'FLYING BUZZSAW' RIPS ITALIAN RAIL LINKS

Sea Forces Aid In Maintaining Waves Of Fire

'Hell's Triangle' Feels Brunt Of Allied Sea And Aerial Might

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 21 (AP)—The air battle for southern Italy is going full tilt four days after the fall of Sicily.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder's flying buzzsaw — which forced the surrender of Pantelleria and cut Sicily's communications to pieces even before the invasion— is ripping at long range into the vital connecting links between northern and southern Italy around Naples.

Close at hand round-the-clock patrols are maintaining a cannonade and bombardment of vulnerable points of the railway and highway network.

The waves of fire from the sky are being supplemented by naval forces which move with impunity along the Italian coast, pouring broadsides into targets which can be reached from the sea.

American warships shelled Gioia Tauro, 20 miles northeast of Messina, and set fires raging among fortified points on objectives yesterday in the latest of these naval attacks.

Along the northern side of the triangle waves of Mitchell, Marauder and Wellington bombers, with their Lightning escorts, spread a paralysis of Italy's rail system.

Leaving Foggia, one of the four chief railway bottlenecks in Italy, to smoulder in its ruin from the biggest air assault of the Mediterranean war two days ago, the air forces switched yesterday to the Naples area and blasted repeatedly at Aversa, Benevento and Villa Literno.

The Germans threw strong forces of fighters into battle to stop the destruction, 40 or 50 rising at Aversa alone to turn aside the attack.

But the Allied air fleets knocked down 14 of the enemy, while losing 10 of their own, and from the clouds of smoke that rose from cross-crossing lines of bombs Allied airmen noted heavy damage to rail lines, warehouses, and an airbase.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week— Joe Pickle

Today, for all practical purposes, marks the first anniversary of the Big Spring Bombardier School, for it is the date on which movement of troops into the school started.

Saturday the weather bureau tested its radiosonde or ra-ob equipment, a device whereby humidity and temperatures may be tested more than 15 miles up.

In the face of an abnormal string of 100 plus temperatures (newcomers don't believe it and even we are beginning to doubt it), it was interesting last week to see the populace shivering when the thermometer suddenly dipped to 65.

Mother Mary Zinn celebrated her 97th birthday last week, still spry and nimble-witted as ever. We long to see her pass the 100.

Nazi Losses Reach Million Mark As Red Offensive Moves On

LONDON, Sunday, Aug. 22 (AP)—The Germans have lost 1,000,000 men killed and wounded in the third summer of fighting in Russia, a special Soviet bulletin announced last night.

On the basis of previous Russian announcements this brought the losses of Germany and her allies to 7,400,000 men killed, wounded and captured since Adolf Hitler first plunged to the east on June 22, 1941.

A special Soviet communique marking the second anniversary of the war last June 22 said that 6,400,000 German and satellite troops had been killed or made prisoner, turning Russia into a graveyard for German hopes of world empire.

Even as these staggering losses were announced, the Moscow radio said that more than 4,000 other Nazis lost their lives yesterday as the Red army drew its noose tighter about vital Kharkov and hammered at stubborn German forces near Bryansk and Spas-Demensk.

The midnight communique supplement, recorded by the Soviet monitor from a Moscow broadcast, said that 1,000 Germans were killed as a Russian column fighting northwest of the city overran several more villages.

The embattled Germans threw fresh reserves into the battle raging west of Kharkov, and the Moscow bulletin said that Russian forces cut down 1,200 of them as they counterattacked strongly.

Nazi forces counterattacked near Bryansk in the central sector of the active front, the midnight communique said, but were repulsed with losses. An enemy strong point was captured in that sector by Russian cavalrymen, the Russians said.

The Germans also sought to stem Russian forces driving westward in the Spas-Demensk area, but lost 2,000 men as they launched a series of fierce attacks, the communique stated.

Clean-Up Drive Due To Begin

This is to be the big week in the city's delayed clean-up drive. Monday district supervisors convene at 3:30 p. m. in the chamber of commerce offices to receive final instructions and to iron out any difficulties.

From J. H. Greene, chamber of commerce manager. Saturday came word that people were responding to appeals to clean premises. He said spot checks had revealed that the campaign was taking hold steadily in all sections of the city.

He hoped more response would result from announcements from various pulpits and at all service clubs during the week.

Danes Asked To Halt Wave Of Sabotage

Government Resists Demands That Nazis Mete Out Punishment

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Danish government significantly asked Danes today to halt a wave of sabotage against the German overlords, warning that its continuation would have "a devastating result on Danish life" with the Nazis cutting off food and coal supplies.

"The government will do everything to create more stable conditions in Denmark," declared a proclamation signed by Premier Erik De Scavinius with the approval of King Christian X. It marked a modest diplomatic victory for the Danes.

Thus the government, apparently successfully resisting German demands that prosecution of saboteurs be given over to the Nazis, sought to stem the tide of open resistance to save Denmark from severe reprisals.

"If the people are going to continue these tactics, they will have a devastating result on Danish life. The import of food and fuel will be stopped, upsetting all production in Denmark."

"If the government shall succeed in saving Denmark from war, it is necessary for the people to work for the same purpose."

Today's appeal, similar to one by King Christian last spring, was viewed in Stockholm as a successful compromise won by the Danish government.

Bond Quota For August Is Set

Big Spring's bond quota for August has been announced as $101,500, the same quota which local residents barely met in July and which they are in a fair way to miss this month unless some heavy bond buying is done between now and the last of the month.

Sales to date amount to $31,477, leaving $70,023 still to go and only eight more buying days left in the month.

Only one month has Big Spring failed to meet its bond quota as assigned under the national organization and bond sale officials were urging that residents purchase to the full amount of their capacity this month in order to meet the demand.

Important Day At Weather Bureau— Radiosonde Service Begins Here

Saturday, just another scorcher, the layman, went down in the weatherman's books as a rather significant day.

It marked the beginning of radiosonde service at the U.S. department of commerce weather bureau at the airport, for the first balloon with parachute and tiny transmitter attached was released into the face of a brisk southeast breeze.

Key Island— Kiska, captured by American and Canadian forces on Aug. 15, was heavily bombarded by Allied airmen during more than a year of Japanese occupation.

Cooperation Asked By City As Water Supply Crisis Is At Hand Here

Big Spring is beyond the "serious" stage in its water supply. A crisis is at hand.

Last water will be pumped this afternoon from Powell lake, City Manager Boyd McDaniel said Saturday, and although Moss Creek lake may furnish a few thousand gallons a day for a couple of weeks, the city for all practical purposes will be dependent upon its wells.

They can be expected to supply about 2,000,000 gallons a day with only the minimum. Tuesday night, when the commission meets, he is to recommend that the front line of the municipal golf course be closed, so that watering of the greens can stop.

Preacher, Wife Are Charged With Slaying

Texas Rangers announced Friday in San Angelo that Charles Edward Smith, 46, sign painter and Pentecostal preacher, and his wife, Elizabeth Smith, 56, had been charged with the slaying two years ago of Mrs. Hazel Weeks, 40.

The complaints were filed in 27th District court at Lampasas where the two are held, pending action by a grand jury convening September 6. The Smiths were arrested in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Weeks, wife of Arthur H. Weeks of Big Spring, was found in a ravine a mile north of Lampasas Oct. 21, 1941. State officers started working on the case when C. W. Ford, Alexandria, La., brother-in-law of Mrs. Weeks, began looking for her.

Sheriff Andrew Merrick and his deputies assisted Texas Rangers in the investigation. Weeks, projectionist at a local theatre, identified the body as that of his wife last July 15. Search for the couple arrested continued until Friday. Weeks recently adopted a son of Mrs. Weeks, Sheriff Merrick said.

JAPS FLEE BLAZING NAVAL AND AERIAL ASSAULT, LEAVING KEY BASE ENTIRELY UNDEFENDED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—American and Canadian forces, their enemy fled without offering final battle, stood undisputed masters of Kiska tonight and the once ambitious Japanese invasion of North America lay a bombed and bombarded failure.

"No Japanese were found." With those words the navy told today of seizure on Aug. 15 of the once strong enemy air and submarine base in the Aleutian Islands.

Two weeks of the heaviest bombings yet carried out against the Japanese preceded the landings, the navy disclosed in lifting the silence that has cloaked North Pacific actions for three weeks. It explained this silence was prompted by a belief the Japanese radio equipment had been smashed and the navy wished to supply Tokyo with no news.

In 14 days—August 1 to 14— heavy and light bombers, dive bombers, fighter planes, cannon carrying planes roared down on Kiska 106 times. They dumped tons and tons of bombs on the

More Cuts In Gas Ration For Texans Seen

By The Associated Press A forecast of more restrictions on civilian driving and a warning that a definite gasoline shortage threatens along the Gulf Coast today (Sunday) faced Texas motorists as the state prepared to produce more crude oil per day in September than ever before in its history.

From an emergency conference in Oklahoma City of representatives of 26 oil producing associations came the grim prediction that civilian gasoline consumption probably will be reduced again unless crude prices are increased to encourage new drilling.

Called by the Independent Petroleum Association of America, the conference voted to ask congress to override the Office of Price Administration on the long debated crude price issue.

As the railroad commission ordered an increase of 93,000 barrels a day in Texas' September oil flow, an official of the Petroleum Administration for War asserted in Houston that "despite the huge concentration of oil fields, tank farms and refineries along the Texas-ouisiana Gulf Coast, a definite gasoline shortage threatens."

This official, who declined to permit use of his name, said in an interview: "While it is true that crude runs are greater now than formerly, so many other products are made from petroleum that the portion available for motorcar gasoline is less."

The railroad commission placed Texas, daily oil quota for next month at 1,940,000 barrels while P.A.W. pinpointed Texas as the nation's sole oil producing area capable of greater production.

The new allowable, said the commission, is the highest in the state's history.

BIG SPRING COMPRESS COMPANY IS SOLD TO LARGER TEXAS CONCERN

Announcement of sale of the Big Spring Compress Co. (Inc.) to Arch S. Underwood, head of a string of compresses and warehouses, was made here Saturday.

Deeds effecting transfer of the concern from local hands to the West Texas Compress and Warehouse Company Underwood's concern have been filed. All properties of the company, both on N. Gregg street where the original compress was destroyed, and in the northwest quarter of the city where the new compress unit together with a large battery of warehouses is located, have been conveyed in the trade.

300 Jap Planes Are Destroyed

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sunday, Aug. 22 (AP)—Thirty-three Japanese planes were shot out of the sky and 34 left in flames on the ground at Wewak, New Guinea, Saturday by American Mitchell bombers and Lightning fighters to increase enemy losses there since Tuesday to more than 300.

Attacking air reinforcements which the persistent Japanese moved in to replace a fleet virtually wiped out earlier in the week, the Mitchells went after the grounded planes while the P-38s battled two-to-one numerical odds in the air.

Augmenting this new air blow, big Liberators flew a roundtrip of more than 2,000 miles to heavily hit the enemy's nickel mining centers at Pomelean on the east shore of the Gulf of Bone, Dutch Celebes. Other American planes attacked enemy air bases in the Solomons.

A loading plant, warehouses and mills were targets smashed and an enemy transport plane was shot down.

At the time of the trade, R. Reagan was president of the company, Shoemaker vice-president and manager, and R. T. Piner secretary-treasurer.

During the 19 years it has operated here, the Big Spring Compress Company has handled untold thousands of bales of cotton and for many years was the only compress between Comodoro and El Paso. Its biggest runs, perhaps were in 1922 when 70,000 bales were processed and in 1941 when its historic cotton crop overflowed its warehouses and caused it to maintain a cotton yard jam-packed for a quarter of a section.

Third 'Hit Parade,' Film Attraction At The Ritz, Tops For All-Out Fun

'Two Senoritas' Provide Laughs At The Lyric

In "Two Senoritas From Chicago," showing today at the Lyric, three pretty girls are presented in search of fortune on the stage, and not particular how they get it. They provide laughter, music and beauty in the process, abetted by a competent production and aided above all by John P. Medbury's crackling dialogue.

The girls are Joan Davis, the comedienne, who is given top billing, and deserves it; Jinx Falkenburg, the former model; and Ann Savage. The last two as hotel chamber maids are "managed" by Miss Davis, who is in charge of the basement refuse room. Her ideas, all so vividly put, seem always to go wrong. But now, her discovery of a manuscript in Portuguese, seems to "land." Sent to Broadway producer Bob Haymes, it is taken by him for immediate production.

The three descend upon Broadway, Miss Falkenburg and Miss Savage as the Portuguese sisters of the playwright, who insist they be starred in the production. All proceeds well until near the opening, when the three discover Haymes' rival, Douglas Leavitt, is producing the same play from the original manuscript, with the consent of the real Portuguese playwrights. Unable to stage off the debacle, they go to jail. However, all ends happily when Haymes produces a different play with the same sets.

Played as fast farce, this should hit the customers' laugh jackpot. One scene, while old basically, seems certain to stretch the seams: it has Miss Davis talked back into jail by the defense lawyer whose insistence that she give no information to the police merely infuriates them.

PACIFIC NATIVES DONATE $194 TO U. S. RED CROSS

HEADQUARTERS, SOUTH PACIFIC FORCES—The good-neighbor policy as practiced in the Solomon Islands by the Navy has resulted in a tangible return to the American Red Cross in the shape of a $194.82 contribution from native tribes as well as vitally important co-operation with American forces, this headquarters reports.

