SLEW For Real

The Wolverines went against a powerful Tahoka ball club who are No. 3 in 2A in the state Friday night and the results were tremendous. The young SLEW tied Tahoka JV 2-2 and were instrumental in the success of the night.

People who graded out well were Gregg Geissler, Ramon Olevera, Pancho DeLeon, Ruben Guana, Sebastian Padilla, Cliff Sanders, Billy Pyle and Mike Ramirez. The JV defense was great. The effort was very good. The containment still needs some work on defense and line play on offense.

The Varsity left no one who was there wondering if this would be the year the SLEW can compete. They are for real as they lined up against one of the five teams in West Texas or even the state.

The SLEW were able to move the ball against a great defense. The bright spot of the night was the team effort and intensity as they fumbled once and had 3 minor penalties.

The defense was tough as they went 1 for 1 against Tahokas top people.

Coach Taylor commented last year "we had a tough time, but this year our kids handled back some toughness as Bailey the All-State back and great one had to drive the field on three separate occasions." We had no serious injuries which what we had hoped to be able to accomplish.

Grading good this week were Biff Belew, David White, Rex Fennell, Lexie Fennell, Ricky Smith, Byron Vaughn, James Herring, Kevin Riley, Ronnie James, Allan Moore, Bobby Gover, Melvin James, Rudy DeLeon and Keith Clayton.

The SLEW JV will play here Thursday night at 6:00 against Amherst.

Friday the Varsity travel to Amherst for an 8:00 game. Fans be there for the season opener.

The SLEW games will be broadcast over the Muleshoe Radio Station KMUL. Glen Branscum is doing the play by play at 9:30 a.m. every Saturday morning.

The sponsors are Earth Dry Goods, Citizens State Bank, Pay-N-Save, Wolverine Drive In, Whites Auto Store, Higginbothams Lumber Co., Wood-Jordan, Sport Center of Lubbock and Cleveland's of Lubbock.

These people are just a few of the many who helped the SLEW CREW to improve so much over the past year and we take this time to publicly thank all of you for your support.

Clay Bulls Honored

Starting to school and having a birthday all in the same week is almost too much to happen to one little boy, but Clay Bulls managed to come through it all. Clay is the 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bulls and he was honored with a birthday party at his home after school Tuesday, August 29.

It was hard to know what was best, a cake, all decorated like Cowboys and Indians and ice cream or jumping on the trampoline and games that only 8 little boys can dream up.

The fellows who enjoyed all the fun were Matt Clayton, Brian Roper, Brannon Byers, John Chisum, Nelson Taylor, Michail Pittman, Shane McIntyre and the honoree Clay Bulls. Clay's favorite baby sitter, Aunt Ruby came by also to wish him happy birthday.

Clay thinks that his big sister Wendy and his mom sure give good parties.

Want A Good Building?

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS-President, Frank DelLeon; Vice President, Todd Moore; Secretary, Debbie Sineros and Treasurer, Miguel Samaniego.

Honest Money

By Charles E. Cheever, Jr.
President, Texas Bankers Association

Inflation is the number one concern of the American people today.

If everyone is so concerned about rising prices, why can't we do something to bring them under control?

The problem is the way we think about inflation. Everybody knows inflation is a problem of economics, but it is also a problem of politics. The hard facts of life have taught us that regardless of the source of the problem, the solution can only be reached through actions that have unavoidable political consequences.

The most important of these actions concerns the federal budget. We are now in the fourth year of an economic expansion, but we are still running deficits in our federal budget. That's almost a guarantee of a continued rise in prices.

When President Carter submitted his budget for fiscal 1979 last January, the proposed deficit was $61 billion. By late July the Administration had trimmed its PROPOSED deficit to $43.5 billion.

But Congress holds the purse strings for the federal government. By September 15, both the House and the Senate must approve a budget resolution to establish a ceiling on federal spending, and a ceiling on the federal deficit, for the coming year. It is the only time during the year when Congress must vote on both spending and revenues at the same time.

That's where we, the people, enter the picture, because Congress and the federal government do not act in a vacuum. They act in response to what they hear from their constituents, and what they hear is confusion. There are loud sounds of taxpayer revolts clashing against the cries for more special interest spending programs.

Cities want revenue sharing funds; farmers want price supports; welfare groups want more funds for the needy; older Americans want larger Social Security payments; bankers want loan guarantees for high risk loans; educational institutions want more federal grants. We Americans have become experts at pleading the case for our own special interests, but no one speaks out for the nation as a whole.

