South Bailey County Receives Heavy Rains

Heavy rains fell in portions of Bailey County Wednesday night prompting the National Weather Service out of Lubbock to issue a flash flood warning, as a slow moving thunderstorm moved through eastern New Mexico into West Texas.

Portions of the south and south west part of Bailey County reported roads under water and quarter-sized hail shortly after 5 p.m., according to Bill Hopkins, a weather specialist at the National Weather Service.

Karen Collins reported that Coyote Lake Feedyard received 1.5 inch of rain and no hail.

"It's just what we needed, we need some more," said Kelli Henrich at Maple Butane Co., speaking of the 1.5 inch of rain they received.

Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge reported that they received .91 on Wednesday night, added to the .03 they received on Tuesday bringing their total up to almost an inch.

In the Pleasant Valley area Marilyn Gable reported that they received 1.7 inch of rain on Wednesday night.

Steve Foster at Foster Fertilizer at Lazbuddie reported that they received a half of an inch of rain Tuesday and three and a half inches of rain on Wednesday night there at the business. "Rains ranged from one and a half inches to four inches in this area," Foster said. He also reported that they didn't have any hail. "For the first time this year, the rain allowed the farmers to shut their wells off," Foster continued.

It was reported that the Lariat area received from one and a half to two inches of rain Wednesday

Great Plains Forestry Tour Includes Muleshoe

The Great Plains Forestry Committee Tour was in Muleshoe Wednesday, July 14. Before coming to Muleshoe they visited the South Plains Christmas Tree Farm north of Levelland. This family Christmas tree operation was developed over several years and now expanded to 12 acres. They observed drip irrigation, weed control, management, plus equipment used at market time. Field operations and marketing strategies and their "full package" pricing was discussed.

The group then visited a test plot/demonstration planting of numerous woody species located at the South Plains College in Levelland; multiple state and local agencies cooperating to test and enhance windbreak species for sandy soil.

When they left Levelland, they headed west through the area with numerous sections of land in the Conservation Reserve Program (and oil production), through the small farming community of Whiteface in Morton and Cochran County (which borders New Mexico) north through a region of dry land cotton production, into a large "draw" and wildlife region.

From there they went to the Hall Brothers Farm and observed a windbreak establishment with aid of fabric to reduce weedy vegetation, harvest an channel natural rainfall for seedlings and conserve moisture. Located on the north side of the draw, with a diverse horizon in all directions, Jim Lutz, SCS area conservationist, explained the strategy, cooperation with land owners and related activities.

The group then visited the Muleshoe National Wildlife Refuge located in the same area, overwintering home to thousands of sandhill cranes who summer in the far north. Calvin Richardson and Jim Ray, wildlife biologist with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, commented on fauna and conservation.

The group had lunch in the seed warehouse by Blackwater Valley Soil and Water Conservation District, on the Bamert Seed Farm. Nick Bamert discussed their family farming operations, seed farms and production of specialty products, cooperative program of the Texas Forestry Service and SWCD, and regional and state programs.

They also observed windbreaks and wildlife habitat in conjunction with row crop agriculture/CRP activities on the Bamert Farm.

From there they went to Littlefield where they toured the American Cotton Growers Textile Division's denim mill; an initiative by area farmers to capture more value in their raw cotton. Lance

Pennsylvania 4-H Exchange Trip

The following is part three of the 4-H Exchange Group's trip to Pennsylvania:

TUESDAY, JULY 22

7:45 a.m.-- Everyone met at the York County 4-H Center this morning to go to Lancaster County. We rode on the York County Van. We toured the Mill Bridge Village which had an Amish Gift Shop, Amish School Room, buggy rides, blacksmith shop, grist mill, covered wooden bridge, Victorian music room, Amish kitchen and family room, and an ice cream shop. It was supposed to be a replica of a working Amish farm, but it was very commercialized. In the Amish school building there was a blind Amish man who wanted to take the kids to his farm and show them his Morgan horses and his pot-bellied pigs. We ate sack lunches in the picnic area at the village.

We left the village and travelled to the Dutch World Wax Museum in Lancaster, PA. It had wax figures that depicted many historical events from Lancaster county. Davie Crockett was born in Lancaster County and stayed there until he reached manhood. Several people bought items in the gift shop with the interesting names of towns in Lancaster County. We were taking a group photo outside the Wax Museum and Kandy's camera got knocked off the trash container and bounced on the concrete. She lost a roll of film but it looks like the camera will keep on working.

From the wax museum, we went to the Root's Market and Auction in Lancaster County. The market covered a huge block of several blocks. You could purchase anything from live animals to stuffed zebras there. Most everyone bought something at the market. Everyone was supposed to eat supper at the market, but most of the kids did not. We left the market early and went back to the York County 4-H Center to teach their 4-Hers how to country dance. We all went to our host homes at 8:00 p.m.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23

8:15 a.m.--Everyone met at the York County 4-H Center to travel to Gettysburg for the day. We again travelled on the bus and van to the Gettysburg National Memorial Park. Everyone went inside the museum and bookstore and looked around. At 11:00 a.m., we all went in to watch the narrated electric map show which told about the actual battle at Gettysburg. After the show, we all went on a walking tour of the National Cemetery or the Needle Tower to look out over the battlegrounds. We then went back to the bus for a sack lunch. At 1:00 p.m. we all got on the bus and took a tour of the battlegrounds. The tour guide took us through all three days of the battle and let us stop and look at the major monuments and points of interest. Kimberly actually climbed about half-way up one of the observation towers. I thought the Gettysburg tour was awesome. We left Gettysburg at about 3:30 p.m. and headed to the Warren Debnam home in York County for swimming, volleyball and pizza. The Debnam home was really nice. Their oldest daughter, Wendy, teaches swimming lessons to 94 people every day in their pool. I think that is a full time job, but she also house sits for a neighbor. Everyone left for their homes or for the 4-H Center at 7:30 p.m.

THURSDAY, JUNE 24

8:00 a.m.--Those in our group who needed a ride to Hershey, met at the 4-H Center at this time. Everyone else went with their host families to Hershey Park. Kimberly, who is still afraid of heights, rode several of the roller coaster type rides. Tricia rode some of those same rides. She had a hard time breathing on the steep, free-fall on the Coal Cracker water ride and several others that the kids got her on. Several families went to their cars and the bus for sack lunches. All of the others ate lunch in the park. Kourtnee and Keith were walking around the park together and were seen holding hands on several occasions. Some of the families left the park at about 5:30 p.m., while those who rode the bus stayed until 8:00 p.m. Kourtnee really embarrassed herself about holding hands with Keith when the Dave Albright family came over to the Dehoff family's house tonight. On Thursday and Friday, Kourtnee, Shane, Lisa and Cindy had to walk down the drive way and back up it because the van was dragging the running boards on the bumps.

FRIDAY, JUNE 25

9:00 a.m.--Everyone met at the York County 4-H Center to catch the bus and van to tour the Pfaltzgraff Pottery Plant at Thomasville. Everyone had to bring their luggage with them this morning so we would be ready to leave for home late this evening. We saw pottery being made from start to finish. It was really interesting because they put us in groups of five or six and took us through the plant. The only part of the plant that is air conditioned, besides the offices, is where they apply the decals to the pieces of pottery. Everyone on the tour received a pottery bell with a HEX sign on it as a souvenir.

We then traveled to the York Galleria Mall for lunch. They have a big food court where you can eat whatever you like. After eating lunch and a little shopping, we boarded the bus and van again and

PUSH Group Stops In Muleshoe

Shortly after noon Tuesday a group of tired bicyclist (PUSH) rode into Muleshoe and were met by a group of Jennyslippers.

Following a long hot ride from Elida, N.M., the group enjoyed a refreshing swim at the Muleshoe Country Club. The group was then taken to Joe's Boot Shop where a few of them rode the horse.

The Jennyslippers then served them supper at the First United Sharon Grant reported that Sandra Bricker of Muleshoe was the winner of the Barbecue Grill given away on July 5.

Donated by J.C. and Zona Gatewood, the grill was donated in the memory of Roy Whitt.