The contribution to the Red Cross, collected in an advanced island post in the Solomons which has been the scene of recent action, was made in return for voluntary services rendered by Navy doctors to the natives. The money was presented by 44 Solomon chiefs representing hundreds of their people and was accepted for transmittal after consultation by the natives with Bishop Walter H. Baddeley, Anglican bishop of Melanesia.

The money was presented to John Carney, Alexandria, Va., director of the Red Cross in the South Pacific area, at this headquarters by Chaplain Lt. E. V. Best, USNR, San Diego, Cal. Pictures of the presentation will be forwarded with a duly authorized receipt to the native chiefs.

Navy officials emphasized the importance of the friendly feeling of the natives toward America, which resulted from the services of the Navy doctors. Nature of the services was not specified nor was the exact location of the island.

Hit Paraders—John Carroll is seen with a bevy of beauties in "Hit Parade of 1943," current attraction on the Ritz theater screen. The film stars Susan Hayward, Eve Arden and Walter Catlett.

Flying Fortress Is 'Star' Of Attraction On Screen At Queen

"Air Force," playing today at the Queen theatre and starring John Garfield with an outstanding supporting cast, is the story of Mary Ann, a Boeing B-17 bomber.

On December 6, 1941, her crew takes her off on a routine flight to Hawaii. When she arrives there, the Japanese have attacked. So, after re-fueling, her crew is ordered to head for Wake Island. At Wake, a Marine officer tells the crew they must be off to Manila within half an hour.

Arriving at Clark Field, Mary Ann's pilot brings her in safely in an emergency landing. When word comes that six enemy transports and an escort of destroyers have been sighted 40 miles off Lingayen, it is agreed that a flight of B-17s would "give them a nice party." But Mary Ann is the only bomber available.

Her crew takes her to the scene of action, where Jap Zero planes attack. Several abandon ship, but Garfield, an aerial gunner, brings her down safely, though somewhat damaged. Her crew sets about making repairs, robbing other wrecked ships of parts, despite orders that Mary Ann, along with all other damaged ships, be destroyed.

The Japanese arrive, and the patched ship goes up against them, then continues out to sea where she takes an active part in the Battle of the Coral Sea. Enemy machine guns and anti-aircraft fire knock out two of Mary Ann's motors, but she is landed safely

New Navy Personnel Figures Released

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Navy has reported that total personnel strength of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard is 2,248,400, instead of 2,666,500 as recently announced.

The totals, which include personnel of the WAVES but not of the main nurse corps or students in training, are Navy, 1,782,000; Marine Corps, 315,200; Coast Guard, 151,200.

The Navy also reported that by December 31, 1943, total strength of the three services would be increased to approximately 2,865,000. That total would include 201,000 navy officers and 2,093,000 enlisted personnel; 29,700 marine officers and 370,000 enlisted personnel; 10,500 coast guard officers and 161,000 enlisted personnel.

Republic's third "Hit Parade," now showing at the Ritz tops its predecessors like Cornelius Warmerdam clearing the pole vault bar at a new high.

It has John Carroll, Susan Hayward, Gail Patrick and Eve Arden sparkling like pre-war electricians over Tin Pan Alley.

It has three bands — Freddy Martin's, count Basie's and Ray McKinley's—and it has six songs by Jule Styne and Harold Adamson which are, in fact as well as in the story, Hit Parade caliber, plus a seventh by Andy Razaf and J. C. Johnson which fits into the picture like a ruby in a ring.

It has entertainers in profusion: Jack Williams, the Harlem Sandman; Dorothy Dandridge; Pops and Louis, dancers who defy the law of gravity; the Music Makers; the Three Cheers; Chinita, and the Golden Gate Quartette.

It has orchestration by Marlin Skiles and dance direction by Nick Castle which fascinate eye and ear.

Beyond and integrating all this, it has a story that makes not only sense but also entertainment. It was written by Frank Gill, Jr., who knows what dialogue is for, and directed by Albert S. Rogell for producer Albert J. Cohen.

The story is about a phoney songwriter, the girl from whom he steals his stuff, their associates and their romance. It's tops for the purpose and told interestingly.

Red Cross Field Office Performs Many Tasks

An important complement of the Big Spring-Bombardier School, and any army post for that matter, is the Red Cross field office directed here by Max J. Blue. Blue arrived in Big Spring on August 20, 1942, and during the year his office has handled 1,565 cases.

According to Blue's report of the number of cases handled, 180 were for hospitalized soldiers while the remainder concerned able bodied men.

Personal problems of soldiers accounted for 186 of the services while family problems accounted for 600 soldier visits to the office.

Family problems, by far the largest part of the cases handled, included reports on home conditions and questions of dependency discharge. Financial aid questions or health and welfare of servicemen's families accounted for 480 of the services.

Requests by the military for verifications as to emergency furloughs or extensions of furloughs amounted to 512 cases during the year while the filing of claims with Veterans Administration for discharged servicemen amounted to 20 cases.

The director's records for the year show that a total of 325 loans amounting to $9,878 were made while two grants of $180 were also given.

Paper work figures were large too, with the office receiving 2,068 letters and mailing out 1,998 responses. There were 703 telegrams sent out and 743 received and 250 long distance calls sent out and about that many received.

With regard to loans made, Blue's report points out that the loans were all for men on the field while the downtown Red Cross chapter handles all loans for maintenance of servicemen's families.

The field office does not record many of its cases that are handled on the spot and makes no notation of visits that are settled within a few minutes of conversation and there are many such calls made to office, according to Blue.

In addition to this, the office has handled many other things in the year, such as entertainment of hospitalized men, and equipping, in connection with the downtown chapter, seven sun rooms and the nurses' recreation room.

Hospitalized soldiers are furnished with such necessities as razors, blades, stationery and even radios for convalescent patients.

Wherever there are many men together there are many problems which arise concerning home, families, and money matters. A worried soldier is a worthless fighting man and the Red Cross field office steps in to smooth many a tangled affair and keep America's fighting men happy and unworried.

Plenty Of WASPS In Army Air Force

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Now there are WASPS—lots of them—in the army air forces.

That's the name which General Henry H. Arnold, AAF commander, has picked for the women pilots in the air forces, spelled out, WASP is Women's Airforce Service Pilot.

The WASP include pilots of the women's auxiliary ferrying squadron, formerly known as WAFs, those of the women's auxiliary flying training detachment, better known as WFTDs, and those assigned to other flying services within the air forces.

The WASPs wear a distinctive uniform, but serve in a civilian status and are not members of the armed services.

Miss Jacqueline Cochran, director of women pilots at AAF headquarters, will direct both the training and operations of the WASPs. Mrs. Nancy Harkness Love, who has directed the ferrying division of the air transport command, now is executive for WASP ferrying operations at Cincinnati, the war department announced.

Suicide is absolutely unknown among the Zuni Indians of New Mexico. The very idea is so remote from their habits that it arouses only laughter.

Big Town Medley—

Hollywood Pays Huge Sum For 'Junior Miss' Rights

NEW YORK — Hollywood is slinging that money around again—upward of $400,000. The dough is for the film rights to the play "Junior Miss" and it is the largest sum to date paid for any play.

United Artists will pick up the check and Mary Pickford, who has had a hankering for a long time to get into production, will produce the picture. The contract is an unusual one, giving Producer Max Gordon and his associates, including the authors of the play, Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov, a choice of $410,000 in outright payment, or a cash payment of $355,000 plus 35 per cent of the picture's net profits. By accepting the latter terms the owners would be likely to double that $410,000, although the income would be dragged out over several years. However, with the tax laws what they are, this would be all to the good, because there would be a wider spread of income, hence less taxes.

"Junior Miss" was an enjoyable comedy. It was played more than 700 performances here before it closed in July and road companies were kept busy for two seasons.

Before "Junior Miss" the high mark was $350,000, a point reached after a dozen years in which the prices for movie rights had climbed steadily upward from the once sensational sums of $75,000 or $100,000 for the best properties. When you consider that on many pictures Hollywood will pay a series of writers as much or more as they paid for the rights, to whip a stage script into film shape, it is easy to see how some of those million-dollar epics get that way.

Georgia Sothern, who achieved more than a little fame as a stripper, says that pin-up girls are out of date. It seems that a barrage balloon outfit on the West Coast wanted something more animated than a poster and sent along two reels of raw (she's a stripper, isn't she) film, asking that she record one of her routines on it and snip it back to them. Will do.

Fulton Oursler and Herbert Harris believe that the mystery play is about due for another whirl on Broadway and have formed a producing combine with a view to staging such. Oursler, of course, is an old hand at the game. He wrote a good mystery play, "The Spider," back in the '20s when such fare was in demand and, between magazine editing chores, has written many a detective novel under the name of Anthony Abbott.

A story going the rounds here, which seems to have escaped general attention last winter, when it was supposed to have occurred, concerns a commanding officer's desire to do something in the way of reward for a bombing crew just returned from a hazardous flight over Germany. He asked what they would like to have. One flier, his thoughts wandering far away, said he yearned to walk into a New York club once more and have just one drink. His mates agreed and in a trice the entire crew was flown to New York for the night's visit, and then flown right back again to its overseas bombing base.

Family Tragedy Almost Ruined Film Career

By ERNEST POSTER

HOLLYWOOD—When you're only in your teens, it's something to be the movie discovery of the year, to have a family tragedy take you from such fame and then to fight your way to a comeback, all within three years.

"Gee, it's good to be back," grinned 16-year-old Betty Brewer, the little girl who is making the comeback on the set of Columbia's "Without Notice."

A few weeks ago the studio tracked down Betty to offer her the current role just as she was about to forget all about the movies and go to work for a telephone company.

What precipitated Betty's sudden departure from the film scene a couple of years ago was the death of a beloved little brother.

"I left pictures when Sonny died," she says simply. She didn't add that the 10-year-old brother's sudden death made something die in her, too. It's obvious from the way she looks when she explains her absence.

"The whole family—well, we sort of decided we would move back up to Sacramento, where we had relatives."

Betty finished high school in Sacramento and set about getting herself a job. Her father's poor health made it necessary for her to help support the family once more. Jobs were not easy to get at the time, and the family moved back to Hollywood.

For all of her former taste of fame, little Betty, whose original success in the movies enabled her to take the family off the relief rolls, was timid about calling on her old acquaintances.

"I tried to see a few people, but there didn't seem to be much doing," she says.

But she needed a job, and landed one with the phone company.

"And then Columbia somehow found out where I was living. They had a part for somebody just like me in this picture," she continued.

"Everyone's been so swell, and I've met a lot of old friends, too."

KISKA RETREAT WAS FIRST BY JAPS

Special 'Mission, Planned To Speed Drive For Funds

Plans will be rounded out this week for a "saturation bombing mission" by Boy Scout leaders, aiming at meeting the district quota quickly in the Buffalo Trail council's annual fund drive.

Dates for the "mission" have been set for Sept. 2 and 3, and Elmo Watson, named a "colonel" and commanding officer of the effort by virtue of his commission as chairman of the finance committee, has lined up a staff to carry out the attack speedily.

His assistants will be "Lieut.-Col." A. V. Karcher and J. L. LeBlau. Public relations will be handled by Joe Pickle and Marjella McDonald while W. W. Inkman, G. H. Hayward and R. T. Piner are to serve as finance officers.

The heavy bomber group, contacting the larger donors, will be composed of R. L. Tollett, Ira Thurman, and C. S. Blomshield. Intelligence will be handled by Ira Thurman, W. B. Hardy and A. S. Darby.

Squadron leaders will be Stoney Henry, Bill Tate, Cliff Wilcox, R. B. Reeder, Mrs. J. C.

Velvin and Mrs. C. J. Staples. In turn, each squadron leader will select a pilot who will have five crew members to assist. The organization is so set up that 155 workers probably will be in the field and no individual will have more than six contacts to make.

Simultaneous "missions" will be carried out at Coahoma, Knott, and Forsan under direction of Walker Bailey. Subsequently, Stanton, other district point, will effect the final drive.

For Worthy Cause

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 21 (AP)—Dr. Cecil Bryan admitted at an Office of Price Administration hearing that he bought a beef carcass last May without surrendering ration points.

"I fed flood victims in my drug store. They had neither money nor ration points," Dr. Bryan said. His home-town folk at Vian, Okla., had no other food, he explained. The OPA took the case under advisement.

Core Of War Interest During Week Has Been Quebec Parley Series

By KIRK L. SIMPSON
QUEBEC, Aug. 21.—The Japanese retreat from Kiska, a stealthy, fog-shrouded flight from inevitable annihilation by American and Canadian troops, appeared a minor military incident in a war week bursting everywhere with bigger news except for its potential psychological significance, yet to be tested elsewhere in the Pacific on a larger scale.

The outstanding fact about that enemy evacuation of his last tiny, impotent foothold in the Aleutians was that it was a retreat, the first Japanese retreat of this war. Nipponese forces have heretofore mostly died where they stood on Guadalcanal, in New Guinea, on Munda, on Attu, wherever the tightening coils of Allied counter offensives have gripped them. The Tokyo war lords left them to emulate the motto of Napoleon's old guard that it could die but never surrender or retreat.

This time, and on Tokyo orders, the Japanese fled through the fog and the Nipponese futile but audacious attempt to threaten the western hemisphere with invasion or air attack was at an end. That makes Kiska regained the symbol of the ebbing axis tide in the Pacific as conquered Sicily symbolizes its backward flow in the Mediterranean, as Stalingrad marked the crest of German attack in Russia and tottering Kharkov its accelerating recession.

