Farmers Ask Restrictions On 2-4-D

When Bailey County commissioners met Monday morning, they were quite surprised to see 32 concerned farmers show up to meet with them.

Bailey County Judge Gordon H. Green said the farmers asked the commissioner's court to impose restrictions in this county on the use of the pesticide, 2-4-D.

Judge Green explained that in the State of Texas, counties have the option of imposing restrictions on the use of certain pesticides.

He also said counties surrounding this county do have restrictions on the use of pesticides.

With numerous reports received about pesticide damage in Bailey County this year, an investigation was conducted.

Farmers, the Bailey County Extension Agent Spencer Tankley and investigators from the Texas Department of Agriculture at Lubbock did find 2-1/4-D damage in the county.

According to Don Gibson, of the TDA, who was a visitor in The Journal Friday afternoon, damage was found to crops in the county.

Some producers have suffered severe damage, and some crops may survive the pesticide damage and grow out of the problem.

Judge Green explained that county commissioners can only impose restrictions on the use of pesticides following a public hearing, and only in the months of October, November and December of a calendar year.

Any such order will go into effect the following January 1.

There are a few options for commissioners, including total

Former Farmers May Get Job Re-Training

If you have quit farming -- since January 1, 1985 -- either through bankruptcy or failure to obtain loans to continue farming, you are a prime candidate for a new program in this area.

Called "New Beginning - Farmer Assistance Program," it focuses on job training, or re-training for farmers and/or their spouses.

James Martin, Farmer Assistance Program Coordinator for the South Plains Community Action Association at Levelland commented, "We feel this program that's going to be very beneficial and our goal is to retrain the (former) farmer and get them started in another occupation."

Following the evaluation of a 1986 pilot program, that saw 82 persons retrained either through classroom work or on-the-job training, the program was funded by state and federal funds.

In order to qualify for the program, according to Martin, a farmer must provide proof that the producer no longer will be in the farming business. Documents may either be from a bankruptcy proceedings, foreclosure, or a bank stating that credit no longer will be extended.

He explained that in order to be in the program, either spouse may qualify from the defunct farm, and there is no limit on age or income level.

Individuals may qualify from Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Hale, Hockley, King, Lamb, Lynn, Motley, Terry and Yoakum Counties.

Once the criteria are met, Martin said, the program can provide life coping skills, employment skills assessment, interest assessment, career counseling and classroom training. Services also include on-the-job training, job referral, job search assistance, job development and job placement.

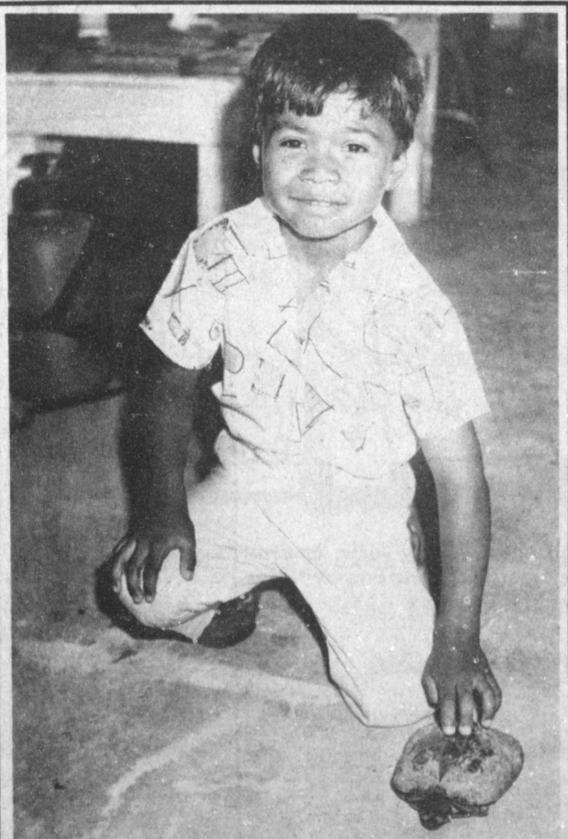

"About 50 percent of the applicants in the pilot program last year chose to go through on-the-job training," said Martin, himself a farmer from Wellman in Terry County. "We try to counsel them and place them in a business that fits them and the company."

Martin said a benefit for the training company is that half of the applicant's salary for six months can be paid with the program funds.

