

Revival Started Sunday at First Baptist Church

A revival meeting at the First Baptist church of Slaton was started last Sunday morning with a large attendance, according to reports by members of that congregation. Rev. B. F. Dickson, of Lubbock, who was formerly pastor at Lorenzo, is doing the preaching. Music is in charge of local forces.

At the Sunday evening service, several Lorenzo people were present to hear their former pastor's sermon, it was stated.

Services are being held twice daily, at 10 a. m., and 8 p. m.

Slaton Asked to McClung Program On Thursday Nite

The business men of Slaton have been asked to attend and to help with the program which is to be given on Thursday night at McClung school, seven miles north of here, celebrating the school's recent victory in the county interscholastic league meet. McClung took first place in track and field events when the county meet was held.

Two addresses will be delivered by Slaton men at the McClung program, and the high school boys' quartet is expected to render several numbers. McClung students will render a program and a large attendance is expected, reports from that community indicate.

Any business man who can make the trip to McClung on Thursday night is asked to phone the Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting will be held at the Methodist church, opening at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Many interesting and instructive addresses are scheduled for the day. The public has a cordial invitation to attend.

A luncheon will be served to the visitors at the noon hour at the Slaton club house by the federated clubs of Slaton.

REVIVAL MEETING.

A revival meeting, under auspices of the Church of God, is being held here in the brick building at the corner of Seventh and Garza Streets, it has been announced, by local members of that church. The Rev. M. E. Drake, evangelist, of Brownfield, is doing the preaching. All are invited to attend these services.

CALLED TO PECOS FOLLOWING SON'S OPERATION

Responding to a message advising of a serious appendix operation performed on their son, J. D., Jr., at Pecos last Friday, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Saunders left here immediately for that city. They were accompanied by their son-in-law, D. F. Smith, and by their son's mother-in-law, Mrs. J. J. Ross, who was here visiting with her sister, Mrs. R. L. Tate. Latest reports from young Mr. Saunders' bedside indicate his condition is favorable.

Club Boys Given High-Class Gilts By Kiwanis Club

Two Slaton 4-H Club boys, Ralph Dickson and Jack Stalcup, have each been presented with a pure-bred Hampshire gilt by the Lubbock Kiwanis Club, for the purpose of stimulating greater interest in raising better quality hogs. The boys received their gifts last Thursday, and now have them under their own special care and attention at their homes here.

The gilts came from the Lillard farms, and are registered Hampshires. Eight gilts were given to as many club boys in this county, having been selected by County Agent D. F. Eaton. Ralph Dickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Dickson, is a student in Slaton junior high school, and Jack Stalcup is a high school student here. Both boys are active in 4-H club work in Slaton.

Treatment of Keys' Family for Rabies Was Not Necessary

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Keys and their daughter, Olive, returned Sunday from Austin, where they went for examination at the State Pasteur Institute.

The examination determined that it was not necessary for any of them to receive the rabies treatment, it was said, as they had not been bitten by the mad dog which was killed here last week. The trip was made to Austin as it was thought safer to have investigations made, and to determine whether or not it was necessary to receive the treatment, as the Keys dog had bitten her a few days before it was attacked by the mad dog.

Dr. Bowles, of the Institute, allayed all fear, it was said, by saying there was positively no danger from the Keys dog previous to its fight. Mr. Keys ordered his dog killed after it was bitten Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Beal and son, Charles, the other family to go to Austin, remained there for treatment, the doctor stating that it might be best to treat Charles, as he had chances to become inoculated by the mad dog. He said, however, there was no danger for Mr. and Mrs. Beal, but as it was necessary for them to stay with their son for the twenty-one days, they thought advisable to take the treatment, also.

Dallas Boosters Get Big Welcome On Slaton Visit

Slaton gave the Dallas good-will party a lusty, cordial welcome upon the occasion of their visit here Monday morning. A crowd of considerably over 1,500 people was estimated to be in attendance when the gathering was held at the city hall bandstand.

The booster train reached Slaton at 11 o'clock from Sweetwater, and remained for thirty minutes. Upon arrival, the more than 100 members of the good-will party marched from the station to the public square, led by a band and flanked on either side by enthusiastic welcomers, some walking, some riding in their cars.