The core of war interest for the week, however, continued to be the Quebec war council of the Allied highest command. Not even the Russian offensive nor hints from London that a continental invasion by British-American forces was close at hand diverted either Allied or axis attention from the meeting here of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill to put their seal upon new strategic directives of global scope prepared by their military staffs.

What can be said to inform Allied publics of what has been planned and still retain the essential element of surprise when the contemplated new attacks are delivered in Europe, the Pacific or in eastern Asia, the two leaders will make known from here next week.

Drivers Must Drive Less Now

B. F. Robbins, local ration board chairman, notified motorists Saturday that the reduction of gasoline coupon value from four gallons to three gallons will mean that driving must be reduced to three fourths of the usual mileage.

This necessitated decrease, Robbins believes, will result in a saving of about 25 per cent in the tires now in use. The reduction in gasoline will be a forward step in conserving the few tires left for distribution, the chairman said, and is being done to meet a critical tire situation.

Board members also reminded motorists that their old style B and C coupons will not be valid after August 23, and must be renewed at the ration office.

The new type coupons must be endorsed with the license number of the car and the state. Many motorists have been endorsing the coupons on the back, it was explained, but must now have the endorsement on the front of the stamp. Gas and filling station attendants have been warned not to accept gas coupons without proper one is naphthalated worsted endorsement.

Wallace To Head War Loan Drive In Mitchell County

COLORADO CITY, Aug. 21.—R. J. Wallace of Colorado City has been named finance chairman of the Third War Loan drive and will head the drive, beginning Sept. 9, in Mitchell county. Wallace also directed the Red Cross drive which was over-subscribed. A. E. McClain, general chairman of all bond drives in the county, will work with him in plans for the sale of war bonds.

Members of the B&PW club here sold a total of $16,600 in bonds from booths set up at the Frontier Roundup grounds last weekend.

No Interest Charged

BOISE, Ida., Aug. 21 (AP)—A former old-age pensioner was too grateful, said Welfare Commissioner H. C. Baldrige. The pensioner mailed the state a check for $1,127, which was $2 more than he had received in state aid.

The state is refunding the $2.

New Quarters For Health Unit

The city-county health unit will have quarters to itself the first of the month.

City Manager B. J. McDaniel said Saturday that quarters had been rented on the first floor of the Read hotel building on Second street, and that on Sept. 1 all activities of the unit would be handled from there, including the venereal disease clinic.

The staff will include four people, and since all clinical work will be handled through them, additional space was necessary, McDaniel said.

Two Key Officers Perform Vital Work

The two key men in the department of training at the bombardier school under the director of training, Lieut.-Col. David Wade, are Major James F. Reed, director of flying and Major Gerald F. Keeling, director of maintenance and supply.

Major Reed is in charge of all flights, both training and cross-country at the bombardier school. He acts as assistant to Col. Wade and handles check rides on all cadets as well as recommendations on both cadets and pilots.

All accidents are checked through his office and under him are the three training groups, bombing trainer hangers, and photographic departments.

Major Reed received his B.S. degree from State College, Pa., and his flying training as pilot at Kelly Field. He resides here at 1206 Wood street with his wife and infant daughter, Anabelle.

Major Keeling, whose home is Fowler, Colo., superintends the maintenance of all airplanes on the line. He is also in charge of radio, armaments and supplies for the planes and is responsible to the director of training.

The department is in charge of inspecting all planes after every 50 and 100 hours of flight and designates which planes will be flown by the different flight groups.

Major Keeling was graduated from high school in Fowler, Colo., and from Colorado A. & M. at Fort Collins, where he took ROTC training for three years. He received his commission at Kelly Field in June 1940 and was stationed both at Midland and Randolph Fields before coming here.

Bible Has Record Squad, But Quality Is Unknown

Rehearsal For Navy Trainees Is Limited

AUSTIN, Aug. 21 (AP)—There were nearly enough navy boys present to launch a fleet let alone a football team when Head Coach Dana X. Bible and his staff began fashioning the University of Texas Longhorns of 1943.

Two-thirds of the 150 candidates who reported for the first session yesterday—"It's the largest squad I ever had"—were navy trainees, V-12 or ROTC.

But Bible knows little about this squad and is thankful the Southwest conference permitted an early training start "to get acquainted."

As in grid camps elsewhere, however, the situation is complex. Some of the boys will not be eligible to play until Nov. 1, by navy rule.

Like Cinderella, the navy trainees have to watch the clock. As a result practice sessions will be shorter than in other years.

FROGS DISBAND
FORT WORTH, Aug. 21 (AP)—The TCU football squad has completed its first phase of training and will suspend practice until Sept. 1, it has been announced by Coach Dutch Meyer.

"We will have a pretty fair xfirst string team," Meyer declared after watching 40 youngsters romp about in shorts for nearly three weeks. "After that I don't know."

Practice was suspended for 10 days because of a series of scholastic examinations while are coming up for most of the boys in school.

50 AT FAYETTEVILLE
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Aug. 21 (AP)—The University of Arkansas returns to the football practice grind Monday with the squad due to be increased to 50.

Thirty-six reported yesterday for the start of fall training among which was only one letterman, Ben Jones, Jr., an end. Also on hand were Back Buddy Davis and Tackle J. P. Carpenter of last fall's freshman team along with Jim Young, former Arkansas Tech tackle, and Lamar Dingler, former Murray, Okla., Aggies end.

The majority of candidates for the team either were not yet 18 years old or had been rejected for military service.

L. C. Wood New Coach At Mexia
MEXIA, Aug. 21 (AP)—L. C. Wood of Orange has accepted the dual post of athletic coach and high school principal at Mexia, school authorities announced today. He replaces Glenn Frazier, who resigned last spring to enter the armed services.

Boxing Matches For Bond Sales Proposed

Lady Bull Fighter Is Capturing All Honors South Of The Border

By HAROLD RATLIFF
BROWNSVILLE, Aug. 21 (AP)—The big attraction across the Rio Grande at Matamoros these Sundays is Conchita Cintron, the lady bull-fighter.

Conchita looks like a college co-ed, a bare five feet tall, a scant 110 pounds. The stranger is apt to feel sorry for her when she steps into the ring; but before the show is over, he's willing to acknowledge that it's the bull that could use the sympathy.

Conchita has flung her red robe high in victory over more than 800 bulls in her four years of professional bullfighting. For all her frail appearance, this pretty brown-haired, brown-eyed girl is one of the fiercest matadors in all Mexico.

Conchita is an American citizen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cintron. She was born in Chile and reared in Peru. She started fighting bulls at the age of 15 and is credited with introducing the combination of fighting bulls both on horseback and afoot. She always leaves the horse for the kill, although placing the "banderillas" in the bull's shoulders from the saddle. This is a beautiful execution, both by Miss Cintron and the horse.

Conchita fights every Sunday, seldom taking a vacation. This has meant more than 180 fights since her first professional appearance July 28, 1939, and she's looking forward to many more before she settles down to marriage and rearing a family. Conchita isn't even engaged and doesn't have any boy friends. She says she hasn't time for them.

"I will not marry until I am ready to quit the game," she says. But this is not because she considers bullfighting dangerous. Her earnings are large. She averages about 10,000 pesos per fight—around $2,000 in American money. For instance, some 4,000 watch her in Matamoros at an average of six pesos per person.

Trapshooters Will Contest

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 21 (AP)—This quiet Miami valley village of 300 dressed up today to greet thousands of visitors Wednesday, Thursday and Friday as the Amateur Trapshooting association presents its 44th annual grand American classic.

The clay-disc carnival took on a distinct Pan-American and service tinge, presaging plenty of which has been slashed from eight to three days, and from 1900 to 570 targets.

Havana is sending a team of Cubans, the usual contingent of Canadians will be on hand, and a temporary reservation has been made for a group from the Canal Zone.

A new championship race, for service men only, has been added to the program and will be decided over the 100-target route Wednesday.

Service Teams In Softball Tourney

HOUSTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Entries in the men's division of the Texas Amateur Softball association championship tournaments here Sept. 2-4-5 were boosted to 10 teams today.

The girls' tourney will be played concurrently with the men's. Three more service teams joined the list: Ellington Field Station Hospital, Camp Hulen of Palacios and Dod's Field Squadron 18-C of the Corpus Christi naval air station.

Houston Shipbuilders joined the civilian team list. Levingston Shipbuilders of Orange and Hughes Tool of Houston were the first civilian entries.

Early service entries were Blackland Army Air Field of Waco, McCloskey General Hospital of Temple, Randolph Field Ramblers of San Antonio and Camp Walters Reception Center of Mineral Wells.

The entry list will close Aug. 30. Entries should be mailed to John F. Reilly, City Hall, Houston. No entry fee is charged service teams. Mens and girls civilian teams are charged an entry fee of $15.

11th Series In A Row Captured By The Yankees

CLEVELAND, Aug. 21 (AP)—Circuit blows by Bill Dickey and Charlie Keller led the way today as the New York Yankees whipped Cleveland, 8 to 3, to capture their eleventh straight series.

The Yanks, with Hank Borowy effective in all but one stanza, sandwiched a five-run sixth inning between those drives over league park's high but close right field fence to make it three in a row after dropping the first two games of the series.

Keller's drive came with bases empty in the second. Jeff Heath matched it in the fourth with Roy Cullenbine on base, and the Tribe scored another on Buddy Rosar's single, a walk, sacrifice, and Ray Mack's fly. It was Jeff's fourth round tripper of the series and his sixth of the year against the Yanks, though his 1943 total is only 13.

The decisive fireworks came in the sixth as Pitcher Jim Bagby was chased to cover. Dickey's triple, doubles by Joe Gordon and Keller, and singles by Nick Etten and Frank Crosetti and two walks did the business. With Ray Post pitching in the next stanza and Nick Etten standing on first, Dickey made certain of the outcome by clubbing the 200th four-bagger of his long career, and his fourth of the season.

BUSH WINS ONE
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Louis (Buck) Newsom won his first game in eight starts for St. Louis in the eighth of a doubleheader today, downing the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 1, after long-range hitting earned the Browns a 5 to 3 decision in the opener. It was the fifteenth straight defeat for the Mackmen.

SOX BEST SENS
CHICAGO, Aug. 21 (AP)—Outfielder Wally Moses' single off reliever Alex Carrasquel in the ninth inning scored Vince Castino from second and gave the Chicago White Sox a 5 to 4 victory over Washington's Senators today.

BOSTON WINS IN 15TH
DETROIT, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox scored in the 15th inning on Catcher Paul Richards' error today to beat the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 6, despite Rudy York's 25th home run and additional Tiger circuit smashes by Richards and Ned Harris.

Rickey's Youth Movement In The Dodger Arena Proving A Success

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—When Branch Rickey started to turn the Brooklyn Dodgers inside out about a month ago the fanatic flatbush fans were wounded to the quick. But their wounds have been quick to heal through the spectacular play of the youngsters who were brought in during the housecleaning.

The customers who carried signs ridiculing Rickey and threatening to boycott Ebbets Field after Bobo Newsom, Joe Medwick, Dolph Camilli and other familiar stars had been shuttled off the scene now are turning out in bigger numbers than before.

The players who are responsible for this about-face are Luis Rodriguez Olmo, a Puerto Rican outfielder brought up from the Dodgers' Montreal farm club; Eugene Hermanski, another outfielder who came up from Durham in the Piedmont league; and Howard Schultz, a first baseman purchased from St. Paul.

Although it was announced only a week ago, the deal for Schultz already was on the fire when the Dodgers traded Camilli. The rookie first sacker, who is 8 feet 8 1/2 inches tall, made a double and a single and handled 15 fielding chances flawlessly when he joined the club last Monday.

Word of the great new first baseman the Dodgers had obtained spread like wildfire through Brooklyn that night and the next day more than 12,000 paying customers were in the stands. They still are talking about him.

Hermanski, 22, has become a regular and his slugging has been a feature of virtually every game in which he has played. And Olmo simply is leading the National league in batting during his short stay. His average is .367. The youth movement among the Dodgers is no joke anymore.

Bargain Golf Comes Through At Saratoga

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—A colt off the bargain counter brought his stretch-running zip to the transplanted Saratoga-at-Belmont race meeting today and all but chased the badly-faded Shut Out right out of the park.

Prinecillo is the gee-gee, and after letting Mrs. Payne Whitney's once-mighty Derby winner lead for a mile of the mile and a quarter, he won the 41st Saratoga handicap by six lengths, as Shut Out wobbled in last in a field of three, before a crowd of 29,708, who bet $2,073,563.

Prinecillo is owned by the Charles S. C. Boone Hall stable partnership of Georgian Prince Dmitri Djordjades and Argentine Horseman Horatio A. Luro. They claimed him for $2,500 a year ago from Tony Pelletieri, New Orleans sportsman, and, with today's $15,200 pay check, they've won $31,865 with him.

Jockey Conn McCreary steered him to the wire in 2:01 4-5 for a new stakes record. Townsend Martin's Bolinbroke was second. With the odds-on choice last, Prinecillo returned $6.90 for each $2 win ticket.

WINNER AT 15-1
DETROIT, Aug. 21 (AP)—A 15-1 field horse, Mrs. F. H. Augustus' Fiddler's Bit, ran off with the $10,000 Gen. Eisenhower handicap before 13,427 fans at the state fairgrounds today and paid $33.40 straight.

Ad Topperweins To Show Shooting Skill To Soldiers Monday

Two of the most famous marksmen in the world, Mr. and Mrs. Ad Topperwein, will demonstrate their prowess with rifle, pistol and shotgun for men of the Big Spring Bombardier school Monday evening.

