Club to Present '29 Football Follies

MUSIC CLUB TO CONTRIBUTE NUMBERS

Entertainment Seeks To Raise Funds For A Stadium Here

The long heralded "Football Follies" will be presented by the "M" Club of Memphis High School on the evening of Thursday, April 11, at eight o'clock in the auditorium of the high school. The Harmony Club will have a part in this program through the courtesy of Mrs. M. McNeely, president of the organization and the willingness of individual members to contribute to the success of the undertaking.

Glad of Opportunity
"The Harmony Club is glad of an opportunity to help a good cause and we believe that the "Football Follies" in seeking to raise money for a stadium is a worthy undertaking," Mrs. McNeely said.

The Harmony Club will present a short musical program between the first and second acts of the follies. The first act will be typically collegiate. It will consist of various musical numbers and specialties taken part in by the entire cast and by individual members of it.

Musical Comedy
The second act, which will follow the Harmony Club program, will be given up entirely to musical comedy. The members of the "M" club, with the assistance of other high school students, will be dressed as chorus girls and as a bevy of high steppers will go through with dances and rollicking comedy that would make even Florenz Ziegfeld ashamed of his efforts.

Costumes Purchased
Costumes have already been purchased for the boys and the chorus will be made up of the following: James Hammond, Ted Read, Clarence Jackson, Wendell Harrison, George Perdue, Clifton Burnett, Jerry Sittou, Vance Johnson, Lon Webster, Walter Massey, Allan Monzingo, Charlie Stidham, Allen Dunbar, Albert Pearson and Durward Martindale. Emmett Lee Walker will take part in the first act, as will Edwin and Bill Todd, Cleron McMurphy and a number of others.

Reece Is Accompanist
C. M. Reece has been engaged as accompanist for the follies production. As a musician who plays popular numbers, he has few equals in this section of the state. He has been practicing with the boys now for several weeks. Several dress rehearsals have already been held, the final one to take place next Wednesday night.

High School Song
A novel feature of the entertainment will be a high school song, taken part in by the entire cast, which was written especially for this production. The latest popular numbers will be used throughout and special care and attention has been made in giving the various songs and dances to the right boys, who will carry them out to perfection.

Credit for the success of the production should be given in large measure to Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley and Pauline Ross who have assisted at rehearsals.

To Give Solo Dance
One of the high lights of the follies will be a solo dance rendered by Charlie Stidham. Anyone who has observed Charlie closely may think he is not much of a dancer, but a number of people will have another think coming when they see him in action before the footlights.

A local furniture house has already promised to furnish free of charge the necessary articles of furniture to be used in the production and they will be set in place early next week.

Ticket Sale Begins
The ticket sale will begin in earnest this week. Tickets may be obtained from any of the members of the "M" club. Adult tickets will sell for fifty cents and students' tickets and those for children are priced at thirty-five cents.

LONG STANDING PROBLEM IS SOLVED

City Council Provides Funds For Upkeep Of Library

Memphis' library problem of long standing has finally been solved, thanks to a receptive City Council and six local civic organizations.

"What was to be proved" has been written at the bottom of this "example" that has furrowed the brow of a number of interested citizens for several months, when the climax was reached at the regular monthly meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

Monthly Appropriation
A lump sum of $650 and a monthly appropriation of $100 for the library was set aside by Mayor Harrison and his aldermen. The $650 will be spent at once for volumes needed to bring the library up to a recognized standard and for necessary repairs and some additional shelving, it is understood. The monthly sum of $100 will pay all library expenses and supply an accumulating fund for future book purchases. The librarian's salary, likely to be increased, if the recommendation that the library be kept open for a longer period each day is observed.

Reclaim Library
Decision by the City Council to reclaim the library followed the appearance at the Tuesday meeting of a committee of six, as follows: Dr. W. C. Dickey, representing the Chamber of Commerce; Dr. J. Hardin Mallard, representing the Ministerial Association; M. E. McNally, representing the Rotary Club; H. A. Jackson, representing Memphis Public Schools; and Lyman E. Robbins, representing the Lions Club.

Dr. Dickey, spokesman for the committee, briefly outlined the library's condition and needs and recommended the appropriations that were later approved by the Council.

"Gentlemen, we are just ordinary citizens," Dr. Dickey said in the course of his talk, "and we have not appeared before you tonight in an attempt to tell you how to administer the city's affairs.

Funds Are Limited
"We realize your funds are limited and we know you have dozens of worthy calls on funds you do have, but permit us to remind you that you must come to appreciate the value of our Carnegie Library. It is a civic institution in which everyone has some interest and from which everyone may benefit. As such, (Continued on page 6)

Singing School At Local Church Has Large Enrollment

The singing school, which is being conducted at the Nazarene church under the leadership of C. C. Stafford, harmony teacher of the Stamps-Baxter Music Company, is progressing satisfactorily, according to W. J. Mangum, one of the local singers who helped to make the school possible.

The school has been in session for two weeks and large crowds have attended each meeting. Mr. Mangum stated. The school will be continued through Wednesday night, April 17. It is open to the public free of charge. Classes start each evening promptly at eight o'clock and are conducted for the period of two hours.

Popular Teacher
Mr. Stafford is proving to be one of the most popular teachers to visit this section of the state. He teaches chorus work, sight singing, the rudiments of music and the art of conducting. He is painstaking and careful to see that his students understand thoroughly the ground which they cover, according to Mr. Mangum.

Large Attendance
At the outset of the school, it was thought that new quarters might have to be obtained in order to accommodate the large crowds which were attending. The attendance is remaining up to standard and those who desire to benefit from Mr. Stafford's instruction and who have not already enrolled in the school, are asked to do so without further delay.