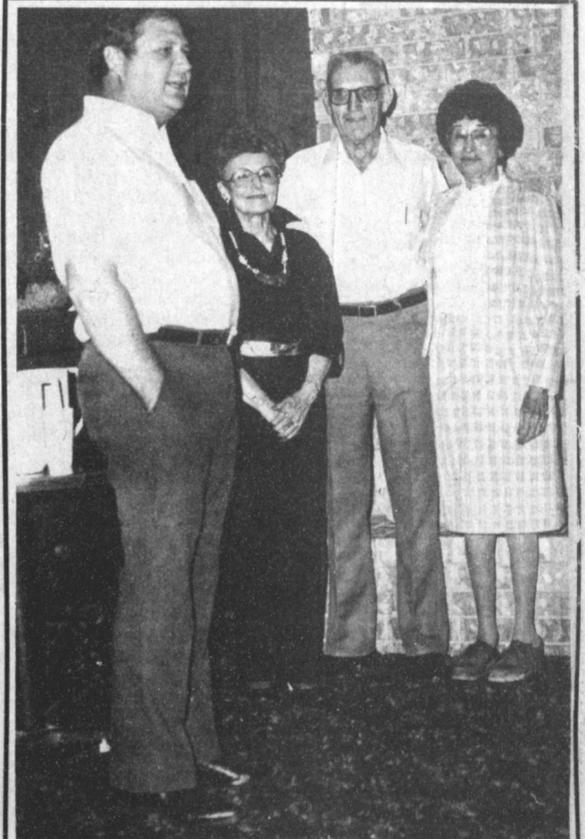

If the person instead chooses to attend a vocational or trade school in the region or elsewhere in Texas, Martin added, program funds will pay for books, fees and tuition. In some cases, if a person had attended but did not complete college, the program may assist that person in completion, he said.

Grain Sorghum Board Slates '87 Election

August 15 is the last day to mail ballots in the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board director election. Ballots must be postmarked no later than midnight, August 15.

Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board (TGSPB) is the state sorghum checkoff program for financing and conducting market development, education, and utilization research for grain sorghum. It is governed by a board of fifteen directors who serve six-year terms. Five directors will be elected to the board this year--three in the West Texas region and two in the East Texas region.

The TGSPB West Texas region is the area of the state west of a line from Montague County, south along county boundaries, then west to exclude all counties south of Bandera, Uvalde, and Kinney.

The nominees from the West Texas region are Floyd C. Borchardt of Crowell, Billy Bob Brown of Panhandle, Ralph Mabry of Lubbock, and Kenneth B. "K.B." Parish of Springlake.

The TGSPB East Texas region includes 76 counties in the area of the state defined by a line from, and including, Cooke County on the Oklahoma border, south along county boundaries to include Comal County, then east along county boundaries to include Newton County on the Louisiana border.

The four men who have been nominated from the East Texas region are Eric Akins of Howe, Alton Norman of How, Dale K. Spurgin of McKinney, and Wilbert Vorwerk of Taylor.

Anyone involved in grain sorghum production within either region is eligible to vote for the candidates for that region.

Any qualified voter who has not received a ballot in the mail may obtain one at the County Agricultural Extension Office or any grain elevator which handles grain sorghum. Ballots are also available from the TGSPB office. Any sorghum producer who needs ballots or who has questions about the election may call, toll-free, 1-800-692-4169.

Travel Scams On Increase

"Everybody loves travel bargains, including crooks," warned J. Don Clark today, director of the state highway department's Travel & Information Division.

Clark said that Texas travelers are being victimized by spurious "travel packages" offered by shady travel-service operators. "Initial contact is often by telephone," Clark said, "offering what sounds like a certificate good for round-trip air fare to Hawaii -- for only $29."

"Actually," Clark explains, "the certificates are usually nothing more than reservations forms for advance bookings. After the first payment, more fees keep appearing -- deposits, pre-payment for transportation, lodging, and other hidden costs than can amount to hundreds, or thousands of dollars."

Clark voiced special caution against giving telephone solicitors your credit-card number. "If a 'travel package' sounds too good to be true, it probably is," he emphasized.

He cited a recent "come on" related to investment in vacation-resort time sharing. A potential "investor" was told that she had already won an all-terrain vehicle, requiring payment of only $29.95 for "handling, processing, and insurance." The all - terrain vehicle turned out to be a lawn chair with four wheels attached.

