What Happened In Slaton Last Year

Mr. Bobby Ray Marindale, Jr. will no doubt go through life carrying the only title of "First Baby Hero" in Slaton in 1950. It was beginning to look like the stork was going to overlook Slaton this year when the Slatonite last went to press; but at 11:15 p. m. last Wednesday, January 4, a boy weighing 7 pounds and 5 ounces was born in Mercy Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Marindale of Slaton. A. C. Strickland, sr., agriculture instructor at Slaton High School, was awarded the Chamber of Commerce certificate as top citizen of Slaton for the Fourth Quarter, 1949, in a brief ceremony held Tuesday afternoon in the Chamber office at the City Hall.

Miss Joy Gentry has returned to New York City where she will resume her studies at Columbia after having spent a week in Slaton visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gentry. Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hickman attended the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr. Doc Roach, in Amarillo Monday.

Final rites for Mrs. Fannie Maude Dawson, 70, who passed away here Sunday following a long illness, were held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday, January 10, in the First Methodist Church of Slaton.

Mrs. S. A. Peavy spent last week in Dallas visiting her mother, Mrs. G. F. Boone. Mrs. Clifford Simmons returned Sunday from St. Petersburg, Fla., after spending the Christmas holidays with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Trans.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Heaton visited recently in Jefferson, Texas and also in Shreveport, La. Installation of the new bell clock system of the Slaton High School was completed this week, Superintendent Lee Vandy announced. The system was paid for by the Senior Class of 1949, the Junior and Senior Parents Teachers Association, and by the school itself.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Ayers and son Roy Madison are visiting Mrs. Ayers' mother in Corpus Christi.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.—Baseball Commissioner A. B. 'Happy' Chandler the newsmen that he had been informed the Major League had voted against renewing his 7-year contract when it expires on May 1, 1952. In this photo, Chandler is shown in a typical baseball pose while talking to newsmen a few months ago.

Slaton Looks Forward

If it were not for the national and international situations Slaton would now be in the most advantageous position it has ever been in, and even with the seriousness of what could happen, Slaton is in a better spot than most towns in the nation.

In the first place there could not be very many people in Slaton on the Southern Plains who are in any other town in the United States and for this reason there is little or no doubt as to the patriotism of the folks with whom we are living our neighbors or with whom we are in the same town. We are far away from any invasion point if such a thing should come to our nation, and there are some military experts who consider this more than a faint possibility.

There is little chance of our being able to control the future of the nations of the world, and if we do our best for our town and our neighbors we'll be doing the best we can for the nation. Should the time come when the services of any one, or all of us, are needed we'll be tapped on the shoulder and we'll have to do what we are told to do, and most of us will do it with good grace and to the best of our ability.

The good news is that the best of our ability. The people of this nation of the United States come nearer representing what the national democracy was intended to be, and if the intrigue and dumbness of the folks in the East and the inability of our nation leaders to lead and wreck the nation we will be the greatest losers of all, for we have the most to lose.

The Crack Of Doom Is Not Here!

Read any dire predictions as to what the world is coming to, with forebodings of the wreck of civilization, and some smart historian will come forward with almost exact copies of just such predictions that were made in centuries past.

Every magazine, every periodical and most every newspaper is making just such predictions at present, and there seems to be every reason for doing so. The atom bomb, germ warfare and heavens knows what other terrible weapon science has conjured up may be ready to dive on us from the air, come creeping on us from a submarine or blow on us from the air, but civilization has stood many things that seemed just as disastrous in its day as these things seem to us today.

Man has perhaps progressed, if you care to consider advancements in mechanics and in other forms of medicine and surgery, as advancements, but we are far behind in many ways and far more dependent upon each other and on mechanical devices than ever before. While we may be in any manner stronger, the world was when Ghemis Khan was alive, and threatened to over run everything that was considered civilized, in that day, we may be in as great a danger and it may take the concerted action of all the forward thinking people of the world to work together before the menace is overpowered.

Mr. Hoover's Proposal

To take the most charitable view of Mr. Hoover's astounding proposal, let us assume that he really wants to save western Europe; that the thinks if we threaten to abandon it, we will scare it into more active preparations for military defense. (Then, perhaps, we would come to its aid).

Unfortunately, this won't work. A large part of western Europe's hesitations and delays are based on fears that this country never really meant to carry out our engagements in the Atlantic Pact, and that isolationism would revive and would force our withdrawal from Europe. Mr. Hoover's proposal will only reinforce that fear and strengthen the forces of defeatism in free Europe.

