velopment of mind, heart and character. Character is like an iceberg; the part which counts for most is below the surface. When you cash in your chips for this life, the only thing of any value which you can take with you is your character. Character is a victory, not a gift. Character knows no race, creed, color or circumstance. If you lack it, it's nobody's fault but your own. Happiness is character. Happiness is freedom. What is freedom? It is freedom to choose. It is the right of every person to own and control his own property, his own mind, and his own labor, as long as he is not infringing on the same rights of others.

There is only one great giver and that is God, not government. Governments don't give freedom; they take freedom. People have to wrest freedom from governments. Then after the people secure freedom, they have to work constantly to keep it. You can't have freedom and security. Happiness lies not in the state but in the state of mind.

Government can give you nothing which it does not take from somebody else. If you want your government to be your servant instead of your master, you must understand it, participate in it, distrust it and control it. The bigger it is the the littler you are.

Happiness is being self-sufficient. Throughout our lives one of our greatest needs is to feel wanted and appreciated. No less pitiful than an unwanted child are the unwanted old people relegated to rest homes where they get everything their hearts desire except the one thing they most want: love. Love is the greatest thing there is.

Love, honor and obey your God and your parents. "For God so loved the world, that he gave His only Begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Happiness is love.

ple, and of the social and psychological influences which cause them to use or not to use drugs.

Parental influence is most notable among adolescents, especially girls, whose mothers use tranquilizers. Among adolescents who report this form of parental drug use, 37 percent are marijuana users as compared to 24 percent who say their mothers do not use drugs.

The role of friends is far more crucial. Among adolescents whose friends report that they have not smoked marijuana, only 15 percent use it themselves, in contrast to 79 percent of those whose friends report having smoked 60 times or more.

The other way around, the proportion of adolescents who have smoked marijuana 60 times or more jumps from 2 percent among those whose friends have never used marijuana to 48 percent among those whose friends also are 60-times-or-more users.

When both parents and friends use drugs, the result is the highest rate of adolescent marijuana use found in one extensive study: 67 percent.

Although the strong influence of peer pressure on marijuana use is now well documented, many adolescent users are somewhat reluctant to accept the view that their behavior is a function of group pressures, perhaps because they feel it would be an admission of weakness.

Marihuana and Health, a report prepared by HEW's National Institute on Drug Abuse, states that in current studies of the various reasons given for marihuana use by adolescents, 12 categories of motivation recur.

They are: curiosity and experience seeking; imitation and peer influences; attainment of a state of well-being; instant achievement; relaxation; recreation or the avoidance of boredom; psychological support to deal with pain and discomfort, real or imagined; rebellion; search for insight or purpose; quest for a mystical-religious experience; supposed aphrodisiac qualities; an adaptive lifestyle which parallels the supposed pursuit by society at large of "instantness" or "instant results."

Camera Records House History

A few snaps of the family camera and an accurate photographic history of the home is available, Denise Beigbeder, housing and home furnishings specialist, said this week.

"A series of exterior photographs can help record improvements, painting, landscaping, remodeling, since the house was purchased," this specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said. Photos can also be a guide for future maintenance if the record includes shots of critical construction points, plumbing and wiring, for example. Problem areas can be pinpointed without tearing down the whole wall, she said.

It is time to sell the house, seasonal photographs can often help prospective buyers visualize the property as it looks throughout the year.

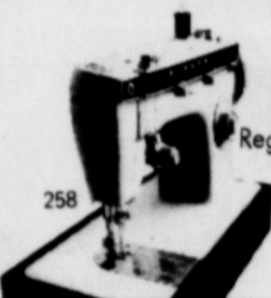

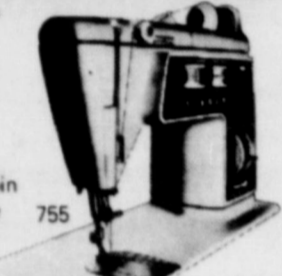

"A simple camera is sufficient, wide angle lens is better. Shot from several angles, front and back, and be sure to include the background and parts of adjacent properties as well. Get some close-ups of especially attractive areas and fine details."

Home Safety For Raw-Cooked Food

Most consumers know how easy it is for harmful bacteria to grow in raw meat or poultry held for several hours at room temperature.

But equal concern should be given to being sure cooked food is properly refrigerated, also, one foods and nutrition specialist pointed out this week.

Sally Springer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said that most bacteria in raw food are destroyed at cooking temperatures above 140 degrees F. But cooked foods can also be a haven for growing bacteria through recontamination or cross-contamination, she reminded.