In the past, we have all asked for something from Uncle Sam, but we didn't ask the cost: The result has been a ballooning budget deficit and finally, inflation.

Well, now we know the cost, and an increasing number of Americans are saying, "No more." They want an end to inflationary budget deficits, even if it means cuts in their own special programs. They recognize the need to make short-range sacrifices to win the long-range prize: an end to inflation and a return to honest money.

Nobody is under any illusion that inflation can be stopped quickly. It took years for inflation to worm its way into our economy; it will take years for us to root it out.

Nor does anyone believe that ending federal budget deficits is the only thing that will put a stop to spiraling prices. Increasing productivity, eliminating unnecessary federal regulations, minimizing our dependence on foreign oil, all will help bring inflation under control.

But bringing an end to federal deficits clearly has top priority in much of the voting public's mind, even at the cost of some short-term discomfort. WE, EACH OF US, NEED TO COMMUNICATE THAT FEELING TO OUR LEGISLATORS IN WASHINGTON. With elections coming up in November, our representatives on Capitol Hill should be mindful of this shift in their constituents' views.

Right Around Home

"If there's a better time to visit the parks in the Southwest than autumn, I don't know when it is."

That's the view of John E. Cook, Southwest Regional Director of the National Park Service and the man in charge of 32 nationally significant areas between the Mississippi and Colorado Rivers.

Cook noted that visitation drops off dramatically after Labor Day. "There were 1.3 million visitors to our Southwest parks and monuments last August," he said, "but only 880,000 in September. The numbers dropped off to 700,000 in October and 500,000 in November."

The end of the traditional vacation season and the return of children to school is the reason for the annual drop in visitation that occurs in September. But for those who can get away during the autumn months, a park visit can be a quality experience.

"Not only are there fewer people, which allows the visitor a greater opportunity to enjoy nature, but there's relief from the summer heat and a shift to the fall colors," Cook pointed out.

"There are parts of the country where being out of doors in the autumn can be uncomfortable because of the cold," he said. "In fact, some parks in the north close up for the winter because of heavy snow."

"But in the Southwest Region, all parks are open all year and the experience can be delightful, especially in September, October and November."

Visitors who decide on an off-season trip will be helping the National Park Service and the park environment, too. "Many of our parks, both historical and natural, are extremely fragile," Cook noted. "During summer, when the visitor load is heaviest, there is often danger that these precious resources could be damaged by too much use over a short period of time."

"Every person who visits in the off-season instead of the summer takes a little pressure off the park environment in those days of heavy use."

Whatever season you decide to take your park vacation, have a SUPER visit, that is, Safely, Use, Preserve and Enjoy the Resources in these areas.

If you need information about parks around your home, write the National Park Service at P.O. Box 728, Room P-2, Santa Fe, N.M. 87501. You'll be sent a brochure that lists nearby park areas and charts facilities and services available at each.

HALFWAY—The latest research on cotton varieties, irrigation, and weed control will be featured at the 69th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station for Lubbock and Halfway. The event begins at 1 p.m. Tuesday, September 12, at the research site here, 14 miles west of Halfway.

Lamb County producers will find the program particularly applicable, said John Farris, county Extension agent.

Research efforts at the Lubbock and Halfway station focus especially upon the needs of producers in Lamb County and throughout the High Plains of Texas, Farris said.

The annual field day alternates between the TAES stations at Lubbock and Halfway, Farris said. Field days will be conducted throughout the afternoon, with motor-drawn trailers shuttling visitors to key demonstrations.

The field day is a cooperative presentation of TAES, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the High Plains Research Foundation, the Science Education Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the National Weather Service.

Principal stops on the tour of the Halfway station will feature reports on irrigation effects on corn, tests of new cotton varieties, research on weed control, effective management of farm labor, and a new mobile trickle irrigation system, Farris said.

During the stops of the tour of the 320-acre research site, Experiment Station scientists and Extension Service specialists will answer questions and discuss problems with the visitors.

The field day also will present a display of machinery and equipment by area implement dealers.

Women In The Pink

Collars are changing color for women in today's job market—from "pink" to more "blue" and "white," says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Pink-collar" worker refers to certain occupations in which women hold the majority of positions—for example, assembly line worker, beautician, maid, retail salesperson, a seamstress, waitress or secretary, she explains.