The Topperweins will appear for the soldiers only, at the school's skeet range at 6:30 p. m. Topperwein is a holder of 14 world records, and is famed for various trick shots as well as for his accuracy. Mrs. Topperwein is an expert in her own right, and holds a record run of 367 straight birds in skeet shooting.

One of Topperwein's most spectacular records is his shooting for ten days straight, eight hours a day, when he fired 72,500 shots at 2 and one-fourth inch square blocks tossed into the air, using .22 rifles. He missed nine of the 72,500, and one uninterrupted run of 14,650 without a miss.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21 (AP)—Ray Hamrick, the Phillies' $25,000 rookie shortstop from Nashville, came through with his first and second major league hits today to lead Freddie Fitzsimmons' team to a 3-2 triumph over the world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Also performing brilliant defensively as the Phillies copped the rubber game of the Cards' five-game final appearance of the season in Shibe Park, young Hamrick singled in the first inning and romped home when Buster Adams clouted one of Harry Brecheen's offerings for a home run against the left field stands.

This 3-0 lead held until the Cards tied the count in the sixth on Walker Cooper's homer into the left field pavilion in the wake of a double by Stan Musial, who collected three hits in four times at bat to boost his league-leading batting mark from .348 to .355.

Schoolboy Rowe was lifted into the win column for the 12th time, thereby winning another $100 bonus from the Phillies, when Hamrick singled sharply to left in the eighth inning to send Merrill May winging home with the deciding run.

CUBS SWAMP BUMS
BROOKLYN, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs walloped the Dodgers, 13 to 1, today behind the seven-hit pitching of Lon Warneke. Stan Hack hit his third homer of the year in the ninth inning.

BRAVES EDGE CINTX
BOSTON, Aug. 21 (AP)—The Boston Braves were inhospitable hosts to the Cincinnati Reds today, edging them out in a 3-2 victory in their last visit this season as Nate Andrews won his tenth game for the Braves.

PIRATES BEAT GIANTS
NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—A ninth inning home run by Catcher Al Lopez with one on gave the Pittsburgh Pirates an uphill 4 to 3 victory over the Giants today. Harry Feldman shut out the Pirates until the eighth when they scored two unearned runs.

Southern Loop Drops All Bans On Eligibility

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 21 (AP)—The Southern conference, seeking a boost tottering football over the war hurds, voted today to suspend all of its eligibility rules so that the sixteen member schools can use any available athletes, including service men, in intercollegiate athletics.

The measure was attacked in brick debate before it was approved by an 8 to 5 margin and immediately afterwards Coach D. S. McAllister of the Citadel shouted that the action, "in effect, abolishes the Southern conference."

Athletic Director R. A. Fetter, University of North Carolina, argued that other major conferences already had taken similar steps and Athletic Director Eddie Cameron, Duke, asked "why put a tacular records in his shooting for ten days straight, eight hours a day, when he fired 72,500 shots at 2 and one-fourth inch square blocks tossed into the air, using .22 rifles. He missed nine of the 72,500, and one uninterrupted run of 14,650 without a miss.

Pastors Map Plans For Co-Operative Revival

Big Spring pastors Friday mapped plans for a cooperative revival meeting and tentatively set plans for the campaign for Nov. 14-28. Dr. Frank C. Brown, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Dallas, is to be invited to conduct the meeting. No choice for the music director has been announced. The pastors' association also voted to continue sponsorship of the Bible classes at the high school. The Rev. James C. Moore, First Presbyterian pastor, was selected as the instructor of the class, cost of which is borne by the association and churches represented in it. Another development at the Friday session was an agreement on a community union service each fifth Sunday with the initial such meeting set for the First Baptist church this month.

Rev. Lightfoot goes to Salem Baptist church in northeastern Howard county for a week's assignment starting this evening. "Mind" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read at the Church of Christ, Scientist, today at 217 1-2 Main street. Golden Text is "Great is our Lord, and of great power; his understanding is infinite." (Ps. 147:5). Bible citations include Ps. 119:130 citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, includes: "Fey deny the hypothesis that intelligence, apart from man and matter, governs the universe; and it is generally admitted that this intelligence is the eternal Mind or divine Principle, Love."

Mexico Threatened By Monetary Crisis

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21 (AP)—Mexico moved to meet a monetary crisis today by imposing a heavy export tax on silver products and suspending temporarily a contract which promised all surplus silver production to the United States. The new tax of 44.50 per cent on exported silver was imposed to make it unprofitable for Mexicans to melt down silver money for shipment to the U.S. as bullion. The government said much money was being fashioned into crude jewelry in order to take advantage of the exemption of jewelry from export duty.

West Texas Potatoes Sold DALLAS, Aug. 21 (AP)—Sixty-seven carloads of West Texas Irish potatoes had been purchased in the Hereford-Muleshoe-Plainview area today and most of the products are already on the way to dehydration and canning plants. Regional Food Distribution Administration Director L. J. Capleman said.

Colored Minister To Lead Gospel Meeting

The Church of Christ at 14th and Main is bringing Henry C. Tiner, colored minister from Tulsa, Okla., here for a gospel meeting which starts Thursday. "Tiner," said J. D. Harvey, minister of the Church of Christ, "is a cultured, refined and educated Christian. He knows his Bible and how to preach to and reach his race, and has led many of its members to Christ." The meeting will be an open air affair located in the 800 block of NW 5th street.

DEATH TOLL NOW IS KEARNEY, N. J., Aug. 21 (AP)—The search for victims of the explosion and fire at the Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., plant here ended today with the recovery of two additional bodies from the wreckage of building No. 12. This raised the death toll to 12.

The People of Big Spring Are Lucky!

While many towns are unfortunate in that they do not have enough doctors to take care of them, Big Spring does have enough doctors to take care of us adequately — if their time is not wasted.

Seven Take Part In Night's Hike

Nine boys and two leaders participated in a Boy Scout overnight hike to the scout hut in the park Friday evening. Games featured the program, and boys prepared their own meals under the direction of Roy Ayers, scoutmaster, and Fayne Coffman, assistant.

Cautious Ruling

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21 (AP)—The provisional chamber of deputies has voted not to permit claimants to seats in the congressional body to enter with guns. The action was taken after the death of a candidate who shot himself in the chamber after his opponent was declared elected. Car "Deadly Weapon" TOLEDO, O. — An automobile was classified as a deadly weapon in an indictment returned recently against Richard Palm, 24, charged with a "deliberate attempt" to kill Virginia Wylie, 22, after she rejected him as a suitor.

Troops in regions where it is too cold to shave are issued beard clippers.

Is there anything beyond the grave? That is the question which members of the First Methodist congregation have asked their pastor, the Rev. H. C. Smith, to prove in his sermon Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The pastor announced Saturday that he would give his sermon on the topic, "Life After Death," and anyone interested in hearing the proof of life beyond death is invited to attend.

At the Trinity Baptist church today the Rev. Roland C. King, pastor, will fill the pulpit in both morning and evening worship hours. He has returned from a revival assignment and leaves soon on others.

Wesley Methodist church is midway in its revival meeting today with the Rev. Frank Beauchamp, Abernathy, as the preacher. The West Side Baptist church is ending a one-week revival with the Rev. A. A. Watson leading as is the Elbow community church with the Rev. A. B. Lightfoot, Marshall, as revivalist.

William Lyon Phelps Is Taken By Death

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 21 (AP)—Dr. William Lyon Phelps, 78, Yale's unofficial "ambassador-at-large," distinguished man of letters, author, lecturer and intimate of the great in all fields of endeavor, died today at his home, two months after he suffered a stroke.

Yale's perennial "most popular" member of the faculty, from which he retired 10 years ago, rallied sufficiently early last month to be removed from the hospital to his home. He never regained his power of speech, however, and had been critically ill since Thursday.

Phelps' interests were universal and men and women in all walks and stations of life knew "Billy" as a friend.

Wall Street

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 (AP)—Further light selling gave the stock market another jolt today and leaders finished a generally unsatisfactory week with losses of fractions to 2 or more points.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off 4 of a point at 49.4; 100 of the week showed a net loss of 2. Of 654 individual issues traded, 438 were down, 71 up and 145 unchanged. Transfers totaled 326,450 shares against 209,800 last Saturday.

Prominent on the retreat were Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Du Pont, Dow Chemical, Pan American Airways, United Aircraft, J. I. Case, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Paramount Pictures and American Can.

Steels, coppers, utilities, oils and golos generally held to a narrow range. Minor advances were retained by American Telephone, standard Oil (N.), Anaconda and Sperry.

Buying of stocks in the peace category, in addition to rails, gave the market a mildly rising tinge Tuesday and Wednesday. The outside got under way Thursday without touching off any real liquidation. Volume failed to reach the 600,000-level in any session. Dividends and earnings statements aided some favorites. The forthcoming tax program, the big bond drive and the reassembling of congress next month served to instill considerable caution in board rooms. Bonds declined with stocks.

TRANSPORTATION OFFICE HANDLES MANY ACTIVITIES

One of the busiest spots on the field of the Big Spring AAFBS is the rail and commercial transportation office headed by Major Lewis P. Blanton, a native Texan, who was born in Waco.

Major Blanton's duties are wide and varied and included handling of all carload and less-than-carload freight received and shipped from the post. The freight must be checked for shortage, damage, etc., and the office must see that all cars are loaded and unloaded so that badly needed equipment will not be needlessly delayed.

Also, all troop movements, regardless of size, are made through this office and it is the duty of the office to procure equipment sufficient to accommodate each movement.

Trucks are used in transportation of all freight where there is some advantage to the government. And all details of governing freight hauled by trucks to and from the post come under Major Blanton's jurisdiction.

Bus transportation is used, too, where time can be gained, and smaller shipments, more valuable and fragile items are shipped by express. Larger shipments are also made by express when the time element is of grave importance.

The rail transportation office issues government bills of lading on all freight leaving the post regardless of the mode of transportation or method of sending and this paper work must be handled by the Major and his staff.

In addition, government transportation requests are issued by the office for the transportation of all military and civilian personnel traveling under orders from the post and equipment and accommodations for this travel are procured by the office.

All this movement of men and material means many records which must be kept by the office.

The major completed his high school work in Waco and spent two years at Texas A. & M. where he participated in football and baseball.

He had ROTC training in college and was commissioned at Longview, his home town, in June of 1942.

In civilian life he was an oil man and his business training has been of assistance in the duties of his present office. For hobbies, Major Blanton lists hunting, fishing and golf. He resides here with his wife, son Ronald Perry, 7, and daughter, Jane, 3.

It's A Hit!—Swimming along barely above the slushy bed of One Mile lake, west of Big Spring, an AT-11 releases its bomb for skip-bombing a target. The results are shown in this remarkable air corps photograph which registers the splash of the bomb in the water approaching the target (left), the smashed left standard of the target, a smoke trail on the right and finally the bomb sailing parallel to the water (inset) while the plane zooms up and away. The shot was registered a week ago during the fifth bombing olympics here.

Bombardier School's Post Theatre Is Tops With Trainees Here

When mention of Texas creates a dither in the audience and particularly when home states or cities are named and it takes from two to three minutes to get silence, you'll know the place is the Post Theatre at the Big Spring Bombardier School.

Operated completely by military personnel, the theatre opened in January and has run continuously with two shows nightly at 8 and 8 o'clock and 3 matinees weekly on Tuesday, Wednesday and Sunday at 1:30. On Fridays along with the regular run is the radio show "Bombapoppin'" at 7:30 p. m. The theatre is considered the "best entertainment bet on the field" by the servicemen stationed here.

"With air conditioning, curtains, complete lighting, stereopticon machine, public address system, and finished landscape, all provided from dividends received from the theatre box office, our theatre has proved to be one of the best," stated Lieut. John J. Auerbach, theatre officer and assistant special service officer. Also, extra properties and fixtures make it possible for stage shows, large and small, to be presented.

Two experienced projectionists, Cpl. Thorne Nogar and Pfc. Hancel Cardin, with Cpl. David Baker, assistant theatre manager, compose a part of the staff. The theatre also houses the Art Section of the Special Service Department, which produces art work and posters of various kinds for all departments and activities around the camp. Sgt. Nank Coffman is in charge of the art work and is assisted by Pvt. Arthur Siemers. Doing an excellent job in keeping the grounds and theatre in good condition are Pfc. James Johnson and Pvt. George McDaniel, both colored soldiers.

Preferred shows are comedies with plenty of music, singing, and dancing. Melodramas and mysteries rank next.

Only first-run pictures are shown and the majority of the pictures are seen earlier than in the larger cities. The movies are generally well in advance of the local theatres for the civilian population of Big Spring.

Presentations are under the supervision of United States Army Motion Picture Service which arranges bookings, dates, and selects all pictures shown at army camps. The soldiers are offered a coupon book at a reduced rate of $1.25 for 10 tickets or they may purchase tickets at the door for 15c.

Nope, it's not Franchot Tone or Cary Grant—it's Bugs Bunny who ranks highest with the men at the post. Favorite actors and actresses with the servicemen here total about 40.

The theatre not only serves as movie house but is used for training films, lectures, USO shows, graduations and other affairs.

Parachutes Have To Be Perfect The First Time

Life may hang by a tiny, silken thread when a man makes a leap from a stricken plane, and the big responsibility of the parachute department of the Big Spring Bombardier School is to make sure that the thread holds.

The remarkable safety record of only one fatality—and that of a pilot who did not hit the silk—stands partly as a tribute to the work of the parachute department where the "life rafts" of the air are kept in perfect condition.