"Cooked foods may be recontaminated if kitchen utensils used for preparing the food before cooking aren't washed before handling the same food cooked.

"Foods can be cross-contaminated by handling uncooked meats, then fresh vegetables without washing kitchen utensils and hands," the specialist said.

She suggested that a good rule to follow is to wash all utensils and hands in hot soapy water after handling raw food, since it may contain bacteria, and before touching cooked food.

"Cooking food at proper temperatures will destroy bacteria that cause food poisoning," she said.

Consumer Convenience,

Is It Costly?

By DOROTHY POWELL
County Extension Agent

What price will consumers pay for convenience?

Foods with services added to the basic ingredients save time and trouble in home preparation, one local home economist said this week.

But this built-in labor-saving device may cost slightly more than "from scratch" foods, Mrs. Dorothy Powell, County Extension Agent, said.

On the plus side, she pointed out that some convenience foods enjoy such popularity and volume sales that they actually may cost less.

Some of the pie crust, cake, biscuit and cornbread mixes are sold in large enough volume that they may be a real bargain. These products may be as delicious as the homemade counterpart, she said.

Frosting mixes, although more expensive, are foolproof in flavor and texture.

Other bargain convenience foods are frozen juices, especially the larger cans. Frozen orange concentrate is one of the cheapest forms of orange juice.

Refrigerated canned biscuits are much less expensive than those baked at home. The date code insures freshness for consumers. But frozen breakfast foods such as waffles or biscuits cost more than homemade ones, Mrs. Dorothy Powell said.

More varieties of macaroni and seasoned rice as well as one dish skillet meals are available now.

These convenience foods do have their place, especially for the inexperienced cook or working homemakers. But consumers can save money by using a favorite recipe to combine basic ingredients and spices to make the same dish, The Agent reminded.

'75-'76 Income Levels For Free Meals, Milk, In School

Income poverty guidelines for determining children's eligibility for free or reduced-price lunches and breakfasts and free milk in schools during the 1975-76 academic year have been announced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. USDA's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) is issuing the guidelines now to aid school boards and administrators in advance planning and budgeting.

The USDA guidelines are the minimum eligibility standards which must be used by all schools participating in the National School Lunch, School Breakfast or Special Milk Programs or receiving federally donated foods. Free meals and free milk must be served to all children from families at or below the income levels set by the guidelines.

Using USDA's national guidelines, each state educational agency sets income poverty guidelines to determine which children are eligible for free or reduced-price meals and free milk in that state's schools. State guidelines cannot be lower than the national levels but can be up to 25 percent higher for free meals and milk and up to 75 percent higher for reduced-price meals. These are maximums allowed under present law scheduled to take effect July 1.

The new guidelines are about 11 percent higher than those for the 1974-75 school year. For example, the income eligibility

Butz And Company Top Middleman In High Food Costs

R. L. Moore, President of Independent Beef Producers of America advised the directors of the national organization during a meeting in Hugo, Oklahoma that the USDA grading service, with their unrealistic and inflationary charges for grading beef, is one of the hidden costs in our food baskets today.

The USDA grading service charge to a packer is $14.60 per hour and if the packer is not located where the grader is stationed, he must pay the hourly charge to and from the plant plus mileage. These exorbitant charges are ultimately passed on to the consumer in higher prices for meat.

Lee Perkins, Vice President of IBPA stated that he was asking Congress for an investigation of the USDA grading service and their unrealistic charges. Moore stated the USDA should investigate themselves for windfall profits.

level for a family of four rises from $4,510 to $5,010. The year-to-year change in the Consumer Price Index is the basis for USDA's guideline adjustment procedure, consistent with the Bureau of Census method for updating its statistics on poverty levels. USDA's income poverty guidelines are higher for Alaska, Hawaii and Guam because of higher living costs in those areas.

Income poverty guidelines take into account both family size and income before deductions for income taxes, insurance premiums, bonds, etc. In using the guidelines, school food authorities can consider the family's income during the past 12 months and the current rate of income to determine the better indicator of need for free or reduced-price meals or free milk. When judging a family's income level, local administrators can also allow for specified hardship situations such as unusually high medical expenses, housing costs which exceed 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to a child's physical or mental condition, and disaster or casualty losses.

Good Cotton Crop Starts With Quality Seed

Quality cotton planting seed may be in short supply due to delayed harvest operations last fall caused by unfavorable weather. But producers should buy the best seed available to get this year's crop off to a good start.

According to Dr. Bob Metzger, cotton specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Blacklands and High and Rolling Plains areas of Texas were especially hard hit by adverse weather while better weather prevailed during the harvest season in the Rio Grande Valley, Coastal Bend and South Texas. "Generally good quality planting seed can be expected in areas where the cotton crop was harvested with less weather damage," notes the specialist.

