Slaton To Observe Memorial Day

Memorial Day, Sunday, May 30th, will be more significant than ever before in the history of our nation, standing as it does for devotion, even unto death, to the principles of Liberty and to a Democratic government.

As we pay tribute to men who, back through the years, fought and died that our nation might continue to be the nation that will lead the world to a better civilization, and enable us to continue to give every American the right to live under a free government that recognizes the right of the individual, let us keep in mind that those whose graves we cover with flowers are the men who were responsible for keeping our nation for us, just as we are responsible for maintaining it for those who are to enjoy its privileges in the years to come.

These are the things that our men are fighting for today on the far-flung battlefields all over the world and to those men of the past and to those of the present, let us set aside next Sunday as the day to pay homage, to truly make Memorial Day the day for which it stands.

Baptists To Have Special Program

Sunday, May 30, has been set aside by the Baptist Training Union as High Attendance Sunday.

A goal of 200 in attendance has been set for Sunday night. A special program for young married couples will be given, headed by a talk by Rev. W. F. Ferguson on, "The Value of Training Union in Connection With Young Homes".

The theme will be further carried out by readings and musical numbers on "Home".

At this time, members of the Primary and Eginners Union, who completed the study course recently given them, will be awarded diplomas.

There is a place for everyone, an efficient nursery and a Union for every age.

The public is invited to attend this program and all others given each Sunday night at 7:15 at the First Baptist Church.

War Bond Sales Decrease Here

A check-up on War Bond sales at the Bank, Postoffice and Southwestern Public Service Company this week showed that War Bond sales have shown a decided decrease within the past two weeks, particularly among the farmers.

"According to sales made in other towns considerably larger than Slaton, we have made an enviable record to date and with crop prospects as bright as they are, there is no reason why we cannot do even better this year," said one member of the Slaton Bond Committee. "We most certainly do not wish to allow our town to forget that our own boys are on the battle fronts and need weapons to fight with."

Local Guard Unit Getting Training

The Slaton Unit of the Texas State Guard held field exercises Sunday with emphasis on camouflage of personnel and equipment. Actual combat conditions were simulated and the men were instructed in the manner of taking full advantage of existing cover and concealment. Local officers report that the exercise was most successful and that much beneficial training was received by the men. During the coming summer months much time will be spent in the field under simulated combat conditions.

The local company will mobilize Saturday, May 29, at 4 p. m., and will move to McKenzie State Park at Lubbock to take part in a Battalion wide maneuver.

Much additional equipment has been received by the local company, and officers point out that the State Guards are now considered a vital link in the nation's internal security and they urge that more local citizens investigate the training to be received in the Guard. Interested persons should contact Lt. M. G. Martin, personnel officer of the local Company.

Canada's Railroads at War

THE railways of Canada, geared to total war, are the Dominion's biggest war industry, employing nearly 200,000 men and women who are engaged 24 hours every day of the year in "keeping 'em rolling" from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the United States border on the south to Churchill on Hudson Bay and Dawson Creek, the gateway to the strategic new Alcan highway to Alaska.

Canada is a country of vast distances and over its widespread network of rail lines, moves in an unceasing flow, traffic comprising Canada's huge contribution to the United Nations' war effort. In Canada are North America's only trans-continental railroad lines—extending directly from the Atlantic to the Pacific—two of these lines being operated by Canadian National Railways and the third by Canadian Pacific Railway.

The railways of Canada are also all-inclusive transportation systems in the fullest meaning of the word; each of the principal systems owning and operating its own sleeping, dining and parlor cars; a chain of hotels coast-to-coast; commercial telegraph and express companies; ships which carry the supplies of war to the far-flung battlefronts; and commercial air lines, one of which, Trans-Canada, spans the Dominion from coast to coast and extends to Newfoundland with a leg to New York. Feeder air lines of Canadian Pacific Airways operate to the sparsely-settled forest and mining country in the far north from main trans-continental points.

