

OF PANHANDLE TOWNS MEMPHIS HAS THE BEST COUNTRY BACKING HER

ORGANIZE LOWER PANHANDLE.

The Index would like to see the people of Donley, Collingsworth, Childress, Hardeman, Cotton, Motley and some of the adjoining counties form an association for the purpose of boosting the section of the Panhandle north of Donley county which claims the whole thing and uses everything to her interest and advantage, but with the titles named the interests are not the same and an association properly organized could do a great deal of good for all. By means let's have those counties organized before the next fair and have them combined in an exhibit. If they do not beat any other part of the state on exhibits.—Childress

Mr. Banner-Stockman heartily endorses the suggestion of the Index in the above article. In fact, we had written a similar article for last week's paper but did not get it in type. We feel that we speak for the people of Donley county when we say that we are tired of playing the fiddle to the "Amarillo country." Just so long as the adjoining counties to Amarillo are in with Amarillo in any sense just that long they can assure of being "jobbed." Using that foxy term, "Amarillo Country," Amarillo has so managed to get credit for all the good things that have come to the Panhandle within a radius of many more miles than her own trade territory covers. She has been just a little too busy in its use—or mis use—of the independence of the counties concerned is being to crop out. The entire Panhandle is all right, Amarillo look closer to home for honors. Her supremacy as a commercial and business center is acknowledged by all Panhandle people, but she must drop her pride and quit filching. We commend the Index' position and hope to see the Panhandle take definite shape.—Banner-Stockman.

The Democrat is of the same opinion as both the Index and Banner-Stockman, as we believe an organization could and if organized accomplish good for the lower Panhandle counties, which are now sadly in need of some organization or representative their healthful and the true merit of the Panhandle should be. The Democrat is always more than willing to put her shoulder to the wheel and boost for any proposition that will have a tendency to place our wonderful resources before the public at large, which when fully known will be appreciated by all who are seeking homes in a land where crop failures are unknown, where land is cheap and within the reach of all, and where the climate is ideal and healthful. Let "boosting" be the paramount issue of every citizen and newspaper in the lower Panhandle.

New Mercantile Business.

The Democrat has advices from private sources that Messrs. H. T. Breedlock, W. L. Dallas, Dan H. Culton, Fred H. Rea and W. C. Milligan of Decatur will be here the last of the week for the purpose of closing up negotiations for the installation of a general mercantile business in this city. It will be remembered that Mr. Dallas was here in August, and after looking over our city and surrounding country determined to install such a business as the above in the near future. As he said before leaving, "we are coming—when, I do not know—but we are coming. Memphis looks too good to me to pass it up." This statement, after having visited most of the Panhandle towns, will give some of our outside readers an idea of what you will find in Memphis and the Memphis country from a resident and business standpoint.

All of the above named gentlemen are said to be, by those who know them, up-to-date business men in every respect and their acquisition to the town and country will be worth a great deal to both.

A Card of Thanks.

We would be wanting in gratitude did we not express our deepest sincere thanks to our many kind friends and neighbors for their many loving deeds of kindness shown us during the late illness of our precious darling babe.

When the dark clouds of sorrow and trouble hover over you, be it God's will, that you will find the same helpful sympathizing hands that we have found in this our darkest hour of grief and sorrow.

We feel by having been associated together in doing all we could for the relief of the little one so pure and tender, it will ever strengthen us to do our christian duty ever at hand.

May such be our devotion through the storms of life, and with our life's missions well finished, may we stand at last in the gateway of the other world in the calm tranquility of a triumphant faith.

Again thanking you, we remain yours in humble thankfulness. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bardin.

Arnwood Entertainments.

The National Stock Company will hold the boards at the Arnwood Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. This company is said to have a strong cast of characters and a pleasing repertoire. The popular prices of 25, 35 and 50 cents will prevail. If you enjoy something good don't fail to attend.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

"By the President of the United States.

"Once again the season is at hand when, according to the ancient custom of our people, it becomes the duty of the president to appoint a day of prayer and thanksgiving to God.

"Year by year this nation grows in strength and worldly power. During the century and a quarter that has elapsed since our entry into the circle of independent people we have grown and prospered in material things to a degree never before known in any other country. The thirteen colonies which struggled along the sea coast of the Atlantic and were hemmed in but a few miles west of tide-water by Indian hunted wilderness, have been transformed into the mightiest republic the world has ever known. Its domains stretch across the continent from one to the other of the greatest oceans, and it exercises dominion alike in the Arctic and tropic realms. The growth in wealth and population has surpassed even the growth in territory. Nowhere else in the world is the average of individual comfort and material well being as high as in our fortunate land.

