ARMY CAMP NEAR SLATON MAY BE POSSIBLE

ACREAGE AVAILABLE FOR ARMY CAMP BEING LISTED BY C. OF C.

Jack Norman, manager of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and BCD, announced yesterday that Slaton has a opportunity to secure an Army Camp.

Information has been received that such a camp will be constructed in the near future in West Texas or some where in New Mexico. Army officials have made arrangements to inspect three locations, and one of them will be within a few miles of Slaton.

According to information received, the Government will lease the acreage on which the camp is to be situated, and Mr. Norman is endeavoring to secure enough land in localities that would be suitable for the purpose and at the same time available for lease to the Army.

Of course there is nothing definite to the play yet, but Mr. Norman states there is a definite possibility a camp might be located here, if all the requirements in the way of water supply, available land and other special requirements can be met.

Two towns in New Mexico have already been inspected by the Army. Post and Crosbyton are two towns in this section which are being considered.

Over 40,000 acres east of Slaton are available, but the requirement by the Government is for between 65,000 and 75,000 acres. If Slaton is to be considered, the promise of the acreage must be secured immediately.

The price of $1.00 per acre is offered by the Army and is for a time as long as the Government desires to hold it for the Army camp purposes.

Mr. Norman is eager to secure the needed acreage as soon as possible, and would appreciate it if any one owning land east of Slaton would get in touch with him, if they would consider leasing their property on the above terms.

If anything is to be done to try to secure the camp it should be done immediately and any help that can be given Mr. Norman along this line might mean a great deal to this territory.

Mayor Teague Asks For 2nd Term

J. H. Teague, Sr., has announced his candidacy for re-election for the second term as Mayor of Slaton.

"There is very little I can say," the mayor stated, "my record stands before the citizens of Slaton like an open book. Everything I have in the world is in Slaton; I love Slaton and the Slaton people and am willing to do anything within my power to help our town to grow and prosper. I have worked hard to economize and at the same time to improve Slaton, and I believe the many miles of paving and the improvement in City buildings during my term of office shows I have worked for our town. There are hundreds of things that I feel have been done during the past two years that will be a benefit to Slaton for many years to come. I ask to be re-elected on these things and nothing more."

All candidates must announce their intentions to run for the board at least 10 days before the election date in order for their names to be on the ballot.

Refrigerator Prices Are Now Advancing

1941 Norge refrigerators prices are being advanced, was the word Sherrod and Carter Hardware received this week. Because of the increased cost of manufacturing these machines, the prices are being advanced and all Norge dealers are being notified.

The local firm, however, will continue selling for the original price for a short time, that is until their present stock is exhausted.

Mr. Carter says, "It will be impossible for us to get another shipment at the price that these we now have in stock were bought for, and anyone contemplating purchasing a refrigerator will be wise to see these new models that will be received at a higher price."

"I am particularly interested in having our town cleaned up and made more inviting," said Mr. Meriwether, "and I feel that I am in a position to give the time and energy to this work. My experience in business, I believe, has fitted me to give valuable service in the position that I seek. If the citizens of Slaton feel that I could serve as a good Commissioner for Ward 1, I will do my best to fulfill their hopes if I am elected."

Frozen Lockers Being Installed

The Frozen Locker Plant being installed by E. R. Legg on West Garza street is being constructed with all possible speed.

The work is being done by factory experts and is very complicated arrangement. At present several heavy layers of cork are being laid on a specially treated floor, ceiling and wall. The cork will be over a foot thick when it has been laid. On top of the cork a three inch layer of concrete will be placed before the lockers are finally installed.

When completed the plant will be as modern as any in operation anywhere. Everything is new and right up to the latest developments in refrigeration of this kind and few communities will have a service like this.

Mr. Legg is as busy as the proverbial "paper hanger with the itch", and hopes to have the plant in operation within a few weeks.

"We have had many favorable comments on the need of such a plant in Slaton," said Mr. Legg "And we expect to give the people of this community the best that can be had in this kind of service."

Two Candidates Out For Mayor And Two For Commissioner Ward 1

The Political Pot is beginning to boil with the announcement of J. H. Teague Sr., as candidate for reelection. He has served one term of two years.

A petition has also been filed for Briggs Robertson, and he is announcing his candidacy for Mayor of Slaton. There are reports that several other petitions are being circulated for candidates for mayor, and if they are all filed we may have a wide choice of good men to vote for.

Up until Thursday morning two men had filed petitions for Commissioner for Ward 1. They are Carl Meriwether and W. P. Florence. There had been no petitions filed up until Wednesday night for Commissioner for Ward 3.