If we want western Europe to gird up its loins in defense of a free world, we will have to reassure it by visible evidence of our intentions to give it full support. This will take more than money, or words. If we hope for allies, if we hope to save western Europe, let us follow firmly in the path suggested by General Eisenhower's appointment.

The above is a letter written to the Christian Science Monitor by Charles H. Taylor.

We'll Need More Farm Equipment

Agricultural efficiency in the last decade increased more rapidly than in any other period in the history of our country. Two men in 1949 produced as many agricultural products as three men during the 5 year years 1903-39. Farm output per hour of labor in 1949 exceeded the 1903-39 output by 51 per cent. Total agricultural production was up 40 per cent in 1949 while the number of people engaged in agriculture was down 9 per cent. More tractors, trucks and machines were purchased during this period than at any other time in our history. Agriculture was really being mechanized.

For the past two decades the increases in output per worker in agriculture have matched the increases in industry. Adapting mechanical power and machines to agriculture so that each agricultural worker might have more power at his command has been the making of this output possible. With prospects for increased demands on the man power supply of the nation, the importance of combining farm labor with more power and machines continues. The opportunity for profitable substitutions of more mechanical power and machines for labor exists on many farms, and new possibilities are continually being developed.

With more and more farm workers going into the armed services the bigger will be the load on farm machines.

KEEP LAYERS IN CONDITION

Careful supervision of the laying flock is certainly essential to a heavy—and steady—rate of egg production. Successful poultrymen know this well. That's why they keep such a close check on their layers. By being constantly alert for flock irregularities or management errors, these raisers can keep laying-flock troubles at a minimum and provide for a profitable season of egg production.

Now that your pullets have a few months of production behind them, it's a good time for you to take some extra precautions. Although your birds probably are still laying pretty well and active, an examination of several birds may reveal that the flock is beginning to show the strain of heavy production.

LIGHT LAYERS

Lost weight is a good indication that layers are in need of a little special care to carry them through heavy production. Examine a few of your layers. If they are lighter and thinner, you should provide for this "lack of reserve" by giving extra attention to their comfort, care, and feeding. Feeding is of particular importance. In most cases, measures that encourage your birds to eat more prove quite helpful. You'll find layers will usually stand up better under heavy laying if you can increase their feed consumption.

WATCH FOR LICE

When you examine layers, also check for lice or mites. These parasites frequently cause birds to become uncomfortable, nervous, and in some cases, layers lose weight. So observe your birds carefully for parasites. They, too, can harm layers and reduce egg production. If you do find birds infested, treat them immediately in order to get them started in production again.

In addition, keep plenty of clean drinking water in front of layers. And during cold weather make sure the water is kept from freezing. If, however, layers need water to make eggs.

Kitten - Melcher Wedding Read In Formal Service At Catholic Church

MRS. JOHNNY MELCHER

Miss Margaret Kitten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kitten, became the bride of Johnny Melcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Melcher of Slaton, in a double ring ceremony, solemnized Tuesday, January 2 in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, at 8 o'clock in the morning with the Rev. T. D. O'Brien officiating.

The altar was decorated with pink gladiola and white carnations, banked with plumeaus, flanked with white candles in candelabra. Miss Joerita Kitten, cousin of the bride, played traditional wedding marches and accompanied the choir at the Nuptial Mass.

Henry Franklin, Le Roy and Jimmy Kitten served as acolytes. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of ice white bridal satin, fashioned with a Queen Anne collar and neckline of hand embroidered Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice buttoned down the back with self covered buttons from the neckline to the low waist, which joined the bouffant skirt in a series of garlands. Long period sleeves fitted tightly at the wrist, ending in petal points over the hands. From the skirt cascaded a cathedral length train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion edged in lace, was attached to a terra embroidered in seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a white satin colonial fan centered with vanda orchids showered with white satin streamers and lily of the valley. She wore a rhinestone necklace and matching ear bobs, a gift of the bridegroom.

In carrying out tradition, for something old the bride carried a white pearl rosary belonging to her mother; for something borrowed, she carried a white handkerchief edged in lace, belonging to her sister, Mrs. Paul Warren; for something blue she wore a blue garter; for something new a white prayer book, a gift of her baptismal sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. August Kitten; she also had a penny in her shoe.