All proceeds went to MASH and Meals On Wheels.

"We appreciate the support of the Gatewoods, Joe's Boot Shop, where the grill was stored, and all those who made donations to the fund," said Mrs. Grant.

James W. Baskin has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of staff sergeant. The sergeant, a tactical electro-environmental systems specialist, is the son of Gene and Stephanie Baskin of Springdale, Ark. His wife, Carolyn, is the daughter of Ray and Frances Gonzales of Friona. Baskin is a 1986 graduate of Springdale High School.

This time of year, area cotton and corn producers have a tremendous number of management decisions to make that will impact their crop yields and their pocketbook. Crop pests are an important concern.

The Parmer County Extension Service is sponsoring a "Cotton and Corn Pest Management Seminar" Thursday, July 22 at 1:30 p.m. in the Farwell Community Center.

Producers can learn the latest on pest situations, scouting techniques, identification and control.

Hands-on training will be provided to all participants.

Program speakers include: Dr. Pat Morrison, Extension Entomologist; Dr. James Leser, Extension cotton Entomologist; and Dr. Peter Dotray, Extension Weed Specialist.

Two continuing education units (CEU's) will be offered for private applicators.

Methodist Church. After a hearty meal, the group spent the night in the church and the Jennyslippers prepared their breakfast before they began their journey to Lubbock about 7:30 a.m.

PUSH represents The Journey of Hope.

The Journey of Hope is a coast-to-coast bicycle trek whose mission is to raise funds and public awareness to benefit Americans with Disabilities.

This summer, 60 collegiate members all members of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity, representing universities nationwide embarked on a coast to coast Journey of Hope.

Taking two routes, a northern and a southern route, the teams each containing 23 men are cycling simultaneous treks from San Francisco to Washington, D.C. and Charleston South Carolina.

Beginning on June 14, the groups plan to finish their 62 day trek on August 14. The campaign reaches 21 states. A wide range of special events are being held during the trip upon the team's arrival in 99 overnight cities.

Each group will ride approximately 3,500 miles each

Annual Summer Music Workshop Dates Set

It's time for the third-annual Summer Music Workshop, for kids who have completed grades two through seven, hosted by the First United Methodist Church.

"A Technicolor Promise," a brand new musical written by Allen Pote and Carole McCann, will be the featured performance of the choir/drama cast. According to reports, this new musical tells the story of Noah's Ark in a most Exciting and Unusual way.

The guest conductor/director of the workshop this year is Jeremy S. Bruns, native of Muleshoe. He is the Associate Organist and Children's Choir director at St. John's United Methodist Church in Lubbock. Bruns says, "This musical, unlike many, is one in which every participant may have a special, individual part in the production. I think this is important."

The camp will be held Monday, August 2, through Friday, August 6. Rehearsals Monday through Thursday will be 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Friday, rehearsals will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. (including a special activity). Participants are asked to take a sack lunch on this day. The performance will be on Sunday, August 8, at 5 p.m. in the FUMC fellowship hall (the performance will be approximately 35 minutes long).

route, with an average ride of 75 miles per day.

The two PUSH America teams are composed of 46 members of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity from 36 colleges and universities, in 21 states. Each student raised a minimum of $4,000 to qualify for the team.

Serving people with disabilities, PUSH America is the national outreach project of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity. Pi Kappa Phi is the only national men's Fraternity to found its own service project, and its student members have raised nearly three million dollars for PUSH America since its founding in 1977.

During the trip, the team will provide dozens of presentations in small communities and large cities alike, helping others understand the issues facing those with handicapping conditions.

Often times, the team will focus on "future leaders" by providing a nationally acclaimed puppet show to children using life-sized puppets with disabilities. The innovative program teaches the young citizens what it's like to be "differently-abled."

The group is scheduled to meet with church and civic groups as the team offers a unique workshop in "empathy training" where participants are given a firsthand opportunity to experience some of the challenges faced by those with disabilities.

After riding an average of 75 miles each day, the team always finds time to meet with those for whom they're riding. These "friendship visits" range from a trip to a nearby park with some disabled children, to dinner with the residents of a group home. Although the visits are sometimes short, the memories are long.

Pest Management Seminar Slated At Farwell

A Multi-County Cotton and Corn Pest Management Seminar has been scheduled for 1:30 p.m. July 22 in the Farwell Community Center. Counties included in the seminar are: Parmer, Bailey, Castro, and Lamb.

Review of corn and sorghum pests; scouting techniques, cotton insect pest management, weed identification and control will be the topics of discussion.

Participants will go to nearby cotton and corn field for hands on training of insect and weed pest identification. Dr. Pat Morrison, Dr. Jim Leser and Dr. Peter Dotray will be conducting the program.

"No continuing education units will be offered toward private applicator recertification.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor-

What does Independence Day Mean to you as an American?

I was so disturbed to hear evidently it means so little to so many in the community. Recently I returned home for a visit with my family. Unfortunately, I was unable to attend the annual 4th of July parade. I am so angry and upset to hear fewer people stood to respect the passing of the American flag than those who would have stood in line to buy a lottery ticket. Americans regain your pride and respect for your freedom and country.

New Curriculum Puts Food Safety To The Test

With food safety near the top of many news reports today, some of us are so confused that we don't know whether anything is safe to eat.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration, in cooperation with the International Food Information Council Foundation, has developed a new educational program to help teenagers learn about food safety, and steps they can take to assure the safety of foods they eat.

Food Risks: Perception vs. Reality combines basic food safety concepts with hands-on activities and quizzes that challenge students to identify and evaluate various food safety risks. More than 16,000 copies of the new curriculum guide are being distributed to public, private and parochial high school teachers in health, science and home economics nationwide.

"Many high school students are responsible for making their own food choices and need to decipher the food safety messages they receive from the media, friends and family," said Tom Stenzel, IFIC's president.

Information is included on pesticide residues, food additives and animal drugs, as well as bacterial contamination. Recent outbreaks of foodborne illness have emphasized the importance of adequate cooking of meats, and the need to avoid cross-contamination of other foods with uncooked meat.

"Food Risks contains timely information on safe food handling," said Ann Mae Sipko, a home economics and culinary arts teacher at Wyoming Valley West High School in Plymouth, PA. "I've used the curriculum with about 120 students and their response has been excellent."

Additional information about Food Risks: Perception vs. Reality is available from FDA, HFI-40, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857 or the IFIC Foundation, 1100 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Suite 430, Washington, D.C. 20036.

Yogurt: Get The Facts

Everyone agrees that yogurt is good food, but there are some false or unproven claims about its benefits.

"There are many myths about yogurt today," said Sandra Feldman, R.D., dietitian at Methodist Hospital. "It is important to learn the truth. One way of making sure of the nutritional value of the yogurt that you buy is to always read its fat content."

Following are some facts about yogurt:

Yogurt is more nutritious than milk-Yogurt is simply milk fermented with bacteria. Because it is generally thickened with nonfat solids, yogurt can be more nutritious than milk. Yogurt also has more calcium and is a better source of B vitamins, phosphorus and potassium.

Fruit yogurts contain more calories and are less nutritious than regular yogurt-Fruit yogurts are made from preserves and can contain up to seven teaspoons of sugar. The number of calories and the amount of fat in yogurt depend on the type of milk the yogurt is made from and also the amount of sweeteners it contains. Because the fruit also takes up cup space, you get less of the yogurt's vitamins and minerals.

Yogurt is easier to digest than milk-Many adults have problems digesting lactose. The bacteria in yogurt can help break down some of the lactose, thus allowing for easier digestion. However, this may vary among individuals and yogurt brands.

Frozen yogurt is less nutritious than regular yogurt-There are no federal standards that regulate frozen yogurt. Most are only slightly fermented and contain much less calcium. However, some nonfat frozen varieties are now available.

"The healthiest yogurts are plain or sugar-free varieties of nonfat yogurts, which are made from skim milk," said Feldman.