Wide Experience
Mr. Stafford has had a wide experience in the work in which he is engaged at the present time in this city. Everywhere he has (Continued on page 6)

TWO MEN ADDED AS ALDERMEN TUESDAY

Cleanup Campaign Is Scheduled For City And County

Sam T. Harrison, who has been serving the unexpired term of former mayor F. N. Foxhall, was re-elected mayor of the city of Memphis at the election held Tuesday. Byron Baldwin was elected alderman from Ward 3, which place was formerly held by Thos. E. Noel, and B. E. Davenport was elected alderman from Ward 1, which place was formerly held by Jack Figh.

J. F. Forkner was re-elected alderman from Ward 2 and N. E. Burke re-elected alderman from Ward 4. Very little interest was taken in the election and only a small number of votes were polled.

Committees Appointed
At the meeting of the city council Tuesday night, committees were appointed as follows: Street and Alley, J. F. Forkner, N. E. Burke; Sanitation, Police and Fire, J. M. McKelvy, J. G. Gardner, B. E. Davenport; Finance, B. E. Davenport, Byron Baldwin; Parks, R. H. Wherry, John Dennis.

Cleanup Week
A cleanup week was set apart by the city council to begin April 22 and to continue through April 27. The cleanup campaign will be conducted in the city and throughout the county at the same time. The campaign is sponsored by the Federated Missionary Societies with Mrs. C. W. Broome as chairman and the county-wide movement will be in charge of the various home demonstration clubs, under the direction of Miss Ruby Adams, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Sweeping Campaign
It is planned to make a sweeping campaign to make the entire of Hall County a cleaner place in which to live. Alleys will be cleaned and tidied up. Trash will be hauled away and burned and tin cans and other unsightly rubbish will be removed. The city council appropriated funds for the hauling off of trash during the time the campaign is in progress.

Over the county, the campaign will be conducted under the supervision of Miss Adams. This is the first time, so far as known, that an organized cleanup has been launched on so wide a scope.

Garbage Removal
According to Mrs. C. W. Broome, all those wanting garbage disposed of should have it ready for the man who will look after this work. He will haul off tin cans also if they are put up in (Continued on page 6)

Grocer Is Confined To His Bed With An Erysipelas Attack

Joe DeBerry, local grocer, has been confined to his home on South Ninth street for the past five weeks with a serious case of erysipelas, which has settled in his face. His many friends have missed him from his accustomed place of business and hope that he will soon be able to be back on the job again.

The disease has been very painful to Mr. DeBerry, settling as it has in his face. However, according to Dr. W. Wilson, who has been treating him, with proper care and attention, it will not be long before Mr. DeBerry will be on the road to recovery.

Accustomed to leading an active life, the confinement has been very distasteful to Mr. DeBerry.

Senator Small Is Censured For Not Supporting Bill

State Senator Clint Small of Wellington was called to task in a recent address delivered by Rev. Arthur W. Jones, pastor of the First Christian church, before a meeting of the Hall County Ministers' Association in Turkey, after detailing the progress of Christianity during recent years and showing the many obstacles that had been encountered and overcome in the long fight against various forms of iniquity. Rev. Jones called attention to the fact that "a good law providing for reasonable search and seizure (in connection with prohibition enforcement) was killed by a motion made by Senator Clint Small."

Delighted Bootleggers
Rev. Jones goes on to state that the action on the part of the Wellington Senator was "to the delight of every bootlegger in Texas." His address was entitled, "Watchman, What of the Night?" and is quoted below in its entirety:

"We frequently hear voiced the opinion that the world is growing worse and sometimes the fear that Christianity has failed. The fact is that the only remedy for evil that has not failed is Christianity. That the heaven is slowly but surely leavening the whole lump is, the speaker believes, very evident on a close examination of the history of only a single Century.

Slavery Abolished
"Seventy-five years ago legalized human slavery stained our national escutcheon. Fifty years ago, or less, one of our sovereign states sponsored a great lottery organization that sold tickets in every hamlet in America and robbed the people of millions. But a little while ago and the legalized promiscuous sale of narcotics dealt its woe and misery, unhampered and unforbidden.

Holidays At Easter Bring A Large Group Of Students To City

A large group of college students availed themselves of the Easter holidays to spend their vacation period with homefolks. They began arriving the early part of last week, and some did not return to their work until Tuesday of this week.

A number of informal parties, dances and luncheons were given for the students. While here, they called on old friends, visited the high school and most of them attended church services on Easter Sunday.

Among the students who spent the Easter holidays in the city were Opal Adams, Jim DeBerry, Hubert Dennis, Cornelia McCane and John Hammond of Texas Christian University; Leslie Foxhall of the A. & M. College of Texas; Ione Webster and Caroline McNeely of Southern Methodist University; Dorrace Powell and her roommate, of Texas Woman's College, and others whose names could not be obtained.

Lay Evangelist Is Attracting Large Crowds During Revival

Ex-Congressman W. D. Upshaw, well known lay preacher from Atlanta, Georgia, is leading the Christian forces of Memphis in a sweeping revival at the First Baptist church. The intensive evangelistic campaign was begun Easter Sunday and is scheduled to be brought to a close at the Sunday night services, April 7.

Large Congregations
The distinguished visitor was greeted with three large congregations last Sunday. Mr. Upshaw spoke five times on this day, speaking to two Sunday school classes and delivering three major addresses. The speaker chose for his morning theme, "Taking Stock," selecting as a text the Scriptural phrase found in 1st Cor. 3:23, "All things are yours."

Speaks at Plaska
Every earmark of a revival was in evidence Monday morning in the large congregation that greeted the preacher for the first week day service. Monday afternoon, Mr. Upshaw spoke to the student subject, "The Home, the Foundation of our Civilization." The house was packed for the third service of the day Sunday evening. The speaker was at his best in this service and delivered a masterful sermon on "Purpose." The lay preacher pointed out that it is nothing short of tragedy for a young man or young woman to go through this life without a goal. He cited instance after instance of men and women who, in early life, gave their hearts to Christ and purposed to excel in their respective fields of labor and did so because of the Christ within in them to help them to reach their high goal.

body of the Plaska high school. At the close of this service, thirty or more of the students made professions of faith in Christ. Three grown girls were converted after the service. Mr. Upshaw's zeal and compassion for souls makes him a great soul winner.