The welcome address was given by L. A. Wilson, secretary of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, who told the Dallas visitors that "Slaton is welcoming you in the conventional way, but not with merely the conventional feeling." He referred to this city's rapid growth in population and the fast development of this territory agriculturally.

A. P. Johnston and C. L. Norsworthy, Dallas men, responded by giving short addresses, after which the Dallas band gave a concert.

The Dallas speakers praised Slaton and this territory upon its "phenomenal advancement and unlimited prospects for the future."

After member of the party hurriedly chatted with Slaton friends, they were escorted back to the railway station in automobiles of Slaton people.

The students of Slaton public schools were present to help greet the visitors upon their arrival at the city hall. Novelties distributed by the Dallasites kept the youngsters in a state of excitement throughout the time of their visit.

The Dallas men commented upon the remarkable growth of Slaton since their last booster visit here, and also praised the school system for allowing the students to participate in the welcome which was given them.

The party left Slaton at 11:30 for a visit to towns on the Lamesa branch of the Santa Fe.

Donald, Slaton, first vice president; Mrs. Davis, Lubbock, second vice president; J. D. Alexander, Slaton, secretary and treasurer, and Lon Hoffman, Slaton, chaplain. Officers Chosen By Slaton Rotary Club at Meeting

The Slaton Rotary Club elected officers for the coming year when the weekly meeting was held last Friday noon at the Slaton Club House. They will take office on July 1, 1929, serving one year.

W. H. (Bill) Smith, vice president of the club for the past year, was chosen president. He will succeed John W. Hood. Lloyd A. Wilson was elected vice president to succeed Bill Smith. Allan J. Payne was re-elected secretary. J. Tom Overv was re-elected treasurer. Lloyd A. Wilson was re-elected song leader, Tom J. Abel was re-elected sergeant-at-arms, and R. P. Parks and R. N. (Bob) Smith were chosen as directors. The last two, together with the retiring president and the new president and vice president, will constitute the board of directors. Claude F. Anderson was re-elected chairman of the committee to arrange for the club luncheons from month to month.

Following the election of officers, an address was delivered by A. R. Tillman, of Albuquerque, N. M., safety supervisor for the Santa Fe Railway company. He was a guest of the club, and talked on the subject of safety as applied to the operation of trains and automobiles. Mr. Tillman suggested that in a city the size of Slaton, a safety club, composed of as large a membership of citizens as possible to secure, should be organized, holding regular meetings for the purpose of encouraging safer methods of driving automobiles, and safer conduct in numerous ways which would lead to protection of life and property.

Messrs. Todd and Pittenger, also officially connected with the Santa Fe, were guests of the club at the meeting. Other visitors included Mayor W. G. Reese, of Slaton; Charles A. Guy and J. A. McCrevey, of Lubbock; J. S. Wilson and W. M. Randle, of Slaton; W. R. Graeber, Post; Mr. Florence, of Rule, 81-year-old father of W. P. Florence, of this city; and a Dallas man.

The latter part of the program was devoted to a contest in American history, led by Roy A. Baldwin. All members and visitor took part in this feature, and apparently enjoyed very much the opportunity of recalling facts and figures about the history of this country which had been lying dormant in their minds for a more or less long time.

At the meeting next Friday, Walter E. Olive is scheduled to speak on "Money; What is it? Different Things the World has Used for Money. What Makes Money Valuable? What is Meant by the 'Gold Standard'."

Floyd C. Rector's subject will be "The Different Kinds of Fire Insurance Companies That Operate in Texas, and the Advantages and Disadvantages of Each."

Senior Class Play Is Announced for Friday, This Week

Now comes the anticipated treat of the season, the senior class play. This time it is "Tea Toper Tavern," a three-act comedy-drama, to be presented by the seniors Friday evening, May 3rd, at the high school auditorium.

It has the charming setting of a summer tea room, managed by three college graduates, Dixie, Rosy and Ann, for the benefit of their college endowment fund, aided by Brian Pierpont at the home of Dallas Thorne, who is supposed to be abroad after his ill-fated romance with Gloria Sherwood.

