GOOD LAYERS ARE CHEAPER TO FEED

The faster your laying flock fills a case of eggs, the less feed and more profit you'll have in every case.

A flock of 100 hens that is in 40% production will consume about 28 pounds of feed daily. A flock of the same size that is in 70% production eats about 32 pounds. The high producers lay nearly twice as many eggs while consuming less than 20% more feed. Looking at it in another way: A flock in 40% production requires 9 days to fill a case of eggs while consuming 234 pounds of feed; a flock in 70% production fills a case in 5.1 days and eats only 132.3 pounds of feed.

Less Feed Per Egg

It is apparent that a good laying hen, while she eats more than her slow-laying sister, is more economical because she requires less feed to lay each egg.

The poultryman's aim should be to keep feed consumption high, thus encouraging high egg production. At the same time, he must be wary of the occasional loafing layer that eats a lot but lays very little. Cull these loafers.

There are any number of factors influencing feed consumption. Some of the things you can do to increase consumption are: feed mash and grain often during the day, stir the mash more frequently, provide increased feeding space, and feed wet mash at noon or night. Perhaps a tonic to sharpen birds' appetites will help.

Quality Feed Preferred

Remember, however, that good egg production depends not only on the quantity of feed consumed, but on its quality as well. Make sure that the flock is getting a balanced ration of properly-blended, high-quality ingredients.

Water is important. An egg is about 65% water, so the hen that is unable to get enough water to drink cannot lay as often as it would otherwise. Keep water before the hens at all times, take the chill off the water, and make sure there is enough space at the waterers so that none of the birds is crowded away.

Plant Poisoning of Animals
Over three dozen different plants are capable of poisoning farm animals. Since livestock usually cannot distinguish safe plants from harmful ones, watchfulness on the part of owners is essential. Arrow grass, cocklebur shoots, water hemlock, larkspur and loco weed are just a few of the many plants that cause huge losses to the livestock industry. Suspect plant poisoning whenever an apparently healthy animal develops convulsions, breathes fast and falls to the ground. At the first sign of trouble the entire herd should be moved to another pasture or lot and a diagnosis obtained without delay to determine the exact cause of the trouble. Once the cause is known, steps can be taken to protect the rest of the herd.

Pointer Ch. Aristocrat's Fashion Plate, of the Gaines Research Kennel, Ridgefield, Conn., is completely nonchalant as technicians of the National Dog Record Bureau apply his Identacode number to his right hind leg. Identacode represents an advanced development in the tattooing of dogs now spreading throughout the country as a means of preventing the loss or theft of loved or valuable animals and to facilitate their recovery. A group of dogs of several breeds and of various age groups—including puppies as young as six weeks—were Identacoded at the Kennel as a test of the efficacy of the method and to establish that there was no discomfort for the dog. JUST TALK by

A.M.J.

There are more varieties of weather in West Texas, most of them bad, than there is in any part of the state, but one seldom hears of any tragedies on account of it. California with its fog, smog, and terrible traffic conditions; Florida with its tornadoes, and other states with their blizzards and floods, get a lot of attention, but we suffer in silence with our high winds, droughts and sandstorms. Some day I'm going to try to start a national "gimmee" campaign for the poor down-trodden sufferers in West Texas, especially for the newspaper men.

Quite often when I get low on some good local subject to write and gripe about, I get to fliriting with the idea of giving my views on the national and international situation and then I get to considering the things I have read by experts I have never heard of in my life, on intricate schemes for running the world, and then try to evaluate the efforts that have been made to get the broken down machinery of peace to working; I decide to let the world go to the devil without my help. From now on I'm going to concentrate on what to do about the broken spring on our front door at home and put in a few licks on the high water in front of the post office when it rains. I'm afraid it is going to take a long time to get either situation straightened out.

Having been in the newspaper business most of my business life, I have attended more than my share of what have been called "banquets," with their little paper cups half full of dejected peas, cold mashed potatoes and tougherized ham, and I was fully prepared to take my medicine last Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce shindig.

It has been my custom to come home and demand my hand-out about six-thirty and I have gotten set in my ways. I had thought about sneaking into the refrigerator for a small sustainer lunch until the seventy-third hour when the contest was supposed to take place, but after considering the idea I held out in order to work up an appetite that would be wonderful enough to enable me to eat the regulation banquet diet.

Sure enough we had peas, but they were warm and no one had gone to the trouble of counting them and putting them into the little cups where they are as hard to catch as fleas on a black dog—just help yourself to as many as you had capacity to take care of—and there were potatoes, too, but not the standard water logged kind without any butter; those potatoes had been creamed by an expert and to top it off we had baked chicken. It was a meal that mother, or any other woman, can be proud of and Clay Oates and Leonard Harral, who went along with me, certainly did do their stuff, and for a dainty eater, I did not do so bad. Please pass the peas.