"Maximum lint and seed quality occurs at open boll," explains Metzger. "Therefore, quality goes in only one direction, down. How fast and how far quality drops in the field is determined by two factors, how long open bolls remain in the field and the type of weather conditions during field exposure."

However, the specialist hastens to point out that seed quality can be further reduced if wet seed cotton is stored in trailers, ricks or modules. "Good seed can be ruined for planting purposes in a matter of hours if it heats in storage. Seed cotton should be ginned immediately and not stored if it exceeds 12 per cent moisture."

Why is high quality seed so important in getting a crop off to a good start?

First, high quality seed tolerates cold, wet soil conditions that cause seedling disease. This means full early stands even with unfavorable spring weather. Secondly, good seed means rapid emergence and seedling growth with the advent of favorable weather after planting. High quality seed also contributes to uniform seedling growth and fewer abnormal seedlings.

"Due to the generally poor quality seed produced this past season, germination standards for certified seed have been reduced from 80 to 70 per cent germination," notes Metzger. "So, producers in some cases may not have a choice and must use lower quality seed than desired."

If low quality seed must be used, the specialist offers these suggestions to help obtain an adequate stand. Delay planting until soil has warmed. Avoid planting too deep, as low quality seed cannot tolerate too much covering soil. Increase seeding rates, but not more than 25 per cent.

"Current high production costs and low prices demand that producers get an early stand with a minimum of replanting to produce a profitable crop," says Metzger. "Seed cost represents only five to six per cent of the total production cost. So, investing in the highest quality seed available is essential in getting a cotton crop off to a good start."

IF THE HOME AIR conditioner isn't circulating enough cool air to make the rooms comfortable during hot, muggy days, check to be sure the air filter is clean and doesn't need replacing.

TOO MUCH VITAMIN D can cause calcification of the soft tissues resulting in kidney damage. Healthy children and adults can get needed Vitamin D from sunlight, fortified milk and egg yolks.

FORM NO. 48 (REV. 7-1-77)

NC Producers Endorse Cotton Incorporated

RALEIGH--Members of the North Carolina Cotton Promotion Association (NCCPA) have unanimously approved a resolution endorsing the work of Cotton Incorporated.

The action came at the January 1975 annual meeting of the organization, which represents all cotton growers in the Tar Heel State.

Cotton Incorporated represents cotton growers throughout the United States as their marketing and research company. Marketing operations are centered in New York City; research programs are conducted from a research center here.

The NCCPA, funded through a nominal contribution from growers for each bale of cotton produced, works closely with USDA, N.C. State University, the State Department of Agriculture, and other cotton industry organizations to encourage cotton production, advance legislative views, and promote consumer interests.

Much of its work is with young people through 4-H club programs.

The organization also supports and helps underwrite the expenses of the Southern Cotton Growers, Inc.

The resolution passed by NCCPA "compliments the entire staff of Cotton Incorporated" for every member's share in focusing the attention of the public on "the true virtues and beauty of cotton through magnificent promotional effort and creative research."

The resolution encourages NC CPA members to cooperate with Cotton Incorporated through its voluntary funding program and "in all other ways possible in its promotional and research efforts."

J. Nelson Gibson, Jr. of Gibson, N.C., was elected new president of the association, succeeding J. Donald Keer of Waxhaw, N.C., who stepped down after three years in office. Steve Burgwyn of Weldon, N.C., is new vice president, and J. B. Barnhill of Hobgood, N.C., was re-elected treasurer.

Betty Oakley is secretary and office manager at the association's headquarters in Raleigh.

Butz And His Trained Parrots Find New Scapegoat

"Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and his trained parrots are trying to make scapegoats out of the part-time ranchers of this nation," says R. L. Moore, President of the Independent Beef Producers of America. Secretary Butz told a group of cattlemen in Dallas, "Weekend ranchers, out to get rich quick, have made it very hard for the legitimate cattlemen to operate." Dr. Ed Uvacek of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, one of Butz's trained followers, repeated the same in a recent news release. They gave the impression that a great part of the cattlemen's troubles stemmed from the part time or weekend ranchers and they implied that it would be better if they were out of business. "I feel the part-time cattlemen is an important and consequent part of our industry. The only way a young man can go into the cow-calf business and make a success is to have an outside job," Moore stated.