Everything Favorable
The speaker says he has never entered into a meeting where things were more favorable for a great revival. When he made the call Sunday afternoon to the parents to erect family altars in their homes, nearly one hundred people responded to the proposition. Additions were had at the first service and many are expected to come into the church during the course of the meeting.

Large crowds continue to greet the speaker at both the morning and evening services. The student body of the high school attended a special service at the church Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Elmer Shelley Will Present Voice Students In Recital

Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley will present a group of her voice pupils in a song recital at the senior high school auditorium next Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. The public is extended a cordial invitation to be present at this concert.

Six advanced pupils will render the program for the evening, which will consist of classical and semi-classical numbers, ballads and popular concert numbers. The singers include Misses Rubye McCane, Martha DeBerry, Verdine Jones, Margaret Milam, and Mesdames R. S. Greene and J. P. Watson.

Mrs. Shelley has been eminently successful as a voice teacher and her pupils have received many compliments upon their progress under her instruction. The program next Tuesday evening is being looked forward to with considerable interest by local lovers of good music.

QUIGLEY TELLS LIONS WHAT HE THINKS

Discusses Purpose of Luncheon Clubs in His Address

Memphis Lions had the pleasure last Thursday of hearing a speaker unafraid to tell the truth and say exactly what he thinks—W. B. Quigley, president of the Citizens State Bank.

Mr. Quigley's talk was preceded by highly entertaining violin numbers by Frank K. Fore, accompanied by his wife. The program was arranged by Lion Herschel Montgomery.

Not So Funny

The speaker began by lamenting the fact he was scheduled for a "funny" talk. "No speech supposed in advance to be funny ever was," he said. "If you haven't had any experience, don't ever try to give a funny talk. I'm just wondering if any Lion here ever made a funny talk and got away with it."

But Mr. Quigley did, at the expense of Boss Lion and others.

Embarking on a more serious subject, Mr. Quigley discussed at length the purpose of luncheon clubs and their excuse for existence.

Come to Eat

"Some of your members come here just to eat," he said. "Some of our Rotarians attend our luncheons just for their stomach's sake. They don't think they get enough for 75c—they kick about the grub. Sometimes I think we ought to have an ante-room for that sort where they may have all the beans and cornbread they can eat for about 35c."

"Then there's the fellow who wants to be entertained. If the program doesn't exactly suit him he may not come back again. Too bad."

"Some men join a luncheon club because they think it will help their business and they really expect to reap personal gains from their fellowship at Rotary or the Lions Club."

To Help Community

"Men, we don't come here for any of those things. Our luncheon clubs are designed to be instrumental in helping our community as a whole, in every manner they may. Our job is to work for others—not self."

Mr. Quigley was strong in his denunciation of organizations that do nothing. "Decide what you can best do, then do it," he said as he pounded the table.

"Let's get to work and let's keep busy," briefly, was the keynote of his address. He praised the Lions Club highly for its Carnegie Library activity and expressed the hope that the club's plans for an adequate library would soon be realized.

Chief Gardner Has Opened Up Market

Thursday morning of this week, Chief Gardner opened a meat market in the rear of the Neel Grocery Company, where he will be pleased to see his former customers and friends. He assures the public that only the very choicest of meats will be kept on hand at all times.

New fixtures have been put in place and the market is adequately and sanitarily equipped in every respect. A McCray refrigerator has been installed and Frigidaire equipment will be used throughout.

Chief Gardner's market will be entirely separate from the Neel Grocery Company.

Suffers 20 Years; Then Finds Health

"I suffered from inactive liver for twenty years and about three years ago I became so terribly run down I could not attend to my household duties without stopping to rest."

MRS. JULIA OAK

"I would have such severe pains in my stomach after meals that I would have to run for the soda box. Dieting did not help me, and even the best medicines I could buy did not reach my case."

"But Sargon went right to the root of my trouble without losing a minute's time. I never saw anything like it. I felt better from the very first dose, and now I eat anything I want without any ill effects. I am not the least bit nervous and I feel so well and strong that even after I get through with my housework I want to be up and on the go."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills completely overcame my liver trouble and constipation. They act so gently that they did not upset my system or make me the least bit sick."

"I know from experience that the Sargon treatment will end stomach and liver complaints. I feel just like I have been made all over like new, and I want all my friends to know what this grand medicine will do."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Julia Oak, well known and highly esteemed resident of R. F. D. 1, Box 157, San Antonio, whose motherly kindness has endeared her to hundreds of friends throughout her community.

Regular Meeting Of Firemen Held On Monday Night

Fourteen members of the Memphis Volunteer Fire Department were present at the regular meeting held on Monday night of this week.

Herschel Stewart, employed as truck driver by the J. M. Radford Grocery Company, was taken in as a new member of the department by a vote of the entire membership present.

A motion was made to request the City Council to see the various business firms of the city and request them to refrain from burning rubbish in the alleys behind their places of business in the late afternoons, as the high winds of this season of the year make such a practice dangerous.

The meeting was brought to a close after a general discussion of the various fire hazards with which the city is faced.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter of Leon, Oklahoma, were in Memphis Monday.

STATEMENT MADE ON RECENT MEET

The County Meet which was held last week, we believe, was one of the best that has ever been held in Hall County. We, the committee, do not claim any of the credit. We have done what we could, but we realize that without the interest of the school officials throughout the county that our efforts would be of little worth. We want you all for what you can do. Especially do we want you to make the Meet a success. Mr. Sager, the Chamber of Commerce for his interest in the Meet. The Hall County Justice League Committee.

ESTELLINE HAS EDGE IN BALL GAME HERE

Locals Outclassed in First Contest of The Season

Baseball is a game that pitchers do not win by themselves, such was the case with the Friday's game. Glenn Hunter started for Memphis and was soon forced to retire from lack of support of his teammates.

