

Twenty-Three Candidates Speak to Large Group of East Lubbock Residents Thursday

Scores of East Lubbock residents were present at the 18th annual "Meet the Candidates" program at Mae Simmons Community Center last Thursday evening. This effort was co-sponsored by the Men's Civic Club and the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). Candidates included those running for mayor, city council, school board, sheriff, county commissioner, county school superintendent and state representative.

George Woods, president of the Men's Civic Club, told the group of candidates, "All can't win, but we're glad you came by for us to visit with you and ask you questions relevant to the position you are seeking." The local civic club is in its 27th year of organization and was pleased with those who attended and participated.

Those appearing on the program were:

Mayor Candidates; Willie Barnett and Morris "Moe" Turner; City Council Place One; Lonnie Hollingsworth, Robert Hall, Robert Isom, Jr.; City Council Place Two; Mrs. Carol Jordan, Harvey Pruitt, a representative for Bobby Day, Joe Valdez and D. R. Banning; City Council Place Four; Maurice L. Richard, Jr., Jerry Nislar and Dr. Bryce Campbell; School Board, Place One, Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin; Place Two, Robert McKelvy; Place Five, Hershie Wade and Garnett Reeves.

For the position of Lubbock County Sheriff; C.H. "Chock" Blanchard, A.C. "Charlie" Bowman and Paul Enger; County Commissioner, Les Derrick; County School Superintendent, Joe W. Toombs and for State Representative, R.B. "Mac" McAlister.

Barnett told the group that he was running on a ticket to help all people in the city of Lubbock. "Everyone should be represented, no groups should be for their benefit. I'll help each one as an individual, for I can run the office (mayor) better than they have," he stated.

Another candidate for mayor, Turner, said, "I am against the increase of the electric rate." He went on to make it known that the biggest problem facing our city is "watching how our budget stands." He continued, "The next two years will be real critical ones for the City of Lubbock." Turner, a member of the city council, spoke freely when asked about the employment of a director of the Human Relations Commission, saying, "I would expect the employment of a Black or brown for that position (executive director). I will definitely help Blacks to get jobs," he concluded.

Hollingsworth, a city councilman who is running for Place One, said, "You'd be less than honest to say that you are not concerned about this community, I am concerned." He told the group he voted for the garbage tax. "I would favor the hiring of a Black as executive director of the Human Relations Commission," he added. When asked about the hiring of Blacks at City Hall, he said, "Black employment has increased by 40%. Yes, I am concerned about Blacks and browns being hired."

Robert Hall, a Texas Tech student, who admits he'd have time to do a "good job" for the city council, said, "I believe the problem in Lubbock is that of communications. We need a council that is willing to work and set up programs for the entire city of Lubbock. There has been little action in most areas of city government."

He went on to add, "I believe in Human Rights, they have fallen down in Lubbock."

Member of John Birch Society

Robert L. Isom, Jr., who made it known that he was a member of the John Birch Society, told the body of East Lubbock residents that taxation seems to be the goals of the present city council. "A citizen should realize that there are a number of questions which should be asked about the proposed civic center," he said. He pointed to his previous record by saying, "I am against the garbage tax and sewer tax, I have been ignored."

Speaking on the Charter Commission, he said, "The Charter Commission has not done its job."

The only woman candidate, Mrs. Jordan, told the group that she would like to work for a responsive city government. "I want to respond in a positive manner," she said. "I am for evening City Council meetings; public hearings should be held in the evening," she continued. "I have identified 18 major issues in our city," she concluded.

Another Place Two candidate, Harvey M. Pruitt, professor at Lubbock Christian College, made it known that he is most concerned about Human Planning in our city government. "Many citizens have lost confidence in our city leaders," he continued. He also spoke about the number of critical problems which engulf our city government and must be taken care of now.

Joe Valdez, a former Texas Tech student who is planning to re-enter this summer, told the body he wanted to represent everybody in Lubbock. "Communications is our biggest problem," he related. "I know I can relate much easier to people in Lubbock," he concluded.

In Favor of Ward System

D.R. Banning, local businessman, told the attentive audience that the next four years will involve a great many decisions which will affect the total community, "I didn't see anyone running for office (Place 2) who was qualified, so I decided to run since Lubbock is a metropolitan area," he said. "I'm for a Ward System. It (ward system) does one thing—communication. It does not work when the mayor rules, where he (mayor) has one vote, it does," he went on to add. "The Ward System is the only way," he concluded.

There are three candidates seeking the Place Four position on the City Council, one being Maurice L. Richard. He stated, "I'm running because I see a need. I am concerned about the people in Lubbock, and I'm running on my qualifications." He made it clear that to really . . . "understand all the problems of the city of Lubbock," . . . you must be involved. He was asked what he would do if he had a wand to wave over the city of Lubbock? He quickly answered, "I would like to see all of us move forward together."

Jerry Nislar said he was running to do his part in city government. "We can be negative and blind to the good things which has been done in Lubbock; we've had a reasonably good city government." City finance was, in his opinion, a major problem in city government. "We need proper leadership and a positive attitude on capital projects," he said.

Dr. Bryce Campbell spoke of how he was interested in the people of Lubbock. "The main problem we have is industry; I want more industry in Lubbock," he said. He eluded to the fact that he had treated "everyone equal" since he has been in business in Lubbock. "I think we should hire everyone who is qualified," he concluded.

School Board Candidates

Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin, first woman in 23 years to serve on the school board and the first Black in the history of the board, asked the group present to "examine my record. My two years on the school board has made me qualified. . . for I have represented my race well.

Representative Graves Will Speak at Texas Tech Next Tuesday

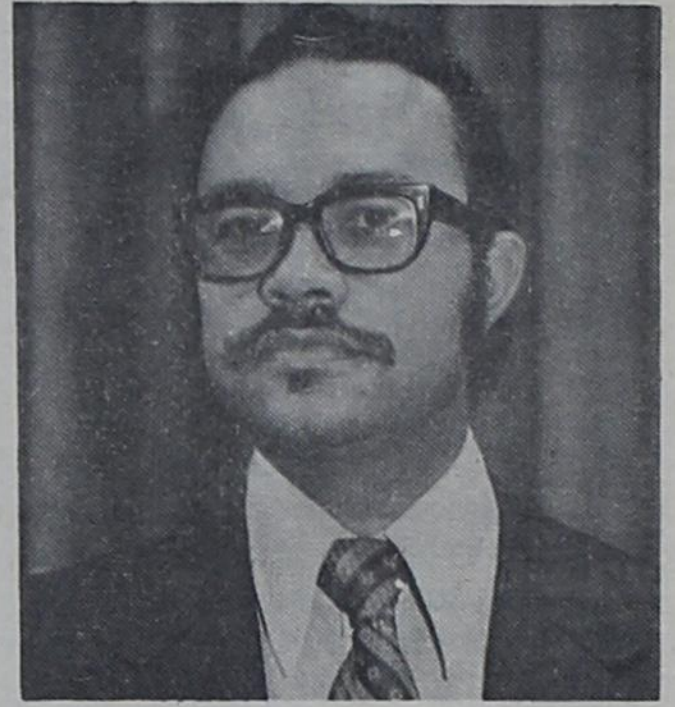

State Representative Curtis M. Graves of Houston, one of the first Black men elected to the Texas Legislature since 1891, will deliver a public address to highlight this year's observance of Black Week at Texas Tech University April 3-8.

