

NOSIN.....

Cigarette Salesmen say, "IT'S WHAT'S UP FRONT THAT COUNTS." However Mary Foster won't agree with this, she says, "IT'S WHAT'S INSIDE THAT COUNTS," even though the containers be similar in size and appearance, the ingredients inside is meant to do a particular job, and when you just PICK UP WHAT'S UP FRONT nearest your hand it don't always work. Tooth-paste isn't a good substitute for shaving cream and visa-versa. (There's a definite difference).

Kilroy, the Lion's goat was a real happy little fellow, when he was chosen to become the guest of Bill Beasley, vice-president of the Citizens State Bank. He felt like he had really been accepted as a real member of the Lions Club, (a dandy-lion). Bill, however didn't meet the situation with downright eagerness, he seemed to draw a scheme which involved Rev. Cecil Meadows as an assistant to help him care for the goat. Rev. Meadows could not recall any such agreement with Bill. (His bank account must be in pretty good circumstances). I just hope Bill can't remember who drew his name out of the hat.

We have won something or other, in the Texas Press Newspaper Contest according to a letter received Saturday from Vera Sanford, manager of Texas Press Association. Not a hint as to what was won, but now we must find someone who plans to attend to pick up the honor for us at Brownsville. (We hope to be in New York at the time of the convention).

"I care not to see things, only to be with people, friendly people," this comment I received this week from a friend who was talking about our trip to New York. (Which we maybe we are going to get to go). I admit he has the right slant on life, of all the sights one could see, none would compensate for friends. However I want to see several things that I feel seem to be so "American." The Statue of Liberty, (I'll remember how throughout the war, the boys were so happy to draw near unto the land that was home, a land of Free People) I would like to capture that feeling. I also want to go to Washington, D.C. I want to see the Lincoln Memorial, and read again the words he spoke, that he felt at the time would not be remembered. I want to remember at that moment the great Heritage that we Americans have fallen heir to, and the great responsibility we have to keep America the Land of the Brave and the Home of the Free.

I want to look at the Capital building and then think back to how our land must have looked when the Pilgrims arrived, they were in a depressed area. No one guaranteed them high prices for anything. They had no cars, or roads even, the only roads or schools they had, they built them themselves. For security they did their "own saving or starved." All they had was character. All they did was work. All they wanted was freedom and self respect. Character, work and self respect. The sum of these three traits became America. I guess that's what I want to feel like AN AMERICAN who has freedom. (Though we feel it is a luxury to express ones thoughts at times).

Hot Weather Hazard To Hens

College Station — Maintaining a high rate of egg production and livability during summer weather is a major problem for every poultryman, said Ben Wormell, extension poultry husbandman. At temperatures up to 90 degrees, the hen can maintain its normal body temperature and a good rate of egg lay. As the temperature goes above 90 degrees, the hen tries to control its body temperature by drinking additional amounts of water, he said.

Studies reported by the USDA show that when the air temperature was 65 degrees, about 2 pounds of water was consumed for each pound of feed, and at 95 degrees, 4.7 pounds of water was consumed for each pound of feed, said Wormell. This indicates a need for a generous supply of clean water readily available for hens during the summer.

During periods of extreme heat stress, the body temperature of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Lattimer of Lockney Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Watson took the Intermediate boys of the Baptist Church last Monday night to Plainview to bowl.

Both the young and old alike seem to be enjoying the new swimming pool at Earth very much. This is a dream come true indeed!!

the hen will rise and if the hen's temperature reaches 112 to 114 degrees, the hen will die from heat prostration, the specialist said.

Poultrymen have learned to construct poultry houses to provide shade and air movement for the hens comfort. Grass planted around the poultry house will absorb much of the sun's heat and prevent it from being radiated into the laying house. This grass should be kept mowed, said Wormell, so that it does not obstruct free air movement through the floor line ventilators of the house. A continuous ridge roll ventilator, at least a foot and half wide provides an outlet through which the bank of hot air under the roof can escape.

A fogging system can be used to cool the hens and in emergency periods the hens may be sprayed with a garden hose, using a fine spray nozzle. The use of the wet pad and fan cooling method has been tried, but more information is needed before general recommendations can be made.

In hot weather each poultryman must take advantage of all good management practices within his control. It is necessary to provide maximum comfort for the laying hens to keep mortality to a minimum and maintain a good rate of egg production, added Wormell.