News From
U.S. Representative
Larry Combest

After this 217 annual Independence Day, we independent Americans would seem to be thinking alike about our love for this great country. Everything we associate with the Fourth of July--freedom, independence and American pride--sounds rather obvious, or "self evident." However, those are exactly the ideas Thomas Jefferson said he wanted to express. He did not write the Declaration of Independence so that it would be a never-before-thought-of way of expressing America's need for independence from Britain. Instead, Jefferson wanted common sense words that were so plain and firm that the people of the world would understand what was on the American mind.

As I read through the responses I asked for in the comments section of the recent questionnaire sent to each of you, I see many common sense words that are plain and firm about your concerns. To say not everyone is happy with government tax-and-spend would be an understatement. As taxpayers, we have had a meeting of the minds. The problem with much of Washington is that it seems to have missed the meeting.

It is a testament to the common sense of the Declaration of Independence that it is clearly relevant to our frustration with government today. In the 1770's, the colonists bitterly complained about "taxation without representation." These days, there is "taxation without hesitation." The Declaration of Independence set out to make it clear that government gets its power to govern only from the people. Whenever any form of government becomes destructive, says the Declaration, the people have a right to alter or abolish it, but only in the case of absolute Despotism.

Colonists reacted to the unfair British tax by staging the Boston Tea Party because without the right to vote they were not able to change the laws or Parliament. Today, because all Americans have the right to vote, our demands to cut spending first can really affect policy in Washington, without the need to storm the Capitol. We can use the power of the vote wisely. Each of us can have an impact on other Members of Congress by encouraging our friends and families in other parts of the country to hold their congressmen accountable.

Many public libraries have copies of "Congressional Quarterly" magazine, which publishes how all representatives and senators voted each week, along with an explanation of how a "yea" or "nay" vote could be interpreted. You can also participate in the legislative process through discussions during our town hall meetings, membership in associations and your phone calls and letters. Armed with the facts, the people can exert their right over government.

Our independence and freedom to act responsibly is the heritage handed down to us from the Declaration of Independence. The independent American mind has long ago decided that government's financial bills are "past due"---and so is the need for government to act.

Lubbock's nameless U.S. Federal Building and U.S. Courthouse will bear the words, "George H. Mahon Federal Building and United States Courthouse" under legislation introduced today by U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas). The newly-created 19th Congressional District elected George Mahon as its first Member of Congress in 1934, re-electing him to 21 succeeding congresses until he retired on January 3, 1979 when the 96th Congress convened. Mahon served continuously as Chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee longer than anyone in the committee's 128-year history. Also at the time, he had served more terms in Congress than any of his colleagues, retiring as the dean of the U.S. House of Representatives.

"It is difficult to drive through the spacious 20-county region which encompasses the 19th District of Texas without noting the legacy of George Mahon," said Combest in today's speech from the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives. "Throughout his distinguished 44-year congressional career, Mahon's leadership for his district, state and his nation served as a role model for all other Members of Congress to try and emulate, and to follow."

Combest's legislation was prompted by longstanding requests that the federal building and courthouse be named for Mahon. The timing occurs after the finalized boundaries of the 19th Congressional District were approved by the U.S. Justice Department and withstood legal challenge. Midland's federal building bears Mahon's name, but it is not within the 19th Congressional District's boundary. In introducing the building for Congressman Mahon is a fitting tribute to George Mahon's legacy in a city that became his adopted home.

U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas) announced today's House approval of $1.7 million to complete the second phase of the Joint Armed Services Reserve Center in Lubbock that consolidates armory facilities being demolished for construction of the East-West Freeway. This final phase of funding will provide a 10,767 square foot Organizational Maintenance Shop consisting of two maintenance facilities, one each for the Army Reserve unit and the Marine Corps Reserve unit.

"The Guard and Reserve should be complimented for thinking far enough in advance to bring their resources together in one cost-sharing facility--the only one of its kind in Texas," said Combest. "Not only does this one facility replace the aging armory that will be torn down to make room for the East-West Freeway, but it consolidates units from around town into one place where they can train and work together."

The masonry block maintenance shop will have a total of seven workbays, plus administrative, personnel and work areas. In September 1992, Congress approved Combest's $8.6 million request which funded the consolidated facilities as well as a maintenance facility for the National Guard vehicles. Today's $1.7 million funding provides for maintenance facilities for the vehicle of the Army, Navy, and Marine Reserve units. Without this maintenance project, Guard and Reserve officials said there would be no maintenance support for their units within a reasonable distance, severely impacting readiness, recruiting, retention and training.

"We must maintain the readiness of our Guard and Reserve and we have proven with this facility that we can do so efficiently and with foresight," said Combest.

Enochs News
by Mrs. J.D. Bayless

We were proud of the rain. I got 3/10. Everything dries so fast after the hard winds we are getting, almost every day.

Rev. and Mrs. Jim Green of Lubbock were visitors at the Baptist Church Sunday, they were former members of the church years ago when they taught school at Bula and he surrendered to preach. He preached both services Sunday and they were dinner guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Layton were also guests.

We are so sorry there are so many sick people, Mrs. Loretta Layton is still a patient in the hospital in El Paso. Mrs. Lucille Smith is a patient in the Methodist Hospital in Lubbock, Shorty McCall got to go home from Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. God bless each of you.

Supper guests and spending the night with Mrs. Ellen Bayless were a niece, Mrs. Juanita Parsons, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Darlene Parsons and her daughter, Kim from Arlington. They went to Lubbock to the Coffman Reunion Saturday.

The "Horse's Petute" Syndrome

For the past several years, I've had occasion to be with a certain person or two that has displayed a type of hostility. They don't hit or scream but they ignore or if they would speak, it would be short, curt answers. It has always been obvious that they are angry about something.

I'm not sure what their motive or purpose is in behaving this way but it seems they resent anyone who does things that does not meet their standard or approval. It has become rather amusing. No matter how nice you act, they are still putting around. They must enjoy being miserable! It seems that they are narrow people in the way they think. It's like they live behind a white-picket-fence. They only accept people who act and believe like they do.

They must think they are passing judgement of justice upon others for not meeting their criteria but in reality they are displaying how much of a horse's petute they are.

It's easy for me to recognize this trait because I've been one, at times, too. But understand, that it's OK for me to act that way but not for others!

If it sounds like I have a personal agenda behind this article, you are right. I do!! Perhaps it will be of help to you because I do not think I'm the only one who knows someone who is a horse's petute!!!

Wedding Shower Honors Harris, Wallace

Mike Harris and Cheryl Wallace

The home of Ted and Nancy Barnhill was the setting for a shower honoring Mike Harris and Cheryl Wallace June 26, 1993. Guests were greeted by the honorees and Mike's mother, Kay Harris. Special guests included Mike's grandmothers, Loyce Killingsworth and Farene Harris and sister, Emily Harris.

Refreshments included purple passion punch and miniatures of quiche, assorted french pastries and cheesecake served from crystal and silver appointments. The table was adorned with an arrangement of long stemmed flowers in shades of purple trimmed with a brocade ribbon of teal and purple.

Hostess gift was a sunbeam stainless steel mixer.

Party Time Cheese Ball

12 oz. cheddar cheese, room temperature and cubed 1/3 cup La Choy sweet and sour sauce
1/3 cup chopped green onions
1 Tbsp. soy sauce 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
1/8 tsp. cayenne powder 1 (8-oz.) can water chestnuts, drained
1 (3-oz.) can Chow Mein Noodles, crushed 1 Tbsp. minced parsley
Assorted crackers

In bowl of food processor, place first six ingredients; process until smooth, scraping sides as needed. Add water chestnuts and process on pulse for five seconds or until coarsely chopped. Scoop cheese mixture into bowl. Cover and refrigerate two hours or until chilled through. Shape chilled mixture into ball. Keep chilled until ready to serve. In bowl, combine noodles and parsley. Roll cheese ball in noodle mixture just before serving. Serve with crackers. Makes one five-inch cheese ball.

Library News

by Anne Camp

Now that the dust has settled from Summer Reading Club, which was very successful, we will be taking inventory of books, videos, tapes, and all other material in the Library. We want to apologize for any inconvenience it may cause. We hope to complete it by summer's end. No videos will be circulated during the process, and we hope to set up a new system of circulating which will be more convenient, and practical. We thank you for your patience in the meantime.