Of all women workers, 80 percent are in pink-collar occupations.

Pink-collar jobs, in addition to being female-dominated, are characterized as fairly low status positions because they don't require advanced education.

Therefore, these jobs usually don't pay well, nor do they encourage upward job mobility, the specialist points out.

In comparison, blue-collar jobs are in the craft, labor and machinery operation fields, she says. Their uniform or dress may differ because it is suited to the work environment.

Blue-collar workers primarily use hand skills or do physical labor. Heavy equipment operators, machinists, electricians, masons, carpenters and factory workers belong to this male-dominated group.

White-collar workers are the managerial, professional, clerical and sales occupations, the specialist continues.

White-collar workers accountants, doctors, executives, lawyers, ministers, teachers—use mental, rather than physical, skills.

However, no matter what color the collar—pink, white or blue—all workers have a place in the work force, Miss Taylor adds.

Estimated Tax Due

Taxpayers making estimated tax payments on their 1978 income must pay the third installment by Friday, September 15.

The tax installment should be paid using declaration-voucher 3 from the Form 1040-ES package, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Taxpayers whose anticipated income during 1978 has changed may have to file an amended declaration. Space appears in the estimated tax package to compute an amended estimate, the IRS said.

For more detailed information, taxpayers can obtain IRS Publication 506, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax," available free from local IRS offices. Supplies of the Form 1040-ES package are also available from these offices.

Pioneer Field Tour

The complexity of the seed business, from breeding hybrids to bagging the finished product, will be explored in a plant and field tour Thursday, September 7th at the Southwestern Division facility of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

Tours of the Plainview complex will begin every 15-20 minutes from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., said Don Tschirgi, information director for the Southwestern Division. In addition, a noon luncheon catered by Sutphen's Barbecue of Amarillo will be served.

The public is invited, Tschirgi said, and there will be no charge for the tour or meal. Pioneer has extended a special invitation to seed dealers and farmers from throughout the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles and New Mexico.

"One of the basic things we try to explain with these tours is the complexity of the seed business," Tschirgi said. "It takes quite an effort over a number of years to breed and grow quality planting seeds. Then special care must be taken as the seed is handled in the production process and bagged for sale."

"We offer tours so that people see our complex and understand what is done here," Tschirgi said.

A 40-minute tour of the Pioneer fields, guided by company agronomists, will include all the corn, sorghum and forage crop varieties marketed by the Southwestern Division. Breeding and stalk rot nurseries will also be toured, along with an alfalfa test plot and breeding greenhouse. The tour will stop at the sorghum breeding station for an explanation by a sorghum researcher and at the cotton breeding station for a brief discussion with a cotton breeder.

The new offices and enlarged production facilities of the Southwestern Division will be surveyed in a 30-minute tour.

A $4-million expansion program for the Plainview complex was completed in December, 1977. The three-year expansion effort resulted in major additions to bulk seed storage, seed preparation and warehouse facilities, as well as a new administrative office building. All of these areas will be included in the tour.

The Pioneer facility is located four miles north of Plainview on Pioneer Road, off the business route of U.S. 67, one-half mile east of the Producers Grain Corporation elevator. Pioneer personnel will direct visitors once they reach the complex.

Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., is the world's largest agri-genetics organization, founded as the Hi-Bred Corn Company in 1926. In 1962, the company established the Pioneer Sorghum Company in Plainview, later designated as the Southwestern Division.

Dimmitt Locals

By: Maxine Short

At best, with only one traffic light, the traffic situation in Dimmitt is bad enough, but now with the pavement project that bids to be with us for awhile the only worthwhile advice is "drive extremely careful." Fine tune your driving in the down town area there is no room for error.

While the streets are torn up in downtown, the Dimmitt merchants are making every effort to care for the needs of their customers with a minimum of inconvenience to the trade of the area. They have always tried to anticipate the needs of the community and to have the goods and services available to fill the needs and demands of the trade of the area. They realize that for a time, it will be inconvenient to find a parking place near their place of business, but they will appreciate the loyalty of their customers during this trying period. You should trade in Dimmitt even if you have to walk a block or two.