Every 10 days the parachutes in use at the post are given routine inspection and once every 60 days they are laid out, thoroughly inspected and carefully repacked. This runs about 300 per month and of the number perhaps 20 will call for repairs or replacements.

This work is done on three machines in the hands of expert craftsmen. One machine is for canvas work, another for leather and the third for silk.

Parachutes come in basic types for seat, back or chest carry and vary in weight from 20 pounds to 25 pounds and in canopy spread from 24 to 28 feet.

Sixty-five yards of pure white silk go into each parachute, which gets a drop test with a 115-pound dummy once every two years for the first four years and once a year thereafter. Life depends on these—and they must work the first time.

Talent—Certainly no shortage of talent exists at the Big Spring Bombardier School, and those who possess it have aided generously in staging programs to maintain and boost morale of men on the post. Typical of among the most popular of the entertainers is Cpl. Phil Tucker, above, in one of his lighter (?) moments.

Plan New Northwest Road

NEW YORK — Pacific Northwest businessmen plan to finance a feeder road to connect with the Alaska Highway at Dawson Creek, B. C., to accommodate traffic from the Portland - Seattle - Vancouver area, according to Business Week magazine. British Columbia already has pledged $6,000,000 to pay for one-third of the road.

Every major division of geologic time is represented in California by marine deposits.

Balanced Physical Training Program

Uncle Sam needs men to fight a war, and accent is on MEN.

It makes no difference if the job is playing nursemaid to a bomber trainer, commanding a squadron, or herding a tank—condition is one of the most important things the army wants out of its men.

Lieut. James W. Tolbert, director of physical training, is attending to this little chore nicely at the Big Spring Bombardier School. In a year's time he has set up a balanced program of physical training, much of it the recreational way. Lieut. Hank Greenberg, the burly Detroit slugger who became district PT officer, found little occasion to hang around after looking over the program here.

Although Lieut. Tolbert has provided for basketball, softball, baseball, boxing, wrestling, calisthenics, volleyball, badminton, track and field events, and a host of other activities, his pride and joy is the obstacle course.

His boast is that when a "man takes the course in stride, he is a man."

And no wonder, for the course contains four vaults from four to five feet in height, a 14-foot rope climb, a series of parallel bars for stiff-arm walking, stacks of logs, a wood maze, overhead bars, a wire entanglement crawl, hurdles, post to post jumps and finally a twisting board walk.

August Term Of Co. Court Ends

Howard county August term of court adjourned Friday with the settlement of a civil suit and will not be in session again until October.

The jury returned a judgment in favor of the plaintiff in the suit of C. F. Morris versus C. L. Rowden, suit on debt, and awarded the plaintiff the sum of $103.71 with six per cent interest accruing from August 21 and cost of suit.

Buck Jasper, negro, charged with selling liquor on Sunday, was filed on in county court Saturday.

Truman Committee Investigates Wright Production Drop

CINCINNATI, Aug. 20. (AP)—Major General Oliver P. Echols, assistant chief of air staff, Washington, testified today production of the Wright Aeronautical corporation plant in nearby Lockland fell to one-sixth its former pace after release of Truman committee report that defective engines were being turned out.

Echols, also head of the army air force procurement staff, said as a Truman senate investigating committee hearing got under way that the company management tried to blame the army for interfering with production by requiring a "too rigid inspection procedure" and an effort to get a high degree of interchangeability in the engine-parts.

Florida produces 60 vegetables and 75 varieties of fruits and nuts sold commercially.

Services Today For John Foster Horner

Funeral services for John Foster Horner, who succumbed at his home here early Friday, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Eberly chapel with Rev. W. L. Porterfield, pastor of the Wesley Methodist church, officiating, assisted by Rev. R. Elmer Dunham of the East Fourth Street Baptist church.

Burial will be in the city cemetery.

Mr. Horner, 68, a carpenter, had resided in Howard county for more than 40 years. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, two grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

ERRONEOUS REPORT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—War department records showed today that an Associated Press dispatch received yesterday from Allied headquarters in North Africa reporting the death of General Louis Marie Koeltz, commander of the French nineteenth army corps, was erroneous.

Air Force Members Have Been Taking Stiff Physical Tests

If the tempo of some of the officers and enlisted men at the Big Spring bombardier school seems a little slower this week and men of the military are moving about a little "creakingly," don't be alarmed, for there is an explanation.

The entire personnel of the field, up to men 45 years of age, have been taking their physical fitness tests which are to be sent to the Gulf Coast office for recording.

The tests include three types of exercises, the sit-ups, the pull-ups and the shuttle run.

The sit-up is done lying prone on the floor, hands clasped behind the neck. With someone sitting on your legs, you rise to sitting position as many times as possible. The score, and you might try this yourself, is as follows:

1 time to 19 times, very poor; 21 to 30 poor; 31 to 50 good; 52 to 69 very good and 79 to 114 excellent.

Pull-ups or chinning a bar, which consists of grasping a bar overhead and pulling yourself up chin high is scored as follows:

1 to 3 times, very poor; four to seven, poor; eight to 11, good; 12 to 15 very good; and 16 to 24 excellent.

The last test is the shuttle run, which consists of running 50 yards and back for a total of 300 yards. Times for this test are 63 seconds to 70 seconds, very poor; 56 to 62 poor; 55 to 48, good; 47 to 43 very good; and 42 to 34 excellent.

The majority of men came through the tests with flying colors or at least an average score but there is a rumor going around that two men landed in the hospital for general overhauling after taking the tests!

Shows Logged In Cosden No. 1 Conrad

Shows have been logged in the Cosden No. 1 Conrad, test three miles north of the Vincent pool, and it is drilling ahead below 4,100 feet.

First show in the test, which formerly was abandoned at a more shallow depth, was from 4,068-73 feet and the second just below 4,100 feet. This compares favorably with the Cosden & Gutherie No. 1 Allen, discovery well in the Vincent pool.

A diagonal southeast offset the Cosden No. 1 Chester Jones, was still cleaning out following a shot and its reaction was not yet determined.

Magnolia No. 1 Willis Winters, directly south of the No. 1 Allen and in the northeast corner of section 6-25, H&TC, was below 3,059 feet. Coffield and Gutherie No. 1 Guffey, direct east offset in the southwest corner of section 58-20, LaVaca, was fishing at 3,618 feet while Cosden & Gutherie No. 12 Allen, a diagonal northwest offset in the southeast quarter of section 57-20, LaVaca, was making hole below 3,335 feet.

Cosden No. 1 Willard Read, in the northwest quarter of section 48-30-1n, T&P, was still cleaning out by reverse circulation following a shot while Cosden No. 2 Read, in the same quarter, was below 690 feet. Ray Oil Co. filed application for its No. 2 Willard Read, a 3,000-foot test, 990 feet from the north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 37-30-1n, T&P.

Cosden and Gutherie No. 1 R. L. Solomon, C SW SE section 71-97, Mitchell county near the Cuthbert community, was reported making hole around 3,300 feet after setting five-inch string at 3,272 feet.

Sinclair No. 2 Emma Davis, in the southwest quarter of section 44-30-1n, had pulled 8 5/8 inch string and was preparing to pull 10 3/4 inch pipe at 2,700 feet in brown lime. The test is two locations east of the No. 1 Davis, which rated 495 barrels natural at 2,536 feet. In the southeast quarter of the section M. & M. No.

Mail from Home In magic medicine for the vast majority of men, and during the first year of operation here, the Big Spring Bombardier School branch postoffice has maintained a remarkable record of efficiency in getting packages and letters to Johnny Doughboy and his officers. Pictured here are clerks busy around the rush Christmas season. In addition to distributing incoming mail, the office quickly dispatches hundreds of letters daily and handles an imposing volume of money orders to the "folks back home."

Lives Pledged—These cadets of the first class ever to go through the Big Spring Bombardier School are shown in a pose which is typical of more than a dozen groups which have followed them—that of taking the bombardier's oath in which they pledge to protect the secrets of American bombights with their lives if necessary. This is a solemn moment for cadet bombardiers—for with it comes the realization that "the chips are down."

New High School Students Urged To Register Early

All students who are entering high school here for the first time in September and who were not last spring enrolled in the Big Spring school system were urged Saturday by John A. Coffey, high school principal, to register in advance of the opening of school.

"Unless these new students do this," he said, "it will be impossible to take them before the middle of the opening week of school."

His request does not apply to members of the freshman class who are coming up from the 8th grade, unless they failed to fill out a request for subjects last spring. It would apply to all students moving into the city, and to any student whose schedule requirements have changed since last spring, due to summer school courses or any other cause.

It is estimated there are now 20,000,000 Victory gardens in the United States.

Mechanics contribute greatly to the vital training program of the army and certainly the remarkable flying record of the Big Spring Bombardier School. Not only are men assigned to the "line" for maintenance work on planes at the school, but they are constantly schooled in mechanics. Here Sgt. Elbert E. Miller, Myerdale, Pa., is instructing Privs. Paul Robertson, Mount Sterling, Ky., Donald Michaelson, Calumet, Mich., and Johnny Nokes, Snyder, Texas, in the fine points of repair work. More than 375 men have been given this special training in the Post Aircraft Mechanics School since its institution last December.

Municipal Employees Meet For Barbecue

Employees of the city of Big Spring forgot municipal cares for a time Saturday evening to enjoy a barbecue at the city park, staged by the "boss."

The group gathered for the feast at 8 p. m., and later went to the country club for games and dancing.

Debt Case To Jury

The suit of C. F. Morris versus C. L. Rowden, for debt, went to the jury Friday afternoon in Howard county after arguments were completed and charges drawn up.

E. E. Matthews, charged with driving while intoxicated, filed a motion for continuance which Judge James T. Brooks is to consider this afternoon.

MESSAGE BRINGS HOPE TO MISSING FLIER'S PARENTS

COLORADO CITY, Aug. 21.—A letter from Captain Thomas Wainright, intelligence officer of the army air corps, this week brought the family of Tech Sgt. William (Archie) Mohler further hope that perhaps the missing flier still lives somewhere in enemy territory. Sgt. Mohler has been missing since a mission in the North African sector June 17 and no word of his having been taken prisoner has yet reached his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mohler.

Captain Wainright's letter said in part: "On the date on which he was reported missing, Sgt. Mohler, was a gunner on a medium bomber on a mission over axis territory in the Mediterranean. In the target area the bomber formation was attacked by many enemy fighters and although 14 of them were destroyed, they succeeded in shooting down the plane in which your brother was flying. He was seen at his guns firing at the enemy until his pilot ordered the crew to abandon ship. Thereafter several parachutes were seen to come out of the bomber before it crashed."

"Your brother was very highly esteemed for his ability and courage. We have hopes that he survived the destruction of his plane. If he is a prisoner of the enemy you should be informed in due course by the adjutant general's office, Washington."

The grim business of war has its lighter side. And it takes no battery of psychiatrists to prove it to the American sense of humor. Ever since the first American became an American, the right to find laughter even in the most somber of occasions has been a national birthright. Buckling down to the business of winning a war is no way hindered by finding a belly laugh somewhere in the same reason.

The first shock of Pearl Harbor found little humor on the American scene. But as the months rolled by, cold determination added a little warmth. Songs that waved the flag also had a good natured kick in the pants for the top sergeant. Radio programs that asked you to buy war bonds included a hysterically funny skit on K. P. duty. And Hollywood tempered its calamity clad epics with the uproarious antics of buck privates. Call it what you will, yet there seems little doubt that the American sense of humor is most sophisticated. It has the adult ability to couple its tears and cheers.

One of Uncle Sam's favorite nephews decided that the seriousness of being a soldier had a silver lining of laughs tucked away somewhere within the folds of the Manual of Arms. His hunch paid off in hysterical dividends to the tune of something like a quarter of a million dollars. Private Hargrove, newspaperman and local wit got himself caught in the draft and wound up not only a good soldier but a quarter-of-a-millionaire for a chore that was whipped up under the title of "See Here, Private Hargrove."

The book became not only a best seller but the basis for a motion picture now being produced at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Robert Walker, Donna Reed and Keenan Wynn. You'll best remember Walker as the kid in "Captain." "Private Hargrove" should definitely establish him as a star. The picture is best described as "how not to become a soldier." It shows the comedy antics of a dyed in the wool civilian becoming a dyed in the wool soldier. The dyeing process is a belly laugh from start to finish.

Anyone who tells you that war has no lighter side is either a die-hard pacifist or completely lacks a good old fashioned slice of American humor.

Ann Miller gets another top billing in Columbia's "What's Buzzin' Cousin?"

Paramount's production, "Standing Room Only" features this lovely girl in native costume. She's Marie MacDonald.

"I Dood It"

By Jerry Cahill

"I Dood It!" That expression which has been popularized by Red Skelton is the title of his latest picture—and after you see it, you'll want to see it again, since you will miss most of the dialogue which will be drawn by the roars of laughter from the audience. In fact, it's the funniest picture Red Skelton has ever made.

Red is a pants presser who has access to the clothes, which he uses to go to the theatre where Eleanor Powell is appearing in a Civil War melodrama. He is hopelessly enamored of the actress and hasn't missed a performance of the play. Things happen fast and furious and before he knows it, he is married to her, since her boy friend has been captured by another woman. The plot thickens when a saboteur convives to have Red play his role in the play, while he does the dirty work. But Red foils him, becomes a hero and things work out fine.

In this picture Red Skelton has ample opportunities and he takes advantage of all of them. His bit of business of putting his bride to bed after she has taken a doped drink meant for him, will be a scene which will cause much howling every time it is remembered.