On the brighter side, we had a nice visit during the July 4th weekend with Gale Brinkman from upstate New York. She has given the Library as a memorial to Allie Horsley, Lee's grandmother, a set of 24 audio cassettes, of the complete unabridged version of "Lonesome Dove", which was read by Lee Horsley. The 843 page book, published in 1985 by Larry McMurtry, best selling author of many books, was also a mini-series on T.V. recently. Larry McMurtry, a nephew of Johnny McMurtry, who was a rancher and lived near Muleshoe in the Jane's ranch house for many years. Johnny was well known here for his dry wit, and ability to spin yarns. Larry wrote many articles about family reunions he attended at the Jane's ranch house and in fact dug up more than a few skeletons in the McMurtry family closets. Subsequently Larry has been a prolific writer of novels which get down to the nitty-gritty details. "Lonesome Dove" his best contribution to literature can now be enjoyed on tape from the Muleshoe Public Library, thanks to Gale Brinkman's Memorial gift.

Wood:

All Taped Up!

Using a new product called Hallmark Gel Stain, a fun assortment of projects and decorating ideas can be obtained. Hallmark Home Decor products on wood involving using tape, self-adhesive shelf paper and a variety of self-adhesive labels and shapes. The results will be many different design effects on wood.

To prepare the wooden piece, sand the surface to smooth out chips or rough textures. Now you are ready to stain.

Hallmark gel stains are formulated very thick and won't drip or run. When you mask off an area with a piece of tape or a label, you can apply the gel stains right over the tape and onto the unmasked area, and the gel stain will not run or crawl under the tape (or labels). Wood Stain Gels, Picking Gels, Neutral Gel and antiquing Gels also allow you to stain an unpainted or painted surface allowing the wood grain or base coat color to show through. You can create crisp, clean lines, borders and designs using masking tape or invisible tape (both work well.) Hallmark Wood Stains and Finishes are fast-drying and clean up easily with water.

After staining and decorating your wood piece, give it a protective finish. Choose between three finishes-gloss, satin or matte.

Families Needed To Step Into The Future

Become a host family to an international exchange student an help to form a 15 to 18 year old teenager's image of the American people as well as shape the future. By giving these students the opportunity to live with your family and experience America, you will help them to obtain greater insights into the workings of American democracy. As these youngsters mature and become decision making leaders within their own communities, they can apply their gained knowledge toward the future challenge of improving their own countries. Students come from Asia, Europe, and Latin America and attend their host family's local high school September through June. Students have full insurance coverage and bring their own spending money. Host families provide room and board only and may take a $50.00 tax deduction each month. Your family can learn about another culture and language while making a lifetime friendship with your international son/daughter or sister/brother. You can make a difference in a young person's life and in the future. PH: 1-800-848-2121.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Renner

Wedding Shower Honors K.K. and Kevin Renner

Buck and Lynn Campbell's backyard was the scene for a patio buffet wedding shower held in honor of K.K. and Kevin Renner on July 10, 1993 from 7:30-9:00 p.m.

Prime rib with horseradish cream sauce, shaved ham with burgandy-mustard and bite size rolls, salmon spread with rye bread, pasta salad, Tabuleh, and a fruit bowl were served from a table dressed with a white table cloth, accented with a hunter green runner down the center. Pink gladiolus in a terra cotta vase, served as the center piece.

The lawn was accentuated with white tables with hunter green cloths and white chairs. Adding a soft warm glow to the festive setting were Tikki torches outlining the yard.

Special guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elms and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elms of Dallas, Jane Maddox of Levelland, Carolyn and Leslie Watkins of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry David and Sam Arnett of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hartley of Clovis, NM.

Lubbock Poet Highlights Breakfast

Perry L. Williams, well-known cowboy poet, stars July 10th at the Cowboy Poet Breakfast at the Big Texan Steak Ranch. The program begins at 9:00 AM with honky-tonk piano music by Rusty Nichols of Borger. Perry's half-hour performance starts about 9:15, then Dusty Birchfield, student poet, reads. David Yeager, also from Lubbock, will entertain with his cowboy music. Then cowboy/girl poets in the audience participate during the Open Session, all in the powerful down-to-earth homey language of people who love the western life.

Williams operates his own real estate appraisal company in Lubbock. His family goes way back in the history of Texas. Two great-grandfathers fought with the Army of the Republic of Texas to gain independence from Mexico, and were awarded head-rights of land for their service. Williams received a degree in agriculture from Texas Tech, taught Vo-Ag in Lovington, NM, and worked on ranches in Texas and New Mexico.

For many years, he rode bulls and bareback broncs, and performed as a rodeo clown. He says, "When I got too slow--or smart--to try to outrun the bulls, I started putting some of these experiences and observations of cowboy life into my own poems." Williams performed at the Clovis Cowboy Gathering, the Silver City Gathering, the Big Spring Gathering and at Alpine. He is on the advisory committee for the National Cowboy Symposium.

Cowboy/girl poets, their fans, and all who enjoy hearing about the days of the old west, gathered for the monthly Cowboy Poet Breakfast on July 10 at the Big Texan Steak Ranch in Lubbock.

Panhandle South Plains Fair Rabbit Show Exhibitions

One of the South Plains area premier rabbit shows is scheduled during the 76th annual Panhandle-South Plains Fair, according to Fair officials. Rabbits entered in the Sept. 30-Oct. 1 Rabbit Show will remain on display until Saturday morning, Oct. 2, reports Steve L. Lewis, Fair Manager. The fair opens an 8 day run Sept. 25-Oct. 2.

Rabbit entries in the 1992 exposition totaled 1,132 and expectations are high that entries this year will match or better that record. Rabbit fanciers from throughout the area will compete for more than $2,500 in prize money.

The show is sanctioned by the American Rabbit Breeders Association, Southwest Rabbit Association and seventeen major breed associations.

Entries for the Rabbit Show must be postmarked no later than midnight Thursday, Sept. 9. Entry forms and fees should be sent to show secretary Rosalie Berry, 513 E. Kent, Lubbock, TX 79403. A $1 entry fee will be charged for each rabbit entered.

During the fair rabbits will be received in the Rabbit and Poultry Building through the Broadway gate entrance only at the following times: Tuesday Sept. 28-2 p.m. until 6 p.m. or after 10 p.m.; Wednesday, Sept. 29-8 a.m. until 6 p.m. or after 10 p.m.

Rabbits will be judged at 9 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 30, and all entrants must be in the barn by 8:30 a.m. that morning. Robert Berry is General Superintendent of the Rabbit Show, assisted by J.J. Sharnburg. Duane Shrader, Lincoln, NE, will judge the show.

In conjunction with the Open Rabbit Show, a Youth Rabbit Judging contest is open for entries in two divisions: persons 12 and under, and persons 13-18. The contest will consist of rabbit placement and a written test.

More detailed information about Rabbit Show classes and entry times can be obtained from the Panhandle-South Plains Fair catalog. Catalogs are available from the Fair Office, 105 E. Broadway; Lubbock County Extension Office, 1418 Ave. G; Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, 14th and Ave. K; or the City of Lubbock Public Information Office, 1625 13th St. Area residents interested in exhibiting in the Rabbit Show may pick up a catalog from their local county extension office.

Ticket orders by mail for the country music stars performing in the coliseum during the fair are now being accepted and processed by the Fair Office. Stars set to perform include Tanya Tucker at 5 and 7 p.m. ($10, $12) on Sept. 25; Ricky Van Shelton at 7 p.m. ($12) Sept. 26; Michael English and 4 Him at 8 p.m. ($6), Sept. 29; and Alan Jackson at 7 and 9 p.m. ($15), Oct. 1.

To order tickets by mail write: SHOW TICKETS, P.O. Box 208, Lubbock, TX 79408. Include a check or money order for the tickets ordered plus $1 per order handling charge and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

All seats to the shows are reserved and show tickets do not include gate admission.