The week of activities is sponsored by Tech's Student Organization for Black Unity (SOBU). Theme for the observance is "Black Awareness: Try It, You'll Like It."

Graves' address is scheduled for Tuesday, April 4, at 7 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom and is open to the public at no charge.

During his three terms, Graves has championed civil rights legislation, including equal rights for women. He has tried "to make a college education a reality and a possibility for all" by introducing a bill to lower college tuitions.

He authored House Bill 470, making the adoption of hard-to-place children less difficult, which passed during the 62nd session of the legislature. Graves serves on several legislative committees including juvenile crime and delinquency, elections, higher education, military affairs and school districts.

Among other highlights of the week will be a film brought to SOBU by Ted-Tac, a Reader's Theatre comprised of Tech students and local citizens.

In addition, fashion designer Larry Hunter of Houston will conduct a unique fashion show. He is bringing some 40 African fashion selections and will dress models on stage.

An "Afro Ball" will climax the week's activities April 8. It is to be held in the Coronado Room of the University Center on campus, and those attending are being encouraged to come attired in African dress.

All events of Black Week are open to the public.

South Plains Boys Club Team Captures Regional

"The boys did a splendid job at Dallas last Friday and Saturday," according to their coach, South Plains Boys Club Director Theodore Phea, Jr.

The fellows, who were participants in the 9-10 year-old division, defeated a nifty five from Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, by a score of 41-38 in overtime and went on to defeat a team from the Waco Boys Club 31-20.

The regional tournament, which was held at the Dallas Boys Club last Friday and Saturday, consisted of teams from a five state area, namely: Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico, Colorado and Texas.

This group of young basketballers has brought back four trophies for their boys club. They included the city, sectional, West Texas region and regional. "We are certainly proud of our young fellows, they really represented Lubbock well in Dallas last week," admits Phea.

"Quite a few of our former boys club members who are adults and reside in the Dallas area came out to root for us," said Phea. "We really appreciated their support, they haven't forgot us," he continued.

Several parents made the trip to Dallas. They included Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Gipson and daughter, Brenda; Mrs. Annie Sanders, Mrs. W. Hooper and Mrs. Wallace.

School Board Election Set For Saturday Here

With all indications of the absentee vote for the school board of trustees being a record, there should also be a new record set when the polls close here at 7:00 Saturday.

There were 635 persons voting absentee in this year's school board election. This figure sets a new record, compared to 379 absentee votes in the last school board election.

Included in this issue of the paper is a copy of the map showing various voting places for the election. Polls will be open Saturday, April 1st, from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Visualize The Crucifixion Of Jesus Christ at Easter

"Where they crucified him, and two other with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst." "And Pilate wrote a title, and put it on the cross. And the writing was, 'Jesus of Nazareth, The King of the Jews,'" St. John 19:18-19.

If we could visualize the "Crucifixion", according to the scripture, perhaps we would come up with the following picture of our Saviour who died for us. We must remember, however: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

The central character in our picture would be, of course, Jesus Christ. Between the two erected crosses (in the rear of Jesus) would be the Warrant Officer, Stephanus, reading the orders of execution. Standing near a ledge, on the outskirts of the crowd, is Joseph of Arimathea, who is seen talking to Nicodemus. We must remember that it was this Joseph who secured from the authorities the crucified body of Jesus, and aid by Nicodemus buried it in his own new made tomb. Near one of the crosses are members of the Sanhedrin in their rich official robes: among them are Annas, former high priest, and his son-in-law, Caiaphas, acting high priest who bribed Judas to betray Jesus.

As we continue to look at the picture of the "Crucifixion," we can see standing somewhat apart from Annas and Caiaphas is Gamaliel, a noted lawyer and teacher. Talking with Gamaliel is his pupil, Saul of Tarsus. Alone, and near the same cross, is Malchus, who is looking with amazement upon the Saviour who has healed his ear when it had been cut off by Simon Peter. Simon Peter, himself, may also be seen standing in the company to the right of the cross, reminded of his perfidy in denying the Saviour by the fluttering of a cock on the ground before him.

The crowd grows tense as the time of execution approached, and the Centurion Longinus, who is mounted on a white horse shouts orders to the riff-raff to turn back. Standing in front of the battalion of soldiers are the two condemned thieves, Gesmas and Dismas. Between the crosses are crouched three of the executioners, and looking not far away is another who has just unearthed a bone, fulfilling an ancient tradition that the Saviour would be crucified on the spot where Adam was buried. Kneeling close to Jesus is Simon of Cyrene who carried the cross of Jesus up the hill of Calvary.

Saddest and most depressed of all who followed our Saviour to the place of His death was a little group at the right of Jesus; among them is Mary, the mother of Jesus; next to her is the beloved disciple John, and to Mary's left stands the wife of Cleophas. Also are Lazarus and his sister, Martha. On her knees is Mary Magdalene, with her long red hair unbound as she prays for a miracle to avert the ruthless sentence of death upon her blessed Saviour.

As one makes a perspective view on this picture of the Crucifixion, our attention is again fixed upon the Saviour. In the midst of all the conflicting emotions portrayed, Jesus appears as the most poised and undisturbed. At his feet lie the scarlet robe, the crown of thorns, and the reed with which the persecutors mocked him. But Jesus knew that His complete triumph was near at hand, and that the lowering clouds of that appalling day would be transformed into the glory of the Resurrection!

As I See It

I am a person who firmly believes in giving a person his flowers while he or she lives. . . There are many people in the West Texas community who are due such flowers. I would encourage flowers for such a lovely lady as Mrs. Mae D. Simmons, who is expected to retire from the Lubbock Independent School District this year. An educator for more than 34 years, Mrs. Simmons should be honored by her many peers and friends in the West Texas community.

Knowing Mrs. Simmons since I've been in Lubbock, I have found her to be someone who has been most concerned about the welfare of young people. Not only in her occupation where she has been principal of Ella Iles Elementary School, but in her church, Bethel A.M.E., and many civic and social clubs in the City of Lubbock as well as state committees.

This writer, and I'm sure there are thousands of others, would like to see a "Mrs. Mae D. Simmons Day" in the City of Lubbock. If need be, the West Texas Times would count it a privilege to be one of the co-sponsors, of such a deserving fete for a person we all respect and admire.

Let's get our heads together now and give Mrs. Simmons her flowers while she still lives. She's a beautiful person and all that could be done for her on that day would not be enough to show our appreciation for the many things she has done for our young people. As I See It, we couldn't go wrong.

The annual Dunbar High School Talent Show is a whopping success every time around. I would suggest that because of the large crowds which attend these talent programs that a larger place be found for such effort.

The talent show last Thursday evening was so crowded that a need for a larger place was much in evidence.

The talent show is well organized each year. This is good and I'm sure that everyone involved would like to see a larger place for next year's program.