The old slogan "neither rain, hail or gloom of night, would stop the mail from being delivered." That was before the U.S. Post Office Department was changed to the U.S. Postal Service. That was the biggest mistake, so far as service to the public is concerned, that has ever been made by the federal Government. From the time that President Nixon succeeded in getting the U.S. Post Office Department converted to the U.S. Postal Service, service has declined and prices have increased. Under the old system Congress could affect changes in the postal service, and through their Congressmen the public could register complaints and the Congressmen would get some action. Under the present system, there is no avenue of redress, you take what is offered and try to be satisfied with it.

Kent Birdwell, who has been the county's tax assessor-collector more than 31 years, handed in his resignation to the County Commissioners' Court Monday. The resignation is to be effective December 31.

A rather surprised court reluctantly voted to accept the resignation. After Birdwell cited his need to devote full time to his other business interests, Birdwell owns an insurance agency and a used-car dealership here. "I find this to be the most difficult decision I have ever had to make," Birdwell said, "and it came only after much thought."

Two years remain on Birdwell's current elective term when he leaves office, so the Commissioners' Court will have the duty of appointing a successor.

Birdwell first became the County's Tax Assessor-Collector June 1, 1947 when it was still a deputy sheriff's job. When the tax office was created as a separate county department in 1959, Birdwell was elected to head it. He has been re-elected ever since.

All members of the Commissioners' Court expressed their gratitude "for the fine job Kent did for the county all these years," adding that they will miss working with him.

Plans for the Castro County Museums open house will be finalized tonight (Thursday, August 31) when the museum association will hold its monthly meeting at 8:30 p.m. The open house, to be held during the Castro County Fair, September 9, will feature quilting, soap-making, hominy making, spinning and branding exhibitions.

Membership dues can be paid during the meeting or can be mailed to Clara Vick, Box 457, Dimmitt. Dues are $5 per person or $10 per couple.

Everyone is encouraged to attend the planning sessions.

Local businesses are urged to watch for counterfeit bills after someone passed a bogus $10 at a local liquor store two weeks ago, a Sheriff's office spokesman said. In addition to the phony bills that have turned up in Dimmitt, counterfeit $20 bills have been found in Dumas and Dalhart.

According to the spokesman, the side of the $10 bill with Hamilton's face is too dark and the other side isn't the right shade of green. Printed on safety paper which will show lines if held up to the light, the paper has been wadded or washed after printing to make it limp.

The green number on the dark side is J85209214 A and appears to be slightly smeared.

A trustee in the Castro County Jail who escaped while trimming a hedge on the courthouse lawn Friday was apprehended by Dallas County Sheriff's officers when he arrived in there Wednesday.

Roger Chance, 20, of Hereford, was picked up at a Dallas bus station as he arrived there. Chance reportedly caught a ride to Plainview from Dimmitt and took a bus to Dallas.

"He had collected some wages that were due him by a Dimmitt business and that's how he was able to buy the bus ticket," a Castro County Sheriff's office spokesman said. Chance had been brought in on a misdemeanor charge last Thursday by Sheriff's officers. He had been assessed a fine, and had obtained permission to work it off and reportedly had "a few days left," to serve.

Sheriff's officers will go to Dallas and bring Chance back to Castro

County where he will face new charges.

A Hereford woman was arrested Saturday on charges of felony theft after she allegedly stole $606 worth of childrens clothing from stores in Hart and Dimmitt.

Eloisa Reyna Garcia, 32, was released Sunday on a $2500 bond following her arrest by Sheriff Deputy David Dalton.

The Sheriff's office was alerted by Mrs. Neoma Wall, owner of the Company Store in Hart, after she became suspicious when Garcia ran from the store as Mrs. Wall entered.

Garcia was apprehended near the intersection of FM 1055 and 86 Highway. She resisted arrest at first, but after signing a permission form for her van to be searched, the stolen clothes were found.

Managers of Pay-N-Save and TG & Y in Dimmitt identified merchandise later but didn't know it had been stolen from their stores.

A spokesman from the Sheriff's office said Garcia was accompanied by another woman but no charges were filed against her.

Funeral services for F.J. "Stub" Jones, who operated a drug store in Dimmitt for a number of years, were conducted Monday at Durant, Oklahoma, where he passed away Saturday morning. Burial was in the Durant Cemetery.

Mr. Jones had lived in Durant ever since he moved there from Dimmitt in the early 1950's. He had owned a drug store here since before World War II. He is survived by two daughters, two sisters and two grandchildren.

Postmaster Bill Sava cautioned citizens of the Dimmitt area to be wary of door-to-door sales of incomplete or out of state zip code or post office directories.