Such fraudulent vacation-travel schemes, which the 'HOUSTON CHRONICLE' has labeled "selling travel dreams and delivering nightmares," are currently under investigation by the Texas Attorney General's office.

Clark said that people who receive phone calls or post cards announcing they've "won" a travel bargain, or have been "selected by computer" for some fantastic travel deal, should be immediately suspicious. "I'd recommend that anyone who's approached with a cut-rate travel scheme, check it out with one of our many reputable travel agencies, or the local Better Business Bureau," he cautioned.

Persons having direct knowledge of such travel scams are urged to contact the Consumer Protection section of the Texas Attorney General's Office at (512) 463-2070.

Post Office A Survivor In Townsite Tug-Of-War

Amid the tug-of-war between struggling townsites and the coming of the railroad as basis for survival, the U.S. Post Office serving Muleshoe area pioneers, along with other business places, was moved in search of prosperity on this frontier.

From the time the Post Office was established in Old Hurley with John Metsker as postmaster until sometime after it was firmly located in Muleshoe, it was located in general stores, barber shops, hotels, and finally to a separate building.

In the early days the mail was brought to Old Hurley three times each week by Joshua Blocher, first by carrying it on his bicycle and later as more people came and the load increased, he attached a pony cart to haul the mail.

With the beginning of the settlement of Janes, M.P. Smith built a general store. The post office was moved there with the prospects of the railroad coming. However, with the dedication of the townsite of Muleshoe and the railroad being established, the post office to this city. Smith remained as postmaster until 1919 when E.E. Hagler took the job along with his barber shop business. In early 1920, Hagler resigned due to ill health and was succeeded by Mrs. Beulah Carles.

Soon after 1920 when she assumed her duties, she bought a house and moved the post office into it, for the first time without some other business being in the same building. When the new YL school house was built, she bought part of the old building, added to the office; the family lived in the back portion. In 1928, it was again moved into the building formerly occupied by M.P. Smith Merchantile store.

During the 15 years Mrs. Carles served as postmaster (incidentally, Mrs. Carles says there is no such word as 'postmistress' as far as the postal department is concerned and W.B. McAdam and Gil Wollard still call her "Dear Sir") she had many experience on the comical side of life. She recalls the effort to establish Star Route 2 in the southern part of the county when Helen Bearden and Irene Bradley to oceptions around to be signed to verify the need of the route. "The People wanted the Dallas News brought to them but they were afraid to sign their names to any kind of paper. Also some of them had been eating cranes, which was against the law. They were afraid we would find the feathers, which we did, and report them, which we did not," Mrs. Bradley said. The route was established and the first carrier was a young man who took the money that people left for money orders and cried when they started asking about their packages.

Mrs. Carles recalls the depot agent, D.E. Cox, during the early '20s who pushed the mail from the depot in a two-wheeled cart and his daily report to the post office employees concerning an elderly man named Crigs who came to Muleshoe and said a young woman who he had just married would be there in a few days. The days became weeks and Cox reported daily that she did not arrive. Finally, he came in with his report "Well, Mrs. 'Christ' has come!"

In 1932 while Mrs. Carles was in Washington attending a Postmaster's convention, a team ran away with Ed Riddle who was carrying the mail from the office to the train and back on a flatbed wagon. Riddle came in the door one afternoon with the First Class mail pouch in one hand, the other hand dangling from a broken wrist and said "The team ran away with me and there is 22 sacks of mail in the west end of town and I want a drink of water - I'm sick!" Ruth Bearden ran to the kitchen and brought a glass of water. Fay Elrod, who was a postal clerk, took him to the doctor while Ruth remained with the office and Irene Bradley went to the west end of town to count the mail sacks people had gathered up along the route of the run-away team.

Upon her return, Mrs. Carles said "Well, Ed, I heard you had an accident." "Yes, Mam, I had two of them." "Two! How's that?"

Ed replied, "When the team threw me off the wagon and broke my wrist, I swallowed my chewin' tobacco and that like to have killed me!"

POST OFFICE EXPLOSION
Explosion of accumulated gas in the Muleshoe post office November 26, 1946, injured five of the staff, A. J. Gardner, postmaster; Mrs. A. J. Gardner, clerk; Mrs. W. B. McAdams, substitute carrier; Gil Wollard, carrier; and C. D. Troutman, carrier; and destroyed the building and fixtures.