The wartime preparation of the railways of Canada would make an impressive document on energetic and precise management could all the facts be made public at this time, but Canada has been at war going on to four years and the railroad men and women of the Dominion are veterans in wartime transportation activities.

In Canada, the average freight train load has practically doubled in size since 1914, and its speed has increased by 60 per cent, with a reduction of coal consumption of more than 31 per cent per ton hauled. One of the big factors in speedy and economical railroad operation in the Dominion is the virtual elimination of "bottle-necks" where congestion would cause costly and interminable delays, through establishment at various strategic points of huge storage yards where are stored vast quantities of war supplies. When shipping instructions are received, the supplies are loaded and fast freight trains roll them to the seaboard. War materials can only be transported overseas as convoys sail, until that time they must be stored where they will not interfere with the swift and orderly flow of everyday freight and passenger traffic.

SOUTH PLAINS BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL GUIDE

Many Gift Items Still Available

Like every other business the City Drug Store is having its troubles getting many items that they formerly carried in abundance, but they still have many items that are available and in a wide choice of sizes and prices. They give S & H Green trading stamps with each purchase and the premiums that are available may be seen on display in their windows.

"We have foreseen the shortage on many articles and prepared for it" says Mrs. McWilliams, "and quite often we have goods for sale that cannot be found in many other stores. We specialize on all kinds of poultry and stock remedies and keep a fresh stock of serums for preventing disease among cattle and poultry."

The City Drug Store Soda Fountain is one of the most popular in Slaton and even though many of the most popular drinks are scarce the City Drug always has something delicious to take the places of the ones that are hard to get.

This popular Drug Store is particularly well-stocked on items that make ideal gifts for both men and women and is featuring many of the things that make ideal wedding gifts. If you want a suggestion as to what to give for birthdays, weddings or for any other purpose, go into the City Drug Store and ask Mrs. McWilliams to show you through their big stock.

Tractors Work For Victory

The government is convinced of the fact that food will be as important in winning the war as are arms and ammunition and the farmers are getting many things for their tractors and farm machines that were unavailable some few months ago.

O. D. Kenney of O. D. Kenney Auto Parts says that they have many items that are exceedingly difficult to secure as well as many parts that are accessible to everyone. The O. D. Kenney Auto Parts Co. has been serving the tractor owners and farmers for years and they are familiar with all the problems of keeping tractors running and in keeping them in proper running order. They are in position to answer the many questions pertaining to tractor repairing and in advising the farmers what to do in emergencies. They are always glad to give the farmers the benefit of their long years of experience.

Artistic Stone Work Available

One of the oldest and best known firms in West Texas is the South Plains Monument Company in Lubbock that has been doing business in this section long before cotton was considered a worthwhile crop on the South Plains and when long-horn cattle ranged where most of the towns now stand.

It has always been the policy of this concern to buy materials in large amounts and sell direct to those who wish to buy monuments rather than through salesmen and commission houses. They have always been able to offer most attractive prices and their work is the best as their workmen have all been with them for years and have been trained in their shops to meet the rigid requirements set up by this company.

This company is in position to undertake the most delicate work on stone or to make bids on stone work of any kind that is in their line. They are always open to visitors and are glad to have people from Slaton call on them, they are conveniently located on the road into Lubbock from Slaton.

New Methods For Health In Use

There are many people who do not know what real pleasure of good health means, because they are low in vitality and have let their nerves get the best of them. Most of these people do not have any serious physical ailments but do need toning up to keep them from being easy victims of colds and other diseases that affect people who are run down from lack of vitality.

The Abell Sanatorium gives expert treatment and advice for health that is inexpensive and yet is often worth more than any amount of money and puts sparkle and vigor back into the lives of many people who have become melancholy and despondent because of some easily corrected ailment. Dr. Abell is always glad to consult with anyone who feels his services can help them. The Abell Sanatorium is one of the best equipped institutions of its kind in the state and is conducted on scientific lines that have many advantages not available elsewhere. Callers are always welcome.

