way stretching quality which solves the problem of clothes that fit, retain their shape and offer perfect comfort. The big sensation this season is the swim suit of black satin lastex with beach cape to match, completing the sense of luxury. Flower printed lastex ensembles also have their place in the style parade along water edge and sea line.

Other interesting materials employed for playtime clothes and wardrobes for water nymphs include celanese rayon moire, celanese rayon sharkskin, silk prints of fast color, linens in monotone or spectacular print and cottons so sturdy, so handsome, words fail of describing. Then there's wear-for-ever denim, and washable gabardine, so reliable when it comes to the wear and tear of riotous waves or strenuous mountain climbs.

Another feature that fashion spotlights is the use of striking color contrasts, perhaps in the way of playing up print with plain or the modernistic gesture of making the costume one vivid solid color boldly contrasted by another startling color on a sort of fifty-fifty basis.

The models pictured are typical of this season's swim suit and beach ensemble trends. Centered in the group you see a stunning outfit that tunes superbly to a statuesque figure.

ure. This comely young woman is wearing black trunks with printed "bra" of celanese rayon sharkskin. A catalin fish pin on her hip answers the call for suitable costume jewelry.

To the right, fashion offers a new bathing suit ensemble that strikingly combines white with bright ocean-blue. The bodice top is blue with catalin fish pin by way of correct gadgetry. The blue beach coat with monk's hood of blue lined with white adds to eye-appeal. This very new and attractive ensemble is of celanese rayon jersey.

A very interesting costume, as shown to the left, uses blue and white cotton print for the beach cape lined with white terry cloth, worn over a loose-fitting white terry cloth suit. Accessory is white catalin Venetian stag horn bracelet with carved edelweiss. This costume won an award and is an adaptation of an Algerian man's costume from the Traphagen costume museum.

To supplement the list of materials smartly in use for beach dress and bathing suit, hopsacking should be mentioned. It is ranked along with sharkskin for shorts and slacks and shirts. Then there are the fascinating crinkle cottons that make such practical and attractive beach coats. Water, sun or sand dim not their beauty or colorfulness.

One of the cleverest ideas is the quilted floral cotton prints. A bolero of quilted print worn with matching printed broadcloth slacks together with a peasant kerchief of the same print is a happy suggestion. Try this ensemble, it's a winner this season.

ACCENT ON POCKETS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The more decorative and useful the pockets that your dress, jacket, suit or blouse proudly boasts the better. Here you see a pretty lassie framed in a background of apple blossoms wearing a white culotte outfit in new celanese rayon suiting fabric. This attractive playtime costume is pocketed to a nicety, each pocket enhanced with hand-run vari-colored stitching. Just because amusing gadgets are essential in the scheme of things this season, this outdoor girl pins a novelty catalin brooch at her throat in the shape of a college girl's cap with tassel.

WONDERS ARE BEING DONE WITH RIBBONS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

After you have looked about at the new dress collections the thought stays with you that this is decidedly a ribbon season. Summer dresses are given a sprightly look with pert little bows here and there while ribbons galore, wide, narrow in one color or in mingled tones or tri-color gayety are swath and sashed about the waist with utmost artistry.

So utterly have designers yielded to the ribbon urge they are creating clever boleros entirely of ribbon and recently a leading Paris couturiere fashioned an entire dress of ribbon sewing it edge to edge for slender effect and for wide hemline letting the ribbon ends fly out loose over a silken foundation.

Lots of ribbons on hats this season, too, for bindings, bands and tailored bows and for floating streamers and bonnet ties are seen.

Frisly-Frilly Guimpes or Vestees Have Blouse Look

With the classic suit or the more softly tailored bolero-and-skirt costume you are expected to wear the daintiest, frilliest blouse or guimpe or vestee you can find. Of course, if you expect to remove the jacket, it's a blouse you must have. However, with the jacket on, a lacy, fluttery crisp and sheer false front is just the thing. They cost less than a blouse and they are showing such fascinating ones in neckwear departments you will yield to the impulse to buy another and another—which, when you stop to consider, is a fine gesture in real economy.

Sailor Hats
The newest sailor hats have a wide range—from straw to oilcloth.

Cool, Midsummer Fashions

IT'S the simple things that look prettiest in hot weather—dresses like these, with slim skirts, puff sleeves and v-neck-

you can easily do it, and you'll save enough for that extra frock you always want in summertime.

Dress With Fitted Waistline.
This dress has a beautifully expensive, exclusive look—and it's so easy to do! Only six steps in the making. The fitted waistline is topped by soft gathers that fill out the bosom. Darts at the side make the waist hug your figure, and the sash bow in back adds a touch of youthful charm. Linen, silk crepe, dotted Swiss or georgette are pretty fabrics for this dress.

All-Day-Long House Dress.
Made on modified shirtwaist lines, this dress is simple enough to put on first thing in the morning, and pretty enough to wear all day long. Ricrac braid on the collar, sleeves and pockets makes it especially colorful and flattering. Make up in percale, pique, gingham or linen this will be one of the most satisfactory day dresses you ever owned!

1481 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 3/4 yards of 35-inch material.
1529 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material; 2 1/4 yards of ricrac braid to trim.

Doilies Done in Jiffy Crochet

Pattern 1669.
You'll find yourself so fascinated by this jiffy crochet pattern that you'll turn these doilies out by the dozen in all three sizes. Use heavy perle cotton or four strands of mercerized string to achieve that heavy richness that you usually find only in rare old lace. Use as luncheon set or just as centerpiece. Pattern 1669 contains directions for making these doilies; illustrations of them and of all stitches used; material requirements; a photograph of a doily.

Send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) for this pattern to The Sewing Circle, Needlecraft Dept., 82 Eighth Ave., New York.

Please write your name, address and pattern number plainly.

Island Paradise
Since Shakespeare, who called them the "Bermoothes," generations of writers have found romantic Bermuda an archipelago of natural wonders. But the most amazing thing about the islands today to the visitor is the fact that these isles of modern communities have no automobiles. Safety and anti-noise campaigns are unknown and unnecessary as automobiles were banned from the roads years ago by the island parliament.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!
