

Miss Black Lubbock Places Third in State Competition at Houston

Last week Lubbock had its first "Miss Black Lubbock," and this week Lubbock can boast about having the second runner-up in the "Miss Black Texas" beauty pageant. Miss Gloria Jean Hall, 19, a Texas Tech coed, went to Houston and competed well in a field of thirteen beauties—coming out number three in the state.

Miss Gwendolyn Pierre of Houston was crowned Miss Black Texas last Saturday evening with first runner-up honors going to LaDonna Gibbs, Miss Black Port Arthur.

Gloria is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hicks and is a music major at Texas Tech. According to Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin, who accompanied her to the pageant, Miss Lubbock received standing ovations in presentations at Houston.

Miss Hall was chosen to represent Lubbock last week when she won out over twelve other lovely beauties. The local "Miss Black Lubbock" pageant, which was in its first year, was sponsored by the United Black coalition of Lubbock.

OIC Executive Seeks Demo Support for New Manpower Bill

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Appearing before the Democratic Platform Committee hearing in St. Louis, a top official of the Opportunities Industrialization Centers of America, Inc. (OIC), called upon the Democratic Party leadership to use its influence and mobilize support for the passage of a new Manpower Training Act of 1972.

Dr. Maurice A. Dawkins, who represented OIC's founder and board chairman, Rev. Leon H. Sullivan, asked the Party's Platform Committee to "include in its plank on Employment and Manpower Training a specific proposal to include Opportunities

Black Leaders in Nation's Capital Split Over "Racism" Charges Hurlled at Antiwar Protests

by Page Townsend

WASHINGTON, (NBNS)—Repeated national antiwar protests here in the Nation's capital have provoked angry counter-protests from some of the leaders of this city's predominately black population.

A group representing about 60 black leaders, including District of Columbia School Board Chairman Marion Barry and D.C. Delegate to Congress Walter E. Fauntroy, has charged that the mostly white anti-war movement is racist.

The group charged that mass demonstrations against the war have hurt the black people of Washington by diverting tax revenues from needed local services into greater expenditures for police equipment and manpower.

The peace movement also was charged with failure to "interrelate domestic issues with foreign affairs" and with using the peace issue as a "vehicle for temper tantrums to get stardom, to satisfy ego trips and tax deductions."

The black leaders recommended that an anti-war demonstration planned for last week be cancelled. However it went ahead as scheduled on the steps of the Capitol.

Other leaders of the Washington black community, including black activist Julius Hobson and D. C. School Board Member Charles I. Cassell sharply criticized the attack on the peace movement. Hobson termed it "idiotic."

"I have been in the peace movement ever since the Korean War," Hobson said. "I have marched in every peace demonstration in Washington, at the invitation of the people having it. To say it's racist just doesn't make sense."

However, during past anti-war demonstrations, black participation has been generally limited. While other Washington area campuses have been in turmoil over the war issue, Howard University has been largely quiet.

A recent demonstration by a large group of Washington high school students on the Capitol grounds received much attention because it was the first largely black anti-war protest the area has seen.

The Easter High School effort produced controversy of another sort within the black community: between those who felt that blacks should be more in the forefront of opposition to a racist war and those who felt black students should be encouraged to devote all of their efforts to acquiring the educational skills to compete in a racist society.

White anti-war activists were shocked by the attack upon their movement as racist, since most of them consider themselves strong supporters of the civil rights movement.

One organizer of the June 22 Capitol demonstration labeled it "deliberate sabotage." Other anti-war leaders stressed their efforts to increase black participation in the peace movement and offered to meet with the group critical of the Washington area demonstrations.

The statement of the objecting blacks charged, specifically, that the anti-war activists are racist because they:

+Refuse to recognize that the Indochina war, in which a disproportionate number of black American troops are used to kill Orientals, is fundamentally racist.

+Fail to see that funds needed for rebuilding black communities are being diverted for the war.

+Stage mass demonstrations without regard to the tax dollar cost to black residents in police and other expenses, funds needed for education, health, nutrition and employment services.

+Include only token numbers of blacks and other minorities in movement planning, "using them only as a drawing card to legitimize the racist goals of the existing peace movement."

Washington, they declared, is not the nation's picnic ground."