Muleshoe and the countryside were rocked by the explosion, which occurred at about 7:50 that Tuesday as the postoffice workers prepared to open up for the day, the Muleshoe Journal reported.

"Gil Wollard applied the match to the stove and the explosion followed.

"Employees of nearby business places immediately ran to the scene and began frantically to dig the victims out. The men at the C&H Chevrolet Company garage, just across the street, were among the first to get to the scene.

"Buck Wood, of the Western Drug, was standing in the doorway and Clinton Briscoe said they saw the roof of the post office building go up into the air high enough to see from their barber shop.

"Many people right in town failed to hear the explosion for some reason. On the other hand, it was heard by people several miles away.

"Damage was not confined to the post office building. Many windows in near businesses were broken. The front plate glass window of the English Food Market was blown into the street and broken to bits. The ceiling in the store was also badly damaged. Eugene English the proprietor, was alone in the building at the time. Miraculously, he was not hurt.

"A flash fire went through the room as the accumulated gas exploded.

"As soon as word of the disaster began to reach the outside world, editors of the Associated Press and United Press, and of city daily papers, began to tie up all the telephone lines in an effort to get the story," the Journal story concluded.

MICROWAVE COOKING

By Linda Attaway

In choosing cookware for your microwave oven, be extremely careful not to choose items that have metal in them.

Microwaves cannot pass through metal and "arcing"—electrical sparks shooting from the metal—could damage your oven.

Most kitchen cupboards contain an abundance of items that may be used safely inside a microwave oven.

Glass measuring cups, ceramic bowls, plastic containers, and paper items are all safe because they "transmit" the microwaves (allow them to pass through the container).

amendments that would be on the ballot in November, including two bond amendments; an amendment on the super-colider and an amendment to allow the exchange of state land for private land.

He spoke about the prison system, and said crime had increased over 90 percent in the state in the last 10 years. "Texas has the third largest prison system in the world," he added. The latest session of the legislature saw an approval for an additional 8,500 prison beds.

"The Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture wishes to remind everyone that the clean up campaign is not over, but is an ongoing effort," said Toni Eagle, CofC manager.

"Muleshoe has tourists passing through town every day, and we are in need of those people stopping," she continued. "Also, Mule Days is just around the corner and we need to insure that Muleshoe looks 'her' best.

"Take time to check the area around your business and home. If you need help with the work, call the Chamber office and hire a YES worker to assist you."

He said Dalhart has proposed they be the site of a new maximum security prison; while Tulia has proposed their location for a new minimum security prison.

"I am convinced that one reason the prisons are overcrowded is that Texas has the weakest juvenile system in the nation," added Senator Sarpalius. "When a juvenile commits a violent crime, his average stay in the TYC is seven months."

He also said that 85 percent of the prisoners in Texas prisons are school dropouts. He cited the Dallas school dropout rate is 50 percent; and is 45 percent in the state overall.

He said the state is working on a whole new juvenile system.

He touched briefly on agriculture, and of new legislation to make it somewhat easier on farmers in the application of chemicals. He also said the use of 2-4-D is controlled by state regulations.

Another startling statement by the senator was that "Texas leads the nation in teenage pregnancies."

Before Senator Sarpalius left the meeting for Littlefield, he was thanked by Hubert Kidd for helping on the Telephone Enabling Act; and Dave Marr thanked him for his help on the Bailey County School District Project.

Senator Sarpalius said if the state went back into another special session, maybe the hospital district project could be brought before the legislature and hopefully, be approved.

Bus Beautification Listed On Agenda For School Board

Members of the Board of Trustees of the Muleshoe Independent School District will meet at 8 p.m. on Monday, August 10, in regular session, in the temporary school administration offices located in the Watson Junior High School gym foyer.

Under business items will be considering awarding bids for reroofing Watson Junior High, Muleshoe High School cafeteria and the bus barn and informational reports will include school improvement update. Also, board members will consider setting the price for lunches for the coming year.

Financial reports on all phases of school operation will be given and the 1987-88 proposed school budget will be reviewed.

Following the tax collection report, board members will consider appropriate personnel action, including considering accepting resignations and employment contracts.

Special reports will be given by the school board president and the superintendent of schools and a report on bus beautification.

independent school district when she's through."