"For the very reason that in material well being we have thus abounded we owe to the Almighty to show equal progress in moral and spiritual things. With the nation, as well as the individuals who make up a nation, material well being is an indispensable foundation. But the foundation avails nothing by itself. The life is wasted and worse than wasted which is spent in piling heap on heap, those things which minister merely to the pleasure of the body and to the power that rests only on wealth. Upon material well being as a foundation must be raised the structure of the lofty life of the spirit, if this nation is to properly fulfill its great mission and to accomplish all that we so ardently hope and desire. The things of the body are good; the things of the intellect better; but the best of all are the things of the soul, for in the nation and as in the individual, in the long run it is character that counts. Let us therefore as a people set our faces resolutely against evil and with broad charity, with kindness and good will toward all men, but with unflinching determination to smite down wrong, strive with all the strength that is given us for righteousness in public and private life.

"Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States do set apart Thursday, the 26th day of November, next, as a general day of thanksgiving and prayer, and on that day I recommend that the people cease from their daily work and, in their houses or in their churches, meet devoutly to thank the Almighty for the many and great blessings that they have received in the past and to pray that they may be given strength so to order their lives as to deserve a continuation of these blessings in the future.

"In the witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington, this thirty-first day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, nine hundred and eight and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred thirty-third. (Signed.)

By the President:

THEODORE ROOSEVELT,
ALVEY ADEE,
"Acting Secretary of State."

Pritchett-Mayfield.

The many friends of Mrs. Laura Mayfield of this city were surprised to learn upon the arrival of the north bound Denver train last Friday that this excellent lady had taken unto herself a life companion in the person of J. B. Pritchett, who recently located in this county from Arkansas, the ceremony having been performed in Ft. Worth on the day previous.

The bride is among the cultured and well known society ladies of this city, while the groom is connected with the White & Walker gin at Newlin, and both have a large concourse of friends who will join the Democrat in wishing for them the allotted time of man in the pursuit of happiness along life's pathway of connubial bliss.

While Mr. Pritchett's present duties required a great deal of his time at Newlin the newly married couple will make their home in this city.

Canning Pig Squeals.

An inventive genius has discovered that there is money in a pig's squeal. That which the late P. D. Armour said was the only thing that went to waste at the stock yards, now has a commercial value.

Millions of dollars worth of squeals have gone to waste because it was not known what use to make of them. But now that their real value has been discovered, the public will have to pay for squeals just the same as it pays for the hams, the loins and other parts of the American porker.

Last Saturday a man carrying a camera and a machine for making phonograph records presented himself at the Chicago stock yards and asked to take some pictures for use in a five-cent theater to illustrate a pictorial slide that is to be entitled, "A day at the stock yards."

"I will first take a number of moving pictures," he said, "and then I will get a record for the phonograph."

The man proceeded to can the squeals of hogs hoisted to death in the shackling pens.—Ex.

To Lease.

I will lease my section (640 acres) of land adjoining Giles on the west for a period of 3 or 5 years. All fenced, 2 wells, 1 windmill, 35 acres broke, close to school, church and railroad depot. Will build a good 4-room house and otherwise improve the place for the right parties. For information see or write.

Mrs. E. L. Mevis,
20-21 Giles, Texas.

Arrives from Sierra Blanco.

Geo. Owen and family arrived Monday overland from Sierra Blanco in El Paso county. Mr. Owen is a brother of W. J. Owen of Lodge and in a conversation with the editor, with whom he has been acquainted for many years, George stated that conditions were pretty good in that country, and that he had not sold out nor did he intend to, but that on account of inadequate schooling facilities in that section he had to move to Memphis in order to take advantage of our excellent schools.

BRICK BUILDING CONTRACT AWARDED.

Last Thursday the contract was awarded for the erection of eight brick buildings on the south side of the square, our local contractors, Messrs. Cobb & Nelson having been the successful bidders from a number of competitors, among them outside firms.

The buildings are to be erected for Messrs. J. H. Howard, J. M. Lane, A. J. Stafford, J. B. Williams, Cobb & Nelson and J. F. Craig, the latter of whom will build three of the number, and are to be completed by the middle of January and each will be modern in every way of the one-story 25x100-foot size and built upon a concrete foundation. Each building will have a plate glass and ornamental pressed brick front, with swing awnings, steel ceilings and plastered walls, and when completed will be a credit to any town, even to a city several times the population of Memphis.