Southwestern Bell Telephone Asks for First Basic Telephone Rate Increase in 15 Years

An application for increase in basic telephone rates—the first such request here in almost 15 years—was filed today by Southwestern Bell with the Lubbock City Council.

John Whitcomb, division manager for the telephone company, filed the application.

Whitcomb said that detailed information concerning the rate request is being provided to the City Council.

The last basic telephone rate increase in Lubbock was in September, 1957.

"Continued inadequate earnings on our operation, in the face of today's high cost of doing business, leaves us no choice but to ask for an increase in local rates," Whitcomb said.

"The present rates established almost 15 years ago are simply too low to meet the company's cost of doing business today," he added. "Since 1957, wages, taxes and the company's investment in Lubbock have grown to the extent that we must seek an increase."

Whitcomb stressed that the company has been able to hold the line on basic rates by continued and increased sales activities and use of numerous technological advances in equipment and facilities.

He pointed out that these factors allowed Southwestern Bell to meet some of the increased cost of doing business without a local rate increase.

"The company has done all it can to keep expenses as low as possible," Whitcomb said, "but the only solution is to request a reasonable increase in rates in line with today's higher costs."

"We hope the request will receive prompt and favorable action."

Whitcomb noted that implementation of a new rate schedule will conform with guidelines established by the Federal Price Commission.

Is War On Poverty To Be War On The Poor?

Guest Editorial:

By Michael D. Petit

A whole new cadre of middle-income inspectors, detectors and pursuers is about to be unleashed on the nation's poor. Before the damage is done, they will hurt us all.

Myopic experimentation is already underway with the lives of the unemployed in the less-enlightened state of California and on July 1 the Federal government begins its program of intimidation.

Under new Federal guidelines going into effect next month, an estimated 800,000 welfare recipients will be required to sign up for work by the year and the number will grow to 1.5 million during the next 12 months.

More than 80 percent of these recipients are women who have the responsibility of taking care of school-aged children. Yet, should the regulations be fully implemented, not only will these welfare mothers be forced to register for work but they will be forced to take any old job offered regardless of salary and regardless of whether the parent believes the work will interfere with the raising of children.

Even these repressive measures are not harsh enough to please the current occupants of the policy divisions of the Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Word comes from HEW deputy under-secretary Richard P. Nathan that the Federal government is preparing a nationwide system to prosecute so-called "welfare cheats."

And Mr. Nathan looks forward to that glorious day when he will have a master card file in Washington on every man, woman and child on welfare including such personal information as marriage and family relationships, school records and copies of tax returns.

Well, we suggest that Mr. Nathan's little army of informants will cost the taxpayers many times more in salaries alone than any of the dubious benefits derived from hounding the less than one percent of those on welfare who cheat the government.

At a time of unprecedented unemployment, it is the duty and the obligation of the government and private enterprise to provide enough jobs paying livable wages to those who want to work.

Instead, unable to cope with the unemployment problems, the bureaucrats in Washington seem decided to turn on the people who need help the most.

It is a sad commentary to watch the war on poverty degenerate into a war on the poor.

Eastern Little League Has Another Successful Year

The annual banquet of the Eastern Little League will be held tomorrow evening, Friday, at the Plains Coop Oil Mill. We must take this opportunity and congratulate those responsible for working with young boys of our community. BEBE REBOZO: BEHIND BUGGING? HHH, MUSKIE AGREE ON ACTION; WAS LUMBER PRESSURE APPLIED?

By Jack Anderson

1972 Pulitzer Prize Winner for National Reporting (Copyright, 1972, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—President Nixon's favorite Cuban, Bebe Rebozo, has been associated through a Miami real estate firm with the Cuban bugging crew that allegedly attempted to install listening devices inside Democratic party headquarters.

The suspected leader of the bugging crew, Bernard Barker, is a joint investor in real estate developments with Miguel Suarez. Cuban sources tell us that Rebozo has been involved in some of their deals.

We were unable to reach Rebozo or Suarez for comment. However, we managed to slip into the D.C. jail to talk to the suspects. They denied that Rebozo had anything to do with the bugging attempt. But they acknowledged that their hotel

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

I guess it would make sense if I attempted to look at the Black community from a positive point of view and come up with some reasons as to why we are always behind the times and never address the issues which face us daily. Therefore, always being left in a position where we never have anything to offer ourselves or our community. As I See It, it's quite obvious that we are forever downgrading each other. This has lead, in many cases, to hate being spread around our community.