Miss Agnes Schwertner was maid of honor and Mrs. Louie Melcher, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor. Colleen Kitten, sister of the bride, attended as bridesmaid. Their gowns were made of slipper satin in antique gold, cranberry wine and seafoam green, fashioned with a fitted bodice, buttoned up the front with tiny satin covered buttons and loops and finished with Peter Pan collar and a short sleeve with upturned cuff. From this emerged a voluminous skirt worn in hoops and shirred at the waistline with fullness accented by ruffling around the hipline. More identical rhinestone earrings were a gift of the bride. Their shoes were made of white satin braided and tied in with a bow. They wore white gloves and carried bouquets centered with carnations with ribbons to match their dresses.

Anne Melcher and ... Jenkins, nieces of ... served as flower girls. They wore pink slipper shoes and carried bouquets to the dress attendants. They wore hats of tiny ... with fern ... with white ... with ribbons to match their ... white ...

... of the ... and ... of the ... an. The ...

groomsmen were Louie Melcher, brother of the groom, and Joe Schilling, cousin of the bride. Conrad Melcher, brother of the groom and Paul Warren, brother-in-law of the bride, served as ushers.

A wedding breakfast was given in the home of the bride's parents. The reception was held at St. Joseph's Hall at 3 o'clock. The bridal table was laid with an all silk table cloth and centered with a three tiered cake, decorated with tiny white roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

In the evening a dance was given at St. Joseph's Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kitten led the wedding march.

For a wedding trip to Austin and points Southeast, the bride chose a navy blue suit with winter pink accessories and a corsage of white vanda orchids.

The couple will be at home near Slaton.

A. M. J.

Some folks seem to be surprised when I show them a few of the few pecans we gathered on our two pecan trees this fall. It seems that most folks do not believe that pecans will produce in this part of the state, but I am sure that if some one would put out a good size pecan grove or orchard, or what ever a lot of pecan trees are called, that it would be profitable if the trees were irrigated.

Our two trees are about seven years old and if I had enough energy to water them regularly I am sure we could have a good crop each year.

The first year or two after we planted the trees I watered them regularly and about three years ago they had some pecans on them better than average size, and very well flavored. Since then I have been trying to wean them from so much water and while we have had a good many pecans they have gotten smaller each year.

Mr. J. A. Klesner, who knows a lot of stuff about most every thing that grows, says I should water the trees in the winter time as well as in the spring and summer, but some how or other after I knock all the skin off my knuckles, and got my back so stiff I can hardly sit down from trying to harvest the pecans, I get so that I didn't care much about whether I have pecans or not, that is, I feel that way in the winter time.

When spring comes and the buds begin to peep out, the birds to sing and the iron in ones blood turns to lead in the pants, then I start wishing for more pecans, peaches, and a lot of rest.

If you want to start a pecan farm just come see me, I know all about what to do for two trees.

Did you notice last week that the Avalanche Journal in Lubbock claimed all of the deposits in the Slaton Bank as a part of the Lubbock financial growth? Greater Lubbock is busting at the seams, and we might as well get set to be Greater South Lubbock before long. I am trying to figure out a new name for the Slatonite. How would the South Lubbock Avalanche be? Or how about the South Lubbock Rock Slide?

It might be a good idea to start a prize contest and offer a cut glass diamond ring, a sound proof piano or a six wheeled automobile for the person who sends in the best name for us before we get gobbled up. Its best to be safe.

Wonder when the official census for the towns in Texas will be announced? The last estimate I had on Slaton was five thousand and five. Lewis Hollingsworth and several of the men around town had to get out and chase down forty or fifty strays in order to get the unofficial count over 5000, and it would break my heart to have the old town come out less than 5000.

It's been nearly seven months since the census was taken and its time the experts in Washington should let the secrets out.

It seems to me that Slaton has grown a lot in the past few months. Hundreds of people have come in to the Slatonite office looking for places to live, and I believe that there have been more homes built in Slaton within the past year than have ever been built in the town before in the same length of time.

It seems to me that the biggest problem for both Slaton and Lubbock is the problem of water. It is particularly a big problem for Lubbock.