Sex In Late Life

This area is like a lot of others--we've done a lot of assuming about it but we don't really know much. Most have assumed there is not much sex going on in late life. However, research studies are showing something different.

The Harvard Medical School ("Harvard Health Letter, Vol. 18, Number 1, Nov. 1992) reports that one study found that 81% of women were sexually active in their 60's and 65% were active sexually over age 70.

With men, 91% were still having sex in their 60's and 70's. Those who were a part of this study rated their health as good to excellent. It's believed that generally, people in poor health or whose partner has died are most likely to become celibate.

A Duke University study found that about half of the people in their 80's and 90's are still interested in having sex. Many investigations have found that interest and activity levels in previous years strongly predict one's sexual life after 60. Those who have little interest in early life are more apt to "forget it" in later life.

Sex can be a blessing to people of any age. Some feel like it's a curse, though, due to some experience or beliefs they have. I believe it's important to realize, though sex may be important, it's not to be the center focus of a relationship. A healthy sex life is a by-product of a healthy emotional relationship between two people who love and are committed to each other.

If you are one who feels "frozen" and you feel it's inhibiting your relationship with someone, it may be helpful to seek some professional help. There's nothing wrong with that.

Know The Weather

Do we ever experience cold fronts in August? What is the maximum temperature of a cold front?

Cold fronts occur in every month of the year. We might have more of them pass over us in August than in January. What misleads many about cold fronts is the very name itself.

In the summer a cold front might contain (behind the leading edge) air 72 degrees, or even 80 degrees. A cold front is so-named because of its relative temperature considering the time of year and prevailing weather conditions. In August, as an example, if the temperature has been reaching 90 degrees or more for several days and a mass of air moves in and over, with temperatures of 80 degrees, then weathermen will call it a cold front.

Basic Peace Officer Course Scheduled At South Plains College

A basic peace officer course, for persons who want to be commissioned as peace officers, is scheduled Sept. 7-Dec. 7 at South Plains College.

Registration deadline is Sept. 3. Classes will meet 6-10 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesdays in the SPC Petroleum/Law Enforcement Technology Building, room 109C. Cost is $313.

Enrollment is limited to the first 25 persons who sign up. Payment must be completed before the first night class.

The course will cover information on the U.S. Constitution and Bill of Rights, Code of Criminal Procedures, use of force, arrest, search and seizure, mechanics of arrest, firearms, emergency medical care, traffic direction, crowd control, case preparation, courtroom demeanor and testimony.

Instructors will be college and area law enforcement personnel.

Interested persons must complete a reading-writing comprehension test and can pick up an admission packet in the Petroleum/Law Enforcement Technology Building, Room 197.

For more information, contact the SPC law enforcement office at 894-9611, ext. 342 or 291.

headed for the Harley-Davidson Motorcycle plant and Museum.

Today was the last day of the 1993 production before a two-week vacation. The last 1993 cycle off the line today was sold in April and they have been taking orders for 1004's since that time. The plant starts the 1994 production year when they return from vacation. The Harley-Davidson Museum owns at least one cycle from every model that has been produced since they started making them in 1903. Forty-one are on display in the museum and the rest are stored in Milwaukee for the travelling museum that goes all over the U.S. to motorcycle rallies.

After this tour we returned to the 4-H Center to eat hot dogs and sloppy Joes before heading to the train station in Harrisburg. After eating, we loaded all of the luggage into the bus and left the 4-H Center at 4:30 p.m. We got to the train station at 5:30 p.m. and checked the 33 bags on AMTRAK. Everyone had something to drink while we waited for the train. A large Black man tried to follow Tricia into the restroom at the train station. Everyone said goodbye, some shed a few tears, as we boarded the Broadway Limited train to Chicago at 7:03 p.m. We had ham and cheese, Lebanon bologna and cheese or ham sandwiches for supper on the train at about 8:30 p.m. The troop from Pennsylvania packed us a cooler full of food for the trip.

Letter To The Editor Policy

The Muleshoe Journal and Bailey County Journal welcomes letters to the editor on issues of concern to readers. Such letters must meet certain qualifications in order to be considered for publication.

Letters must bear the writers signature, address and phone number in order that the authorship may be confirmed. Under some circumstances we will delete the name of the writer, if, in our judgement, the request to do so is justified.

Letters should not exceed 300 words and must meet standards of good taste as well as legal guidelines. Letters attacking another person, a church or specific religion will not be published. Comments on issues are encouraged in order to maintain a forum for discussion of public views.

Kourtnee manages to go into the men's restroom on the train before bedtime.

The trip home will be printed in the Thursday Muleshoe Journal.

Broadhurst arranged for mill personnel to be the guides through the textile mill which serves major denim uses, and provides local jobs.

The tour then went on to the Texas Forest Service's West Texas nursery; seedling production in greenhouses, lath house grow outs, handling and reparation procedures, and other activities.

An overview of TAMU Research and Extension Service programs at Center, involving cotton and sorghum breeding, irrigation and water conservation, vegetable production, and satellite communication linkages was on the agenda, by Joe Bryant, Extension Service communications specialist.

Softball Tournament Deemed Successful

Wednesday afternoon Susan McDonald, president of the "Make A Wish Foundation", Lubbock division, made a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Orozco, Mary Louisa Orozco and Priscilla Orozco, in appreciation of a softball tournament held in Muleshoe over the holiday weekend.

The tournament was held to raise funds for the Make A Wish Foundation.

Priscilla Orozco had her wish, trip to Disney World in Florida, granted. She and her family made the trip on March 18, 1993.

Three leagues participated in the tournament and cleared approximately $800 after expenses.

Winners of the tournament were: First Place in the Men's and Boys division--C-VA; Second Place, Wild Bunch from Littlefield; and Leal's, Third Place.

First, Second and Third Place trophies and T-shirts were awarded.

Most children have a life time ahead to experience again and again the joy that having a wish come true can bring. But for a child who is afflicted with a tragic, life-threatening illness, a dream come true is a very special miracle. Transforming those dreams into reality is the job of the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation was established in 1980 in Phoenix, Arizona and is now the nation's largest and strongest wish granting charity, with chapters across the United States and internationally and supported by over 8000 volunteers.

Make-A-Wish has granted thousands of wishes of every variety conceivable--limited only by a child's imagination.

Their work is made possible through the concern and support of people and organizations who care--from large national corporations...to a service club or elementary school class...and to so many giving individuals.

Texans Think BTU Tax Would Slow Growth

According to a poll conducted recently by two University of Houston professors, the vast majority of Texans is opposed to President Clinton's broad-based energy tax—or BTU tax.

The poll, which was run between June 29 and July 3 by professors Richard Murray and Kent Tedin, showed that 63 percent of the 500 people interviewed were against a BTU tax. Only 23 percent of those contacted supported the proposed tax.

However, when provided information about the specific tax passed last month by the U.S. House of Representatives, opposition measured 73 percent with 50 percent strongly opposed.

The U.S. Senate has passed an alternative plan that would increase the tax on gasoline and other transportation fuels. However, 53 percent of the Texans interviewed said they also opposed that plan while 37 percent were supportive.

The House and Senate will reconcile the differing proposals later this month with a conference committee. Despite the Senate action, the Clinton Administration has refused to rule out some type of BTU tax. Some House members also are pushing for reinstatement of a BTU tax by the conference committee.

The lack of support for a BTU tax among Texans is rooted in a number of factors. More than half of respondents (56 percent) said they did not believe it would help reduce the federal deficit while 35 percent said it would. However, when asked whether they thought revenues from the proposed tax would be used to reduce the budget deficit or to fund new government spending, the overwhelming majority (73 percent) said the money would go to fund spending, with only 13 percent believing the extra funds would be used to trim the deficit.

Almost two-thirds of those interviewed (64 percent) also said a BTU tax would slow economic growth and cost the U.S. jobs. Studies indicate that a BTU tax would cost Texas 54,000 jobs.

A substantial majority (83 percent) said the BTU tax would hurt lower and middle income people. Also, 77 percent said heavier tax burden would befall states like Texas that have large energy intensive industries.