In talking to a young Black brother from Waycross, Georgia, one day last week, he made it absolutely clear that although he was here today and leaving tomorrow, he did have an opinion which took only three hours to draw about our community. He said, from the way he put it, "Man, you brothers and sisters don't have anything to offer." He was trying to explain that the "man" doesn't want a thing we have, because we don't "have a damn thing."

Perhaps he made a lot of sense, but behind all the lack of owning "our own thing," the picture is quite clear that jealousy has lead to hate in our community. It's true, and I'm not trying to save souls or the community or even boast that I've got the answer to the many problems which bother us daily. My only message is that we have got to quit downgrading one another and start helping each other.

This writer can say, with all sincerity, that he has had an opportunity of participating in the Black community of Lubbock and West Texas as an editor, director of local poverty program and in other capacities for nearly ten years. Of course, there is no magic in numbers, nor do they say a hell of a lot, but I can say that we have not shown signs of being willing to help one another as we should. We must realize that whosoever is responsible for a particular project, program or any other opportunity in our community must have the support of all people in the community in order to make anything work. Regardless of who is responsible, if the effort involved is successful, we all benefit.

You know, I can see why many of my peers have told me from time to time, people in the Black community just don't care about what one is attempting to do. Many times I would argue with my associates and even accuse them of not being positive about the role of our Black brothers and sisters. Now I know exactly what they were telling me. They were saying that we've been too petty about life and really care less if we progress or not.

I would like to offer a bit of advice to the ministerial body in the Black community of Lubbock and West Texas. I offer this advice from a positive point of view and hope all of you really will understand why I am saying what I'm saying. It would help us, I believe, find many solutions to our problems, of course with the help of God, if you gentlemen of the cloth, would take time each Sunday morning to remind us of the shortcomings in our community. Let us know we are a people who must utilize our full potential. This is accommodations at the fashionable Watergate and all their legal expenses have been provided by a mysterious benefactor.

Meanwhile, Manuel Giberger, the Cuban-American Coordinator of the Republican National Committee, and Rebozo are blaming each other for the bizarre bugging episode.

-Stop George!-

The 1968 Democratic running mates, Hubert Humphrey and Ed Muskie, are working together again. They have quietly joined forces to stop George McGovern from winning the 1972 presidential nomination.

A few weeks ago, Humphrey and Muskie met quietly for breakfast at Muskie's home. They compared notes and agreed to keep in touch. Muskie mentioned that he was sore at McGovern over some remarks he had made during the Wisconsin primary.

The two 1968 nominees met again at six o'clock that evening before Muskie announced he would stay in the race. Muskie was tempted to end the agony and throw his support to McGovern. This would have wrapped up the nomination for McGovern. But Humphrey urged him to hold out against the frontrunner.

Humphrey and Muskie made no secret deal to the reason God placed us here in the first place.

Instill in each member of your congregation the idea that there is a place on earth for all of them to be a part of. Quit being afraid to tell it like it should be told and become more aware of the problems which exist in our community. Help us to stay away from the idea of fighting one another. True, prayer is the answer, but I believe that God wants us to hustle after prayer. Instill confidence into the minds of each member of your congregation.

Perhaps if this is done, more love would be seen within the Black community. Perhaps we would quit being our own enemy. Perhaps there will be more constructive communications about our role in society. As I See It, Ministers, you have the power; you are in a valuable position in the Black community. Personally, I don't think many of you have looked at yourself from the total community point of view and got involved like you can and should each week. Of course, there are a few of you who've attempted many times (and are still working along these lines) to knock down the many obstacles in our path.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if each Sunday morning, for fifteen minutes, every Black minister in Lubbock and West Texas would talk about the same subject, and continue for the fifty-one other Sundays talking about some of the many problems facing us as Black people.

As I See It, we've got to start in the church with possible solutions for all of us. Ministers, don't let us down. Laymen and Laywomen, it is your responsibility also, to get involved with the church and start spreading love around our area.

Thought of the Week: There is a mighty thin line between love and hate.