Waves O. K. In Their Places Says Expert

Every additional day the war lasts makes your car just a little more valuable says Hoyt Mendor and he warns those who have automobiles that extreme care should be taken of every part of a car. "Those who have bent fenders and scarred bodies should have their cars attended to and repaired," says Hoyt, "for like every other line of business the fender and body repair man is having his troubles getting materials to do repairs."

Hoyt's Body Shop is still able to do most every kind of repairs, but many of the materials used are used in war machines and will be unobtainable before long. Hoyt is one of the best automobile body men on the South Plains and is equipped to do his work to precision. He can match practically any color and can take battered fenders that look like they had been given a beauty parlor permanent wave and make them look better than the original fender looked when it came from the factory.

If you make a mistake and take a fire plug or a tree for a pedestrian and get your automobile fender or body all bunged up, Hoyt says for you to see him.

Music Growing In Popularity

The stain of war time has made music more enjoyable than ever before and the interest in all things musical is growing rapidly, according to those who operate the South Plains Music Company.

This Company that does business all over this part of Texas reports that while new pianos are off the market until the war is over, there are still many excellent reconditioned and refinished pianos available and that they have them in stock. This company puts all of their instruments in perfect condition before they are placed on the market and has an additional offer to make their customers that will insure satisfaction, and that is, their proposition to take back any pianos sold now after the war at the price for which they are sold now, if they are traded back on new pianos that will come out when the war is over.

The South Plains Music Company carries a large stock of sheet music and has some excellent used band instruments for sale. New records for phonographs are also on sale at this popular Lubbock Music Company as soon as they come on the market.

Roofs Should Be Repaired Now

Any small leaks in roofing should not be neglected, especially at this time of the year when hard winds and heavy rains will cause more damage than at any other time. The recent rains and winds have caused many roofs to spring leaks and The Texas Roofing Company of Lubbock calls the attention of the people of this territory to the fact that, due to war time economy and the difficulty of securing many of the necessary materials to repair roofs, that repairs should be made as soon as possible, as a small leak soon becomes a big one if not attended to as soon as possible.

The Texas Roofing Co. is prepared to take care of any kind of roof and has roofing men who know how to do the work in the shortest length of time and at the least expense. This company has been serving the South Plains for years and will be glad to have one of their men call on you. A post-card or letter to them in Lubbock will bring one of their representatives to see you.

THIS WEEK'S LESSON.

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, May 30.

The Golden Text is "The Lord God will help me; therefore shall I not be confounded; therefore I have set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be ashamed" (Isaiah 50:7).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thou shalt not hide thy face; thou shalt preserve me from trouble; thou shalt compass me about with songs of deliverance" (Psalms 32:7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The power of God brings forth grace to the captive. No power can withstand divine Love" (page 24).

Venetian Blinds Not Rationed

Although there are many things that have been rationed, there is one thing that all homes can have that will add beauty and make them more modern, and that is by equipping them with Venetian Blinds.

This can be done at less expense than it could be several years ago by the Lubbock Venetian Blind Co., who manufacture their own blinds and can make them to fit any window or opening of any kind.

This company is particularly proud of the awnings that they are now featuring an example of which is now on the front of the Loveless Clinic in Slaton. They are light, yet sturdy, and so constructed that they are not easily damaged by weather. They are not expensive and are easily installed. A letter to the Lubbock Venetian Blind Manufacturing Co. will bring one of their representatives to see you.

Lieut. Robert Spikes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Houston Spikes of Slaton, formerly of Tahoka, has been in combat flying ever since he landed in North Africa, according to his parents.

Robert landed in North Africa on February 23, and immediately was sent into action. Since that time, he has been making many sorties over enemy targets as the pilot of a B-25 Billy Mitchell bomber. The latest letters from him, however, are now nearly a month old, April 7 and 9, but do doubt he has had a part in the recent rout of the Axis from that continent and in bombing Sicily and Italy.