Murray said a BTU tax or any other broad energy tax would not find much support in Texas.

"Energy issues have an understandably high profile in Texas, and the BTU tax has been on the national agenda for months, so opinions about this measure are well-grounded in this state," Murray said. "That being the case, it is clear that the proposed BTU tax is a big political loser in the Lone Star State."

Did You Ever Work For The Draft?

Were you, or was someone you know, involved with drafting men into military service during World War II? Perhaps you were a volunteer draft board member or an employee of the Selective Service System. Maybe you worked for a local draft board in the early 1940s? If so, Uncle Sam wants you back...but this time it's not to serve; it's to say "Thank You". That's right, the Selective Service System wants to recognize you as part of the events commemorating the 50th anniversary of the agency's role in World War II.

In connection with scores of official observances of the 50th Anniversary of World War II, Selective Service will honor those who served on the home front during those crucial years. This small federal agency which ran the World War II draft from October 1940 through the war's end is now searching for men and women who had any official connection with the Selective Service System during that period of time, but not the ones themselves.

Our search does not include the 10 million men who were drafted during the war, because their distinguished service is being commemorated by the military and veterans groups. Instead, we're limiting our search to identify anybody still alive who worked for the Selective Service System itself, either as a volunteer or employee," explained Harold Doyle, state director of Selective Service for Texas. "These individuals may include volunteer board members, office workers, state directors, or reserve officers who served the agency in any official capacity. They worked for the draft system in virtually every city and town throughout America.

Doyle said that records showing who worked with Selective Service during the war were not kept. When identified, the agency's World War II volunteers and employees will receive letters of appreciation, commemorative posters, and distinguished Selective Service lapel pins. They will also have the opportunity to share memories and contribute artifacts to the agency's growing historical collection.

MDA Annual Report Shows High Allocation To Program Services

The Muscular Dystrophy Association's newly published 1992 Annual Report shows that MDA allocated almost 83 percent of its 1992 revenue to program services, one of the highest such allocations of any national voluntary health organization.

The Annual Report contains MDA's audited 1992 financial statements, which report total program and supporting service expenses of $106.7 million for the year. Of that amount, some $82.7 million went to program services in the areas of patient and community services, research, and professional and public health education.

"MDA is committed to the most efficient use of contributor dollars and to keeping overhead costs to a minimum," Lois R. West, MDA president, said. "The American people generously support our efforts because they know their contributions benefit adults and children affected by 40 neuromuscular diseases."

If you think you qualify, contact Andree Hager, by calling (214) 266-6713, or writing to Selective Service System, Region IV, Building 1239, Naval Air Station, Dallas, TX 75211-9506. The agency would like to hear from you before July 31, 1993.

Although the last man to be drafted in the U.S. entered service 20 years ago, in June 1973, the Selective Service System is still charged with registering all young men once they turn 18 in case of a national emergency, and to ensure a fair and equitable draft if one is ever again needed.

The year saw several important breakthroughs in MDA's research program, including discovery of the genetic cause of myotonic dystrophy, the most common form of muscular dystrophy affecting adults. The 1992 Nobel Prize in Medicine was presented to Edwin G. Krebs and Edmond H. Fischer, University of Washington biochemists whose work has been supported by MDA since the 1960s.

The financial statements, audited by the accounting firm of Ernst and Young, show that MDA allocated $47.3 million to a wide-ranging program of patient services, including operation of some 240 hospital-affiliated MDA clinics across the country. MDA's support of more than 400 research teams worldwide accounted for $19.6 million, and $15.8 million was spent on public and professional health education. MDA's 1992 total revenue was $100.3 million, almost all from individual contributions.

MDA's Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon is the largest single source of the Association's support. The 28th annual Labor Day Telethon will be broadcast Sept. 5-6, originating from the Sahara Hotel in Las Vegas and carried by more than 200 "Love Network" stations nationwide.

Texas Historical Commission Workshops Show You How To Write Grant Proposals They Can't Refuse

Organizations in search of funds for special projects are invited to attend any of the upcoming grant writing workshops sponsored by the Texas Historical Commission and Preservation Texas.

Led by Don Umlah and Anice Read, who themselves have raised hundreds of thousands of dollars over the years, the workshops offer Texans from both large and small communities effective fund-raising techniques at an affordable cost.

Read currently is director of the THC's Main Street Program. Umlah is an administrator from Phoenix, Arizona.

Each workshop spans two days. The first day is spent on lecture and discussion. On the second day, each participant writes a grant proposal. Many proposals prepared by former participants have been funded.

The 1993 summer workshops are scheduled for Littlefield, July 26-27; Sherman, July 28-29; Austin, July 30-31; Victoria, August 2-3; and Austin, August 4-5 (advanced!) and August 6-7. Fee for the workshop and all materials is $95.

These workshops fill up quickly, so interested persons are encouraged to contact the THC as soon as possible to receive an application. Write THC, Main Street Program, P.O. Box 12276, Austin, TX 78711-2276, 512/463-6092.

Don't "Bomb the Weary"!

Most of us have had occasion to chuckle a bit about the childish misimpressions we once had about some church music.

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

Did you as a child ever sing the chorus of "Blessed Hour of Prayer" where prayer is called "a balm for the weary" and wonder what was wrong with the weary that a good bombing would help?

Perhaps your kids have sung "Count Your Blessings" and have wondered what is so tough about being tossed around on "life's pillows." (Billows are a lot tougher!)

I still can't sing, "Let angels prostrate fall..." without wryly reminding myself that, properly pronounced, those words don't refer to a medical condition!

Yes, as a child I had some musical misimpressions, but I knew what I liked. In my child's mind there was no theological problem with the words of a song, no shoddiness in the poetry, that a good bass or alto lead wouldn't cure. My two favorite songs were "I Know That My Redeemer Lives" (the version in which the bass comes booming in at the second measure), and "Watching You" which pictured God as an "all-seeing eye watching you." (I wasn't old enough yet to have tried smoking a sooty old pipe behind the house or that thought would have been less comforting!) My folks have told of my parading through the house loudly intoning, "Otching ooh!"

High on my list was the old spiritual, "On the Jericho Road." Remember how it went? "On the Jericho Road, I There's room for just two, I No More and no less, I Just Jesus and you...."

I remembered that old song recently when I read author Vernon C. Grounds' comment, "If that song is right, we had better get off the Jericho Road. That is not the highway to glory because, as the New Testament repeatedly discloses, the glory highway is broad enough to allow all of God's people to march along together. Side by side."

He's right! On the road to heaven all of God's people march side by side, heart to heart, united in the love of the One who has loved us all.

Presenting..... The Muleshoe High School Class Of 1973

Twenty Year Reunion Celebrated For Class Of '73

We can't believe it's been twenty years! Some of us had changed a lot and some have stayed the same, but for sure there was a lot of catching up to do.

And so, the twenty year reunion of the Muleshoe High School Class of '73 started off with a lot of good conversation as we gathered at the Bailey County Coliseum on Saturday, July 3rd.

Gonzalo Lozano, along with his son, and Jacque Turner Bouell, assisted by husband Tom, greeted classmates at the registration table. There was approximately a fifty percent member turnout with about one hundred persons attending the family style picnic. There were games of basketball and volleyball along with miniature golf.

MagAnn Rennels of Channel 6 was at the reunion to conduct interviews.

Chad and Guy Nickels, sons of Nicky and Debbie (Glover) Nickels greeted persons at the door of O's Restaurant on the night of the 3rd. There, we were ushered to the registration table where Jenna and Keetha Glover, daughters of Gary and Joy (Killough) Glover served as hostesses.

The meeting room of the restaurant was festively decorated in black, white, and silver, along with the class colors of shades of purple.

Jama Maritt Mays of Hobbs, NM, serving as mistress of ceremonies, gave the welcome to one hundred and four guests. Debbie Glover Nickels introduced the planning committee consisting of herself, Chuck Smith, Jacque Turner Bouell, Gonzalo Lozano, Tim McCormick, Sharon Martin Angeley, Roger Williams, Steve Bell, Jama Maritt Mays, and Joy Killough Glover. Also acknowledgement was given to Danny Blaylock of Garland, and Bill Chapman of Tyler for entertainment planning.