The work of preparing the ground for the foundations was commenced the first of the week and the construction will be rushed through as soon as the material arrives, some of which, however, is already here.

With the improvements already under headway and others which are now being contemplated and which will materialize soon, Memphis will take her old time place as the leading town on the Denver line in the Panhandle this side of Amarillo. Already Memphis is looked upon by the traveling men as the best business center in the above-mentioned district, and that she will continue in this position is admitted by all who are acquainted with the town and its wonderful resources and advantages.

With the installation of the sewerage system Memphis will be recognized also as the cleanest and healthiest town in the Panhandle in which to reside for business or pleasure.

When hunting a town location, don't fail to investigate Memphis.

Leaves for Ladonia.

Will Gaylor and wife left Friday night for Ladonia. Mr. Gaylor's old home, where they will reside in the future and where Mr. Gaylor has accepted a position with a newspaper at that place. Mr. Gaylor, while here, was connected with the Hall County Herald and was a most genteel young man. Mrs. Gaylor is a sister of Dr. J. W. Greenwood of this place, and the two leave behind them many warm friends who wish them well.

Holland's Magazine regular price per year $1.00. Memphis Democrat regular price per year $1.00. Our Special Combination Price for a year's subscription to the two together ONLY $1.00

Farm & Ranch is the best agricultural paper in the Southwest. It is of practical use to You. It deals with things right here at home. It answers weekly questions telling you how to grow your crops and how best to sell them. Marketing problems, how to feed and raise live stock and poultry, fruit and truck growing, and all of the latest scientific discoveries and most successful ideas are intelligently handled, and it is explained carefully how you can turn the latter to the most profit. A veterinary department answers questions concerning ailments of livestock and prescribes exact remedies. The dairying and household departments interest the housekeeper and hostess; and the children are not forgotten.

Holland's Magazine is brim full of good clever short stories written by some of the best fiction writers of America. It contains many beautifully illustrated articles on live topics of interest in any home. Special art, needlework, fashions and practical household departments, including a children's page which is instructive and amusing to the little folks completes the list of important features.

QUAIL CHIRPINGS.

We have had some cool days lately and cotton looks sad.

The boys are returning to their work as court has adjourned.

Colonel Ellison's grand-son is up on a visit.

Edward Neeley of Glazier, Hemphill county is here now. He reports times very good up there at present.

Thanksgiving is drawing near and the turkeys had better lookout.

Grandpa Atkinson has gone to Mangum, Okla., to attend the street carnival this week.

It was pretty cold last Friday night for a literary, but we had a nice crowd and a good time. The subject for the next meeting is, Resolved, that the U. S. is at her zenith as a nation.

GERMANY WHITE.

No one knows how or whence he came, but mischievous Cupid with his bow and arrow has been in our midst and when least expected he has appeared and two hearts of a kind were chosen and two lives are forever interwoven.

Yesterday morning in the presence of a few friends A. W. Atkinson pronounced the solemn words which forever binds Perry White and Miss Gertrude Germany in the bonds of holy matrimony.

The bride's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Germany of Quail, who came to this county about two years ago from Wilbarger county, and has won the respect and esteem of all who have been honored with her acquaintance, while the groom is a son of James White of Wilbarger county and is known for his sterling qualities and manly character.

The happy young couple have the best wishes of a host of friends both in Collingsworth and Wilbarger counties.

LAKEVIEW.

Wiley Cope and wife spent Saturday in Memphis.

The Lakeview Restaurant changed hands this week. T. J. Lasater buying out Bob Smith, the latter tells us he is not going to leave us but is going to build and go in other business.

Grandpa and Grandra Stidham spent Sunday the guest of the Dr.

Mr. Giddens brother of Arkansas came in this morning.

Roy Allison returned Sunday morning from Altus Ok., bringing with him his bride. Congratulations are in order.

John Folly and Ben Dalton returned Friday night from Estelline with a bunch of cattle.

Bob Hightower was in town Sunday.

H. W. Blanks made a business trip to Memphis Monday.

Dr. Stidham has been suffering for the last two days from a cold the result of a coon hunt. The Dr. was returning from a professional call when he espied eleven coons up one tree. He had his gun but it was loaded with bird shot. He shot one with these, this made the coon mad and he came down and jumped on the dog resulting in his death. The Dr. shot at the second and in the same way all eleven met their death making too much of a load to bring all home he brought the smallest weighing 18 lbs. and the largest 36 lbs. Fearing some would doubt his story he skinned the remaining nine and says if there are any doubting Thomases to just come around and he can show the eleven hides.