Martin said during last year's pilot program, 82 farmers or farm wives were assisted. Forty of those opted for classroom training and 42 chose on-the-job training.

"We had a 90 percent employment rate and a $6.35 average placement wage," said Martin, who became program coordinator about three weeks ago.

"If this three-month period is successful, we're hoping to receive a much larger grant," said Martin, who explained that the success will be judged by the number of applicants and placements.

"We will not just be spending our money on a few, but will be spreading it as equally as we can," he continued. "This is not a welfare program. We want to get a productive person back in the work force as fast as we can."

Martin said some who have farmed all of their lives or who were nearing retirement age when the farm failed do not believe that they are capable of other occupations.

"It is a devastating feeling for these people, and depression can set in when they feel down on their luck and think there's no hope," Martin said. "They have more experience than they realize. All we need to do is get with them to show them. I feel that our association can give them hope."

City, County Get Liquor Rebate

State Comptroller Bob Bullock late last week sent checks totaling $10.9 million to the 219 counties and 430 cities as their share of the state's 12 percent mixed drink tax collected during the second quarter of 1987.

Bullock said the state collected $45.3 million in mixed drink taxes for the second quarter, compared to $50.7 million collected during the same period in 1986.

Bailey County remitted $5,526.52 to the state and their share of the tax was $690.82; and Muleshoe remitted $4,338.73 to the state and received a check for $542.34.

For Cochran County, the remittance was $861.69, and the county received $107.71.

Lamb County remitted $6,268.68 and received a check in the amount of $783.59; and Littlefield returned $3,956.90 to the state and received $494.61.

According to the Comptroller, Parmer County remitted $588.12 in taxes, and received $73.52.

Texas cities and counties each receive a 12.5 percent share of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks in the state.

Of the total $45.3 million in state collections, counties received $5.6 million, down from the $6.3 million received in the second quarter of 1986. Cities received $5.3 million, down from the $5.8 million rebated to cities last year during the first quarter. The $34.4 balance was deposited in the state's general revenue fund, down from $38.6 million collected in the second quarter of 1986.

The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission. City and county rebates are sent out quarterly by Bullock's office.

Caring For A Dementia Victim - Make Home Safer

Taking a bath, cooking a meal and walking around the block -- these are just some of the things taken for granted in every day life. But for the victims of dementia, even ordinary activities can cause increased agitation and eventually become dangerous.

According to the National Institutes of Mental Health, dementia is a brain disorder which affects about one out of seven older families. Fifty percent of the cases are probably Alzheimer's Disease. This incurable disorder results in a progressive memory loss which eventually leaves the victim unable to function normally.

"Managing a loved one with progressive dementia isn't easy. It involves understanding the disease, patience and skill," says Dr. Judith Warren, a gerontologist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

She explains that impaired people must be monitored constantly, because of the problems their memory loss invites, so it's important for family members to inventory possible sources of danger in the home. These dangers include high windows, stairs, power tools, appliances, knives, hot water, poisons, firearms, matches, medications, small objects, loose rugs, and improper lighting.

To make the dementia victim's environment safer, the specialist advises taking the following steps:

©Secure high windows and install gates at stair entrances.

©If the victim is still functioning enough to use appliances such as a hair dryer or electric razor, supervise the activity.

©To prevent burns, ask the utility company to alter the stove so the dementia victim cannot easily turn it on. Lower the setting on the water heater to 120 degrees or lower, and check the temperature and depth of bath water.

©Lock medication, power tools, knives, poisons, liquors, firearms and matches out of the victim's reach.

©Dispense the person's medications and supervise smoking. Remove small objects that might be ingested, loose rugs and harmful plants.

©Use child proof caps on electrical outlets. Provide adequate lighting in all areas and use night lights in hallways and bathrooms.

The gerontologist notes that some dementia victims tend to wander to relieve the tension of their confinement. In that case, an 8-foot wooden fence completely enclosing part of the yard will provide a safe space for the victims to wander outside.

For safe outside activity, the person should wear well-fitted shoes with nonskid soles. If the ground is very uneven or if a walker is necessary, consider adding a smooth sidewalk.

The specialist also suggests adding a porch swing or rocking chair under a sheltered area for a rest spot, since the back and forth motion seems to have a calming effect on many dementia victims.