Complications arise with the return of Dallas, 'incognito', the accidental arrival of the fascinating widow, Gloria Sherwood Jerome, and her maid, Celeste; as a result of the not too scrupulous methods employed by the junior managers to secure patrons for the tea room, and Ann's wonderful social service in the village.

Mike Ryan, whose fancy immediately turns to thoughts of love at the sight of Rosy, furnishes the amusement, assisted by the youthful Barry and Harriet.

But the climax is reached when Tess, Ann's protege, from the village, develops smallpox, thereby causing the house and all its occupants to be quarantined. This brings everything to a crisis; everyone is shown his true self, with happy results for some, but dire for others. Under this ban and the colorful masquerade ball, it is interesting to follow the rocky road of love as toured by Dixie and Brian, the glorious affair of Rosy and Brian, and to note how Dan Cupid brings about a happy reconciliation between Rev. Perry, the village pastor, and Ann, the social fiend. Yet John Sedgwick, the patient suitor of Marion Day, the chaperon, discovers many interesting faults in her that would necessarily mar an otherwise happy union, and she finds herself ignorant of many of his failures and characteristics.

However, all's well that ends well, and you will certainly be pleased with the outcome of this fine play. Each character is superbly suited to his role. Therefore, you are assured of a wonderful entertainment.

Following is the personnel:

- Marion Day, a canny chaperon, Olea Russel.
- Rosamond Reid, her niece, just out of college, Willena Lovett.
- Sally Lee Dixon, Dixie, from the Sunny South, Cordie Grantham.
- Ann Annesley, a social service friend, Ardell Wicker.
- Barry Reid, Rosamond's Freshman brother, Otis Sipe.
- Harriet Annesley, Ann's younger sister, Hazel Mansker.
- Tess, Ann's protege from the village, Flora Self.
- Mike Ryan, a susceptible policeman, Ronald Woolver.
- Brian Pierpont, a brilliant young lawyer, Clark Self.
- Rev. Archibald Perry, pastor of the village flock—Frank Stalcup.
- Dallas Thorne, owner of the "Tavern", Claude Gentry.
- John Sedgwick, an old flame of Miss Day, Levey Campbell.
- Gloria Sherwood Jerome, a fascinating widow, Elizabeth Lanham.
- Celeste, Gloria's French maid, Inez Tunnell.

Season's Last Santa Fe Program Here was Good One, All Said

When the Roy Joseph Regnier family appeared at the high school auditorium here Wednesday evening of last week, in the last Santa Fe Reading Room program of the season, many Santa Fe employees and their families enjoyed the evening, the large auditorium of the high school being almost filled.

This, those who attended declared, was an especially good program, Mr. Regnier, his wife and young son furnishing varied entertainment throughout the evening. The order was especially good, Uncle George Marriott, manager of the local reading room, said. He declared the children behaved themselves splendidly, and he asks The Slatonite to thank them for it. He wants everyone to wait patiently for next season's programs.

NEW CREAMERY HAS MAMMOTH OPENING DAY

Customers and Visitors Throng New Plant Here Saturday

Slaton's new creamery—the latest addition to the rapidly enlarging list of industries for this fast-growing agricultural and railway center—held its big opening last Saturday, playing host to a crowd of customers and visitors numbering between 2,000 and 3,000 people, it was estimated.

"Our opening day was even a larger success than we had hoped for," said W. M. Randle last Saturday night, when he came to the end of a "perfect day."

Mr. Randle said the enthusiasm and interest shown by the people who attended the creamery's formal opening indicates that the plant will enjoy a still better patronage than had been expected, and that the creamery meets a very urgent need in this community in the matter of furnishing a home market for dairy products, and in turn manufacturing a marketable product for shipment to other market centers.

Demonstrations in pasteurizing, churning, and in wrapping and packing butter were given Saturday for the benefit of the hundreds of visitors who looked on. Refreshments consisting of fresh creamery butter, hot rolls and coffee were served to all guests throughout the day.