The most beautiful as well as the most mature of Walt Disney's feature productions, "Bambi" uses the background of the Maine woods, at all the varying seasons of the year, to tell its appealing story of birth, life, love, parenthood, tragedy and triumph. Famous author Felix Salten wrote this story, using animals of the forests as characters, and turned out a best-selling Book-of-the-Month novel. The Maine "deep woods" backgrounds were secured during a year's sketching and photographing trip by the Disney artist, Maurice Day.

Our Merchant Marine

To America goes the credit of the first successful steamship voyage—that of Robert Fulton's little Clermont, between New York and Albany, on August 7, 1807

The Clermont was followed in 1816 by the larger and faster Livingston. Thereafter our coastal and river steam shipping grew rapidly.

American daring and genius startled the world when our Savannah was the first steamship to make the transatlantic crossing. This feat is celebrated annually on National Maritime Day, May 22d, by Presidential Proclamation.

Early steamships, even up to 1860, were also equipped with sails, averaged only about 10 miles per hour, and were considered unreliable by the captains of our mighty clippers and packets.

In sail we were supreme—our wonderful clippers could sail circles around the early steamships—a fact which unfortunately blinded some Americans to the coming dominance of steam.

To-day, steam engines, diesel motors and turbine electric drives are all used as fast means of propulsion for the steady stream of cargo ships sailing the world's oceans.

Between Us Girls

BY DONNA SANNER

Golly, I'm really in a daze or something. It's so different, having most of the kids I went to school with home at the same time. Charlie Suit, Don Cherry, Emory Clifton, Wilma Hannah, Phyllis McKeenolds and several others are home this week. Surely brings back pleasant memories and I'm not kiddin', either! Emory Clifton certainly has grown; he must weigh almost 200 pounds. Honest! He has a super physique and really looks keen in his uniform. Girls, here is your chance, so you'd better start studying your military tactics. Better watch out, Emory!

and "Star Reporter", Tess Bruner, over at the Post Office, can't make up his mind which of the two I should be called. He is forever teasing me about something. It's a good thing he and I don't get mad easily, 'cause if we did, we'd stay mad all the time. You ought to hear those catty remarks we sling at each other.

You'll please forgive me for not writing more, won't you? I'm writing this on the train between Slaton and Amarillo. I'll bet you Slatonites wish you were going to Iowa with me. The good thing about that state is that their trees are not rationed and they sure have gobs of them to spare, too. I guess you fishermen would like to fish in the Mississippi river where fish are really fish! Iowans catch catfish by the boatload and then have a big fish fry. Can't you just smell that golden brown fish fryin'? hm-mmm!

Well, what else?? I've now gained the titles, "Chief Loafer"

To Hasten Victory

No American wants this war to go one minute beyond the time we can bring it to a victorious end. To hasten that victory—to save possibly the lives of millions of our boys on our far flung fronts—it is imperative that every American do his part in the Second War Loan. There is an investment to fit every purse. The most you can do is little enough compared with the sacrifice offered by our boys in service. They give their lives—you lend your money.

VITAL ORGANS CONTROLLED

ough Nerves Not until it is understood that every vital organ in the body is connected with and controlled by nerves from the spinal cord and brain, can one fully understand why Chiropractic methods can relieve so many human ailments. It is difficult for many people to understand why the Chiropractor seeks to correct functional and pathological disease in vital organs by adjusting the spine and adjusting the spine to remove interference between the central nervous system (brain and cord) and the organs, knowing that if vital energy is not properly delivered to these organs they cannot function properly.

No one should feel that he or she is merely destined to be sick all their lives. Everyone is entitled to health. Everyone can have health if nervous energy is normally delivered to their vital organs.