GILES GOSSIP.

Rev. Durham Shelton of Milan county came in the 13th on a visit to his Bro. J. M. Shelton, whom he had not seen for many years.

Those reported on the sick list last week have about fully recovered.

It is with regret that we chronicle the serious illness of the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Coursey. The little one is suffering with diphtheria. Dr. Mickle of Memphis and Dr. Sarvis of Hedley are doing all they can but at this writing there is but little hope of her recovery.

Miss Myrtle Neeley of Memphis was the guest of friends in Giles last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Paul Sarvis of the Hedley Herald staff was a pleasant caller in our city last Thursday.

Misses Ada and Bessie Christie of Memphis were the guests of Dena Young last Sunday.

Mrs. Hall of Childress visited the family of Mr. J. O. Ray and Mr. J. L. Lemmons the first of last week, returning home Thursday night.

Rev. Shelton preached to a large crowd here last Sunday night, his sermon was an able one and was enjoyed by all.

A. M. Bailey is reported on the sick list this week.

L. E. Haltiwanger, formerly of Giles but now of Okla., spent a few days here last week on business and visiting friends.

GRANTING PATENTS.

Invention as Distinguished From Mere Mechanical Skill.

A patent cannot properly be granted protecting the product of mere mechanical skill as distinguished from invention. Difficulty is frequently experienced in distinguishing between the two, and the supreme test for determining whether a particular device is the result of mechanical skill is not whether an ordinary mechanic could make the device if it were suggested to him, but whether he would make it without suggestions save those which are prompted by his skill and knowledge of his art.

For example, if a man constructs out of iron a machine which had previously been made out of wood he does not thereby become an inventor in a legal sense, because everybody knows that any constructor can build a machine out of iron instead of wood. But suppose that gunpowder had just recently been discovered and that the man who invented it had applied for and obtained a patent upon it.

He might have claimed, "I combine saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal in a certain way and produce a startling result," and it would be no answer, if an action for infringement were brought, for the infringer to say that every chemist could make the powder after he had been shown how, for, if every chemist did not have the knowledge as well as the skill, the originating of the powder constituted invention.—Exchange.

PECULIAR TREES.

They Yield Bread, Butter and Milk, Soap and Candles.

The breadfruit tree of Ceylon is very remarkable. Its fruit is baked and eaten as we eat bread and is equally good and nutritious. In Barbain, South America, is a tree which, by piercing the trunk, produces milk, with which the inhabitants feed their children. In the interior of Africa is a tree which produces excellent butter. It resembles the American oak, and its fruit, from which the butter is prepared, is not unlike the olive. Park, the great traveler, declared that the butter surpassed any made in England from cow's milk. At Sierra Leone is the cream fruit tree, the fruit of which is quite agreeable in taste.

At Table Bay, near the Cape of Good Hope, is a small tree the berries of which make excellent candles. It is also found in the Azores. The vegetable tallow tree also grows in Sumatra, in Algeria and in China. In the island of Chusan large quantities of oil

HONEST AMERICANS.

Incidents That Greatly Surprised a Visitor From Germany.

On his first visit to the United States a German manufacturer was the guest of a kinsman in New York. He expressed surprise when, a few days after his arrival, he saw a number of men help themselves to papers at an unattended newsstand, where some men laid down the exact price of their purchase, others made change for themselves and still others walked away without paying. He was told that the last named group were customers who paid only once a week, but that no one ever failed to pay.

To demonstrate his contention that "most people are honest in this country" the Americanized German took his visitor that day to a restaurant where both were unknown, and when they had finished their luncheon the host went to the cashier's desk with his check and said he had no money with him, but would pay the next day.

The cashier gave the couple a hasty glance and said, "All right; I'll take a chance," and the men started for the street. At the door a right about face movement was executed, the check was paid, a good clear was handed to the cashier, to whom the plot was revealed, and the German exclaimed, "Grossart!" (marvelous).—Chicago.

Lambs For Spanish Children.

Directly after Lent there is observed in Spain a custom that is particularly interesting to children. It is what may be termed the sale of the lambs, for on Monday morning after Easter the shepherds have their lambs and goats on sale in all the cities. The animals are kept in temporary pens, and it is the rule for parents to permit their children of from five to twelve years of age to purchase a pet lamb or goat. After the animal is selected it is taken to the home residence and given the freedom of the courtyard and quite often the greater part of the house. It is every child's ambition to train the pet so that it will at least follow its owner like a dog, and if a few simple tricks are added to the lamb's or kid's education the master or mistress is proud indeed. Girls especially delight in these pets, and often the animals are so bedecked with bows and ribbons as almost to hide their bodies. The sale of the lambs is a very old custom and is supposed to have originated through some form of the church.