The first churning to be completed at the new creamery was finished on Friday night, while sufficient cream for two or more other churnings was received Saturday from the nearly 200 cream customers who brought their cream and eggs to the plant that day. Besides buying this large quantity of cream, an immense quantity of eggs were bought and were stored in the creamery's gigantic refrigerating plant, awaiting shipment with the first output of butter to be sent from here to foreign outlets.

"Our farmer and dairy friends assured us Saturday that they were more than pleased with the treatment they received at our plant, and that they welcomed the creamery to Slaton, and would give it their loyal support," was the statement of Mr. Randle at the close of the opening day. He declared that this reception at the hands of the producers in this territory was greatly appreciated by his company.

The new creamery will now be regularly in the market for cream and eggs in large quantities as they can be secured, Mr. Randle has announced. He said cream stations are being established in other towns over the South Plains, and that a steadily growing volume of cream will be flowing into the Slaton creamery, going out in the form of butter as rapidly as it can be manufactured.

A capacity of one or more carloads of butter each week will be the limit of the creamery for the present, and it is not expected to reach this capacity for the first few weeks, but after that time at least a carload of butter can be turned out weekly, it is anticipated. With a very small outlay, sufficient machinery can be installed to double the plant's present capacity, the manager has announced. This will likely be necessary a little later, it is believed.

Opening of the new creamery in Slaton will result not only in an improved market for cream here, but will bring about the most rapid development of the dairy industry in this section that has ever been known, in the opinion of bankers, farmers and business leaders of Slaton. The coming year will see enormous progress in dairying throughout the territory surrounding Slaton, it is predicted. In fact, the South Plains section, and especially that portion surrounding Slaton, will soon be the leading dairy and poultry country in the southwest, it is predicted by outstanding agriculturists, industrialists and economists who have given the matter their attention.

HURTING HOOVER'S HAND. TWO DIRE POSSIBILITIES. CAPITAL PUNISHMENT. NEWS FOR FARMERS.

President Hoover's hand is sore after shaking hands with 1757 fellow citizens in one day.

WHY SHAKE HANDS? Especially when your fellow citizen, pushing a plow professionally, shows his appreciation with a grip developed by holding the furrow straight among stones.

In France important men meeting embrace each other. We don't do that. Why shake hands? Why not invent something else? Rubbing noses, Indian-fashion, would not do; too many germs. Why not simply look the row of 1757 proud Americans straight in the eyes, and say "How do you do?"

Will Rogers understands public sentiment, expresses it tersely and affects inaccurate use of English, despite the training at Eton and Oxford.

He says, "There is two things that can disrupt business in this country. One is war and the other is a meeting of the Federal Reserve Bank."

War, fortunately, is suspended for the moment.

Fifty-two thousand Britons demand abolition of capital punishment. In England criminals are hanged. They don't use fancy electric chairs, reserving science for better things than killing men.

An end of capital punishment would be a step toward civilization.

Meanwhile, British capital punishment shows common sense.

When one Briton kills another, they hang him a few weeks later. No years of delay for appeals, delivery of bouquets and sympathetic letters from ladies.

British criminals, knowing this, rarely carry deadly weapons on burglary expeditions, since using them to kill would mean hanging. Here is means hiring an able lawyer.

Rudolph Kawlkowski, head of the Komosa Machine Works, of Goerlitz, Germany, and a serious scientist, has interesting news for farmers.

He says they can run motors with a mixture of pulverized coal, charcoal, farm waste and other substances.

Kawlkowski runs an eighty horsepower Diesel motor with pulverized vegetable materials, costing 75 per cent less than gasoline costs in Germany.

Dried and ground cornstalks could run all the farm machinery.

Everybody knows the terrific explosive power of dust as demonstrated in exploding grain elevators. Controlling that power in motors is new.

Twelve hundred advertising agencies and writers are asked to compete for a prize of $1,000 answering the question, "Why Go to Church?"

What would your answer be?

An answer to the question would be, "The only important thing about a man is his conception of Divine intelligence and wisdom." In other respects, he is like mice, frogs and guinea pigs. So, go to church and prove that you are not a guinea pig or a mouse.