The newly-created Office of Civilian Requirements, WPB, has worked out an emergency farmers supply program which will quickly make available to farmers some 50 items essential in the production of food. The procedure will enable a farmer to buy reasonable amounts of needed items directly from his dealer without complicated forms. Materials to be made available under the program include adjustable wrenches, agricultural forks, auger bits, barbed wire, clevises, dehorning saws, fence pliers, garden hoes, batteries, motors, grain scoops, grease guns, harness hardware, horse collars, nails, neck yokes, poultry retting, cold chisels, hog rings, knives, and many other products.

Letter carriers backs will be aching under heavy loads this week as distribution of some 40,000 application cards for War Ration Book 3 gets under way. This book will provide stamps to replace those running out in existing books. Consumers will fill out and return application cards, pre-addressed to OPA mail centers, between June 1 and June 10. Residents of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana will receive their books from Dallas, where volunteer workers will fill out the names on more than 10,725,000 ration books.

Retailers can not force their customers to buy an equal amount of sherbet or other frozen confection to obtain any given quantity of bulk or packaged ice cream. OPA and WFA have emphasized. This requirement is a violation of the prohibition against tie-in sales under the General Maximum Price Regulation.

Used inner tubes for passenger car or truck tires can now be purchased without a ration certificate. It is estimated that there are now about 765,000 used passenger car tubes and 225,000 used truck tubes now idle in dealers stocks. All rationing regulations have been removed on used tubes to help conserve the supply of new ones.

The War Department has authorized extension of the furlough period between the day of induction and the date men must report for duty from seven days to fourteen days. This change will be made in all commands not later than July 1. After July 1, but before September 1, the period will be increased from fourteen days to twenty-one days.

More than 25 small plants in the Southwest have received financial help through the Smaller War Plants Corporation during April.

April, Guy L. Wooley, regional loan agent, announced. Loans were made to shipbuilding companies, machine shops, mattress manufacturers, lumber companies and dehydrating plants. In the states of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, loans made to date range from $7,500 to more than $750,000.

Rationing of six types of stoves (including laundry stoves but excluding water heaters) will begin late in June. They include coal or wood, oil and gas cooking stoves. After the plan becomes effective, you must have a purchase certificate from your ration board to buy a stove. Certificates will be issued on the basis of need.

Farmers and consumers are permitted to have meats and fats smoked, cured, rendered, frozen, packaged or otherwise processed, by a recent OPA amendment to rationing regulations. No points need to be transferred, but the processor must keep adequate records.

Vacations are fine, but there is to be no extra gasoline for vacation travel this year, says Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown. Both rubber and gasoline supplies are too critical to allow motorists any "luxury" gasoline rations. Mr. Brown pointed out that gasoline coupons in an "A" book could be saved, and that gasoline could be carried over in the tank of an auto from one period to the next. In this way, a motorist may save fuel for 180 miles for a vacation trip by car.

More than a million Boy Scouts of America and Cub Scouts will tramp the woods and valleys of this country this summer on a new kind of scouting expedition. They will be exploring for heavy scrap iron that can later be brought in to collection points. Overnight camps will permit the boys to cover a wider territory and to carry some light scrap back to collection trucks.

Mrs. Victory Is Doing Her Part

COLLEGE STATION, May 26 —A Chester White sow belonging to D. L. Brummett and his mother Mrs. B. P. Brummett, of the Community Center community in Childress County has farrowed 50 pigs in 11 months and six days, and Mrs. Brummett believes she is entitled to an E pennant from the War Production Board. The sow, appropriately, is named Victory.

Victory's first litter of 11 males and six females was farrowed on June 6, 1942; the second of 10 males and four females on November 14, 1942; and the third litter of 11 females and 8 males on May 12. Bottle feeding some of the pigs, Mr. Brummett raised 23 of the hogs from the first two litters and 18 of the last litter of 19 are living. The third litter weighed 45 pounds at birth.