Think!

by Dr. R. W. Jones

I hope the following little gem will be the last reference I will make to bussing. Last Saturday, 18 March 72, a disk jockey on radio station KRAY played a record called "We Don't Want No Bussing," featuring a group of children. A few words they sang might be a solution to the bussing problem. The group sang in essence, "We don't want no bussing, we don't want no bussing, Let Us Walk, Let Us Walk". Perhaps they have a solution to the controversy, Let 'Em Walk.

How often have you heard the phrase, "They have to give us a piece of the pie"? What would you do if I came to your house demanding a piece of your sweet potato pie and didn't bring any sugar, milk, eggs, or any of the ingredients to make that pie? Wouldn't you throw me out on my head and call me a fool? That is the same as demanding an equal share of the wealth without investing a drop of sweat to earn that share. It is sickening to talk to Negroes who work for large companies like: Public Utilities, Bell Telephone Company, some of the Oil Companies, the Railroads, and some smaller companies that have "share the profit policies" by giving employees opportunity to buy stock in the company and discover that ninety per cent of them have not taken advantage of this opportunity. It is a catas-

Keep up the good work young people. You've proved, without a doubt, that you have something going. If we start now, maybe we can find a place conducive to one of the better talent shows of its kind in Texas.

Congratulations are in order for the Men's Civic Club and the local chapter of the NAACP. Your program, "Meet the Candidates", was a success last Thursday evening. I've heard many positive comments about how you conducted the lengthy program.

Just a suggestion: Maybe next election year, you could stage the city and school board candidates on one night and the county and state people the next. Why not think about it?

We certainly appreciate what you did for the city of Lubbock. Democracy is letting people from all walks of life participate in their government. For 18 years, this has been the practice of the Men's Civic Club and I'm elated over the fact that the local branch of the NAACP joined you in your effort.

As I See It, the program was well done and it has created more interest in our community for the upcoming school board, city council, mayor, county commissioner, sheriff, superintendent and state representative elections. Keep it up, brothers and sisters.

Ode to Spring

Oh! Thou Glorious Thing, that every year
Bursts forth in all thy beauty.
Where-for doest thou come from;
And what-for is thy duty?
Art thou sent back each passing year
To remind us there's a Heaven?
Or to make us thank our God, Supreme,
That He's left us here—to enjoy this dream?
Thy raiment is a georgeous thing,
With its many precious hues—
From your brightest rays of sunlight,
To your deepest mid-nite blues!
I marvel thru the daytime.
At the beauty of your green—
But the splendor of your night-time
Is the grandest thing I've seen!
And as a million diamonds sparkle
In the 'Robe' you wear at night—
I praise my God, With All my heart;
For the Wonderous Gifts, He Doth Impart!

—Emilie Peck

trophe to know that if they have brought stock, at the first opportunity they sold it to some white member of the firm. Then they wonder why the white man advances in the company while they remain swinging that broom and mop.

In order to get a piece of that pie, we must invest some ingredient in the pie. The way to do it is by investing capital in the company or the country in some form of investment plan even if it only amounts to one dollar a week. You should, however, have the intention of increasing the investment program as soon as possible.

As you enjoy the succulent, delicious, and refreshing slice of the pie of life do you think, "Did I earn this pie on my own merits, or did I cling to the coat tails of others, ridicule them, and steal this piece of pie for myself?" So many people need to think that thought. If they don't, they should, because there isn't an original thought in their heads. In other words, they are masters of plagiarism, and have the ability to rape a community and make it appear as though the act is a deed of altruism and affection.

Let's clean and light our stove—our brains; assemble some eggs, milk, butter, and other essential ingredients for pastry—constructive thoughts; put them in our mixing bowls and stir them together—work, then put the combination into our stove and let it cook and the results will be the whole pie.

We must stop begging, cheating, and conniving and start investing something in the business world and society and then we will not only have a slice of the pie, but we will have a variety of pies that have resulted from cooperation and 'green power'.

Afro-American History Notes: Long before Moses and Stephen Austin came to Texas, long before Texas won its freedom from Mexico or even from Spain, black people were living and working on the Texas plains, states historian William L. Katz.

A Spanish census of 1792 established that among Texas' 1600 residents were 263 male and 186 female blacks. Slavery had been outlawed and these blacks had Spanish names and evidently spoke that language.

In 1835, as American settlers in Texas moved toward independence from Mexico, some black Texans supported this action. One of these was Greenbury Logan, whose heroic and tragic story began in 1831 when he answered Stephen Austin's call to settle in Texas. After meeting personally with Austin, Logan was granted a quarter-acre plot and Texas citizenship.

When armed conflict with Mexican forces broke out in 1835, Logan quickly answered the American call to arms. Paradoxically for men like Logan, the successful fight for Texas independence led to slavery and a growth of intolerance toward blacks.

Since his service wounds left him disabled, his economic situation became unbearable, for he could no longer work his land or pay his taxes or vote. Writing to a Texas congressman later, he appealed for restoration of "what has been taken from me in the constitution."

Logan's requests were never acted upon and there is no record revealed as of this date of what happened to this crippled Texas black patriot. Nonetheless, the course of Texas history toward slavery and racial discrimination is clearly documented.

Bellringers inquire: Answers in black and white; To Mrs. G.C. of Big Spring. We agree with Dr. John W. Porter, a black educator and Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of Michigan when he states that the critical problems and issues in education today are in part—financing, desegregation, busing, assessment and accountability. Superintendent Porter added that "educators must take the responsibility for these problems or face up to the possibility of others undertaking the effort by default." It does seem that everybody has an idea of how to run the schools but the people who are trained to do so. Write again.

To F.G. of Clovis; We spend a number of hours on the campus at Eastern New Mexico University at Portales, New Mexico quite often. We can reliably report taht dis-satisfaction exists only on the basketball team and that the black athletes in all other phases of sports at ENMU are well pleased over their treatment and that no "racist policies" can be located anywhere else in the sports world. Latest word is that the basketball situation will be cleared up in the not too distant future.

El Paso, Lubbock and Amarillo First Industry Groups to Adopt Affirmative Fair Housing Plan

The El Paso Board of Realtors and the Home Builders Association, followed by their counterparts in Lubbock and Amarillo, are the first industry groups in the nation known to have voluntarily adopted an approved comprehensive Affirmative Fair Housing Marketing Plan before HUD's new regulations became mandatory nationally on February 25, HUD Southwest Regional Administrator Richard L. Morgan announced last week.

Mr. Morgan said Director Don Earney of the Lubbock Insuring Office and Wes Byers, his EO representative, worked closely with the Board of Realtors and Home Builders Associations of El Paso, Lubbock and Amarillo in developing the comprehensive fair housing marketing plans which were approved by HUD and adopted by the six industry groups. The Lubbock Insuring Office serves 71 counties in West Texas.

The new regulations for affirmative fair housing marketing apply to developers and sponsors whose applications for mortgage insurance under HUD/FHA subsidized and unsubsidized housing

Mrs. Fisher Rites Read Here Last Week

Final rites were read last week for Mrs. Harriett Fisher, 73, at the St. Matthew Baptist Church under the direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

Rev. R. S. Stanley, pastor, officiated the services with burial being held at Peaceful Gardens Memorial Park.