Bulk Will Not Make Cows Produce

It doesn't pay to treat a cow like a lady. The weight reduction expert in the city who tells the ladies to eat bulky vegetables which give her a sense of being well fed without furnishing much nourishment has some brothers in the country who follow the same practice with the dairy cow. There is one contrast, however. The expert makes money by his method. The farmers who try it on dairy cows lose.

For three or four weeks in the spring, lush and plentiful grass, which is 90 per cent water, is a popular and seemingly cheap feed for dairy cattle. Then, as it becomes drier and shorter, milk production goes down sharply and the cattle lose weight. If the grass stays in good condition the same losses came later anyway.

CHICK DANGERS.

Rations and general care may continue now for a few weeks along the lines suggested in last week's Poultry Tips for the third weeks of the chicks.

At about this age comes most of the danger of "sweating" however and it should be carefully guarded against. Even though the chicks are getting huskier every day now, they still need quite even and warm temperature in the brooder house. The hover of the brooder will have been removed by now but if the brooder house gets too cool the chicks will still "pile" to keep warm. Then they quickly get into an unhealthy sweat, and just like human beings, upon cooling off they tend to contract colds, pneumonia, and tuberculosis.

Of course the preventative is careful maintenance of temperatures in the brooder house. However, if a cure is needed, put one tablespoonful of epsom salts to a quart of water in the jar fountains during the forenoons, replacing in the afternoons with plain water. Feed scantily. Symptoms of the troubles are wheezing, droopy wings, loss of appetite.

If any of the contagious diseases appear, be sure to cremate the infected chicks and disinfect all quarters thoroughly. Domestic birds are very liable to contagion of many kinds, and the one safe bet at all times is sanitation and still more sanitation. It will do more than any other one thing to save your broods from disaster.

If leg weakness shows up at this time it likely has a connection with the feeding ration. Some say leg weakness, in addition to resulting from lack of sunshine, results also from over-feeding, and other blame lack of exercise, but it is really a relative matter—over-feeding for the amount of exercise enjoyed by the chicks. Get the chicks to take more exercise, or cut down on the feeding. During this period they should be getting as much feed as they can digest properly, however.

Regularity in feeding should be cultivated by this time. The grain feed may be given at 7 in the morning, 12 noon, and 6 in the evening, twice as much in the evening feed as at either of the other times. Birds are uncanny about looking for the proper feeding time, and if regularity right to the very minute is maintained always, you will profit from the results the birds will give you.

answer.
"Oh, a mean, low down lot."
"Well, stranger, that's just about the kind of people you'll find around here."
Soon another wagon appeared, and again the settler was hailed by the driver.
"What kind of people live round here?"
"What kind of people lived where you come from?" came the native's answer.
"Oh, a pretty fine lot of folks. Always ready to help a man in trouble friendly and kind."
"Well, stranger, came the native's response, "that's just about the kind of people you'll find around here."
So it is with life. We get out of it just about what we bring to it. A community is good or bad according to the individual's attitude. Human nature averages up about the same everywhere—there is meanness everywhere—there is kindness everywhere. You will see in a community just which one of these you are looking for.

CLEAN UP! PAINT UP!
That's the great slogan of a national movement: "Clean Up! Paint Up!"
One week in April is always put aside for this worthy cause. People the country over are urged to clean—to brush away the cobwebs in their homes, in their offices, and in their minds.
Clean up and paint up that health may be the rule and not the exception. Remember that cleanliness is next to Godliness.
National Clean-Up Paint-Up Week is promoted by a national organization that has nothing to sell—its aim is merely to promote greater cleanliness in towns and cities.
It is as high an aim as any organization can have—for cleanliness means health and happiness. And health and happiness are the twin blessings of life.
Clean Up! Paint Up! Not only your surroundings—give some thought, too, to the cleanliness of your mind and body.

"What kind of people lived where you come from?" came the native's

Messenger Boys are More Than Merely Legs, Employer Says

The Cincinnati Post's special front-page column written under the Caption "Cincinnati" on March 4 carried the following favorable comment on Western Union Messenger Employment:

"Cincinnati calls the attention of employers to the way the Western Union respects its messenger boys. They are not merely pairs of legs hired to run errands and to drift as they please.