The election of City officers is set for April 1, and petitions for candidates must be signed by fifty qualified voters in the City of Slaton.

It looks like there will be a hot time and lots of oratory, both street corner and otherwise, for the next few weeks.

Bulgaria Signs With Axis Powers

CALF, HOG AND LAMB SHOW POSTPONED

Due to a meeting in Big Spring Saturday, March 15 of the Vocational Agricultural Supervisors of Area 1 and the Ag Teachers of Lubbock, the Lubbock County Calf, Hog and Lamb Show has been postponed until Saturday, March 22nd.

Mr. A. C. Strickland, who is the chairman of the committee in charge of the show, said the date had been postponed in order that as many of the supervisors and teachers as possible could attend the show there. Many of them have expressed their desire to come, but because of the meeting in Big Spring they could not come at the date set.

Mr. Strickland believes that the later date would be more convenient for many to attend who could not do so on March 15.

By postponing the show one week, it is believed that it will give the committee and local people more time to prepare a better show and attract a much larger attendance.

The show will be free to the public and a large number of 4-H club members and members of the FFA of this territory have expressed their desire to have animals on show here.

It is the first show of this kind that has been planned for Slaton, and if the public shows as much interest in the show as is expected the event will be held each year.

JUST TALK
by
A.M.J.

There are certain people who inspire me with confidence because they look as if they know just where they are going.

H. S. Crews, Reverend Gordon, R. C. Ayers, J. A. Elliott, Dr. Loveless and many other business men have that air of confidence in themselves that leaves the impression with me that they know what the score is.

If you ask them a question, try to sell them something or ask their opinion on some question they never hesitate but shoot you between the eyes with the answer. This may rock your foundation and you may go away talking to yourself. You probably will not agree with them and the chances of their being wrong is just as great as yours, but the way they hand out their decision, like the crack of a whip, makes me feel like they know the answer.

It is said that one who is slow on making a decision is just as apt to be wrong as the one who gets the agony over in a split second. If you are right 51 per cent of the time you will be a success which gives me two strikes and no balls, and the last time at the bat.

Nearly every one I know has a dog and after a close investigation it occurred to me that the average dog's life is much easier than that of a newspaper man.

Vascar Browning who lives next door to us has two big bird dogs and they really take life easy. He brings them the choice cuts of meat from his restaurant, they have a do ghouse with straw on the floor and life seems to be one sweet dream to them.

Betty Rue Stanford is continually worried about her Cocker Spaniels ears because they sloop around in the gravy and she spends more time combing his hair than she does her own; and that means hours and hours.

Courtney Sanders has spent more time training his bird dog than he has helping his father and the consequence is that the dog has more sense than a lot of folks I know.

Our own little fox terrier gets more attention at home than I do and if she wishes to occupy my favorite arm chair I have to sit on a foot stool.

R. C. Sanner has a Pekinese that sits in the family car like a king on a throne, or maybe I should say queen, and you see more overfed dogs running around than you do people; especially people who work on a newspaper. No sir it would not be so bad to have a nice big dog house to crawl into.

Some old wise guy said "As we wander through life let us live by the way." Perhaps these are not the exact words but it has a lot of good sense in it.

With everything at such a high tension both in world events and in the tempo of modern living most of us get so steamed up over our individual "tempest in a teapot" that we have quit trying to enjoy living for today.

Not only do we fail to enjoy our lives but we look with critical eye on the man or woman who is not taking life or themselves too seriously.

Mrs. Green over at the Credit Association says she is going to enjoy living even if she dies with two cents in her pocket book. Rev. Paul Stevens seems to get a lot of fun out of life and if anything bothers John Crawford over at the Palace Theatre his manner certainly covers it up. Webber Williams said he played dominos most of the time during our last foggy spell and his little son seems to have the same kind of spirit.

Personally I am a fire fighter about everything I do but I am so pecky about doing it that I have a reputation for being a sleepy kind of a guy. I've got the jitters most of the time and a lot of the folks I come in contact with have them worse than I have. This makes it bad for me for when two people with the jitters get together then there is a real jitterbug dance.

My wife was a fairly calm young woman until she made the mistake of getting married, for after years of hard work I am beginning to have some effect on her and if I don't watch out she will be jittering as seriously as I am.

Here are some definitions sent in by Boyce House that might clear your mind up a little.

Steam—Water gone crazy with the heat.

Wind—Air in a hurry.