Mrs. Fisher died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mable Harkey, of 2723 East 8th Street, after a lengthy illness.

She had resided in Lubbock for over seven years and was a native of Bowie County, Texas.

Survivors include her daughter, a brother, Gary Jones of Texarkana; and a sister, Mrs. Kizzie Perkins of New Boston, Texas.

programs are approved by HUD for development or rehabilitation of subdivisions, multifamily projects, and mobile home parks of five or more lots, units, or spaces, on or after February 25.

Such housing will be marketed and advertised using an official Equal Housing Opportunity logo-type, slogan or statement so that everyone will know the housing is available without discrimination to buyers and/or renters within the standard metropolitan. The entire real estate industry must now display in their places of business a Fair Housing Poster as required by the Federal regulations.

The muntjac, a deer found in India, barks when excited!

Usually the first fish caught by either a boy or a girl is the bluegill, commonly called the perch. As a rule the youngster is standing on a bank or a boat dock and the small hook is baited with a tiny piece of worm.

There are known cases where dad actually hooked the fish and then let the youngster pull it out of the water. Right then the lad gets perhaps the greatest thrill of his entire fishing life. He'll never forget that first catch.

But soon after that initial catch junior finds other interests. He has caught his first fish and it was easy. So what? Today it's baseball, football, frisbee, judo, Honda riding, or some other activity that has taken his fancy.

It's a long time before he gets back to fishing again, but eventually he does. This time more than likely with a rod and reel. It may not be a high-priced rig, but with it he catches a bass or a catfish, and then chances are he's "sold" for life.

Perhaps that's why there are so many fishermen today who pay little attention to the most plentiful of all species of fish in Texas waters.

There was a time, within the memory of some of the oldsters, when perch were about the only fish that could be taken in some of the nearly dry streams of Texas. But today, thanks to our major impoundments, there are bass all over the state.

Thank goodness the perch are still there, too. Countless thousands of Pomoxis annularis, otherwise known as bluegill, sunfish, bream, red ears and numerous other local names, provide much of the food for the hungry bass and great fishing thrills for those who still like to catch and eat them.

Actually the bluegill, or whatever you call it, is related to the bass. Both belong to the Centrarchidae or sunfish family. What the little fellow lacks in size it makes up in quantity. They are so numerous there is no creel limit.

Bluegills spawn in shallow water and sometimes scoop out nests which look like underwater honeycombs. People who like to stroll along the sandy shores of lakes and streams often can see these nests near the banks. Spawners, incidentally, are hungry most of the time.

Another wonderful thing about perch, they can be caught throughout the year. They'll hit on flies, bugs and even plugs, although the common earthworm or red wiggler is their favorite dish. Frequently they will hit and be caught on plugs that are actually larger than they are. In fact, the world's record perch, 4 3/4 pounds, was taken at Ketona Lake, Alabama, on a jitterbug.

Alabama is famous for its large perch, known there as redears. They have been imported and planted in many Texas impoundments. They do especially well in stock tanks where they grow "as large as dinner plates."

The perch is a delightfully flavored fish and easy to prepare for the table. Once it is gutted, scaled and head removed it is rolled in cornmeal and fried real crisp in deep fat.

It's great fun catching perch on a fly rod or on ultra-light spinning tackle. They are a scrappy little fish and worth every ounce of their weight. One of the best places to catch them, day or night, is in the fishing wells of the tin-covered barns found on most lakes.

Amarillo Native Named to Denver Boy Scout Post

the Denver, Colorado, Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and George Mozealous, Scout Executive recently announced the appointment of Johnny Allen, Jr. as the first neighborhood executive to serve in the Denver Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, and the only member of his race on the local staff.

Allen is a graduate of Carver High School, Amarillo, Texas, and of Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colorado, where he received a BS degree in Physical Education. Allen, a former running back and punter and tight end for a year on the C.S.U. varsity team, served as a volunteer at Curtis Park Community Center, coaching a football team.

Johnny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny N. Allen, Sr., of Amarillo, Texas.

Amarillo—The Boy Scouts have begun a national movement to make their organization more relevant to its surroundings and a young black man has been named to direct the program in Denver. Rolin D. Barnard, president of

Some members of the tribes might want to question the above statement—concerning the present state of conditions.

Children, Volunteers Needed for Day Care Centers Here

Two additional day care centers will open their doors in early April, and according to Margo Gipson, child care director, "young people are needed for the program." The centers will be Northeast Day Care Center at 420 North Quirt Avenue and Chatman Day Care Center at 2305 Cedar Avenue.

In order for a child to enroll in either of the new centers, the child must fit in one of the following priorities:

1. Must be five (5) years old and not have had any Head Start or kindergarten experiences;
2. Must be four (4) years of age and the mother would like to work or go to school; and
3. Must be an exceptional case, for example the child is non-English speaking and must be not less than four (4) years of age.

"These centers will not be a baby sitting center for mothers, rather we want to help the child in an educational manner," stated Mrs. Gipson.

The new child care centers will have places for thirty-five children, 15 at Chatman's Center and 20 at the Northeast Center.

Volunteers are needed now. "We need volunteers to help with the painting, carpentering, moving of furniture and other things, right now," says Mrs. Gipson. If there are those who would like to volunteer their time, they may call Mrs. Gipson at 763-5261.

The program, which is funded by HEW for one year, is in the amount of $45,000. The twelve month program will employ teachers, teacher aides, cooks and will provide medical and dental assistance for the participants.

At the present time according to Mrs. Gipson, "Playground equipment is needed for both centers."

"Get two eggs, get some milk, cook the milk, shake the milk up. Put some sugar in it. Put it in the butter churn. Put some grease in. Put some Mayonnaise in. You should get butter."

Mrs. Willie Sansom and her daughter, Miss Edna Sansom of 1925 N. W. 19th Street are in Oakland, California at the bedside of a very sick sister and aunt.

the Human Race," she exclaimed. "We as parents should enforce more discipline. . . this starts at home, our schools are subsidiaries of the home," she revealed.

Mrs. Ervin is a candidate for Place One on the school board.

Robert McKelvy, local furniture businessman, told the group, "I am concerned about public education for our children, for each of us has an obligation to give each of them an education." He made known that we must deal with the more than 33,000 young people as individuals.

For Place 5, there were only two candidates present. One, Hershiel Wade, is a local businessman and former teacher, who said he was concerned about the indifference and turmoil in our country. "We need more emphasis on vocational education in the Lubbock Public School system," he said. Speaking on another need, he said, "We need more physical education in the elementary school level and a lower teacher-pupil ratio."

Garnett Reeves, a local insurance man, said, "Problems are when we don't know each other. Dunbar High School needs more tennis courts and they should be lighted. I'm very impressed with the present school district, this had been the good part of integration," he said. On the busing issue, asked by the president of NAACP, he said, "Busing is a bad thing."

School Board election will be held Saturday, April 1, from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m.

All candidates for the Lubbock County Sheriff were present. The incumbent, "Choc" Blanchard, said he was interested in hiring more minorities. He was in accord in upgrading the county jail system.

A. C. Bowman, a certified lawyer in Texas, said, "I don't think one day a week for only 1½ hours is enough time for relatives to visit their love ones." He concluded, "I will employ more minority members if I'm elected."