HUNGERING FOR THE SOIL.

The older we grow the more the heart protests against artificial living, the strenuous existence, and the more we long for the simple natural life.

The boy who hates the chores on the farm and who longs to get to "the city where opportunity dwells," thinks he will never want to see the country again; but after years of artificial life in the city, straining and struggling for wealth, he is surprised to feel a great craving in his nature for the old farm. The things which in the past seemed like dry, dreary drudgery to him, now take on a tinge of romance, and he longs for the scenes of his childhood, to be back with the calves, the chickens and the colts. The meadows, the brooks, the hills, the trees—all have taken on a new charm and meaning, and in his imagination he smells the fragrance of the new mown hay and the fresh perfume of the wild flowers, and the glistening of the jeweled dew in the grass. All these things haunt him, until he buys back the old homestead or farm, for a piece of land he must have. Nothing else will satisfy him.

The hungry for the soil is as natural to us as our breath, because it is a part of us. We feel a kinship with the thoughts of the Creator, written in flowers, in grass, in trees and in his multitudinous expressions of love, and beauty in nature.

We feel that these hills, and woods, and streams, these valleys and flowers are our relatives; that we are all thoughts of the same Creator, and that there is a relationship between us which even the more mania and the scramble for power can never quite crush out our nature.

The longing to get back to the soil, the craving to get away from the artificial life, and to get back to Mother Earth, to the simplicities of life, pervades all classes, and is especially felt by those who were born and reared in the country.

TRASH ON THE SIDEWALK.

A man would not tack a piece of waste paper to his coat or hat and go forth into the street with it, nor would he permit any one to pin it on him, even for fun. Neither would he drop a banana peel on the floor of his parlor and let it stay there. If he did there would be a row. Then why should he throw a piece of newspaper or an envelope or a banana peel on the public thoroughfare that belongs to all the people and where such things are as much out of place as they are on a person or in the home? It is a matter of habit. People act differently where a great many meet than where a few meet. Yet there is no good reason why one should not be as careful and decent in his relation to the community as he is in his relation to his own family and personal friends.

A conscience can be built up and cultivated along public conduct just as in most cases it has been built up and is being cultivated along the lines of private conduct. Let a man who thinks about these things resolve for a space of time to refrain from dropping anything whatever on the sidewalk or the street, and he will find after a while that he cannot go back to the old slovenly ways without a qualm of conscience—without doing violence to his new sense of fitness; we might say decency. A new and better habit has been born and fixed, and the foundation of the old one has been snapped. That is the evolution of all improvements, physical and moral. That is the road mankind had to travel on its long and weary way from barbarism to civilization. Apply the same process to numerous other slovenly habits indulged in public, and we shall soon have a city and a community that will be a model to the whole land.

A Texas paper says that it is reported that Roosevelt will take Booker T. Washington to Africa on the big hunt. With Captain McDonald and Booker Washington on terms of social equality in the same camp, we see trouble ahead before the starting of the expedition.

You can't help your town with out helping yourself. Remember that, and when you are called upon to do something for the good of your town, remember that you are invited to do something for your own material interest.

Considering the rapid approach of turkey buying for Thanksgiving and Christmas so immediately impending we shall all be able to use any and all prosperity it may please a gracious Republican administration to accord us.

Plant more peas, potatoes, peanuts, popcorn and pigs to fall back on should a short cotton crop come along.

Notice to Farmers

We thank you for any patronage you have heretofore given us, and we beg to say that you will find us at the same old stand doing business as before.

We claim several advantages to the farmer over any other ginning system in existence, with our "Air Blast System." 1st—A better Sample. 2nd—A Larger Turnout.

Then, too, we are now so fixed that we give every lock of each bale and none is left in the feeders, so that every bale samples correctly. We want to buy seed cotton and will give you a long price for any you will sell us.

Give us a fair share of your ginning and we will either buy your bale or make the man who does, bull the market. We claim our samples to average you, on a number of bales, from ten to twenty points better than any other system and we guarantee you the best turnout.

