Two Way Supply Assures Slaton Electric Power

LIECUTIC FOWER The Pearson, industrial power the So. Avestern Public Service Company reported this week that the hook-up with the new Denver City power plant has been com-pleted and that Siaton and all of the towns on the new hook-up will not likely have power cut-off of any length of time regardless of weather conditions or accidents. Not only dose the new plan give all of these towns a secondary source of electrical power but it also takes Post, Siaton and Tahoka off dead end lines and we are now not only gitting stronger power than before but also a more de-pendable supply.

than before but also a more de-pendable supply. Mr. Pearson reports that he has signed contracts with a number of new industrial users of power and that he expects this area to expand greatly in the use of power within the next few years. The new pow-er plant will take care of a great amount of new development said Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Pearson. The new plant is using flare gas that would be wasted if the plant were not in operation.

And despite Russia's possession of radar, our bomber planes and crews are so efficient that our losses in men should be light. Air Force generals believe that 95 per cent of our bomber personnel over Russia would return safely from atomic raids.

The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine figures that they make away with one out of every 20 bushels of farm-stored grain, as a national average, and in some states they double that toll. The place to start in getting such insects under control is at the empty grain bin, the entomologists advise. They point out that a thor-ough job of housecleaning bins and spraying them with DDT, before newly-harvested grain is put in them, will get rid of hold-over in-festation and give new grain a good chance to escape damage.

Several nights ago my wife and I went to a small gathering where Christmas glits were exchanged. You know, not over the one dollar kind, and what can one get for a dollar these days? After quite a spell of chatter the glits were numbered and each person drew by lot spein of chatter the gins were by lot. When my wife got her package and opened it you would have thought that she had received the crown jewels of Slam and all of the other women came through with about the same explosion of great cheer; when I opened mine and my wife saw that I was not going to go into any great show of delight she tried to do the job for me by grabbing it out of my hands and displaying it with the fervor that I did not muster. After we returned home she informed me that I had very poor manners but that I was no worse than the rest of the men as all of them ac-cepted their gifts and either made a very correct guess as to what it would be or tore the package open with no comment at all, looked wearily at the contents and started talking about hunting, fishing or some other uninteresting subject. Men are pretty sorry Christmas companions. The above reminds me of a story I read several years ago about a little girl who received a pin cushion from a rich aunt who might some day leave her a con-siderable amount of money. The little girl's mother insisted upon the little girl's mother is what so to the aunt and here is what she wrote: "I wish to thank you so much for the beautiful pin cushion, aunt Mary, it is just what I wanted, but not very much."

so much for the beautiful print cushion, aunt Mary, it is just what I wanted, but not very much." It is said that when a postman gets a holiday he takes a walk and when a railroad man takes up a hobby he builds a railroad, or that is what Ted Melugin has done and he has a lot of fun with the contraption. For nearly a year Ted and his boys have been digging a basement and running the minis ture railroad from under the house where the dirt is unloaded. The job has lasted so long because Ted and his boy have had so much fur yoperating the railroad. Soon they will have a basement as big as the city hall if it is ever built to fit the excavation. It just got to be a hobby said Ted, who has built switches, turn table and every-thing a modern railroad should have except a locomotive; that work is done by a turntable but it would not surprise the neighbors to find at any time that Ted had brought home an engine. something of the sort some day. In the mean time a lot of business men-will pay out considerable money to racketeers and to folks who half way live up to the things they promise. There are a lot of things going on these days that should be investigated, not only in the bias of the smaller communities. It would be investigated, not only in the Silaton Chamber of Commerce to have a better business control over Silaton chamber of Commerce to have a better business control over Silaton during the time I have liver to charabe solicitations and it most ance that a permit be required for any one to sell merchandise in the business of charitable and pulse. Farm Outlook Fairly Good Farmers can expect current good times to continue for the im-mediate future, say government of-ficials, who make this prediction with their flingers crossed. On the optimistic side, demand for farm products is expected to stay strong, due to income tax reduction and continued heavy exports under ERP. For the first five months of 1946, cash receipts to farmers are likely to total slightly more than for the same period last year. On the gloomy side, farm exports may drop 15 to 20 per cent below the 1947 record of $3,900,000,000 if for-eign crops turn out well. Cash re-ceipts may go down later in the year.