Still in Infancy

The team is still in its infancy and the loss of the game is blamed upon the poor fielding and lack of hitting in pinches. Coach Swinburn is expecting to drill heavily next week on fielding and hitting.

Clarence Jackson and Durward Martindale were the outstanding players. Clarence pitched seven innings, allowing few hits and only two runs. Martindale fielded well and smacked the ball twice. He also struck out twice. The team is expecting to soon get into form and show their stuff. Childress will be played Tuesday and the Cyclone is expected to come through.

APRIL FOOL

April Fool day was observed at Memphis High School as about fifty boys and fewer girls played "Hooky."

With the beginning of school the boys organized a patrol and marched to the relief of others who were not in school. They are not sure what will become of it, and Monday night they appeared a little nervous. After all is said and done the students had a very good time.

JUNIOR - SENIOR BANQUET TO BE HELD

Participants Start To Brush Up Manners For Event

"Boy what a job it is to make a date" said Gerald Phipps. "I tried sixteen girls and was about to give up when I got a surprise by being accepted."

This is one of the hardest jobs for all of the boys to make a date. Another problem is there are too many girls and several of the Junior boys will have to take two girls.

Hardest Problem

The hardest problem is how are the Juniors going to pay the tremendous expense of the eighty-five seniors. The expense list read one dollar per plate, cake, ice cream, decorations, card, and flowers—extra expense. But the Juniors are as usual, strong enough to face hard problems, are bearing down and will come out all paid up.

Banquet April 12

The banquet is to be held April 12, and the boys are beginning to brush up their manners and if they had a teacher they would be glad to take a few lessons. It has been rumored that some of the more desperate boys are thinking of having Mr. Jay and Mr. Jackson to teach a class for a few days and if this plan is worked out every one will be invited to attend.

STUDENTS URGED TO BUY FOLLIES TICKETS

It's not long off, remember April 11, at the High School, the big hit of the season, Football Follies. The money is for a good cause and you will be helping the Memphis Cyclone build their stadium. You will not only help the Cyclone but you will see one of the best shows yet. Only thirty-five and fifty cents. See any of the "M" Club members for tickets.

Influence Is Felt Along Missionary Lines At College

PLAINVIEW, April 4. (Special)—"The influence going out from Wayland College is inestimable and the results accomplished are greater than money could buy in paid missionaries," said Dr. W. R. White, of the First Baptist church of Lubbock, when speaking on the Rally Day program held at Wayland College. As proof of his statement the work of the Volunteer Band through the month of February is given that the public might get a slight glimpse of the spiritual life of the institution. This report covers only the work of the Volunteer Band and does not include the work done by the forty-three ministerial students, many of whom have full time and part time pastorates.

Services Conducted
Fifteen services were conducted over the week-end at the following places: Wellington, Clarendon, Crosbyton and Valley View. The results of these meetings were 54 conversions with an estimate of 1200 people spoken to. The free-will offerings given amounted to $160 leaving the

V. P. CLASS HAS EASTER EGG HUNT

The V. P. Class met last Saturday afternoon at the home of Bobby Thomas. The meeting was opened by singing "Onward Little Soldiers," and prayer.

We then had a Bible Contest called a Jumble—Fred Brewer was first and Darrell Grundy second in answering questions. The boys then adjourned to the yard and the hunt began for Easter Eggs. Wayne Baker found the most and was given a little basket of candy eggs, and Darrell received a large heart cookie as consolation.

Mrs. Thomas then called the boys into the dining room, where the table was beautifully decorated with colored streamers from the chandelier. But best of all was the cream and duck cookies served to seven boys and their teacher, who appreciated more than they can express in words Mrs. Thomas' kindness in entertaining us.

we believe it should be supported by all the people rather than just a few. Hence, we respectfully request appropriations as set forth in the brief, signed by representatives of six local organizations, which we hand you herewith.

Banker Is Example

"The president of the largest single banking institution in the world, the National City Bank of New York City, has at his disposal a library containing 5,000 volumes and he can often be seen late at night referring to these books. I cite that merely as an example that every man in every walk of life has need of books some time or another. The day laborer as well as the banker must have information, but he is unable to supply it for his private use.

"Whatever you are or hope to be, you need an ever ready source of reference on every subject. In Memphis, our Carnegie Library should be that source and we are looking to you gentlemen to provide means that will make an adequate source of information possible in this city."

Council Interested

In replying to the committee, Mayor Harrison said: "I assure you the City Council is interested in the library and I believe it will do all it can to relieve the existing unsatisfactory conditions there, but I would call your attention to the fact that no library appropriation was considered when the last taxes were assessed. We wish to thank you gentlemen for meeting with us here tonight. The council will take some action at this meeting, of which you will be advised Wednesday morning."

Complete Inventory

The campaign for the library's improvement dates back to October, 1928, when the Memphis Lions Club voted the project as one of its major activities and named a committee composed of Robert Grundy, Theodore Swift and R. L. Madden to ascertain the needs and make necessary recommendations. Dr. Jr. Hardin Mallard, a Lion, but not an official member of the library committee, worked unceasingly with the committee in taking a complete inventory of the library's contents.

Book List Prepared

After a list of volumes the library contains at present had been made, a second list of books needed to bring the institution up to a recognized standard was prepared. These lists, together with various recommendations as to repairs, needed additional equipment, etc., were embodied in a brief which was presented to the Lions Club and accepted by that body.

Immediately after the brief had been accepted, Lions voted to refer the matter to the Memphis Chamber of Commerce for guidance in further action. D. L. C. Kinard, president of the chamber, appointed a committee composed of R. S. Greene, Thos. E. Noel and Dr. W. C. Dickey.

Committee Reports

Thirty days after the matter had been in the hands of the Chamber of Commerce, at the first available meeting, the committee reported very favorably on the matter, commended the Lions Club for its work and recommended the naming of a committee composed of one man from each of six local civic organizations—the body referred to above.

Monday morning, the committee of six which finally presented the matter to the City Council, held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce and laid plans for presenting the matter to the council.