"They are children for whose destinies their employer feels responsible. He does not say of them: 'I hire their legs and pay them wages and further than that I owe them nothing.' He is concerned with their character and their futures for they are in a time of life when characters are made for good or ill, and when futures are determined by steps in right or wrong directions.

"So the Western Union fosters self-governing clubs among its messengers; it brings to them men to advise them on permanent occupations; when a boy reaches 16, the personnel director helps him to get a position suited to his peculiar fitness. The company care which way he goes and is worried lest he go the wrong way.

"Its care for them is seen in a monthly magazine, 'The Courier,' which the company is publishing for its boys.

"You will not want to go on indefinitely being messenger boys," the magazine says to them. "Try, then, to decide in what line you want to start, so that your next job will be the first step toward your future career."

SPECTACULAR MELO-DRAMA OF AIR MAIL

At Palace Theatre, Slaton, Wednesday and Thursday.

Spectacular to a degree that evokes spontaneous enthusiasm and breath-taking suspense among theatre audiences everywhere, scenes in "The Air Legion," appearing at the Palace Theatre, Slaton, Wednesday and Thursday, which depict the battles of the air mail pilots against devastating storms that threaten them with disaster and death, are said to be among the most thrilling ever filmed.

This powerful drama, written around the hazardous experiences, the romance and human interest in the lives of the flyers who whisk the mails across the continent in fair weather or foul, was filmed under the direction of a former army aviator—Director Bert Glennon, who has more than 1,500 flying hours to his credit and was an instructor at March Field, Riverside, Calif., during the World War.

Featuring Ben Lyon, Antonio Moreno, and Martha Sleeper, the absorbing photoplay has for its theme the awakening of physical courage in the spirit of a young mail pilot who has developed a temporary "yellow" streak in the face of danger. How this is brought about through the influence of a fellow aviator, who is at the same time his rival for the love of a charming girl, forms a gripping narrative in which thrills and romance are deftly blended. John Gough and Colin Chase are included in the cast of outstanding players.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

By Nancy Hart.
Someone has said of pictures—My house has magic windows in its walls, Windows that open on a land of dreams, A quiet meadows and cool streams, Or forest paths and radiant waterfalls forgotten cities, and old halls With high-arched ceilings built of blackened beams, While Rembrandt's mystic inner sunlight gleams On a faded mean, and women in quaint shawls.

And here are quays where boats with colored sails Discharge exotic cargoes from far shores: Ivory and gems, baskets of precious ores, Old jars in earthen jars, and silken bales. Through time and space, in fancy, he may roam Who has these magic windows in his home.

Vegetable Fritters.
To use left-over vegetables such as carrots, peas, cauliflower, beans, or any several vegetables that blend well, put them through a sieve, adding 1 beaten egg and 1 tablespoon flour to each cup of seasoned pulp. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat. A nice substitute for meat.

A Very Nice Supper Dish.
Flake meat from a can of salmon and put layer of fish in buttered baking dish; add pepper, salt and dots of butter, then a layer of chopped hard-boiled egg, another of fish, and pour cream sauce over all. Cover with crumbs and grated cheese and bake until light brown.

Flavorous French Dressing.
Plain French dressing seasoned with anchovy paste is very appetizing served with iced shredded lettuce and eggs stuffed with anchovies. Use 1 tablespoon of paste for each 1/2 cup of dressing.

Bread Pudding Plus.
Use your usual recipe for plain bread pudding, but add to the scalded milk 3 squares of melted bitter chocolate and to the bread mixture 1/2 cup chopped pecans. Serve with whipped cream.

His dessert consisted of nine sausages, a piece of cheese, a slice of pie and a cup of coffee. Mr. Abe Kessel,
Dear Sir:
There were two ladies at my house the other day speaking of the places that they like to trade.
"Oh," I said, "I like to trade at Kessel's because it is a federated store and they have so many things to choose from and always have what you go after and you don't have to wait because the clerks are on duty all the time."
That is what makes the trade grow. I always go to the federated department store for everything from a paper of pins on up to the most important thing in the home, I go there always.