Frequently, he said, the person doing the selling will be a young person posing as a student who will use the proceeds to further his or her education.

A zip code directory is of little use unless it contains zip code information for the 480 major cities which have more than one zip code, Sava said. The directories being sold door-to-door often lists complete zip codes only for smaller post offices having one zip code.

In addition, the information in them may not reflect changes in zip code assignments which are made periodically to accommodate post office changes and community growth.

Sales of incomplete or out-dated directories have been particularly prevalent on the West Coast, in the Great Lakes states and in such cities as Detroit, Philadelphia and Phoenix, in recent weeks.

The postmaster urged residents to report any local incidents on such sales.

The official 1979 National Zip Code Directory, published by the Postal Service is available by mail from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington D.C. 20402, for $7.50. It is also sold by several licensed publishers, by the postal service.

None of which sell them door-to-door.

Taxpayers of Castro County who have questions about any state taxes are invited to meet with a representative of the state comptroller's office who will be at the Castro County courthouse from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on September 12.

Benito Rocha, enforcement officer from the comptroller's Lubbock office, will be available to answer questions, help in preparing state tax forms or otherwise assist merchants, farmers or any residents of this area in any tax matters.

The Lubbock office, headed by Vance A. Porfirio, serves Lubbock and nearby counties as a branch of the Austin office of Comptroller Bob Bullock, who has arranged the visits of representatives so taxpayers may make personal inquiries about state taxes.

SOYBEAN VARIETY FOR HIGH PLAINS RELEASED

The release of a new soybean variety named Gail was announced today by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Science and Education Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Gail is a productive variety released specifically for the High Plains of Texas, said Dr. Bill Ott, resident director of the TAES here. It is classified as Group VI maturity but averages approximately 12 days earlier in maturity than the Lee variety.

Seed yield has been consistently higher than for Lee or other Group VI varieties when grown in the High Plains region, noted Dr. Raymond Grigham, TAES oilseed crops research agronomist here. The earlier maturity also reduces risk from frost injury. The plants have purple flowers, tawny pubescence and brown pod walls. Gail is a selection from the cross Hood X D60-9647 which was made at Stoneville, Miss., in 1966, Brigham explained. Early generation testing of D70-7583 (the new Gail) was done at Stoneville, in 1971 and 1972.

In 1973, it was evaluated in the Uniform Preliminary Group VI trials which were grown at eight locations across the South.

Regional performance was good across the southern states, but yields were especially outstanding at Lubbock, where it exceeded the mean yield of three check varieties by 12 bushels per acre. This difference in yield was highly significant, Brigham noted.

Further testing in replicated yield trials and field-scale strip tests have confirmed the adaptation of Gail to the area, Brigham said.

The release of Gail will give growers in the southern High Plains the opportunity to plant an early Group VI maturity soybean as a full-season crop or the variety should be an excellent choice where soybeans are planted following hauled-out cotton or other crops, Brigham said. Gail also does well in irrigated areas of the Rolling Plains, such as Knox County, he said.

Foundation seed will be produced in 1979 by the Foundation Seed Service of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and will be available to seed producers in 1980.

SMALL GRAINS NEED FALL NITROGEN

Don't spare the nitrogen on small grains this fall.

Three important reasons why wheat and other small grains need nitrogen at planting or a short time afterward:

- for early grazing,
- to help decompose excess residual straw, and
- for high production of forage and grain.

Sufficient fall growth for early grazing cannot be expected without adequate nitrogen at planting. The advantages of early planting and favorable fall growing conditions can be lost if nitrogen fertilization is delayed until the condition of the stand can be determined. Establishing a good uniform stand requires some nitrogen, and most soils are deficient in this nutrient.

To meet nitrogen requirements during the fall growing period, producer can apply the total requirement before planting on heavy textured soils or can apply a small amount at planting following by topdressing soon after planting.

Of course, fall nitrogen fertilization is also affected by the amount of straw from the previous crop. The bacteria and other micro-organisms needed to decompose the straw require nitrogen and can use that already in the soil as well as that applied, thus reducing the amount available during the fall.

The general rule in applying nitrogen has been to increase the rate about 20 pounds per acre for each tone of undecomposed straw. However, a portion of this nitrogen is recovered during the final stages decomposition so that as much as half of this may be available during the spring months. This means about half of the "extra" nitrogen could be deducted from the late winter topdressing.