Miss Gloria Jean Hall! This column would like to thank you for what you did for the citizens of Lubbock last week at the "Miss Black Texas" Pageant in Houston. I'm sure I can say, with all sincerity, that you represented your race, family, and city like a sister should.

It's wonderful to look back several weeks ago when we didn't have a "Miss Black" anything, and look today to find that one of our own is second runner-up in the "Miss Black Texas" pageant. Thanks Gloria, and all of those other wonderful people who helped make it possible.

I thought several years ago, when the United Black Coalition began its annual Week-End of Awareness, that something big would happen. You know, it has begun.

As I See It, today (June 29th), at 4:00 p.m. I will be 35 years of age. This will be the first time since my involvement as editor of the West Texas Times that I can remember having a birthday. Anyway, it's mighty good to be here and be able to contribute something to my community.

I hope that I will be able to contribute another thirty-five years in the media business. It's such a rewarding thing and one which you can't explain unless you are a member of the Fourth Estate.

Police Beat

Aggravated Assault

Officers Britt and Berry were patrolling the Mae Simmons Ball Park area one day last week when they observed a disturbance. Upon arriving at the scene, they observed a young man strike a female with a stick, but he ran when he saw the patrolmen coming.

Although the man got away, the young lady said she would file charges against the man who assaulted her.

Vandalism

Joyce Wilborn, 1618 Avenue C, No. 54, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that a female did kick in the door to her apartment and cut off a window screen one day last week.

She also told the police that the lady had threatened her earlier. She estimated the damages to the door and screen at approximately $15.00.

She said she would definitely file charges.

Burglary

Gene Young, who resides at 2723 East 2nd Street, and is manager of an apartment complex, reported that he made a check on the complex and found that Apartment B had been burglarized. This complex is located at 2717 East 2nd Street.

Taken from the apartment was an air conditioner, which was valued at $150.00; and a refrigerator was taken from another apartment which was valued at $180.00.

Entry was apparently gained through a window. Total damage and loss was believed to be $330.00.

Burglary

Camillo Johnson, of 1810 East Brown, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone unknown did enter her house through a bedroom window, which was believed to have been left unlocked.

Taken from the house was a box of Sugar Snacks; one 5-pound bag of sugar; a quart of 7-Up; one quart of Coke; a package of sweet-rolls and a lady's wedding band.

She believed that neighborhood children were responsible for the approximately $135.00 worth of items lost.

Theft Over $5.00

Jean Edity Wyatt, of 1606 Avenue B, reported to Lubbock police that a friend of hers had taken bus tickets from her purse and was keeping them from her.

She told police, however, that they were 2 one-way tickets to Fort Worth, Texas, which cost her $11.60 each.

Aggravated Assault & Car Theft

Mike Humphrey, 1723 East Amherst Avenue, reported to Lubbock Police that he was driving his car near the Coronado Apartments one night last week when he was dragged from his car, beaten and his car stolen.

He told police that he knew the person who assaulted him only by his first name.

support one another if their own fortunes faltered at the Miami convention. They agreed only to join in stopping McGovern. According to Humphrey's private arithmetic, McGovern can muster a maximum of 1,345 votes. This would be 164 votes short of the nomination.

Humphrey argued, therefore, that the majority are opposed to McGovern. The only question is whether they can find someone else they can agree upon.

Our national forests are rapidly being depleted by timber harvesting. Designated areas are completely leveled with the full approval of the National Park service. This is good for the giant timber companies, if not for our forests.

It's not that the lumber is desperately needed in the United States. A huge portion—some two billion board feet a year—is exported, most of it to Japan. Some is shipped back to us as expensive plywood.

Senator Robert Packwood, R-Ore., decided a few weeks ago to put a stop to this. His figures showed the United States would face a serious timber shortage in a few years. He announced he would introduce a bill banning the export of timber from our national forests.

One day later, he made another announcement.

He said he had changed his mind.

Our sources tell us the Nixon Administration brought pressure on him to change his mind.

Packwood denied any pressure. The real reason he dropped his plan to ban timber exports, he told us, was simply because he found out he couldn't win. The timber lobby, he said, was too powerful.

-Bleak Homecoming-

President Nixon has now deactivated all American ground combat units in Vietnam. But the returning troops are coming home to a bleak reception.