Wells, though costly and limited as to supply, will probably supply the needs to a limited extent, for Slaton for a considerable time, and allow some industrial and population growth, but Lubbock has about reached its capacity. Being a rocking chair engineer, I feel sure that the Canyon could be dammed somewhere to make a lake that would hold enough water to give Lubbock and Slaton enough water to accommodate thousands more people. If we wait for the great Canadian pipe line to get built its going to be like waiting for the Communist to come forward with a reasonable peace offer.

Does anyone have a good suggestion for what to eat in the place of big, tender, man size T-bone steaks? The boys in the army will soon be getting most of the meat, and they should, but I'm going to miss my gnawing contest every day at noon, and I'd like to know how to prepare beans so that they taste like steak.

Ben Cole, Jr., of Lubbock, was over last week and he was telling about a conversation he heard between a loud talking salesman and a truck driver. The salesman said he was going to miss his T-bone steak and did not know how he could get along living off of beans. "What do you think of the fellow who has been making so little that he has had to live off of beans all along," asked the truck driver.

"Oh, you'll never know the difference," the salesman replied.

Ben says that love is like the dew, it does not care whether it falls on a rose or on manure.

And do you know what a kiss is? It's nothing divided by two.

And some smart guy made the comment that life is one d — thing after another, then another wiser guy said that love is two d — things after each other.

And it is said that beauty is only skin deep, but who wants to be a cannibal?

My mind is stored with such valuable information as the above and I've been trying for years to find some place to use it, but this is the first time that it has come in handy, and it's not too appropriate at that, but if I do not get it in now I may never get any value out of it.

Tip for Cook
When recipes require any mixing over top burners, put all ingredients and utensils on a tray, set it on the work surface of the gas range to save steps.

Draperies
Draperies should be cleaned as soon as they become soiled. The longer soil remains in the fabric, the more difficult it is to remove in cleaning.

Mrs. Fredric de Vries

Mr. Fredric de Vries

Mr. and Mrs. B. Fredric de Vries, of Marinell Portraits, left January 8 for Austin where both are scheduled for platform presentations at the three day 1951 Convention of the Texas Photographers Association. New Passenger Cars Added To Santa Fe's New Super Chief

Two of the most unusual and modern railway passenger cars ever built will go into service on the Santa Fe Railway's all-new Super Chief operating between Chicago and Los Angeles on Sunday, January 28th. These are a dome-lounge and a diner of advanced design.

A completely newly-designed, lounge car is divided into five rooms—the Turquoise Room, lower cocktail lounge, main lounge room, parlor observation dome and a private writing desk room.

The Turquoise room is for dining and cocktail service catering to private parties. The room features turquoise, silver and gold decorative treatment consisting of vinylite on the side and end walls with accordion type sliding doors covered with the same material in harmonizing color. These doors can be left open or can be closed for privacy, whichever suits the occasion.

Johns Resigns As Manager Of West Texas C. Of C.

ABILENE. (Special), January 11—Raymond Lee Johns has resigned from the position of manager of the Panhandle-Plains Branch of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, effective February 1. He has held the position one year and has maintained offices in Plainview, serving some 40 counties in northwest Texas. No successor to the post has been named. Johns will become actively associated as President and Publisher of Southwestern Crop And Stock, farm and ranch magazine published in Lubbock. He has been part owner of this firm since 1946. Besides his Lubbock interest he will look after farming interests in Lynn and Hale counties and Chinchilla ranching in Plainview.

While associated with the West Texas Chamber Johns served five months as Acting General Manager, immediately following the resignation of the former General Manager in July of last year. Johns is a graduate of Texas Technological College, Lubbock, of the year 1938, with a degree in Journalism. He is a past president of the Texas Tech Alumni and Ex-Students Associations and of the Tech Press Association.

YOU'RE DRIVING ME CRAZY!

Having recently taken up driving, a timid woman wanted everything to be just so. One day she complained to her husband, "That little mirror up there isn't set right."

"What's the matter with it?" the husband asked.

"I can't see myself at all," she said. "All I see is some car behind."

The lady was having quite a time learning to drive. "Suppose," she asked her instructor, "the brakes gave way?"

"In that case," replied the long-suffering man, "just steer for the cheapest thing you see."

Those who took part in doing the work were Rev. Gray, Kenneth Davies, Mr. Davies, Jack Hargrove, Wilburn Field, C. W. Gary, Otho Quisenberry, Harold Trull, John East, E. C. Smallwood, Edgar Mosley, Aubrey McNeely and a colored man.