Project Realized

Realization of this project, although it may seem a small matter to many, is virtually a "dream come true." Practically every woman's club in Memphis has busied itself at one time or another with helping to build up the library, and each has aided the cause in a small way. These clubs, other organizations and hundreds of interested citizens are jubilant over the fact that the matter is now taken care of, it is hoped for several years.

Bird Houses—

will have to be forcibly ejected from the parental roof before they launch out into the cold and "catful" world.

It is thought that a kite making contest will follow that of constructing bird houses.

Has Fifteen Members

Troop Three of the Memphis area has fifteen members and is beginning to feel its stride for some good work this spring and summer. Some hikes and short-time camp plans are being discussed which will be carried out as soon as the weather decides to remain mild. A few more boys who are willing to attend Scout meetings regularly and do their work with serious purpose will be admitted to this troop. The Scoutmaster stated that no loafers or rowdies need apply.

Senator Small—

years ago there were infidel clubs in the larger cities and many of the County Seat towns. An infidel journal was published in Waco with a wide circulation. Open gambling was the rule in most of Texas, ever since that time, and I have seen scores of wager-mad devotees gathered around the gambling devices in gambling houses even in our Capital City.

4,000 Saloons In State

"Twenty-five years ago there were over 4,000 saloons in Texas, selling physical death, and spiritual death, and spiritual damnation to the people with the consent and protection of the State.

"All this, summed up, signifies that the forces of righteousness were evidently weak, or poorly organized. Has progress been made?"

Bondage Yoke Lifted

"The yoke of human bondage has lifted from the necks of three million black men. State endorsed lotteries have gone forever, and there is not perhaps in Texas a regular patronized gambling house. The last infidel club was disbanded years ago and their journal went out of business for lack of support.

"The sale of narcotics is the most rigidly regulated business ever conducted. And last, and possibly most significant of all, the 4,000 saloons in Texas have closed their doors because public sentiment has condemned the business as evil and the state has withdrawn her sanction. Along with this has come a national uprising against the business that has closed over 200,000 saloons.

"So if the cry should be raised as of old (Is. 21:6-9) 'Watchman, What of the Night?' we can truly answer 'The dawn cometh,' for

"Out of the darkness of the night The world rolls onward into light, There's daybreak everywhere."

Should Repeal Law

"But let us not be lulled into inactivity because the nations' conscience has declared against, and outlawed, the beverage liquor traffic. Our enforcement laws must be protected and improved, and they must be rigidly enforced. The first and most important task of a legislative character is the repeal of the Ferguson, so-called 'Search and Seizure Law,' which ought to be called the 'Anti-Search and Seizure Law,' which with strong endorsement of the temperance forces, ministers and moral element. This was the bill that recently received the endorsement of hundreds of Hall County Citizens, but it was killed by a motion made by Senator Clint Small, to the delight of every bootlegger in Texas.

Sentiment Is Growing

"That the prohibition sentiment is growing is evident from the fact that where the prohibition issue is up larger and larger majorities are being given the men who stand against the whiskey evil. The recent victory of Herbert Hoover is an outstanding example. Should any man dare to offer for a statewide office in Texas, advocating the return of the saloon, in any form, the same results would follow.

Untrue to Constituency

"Any public official who connives at, or closes his eyes to, the violation of the prohibition law is untrue to his constituency, and false to his oath of office. Let's demand enforcement of the law, not alibies, or fair speech. The bootleggers can be driven out of business in Hall County when the Sheriff, the County Attorney and the district judge and district attorney determine it shall be done, and bow their necks for the task. We have a right to a greater zeal in the enforcement of this law, and if boot-legging continues it will soon be made evident who is to blame.

"'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.' Vice can not stand the light of day. The laws can be enforced, and if the citizenship of Hall County demand it they will be enforced."

Music Club—

They are anxious to have an adequate stadium at the start of the football season this fall and the entire proceeds from the production will apply on the proposed stadium.

The "Football Follies" is an entirely different kind of production to those usually staged by high school students. It is guaranteed to please. It is hoped to have the house filled to the point of "standing room only." Those who expect to attend had better get their tickets early if they desire a seat.

gone, he has had repeated invitations to return. A splendid singer himself, he has the gift of determining what each singer in his class is adapted for and his instruction is arranged accordingly.

No sessions of the singing school are conducted on Saturday and Sunday nights, as Mr. Stafford's experience in the past has convinced him that the weekend is not a suitable time for classroom work.

While he has been in the city, the harmony teacher has met many musicians who have complimented him highly upon the quality of his teaching and the success with which the local school is meeting.

On the Level—

Mr. Robbins and I have been referred to as boys. I do not know what crime, if any, attaches itself to that classification. Sometimes after working day and night, taking time in between for outside activities, I feel anything but young. Newspaper work is like many other lines of activity. It demands much of its workers, but its remunerations are more than financial. I believe this field of work offers an opportunity for service. If I did not think so, I would certainly engage in some pursuit less taxing and more lucrative.

Memphis Second In Play Contest

Memphis High School was represented at Crowell last week end in the one-act play contest. Six schools were represented and the locals won second. The finals were between Memphis and Chillicothe and Memphis lost by a small margin. The cast of the Memphis play was: Lee May, Jo Ann Estes, Debs Moore, Homer Shankle, Cleron McMurry, and Ingram Walker. Miss Lois Kincaid is the director and she put over a winning play. The play was presented in chapel and it was liked so well that many of the boys came back that night to watch them practice. The play is to be given again soon and it is sure to be a success.

Fight Fans See One Fine Battle

Memphis fight patrons saw at least one good fight that was well worth the entire admission charge, at the local American Legion Hall Friday night.

Donald Copeland of Memphis kayoed "Red" Lyons in the last round of a 6-round bout, surprising his audience fully as much as his opponent. This bout was termed the semi-final, but was in reality the main bout since the scheduled main bout was a huge joke.