And to Mrs. Mansker and Mrs. Edmondson, I take off my hat for preparing the meal, and I want to put in my bid right now for a ticket to the next "banquet" that they prepare.

Now I have gotten myself into a mess. Last week I said that R. H. Todd is a conductor, when he is an engineer. According to R. H. an engineer is several grades higher than a conductor on account of the fact that a train could get nowhere without an engineer, while a conductor would hardly be missed, especially on a passenger train.

GUARANTEED TO POP
ALWAYS CRISP

Mr. Todd admits that the conductors may have a different view of the subject and that just because they never have to get a little grease on their hands that they consider their work of a higher classification.

With bowed head, I apologize to the engineers and conductors for my error. May the best men win.

Several folks who have had occasion to dig in the ground recently report that the ground is wet down as deep as twenty inches. Ed Blair said that one farmer who had been digging a water well found the ground damp to that depth and that was before the rain Saturday. Cars were stuck in the mud all over town and most of the farmers marooned.

Being a very modest man, it is against my principles to brag and blow, but when the sandstorms were doing their best, I predicted that 1949 will be a wet year and that the farmers would soon be howling about the wet weather. Looks like I am going to get the first prize.

While some towns are lucky because of having been established in a section of the country where oil gets discovered, most communities grow and prosper because some person or group of persons at some time in the past have done some constructive planning and put the plans into action. Some of the things that were put into action were financial failures, yet did things for the communities that later turned out to be assets.

So far, Slaton has not been fortunate in having oil activity and from accounts of what has happened in the past, there have been some big opportunities passed up because of lack of vision of those who were in positions to take action, such as the failure to build adequate school facilities when the buildings and equipment were available at very little expense. So far as I know there are no definite plans for Slaton's future and if we grow it will be done like Topsy in Uncle Tom's Cabin, or some one will have to bring in some oil wells.

Being conservative is a virtue that can be overdone and if a town expects to win in the game of expansion it will have to sit in the game, we cannot sit on the side lines and expect to reap any rewards.

Mr. and Mrs. Corbin Barton have had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Barton of Dallas, and a nephew, Harlow, who has recently returned from China and is now stationed at Stockton, Calif. He is with the Navy.

Meadowlark of Open Fields

Meadowlark is truly an American bird, and in varying forms, ranges throughout the United States. None of his kind is found outside the western hemisphere, and like the wild turkey, he is strictly a species of our own country. During the last 30 years the population of this merry dweller of the open fields has shown a marked decline. At one time their numbers perhaps exceeded that of any other species that lived outside the woodlands. The meadowlark's nest is placed on the ground under a tussock of grass. It is constructed of small stems and grasses. Usually from four to seven white eggs, highly speckled with purple and brown, are laid.

Famous Lighthouses

Lighthouses of all times have been elevated structures. Two of the seven wonders of the ancient world were lighthouses. Some lighthouses have become architectural monuments. Such lighthouses as Montauk Point, Long Island, Gaspe Peninsula, Nova Scotia and Morro Castle, Havana, have become landmarks not only for the mariner but for sightseers as well.

Beginning of Cricket
Cricket, the 'game of so much popularity in England, Australia and other British dominions, is of disputed origin. It started as a boys' game, eventually was taken up by adults, and the Test Matches between England and Australia, originated in 1880, aroused enthusiasm in both countries equal to that created by world series play in the United States. Cricket, in both England and Australia, is a sport for the masses, and a great cricket player becomes an idol.

Corbin Reports On Legislation

AUSTIN — Senator and Mrs. Kilmer Corbin of Lamesa were among the guests of honor at the inaugural festivities held here last week for Governor Beauford Jester and Lieutenant Governor Allan Shivers.

Amid all the pomp and ceremony that prevails in Austin during the first days the legislature is in session, Senator Corbin found time to write and sponsor five of the first one hundred bills introduced in the senate. He stated this week that he will keep his constituents fully informed of his legislative activities, and that a general explanation of the bills he has or will introduce will be issued within the next few days.

Senator Corbin also said that he will greatly appreciate anyone interested in matters pertaining to state government contacting him either by mail, telephone or in person.

His Austin mailing address is Drawer D, Capitol Station, and his telephone number is 6-2222.

REST PERIOD — Horace Held, hard-working impresario of NBC's "Original Youth Opportunity Program," pauses—but only briefly—during rehearsal of hopeful young performers bidding for fame.

Inflation of Tires

It's the air in the tire that carries the load. No tire can give satisfactory service unless it is the correct size and type, and correct air pressure is maintained. Every tire represents a fine balance of forces created by the air pressure within the tire and the resistance of the cord body and other component parts of the tire to this air pressure. Whenever the air pressure is either greater or less than that recommended, this balance is upset and the result is premature failure due to abnormal stresses and strains set up within the tire.