Garden plot—The bugs and worms planning to eat your stuff up.

Synonym—A word you use when you can't spell the other.

The flu epidemic seems to be slowing up but it has left its effects on many of our good citizens. At least a lot of them are using it as an excuse for taking it easy at their work.

Bill Hutfless is back at work at his shoe shop and says he has lost twenty pounds so he has slowed up on pounding on his shoes. Mrs. H. G. Sanders is letting her husband do most of the hot footing it around the Texas Grocery and I am having a lot of trouble getting my wife to scratch around on the Slatonite books.

The doctors seem to have a little more time and the druggist come out from behind the prescription counters occasionally to see how the soda fountain is getting along.

My next door neighbor Vascar Browning was out in his back yard whipping a fly rod around and catching about as many fish as I do when I really go fishing in the summer time.

The women going to church Sunday were wearing birds nests, miniature sail boats and wheelbarrows as hats, the beauty shop calls Betty Stanford every day over the telephone, and young men over the city are doing the same every hour or two.

These are sure signs of spring and I have finally made up my mind to get to work on my income tax, take some tonic and get my last summer's suit out and have it reinforced in several weak spots.

Our Weekly Sermon—

By Rev. John H. Cable, D. O., Member of the Faculty
Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
The completeness of Psalm 103 is suggested in that it has as many verses in it as there are letters in the Hebrew alphabet—22. Also it ends as it begins, "Bless the Lord, O my soul." Further, it calls upon "all that is within me" to "bless His holy name."

"Bless" literally means to bend the knee. God has stooped in the person of His Son to save us. Should not we bow down and worship Him?

"Praise ye the Lord, for it is good Praise to our God to sing; for it is pleasant, and to praise it is a comely thing."

As we praise or "bless" Him we remember His benefits, which in this psalm are divided into two classes: the saving of the soul, and the satisfying of the soul.

1. He save the soul.
"Who forgiveth all thine iniquities;

Who healeth all thy diseases; Who redeemeth thy life from destruction."

What benefits! Should we forget them? How terrible to be tormented by unforgiven sins! But how precious to read, "Being justified freely by His grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus" (Rom. 3:24)! How painful to suffer from sickness! But how pleasant to be released from disease and to be relieved from pain! He made tissue to heal and blood to contend against disease germs. He gave skill to the physician or the healing touch of His pierced hand. He forgives; He heals; He redeems the life.

2. He satisfies the soul.
"Who crowneth thee (in) loving kindness and tender mercies."

Man was made in God's image and enjoys all a crown suggests. But, alas, man fell and ill deserves a crown. But in His loving mercy God sent His Son to die for us that we might be saved and live victoriously and one day wear a "crown of righteousness," yes, a "crown of glory."

And He satisfies by sustaining us "so that (our) youth is renewed like the eagle's." Ponce de Leon sought in vain for a Fountain of Youth by plunging to pools of southern waters. Many seek youth renewal by plunging in treatments. But He renews our youth! The eagle was thought to become young at each molt. But when we wait upon the Lord, we renew our strength. We run and are not weary; we walk and are not faint.

Why Not Call Your Friends and Invite Them To "COME To CHURCH"

To spread the work of the church into every home should be the goal of every member. To interest those who are not closely affiliated with some good church is the duty of those who know and feel the influence of religious organization and each individual can be a missionary right in their home town to carry to friends and acquaintances the invitation to others to take an interest in the life that only a church can give them.

Why not make it a point this week and every week to make a personal invitation to as many of your friends as possible to be with you on Sundays at church and Sunday school.

Teachers Are To Assume New Roles

Wahoo! Wahoo! When it came to the selection of a play for the faculty, they decided to give the audience something new. So they chose a Western play. Everyone likes a Western play; so the faculty began a search for a good one and found a brand new version of the famous Bret Harte story "M'Less." They were convinced that it was exactly what they were looking for, and on the night of Thursday, March 13, at the High school auditorium in the vicinity of the "Roarin' Dog Hotel." Each member of the cast will be found in a role suited to his talents. Miss Irene Arnes takes her roles as Mrs. Lena Moffets; Mr. Bevington Reed is a slow-moving Westerner gold digger, Yuba Bill; Mr. K. S. McKinnon takes the part of Carter Langdon, city slicker deluxe; George Smith or "Bummer," who looks for gold mines, is played by Mr. J. C. The object of the entire Reading clinic is for the correction and improvement of reading including all grade levels of the elementary school.