Was Man's Fight

The Copeland-Lyons clash was a man's fight from gong to gong. Both boys were hard hitters, although Lyons hit more often than Copeland. Lyons had the advantage with a good right and left, while Copeland's punching came almost entirely from his powerful right. He scored fewer blows, but they certainly counted when they connected.

Lyons had practically every round, up to the sixth, won on points, due greatly to his surprise jabs with his left. Copeland got his best openings when Lyons would thoughtlessly look off toward his manager at the ringside (shades of Jack Johnson's downfall).

Lyons Is Floored

Near the end of the sixth, and out of a clear sky, came a right swing from Copeland that made contact in no uncertain manner and dropped Lyons to the floor as quickly as a flash and with a painfully audible thud. The vanquished pugilist was almost 5 minutes recovering from the knock-out punch.

The best amateur fight this writer has witnessed in ages.

The receiving end of the "main bout" was one Avery, who failed to convince the audience that his knockdowns were in earnest. His seconds "threw in the towel" at the end of the third round. The bout was scheduled for 8 rounds. Avery's opponent did his best to fight, but who'd pay to see a man box alone?

Trade-In Feature Of General Tires Pleases Motorists

"With spring just around the corner the smart motor car owner is looking forward to getting the old bus in shape for the happy days ahead," says Major Wood of Wood Service Station, distributors of the General Tire in Hall County.

"Not the least of his problems is the one of tire equipment, and the trend in modern merchandising has provided a means for meeting this situation which should be very interesting to him. The unused value in any article, whether it be real estate, household goods, pianos, radios, or whatnot, can be salvaged by the wise purchaser of today, who at the time can become possessed of new value, later improvements, and highest quality in any line. This is particularly true of automobiles where new models are desired.

Buying Airports

Mineral Wells thinks enough of the opening of its airport to hold a celebration of a kind to attract many airplanes and to have an airport stunt party of interest to thousand of visitors. The town that gets a good airport has a right to feel that it has accomplished something, for that shows that it is looking ahead for business.

Fort Stockton is among the smaller cities that has made plans to secure an airport site. It will not be long before an airport will be necessary for a town as a railroad station or a hotel.

Lufkin Wants Gas

Lufkin has a problem that is interesting many other towns. A gas pipe line company running in three miles of the town applied for a franchise to supply the citizens with gas. The franchise was refused, but a franchise was granted another party as being more satisfactory to the council. The franchise owner applied to the pipe line company to connect with the line and purchase gas from it, offering the same price charged for the gas to others supplying towns along its line. This was refused, and now the question to be decided is whether a public utility company with the right of eminent domain can refuse to sell its product or service, or has a right to select its customers. This is an important question and the decision will have an important bearing upon a number of towns.

New Braunfels Mill

New Braunfels can be counted on to get its share of worthwhile industries. That city has a gingham and cotton goods mill. It also has the only gauze mill in the Southwest. It has one of the largest cement factories in the country. Announcement has been made that it has interested a strong company in building a million dollar mill to manufacture fine grades of silk, cotton, wool, mohair and rayon goods.

Plainview's Creamery

Plainview has a new creamery with a capacity of about a million pounds of butter a year. When it was formally opened recently, 1,500 people were present to show their interest in the enterprise. The plant is owned by about 400 farmers who are members of the county dairy association and they have $3,500 invested in it. Dairy farming has become one of the important industries in that part of Texas.

Arlington Pecan School

The five days' pecan school at North Texas Agricultural College at Arlington attracted about 50 students who spent the time in intensive study of pecan propagation and the improvement of pecan trees. The course was conducted by experts from the agricultural colleges of the State. Pecans will soon become one of the important crops of Texas, for no other state grows quite such delicious nuts as the improved Texas pecans.

Texas Attracting Tourists

It is estimated that automobile tourists will spend three and a half billion dollars in the United States this year. They will tour the sections that are best advertised and that can furnish good accommodations. Texas has nearly doubled its facilities for caring money for the owners and the cheese made is pronounced to be the best. Farmers have been pleased with the market it has given them for milk. The plant has been so successful and the supply of milk has so increased that enlargement of the plant is now considered.

Increased Fertilizer Sales

Nacogdoches was one of the first counties to use fertilizers extensively. Much of the land had become worn from long use and neglect. The result of the use of fertilizers proved so helpful and increased the returns from the land to such an extent that there has been a steady increase in fertilizer use. The banks report that fertilizer sales this year are at least 25 per cent larger than last year. It pays, though, to use fertilizer before the land becomes worn. Almost any land responds to intelligent use of fertilizers with increased crops.

McKinney, "The Rose City"

The Federated Women's Clubs of McKinney have started out to make that city noted for its beauty. Ten thousand rose bushes are being planted this spring under the auspices of that organization. When they get into bloom McKinney will be worth going hundreds of miles to see. Already the beauty of the place and the hospitality of its people make a visit to it worth a long trip over good roads.

Bluebonnets Abloom

The bluebonnet is the Texas flower and is just beginning to show itself in all its blue loveliness. The spring rains give assurance that the Texas flower will be at its best this season. A bluebonnet field at its best is something never to be forgotten.

OLD-TIMER RETIRES

The retirement of Claude Wells from 26 years of active newspaper work, following the sale of the Memphis Democrat, will cause the same feeling of sadness among his many close friends in the newspaper world as that to which he gives utterance in his announcement of the sale.

The Memphis Democrat won the signal honor last year of being named the "best weekly newspaper in Texas" when it was awarded the prized Belo Cup in a statewide contest. And the Democrat, in all truth, deserved the honor and still deserves it. It is a good paper twelve months in the year.

Claude has surrounded himself with a corps of unusually capable workers, to whom he gives due credit for making the paper what it is. These workers are to carry on, having become stockholders in the company which has purchased The Democrat. Our best wishes are extended to Business Manager Lyman Robbins and Editor William Russell Clark, as well as Wilbur Hawk, Gene Howe, T. E. Johnson and N. D. Bartlett. The last four named are Amarillo men, all active in the affairs of the Amarillo News-Globe—Childress Index.