Jama then recognized special guests George Washington and Lucy Faye Smith as former class sponsors. The class was also visited by Kerry Moore and Elizabeth Black at the family gathering. Gary Hooten gave the invocation.

A floral arrangement was presented in memory of six classmates, David Harris, Bill Tanner, Marcus Puentes, Earl Ladd, Johnnie Williams, and Brent Blackman. Vance Tucker of Aurora, CO gave a heartwarming presentation also in the memory of these we have lost.

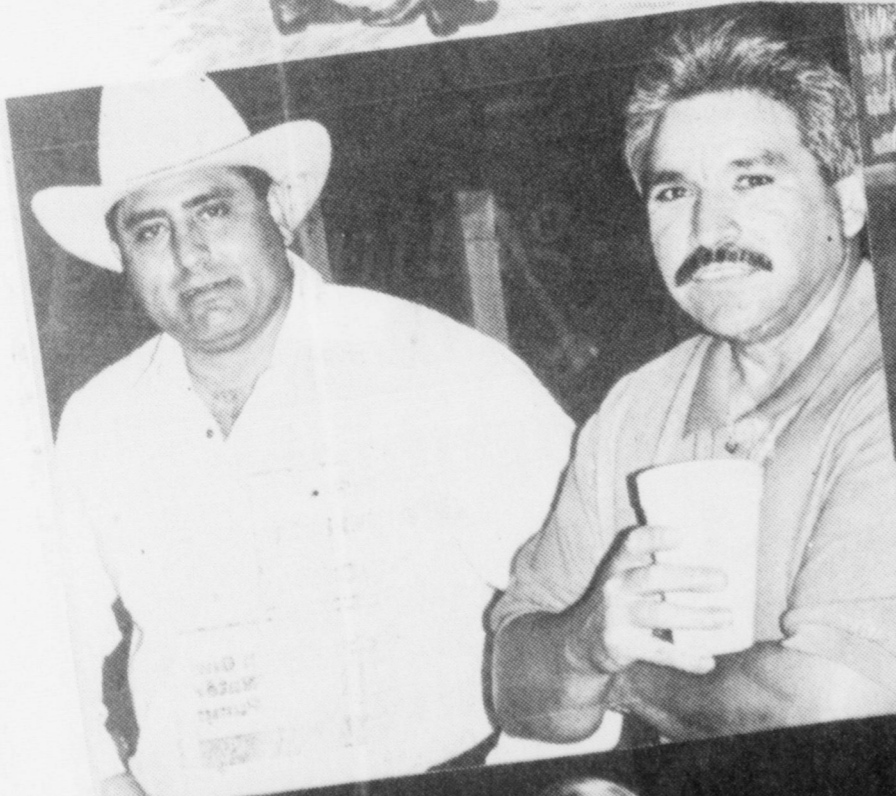

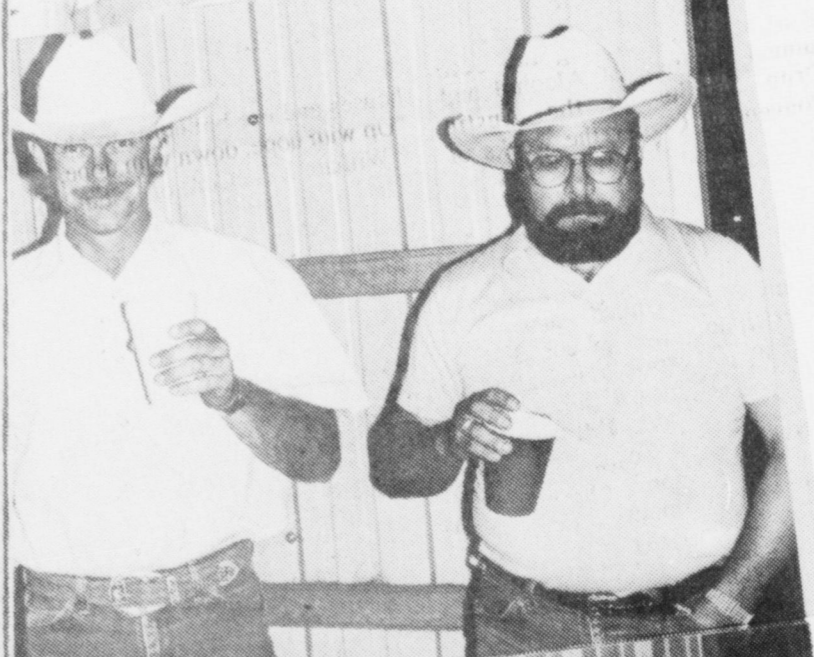

Sharon Burris, Betty Carpenter, and the staff at O's served a wonderful buffet of chicken fried steak, brisket, and cracker chicken, along with an assortment of vegetables, bread and salad, topped off with cherry and peach cobbler.

Everyone then grabbed a chair and filled the parking lot of O's to have a memory of the night captured on film by Lonnie Adrian.

George Washington took us back in time to the year 1973. Headlines, gasoline prices, sports figures; it was hard to believe things had changed so much.

Gonzalo Lozano presented Muleshoe Memorabilia to the one who had traveled the farthest. Jennifer Davis Cope came from Tampa, Florida to win this award. However, we had persons from California, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico, North Dakota, Arizona, and all across Texas in attendance. We gave awards to the longest married, ones who had the most children and grandchildren, the male and female who had changed the most and the least, and for the male and female who had been single the longest.

Jama's Class Trivia had everyone in rounds of laughter as we all guessed who threw the fire crackers

Gene Discovered As Cause Of Deadly Disease

The gene responsible for spinocerebellar ataxia type 1 (SCA1), an inherited and fatal neurological disease, has been discovered by researchers from Baylor College of Medicine in Houston and the University of Minnesota Medical School.

The co-principal investigators were Dr. Huda Y. Zoghbi of Baylor's Department of Pediatrics and Institute for Molecular Genetics and Dr. Harry Orr of the University of Minnesota Institute of Human Genetics.

"We found that SCA1 is caused by an expansion of a specific DNA sequence, or what scientists call a trinucleotide repeat, which mirrors a recent finding regarding a similar mechanism that occurs in Huntington disease, another neurodegenerative disease," said Zoghbi, associate professor of pediatrics and molecular genetics at Baylor.

"This finding raises the interesting possibility that unstable trinucleotide repeats are the cause of many neurodegenerative diseases," said Orr, professor of laboratory medicine and pathology at Minnesota.

Using standard genetic mapping techniques, the researchers confined the gene's location to a small region on chromosome 6 and subsequently discovered in that region a DNA sequence that was expanded in individuals affected with SCA1. They also determined that the larger the expansion the earlier the SCA1 symptoms appeared and the more severe they were.

The findings are being published in tomorrow's edition of the journal Nature Genetics.

SCA1, which affects about 1 in 25,000 people, produces a loss of balance and coordination that progresses to complete disability, including the loss of speech and swallowing control. Most victims die within 10 to 15 years.

Since the disease usually does not appear before the age of 30, many victims have children before realizing they are affected. Children of affected persons have a 50 percent chance of developing the disease. The identification of the genetic defect will permit accurate diagnosis for people at risk of developing SCA1.

The research was funded by the National Institutes of Health, the Muscular Dystrophy Association and the National Ataxia Foundation.

The study's other researchers included Ming-yi Chung, Lisa A. Duvick and Laura P.W. Ranum of the University of Minnesota Medical School and Dr. Sandro Bnafi, Dr. Arthur Beaudet, Thomas J. Kwiatkowski Jr., Alanna McCall and Dr. Antonio Servadio of Baylor College of Medicine.

Better Business Bureau Report

BBBs across the country are warning consumers not to be taken in by "Icpl wanted" advertisements that promise huge earnings, but require no experience. These ads may lead job seekers into commissioned sales positions for products such as perfume, cookware, video tapes or vacuum cleaners.