Eleanor Powell gives the best account of her career—in her dancing, which includes some intricate routines, and in her comedy sequences. She will win many more admirers. Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra come in for a good share of the spotlight, along with soloists Helen O'Connell and Bob Eberly. Here is music with charm. The entertainment found in the picture is terrific—there's the ivory tickling of Hazel Scott, as only she can do it; Lena Horne delivers her song, "Jericho," with a Negro chorus as you have never heard it before.

Others who shine in the cast are Richard Arlley, Patricia Dane (she is the other woman—and what a woman!) Sam Levene, Thurston Hall, Andrew Tombes and Butterfly McQueen. Director Vincent Minelli deserves lots of praise for his merchandising. This is his second job in this capacity and he has all the makings of a top-notch director.

Don't keep away when "Salute to the Marines" plays your theatre; if you do, you will miss a thrilling adventure which will keep you fast from beginning to end. True, it's a war picture, and some of you have written to the effect that you are tired of such entertainment. But when a picture is done right, it makes no difference what subject it treats. This is one of those pictures.

Wallace Beery is a crack drill sergeant who has been in service for thirty years, and who fears that he will be retired without foreign action ribbons on his chest. Then comes the fateful day of December 7th. The sergeant distinguishes himself by leading a magnificent delaying action.

Beery is the central figure in the picture, adding a performance of distinction to his career. Fay Bainter is the wife, and Marilyn Maxwell is the daughter (she adds beauty and gives a darn good performance); William Lundigan and Donald Curtis are the boys who love her. Keye Luke gives a colorful portrayal of the Filipino prize fighter who is Beery's protégé.

Speaking of Glamour

By Frances Scully

Femme favorites whose pictures are the "pin-up" favorites of service men do plenty of "pin-up" work at home as they sew salvaged materials into smart ensembles. Joan Blondell took "material" advantage of surplus materials in the long evening gowns that she converted into daytime outfits for her countless camp-show appearances. One formal, with black bodice and floor length skirt patterned with large flowers, was shortened to knee length. From left-over skirt material Joan cut out flower appliques to fill in the low décolleté. The remainder of the print material lines the hood of the black coat of peace-time vintage and pre-war wool that completes the outfit.

Ida Lupino contrived a debonair, durable coat-dress from a dark tweed suit that was in the "civilian wardrobe" of her husband, Captain Louis Hayward, who is serving with the Marines in the South Pacific. The jacket was taken in to fit her 2 inch waistline. The Captain's tooled leather cuff-links are wrist decorator for the tailored shirtmaker frock. Left-over scraps of the fine English wool went into a calot.

A Paisley shawl that was a peacetime import from Europe was converted into a charming dinner jacket packed for her current concert tour by Jeannette MacDonald, who was recently voted the best-dressed woman of the concert stage.

FEON STYLE FOR LAMOUR
A Mexican peon's short dark trousers, light jacket and big casual sombrero was the idea in back of the stunning costume that Edith Head designed for Dorothy Lamour to wear in Paramount's "Riding High."

A dressmaker suit of chartreuse and moss green light weight wool has the skirt of moss green and the short sleeved coat of pale chartreuse. This costume more than conforms to L-85 by having short sleeves, no lapels, no collar, no pockets and no fullness in the skirt.

Dorothy wears a South American necklace of multi-colored strands of wool and a chartreuse sombrero type hat and chartreuse gloves.

Gloria Jean's most treasured possession is a bracelet presented to her by Charles Boyer when she completed her role in "For All We Know," the episodic film which the French star is producing for Universal. The simple, silver chain holds three St. Christopher medals, each about the size of a dime, and each bearing an inscription on the back.

JOAN'S HAIR HINT
Joan Leslie, young Warner Bros. star to be seen shortly in Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army," says that she always keeps her head down when she brushes her hair. Reason for this is that the blood rushing into the scalp stimulates the circulation; which is the best thing for any hair—oily or dry.

Modern Screen wanted to do a half-hour coast-to-coast show which would have been a good thing institutionally for the whole industry. The show would have incorporated the best picture, the best acting, the best song of each week, with a constructive news spot as well. The representative of their advertising agency came here and was turned down cold by the studios with only a couple of exceptions. Why? . . . Hi, Talullah! Did you get a giggle—reading that RKO has signed up a fellow named Robert Bly? And are you having fun working with B. S. Pully, a Brooklyn kerflecter, who used to do an act in a night club, with a partner in which their sole purpose was to crack each other's skulls by breaking tables, dishes, chairs or anything else that was handy, over each other's heads? Eddie Jaffe tells us that Joe Lewis used to pay Pully a daytime salary—just to keep him around for laughs. . . . Well, faveens sake! An astrologer told Maria Montez that "Cobra Woman" should not be released in September as planned, whereupon gullible Gussie went to Dan Kelly, Cliff Work, Nate Blumberg, et al, with the news. They laughed at her and said she was brimly. Then they started "thinkin'." So what happens? The release of the picture has been pushed up to October! . . . Charles Spangler, formerly of The Reporter, has been ordered to Washington from Edgewood Arsenal, Md., to the post of Public Relations officer in the office of The Chief. . . . Fritz Brunette, one time star in pictures, is at death's door in a hospital here, we're told. . . . Bob Diamond, Frank Sinatra's manager, never talks to him. He does all his business through Mrs. S.

Cary Grant was telling us that as an aftermath to that night he donated at the Masquara, he had one of the big thrills of his life the other evening. He said, "I came home from the studio too tired for dinner and Barbara and I were just upstairs having some eggs when I was called downstairs to see an old pal, Captain Rand. When I hit the living room, there stood Rand and two Army men at strict attention. At this point Barbara joined me, and the three men formally, and on behalf of the boys at Gardner Field, presented us with an American Flag. You'll never know what a kick it was—the tears were streaming down my face when they finished!" We can believe it. You can get black and blue from sitting next to Cary at any show, speech or party-entertainment that pleases him. Such enthusiasm! And a super guy! The more money he makes and the bigger he gets, the nicer he gets and the simpler he gets.

June Havoc, buzzin' around with Eddie Russell. . . . Wish we had enough space to tell you the hilarious story of Jed Harris' weekend with Spyros Skouras. Skouras detoured Jed into a Greek War Relief meeting; a Greek wedding in Philadelphia and other shindigs before Harris finally arrived in Manhattan for the "quiet weekend" as planned. . . . Vincent Price is opening Richard Whorf's Art Exhibit (oil, drawings and sculptures) in Beverly. . . . Evelyn (Hope Diamond) MacLean has a projection room in her Washington home and runs pictures two or three times a week. The Washington film men nick her from three hundred and fifty to five hundred dollars a picture. Making her one of the biggest ticket-buyers in the country. . . . The big number—and the last scene that Bus Berkeley is staging for "The Gang's All Here" at 26th, is costing two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. . . . Gloria Franklin and a certain big music man are about to hit the courts with a big fracas. . . . Charlie Spivak and his band go right from the finish of "Pin-Up Girl" to the Palladium. . . . Bob Cummings, we hear, is doing one swell job as civilian flight instructor at Mira Loma Academy near Oxnard. . . . Gregory Ratoff is planning a very funny revenge on a certain columnist.

"Here's to soandso," said a guest, toasting a big agent at his birthday dinner the other eve. "The only man who can make a molehill out of a mountain!" . . . Howard Hughes and Col Elliott Roosevelt off to Harper Lake for a plane demonstration. . . . Maxine Lewis has done the unusual—she's booked a circus into the Last Frontier. It will play in the outdoor corral.

Lovely Frances Gifford gets a chance to show her dramatic ability in MGM's "Cry Havoc" a story of nurses at Bataan.

Meet the Stars

With Luis Rosado

Fred Brady is a young comedian who has appeared in two pictures without much fanfare from the studios, but still managed to capture the hearts of the moviegoing public. His pictures were "Stage Door Canteen," and a musical short, "Heavenly Music." Now the public is clamoring for him as their discovery, MGM where he is under contract is busy looking for stories to show him to advantage.

Not much has been written about this new screen personality. He is, in spite of his clever comic characterizations, a rather shy person. To him the clamor of the public doesn't mean that he is so good that he can afford to go Hollywood, as is the case with some of the less intelligent actors. To Fred it represents stronger determination to make good the interest shown by those who make it possible for him to earn his salary.

Fred is a New Yorker by birth. His family was well to do until that fatal Wall Street crash of 1929, which to some people meant disaster, while to others it meant the beginning of a new and more compact life. To Fred it meant a new way.

He, since his father died shortly after the crash. "You see these callouses? They are a reminder of the days that followed. I became the breadwinner of the family, which consisted of my mother and twin sisters. Most people say that they may do some work, but they can't do it right because they feel that their heart isn't in it. My heart was in my job that time. I was digging a drainage ditch and my tools were a pick and shovel. Mind you I'm not trying to make it romantic. But here see this slip! That was my first check, and believe me I was the happiest young man in the world. I was making money for the support of my family—that was enough to make my heart beat with joy and satisfaction," he said in his own way.

He had who made good with the pick and shovel, was offered another job. It paid more, it was more dangerous, but he didn't realize it. It was doing aerial photography with the Fairchild service. One day the plane's motor went dead fifteen thousand feet above the city, and after the ship limped back to the airport he handed in his resignation. Fred found another job and at that time the urge to write caught up with him. To his surprise, radio stations began to accept his scripts and before long he was concentrating on writing. Like every young man, he went West—to Chicago, where he made his success, writing and acting for the Uncle Walter's Dog House program.

MGM heard of the young actor-writer. He was beckoned to the Coast, where he wrote his own screen test and was handed a contract. Before he had a chance to work for his own studio, Director Frank Borzage selected him as one of the unknowns for "Stage Door Canteen." Borzage made a good selection, as Fred came through with a swell performance. In private life, Fred is happily married and the father of two children. His pleasant personality, his keen sense of humor, will help Fred to become very popular on the screen. We are certain that he will remain the same intelligent person as he is today—realizing that when he thinks he has become too important to live with himself it's time to run to the nearest insane asylum.

Q: Miriam Pearl, Riverside, Calif.—Could you give me a brief biography of Greer Garson?

A: Strangely enough, Greer Garson (who won an Oscar for "Mrs. Miniver") had no theatrical background at all. Her father was a business man. She was born on September 29 in County Down, North Ireland.

When her father died she and her mother moved to England where she studied to be a teacher. She did not want to become a teacher so she finally got a job with an advertising firm in London. From there she finally saw the manager of the Birmingham Repertory Theater where she was cast in "Street Scene." For three years she played in various theaters in London until one day when Louis B. Mayer happened to see her. Soon she was on a boat for America. At first Greer found little to do but finally she was cast in "Goody Mr. Chips." Robert Donat won an Academy Award for that picture and Miss Garson was well on her way to stardom. After Mr. Chips she played in "Remember," "Frieda and Freindrich," "Blossoms in the Dust," "When Ladies Meet," "Mrs. Miniver," and "Random Harvest." She now resides in Beverly Hills, Calif., with her mother. Greer Garson is five feet, six inches tall, weighs 115 pounds and has red hair and green eyes.

Q: Melva Wickes, Burbank, Calif.—Could you please tell me how I may obtain some pictures of Diana Lynn?

A: I suggest that you write to Paramount Studios, Hollywood, Calif. They may be able to fill your request.

Hayward Appointed To City Commission

Announcement of the appointment of G. H. Hayward to membership on the city commission was made Saturday on behalf of the board by Mayor Grover C. Dunham.

Hayward, manager of the Dora Roberts interests here and a civic and business leader, has accepted the post and will be sworn in at the regular meeting of the commission Tuesday evening.

He will fill out the unexpired term of J. B. Collins, resigned. The term extends until April of next year. Selection of Hayward was by unanimous vote of the board, Dunham said.

Although he has not before held public office, Hayward has been in close touch with municipal affairs, and for several years has served on the board of tax equalization for the city and the Big Spring independent school district.

ties are going to be as high as ever this year. This waste of life at home is senseless and must be stopped.

If the first three bales, which showed up the same day, may be taken as an indication of the trend this year, it looks like a bad season for picked cotton. Two of the initial bales were snags. That proportion may hold good.

from the sea the last enemy opposition was reported on August 13. Then it was only light anti-aircraft fire against bombers and fighters.

Sometime shortly thereafter the Japanese escaped, for two days later when American and Canadian troops made their landings no enemy forces were found on Kiska. Fog presumably aided the Japanese in evacuating the remnants of their garrison, once estimated at 10,000 men. But the navy, in offering that supposition was careful to qualify, saying:

"It is not known how the Japanese got away, but it is possible that enemy surface ships were able to reach Kiska under cover of the heavy fog that have been prevalent."

Where the Japanese might have fled is a mystery. However it is possible that surface units slipping through the fog to carry out the evacuation might have crept back to bases in the northern Kuriles, possibly at Paramushiro, enemy naval base which already has been bombed three times by American forces reaching ever closer to the enemy's homeland.

The lack of opposition on Kiska—despite the heavy air and sea bombardments—was in a way a surprise. Never before in this war have the Japanese withdrawn from a base without waging a suicidal fight. On neighboring Attu, defeated Japanese troops armed even with bayonets tied on sticks, raided American camps in a final futile battle last May. Then survivors hugged grenades to their chests and died on the island they had sought vainly to retain. The difference at Kiska could represent a change in enemy policy.

More than a year of attacks—attacks that now can be turned westward toward enemy bases closer to Tokyo—were carried out in the Aleutians campaign which began in June, 1942, with the abortive attempt of the Japanese to capture Dutch Harbor.

