of the tours we had the opportunity to take while germany was the Iron Curtain Tour. The wall communist East Germany. The tour bus took us Army base where we were briefed by a sergent of ack Berets who also was our guide during the tour. the briefing we discovered how and why some of wice men are needed to guard the wall, which to three different walls of 1058 miles each that the East and West Germany. The men that do this trained in 6 isolated posts on which they cannot heir families. Nine of the men on these isolated re there for their entire tour of duty (3 years) the them rotate spending one third of a year at the adherest of the year where they can be with their Some of the men speak from 7 to 9 different s, these men are used in the dome shaped ags which monitor all radio frequencies.

redrew near the wall, our guide announced that at i points we would be allowed to get off to take a sid take pictures. He informed us not to wave, no ring, no loud talking, or laughing, for the com-test German guards watch and take pictures of the towers constantly while we are off the bus. muson for no waving or gesturing is the East ans taking the pictures have them blown up so that du should be doing one of these things it is used anda against our country.

re got off our bus, the guide pointed out that area East Germany side was known as the factory area, but since it was Saturday, hardly anyone would be working. As we began to look across the smallriver to the communist country, we noticed that at one time there was a bridge across it. The gloomy gray factories loomed above the fences that surrounded it. The silence was so that it was frightening. As the guide pointed out the fences, he explained what they were made of. The outside fence was a 10 foot concrete fence with a big pipe which is 12 inches in diameter on top, the next fence which was approximately 25 feet from the outside fence consist of an 8 foot razor sharp mesh which is designed to cut anyone attempting to climb it, the third one, about the same distance away consist of mesh and barbed wire with electrical alarms placed at certain intervals. On the outside of the big concrete fence there are towers ranging about 30 feet high and approximately 1/2 mile apart. At the top of the tower we noticed there were two guards. Our guide pointed out that the communist guards are not allowed to work but one day together, to prevent their getting friendly enough to make plans to escape. The guards watched us constantly. At points along the walls where escape would seem possible, they have dogs stationed. There are three types of dogs, the first type dog is a Germar Shepherd and is used for tracking, the second is also a German Shepard and is trained to kill, the third dog is half German Shepherd and half Russian Wolf which is also used as a kill dog, this is the most vicious of all three. This dog stands waist high, weighing from 180 to 200 pounds. The two kill dogs are trained from 3 weeks to 8 months by trainers who place the dogs food beneath their chin, forming a habit of the dogs always going to the throat for their food. When the dogs become 8 months old they are placed in pens and are only fed every four days keeping them hungry. Since all of the precautions are taken by the East Germans, there are a lot less people escaping.

As we returned to the bus we noticed a huge bill board. printed in German, facing the East German side. Placed there by the West Germans, our guide told us it was placed there proclaiming that Germany is still one nation and that East Germany is still a part of that nation.

As we continued on the tour, our guide told us about the economy of Communist East Germany. The average wage for the East Germans laborer abounts to about 75 cents a day in American money. The price of coffee is $27.00 a pound and the reason for that price is they do not raise it and there is very little imported. Fruit is also scarce this year and is very high in price. In order for a common laborer to buy a car he saves for 5 years then goes to place his order and pays for it then and 8 years later if he is lucky receives his car.

Our next stop was near an East German autobon (freeway). We were there about 15 minutes and during this time we only saw five cars, this was when we began to understand what our guide said about the laborer being able to purchase an auto., for in West German hundreds of cars would pave been seen in 15 minutes range from 18 to 20 years of age. Then they are brought to the border they are encouraged to marry. Soon after they are married, the wives are moved to the interior. There they are used as a hold over the guards as a means to keep them from escaping. If a guard escapes their wives are imprisoned and the children, if any, are put up for adoption. This is also used as a means of discipline.

Our guide told us the age for the East German guards

As we looked across the wall into the deserted looking buildings and strees and being assured there were people living there, we felt a deep sadness for those oppressed people and saw the contrast of a happy western free world and of the East German people who had no freedom at all. They are not even being allowed on the streets without permission of the government. A woman cannot even go to the grocery store without the husband calling and telling them she is going. If the wife goes to the store and the husband fails to call, she can be imprisoned for up to 12 years.

We brought home a new love and respect for our country which cannot be put into words. It is a feeling you have to get inside of you after seeing something like this. Everyone in this country should get on their knees country for surely He has smiled on us since the beginning. Instead of criticizing our leaders, we should pray for them that God will give them the wisdom they need to keep our country free.

May God continue to keep America free