Teachers Called On To Defend Selves

The following article, "Teachers, Let's Defend Ourselves" was published in the March issue of the Texas Outlook and was written by Jean Mitchell of Barnhart.

I have just finished reading Carl Victor Little's timely article "Choose Your Weapons, Suh". It is certainly true that these supposed-to-be experts on education are eager to give advice to teachers. A pleasing personality is one of the essential traits for a successful teacher to possess, but isn't this trait overemphasized today? I believe it is.

In Mr. Little's article he stated that Daniel Prescott of Chicago advocated a "traveling clinic" to revamp the forlorn schoolmarm into alert, go-get-em gals. It isn't the teachers who need so much revamping. It's the communities that need "revamping" in their attitudes toward teachers.

Our personalities may seem to be cramped at times for reasons which we can't help. How can we develop richer personalities when we are concerned for everything we do or say by the people in the communities in which we teach? Destructive criticism by way of community does more to cramp the personalities of teachers than almost any other thing.

In Mr. Little's article, he further stated that Mr. Cushman of Washington D. C., said that "teachers should be red-blooded individuals who like to go to dances, the theatre, and to take an interest in politics." Liking to dance and being able to participate in such a form of recreation are two different things. Many teachers like to dance but how many are able to dance in the community in which they teach? Some teachers would lose their positions if they dared to go to a dance. I advocate the streamlining of communities into becoming more broadminded in their attitudes toward teachers. Maybe these experts could perform this task, and leave the teachers alone for awhile. Teachers, let's defend ourselves. Our profession is a noble one. Why should we take all these insults from the so called experts on education?

Two good mixers are better than one

THERE you sit, watching the long road ahead as it dips and rises.

Under your feet there's a quiet whispering, to let you know that all eight able Buick cylinders are happily on the job.

You're giving not a single thought to what's happening under that long bonnet nosing out in front, but here's what's going on:

Instead of the single, compromise-size carburetor you find on most cars, this Buick FIREBALL eight with Compound Carburetion* has two good mixers on the job.

A single one of them—the front one—keeps you rolling smoothly, easily, quietly, on the very minimum rationing of gasoline.

But the other carburetor is alert and ready for any sudden need. Just tramp down on that accelerator pedal—it goes into instant action, giving you more fuel and more power for any emergency purpose!

It's almost like having two engines—one to handle normal requirements thriftily, another to team up with the first for extra oomph and wallop when you want it.

That kind of teamwork pays.

And owners by the thousand will tell you it's more economical too—as much as 10% to 15% more economical.

If you haven't experienced what it feels like to have that under the bonnet of your automobile, better go have that Buick demonstration now.

"If you are tired worrying about wash day why not just let us come regularly each week and get it, then you can forget your dry cleaning and clothes worries of all kinds and let us do your dirty work", says Mr. Abernathy.

New York. — After a six months' investigation of airplane manufacturers throughout most of the United States, Edward Post, found no likelihood of mass production by airplane manufacturers.

So he went to Detroit to see if there was any possibility of mass production of airplane engines by the automobile companies.

"To achieve mass production," Flynn writes, "Ford has quietly undertaken a job which may well prove to be the most important single contribution to defense production—development of a liquid-cooled aircraft motor so designed that it could be made in mass production in his gigantic River Rouge plant.

"It won't mean anything for 1941 of course, but conceivably it might mean world air supremacy in 1942.

"If the hopes of the Ford engineers are realized, it will be possible within a year to turn out great quantities of airplane motors, not by the slow, man-hour consuming progress, which must be followed in constructing the aircraft motors now being built in this country, but in something very much like the assembly-line style that Ford created."

Early Grazing Better If Dry Roughages Fed

(Editor's Note: This is the 15th article of a series, "Blending Livestock with Cotton," published as a service to farmers and stockmen.)

In the blending of livestock with cotton, Southern cotton fields provide dry roughage—cottonseed hulls—especially valuable in helping dairymen to make more effective use of pastures at this time of the year.

"Young, tender green grass analyses from 85% to 90% water," E. R. Eudaly, Texas Extension Dairyman, recently said. He pointed out that cows grazing on this kind of grass usually lose flesh and eventually fall off in milk production unless fed dry roughage.

An average Jersey cow, he added, needs about 20 pounds of dry matter daily, in the form of roughage, in addition to concentrates. This cow can consume about 75 pounds of green grass daily, but if the grass contains 90% water, she will get only 1 1/2 pounds of dry matter from the grass. Therefore, she will need about 12.5 pounds of dry matter from some other roughage.