In 1973, Secretary Butz and company were singing the praises of the cattlemen and advising them to produce more because there was going to be a world meat shortage in 1975. They have now changed their tune and the part-time rancher will be made the scapegoat for our over supply if Butz and company get by with their allegations. Butz and those who echo his words continue to try to convince the cattlemen and the consumers that imports are minimal and only used in manufactured products and that the imported meats don't compete with our beef. Today, foreign boneless beef is being quoted at 51.5¢ per pound through our land. This is the price with which our cow meat must compete. Butz said, "We will eat our way out of the situation."

"I don't see our eating our way out of it as long as the government allows more imports in 1975 than they did in 1974. In a recent letter from a cattlemen in Australia and I quote in part, 'Cattle prices are very low. Last week young, plain steers sold for 2¢ a kilo liveweight (that is less than 1¢ per pound)! If the season turns dry, cattle will have no value. I don't see these foreign countries curtailing their exports to us unless we establish new quotas," said R. L. Moore.

Major Knitter OPTS For Cotton

NEW YORK--Texfi Knit One has introduced its first fabric containing a high percentage of cotton.

The company is merchandising a new double knit fabric containing 65 per cent cotton and 35 per cent polyester under the Cotton Incorporated trademark "Natural Blend."

Cotton Incorporated represents U.S. cotton growers as their marketing and research company. Marketing operations are centered in New York City; research operations are conducted from Raleigh, N.C.

Texfi Knit One is the menswear division of Texfi Industries, America's largest double knit company. Historically the company has produced 100 per cent synthetic fiber knits.

"The adoption of Cotton Incorporated's 'Natural Blend' by Texfi is another indication of the continuing resurgence of cotton in apparel for Americans," said J. Nicholas Hahn, Cotton Incorporated vice president for sales-marketing.

The Texfi "Natural Blend Double Knit" will appear in men's and boy's apparel made by manufacturers of better clothing in fall 1975.

Hahn said Texfi's "Natural Blend" will give consumers all the comfort of cotton, along with the ease of care properties made popular by fabrics made of synthetic fibers.

Long Range Cotton Outlook Bleak

With the growing demand for the natural fiber look, consumers may have unusually hard times finding cotton items, one clothing specialist reported this week.

Marlene Odle, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said that the National Cotton Council predicts a one-third cut in cotton acreage planted, which threatens the long-range availability of cotton.

"There are several reasons for this shorter crop. Large mill inventories and lower marketing price in raw cotton have made it less profitable than other crops, such as wheat and feed grains.

"Foreign buyers are cancelling their orders for U.S. cotton, which lowers the overall demand."

The specialist said that this means the mills are not giving cotton growers much hope for the future. The U.S. may possibly be faced with an under supply of cotton.

"Consumers may find that they will have to let their preferences for cotton be known in order to increase the demand and drive up the supply," the specialist said.

The world's first physician known by name was Egyptian Iphhotep who lived about 2700 B.C., according to World Book Encyclopedia.

Start Good Budget

Even though today's young adults start out with more education in financial matters than previous generations, they can still go overboard when spending money, Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, family resource management specialist, reminded this week.

"First requirements for trying to avoid debts is a realistic view of actual income available. The lifestyle of young adults should be based on net income, not on how much can be charged," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

Just existing from paycheck to paycheck with no plan usually results in ending up short of cash with debts piled up, she said.

"One problem the young adult frequently faces is that of buying a home. Adding to this problem is his desire to fill the new home with new furniture, new appliances and an endless list of wants, causing an equally long list of bills to pay."

Mrs. Chenoweth pointed out that unrealistic standards in relation to income is a treacherous trap for young adults.

"Some people feel they should immediately have the standard of living that their parents worked many years to achieve," she noted.

Don't Feed The Mosquitoes

You don't have to let mosquitoes take a bite out of your summer fun if you'll take a few preventive measures in advance.

This is the word from your Texas State Department of Health, which has long experience in this field.

Bountiful, and frequent, spring rains throughout most of Texas have left the state ripe for mosquito infestation in practically all areas. Perhaps you've already seen and felt evidence of a mosquito hatch in your own yards, or in a camping or picnic area.

It only takes a little standing water and some adult mosquitoes to bring on the pain, discomfort, aggravation and sometimes disease from the pesky insects.

Water in which to pass their early life stages is a necessity for mosquitoes. Adult flying mosquitoes frequently rest in grass, shrubbery or other foliage but they don't develop there. In walking through such areas you can run into a swarm of them, leading you to believe they hatch out there.

Some mosquitoes lay their eggs in standing water where they hatch in a day or two. Other mosquitoes lay their eggs in old tires, tin cans, or other water-holding containers in which they may remain unhatched for weeks or months until they are covered with water.

With both types of mosquitoes, the wigglers or larvae grow quickly and turn into tumblers or pupae. Soon the skin of the tumbler splits open and out climbs another hungry mosquito, looking for you as its victim.