The two-year-old sow was purchased for $4 when she was two months old, and she has proved to be a good investment. Mr. Brummett received $175 for the pigs at weaning time, and he saved back one female which farrowed 10 pigs May 14, as well as a meat hog which weighed 275 pounds at 7 months of age. He considers the $175 clear profit since the meat hog and the bred gilt are worth

JUST TALK

A.M.J.

There was a story in a popular magazine not long ago, written by a supposed to be airplane expert. He predicted that the old hitching post would come back into use, only it will not be used for hitching horses, but for the use of small family size airplanes. According to his ideas, the new airplanes would be a little lighter than air and will be able to float about house top height from the ground. When the owner wants to take off, he pulls the plane to the ground, jumps, crawls or falls in, as the case may be, and off he goes. Big freight carrying planes that dump tons and tons of stuff all over the nation and little one-person planes, not much larger than a bicycle, for messenger boys to fly from one building to another, were also pictured, and the air will look like the air over a swamp with mosquitoes swarming everywhere.

If anyone has an old style iron negro hitching post with the figure holding his hand out, I'd like to make a bid on it.

You never can tell whose soul is bubbling over with romance and poetry from the way their ears are stuck on or by their complexion and many a steely eyed business man is chock full of beautiful sentiment, like Gus Robertson, who told me this week that he is the author of many very sad, medium sad and a few cheerful cowboy poems.

Having been a radio addict for the past twenty odd years, I have become fairly familiar, against my will, with cowboy songs, but I have yet to hear a top grade, prime poem on a rampaging T-bone steak, but I'm waiting with bated breath; at least I have a suspicion that my breath is bated, although it may be halitosis, for one of Mr. Robertson's poems to prove to the folks in this section that there is a beautiful side to men who own ranches.

Here is another proof that you never can tell who has a poetic soul. The following was written down from memory by Donna Sanner, who heard it over the Kay Kayser program. Anyone who can remember poetry recited over a radio program must have rhythm in their soul:

Sunday is sugarless,
Monday is wheatless,
Tuesday is meatless,
Wednesday is heatless,
The bed is sheetless,
My pants are seatless,
For goodness sake, buy bonds!

Bill Lokey, who is back home from A & M, says he is trying to get in the navy and that if he cannot get into the navy, he is going to try to get in the marines. After two years at an army school, Bill says he has learned enough to know that he does not care for army life, which proves how knowledge can be used in reverse.

A visit to Amarillo last week end, proved to me that Slaton has a lot of advantages over a town as large as Amarillo. The war nerves were stretched to a high tension there and one of our friends, who is the manager of the big smelter plant there, had the jitters so bad that his digestion has gone haywire and his nerves are mighty shaky. He said that between the Government's regulations and the eternal troubles he has in getting labor and keeping them satisfied, he feels mighty low.

Every place we went people thought and talked war and rationing. They were raising chickens in their kitchens, on back porches and in the bathtubs. Every time we stepped off the sidewalks, we were rudely jerked off a small garden patch and most everybody went around counting rationing stamps and mumbling to themselves, and griped about the food in the restaurants, and all were buying enough stuff to last until the third world war ends. Of course there is a lot of the same kind of spirit here, but it is not nearly as rampant.

Met Judge Whit Davidson, who is now a Federal District Judge and a man who has taken active part in Texas politics for many years. The Judge had completed a hard trip from Dallas and he said that if other trains are like the one he came on that he advises everyone to stay home, unless it is a matter of life and death. The Judge also said that if it gets much worse, it will be practically sure death to travel on a train anyway, a kind of slow starvation.

On his trip from Dallas he spent half the morning fighting his way into the diner and when he got there, everything was gone except a few dejected strawberries. He ate the few he could get and did without food for the remainder of the day. He advises anyone taking a trip of over three hundred miles to take a knapsack, a canteen, some dehydrated food and a birth certificate, for by the time — about the car—don't worry for it goes every week to your old friend Conoco Bill for a complete check up. You'll remember we had the engine Oil-Plated when that new Conoco 27th oil was introduced. Well, she runs like a dream. Never a whimper. So don't worry, son—chances are you'll drive her many a mile after you get back. And Mother says to add that I am not to argue one minute with you about using it as if I would! It's all yours — all we have is yours — always! Dad

Look! Listen! Live!