This means the adding of some dollars to your bank account and you will help ours too. We hope you will give us a good share of your cotton and we promise you every courtesy at our command. Very truly yours, Daniel Werner had decreed that his daughters should be maudlin. Marriage should represent to them slavery. To this end he selected for each of his daughters a career which, in the estimation of Mr. Werner, was the infallible antidote for romance.

To all of this his daughters openly subscribed—and inwardly rebelled. For Margaret, who had a commanding figure even at seventeen and a full, mellow voice, he selected the profession of the law. Had Margaret been allowed to choose for herself, she would have studied sociology and gone down into the slums to save the souls of little children.

For Janet, who looked like his Uncle Ezra, a noted upstate physician, he chose medicine. Janet crawled under the bed on Fourth of July and turned white and sick at the sight of blood, but if there was anything in physical resemblance she would outgrow these foolish ideas and surely she was her great Uncle Ezra in petticoats.

For Lucille, because of her dreamy nature and studious air, he chose music. She looked the musician—and therefore she could become one. He did not know that her dreams were all woven around baby faces and the one music for which she would ever care was a lullaby.

Having thus arrogated the privileges and responsibilities of fate, he proceeded to earn the money necessary to provide the careers—and Cupid sat back and laughed. This is the sort of task that appeals to Dan Cupid.

Margaret studied law by day and by night read Janet's medical books. Just before she graduated she had a "call." Oddly enough, the same call reached one James Borden—and together they went as missionaries to the poor whites of the south, where Margaret's medical knowledge, gained vicariously through Janet, proved ten times as valuable as her training in the law, which had come high.

Janet graduated and obediently joined her great-uncle Ezra, for her father decreed that she should step into the family practice. In a short time Great-uncle Ezra wrote that Janet's pies were the only ones that could touch the standard set by his dear mother, and he was glad to say that young Bernard

"I AM GOING TO HIM AND TELL HIM THAT I LOVE HIM."

Kelly, the newly elected member of congress from the Steeple district, recognized a good pie and a pretty girl when he saw them.

For all this treason of her sisters did Lucille pay dearly. She was sent to the severest professors, who snuffed her knuckles and pinched her tired arms when her interest in music flagged.

These professors all agreed that she had the musical temperament, the soul, but she lacked technique. They did not appreciate that it was simply the womanly soul of the girl seeking expression in chords and runs.

Patience she made the rounds of studios, concerts, lectures and recitals. Obediently she read the masses of musical literature which her father provided for her delectation and advancement.

But when Harry Wall happened to meet her on the avenue—and this happened more and more frequently as the season advanced—she smiled and forgot the miseries of acquiring a career.

Harry Wall was nothing if not sincere, and in time he refused to confine himself to chance meetings on the avenue. He demanded the right to call upon Lucille under her father's roof and was repulsed by the supreme maker of careers.

Lucille went to Europe to finish her studies. She sailed on the first boat scheduled for Hamburg after young Wall's interview with her father. And she carried to Germany not the memory of a father's blessing, but the recollection of a paternal frown.

Her mother went with her and settled her with a dependable "frau" in an immaculately kept home under the eaves of the professor's roof. The professor ranked first in the musical world as a maker of piano virtuosos.

And the world which had known Lucille Werner, the world which had held struggling American musicians, fretful American teachers and eulons American critics, thought of her only as a pawn on the artistic chessboard, which the great professor in the ob-sure German town was moving at his will.

But all the while another great chess player, Dan Cupid, was pitting his skill against that of the maker of virtuosos. For Lucille Werner was not the sort of girl who forgets. In her letter to Harry Wall from Germany she wrote:

"You must never write to me again. So long as my father is paying for my education and supporting me, I shall obey him. I will become a great musician. By my artistic success I will repay him for all the money he has spent on me and the disappointment he has suffered through my sisters. But when I am my own mistress, when I am a great player, I shall marry you. You will be my manager. I will have the career to please my father and a husband to please myself. If you do not hear from me do not fret. I will be simply waiting."

Over in the obscure little German town Lucille was regarded as a prodigy. Never had the great professor seen such a capacity for work. He sent glowing reports to the maker of careers, who showed the letters to his wife and remarked with swelling chest that they had one daughter who took after her father.

"I knew a career and such opportunities as I am giving her would knock young Wall's asinine romance into a cocked hat."

And what of young Wall? He was making some talk in his own world too. The great electrical trust for which he was working out inventions and improvements realized that it had found a prize worth holding.

Here was a man who would work eighteen or nineteen hours a day for their interests. He must not slip into the clutches of any rival concern.