Paul Enger, local businessman who said that his business deals with 25% Black, 25% brown and 50% white, told the group he was encouraged by young people to run for the office of sheriff. "After working with young people for more than 25 years, I feel as though I can do a good job as sheriff," he went on to say.

The only candidate for County Commissioner was Les Derrick, who is an incumbent. "Lubbock County is debt free, and I'm proud to be a part of the government that has made it possible," he said. "I am for the voting machines, but I would prefer lever type since we could have records for such elections, say ten years hence," he continued. "We have approximately $120,000 to purchase such items," he added. He elaborated on the fact that a "half-way house would be helpful."

Joe W. Tombs, former educator and a businessman in the city of Lubbock, was the only candidate for the controversial County School Superintendent office. He said, "We must raise the dignity of this office as it should be." He also said that the salary of this office is not appropriate at this time.

Last, but not least, appearing at the political event was State Representative R. B. "Mac" McAlister, who had food for thought about the state house. He said, "We are on the eve of a great change, and that change will be made in Austin." "I hope vocational education will be given the going over, it's needed," he continued. When asked about his bid for the powerful Speaker of the House post, he said, "I feel as though I'm respected. . . I draw respect from friends, liberals and conservatives." "A top priority, however, is the press and legislative's distrust for each other, this must be taken care of. If I am elected Speaker, I can ease the wound."

Reverend Adolphus Cleveland,

minister of Jerusalem Baptist Church, gave the invocation and the group sang, "God Bless America." Appearing on the platform with Mr. Woods were; Dr. F.L. Lovings, local NAACP president; Harvey Davis, board member of the Men's Civic Club and William Powell, treasurer of the NAACP.

Refreshments were served by the sponsoring organizations.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

He sat in a corner, slightly hunched over. He was picking on a guitar, singing softly, a slight smile touching his face from time to time. He seemed oblivious of the people milling around the room.

But it didn't take long for the word to spread. The guitar player, wearing a mod suit and sporting a bushy mustache, was Bake Turner, a former member of the New York Jets and one of Texas Tech's more outstanding contributions to the pro football ranks.

Bake came in quietly to the Settle Safety Supply Co. hospitality suite. No advance publicity, no drumbeats, nothing. But the word spread quickly and soon the suite was filled to overflowing. And as the crowd gathered, the Country-Western music grew louder and Bake warmed to the task.

It had been almost two years since I had seen Bake. When the pro grid season was over, he generally came back to Tech for additional studies. He had been missing this winter, for he generally looked up old friends during basketball games.

"No, I didn't get back this year," he said. "Hey, look at this!" flashing a big ring, a ring that looked big and sturdy enough to drive a nail with. "Yeah, that's my Super Bowl ring."

I kidded Bake about having a great night in the game against the College All Stars, catching eight or nine passes for good yardage and then sitting on the bench a good part of the season.

"You're right," he replied, "I can thank George (Sauer) for that. He extended my career."

Bake looks as trim as ever after nine years of pro ball. He's now the property of the New England Patriots, following a trade, but he probably is through with pro ball.

"I don't know," he mused. "I might try it. I've kept in pretty good shape playing handball and golf. And I jog a lot. Yeah, I know there's a lot of difference between that and camp. Oh, I probably won't go back, but there's always a chance."

Right now Bake is really more concerned about his air freight business in Dallas and the hoped for hit record that keeps eluding him. He laughed as he played and sang the commercial that first brought him prominence.

As for cutting that big hit, he related how close he had come. Nashville sent him a stack of music and he picked out one song that he thought might be "it".

"I cut what I thought was a pretty good record," Bake said with a grin. "At least, it was pretty good for me. The day my record was going in for distribution, darned if Charley Pride's record doesn't hit the racks. And man, it was a whole lot better. That killed my recording."

"I ran across Charley on the golf course a while later and he said 'sorry about that, Bake,' and I told him, I'll get you next time. One of these days I'll get that big hit. I'm going to keep on trying."

Bake, for those whose memory is like mine, overlapped the careers of E.J. Holub and David Parks, playing in between. For three years he led Tech in punting, one of Tech's most consistent and best kickers. His name is in the record book among the top receivers for a season, among top punt returners for a season and caret, among punters for season's average. He capped his career by playing in the Blue-Gray game.

Bake always was quite, self effacing. After Tech, he went to the Baltimore Colts and was the sensation of their training camp. And when Weeb Eubanks went to the renovated Titans, now the Jets, he took Bake with him.

Much of the time Bake played in the shadow of Don Maynard and George Sauer, but he had his moments, too, and the ring he wears proudly was earned as a valuable member of the world champions.

Just a word now as to why Bake was entertaining. Doyle Settle, owner of the aforementioned supply firm, and his wife both are Tech graduates. Both are fiercely loyal and their children all have gone to Tech. Indeed, a son currently is attending Tech and operating the company's outlet here.

Also with the company is Kenneth "Termite" Lee, who served as assistant trainer to Don Sparks and who is devoted to the former Tech athlete he served so well. It was, of course, Termite who arranged for Bake to play and sing.

Kenneth Lee makes up what he lacks in stature by having a heart as big as Texas and a sharp mind. He and John Scovell head up recruiting services for Tech in Dallas—and more about that later. Tech is fortunate to have him in its corner in Dallas.

The Roundup—Texas is said to be serious about scrapping old Gregory Gym and building an imposing multi-purpose arena, long overdue in Austin . . . Holub, subject of a Blackie Sherrod column last week, currently is managing a stud farm near Lewisville for friends Dr. Jerry and Myrna Rheudasil. The Beast and Rheudasil have entered the quarterhorse business, hope to produce track winners . . . Charcoal Cody and other SWC animal mascots, may no longer perform at other than home stadia. Apparently SWC schools are concerned about damage to their artificial turfs. The Raider mascot was kept on a hillside overlooking the playing field at Kansas a couple of years ago. . . Eddie Robinson, Grambling head football coach and speaker at the Dunbar football banquet, recently was elected president of the NAIA . . . Ray Willingham, who formerly had a used car business on 4th Street, told me that he was the man who rented the car to Duane Thomas and his brother. Ray is now in business in Dallas . . . A case of One Upmanship? There are now two big signs on I.S. 20 advising motorists that the shortest way to the mountains is to take U.S. 84 and U.S. 87 through Amarillo. No mention of Lubbock, of course . . . How about this paraphrase for Gen. Douglas Mac Arthur: Old quarterbacks never die; they just pass and pass and pass away.

Farmers Still Hurting While Food Prices Continue to Rise

Austin—Even though food prices are expected to go up four percent this year and net farm income is expected to set a record, the farmer still is less than three-fourths as well off financially as the city dweller, Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said this week.

White said charges that the farmer is responsible for the expected food cost increase "is sheer nonsense." He said parity—the measuring stick that shows how agriculture is faring in comparison with the rest of the economy—is at 72 per cent. "This means that agriculture will have to increase its income 28 per cent to just be even with the rest of the economy," he said.