In addition to being pests, says the State Health Department's Vector Control Division, mosquitoes can spread disease. Such diseases as encephalitis, yellow fever, dengue fever and malaria are common diseases spread by the flying insect. They are major health problems in other parts of the world.

One of the latest epidemics of mosquito-borne diseases in Texas was Venezuelan Equine Encephalitis (VEE) which struck the state in 1971 after entering through Mexico. The disease hit many people, mostly in the Rio Grande Valley, and made heavy inroads into the half-million horse population.

While mosquitoes are a threat to health and bodily comfort, there is something that you as an individual can do to ease the situation and lessen the job of local and regional health organizations and mosquito control units.

These could be called the Ten Commandments of Home Mosquito Control. They are:

1. Empty, remove, cover or turn upside down any receptacle that will hold water, particularly old bottles and tin cans.
2. Change water and scrub vases holding flowers or cuttings twice each week, or grow cuttings in sand.
3. Discard old tires or store them indoors.
4. Screen rain barrels and openings to water tanks or cisterns. Seal cisterns not in actual use.
5. Repair leaky plumbing and outside faucets. They may cause standing water in which mosquitoes can hatch.
6. Connect open wastewater drains to a sewage system, or construct separate sump or leach lines.
7. Clean clogged roof gutters and drain flat roofs.
8. Fill holes in trees with sand or mortar, or drain or spray them, as required.
9. Stock ornamental ponds with mosquito-eating fish.
10. Clean and drain evaporative coolers frequently.

These tips will help you prevent mosquitoes from reproducing. Your health department may have a summer spraying program to rid infested areas of the insects. You can keep your window screens in good repair, screen fireplaces and other openings and also kill all mosquitoes inside your residence with proper insecticides.

What if you're going to areas where mosquitoes may be prevalent? There are several repellants on the market which can be used on exposed areas of your skin to drive the insects away. Used on clothing, they may also protect you from chiggers and ticks.

The State Health Department wants you to have a safe, happy summer and reminds you that now is the time to prepare for it where mosquitoes are concerned.

Austrian Team Eyes U.S. Soybean Production

HUDSON, Iowa--The ability of the United States to provide a steady supply of soybeans for overseas customers will be stressed to members of a team of Austrian animal nutritionists who will visit this country during the latter half of June.

The study trip, arranged by the American Soybean Association (ASA) in cooperation with the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service, will also focus on the improvement of livestock and poultry production through the use of modern soybean meal-based rations, according to Dr. Keith Smith, ASA animal nutritionist.

Smith explained that Austria relied heavily upon soybean imports from the United States prior to the July 1973 export embargo on soybeans, but that the embargo prompted the Austrian government to look elsewhere for the country's oilseed needs.

"We hope to convince these men that the embargo was a mistake our government will not repeat and that the United States can produce an ample supply of soybeans for both domestic and foreign customers," said Smith.

USE AS LITTLE WATER as possible when boiling potatoes to prevent loss of important vitamins and minerals. Save the liquid to be used as part of the liquid ingredient when making cakes, quick breads and other baked goods.

Last Appeal For Return Of Texas Farm Census Reports

Letters appealing to 99 thousand Texas farmers to return completed report forms for the 1974 Census of Agriculture are being mailed by the Bureau of the Census. In January, 323 thousand forms were mailed to Texas farmers and residents associated with agriculture and so far, 60 percent have been mailed back or otherwise accounted for.

Bureau officials say this is the last in the planned series of follow-up letters, as collection of census data is scheduled to be closed out June 30. In addition, telephone calls are being made to selected farmers who have not yet returned the forms in order to obtain information about their 1974 agricultural operations.

Everyone who received a form should return it, even those not actively engaged in farming, such as landlords or those no longer farming. That information can be noted on the form which should be mailed back in the envelope provided.

Response to the census is mandatory by law. By the same law, all information about individual farms is confidential and can be used only for statistical purposes. Farmers can refer to farm business records for many of the figures called for in the form. When records are not available, reasonable estimates are fully acceptable, Bureau officials say. Return of the completed forms is essential in order that published statistics on agriculture for each county and for the State will be accurate.

Results of the census will affect farmers in many ways. Major agricultural suppliers and marketing organizations base their decisions on census statistics. Thus, they can affect the availability of goods and services in many farming communities. Any future allocation programs for such critical production inputs as fuel and fertilizer will bear a direct relationship to the crop acreages and animal units reported in the census.

"ONE REASON small towns and rural areas are freer of crime than cities is because it's easier for parents and neighbors to keep a caring eye on the children."