For, you see, it was only Dan Cupid who knew that every time Harry Wall scored a fresh triumph, every time his employers advanced him in position and salary, he would set his lips a trifle more firmly and mutter under his sharply drawn breath: "And she thought I'd be the managerial husband of a musical star. I'll show that father of hers!"

Margaret had just pulled her misshapen husband through a dangerous attack of mountain fever, and Janet had just given a most brilliant dinner at her husband's Washington home, when the maker of careers received his third and most conclusive jolt. It came in the form of an anonymous letter, mailed in the obscure town where Lucille was performing such prodigies of labor.

"I presume you understand that to marry a German officer your daughter must have a dot of at least $20,000. I write this in the most friendly spirit. It is well she should not build air castles—as American girls will."

Mr. Werner cabled to Lucille without wasting time on investigation: "Return by S. S. Franz Gustave. Passage prepaid."

She sat with hands folded, facing the maker of careers. When he had finished speaking she arose, and the woman who stood before him was a new Lucille.

"Now I have something to say. I meant to be a great artist to please you, to repay you, but by your insane distrust have ruined my career. Six months more and I would have been ready to face the critics. Six months more and your dream would have been realized, but you have shamed me before my master. By now his little world knows it all, and I refuse to go back. I never saw Lieutenant Heuser but twice. What he may have said in the drawing room of the American consul was no fault of mine—and on such a rumor you built your mountain of distrust. I did not love, I did not even admire the lieutenant—because I did love, I do love, some one else, and now—because by your own hand, by saying that you will never raise your finger again for this ungrateful daughter—you have cast me off without a hearing. I am going to him and tell him that I love him."

And, leaving the maker of careers filled with the humiliation of self wrought defeat, she went to her room and wrote to Harry Wall:

"Come. The door of my father's house is open to you. My career is ended. I ask only to share yours!"

High Finance.

The excursion train was crowded, and the man in the center of the car knew it would be impossible to get out through the jam to get something to eat without losing his seat and perhaps missing the train. He looked longingly at the restaurant across the tracks and, seeing an urchin sitting on the iron pipe near by, he called him over, saying: "Here, son, take this quarter and run over to that restaurant and get me a sandwich. And get yourself one," he called after the boy.

"You are crazy," said the excursionist beside the man. "You'll never see that kid or your quarter again."

And as the train whistled at the moment he feared it would be true. Just then, however, the boy came out of the restaurant with a large fat sandwich in his hand. The train was moving as he handed up the change and then, taking a huge mouthful of the sandwich, he called to the departing man with the hunger: "They only had one left. Thanks!"

The Dog's Tail.

A prominent citizen was on trial charged with harboring a vicious dog.

The attorney for the defense had been consulting a dog expert and had learned that if a dog holds his tail up over his back when he barks he is not angry, while if he holds it straight out behind him he is in a belligerent, bloodthirsty frame of mind. Anxious to air his newly acquired information, the lawyer began cross questioning the prosecuting witness thus:

"Now, did you notice the position in which this dog's tail was held when he came at you?"

"I did not," said the witness, "for that was not the end from which I anticipated injury. I had another end in view. Now, if the dog had been a horn!"

"No levity, sir!" thundered the attorney. "Answer the question. In what position was the dog's tail when he came at you?"

"I believe, sir," faltered the terrified witness, "that it was behind him."—Chicago News.

No. 280.—This ranch is located Chihuahua, about 30 miles from Idio, Texas, and consists of valleys, plains, mountains, rivers, creeks and is considered the stock ranch in the state. The river, the finest permanent stream in Mexico, runs seven miles through the ranch. This everlasting stream water all the year to irrigate the ground; besides it has three excellent sites for electric power which would afford sufficient for the cultivation of the land.