Many of them can't find decent jobs. The disabled are consigned to veterans hospitals, where conditions are terrible. The thousands of disabled GIs who manage to rejoin society find the military bureaucracy won't leave them alone.

Consider the case of Sergeant Bill Richardson of Springfield, Ill. He stepped on a mine in Vietnam and lost both legs. He made it home only to see his marriage break up. Then came a letter from the Army. There had been an overpayment, the memo said. He owed the Army $212.34. Richardson paid the money. A few months later, he got another Army memo. This time, the bill was for an additional $1,900.00.

Another legless veteran from North Carolina put in an application for what is known as a "wheel-chair home." The first thing the Veterans Administration did was demand a physical examination to see if his condition has improved. The V.A. then entangled the hapless ex-soldier in red tape for eight months. It took letters to his senators to cut through the red tape.

Whether we believe in the war or not, the least we can do is take care of our returned veterans.

-Peking Talks-

Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign policy czar, is engaged in his second round of talks with top Chinese leaders. The meetings, as usual, have been cloaked in secrecy.

But we have had access to Kissinger's reports from Peking, hot off the secret diplomatic wires. Kissinger reports little good news. There's small hope, he says, that the Chinese will intervene in the Vietnam negotiations. The cables describe Chou En-lai—the cagey Chinese premier—as cordial but cautious.

Am I Guilty?

Amarillo—As I sit sometimes in the late afternoon and try to recap the activities of the day, I find myself often asking this question. Have you really done anything worthwhile for your fellowman or am I guilty of any of the things I am so often accused of? These are questions that all of us should ask ourselves every once in a while as we take inventory of our lives. You would be surprised at the answers you will come up with. There are some that could look their adversaries in the eye, and truthfully say, I have done no one wrong!

I am not like the tale told about the fisherman which says, "All fishermen will lie, and I am not too sure about myself." I am inclined to believe that there are some good people left in the world. Would you like to be counted in that number or just sit by and ask yourself, Am I Guilty?

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Staples and son and daughter, of Oakland, California, were brief house guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Parrish and daughter. Mr. Staples is the brother of Mrs. Parrish. The Staples were enroute to Mineola, Texas, where they both will visit their parents. Mrs. Lillian Webster of Mineola is yet visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. Parrish, who is recuperating nicely from recent surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Harris are the proud parents of a new, 6 pound, 10 ounce, baby boy, Arian Tranque.

Mrs. Harris, the former June Dent, will continue her education at West Texas State University in Canyon. She is a cousin of Miss Carla Snell of Lubbock.

Mrs. Winn died about midnight last Friday night at St. Mary of the Plains Hospital.

She was born in Lamar County and had lived in the city of Lubbock for about 22 years. She had lived in the Golden Age Nursing Home for nearly two years.

She is survived by a nephew, Willie Lewis, of 2605 Hickory Avenue.

The Youth Council of the NAACP Wednesday elected Troy Lockett president of that organization. Others elected at the meeting were Kathy Locke, vice president; Linda Jackson, secretary; and Sherry Locke, treasurer.

The Youth Council currently has 31 members and is expected to receive its charter in approximately two weeks.

The Council is currently in the middle of a membership drive.

David Sowell, Council advisor, stressed that the Council is an independent body, not connected with the adult group in Lubbock and that members may choose their own programs and plot their own courses of action independent of the adult branch.

Membership dues in the organi-

Afro-American History Notes: Wendell Phillips, the young lawyer from a leading Boston family, who became a fighting abolitionist in 1835. He was a delegate to the World Anti-Slavery Convention in London in 1840. The family published an abolitionist paper in which Frederick Douglass reported his speeches in behalf of ex-slave George Latimer in his first letter to the Liberator on November 18, 1842. A large number of black schools have been named in honor of Wendell Phillips.

Alice Nelson Dunbar was born July 19, 1875 in New Orleans. A graduate of Straight University, she organized the Douglass Publishing Co., Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and edited many important books bearing on Negro life and culture. On March 6, 1893, she married the famous black poet, Paul Lawrence Dunbar. In World War I, she also organized the Women for the National Council of Defense.