"Keeping the home environment safe also means that the care giver should not be overwhelmed and exhausted," emphasizes Warren. "Health care

Louise Ellis Muleshoe Native Dies

Funeral services for Louise Ellis, 49, of Hart were held at 2:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 7 in the Hart Church of Christ with Roy Shave, Church of Christ minister of Hereford, officiating.

Burial was in Muleshoe Cemetery under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home of Muleshoe. Mrs. Ellis died at 1:28 p.m. Wednesday in Lubbock General Hospital.

Born Feb. 13, 1938, in Muleshoe, she moved to Hart in 1968, from Muleshoe. She married Vernon Ellis on Dec. 21, 1957, in Muleshoe. She was a homemaker and a member of the Hart Church of Christ.

Survivors include her husband, Vernon; a daughter, Tiwana Kay Ellis of Hart; her mother, Lela Gatlin of Portales, N.M.; and a sister, Mrs. Faye Nunn of Portales, N.M.

professionals and community groups such as the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association (ADDA) can offer some good ideas and advice. Care givers can also make use of community services as home health agencies, adult day care and private sitters to provide needed relief time.

Mike Sullivan, Governor of Wyoming, on drinking age:

"I think there's a basic sort of conservative state's rights view of Wyoming, and we probably have a little more respect for our 19- and 20-year-olds than other places."

Phil Gramm, Senator (Tex.): "Balanced budgets are like going to heaven, everybody wants a balanced budget but nobody wants to do what you have to do to balance the budget."

Get Garden Pesticides Out Of Your Clothing

When you're dusting the roses or spraying the trees, it's easy to get pesticides on your body as well as the plants. Taking a shower removes the pesticides from you -- but what about your clothes?

"Spills and spray from common garden pesticides contaminate clothing, so it must be specially treated to avoid potential health hazards," says clothing specialist Dr. Ann Beard.

"It's best to change clothes in the garage, if possible, and put contaminated clothes aside before going inside to shower," advises the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

"Don't put the clothes in the hamper to wash with the family laundry," she cautions. "Research shows that pesticide residues are transferred from contaminated clothing to other clothing, especially when laundered together."

Pre-washing will help remove pesticide particles from the fabric, advises the specialist. You can pre-wash clothes outdoors by hosing them down or soaking them in a bucket, or bring them inside to machine wash on the pre-wash cycle.

She emphasizes that pre-washing is highly recommended when a wettable powder-type pesticide concentrate spills on clothing, because it clings to clothing fibers.

"Pesticide residues from less toxic or dilute pesticides can usually be washed out in one machine washing," says Beard. "However, use both pre-washing and several machine washings on spills from wettable powder or concentrated liquid pesticides."

According to the specialist, how you machine wash the clothes is important too. Washing them in hot water will remove more pesticide than washing in warm or cold temperatures. Cold temperatures in particular, are relatively ineffective in removing pesticides from fibers.

Use either a liquid or powder heavy-duty detergent containing phosphate carbonate to wash clothes. Laundry additives such as bleach can be added, but they don't help remove the pesticide residues.

Beard also advises using a full water level on your machine, even if you have only one or two contaminated garments. That will allow the water to thoroughly flush the fabric.

The heat from either line-drying or machine-drying will provide further chemical breakdown of pesticide residues, she adds. "After you've washed the clothes, a pesticide carry-over to other laundry loads is possible," notes the specialist. "Rinse the washing machine with an empty load using hot water and detergent, just as you did the contaminated clothes."

"Exposure to garden pesticides can cause skin rashes, headaches, nausea and a number of other problems," says Beard. "It just makes good sense to adequately wash gardening clothes so these hazards are minimized."

Laws and commandments, in some people's opinions, were made to guide some other fellow.

When you pay your taxes, do you ever stop to think of what you are contributing to?

A good meal often changes an individual's entire viewpoint on life and its problems.

The artist is capturing the physical likeness of this lovely girl on her paper. The likeness is amazing. But her inward beauty, her wonderful Christian heart and soul, can only be captured fully on God's canvas. The Bible says that "Man looketh on the outward appearance but God looketh on the heart."

How would God's painting picture you and me?

One good way to improve your heart condition is to attend church and hear God's word proclaimed from the pulpit. Learn God's plan for your life by listening to His word. We invite you to attend the church of your choice this week.