Expected increases in net farm income this year "is welcome news, not just for agriculture but for the rest of the economy, too. Farmers are big spenders when they have the money to spend, and a dollar of farm income generates five to seven dollars in new spending throughout the economy," White said.

Some members of Congress have asked for a ceiling on prices paid for agricultural products. White suggested that farm prices be "rolled back to levels of 22 years ago." If that were done, he said, the farmer would be getting more money than he now is.

"Livestock prices are as close to full parity now as any other commodity. Yet, livestock prices today to the producer are no higher than they were 22 years ago," he said.

"The average wage earner today makes about three and a half times more than he did 20 years ago; net farm income is about the same as two decades ago," he said.

The first prize fight with a million dollar gate was the Dempsey-Carpentier bout held on July 2, 1921. Dempsey won.

Two other practice sessions are slated for the near future at Littlefield and Clovis.

Speakers from the World Headquarters of the group will have major portions on the assembly program that will attract many persons from the surrounding area. Delegates representing nineteen congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses from Northwestern Texas and Southeastern New Mexico are expected to increase to 1,000 by peak-time Sunday afternoon. According to Dove all sessions are open to the public and there will be no collection taken, nor admission fee required.

HAIL TO CAESAR SALAD

Although California usually takes credit for the creation of Caesar Salad, it was actually invented by Caesar Cardini in a small restaurant in Tijuana, Mexico.

On a busy Fourth of July weekend in 1924, there was a crisis in the kitchen — they were running low in Italian-Mexican supplies, but had plenty of romaine, bread, eggs, lemons, cheese, oil and herbs. With these ingredients, Cardini created the sensation which became known as Caesar Salad.

The secret of a good salad is in the dressing. Even the best of ingredients will "wilt" under a less than perfect dressing. Since oil is the main ingredient, it should be the best. And, Planters Peanut Oil is the best because it is lighter than other oils and it enhances the flavor of the other ingredients rather than imparting a flavor of its own.

Caesar Salad is tossed with Garlic French Dressing, an oil and vinegar dressing. For a dramatic touch, complete and toss the salad at the table just before serving.

For almost 50 years, Americans have been enjoying Caesar Salad. The flavor secret of this famous salad is in the dressing, a garlic-flavored mixture of Planters Peanut Oil and vinegar.

This is one of 38 salad recipes in a new 12-page booklet, "Sensational Salads and Masterful Dressings," just introduced by Planters Peanut Oil. It also includes tips on salad making and recipes for French Dressing and Mayonnaise and 25 variations of these two basics. For a free copy of this colorful, art-illustrated guide to salad making, write to: Planters Peanut Oil, P.O. Box 2695, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

CAESAR SALAD

- 1/4 cup Planters Peanut Oil
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 2 cups bread cubes
- 8 cups torn romaine
- 4 cups torn Boston lettuce
- 4 cups torn water cress
- 3/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 cup Garlic French Dressing
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- Dash Worcestershire
- 1 can (2-ounce) anchovy fillets

Combine Planters Peanut Oil and garlic powder in a large skillet. Saute bread cubes until golden brown.

Combine romaine, Boston lettuce and water cress in a large salad bowl. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Pour on Garlic French Dressing. Add eggs, Worcestershire sauce, anchovy fillets and bread cubes. Toss lightly until well mixed. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

PLANTERS BASIC FRENCH DRESSING

- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup water
- 2 cups Planters Peanut Oil
- 2/3 cup white vinegar or lemon juice.

Combine salt, sugar, dry mustard, pepper, and water in a large jar. Cover tightly and shake until well mixed. Add Planters Peanut Oil and vinegar or lemon juice. Cover and shake vigorously until thoroughly blended. Makes 2-1/2 cups.

Garlic French Dressing: To make 1 cup, combine 1 cup Planters Basic French Dressing and 2 crushed cloves garlic in a jar. Cover tightly and shake vigorously until thoroughly mixed. Chill before serving.

Ministerial Alliance Endorses Valdez

In a special call meeting Monday afternoon at New Hope Baptist Church, the Ministerial Alliance endorsed Joe Valdez, candidate for Place Two on the City Council. "We urge all ministers to encourage their memberships and friends to support and vote for Joe Valdez," said Rev. A.L. Dunn, president of the organization.

Valdez, along with Lonnie Hollingsworth and Maurice L. Richard, was present at the noon meeting. "I can better relate to all people of the community," Valdez stated.

Hollingsworth, who is running for Place One, Mayor Pro Tem position, told the group of ministers, "We have good days and bad ones in city government, you can't satisfy everybody all the time," "I want to continue to work for all people of Lubbock," he concluded.

When asked about Liquor by the Drink, he quickly said, "I encourage everyone to vote the way he or she sees fit." Valdez said he would go along with any decisions the people of Lubbock come up with.

Prior to this meeting, the Ministerial Alliance had gone on record endorsing Richard and Joan Y. Ervin. This was upheld Monday when they asked for the citizens of East Lubbock to support the two people, along with Valdez.

Harold Chatman, Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC) representative, spoke to the group. He said, "We are in final stages of our fund raising project and would like to encourage all organizations to fulfill their pledges." "We need full commitments on all pledges, LOIC is a worthwhile program," he continued.

Hollingsworth and Valdez were introduced by Maurice Richard. Mrs. Ervin was also present at the meeting.

Daylight Saving Time was originated in Paris in 1740 by Benjamin Franklin.

If our readers have any comments on Ben's idea, we would appreciate "letters to the Editor" on the subject in the next few weeks.

Snyder—The Spiritual Crusaders, who recently returned from Garland, Texas where they rendered several programs, will sing at the Bethel Baptist Church here on April 4th through 6th.

They will also be at the New Hope Baptist Church Sunday, April 9th, at 8:00 p.m. Moving around the State of Texas, the group will appear in a program in Amarillo, Texas, Sunday, April 23rd, at the East-side Baptist Church, Rev. Troy Walker, pastor.

City Wide Mission

The members of the City Wide Mission met last week in the home of Mrs. Pearl Baker, 1901 East 15th Street. President Coraine Fair had charge of the meeting. Mrs. Mary Sterling gave the opening prayer; Sister Lillie Mae Parks closed with a prayer.

Members of the Mission are attending a special Workshop this week at New Hope Baptist Church. Also attending the same workshop are members of the Mau Jones Missionary Society of Bethel A.M. E. Church.

Federation of Choirs Marks 18th Anniversary In Services Here Sunday Afternoon

The Federation of Choirs is no longer just an organization, it is an institution of fine gospel music for its various choirs and those who attend its monthly meetings. Brother A.L. Smith, president, told the more than four hundred persons attending the 18th anniversary service last Sunday afternoon at the Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church that the Federation of Choirs is here to stay. "Because of people like you," he said, "the Federation of Choirs will continue to do great things."

The organization began eighteen years ago when the late Mrs. Sedalia Solomon and Oscar Iles had an idea that there was beautiful music in the Black community and a federative effort would be something beautiful for the citizens of Lubbock. Prior to his death on October 18, 1969, Iles requested that the organization continue to do its job each month.