As grass matures, it contains less water. However, it is not necessary to know the moisture content of grass because cows usually will eat the amount of dry roughage they need if the roughage is kept before them at all times. This year, abundant winter rains in many areas may cause grass to be unusually "watery" or "sappy," so that adequate amounts of dry roughage are especially important.

Cottonseed hulls, comparable in feeding value to many of our grass and prairie hays, furnish many dairymen with valuable dry roughage during spring months.

Tech Tests Fruits For This Section

The late-blooming American persimmon and several varieties of grape are among the four or five fruits best adapted to West Texas, Dr. W. W. Yocum, plant industry professor at Texas Tech college, suggests. A hybrid cherry and four plum varieties are also on his recommended list.

"Seeding peaches are preferred," he says, "because they are harder and more likely to bear. Most budded varieties are about equal." He points out that peaches have borne six years of the last 17 in West Texas.

Apples of the summer ripening and crab classes are better than other apples, he believes, but have only borne fruit two to five times in 12 to 17 years. Pears are not recommended as a West Texas fruit crop.

Varieties of grapes which have produced large yearly yields in this area are Fern Munson, Beacon, Carmen, Extra Baily, Wapanuka white, Delaware and Catawba. Leading plum varieties are Sapa, Opat, St. Anthony and Compass, he says.

Heaviest producing tree fruit is the cherry. Of the different varieties, the Duke, a hybrid of sweet and sour cherries, is best for this climate.

Both spring and fall transplanting are permissible, Dr. Yocum says, but advises fall transplanting when possible. Spring transplanting should be done by early March.

NTSTC Faculty Panel Discusses Marriage

"Love at first sight" is practically non-existent. People can be taught to choose their mates intelligently and not emotionally. Girls think it is more feminine to be pursued than to chase the mere male, but they can run so far that the trousers-wearing half of the species won't run after them.

So agreed the members of a faculty panel of six experts who led a discussion on "love, courtship, and marriage" at a recent meeting of the North Texas State Teachers College Psychology Club.

The panel also concluded that young people make a mistake when they think that there can be only one love affair in their lives. Then, to give the listing students the best possible chance for marital bliss, the "experts" offered the following recommendations:

Petting is an abnormal excitement that responds a loss of discrimination.

The best marital age for men is from 25 to 33 and for women, 22 to 26.

Living with parents is a risky business if one expects much future happiness, and it is better to have a home of one's own. If necessary, parents should subsidize their children's marriages for a period.

Of the six "experts" on love and marriage, four have tried marriage successfully, two are parents. How did the two unmarried members of the panel become authorities in the field? One was an instructor in home economics. The other is director of the North Texas State Teachers College Nursery School.

New DeMille Epic Of 'Mounted' Has Ten Stars, Thrills

What is being hailed as the brightest galaxy of stars ever brought together for one motion picture will be seen in Cecil B. DeMille's new and thrilling epic, "North West Mounted Police," produced in Technicolor and slated to have its local premiere on Saturday's prevue and to run Sunday and Monday at the Palace Theatre, with Gary Cooper and Madeline Carroll in the starred roles and other such starring players as Paulette Goddard, Preston Foster, Robert Preston, Akim Tamiroff, Lynne Overman, Geo. Bancroft, Lon Chaney Jr. and Walter Hampden rounding out the cast. The impressive list of ten starring players, all of whom have been seen in many memorable productions, head a list of thousands of players appearing in the picture, making "North West Mounted Police" the biggest picture DeMille has ever made from point of cast. Additionally, it is the first picture he has ever made entirely in technicolor, and the choice comes as a fortuitous one since the uniforms and backgrounds are so impressive.

The story of the picture, too has been conceived on the same large scale. In fact, it takes on importance because it has its basis in a real rebellion against Canada, conducted by the Metis, a half-breed people, in 1885. And thus the narrative gets under way when Duroc (Tamiroff) states his demands to Brett (Forster) and Ronnie Logan (Preston) of the Mounted, on behalf of Corbeau (Bancroft) another of the leaders of the Metis, and thousands of the half-breeds, assembled in defiance at Batoche.

Back at Fort Carlton, Dusty River (Cooper), a Texas Ranger, shows up on the scene, and informs Inspector Cabot (Montague Love), that he is after a murderer who has escaped to Canada. The man he is after is marked shortly thereafter as Corbeau who, it turns out, has just murdered a Mountie who happened to uncover a Gatling gun which Corbeau was bringing in to persuade the Cree Indians to line up on the side of the half-breeds.