Defeated in that effort they established bases on Attu, Kiska and Agattu. Subsequently they abandoned Agattu in favor of concentrating their strength on Attu, whence they were driven three months ago, and on larger Kiska.

MEMORIAL SERVICES WILL BE HELD TODAY FOR S-SGT. H. N. HOLCOMBE

Staff-Sergeant Horace N. Holcombe, who went to a hero's grave when the flying fortress to which he was assigned made an emergency landing and sank into the North Sea while returning from a raid on an aircraft factory near Berlin, will be memorialized in services at the Lee's Baptist church at 4 p. m. today.

Speakers will be Chaplain James L. Patterson of the Big Spring Bombardier School and the Rev. T. M. Harrell, pastor at Lee's community. Sgt. Joe Kling will sing, and Mrs. Bill McLaren is to be accompanist.

Among those arriving Saturday to attend the services were Mrs. Janet Shirley Holcombe, bride of five months, and Olive Holcombe, sister of Sgt. Holcombe. Other survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Holcombe; a sister, Mrs. B. A. Brake, Denver, Colo.; and four brothers, Hugh Holcombe, Gardena, Calif.; T/Sgt. Price Holcombe, Honolulu, Hawaii; and Wayne and Kenneth Holcombe of Lee's.

Sgt. Holcombe, who was 20 in June, enlisted in the army on July 27, 1942, not long after his graduation from the Garden City high school. He won his wings at Las Vegas, Nev. gunnery school, got his crew training at Casper, Wyo., and Salina, Kas., and was wed to Janet Baker on March 7, 1943, shortly before he was sent overseas.

According to Associated Press reports, the flying fortress in which he served as a gunner, was limping home 50 miles off the German coast, having been heavily attacked by German fighters. When Sgt. Holcombe spotted a fire in one of the wings, he notified the pilot, and given a choice of jumping or staying, he stayed and fought fire until the ship crashed, refusing to seek safety in the radio compartment where he could brace himself. Probably unconscious from the blow that broke the ship in twain, he was lost.

Returns— Darrell Davis, 52C, returned to his post at Monterey, Calif., base last week after spending a 10-day furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Davis. Darrell had high praise for the navy. Honored with a farewell shower, he carried back a copious supply of cookies, including a nine-pound box.

Cosden Chatter-

By HELEN DULEY

Marvin M. Miller, Cosden vice president, has moved his family from Graham, and they are now at home at 413 Park street. It seems that there are two houses, across the street from each other, with the same number, and this is proving very confusing for visitors. The dairyman is still leaving milk for them with their neighbor.

Jean Hargrove, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Karcher, is now in Houston with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Orme are spending the day with M-Sgt. Weldon T. Orme of Camp Berkeley.

E. A. Gabriel was in the office this week as a visitor rather than member of our organization. He now has an office in Houston, known as the E. A. Gabriel Oil company.

Mrs. E. B. McCormick and daughter, Patty, are vacationing in Ruidoso, N. M.

Cecil Ivey, a former employee now serving in the army, was a visitor in the office this week. He is with the signal corps, but seems to be doing all right with a gun too, judging by the medal he was wearing.

W. E. Gibson, sales manager, is in Dallas on business.

Roxie Dobbins was in the office the first of the week wearing civilian clothes. He has received a medical discharge from the army, and is now in Fort Worth visiting relatives and friends.

S-Sgt. and Mrs. Don Trupp (the former Alpha Coleman) are now at home at 511 Bell street.

Freda Bond is recuperating from an operation which she underwent recently.

Dan Bostick is now the proud father of a daughter who has been named Brenda Joyce.

We understand that George T. Zachariah is really getting up in the army and is now a full fledged corporal.

Glady's Smith has been ill for several days but was back at work Friday.

Steve Brandon was in the office this week. He is now living in Lake Charles, La. It seems that several former Cosden employees are now there: Pete Ogle, Slim Labyer, L. E. Leslie.

Fred Kesmodel of the Illinois Central Railroad, Fort Worth, was a visitor in the traffic department this week.

Stoney Henry and J. A. Selkirk entertained their Boy Scout troop with a watermelon supper Friday night.

Mrs. Otto Peters, Sr., returned home Friday from the hospital. Her sons, Sgt. Gene Peters and Pfc. Huff Peters, have been visiting here.

Dorothy Verna Williams is the new secretary in personnel department replacing Sue McCormick who resigned.

Joye Daniels has been transferred from the mailing department to stenographer in the credit department.

Joe Owen, who has been working in the car repair department, is leaving next week to return to school. Freeman Denton will fill the vacancy.

Mrs. Kathryn Veach is now working in our mailing department, assisting Mrs. Lucille Burke.

Chester O'Brien is a new member of our accounting department, and Jack Hendrix and W. G. Simpson are new employees in the warehouse.

J. R. Bennett, W. M. Turpin, G. W. Holden, R. F. White, and O. O. Arlington are new employees in the refining department.

Big Spring Women Are Shopping Early For The Latest Fashions Introduced For Fall

Dresses that go everywhere and do everything—That's the slogan which Big Spring women have adopted in selecting a complete, yet serviceable wardrobe for fall and winter.

A survey around town reveals that women are shopping early too, even though it is a shade warm to be thinking of three piece suits, heavy coats and velvet afternoon frocks, it's wise to buy when the stock is still complete.

This season as always, we have scads of wonderful new shades which manufacturers have introduced with designers' notion that war or no war, color can do plenty for keeping up morale on the clothes rack. Some of the newest colors are Florentine red, spice, green mist, slate blue, twig timber green, lilac, eggnog, oyster gray, cheery red, shrimp pink, woodland green and oatmeal.

This fall, while the Missus' is wearing vivid colors, she is at the same time wearing clothes with plenty of trim which includes everything from dainty lace to nailheads, sequins and metal beads. The afternoon dresses are fashioned with a drape effect, but not to a great extreme as before. Wool jersey, brocaded crepe and velvet rank as the favorites in materials which are being sold today.

Local merchants agree that the largest percent of Big Spring women are shopping for quality and not quantity this fall; that they know what they want and yet are easily pleased. They also pay more for a dress, hat or bag if they are convinced that it will last, for, back in the minds of many a lady is the idea that clothes may still be rationed before the war is over.

Loose boxy sport coats, made for long wear are favorites over styles with fur trim which proved so popular in previous years.

Speaking of coats, manufacturers popped up with a brand new idea in making the light weight coat warm enough for the coldest months of winter. They are now available with detachable linings made of suede, wool, fur and sheepskin.

"Sloppy Joe" sweaters in soft nubby weaves still rank above dainty fitted types, and are available in a host of new shades and styles this fall.

As for accessories, they're just as vivid in color and smart in appearance as the entire wardrobe which is being shown this year. Handbags are still large and roomy with plenty of outside decoration such as metal clasps, plastic caricatures and wooden frames. They come in fallie and gaberdines to match shoes in the same materials. Sporty accessory for a sporty coat is the new 'duffle bag' which has a gathered opening on a cord which forms the shoulder strap.

Low vamped shoes in a variety of styles are being shown with partial replacement of plastic soles which have proved to be the answer to a maiden's prayer. Since leather is scarce, manufacturers are making light of the situation and are switching over to fallies and gaberdines.

Opinion differs as to whether women will go back to thick red rays this winter or whether she will go without, but to relieve the situation somewhat, there will be more and more anklets to match every sport frock.

BUMPER PILLBOX: Wear it tilted back, forward or sideways. It's always right.

Cowgirl Dance Is Held

Another in a series of special service sponsored dances was held in the recreational building at the Big Spring Bombardier School Saturday evening, and a western theme was carried out in decorations, intermission-entertainment and contests.

The post orchestra furnished music for the affair, and corals, saddles, sage brush, etc., were used in ballroom decorations furthering the chosen motif.

Sgt. Hal Harris was master of ceremonies for a floor show which was presented at 10:30 o'clock and included on the program was a song and dance number by Betty Bob Diltz and square dancing with Jim Winslow in charge of music and Rollin Fitzgerald calling the dance.

Roping contests were held, and coffee and doughnuts served from a chuck wagon. Hours were from 9 to 1 o'clock, and transportation was furnished from the Settles hotel for the guests who attended.

COZY COMFORT: Suit-dress in naphthalated all-wool flannel.

FLANNEL STARS in this two-piece tuck-in dress with push-up sleeves.

COW TILTS WITH CAR HENDERSON—Collision of two rationed items at Henderson resulted in little damage to either. A cow collided with an automobile. The car was tilted slightly, the steaks were shaken up.

Notes

MARY WHEALEY

Looks like the victory gardeners have a real cross to bear and our heart aches in sympathy for them. For months they dug and planted and grubbed and wore blisters on hands that seldom pushed anything bigger than a pencil. They hung over back fences and bragged on their crops which really materialized much to everybody's amazement. And then came August and the drought.

Watching the cucumbers and tomato vines wither and dry up was almost like watching somebody die that they knew very well. They had bought the seed, prepared the land, and carefully nurtured each little shoot as it raised its head.

They had compared the progress of their garden with all their other amateur gardener friends and down at the office—well, they let it be known that they could grow the biggest squash in the neighborhood.

The male gardeners rushed home from work each afternoon and instead of being golf widows, the girls had to go out to the garden to drag the guys in for supper. The female gardeners said "hang the manœuvre" and spent most of their days digging, watering, and working.

The victory gardeners did get some results of their toll until August with its burning suns came along. The farmers whose whole income depends upon the crops are praying for rain, but the frustrated Victory Gardeners prayers are even louder and longer.

2 Polish Armies Ready For Action

LONDON, Aug. 21 (AP)—Two tough Polish armies bearing equipment supplied by the United States and Britain and containing powerful artillery and parachute units are set to spring against the axis in Europe when the signal for the Allied invasion is given.

The Polish government-in-exile here, disclosing the existence of these forces said their nucleus was formed by survivors of the Polish army which nearly was wiped out when the nazis stormed through Poland in September, 1939.

In that bitter campaign, the government said, the Poles lost 902,095 men in killed, wounded and missing.

One of the armies, consisting of some 80,000 men is based in the Middle East. The other force, with undisclosed thousands of men eager to drive back into the continent, is stationed in Britain, it was said.

Mistaken Location

FORT DEVENS, Mass., Aug. 21 (AP)—Japanese soldiers really believe the propaganda handed out to them, according to Pfc. John F. Mooney, Jr.

Pfc. Mooney, now at Lowell General hospital recovering from yellow jaundice picked up in the South Pacific, told interviewers that Jap prisoners captured on Guadalcanal believed Chicago was being bombed every day and that they actually were fighting in "stinking, rotting and malaria-ridden Canal."

The prize-winning photographs were selected from more than 50,000 pictures taken by air force members.

Young America has a Job to do

They know there's a war on — these youngsters of ours — and they can face reality. They are having an early taste of the responsibilities of citizenship and they are performing in a manner to rate "well-done" from every one of us.

It is for their security that we are fighting this war and every sacrifice they make we should make many fold. For every War Stamp they buy we should buy a War Bond. Every Bond you purchase means freedom of speech for Billy. Every bond you purchase means freedom of religion for Mary. Every Bond you purchase means freedom from fear for Tommy. Every Bond you purchase means freedom from want for Sally.

Courage At Home Is Vital As Casualty Lists Mount

The blows of war are falling heavily. Within a month now we have heard reports of four men missing in action and one dead in a foreign field. Soon casualty lists will grow until they reach out to home after home. Gold stars will replace the blue.

Courage of our men at the front must now be matched by courage of those whose lot it is to watch and wait at home.

Easy to say if the cup passes by; hard to bear if one must drink of its bitter.

"The war is over for me," said the sturdy man whose own flesh and blood lay buried in a strange and lonely soil thousands of miles away. "The war is over for me, and I have lost."

How dismal and dreary must be the hours, how futile the hopes, how empty the moments. Only those who have walked through the valley must know.

Yet there must be comfort in the knowledge that the day brightens out of darkest night; that the dearer the price the more precious the gain; the more sublime the sacrifice, the more eternal the gift.

A great and good man, whose life was without blemish, once died upon a cross. Yet this was but the beginning, for out of this darkest despair came undying hope to millions yet unborn.

Young men today are dying for a cause as well as for country. Often unobserved and little remembered, they face the end unwaveringly. Death is their choice, not their lot.

No, the loss cannot be the end; we cannot stop if the cost is tens, hundreds, thousands. We dare not halt short of complete victory for the cause of freedom of the human soul... else we fail to keep the faith for those who gave their all.

You who carry the scars in your hearts, you who seemingly prayed in vain—someday, if not now, can proudly say: "I love the land. I love the cause. I gave them my son."

Washington Daybook—

Observers Try To Guess Date Of Germany's Fall

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — One of the Hollywood movie producers has grabbed off the title "Appointment in Berlin." The picture may smell like high heaven, or it may be another of those perennial Hollywood "masterpieces" which is here this week, gone to the neighborhoods tomorrow. I wouldn't know.

But I do know that the company's press department was on its promotional toes. They went out and got all the wartime commentators who would answer their query to guess when the Allied Nations would hold their appointment in Berlin.

John Dos Passos called the date, August 1944; Upton Sinclair picked Washington's Birthday next; Walter Duranty says "the end of this year"; Clark Lee and Lowell Thomas say "before October 31, 1944"; Jesse Stuart thinks the Allied Nations armies will spend Christmas, 1944, in Berlin; Corey Ford agrees with Jesse Stuart.