transportation of the products to the nearest railroad properly managed. In addition the Chonchocho river there are permanent springs that supply abundance of fresh water; in addition to this there are several springs and two magnesia mud where rheumatism and skin are successfully treated. This is also the very best in the country being equable, salubrious, and being both in winter and in summer elevation being about 3500 feet all together, thus making it a health resort. It is also one of the best improved ranches in Chihuahua, built on the ancient material, built on the ancient material by people who intended to their home. The main building 35 rooms, all in good condition, all necessary outbuildings conveniences, besides there are extensive corrals, and all the usual arrangements for handling horses, mules, sheep and goats, the improvements themselves worth at least $20,000. Will only call for the 60,000 meets and bounds marked. The ranch is built of rock by the agent, yet there is said to be of about 40,000 acres, and be owned by the purchaser title protected by the government. There is also a range of mountains and acres outside that could connect with the ranch. It grows a fine quality of grain affords plenty of pasture for the year round. It will hold cattle, 2000 mules, and 5000 goats. The soil is very deep, especially adapted to the alfalfa, small grain, vegetables; if sown in alfalfa it will give seven cuttings per year, and about 14 tons per acre, which is equal to 20,000 U. S. tons. While there is sufficient raise crops there is also acres of this land that can be irrigated at a small cost, as the abundance of water; most government offers a subsidy in gold for every acre brought into irrigation, so that there is a great profit in irrigating besides the enhancing of its value. Besides the country there is Lechujilla, which is a fiber of good quality and low estimate will yield $100. There are also strong iron, oil, coal and gas the right belongs to this ranch. The prospects of gold, silver, copper and iron have been examined or tested, though workings are planned to be openings of adjacent property zinc and copper which will pay per cent and car loads are shipped daily. There is an abundance of game, such as deer, antelope, mountain quail, etc., and kinds of fish, which afford recreation for those inclining and they will not be worried by fleas, or mosquitoes, or none.

The mail routes from Presidio, Texas, passes through the ranch and mail is delivered on Wednesdays and Saturdays of each week. Federal telegraph line through the ranch and the ranch headquarters. Orient railroad which is in that direction, will be miles of the ranch by the one of the most ideal in Mexico, and has great facilities in mining and manufacturing products in connection with the market. Taken together offer very good investments to the investor. The of this property is $2000 would exchange for good property.

The Alaska Tour.

In spite of the wind and the cold, about one hundred people gathered on the Presbyterian lawn, last Friday night, bent on seeing Alaska for all there was in it.

It was as though they had been let down into the heart of Alaska, for there in the north flickered the Aurora Borealis sending out shafts of electricity of various hues that tremble and quivered like the strings of an immense harp played upon by the Frost-King himself while to the south could be seen the lofty peak of Mount McKinley, down whose slippery slopes slid a stream of happy humanity.

In between the Aurora and Mount McKinley was a vast plain covered with snow, streaked in all manner of directions with the trails of animals and prospectors. In traversing the country it was a common sight to see big game, with ample time to shoot at pleasure. The faithful Alaskan dog in harness added to the picture and the lonely prospector in native costume preparing his evening meal over the camp fire, with a hearty welcome extended to all, completed the scenery.

Was it warm, you ask? Of course it was warm. That camp-fire was warm; that tea was hot and we all were comfortable, though the weather was sixty eight degrees below zero. The coal-oil in our lamps thickened up and the lights went out. All we had to depend on was the Aurora and the electric lights.

Girls of sixteen appeared to be sixty, because the frost had whitened the locks of hair outside their caps and women of sixty deceived their looks by an exhilarated sprightliness.

The clumsiest men when they perceived that a deer (dear) was after them gathered up their feet and started around the trail like a mouse at the crack of a rifle and providing their moccasins did not slip when they struck glare ice, they landed in camp all right with the game trailing after them on foot.

I tell you, it was great. It was worth the cost of the whole trip into the country on the boat and out again over the ice to have had a chance to pound your enemy on the ear with a snow ball to get even, or to bring real red to your best girl's cheek by a simple washing of the face with a handful of snow, whether you got to toboggan down Mount McKinley or not.

Grandview Man Invests.

T. B. Norwood, a member of the Memphis Land Co., while on a visit in Johnson county, closed a deal with W. T. Reed of Grandview for the R. L. Morman half section situated 3 1/2 miles west from Memphis, the consideration being $9000. Mr. Norwood states that he talked with many of the residents of that section who would soon be owners of Hall county soil were it possible to dispose of their present holdings. Mr. Norwood also visited his parents in Oklahoma while away.

Sewerage Bonds Ordered Printed.

Mayor A. J. Kinard returned yesterday morning from a business trip to Ft. Worth. In a conversation with the Democrat he stated that arrangements had been made for the printing of the forty $500 sewerage bonds and that as soon as they had received the approval of the attorney general a quick sale would be effected, and probably at a premium unless the state saw fit to buy them.

Returns from College.

Courtney Denny, who had a miraculous escape from death in the Bliss Electrical College fire at Washington, D. C., mention of which was made in last week's issue, returned to his home in this city Monday where he will remain until the reopening of the school, which is to be rebuilt at once.

Trespass Notice.

All persons are hereby warned to not hunt or otherwise trespass on my premises southeast from Memphis, under penalty of the law.