FROM PASTURIZED COWS

"I do hope you keep your cows in a pasture," said Mrs. Newlywed as she paid the milkman. "Yes, madam," replied the milk man, "of course, we keep them in a pasture."

"I'm so glad," gushed Mrs. Newlywed. "I have been told that pasteurized milk is much the best."

Sacred Music Is Given By Harmony Club In Concert

The sacred concert presented last Friday evening at the First Presbyterian church by active and associate members of the Harmony club, was well attended and equally well received. This is an annual event of the organization and is looked forward to with eagerness by the music loving public.

Mrs. Elmer S. Shelley was musical director of the evening's program and the selections given showed a wide range and variety. Each musician showed a pleasing style characteristic of the fine musicianship that has been acquired by both active and associate members of the club.

Octette Is Rendered The program rendered was as follows: Organ, "Evenson" by Johnston, Mrs. Mary Robertson; Quartette, "Angel Voices" by Calvert, Mesdames James, Bass, Frank Fore, Courtney Denny and R. Good Showings Of Gas Are Found In Wildcat Oil Well

Little has been heard or said of the Sloan wildcat oil test lately, but the hole is being steadily deepened nevertheless. The well is located 6 miles east of Newell, just over the line in Childress County.

Recent formations encountered, according to C. L. Sloan, Jr., driller, include shale with lime shells. Difficulty in cutting off the water flow has been experienced several times in the last few weeks. The depth of the well Saturday was 4,200 feet.

Twenty-pound 5 3/16-inch casing, identical to that used in the world's deepest well—an 8,600-foot hole in the Big Spring, Texas field—is being set at the bottom of the Sloan well.

Good Gas Showings "Good showings of gas have lately been encountered," Mr. Sloan declared, "and the formation is still running favorable for oil. Just how deep we will drill we are not able to determine, but the machinery will continue" (Continued on page 7)

New Wellington Theatre Opens Wednesday

A number of local people attended the opening of the new Ritz Theatre at Wellington which took place Wednesday afternoon at six o'clock. The theatre, one of the finest in this section of the state, is equipped with both Vitaphone and Movietone.

In architectural design and workmanship, the new theatre is a distinct addition to the city of Wellington. It has all the newest devices in the entertainment line and its completion may well be heralded as a genuine achievement.

An all talking picture head-lined the program for the opening night. It is planned to have two such pictures each month.

Funeral Services For Mrs. M. R. Jones Are Held Monday

Mrs. M. R. Jones, 66 years of age, a resident of Memphis for the past thirteen years, died at her home on North Twelfth street last Sunday morning at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Jones had been enjoying fairly good health until eight days before her death when she suffered a stroke of paralysis. This was followed by another stroke Sunday morning which proved fatal.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Methodist church Monday afternoon at three o'clock, by the pastor, Dr. Ernest E. Robinson. Pallbearers were George Thompson, George A. Sager, D. A. Grundy, H. W. Kuhn, J. S. McMurry and J. D. Guinn.

Profusion of Flowers A profusion of beautiful flowers were banked high about the bier attesting to the love and esteem in which Mrs. Jones was held by a large number of friends and relatives. Those in charge of the flowers were Mesdames D. A. Grundy, George Thompson, George A. Sager, J. W. Slover, J. S. McMurry, H. F. Schoolfield, (Continued on page 2)

City Enlivened By Wild Noises Of Tame Indians

The staid tranquility of Memphis was enlivened with the beating of tom-toms and songs reminiscent of the days of the wild and woolly Indian late Monday afternoon. The noises created a considerable amount of attention of passersby.

Four honest-to-goodness Indians, bedecked in semi-civilized attire caused the commotion. It was something new to the people and whether they liked it or not, the faces of many were joyful half moons.

The Indians were not vicious, however, but merely earning a living giving a Wild West vaudeville act which had been billed for showing at the Gem Theatre Monday matinee and evening.

Locals Defeated In Slow Game Of Baseball Friday

The Memphis High School baseball team went down in defeat before the faster and more accurate Estelline High team on the local diamond last Friday afternoon to the tune of 13 to 2. The game was ragged throughout, although some better than the score would indicate. The first two innings were the disastrous ones for the locals, Estelline knocking the ball about at will and Memphis making plenty of errors.

Winning Brand McCollum of Estelline exhibited a winning brand of pitching, once he saw what Memphis was determined to do, holding the locals to four scattered hits throughout the game. He struck out 17 men. Clarence Jackson replaced Hunter in the box in the third inning and pitched a pretty brand of baseball for the remainder of the contest, although visible support was lacking.

Small Crowd Present A small crowd of fans witnessed the initial contest, Estelline having more rooters on the scene of action than did Memphis. Hubert Dennis, G. G. McBrayer and G. D. Lee umpired the game. Memphis made 10 errors and Estelline accounted for 6. The two Memphis pitchers allowed 12 hits while McCollum gave up only four.

Poor Fielding The fielding on the part of the Memphis team was not up to any recognized standard. For some unknown reason, the players seemed to be unable to maintain a grip on the ball and missed some mighty pretty chances. Estelline was constantly on the job and seemed to experience little difficulty in keeping the locals in the field for the larger part of the one-sided contest.

Unsure of Themselves It should be remembered, however, that Memphis was (Continued on page 8)

MEMPHIS STANDS A GOOD CHANCE OF WINNING AT DISTRICT MEET

Memphis is planning to take its share of honors at the district interscholastic League Meet to be held in Childress on Saturday, April 13, just as was the case in the county meet held in this city. A number of contestants from the local schools won the right to compete in the district events and it is expected that among the number several will be permitted to make the trip to Austin to take part in the state meet. The latter meet will be held about the first of May.

Coach Supervises Coach Blake Bolton is supervising the training of the local athletes, and various instructors are helping to coach those students who will take part in the literary events. Memphis is expecting to make a good showing and if work and aptitude avail, this will be accomplished.