Great Quotes in the News: "I rise to address you as a black man to defend my black sister, Angela. There is not one black on the jury panel and not many of you in the totality of your lives have been close enough to black people to know what it means. I urge you to think black and to be black in your deliberations and share the fears that haunted Angela as a black, militant Communist." End of quote of Attorney Leo Branton, defense attorney for Angela Davis before the jury that latter acquitted her.

The country's three largest Lutheran denominations will soon launch what is believed to be the most extensive effort on the part of churches to obtain housing for low and middle income families, irrespective of race and religious considerations. After Baptists and Methodists, Lutherans are the third largest Protestant church group in the U.S.

Latest newspaper to join the bellringers' club is the Dallas Post-Tribune, an influential black weekly and the managing editor is Mrs. Dickie Foster. Welcome to the family brothers and sisters all.

The Dallas Post-Tribune, influential black weekly of Dallas area for many years, is the latest newspaper to join the Bellringers Club. And here in Dallas, citizens are still talking about one of the largest religious conventions ever held in America. About half-million delegates and visitors attended the June 12-17 meeting with Billy Graham closing the last day. And then A.M.E.'s from all over the world take over for two weeks—June 21-July 3rd. A.M.E. Zions closed their General Conference in Mobile, Alabama recently electing seven younger bishops and "putting the old men on the front porch where they belong," said one observer.

Revolution in church with NOW Generation, eh?
Until later, peace and its good to be back in West Texas and New Mexico after a month's visit in Dixie and Oklahoma. Until later, Peace Brothers and Sisters.

Footnote: Glad to make our modest contribution to the Nellie Ross Trust Fund. Wish it could be more but we do have to spread the little bit around as there are so many good causes today. If everybody would just give a dollar or a five or ten dollar bill, what great good it could accomplish in this worthy cause.

Congratulations to the Staff of West Texas Times for adding one of the nation's top columnists to the editorial page—Jack Anderson.

Gary Fallis was the local preacher. Brother Wiley W. Johnson was visiting with us last Wednesday evening and brought a very soul stirring messages on problems we are facing in the twentieth century. Flowers on the Altar last Sunday, for Father's Day, were given by Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Walker and family in memory of Mr. Lowery Wortham, father of Mrs. Walker. God bless them.

Our pastor, Rev. M.T. Reed, has a few scholarships to the Junior High Camp July 17 through 24th at Ceta Canyon. Young people who may be interested should see the pastor. They will be given on a first come, first served basis.

Rev. Howard Mimms and his Soul Choir from the Plum Street Methodist Church of Abilene, Texas, did a splendid job for us recently. Everyone present enjoyed the singing of God's songs.

Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church

Brother and Sister William Sidberry will be leaving us soon. The Sidberrys are being transferred. Sister Sidberry is already gone because of a death in the family. We will miss these members and hope they will return someday. We extend our deepest sympathy to the family and will remember them in our prayers.

Funeral services for Sister Cardia Taylor, who was a long-time member of our church, are pending at the South Plains Funeral Home. Let us express our sympathy to the family and extend our love.

A beautiful Mother's Day and Father's Day dinner was served last Sunday afternoon following morning services.

OIC Seeks Support . . .

Industrialization Centers has already been done by our leaders in Congress."

Tracing the history of minority economic progress, Dr. Dawkins, who is Executive Vice Chairman of the OIC manpower development program, referred to Dr. Sullivan's comments on "the 1950s as the Decade of Legal Redress; the 1960s, the Decade of Social Protest, and the 1970s must be the Decade of Economic Progress."

"If we do not begin to significantly solve the problem now, by the year 2000, taking just the Black population alone, one out of every two will have to be subsidized. . . costing the nation $50 billion in welfare," Dr. Dawkins continued. "For the whole nation," he said, "the cost could exceed $200 billion, the conditions will lead to national bankruptcy and domestic chaos." He demanded immediate action to deal with the situation, offering OIC's "national network of manpower delivery training centers" as the instrument to help avert the problem.

Seeking broad backing for the including of OIC in the Manpower Act, Dawkins pointed to support already obtained, while urging Democratic leaders to pledge their party to include such a program for training the untrained—retraining the "wrong trained"—relocating the employees to places where employment is available and even locating industries and income producing machinery where unemployment is highest.