Six of the men brought tractors and trailers to help with the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Anderson and daughter Claudie have gone to Encinitas, Calif. They plan to be away about two months.

Mr. P. H. Appling and son, Jon, were visitors in Slaton Monday. They are now living at Rt. 2, Levelland and are formerly of Slaton.

"Through blizzard after blizzard my car performed better!"

"I was one of those selected to test new Conoco Super Motor Oil in my own car before it was put on the market. Through blizzard after blizzard, I travelled in Northern Colorado and Wyoming.

"BUT THOSE WERE THE TWO BEST WINTERS I EVER HAD ON THE ROAD! New Conoco Super improved the operation of my car. And at the end of the test, with proper drains and regular care, gasoline mileage was virtually as good as at the beginning."

After a total of 386,422 miles, logged by Mr. Hubbard and other winter test drivers, Conoco engineers found no wear of any consequence! Analysis of crankcase drains showed that this great new oil actually stopped the dangerous accumulation of free water and acids, chief causes of winter wear. This test proved that new Conoco Super Motor Oil, with OIL-PLATING, fights off rust, corrosion and sludge. So, change to winter-grade Conoco Super Motor Oil.

Few couples may boast of being grandparents twice in the period of two days, but that is exactly what Mr. and Mrs. McClelland of Hockley County are prepared to do.

And, what is even more interesting, is the fact that the youngsters, born to two families on consecutive days, were girls born to twins.

On Dec. 8, a baby girl was born to Mrs. Gene Odum of 612 and one-half, Avenue A, Levelland. The following day, Dec. 9, her twin, Mrs. Alfred Vick, 604 East 8th Street, Littlefield, announced the birth of a girl.

Ninety feet of drilling mud cut with sulphur water and 450 feet of sulphur water was recovered on the final drillstem test at 8066-8215 feet. A light blow of air surfaced at the beginning of the test and two hours later increased to a strong blow.

Fire Chief H. B. Johnson and the Levelland volunteer fire department answered nine calls in four days last week and this week.

Johnson's only comment was that he was "tired," and that he wished folks would be more careful about letting grass fires get started.

Probably the greatest damage was suffered in a blaze which swept a compressor building at the Consumers Co-operative refinery shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday night.

James Sturm, Denver City truck driver, has been released under a $1,000 bond on a negligent homicide charge in connection with the death here early Thursday night of Eddie Hedgecoth, 43, who was crushed between two cars.

The accident occurred a few feet within the Brownfield city limits on the Tahoka highway when a truck said by investigating officers to have been driven by Sturm, rammed the rear of a car Hedgecoth was attempting to unchain from a tow car.

Sturm and Ray Dee Edwards, driver of the towing car, were unhurt in the mishap, which caused the South Plains' 114th traffic fatality of the year.

Contrary to daily newspaper and radio reports, Robert Draper, of Tahoka, Hereford, and South Dakota, was not killed in that car wreck in Kansas Christmas Eve.

In fact, Robert was in bed asleep at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Draper, at the time the man driving Robert's car crashed into a telephone pole near Meade, Kansas.

The City Charter Commission met in its first regular session, following its recent organization, Monday night for a discussion of various articles of the charter which was defeated in an election in April, 1949. Members of the commission had been assigned sections of the previous document for examination and recommendations for changes.

In addition to the members of the Charter Commission several other men were called in to aid the Commission in discussing a new charter. Chairman W. E. Ferguson stated that after discussing the matter with several members of the Commission it had been decided to call in nominees who had not been elected to the Commission and also representatives of the different groups in Brady.

Ferguson said this would enable these men to gain a better knowledge of the contents of the new charter so that they could discuss it among residents of the city.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Friendship—Four Thousand Miles Apart

Never quite got the hang of how to play chess myself, but I'll say this for the game—it started one of the strongest friendships I know of: between Dad Wilson in our town and a fellow in Sudbury, England.

The two of them have never met or seen each other—but for eight or nine years they've been playing chess by mail together. Dad puzzles over the Englishman's latest letter, takes a couple of days to think it over, and then airmails a chart of his next move.

Dad always thinks best with a mellow glass of beer beside his chessboard. And the fellow in England writes that he does the same. "Almost as if we were in the same room," says Dad contentedly.

From where I sit, you can talk about diplomacy and foreign policy, but it's often little friendly things—like a game of chess or a glass of beer—that can make for tolerance and understanding... between people of different nations, between folks here at home!