The program last Sunday afternoon included selections from the Mass Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Desma Moore. She gave special thanks for the complete cooperation she received from churches and participants. Their selections were "Lift Every Voice and Sing," (Negro National Anthem), "His Name is Worthy," "Holding On to My Faith," and "If You Hold Out Deliverance Will Come."

Special selections were contributed by Brothers Thomas, Turner, Michael Matthews and A.L. Smith. Matthews dedicated his selection, "Sooner Will be Done," to the late Mahalia Jackson.

During the Gospel feast, there were many who shouted and gave praise to God for the many blessing He has bestowed on them.

The organization gave special appreciation to Mrs. Maunita Terrell, who was unable to attend the meeting because of doctor's orders. She has been secretary of the organization for nine years. She became secretary after her sister, Mrs. Ruby Jay, moved to Dallas following eight years of service as secretary of the organization. "She has been a faithful secretary to us," said Brother Smith.

Several candidates, including school board and city council hopefuls, were introduced at the meeting. They were Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin, School Board candidate; Robert Hall, City Council candidate and Maurice L. Richard, Jr., also a City Council candidate.

The organization was encouraged to vote for Mrs. Ervin on Saturday, April 1st. She received an offering for her campaign from the organization.

Richard and Hall were also endorsed by ministers of the organization, with president Smith saying, "If candidates are willing to come down and explain their position, we should be willing to vote for them."

Also campaigning was a member of the Citizens Against Liquor by the Drink, who was introduced by Rev. A.L. Dunn, pastor of New Hope Baptist Church, who is also

Dreams for sale.

Everybody's got a dream lurking around in the back of his mind. A dream vacation. A dream cottage. A dream car.

Dreams can be a lot more fun if you know you're doing something to make them come true.

And that's what the Payroll Savings Plan is all about. When you sign up an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Now Bonds mature in less than six years. That's the shortest maturity period ever, and makes Bonds a practical way to save for dreams you want to come true while you're still young enough to enjoy them.

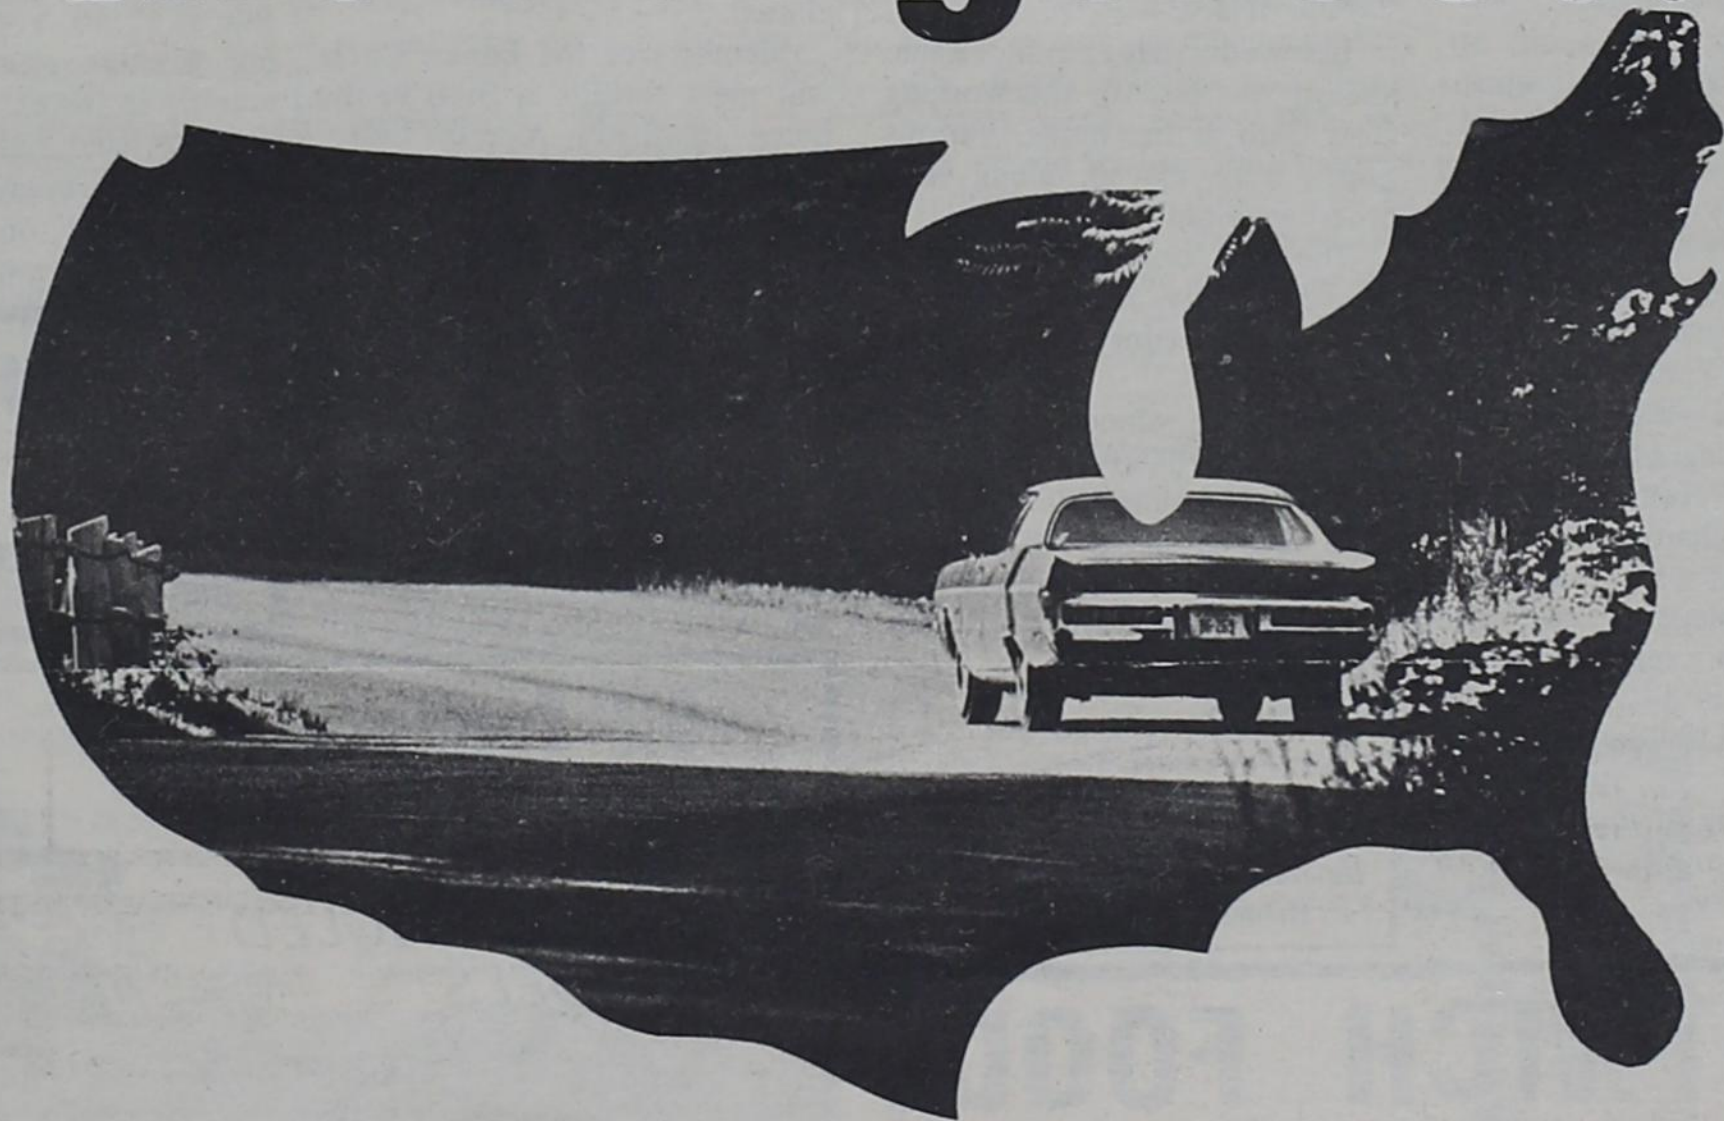

See the folks in the payroll office where you work. They've got dreams for sale.