One automobile pushing another across a railroad grade crossing is a dangerous pastime, and that is the way it turned out in the accident illustrated here.

A truck was immediately behind the automobile and there was evidence that the truck had been pushing the automobile as it approached the crossing.

Whistle signals were sounded almost continuously in this case and the signals were heard by several witnesses. Regardless of whether the automobile was being operated under its own power or was being pushed by the truck, reasonable precautions would have averted the accident.

The National Safety Council is conducting a special campaign to stop these grade crossing accidents, which every day delay 38 trains a total of 22 hours—a big blow to the nation's wartime transportation facilities.

Driver carelessness is the cause of almost all grade crossing accidents, according to the Council.

To help win the war—to save yourself and others needless suffering—the Council asks you to be sure the track is clear before you start across.

Have you noticed the look on the farmers' faces lately? They must be enjoying this beautiful weather at least there are several cotton scratching machines in effect now and planting of crops.

Pvt. Charley Meyers has returned they reach their destination, they most certainly will have to prove who they are.

A groceryman tells me that a negro came to him, and in a very dejected way, said that he was doing all he could to buy all the things that the Government is putting out stamps for, but was not making enough money to pay for all that stuff.

Just why women are buying all the old broken down furniture that they can find is a little foggy to me. Every place I go I shy away from the old whopple jawed marble topped tables, dressers and so forth that lean up against the walls and in the corners. I'm afraid to drop my hat on one of them and I would not put anything as heavy as a book on one of them at all. The old things are an eye sore to me, for I can remember, as a wobbly kneed kid, helping move some of the old marble tops from one place to another and I know, from experience, that it takes something like steel girders to hold one of these pieces of furniture together.

The women have also gone boom over old bar room mirrors and old coal oil lamps. For me, all they do is bring back memories of some mighty inconvenient days.

This man was taught not to drink water

DRINKING WATER IS SCARCE in North Africa. And what there is, is likely to be bad.

So before our soldiers landed there, they were weaned away from water. A dash of iodine in their drinking water served the double purpose of disinfecting it, and making it taste awful.

By the time the boys landed in Africa, they'd lost all taste for water except in safe, prepared drinks.

The favorite prepared drink is lemonade. Field Ration K provides it—along with veal, pork, sausage, coffee, bouillon, malted milk tablets, biscuits, chocolate, and chewing gum—all in a 33-ounce pack.

Sounds like somebody was taking pretty good care of our boys, doesn't it? And that's right. American soldiers are the best-fed, best-equipped, best-cared-for in the world.

But keeping them that way takes money. So much money, that, to help pay for it, every one of us must loan at least 10% of his income to Uncle Sam through War Bonds.

War Bonds are a swell investment. They pay you back $4 for every $3. Save at least 10% of every paycheck with U. S. War Bonds.

WOMEN IN SERVICE

cords. WAACs attending Motor Transport School learn inspection, maintenance and operation of Army trucks and motor vehicles.

Graduates of any of these specialized courses are ready for assignments to serve with the Army in noncombatant service.

Lieut. Rose Smothers Howlett and S-Sgt. Merita Mills of the WAAC recruiting staff, Lubbock headquarters, will be in Slaton today to interview applicants for the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

In addition to explaining the advantages of service in the regular Women's Army Corps, the recruiters will outline for those interested, the army's new plan for accepting a limited number of women in the WAAC for special service with the Signal Corps. These women will be placed on an inactive duty status while in attendance at one of the Signal Corps schools, probably in San Antonio, and while in training will be on the school's payroll as a Civil Service employee at $105.25 for the first three months and $145 for the succeeding three months.

Headquarters for the recruiting party while in Slaton will be at the Chamber of Commerce.