A little push will perform more miracles than any amount of pull

Cottage Cheese Makes Thrifty But Elegant Dessert

College Station — Call it Dutch, call it baker's or call it pot. By any name, cottage cheese is still the same fine milk product it was in colonial days.

Settlers from Holland and Germany introduced the art of making cottage cheese to this country. Their skill for making and using "straccase" has been passed down from generation to generation.

Here's one of their recipes that has become famous. It's called Dutch cheese cake. It's an inexpensive, but elegant dessert, calling for 1 pound cottage cheese, 1/4 cup milk, 1/3 cup sugar, grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, 1 pie crust, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup chopped raisins, 3 eggs beaten and 2 tablespoons melted fat.

Bake the crust in a deep pan until a delicate brown. While it's baking, press the cheese through a fine sieve. Add first the milk, then the sugar and salt, then the raisins; next the beaten eggs, melted fat, lemon juice and grated rind.

Stir until mixed well. Fill the baked crust with this. Bake in a moderate oven until firm in the center—about 15 to 20 minutes.

Cottage cheese is no longer confined to areas settled by the Dutch and Germans, for it is sold in every community in the country.

Since 1925, per capita consumption has risen from less than a pound to nearly 3 1/2 pounds, says Texas Extension Service.

There is little harmony in the home where parents are continually barking.

Latest estimate of the world cotton crop for '58-'59 indicates a new production record . . . estimate places growth at 44.7 million bales (that's figured at 500 pounds gross) . . . this is 3.6 million bales greater than the preceding season and 1.2 million bales over the previous all-time record of '55-'56 . . . two significant facts stand out: the cotton was grown on fewer acres and foreign production set a new high . . . the second time in two successive years . . . also, Communist countries can claim a large portion of the increased foreign production.

World acreage for the past season was nearly 80 million . . . this is down about 2.7 million from the previous record crop of '55-'56 . . . of course, the U. S. acreage harvested was only 11.8 million . . . that is the smallest since 1876 . . . at there were 11.5 million bales 'netted in the U. S. . . this means "record yield of 466 pounds per acre, as you have heard many times . . . world average was something over a half-bale per acre . . . total foreign production was 33.2 million bales on 67.9 million acres . . . both of these figures are new highs.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that the domestic crop was "generally good" . . . figuring middling white at 100, the grade index for the 1958 crop was 95.5 . . . the 1957 index was 91.7 and 1956 was 96.0 . . . the USDA also announces that the average staple length of the upland cotton was a record 32.8 thirty-seconds inches (that's about 1-1/32) . . . cotton 29/32 and shorter was less than 5% of the crop . . . this is the smallest proportion the department knows about.

Exchange Data
The U. S. has agreed to exchange cotton data with other cotton countries through a study group that will meet regularly . . . move came when Latin American countries asked for it.

Exports
Exports seem to look good . . . new season registrations were topping 300,000 bales by the first of this month . . . seems to support belief that the eight cents subsidy will realize a fair share of the market . . . and the U. S. has never increased a subsidy once the Program has been announced . . . although the law does give the Secretary of Agriculture that power if he deems conditions warrant it.

Tips on Touring

By Carol Lane
Women's Travel Authority

Fishin' Time

Vacationing women who find themselves in charge of a fishing trip with their husbands and children can improve their chances for fun—and fish—if they take a few tips from experts.

When you and the family hop in the car to buzz off to a fishing spot, remember:

Fish bite best when they can see best. This means they feed more when the waters are clear, not muddy. The moon seems to affect the fish's appetite, too. In fact, some seasoned fishermen have a saying: "Fish bite best when the moon is bright, and this is true both day and night."

A good off-shore breeze is another lucky omen. The ripple on the water hides the fisherman from the fish. Rough water, however, will hide the bait from the fish.

Many anglers consult a barometer before taking off for the day. They stay in bed if the barometer is low, but get out early and fast when it's high or rising.

Incidentally, the warmer the water, the deeper should be your plugs, spoons or spinners, as the fish seem to seek out the cooler levels.

Actually, the enjoyment—for most people—is not just in catching fish, but in "gooin' fishin'." It's a wonderful, relaxing way for the entire family to spend a summer week end.

Surf casting, lake fishing, wading in a stream for trout—they're all yours with a turn of the car's ignition key. Try it, have fun, and good luck!