Hendrik Willem van Loon is the most insistent optimist. He'll take "even money" that the Nazis will be pleading for peace come late autumn. Fannie Hurst is probably next in line with her forecast that we'll ring out the old and ring in the new there when this year is torn off the calendar.

mention of any names—is that prediction of the Navy recently that they were preparing for a war to last until 1949.

No sooner had they said it than the Washington pundits excused their long-sightedness on the grounds that they were merely laying the foundation for greater demands on the U. S. treasury. When, a few days later, the president shifted a few billions from the Army appropriations to the Navy, the pundits said: "Yah-yah, I told you so."

It's considered a certainty here that any capital predictions about when the war will end will be colored by wishful thinking—and selfish thinking at that.

The truth of the matter is that the Nazis are now getting their backs turned to the wall, but nobody in the government or out really knows just how long they can hold out that way; that Allied Nations' successes are so far ahead of the most optimistic time-tables that we are not prepared to take full advantage of them; and that the conclusive battles of this war must be the pincers movement between the Russian offensive on the eastern front and a decisive continental victory on the southern and still unopened western fronts.

Hollywood— Katina Paxinou Dominates Film Production

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — I never realized how completely Katina Paxinou's film dominates "For Whom the Bell Tolls" until I met Katina Paxinou in person.

I had expected, after seeing this Oscar-certain characterization, to meet a towering Amazon, a giantess, a strong figure of a woman whose shadow would darken the earth. That shows what an actress can do in creating and sustaining an illusion—for Katina, who wore flat espadrilles as Pilar, is no more than average height in person, even wearing heels.

Madame Paxinou, the Greek who played the screen's outstanding Spanish character, is still a towering personality, intense, dynamic, with the vitality you'd expect after seeing her Pilar. Her dark eyes flash as she talks, and she talks with heat and fire. Perhaps she can relax at times, but when she talked of Greece and the Fascists who enslaved it, she was a burning torch.

She talked much of that "Politics," she said, her hands leaping incessant gestures. "Political! My husband asked me not to talk of that, but I cannot help it. It is in me—you will forgive? Eh?"

If I were a Nazi or a Fascist in Greece today, I should not sleep again. I should not sleep for dread of the day when all the Katinas of a ravaged Greece take their vengeance. No family in Greece, she said, has escaped the Nazi horror.

She spoke of horror piled upon horror. "I should not say these things, because they will not be believed. My husband and I, in other days we played sometimes in the theaters of Germany, and some of those people were our friends. Friends! Now the Germans are like creatures from another planet—no longer human beings. Ask the Greeks about the poor, misguided German people! Ask the Greeks!"

In pre-war Greece Katina Paxinou and her husband, Alexis Minotis, were the Lunt and Fontanne of the Royal Greek theater, acclaimed not only at home but over the continent and in London. In late 1939, she rejected a Nazi offer for a play in Germany, went to England instead, and there performed through 11 months of the blitz. En route to America to aid the Greek war relief drive, she was on a ship that was torpedoed, and lost all her possessions not already destroyed in the bombing of her London hotel. Rescued by a British destroyer, she returned to England and more blitz, finally came to America by Clipper.

In Greece, meanwhile, her husband three times had escaped from the Nazis, refusing to "collaborate." Her daughter, Iliana, her mother, two brothers and four sisters are still in Greece, their fate unknown. Minotis, finally reaching this country, is writing about Greece. He has a story "Song of the Thieves," which is being considered for filming.

"We hope it will be a picture," said Katina Paxinou. "There have been films of Norway, Holland, France, other conquered countries, but so far none about Greece, which really fought tooth and nail against the invaders."

No Home Cooking
TOLEDO, O.—Kara Reed filed for divorce in Domestic Relations Court here on the grounds that his wife, Rosabel, forced him to eat in a restaurant, because she took possession of his ration book. The Reeds were married in 1923.

The list is more extensive than that, but the sampling gives you a fair idea.

Noticeably absent from the list are any names that could possibly be identified with Washington, or the armed forces. For any one whose horizon is bounded by the view from the top of the Washington monument, that's easy to understand. A few incautious souls here have made predictions about when the war will end and immediately have been slapped down by political and military commentators.

A good example—avoiding the

Trinkets for Servicemen
YOUNGVILLE, N. Y. — Collecting bright-colored "doodads" is the summer project of the Business and Professional Women's club in this Sullivan county community. The discarded jewelry and other trinkets will then be sent to service men in parts of the world, particularly in the Pacific Islands, where barter is used in trading with the natives.

The city of Los Angeles was founded in 1781 by a small band of Spanish colonists.

MURDER IN TIN

By CARL A. PETERSON

Chapter 30
"Senorita," Mirtilo said to Lila. "We know with full definiteness that your father has concealed the maps of his, our mine. If he will not surrender our property—if he will not, we will be compelled to take extreme measures. If the time permit, but it does not permit, we would from his own person learn of our property. Senorita, the time does not permit. We will be compelled to take measures on your own property."

"Damn right!" Johnson. "Taggard, maybe you could take it without breaking. But are you going to sit in that ringside seat while we—"

"You can't bluff me," Taggard said.

I was trembling violently.

Mirtilo bowed to Lila Taggard. "You are charming. But your father—your father—He leaves us, senorita— His fury burned upon his bitterly polite phrases. Speechless, his eyes were surrounded by white areas that seemed enormous.

A shuddering fear turned my bones into putty.

Johnson grabbed Lila. One of his hands covered her mouth and with the other he wrenched her arm backwards.

Sam Taggard said. "Stop." Johnson pushed Lila from him. "Talk sense." "I'll give you the location—" "How many maps've you got?" Johnson turned to Mirtilo. "Take her out."

Mirtilo led her out of the room. "Three."

"Where are they?" "Where I've been staying—" "Where's that?"

And as we all waited, Sam Taggard said. "The Hotel Famoso."

"I thought so," Johnson said. "In the bottom dresser drawer." "Ah, senor," Mirtilo said, returning. "Ah, senor." "The bottom dresser drawer." Johnson said. "How many in that drawer?" "All three."

"Where are the others?" "There are no others." "How many did you turn over to the G.I.'s?" "None."

"Take the gag out of that G.I.'s face," Johnson said to Mirtilo.

Mirtilo walked over to me. I felt his finger at the back of my head.

"Spit the gag out," Johnson said. "I spat the loosened gag out on the floor."

"How many maps did Taggard turn over to you?" Johnson asked me.

"None."

"We'll check on that," Johnson said. "Taggard, you said there were three maps. I warn you not to palm off any dead pigeons on us. We're going to check on you and your kid and if those maps are a G.—They better not be."

Mirtilo stepped over to Taggard with small dancer-like steps. "Senor, senor," he said hoarsely. "Where—senor? The tin—" his voice faltered. "Where?" he said weakly. "What republic?" "This country," Taggard said. "Right here in Mexico."

"Mexico!" Johnson cried.

An inner voice was shouting inside of me. I tried to shut out bluder and louder. You are through! Through! I glanced at Sam Taggard. I saw the sentence of death in his eyes. It was unmistakable. I was glad that Lila wasn't in the room with us.

"This hideout of yours," Johnson said slowly. "The G.I.'s got it surrounded, you damn bizzard!"

"Nobody knew where I was except Lathrop."

"What about him?" Johnson pointed at me.

"No."

"So you say. I see it now. We go for the locations and the G.I.'s pick us up. Damn, how do we get to that hotel?"

"Walk there," Taggard said.

Johnson's head jerked back. "I'll kill you now!" he screamed. "Damn you, you've jinxed me!"

"No," Mirtilo cried.

"Kill him, kill him!" Johnson said, leaping at Taggard.

Johnson whirled at Taggard, lashed out with his fist, hitting him on the temple. Taggard's head shot back, but his lips were tight as a vise. I knew then that Sam Taggard had prepared himself for any eventuality. I bit my lip so hard I tasted the salty taste of blood.

Johnson lit a cigarette and leaned against the wall. When he stamped the butt out on the floor, he touched his fingertips to his forehead in a gesture of half-admiration. "Okay, Taggard."

Keys At The Capitol— Daniel Pays Capital First Visit After Enlistment

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (AP)—Pvt. Marion P. Daniel sat in a house of representatives chair and puffed at a cigar.

The mannerism and face were familiar but not the clothes. Fresh from floor scrubbing and kitchen police duties, part of his first two weeks of army life, Speaker of the House Price Daniel of Liberty was paying his first post-enlistment visit to the capitol.

In the army he is Marion P. Daniel and at Fort Sam Houston induction center where he was stationed temporarily no one knew he was speaker of the Texas house of representatives or even a member.

That is not until word of his enlistment leaked out and queries from a newspaper sent a corporal—on orders of a captain—in search of Daniel.

Most every one knew a Marion P. Daniel was at the center and even offered the suggestion he might be the son of Price Daniel. Confronted by his captain, Daniel explained who and what he was in civil life. The officer turned a photographer and public relations officer loose for pictures and stories about their recruit.

"To think I've been bossin' around the speaker of the Texas house blurted a non-com in Daniel's company."

"He has made a darn good soldier but you could have pushed me over when we found out who he is."

Daniel was in the induction center two weeks before his identity was discovered.

He long ago made his plans for entering the armed services, remarking at the opening of the last session of the legislature he expected to join after the session as soon as he could put his business affairs in order. He is 33, married and the father of two children.

Army or no army he's still a member and speaker of the house and will remain so until his elective term expires, unless he chooses to resign civil office. Under Texas law and the constitution, as construed by the courts, there is no vacancy when a civil officer accepts appointment in the wartime army.

But under war department regulations Daniel cannot actively perform the duties of his civil office while in the army.

The same situation confronts other members of the house of representatives, which has numerous young members. More than a dozen are in the army, navy, and merchant marines. Others are on the way in.

Latest information was that Rep. Victor E. Wattenner from Van Zandt county was to report for induction at Tyler soon.

Six state senators are now in the army, Allan Shivers of Fort Arthur, having joined since the legislature adjourned its regular session. Other senator soldiers are Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, Vernon Lomans of Waxahachie, Franklin Spears of San Antonio and Marshall Formby of McAdoo. Clem Fain of Livingston is a marine.

Presence of six senators in the service would pose an attendance problem for a special session of the legislature. Five military members unable to attend all the time plus absences from the ranks of civilian members sometimes caused a lack of quorum at the general session. The problem would be accentuated now with six military members.

THE JAP INVASION FLEET IS COMPLETELY DESTROYED BY THE ALLIES AS OUR FIGHTING MEN ONCE AGAIN DEMONSTRATE THAT THE WEAPONS WHICH THEY CAN CRUSH THE MAD PLAN OF SCHEMING DICTATORS IN TOKYO, BERLIN AND SOME TO DOMINATE THE WORLD....

OUT OF ALL OF SUPERMAN'S MIGHTY FEATS IN DEFENSE OF DEMOCRACY, I THINK THIS LATEST EXPLOIT RANKS AT THE TOP!

IT WILL HAVE SERVED OF INESTIMABLE VALUE IF ONLY TO POINT OUT TO THE PUBLIC THE IMPORTANCE OF NOT BELITTILING THE JAP MENACE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC.

IT SHOULD BE REMEMBERED THAT MOST JAPANESE-AMERICANS ARE LOYAL CITIZENS. MANY ARE IN COMBAT UNITS OF OUR ARMED FORCES, AND OTHERS ARE WORKING IN WAR FACTORIES. ACCORDING TO GOVERNMENT STATEMENTS, NOT ONE ACT OF SABOTAGE WAS PERPETRATED IN HAWAII OR TERRITORIAL U.S. BY A JAPANESE-AMERICAN.

FIRST, THANKS FOR HELPING ME! NEVER MIND THAT! LET'S SAY THE UNIFORM GOT ME!

OF COURSE IT MAY BE A PONEY! AN AMERICAN PILOT? WELL... SPILL IT!

I'LL TELL YOU ALL I KNOW... WHICH ISN'T MUCH! I'M BEING CHASED BY A GANG WHO KNOCKED OFF MY TWO FRIENDS! I DON'T KNOW WHO THEY ARE OR WHAT THEY WANT OF ME!

I DON'T BLAME YOU FOR LOOKING THAT WAY! I KNOW IT'S CRAZY! BUT IT'S TRUE! WHERE DO I GO FROM HERE?

Our own personal "E" award is tendered today to the Big Spring Bombardier school, as it rounds out the initial year of operation.

Able bombardiers have been trained, officers and men have been developed; the whole AAFBS program has been a major contribution toward Victory.

We are proud of our association with the officers, cadets and men of the AAFBS—proud to have served them, and proud to look forward to continuing service, just as they continue to work for Victory.

You win. We don't get the tin. You win. Only three copies of your location! You mean three at the Famoso. But how many copies have the G.I.'s made from the one you turned over to them? We ain't going back for those three come-ons. Nothing doing. You win!"

Taggard said. "Do you think I'd gamble with my daughter's life?"

"You'd gamble for anything." "No! with my daughter's life. There are only three copies. They're in the hotel!"

This nightmare was worse than any nightmare. I knew that there was nothing left of time but a few more hours.

To Be Continued.

Be a BONDadier

Yes sir... now YOU can hit the target! Now YOU can have the thrill of opening the bomb bay and blasting the enemy. You can lay those eggs on the enemy just as surely as the Bombardier does from his perch in the sky. And you can eat your eggs and have them too, in the form of a government inspected nestegg that's plenty good now, and will improve with maturity. So look through that Bombsight and find the target for this month. Then when they call "Bombs away!" you'll know that you've done your part... that you've been right in there dropping your load.