BBBs report that the job seeker is not told that selling is involved until after they have been selected for the position. In addition, new hires may be asked to pay up-front fees for bonding, training materials or product samples. Complaints against these companies by workers include being asked to misrepresent products in the sales pitch, being encouraged to make door-to-door solicitations, in spite of local laws prohibiting such solicitations and being told to bypass "no solicitation" signs posted on businesses. Job seekers should be realistic about what the job entails and what it can deliver. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

Here are some summertime scams we want to alert consumers to: Be alerted to the schemer that comes to your business or residence and offers to pave your driveway with what he claims is left-over asphalt. Bureau experience says this is not left-over from anything and the schemer usually takes your up-front money and never shows up to do the job. Do not buy magazines from door-to-door peddler because you think you are helping a student go to school. Make sure they have a license to peddle if it is required in your community. Never pay cash; and if you write a check, make it out to the company, not the person selling. Homeowners must be alerted to the scammers that come to their door claiming the roof needs repairs or the fence needs fixing. Always check the company out first. Never give up-front monies to an unknown company or a person you do not know. Call the police and/or check with the BBB first.

Travelling With The Texas Angler

By Keith Warren

Last week I fished Town Lake located in Austin. Actually it's located on the Colorado River as it runs through downtown Austin, under I.H. 35.

This was my first time to fish there. I'd heard reports of some huge fish being taken from its clear waters. As a matter of fact, the new state record striped bass was recently caught on Town Lake weighing over 40 pounds. Also, some bass fishermen from the Capital City said there is a good population of bass.

I arrived at the public boat ramp located under IH 35 on the north side of the lake at daylight. There were no trucks in the parking lot and no boats on the water. This was quite a surprise to me. The only thing I could think was that fishing was probably slow, which kept away the crowds.

Next to the boat ramp was a sign posted which said the running of outboard motors was prohibited. The lake is approximately 4-5 miles long and roughly 300 yards wide. So my trolling motor was more than adequate to cover the lake.

Because it is a river, most of the structure is right on the shoreline. It consists of overhanging trees, grass beds and an occasional lay down log. I put the trolling motor on high and headed upstream casting buzzbaits, spinnerbaits and crankbaits paralleling the shore in search of black bass. My strategy was to move quickly and cover as much water as possible and determine the best areas to hold fish. Then I'd settle down at the best looking area and work it thoroughly.

Even though the lake had lots of cover, I had difficulty catching fish. I did find a couple of areas that looked too good not to have bass, so I slowed down to work them. My buzzbait didn't have any strikes at all, but my spinnerbait began to pay off!

I caught 14 bass in just 4 hours of fishing. The largest was about a 3 pounder. All of them hit a chartreuse colored Strike King Pro 38 Diamond Dust spinnerbait.

The water temperature was 78 degrees - cool; at least for this time of year. I thought the fish should have been more aggressive.

I never saw another fisherman on the water, but I did see several canoes. An Austin resident told me that the fish in the lake were not edible due to pollution and that warning signs had been posted around the lake. He said that the lake had been polluted from the rain water run off from Austin streets.

Personally, I have no direct knowledge of the purity of the lake water. The black bass I catch are all released anyway. But if you want a change of pace, try Town Lake.

We are now airing on Home Sports Entertainment Network (HSE) on Sunday mornings at 11:30 a.m., in addition to your local network station.

Largest Alcohol, Drug Institute In Southwest Planned

With statistics showing that 5.5 million Americans are in need of alcohol or drug abuse treatment, including more than 80 percent of the inmates in the nation's criminal justice system, and economic costs related to substance abuse soaring at $300 billion, the responsibilities of the chemical dependency field have greatly expanded.

In an effort to keep professionals informed of the latest research, trends, programs and treatment and prevention methods, the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse (TCADA), in cooperation with the University of Texas at Austin, is sponsoring the 36th annual Institute of Alcohol and Drug Studies at the Austin Convention Center the weeks of July 18 to 23 and July 25 to 30. More than 2,500 chemical dependency professionals are expected to attend the institute, which is the largest of its kind in the Southwestern United States.

Participants may select from more than 200 workshops staffed by nationally known substance abuse experts. Topics will include an overview of the Texas criminal justice in-prison chemical dependency treatment initiative, core issues underlying adolescent substance abuse, alcohol and the immune system, inhalant abuse treatment, high risk youth, cultural issues in treatment, HIV issues, compulsive gambling and many more related subjects.

"Experts come in from all over the country and for two weeks share what works and what doesn't," said TCADA Executive Director Bob Dickson. "Everyone leaves fired up with the most up-to-date information, ready to confront and conquer substance abuse when they get home."

Featured speakers include: * Edward Hearn of Washington, D.C.: President of 5 Star Treatment Network, a group of 40 inpatient treatment centers that market services to national employers, insurance firms and managed care organizations; president of the National Treatment Consortium, a Washington, D.C.-based professional association that develops new strategies to solve the national health care crisis; and publisher of Professional Counselor and Adolescent magazines and vice-president of Addiction and Recovery magazine.

* Herman Wrice of Philadelphia: Best know for organizing communities to stand up to drug dealers. Wrice, concerned citizens and police officers walk through crime-infested neighborhoods and order drug dealers out of crack houses. They surround the crack houses and use bullhorns to chant, "Up with hope, down with dope."

* William J. McCord of Columbia, South Carolina: Director of the South Carolina Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse. He is the senior director among the nation's state alcohol and drug abuse authorities and has devoted his entire career to the statewide system that provides primary prevention, intervention and treatment services to South Carolina residents.

* Dr. Don Bartlette of Canton, Ohio: Counselor, educator and consultant. His speech, "Macaroni at Midnight," is an autobiographical profile of his experiences as a Chippewa Indian. As a child, Bartlette was faced with emotional, speech and physical handicaps in an impoverished environment. He talks about how one person in his community helped him overcome his childhood disadvantages.

* Mathea Falco of Washington, D.C.: Author of "The Making of a Drug Free America: Programs That Work" and a strong advocate of focusing attention on drug treatment programs as opposed to spending millions of dollars on foreign eradication and interdiction programs. She spent five years visiting schools, clinics, treatment centers and community groups doing research for her book, which highlights successful programs.

Texans Elected National PTA President and Vice President

Kathryn Whitfill, Pasadena, was elected the 1993-95 president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers (National PTA®) on June 27 at the National PTA Annual Convention in Cincinnati, Ohio. Shirley Igo, Plainview, was elected the Region 6 vice-president, which governs Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Mississippi.

Whitfill was president of the Texas PTA during 1986-88. She since has been elected National PTA first vice president, treasurer, Budget and Finance Committee member, and has served on many committees.

Igo, Texas PTA's immediate past president, has served on the National PTA's Budget and Finance Committee, Communications Committee, and the Education Commission.

Igo was honored in December 1992 as the Education Award recipient at the Governor's Volunteer Conference in Austin. She also received a Champion for Children Special Honors Award in February 1993 from the Texas Coalition for Juvenile Justice.

Both products of the 800,000 member Texas PTA, Whitfill and Igo continue to advocate for all children at the community, state, and national levels.

With nearly 7 million members, National PTA is the oldest and largest child advocacy organization in the nation. Its founding objectives of providing better environments of home, school, community and place of worship for all children still guide the association today.

Thank You

Words cannot express the gratitude to our many friends who showed their love for Eddie Lou in ways of cards, letters, visits and memorials. The food that was brought into our home and served at the church was deeply appreciated.

Eddie Lou never met a stranger and to know her was to love her.

Our heartfelt thanks go out to each of you that not only had a part in the services but those who shared our sorrow and anxiety the past eight months.

Above all we appreciate your many prayers.

Almost an Orchid

This iris is a gorgeous flower, so beautiful that one feels that it is almost an orchid. But on the flower market the iris brings no premium; it is no substitute for an orchid. There are substitutes for many things in life, but as there is none for the orchid, just so is there none for Christianity. Only the real thing gives life and that abundantly. Go to Church this week and partake of the blessing God offers to you.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

Is something wrong with your life—an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure. Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church in everyone!