Now E Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months after the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Right now, America has about 200,000 miles of substandard primary highways. Designed and built many years ago they're far from adequate for today's motoring needs. Ride them

A True Soul Brother

by Emerson Miller

The phrase "soul brother" is rife throughout the U.S. We also have soul food, soul music, soul dress, soul hand shake, and even soul religion.

The expression "soul brother" is a symbol of belonging, a sign that I am part of you or with you. When the civil disturbances arose in the ghettos, "soul brother" became a symbol of protection. The mere use of the words does not in itself make us true brothers.

Let me point out a few examples: In week before last's news a man snatched a women's purse and took between $70 and $80; the bad thing about it is he had been living with the woman. Nearly each week someone's house is broken into. Brothers are constantly injuring and assaulting each other in the East Lubbock area. Would you call these soul brothers? Of course not. Even blood kin, unless they are truly soul brothers, will fight, hate and even kill. Cain slew his brother Abel. (Genesis 4:8). The expression "soul brother" when properly used means more than the color of a man's skin or the style of his dress or hair. It has to do with the sincerity of a person's heart. "For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies." (Matthew 15:19). A true soul brother is one with a transplanted heart. "Create in me a clean heart." (Psalm 51:10).

Let's face the facts brothers, sin in the hearts of white, black, brown, and all men is to blame for all the trouble we are having. And what is sin? "... for sin is the transgression of the law." (I John 3:4). If the law of God were obeyed we would love and not hate, we would treat all men as brothers. "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law." (Romans 13:10).

There is one who can bridge the racial gap that now divides us, and His name is Jesus. He is our Elder Brother, our Soul Brother, our blood Brother. How does He identify? What does He have to offer? These questions are asked by many.

First, He loves you. "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:16).

Second, He moved on the poor side of town. "For yet know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye though His poverty might be rich," (II Corinthians 8:9).

Third, His best friends were the poor folks, the poverty-stricken, the have-nots. "And the common people heard Him gladly." (Mark 12:37). "He is not ashamed to call them brethren." (Hebrews 2:11).

Fourth, He suffered, bled and died for you and me. "... But He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities." (Isaiah 53:4,5).

He is one of us, He sees what is happening down here and is doing something about it. He says, "I want to help, I promise you there will be no more wars. I plan to do away with hunger. The poor will not need to march to eat. I plan to burn down the slums. In fact, I plan to burn up the entire world (Malachi 4:1). I am coming soon and I am coming for you (John 14:1-3). How about it? I am coming soon. Will you be ready, soul brother?"

Young Matrons of Mt. Gilead Meet

The young matrons of Mt. Gilead Baptist Church are on the move.

The matrons have re-organized and have many projects for the coming year which we think will be an asset to our church.

The group meets each Thursday evening at 7:30. The group is highly inspired each week with the lessons brought to us by our teachers, Mrs. Vernita Holmes and Mrs. Bobbie Richard.

The matrons were honored to have the privilege of making a contribution to a very distinguished woman in our district. A book, "This is Your Life" honored Mrs. J.M.C. Amos.

We are asking all young women of our church to please meet with us each Thursday.

Working Girls Club Meets

Last Wednesday evening, Fannie Melton was host to the Working Girls Club at her home. Various games were played, along with other activities.

The club, one of the oldest in the community, meets every first and third Wednesday of each month.

First prize winner this month was Louise Sedberry; second prize winner was Louise Hill. A boobie prize was given to the hostess.

President of the organization is Pearl Mitchell; recording secretary is Billie Bowman.

(TAURUS Apr. 20 to May 20)...Your keyword this week is 'ENERGY PAYS OFF'. Concentrated effort brings opportunity within grasp. Some tangible evidence to support inner-drives soon. Your efforts run along lines of determination. Few can match your drive to get things concluded.

(GEMINI May 21 to June 20)...Your keyword this week is 'CONCLUSIONS'. Many projects delayed earlier can be concluded now. Double check for oversight errors. You move into wider expansion with partners soon, technical training makes you valuable.

(CANCER June 21 to July 22)...Your keyword this week is 'CAREER-GOALS'. Outside circumstances (not necessarily of own making) force you toward positive action in career, protection of credit status or into public eye this week. Extravagant partners conflict with security plans.

(LEO July 23 to Aug. 22)...Your keyword this week is 'PROMOTION'. Contact people likely to promote own interests. Speed favors you, so get organized for unexpected developments. Pressure on job situation irritates and can cause repercussions if anger flares up.

(VIRGO Aug. 23 to Sept. 22)...Your keyword this week is 'PRESS YOUR LUCK'. You've got everything going for you and can safely press your luck this week. Opportunity through personnel work, efficiency on job or personal romantic attachments, succeed if you're relaxed!

(LIBRA Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)...Your keyword this week is 'REACTION'. Much good or bad that happens this week can be directly traced to your reactions or those of another. Tension is high, compromises must be reached for enduring harmony. You may have to do most of giving ground.

(SCORPIO Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)...Your keyword this week is 'UPS AND DOWNS'. You feel partners are playing cat and mouse with your emotional reactions this week. That's because you dislike being pressured, rushed or pushed, and attract those who have an energetic cause at stake!

(SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)...Your keyword this week is 'BLOCKS'. Some blocks still in evidence toward objectives coming from partners, likely to want detailed facts. Their decisions liable to be slow, which may frustrate your judgment.

(CAPRICORN Dec. 22 to Jan. 19)...Your keyword this week is 'EVENTUAL-CHANGE'. Changes afoot this week not likely to return to older pattern prior to this time. You may as well accept the inevitable, for eventually progress brings changes. Don't resist, be flexible.

(AQUARIUS Jan. 20 to Feb. 19)...Your keyword this week is 'ROCK BOTTOM'. Budgets predominate. Economy of prime concern, to keep from hitting rock bottom. Don't rely on promises. Preparedness necessary for sudden changes or termination of old reliables.

(PISCES Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)...Your keyword this week is 'INCOME'. You're in high cycle of productive gains, prodding yourself is 'name of game' this week. Take full advantage of possible opportunities in practical, security-goals. Don't let others interfere with goals.