Japan's Wheat Crop

From a position of relative unimportance, wheat in recent years has become one of the major crops in Japan. During 1941-45, production averaged 46,505,800 bushels per year from 1,992,000 acres, with an average yield per acre of 2.3 bushels. Both acreage and yields per unit area have been greatly improved within historical times. Based on five-year averages for the periods 1878-82 and 1938-42, the areas in wheat have increased about 119 per cent, yields about 140 per cent and total production about 425 per cent.

Forest Protection

Wisconsin, which has set an outstanding record in protecting its forests against fire, plans a program of protection against forest-damaging insects as well. The fight against forest insects will become an organized effort similar to that carried on against the fire menace. Forest dusting or spraying with DDT and other chemicals by means of planes will be the method used. The state entomologist points out that it is fruitless to protect any given stand of forest growth against fire and then permit it to be destroyed by insect infestations.

MANY BREEDS ABLE TO PULL DOG CART

Plans for Home Construction of a Practical Rig Are Available

Few American dog owners, aside from bird dog, retriever, and hound enthusiasts, avail themselves of the full utility values of their pets, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center. This is particularly true in the case of owners of the large "working" dog breeds, such as Boxers, German Shepherds, St. Bernards, Collies and Doberman Pinschers. These breeds, all of which are of European origin, were originally produced for performing definite jobs and services. In this country, aside from their usefulness as companions and as guardians of home and property, few of these large dogs ever have an opportunity to perform the tasks for which they were created.

A fairly common sight in Europe is that of a large dog pulling a cart load of milk cans, truck farm produce, fire-wood or baggy goods. The usual equipment is a two-wheeled cart with double shafts, a simple leather harness and a collar and leash by which the dog is led. In fact, in Belgium there is a club which has existed for many years for the purpose of encouraging the improvement of draught-dog breeds and educating dog owners by giving them advice on the best types of vehicles and harness.

An American organization of St. Bernard fanciers known as the St. Bernard Club of the Pacific Coast is currently aiding its members in realizing the full potential usefulness and pleasure of owning their dogs by offering detailed plans and directions for the construction of a dog cart. A full grown St. Bernard, in good condition, is capable of pulling loads up to 250 lbs. (including the weight of the cart).

Any heavily built, mature dog measuring 24 inches or more at the shoulder and in fit physical condition is capable of performing light draught duty. In Europe a good draught dog is considered capable of performing the same amount of work as a donkey, and costs a great deal less to keep. There is no cruelty involved in draught duty, provided a dog is well nourished—in fact, the exercise will be of benefit. A few lessons between the shafts are usually all that are required for a dog to perform his job of pulling a cart cheerfully and willingly.

Children can derive as much pride and pleasure from a large dog and cart as they would in the ownership of a pony. Aside from the amusement value of such a rig, dog carts can be used for transporting groceries from store to home, carrying fire-wood, garden equipment or refuse.

Dog owners interested in obtaining plans for the construction of the well-balanced dog cart shown in the above illustration can get information for ordering by dropping a post-card to the Gaines Dog Research Center, 256 Park Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

How Alchemists Helped
Snapshots can be taken today because, long ago, alchemists tried to turn silver into gold, according to the Silver Users' association. They failed to get gold, but they discovered that silver nitrate is sensitive to light. Centuries later, film making became a leader among the many industrial uses of silver.

THEY TAKE THE BLUE
OUT OF MONDAY

A COMPLETE, modern electric home laundry not only takes the "blue" out of Monday, it's apt to take most of the work out of the proverbial "wash day."

With an electric home laundry in your home, you'll find yourself putting clothes to wash and dry, or ironing them whenever it's convenient...you won't be tied down any more by "wash day" or by a pile of ironing.

Washing's done automatically while you go about your other house work. Put the damp clothes in your dryer, and forget about them until you take them out, as dry and clean smelling as if they'd been on a "line" for hours. Then, you'll find it just a few minutes' work to go through an ironing with an efficient electric ironer.

See your appliance dealer soon about the advantages of an electric home laundry of your own.

PALACE THEATRE SUNDAY and MONDAY. First Run

An Urubu tribesman captures a white woman in this scene from United Artists astounding adventure, "URUBU."

Women's Suffrage
First women's rights convention was held at Seneca Falls, N. Y., July 19 and 20, 1848. The 68 women and 32 men who signed this declaration of feminine independence were dubbed cranks and extremists by most of their contemporaries, and the press of the country either scolded them or laughed at them.

Worm Parasite Menace
Death and health losses suffered from stomach worms, lungworms, flukes, nodular worms and tapeworms in livestock continue to be tremendous, notwithstanding that science has shown the way to control most of them. In sheep, parasitisms outstrip all other diseases in importance.