WELLS RECEIVES BEST WISHES OF MANY

Local People Praise Former Publisher For Work Done

Since The Memphis Democrat carried the announcement in its last issue that a new corporation had taken over the paper and that its former editor and publisher, J. Claude Wells, had retired from active journalism, the office has been inundated with letters of appreciation for Mr. Wells as an editor and as a man. Equalling in number the written appreciations have been the well wishes for his continued success in whatever line of industry he seeks to engage his talents.

Compliment Management Coincident with the tributes paid to Mr. Wells have been a number of congratulatory letters of the new management, indicative of the fact that friends and well-wishers of the paper seem to believe that the former editor has entrusted the paper into safe hands.

Among the local business and professional men who have wished Mr. Wells the best of everything upon leaving a business in which he has been engaged for the past 26 years are included the following, which is only a small percentage of those who have had something to say about the change in ownership:

Untiring Efforts Mayor Sam T. Harrison: "We appreciate the untiring efforts put forth by J. Claude Wells as editor of The Democrat in advocating the things worth while for Memphis and trade territory as well as giving the merchants a first class means of advertising through the best weekly paper in the state. We regret to lose him as editor of our paper, but trust this place will be filled by others and that he will meet with deserved success in other lines."

Best of Everything W. C. Dickey: "I regard Claude Wells as the very best of everything required of any man to be styled a real citizen: an efficient business man in his line of special endeavor; a man with the best interests of his community at heart and willing to work for them; a true and loyal friend. Our sincere regrets at his retirement from the newspaper field and a cordial wish for his continued success and happiness and our congratulations to Messrs. (Continued on Page 7)

Carnival Promises Melange Of Mirth

Vance Johnson and Ted Read, editor and business manager respectively of The Sardastrum, the yearbook of Memphis High School, announce that the carnival scheduled for Friday night, April 5, in the high school auditorium, will surpass any previous school effort. The carnival will get under way at 8:30 through deference to the Baptist revival.

Real Entertainment Entertainment that is real and not imagined is scheduled to take place at this time and in order that the general public may be permitted to attend this eventful melange of mirth, popular prices will be charged for both adults and children.

Melody and Mirth Everything that enters into the carnival spirit will be provided for the evening. Nothing, the managers promise, will be left undone to provide plenty of melody and mirth during the two hours or longer that the carnival is to be in full swing.

The cast of the musical comedy has been hard at work for several weeks and this part of the program will be the feature. Snappy songs and dance numbers, together with a large measure of "hokum," fun and good humor should have no difficulty in making this part of the program outstanding. The carnival is being given for the benefit of the Sandstrom for 1929 and should be well patronized.

ALL FOOL'S DAY IS CELEBRATED BY STUDENTS PLAYING 'HOOKEY'

All Fool's Day was anything but a quiet affair in Memphis insofar as 35 boys and 15 girls of the senior high school were concerned. The students went to school all right last Monday, but they didn't stay—that is, not for long. The call of Spring was too strong in the air or something of the kind must have called their attention to the fact that the first day of April has every right to be a holiday and the students proceeded to take one.

Day of Reckoning Just what was said by the school authorities when the truants returned to the class rooms on Tuesday morning had better be left unsaid. Suffice it to say that although the holiday was enjoyed, more than one of the students voiced an opinion before the day was over that it was very likely that Tuesday would be a day of reckoning when the students would be "called on the carpet." Stage a March Early in the morning, students began congregating at the band house which they made headquarters for the day. In the afternoon, the boys staged a march on the city. According to one authentic report, the walkout at the school happened about eight o'clock Monday morning and the students who remained at their posts of duty had to suffer throughout the day. Collegians Present At the Monday morning assembly period, a number of college students home for the Easter holidays helped to take the place of the runaway students, but even then, it is said, the auditorium had an empty look. The girls who played "hookey" were seemingly more modest than the boys for they were satisfied with one-half day.

On Criticism An Essay

By William Russell Clark

(Editorial Note. This is the first of a series of five essays to appear in The Memphis Democrat. The second will be published at an early date.)

Nothing startlingly new will be presented in this essay. It is taken for granted that most educated people are acquainted with the functions of criticism and it is equally assumed that no theories which may be advanced will sway the popular mind into believing contrary to thought parallels which have been followed over a long period of time with unvarying exactness. If the critical attitude is made clearer, however, and the unfair hatreds that go with it are shown to have no basis in fact, the essay will achieve its purpose.

To begin with, criticism may be divided into two general classes: constructive and destructive. Constructive criticism is not necessarily based upon the presumption of sponsoring a movement of uplift of local, state or national import. At the same time, constructive criticism seeks to place an evaluation upon admitted fact, presupposed fact, acknowledged fact and future likelihood of fact. In other words, it is hopeful, containing as it does a positive rather than negative significance.

Constructive criticism seeks, first of all, to build. At the bottom always must be the foundation of fact. Given a foundation upon which to work, the critic builds his structure with infinite care and patience. He must look at the matter or proposition he seeks to evaluate, free from prejudice, without bias. He must hold himself in an attitude of aloofness from his subject and at the same time be thoroughly conversant with it.

The structure the critic seeks to build must be a finished product. Its corners should be well rounded; its design should show the refinements of good taste. If his building of a thesis is to outlast his comment, it must be coordinated in tone, in modulation, in temper. Harsh and blatant outcries have no place in its permanent security. It must be free of camouflage, of unworthy implication and false application in the outline of the thesis proper and in each step of its literary craftsmanship.

Constructive criticism has a soul. It is embodied as deeply in the consciousness of the writer as the bedrock of unassuming ability which permits giants to arise in the darkness of deep-seated night and rob the firmament of its starry wonders. What, then, is this soul? It is that innate desire on the part of the many to benefit their time and generation through wholesome service. If one is permitted to render reconstructive criticism with an honesty of heart and a deportment in keeping with logic, one's field of endeavor is the world itself.

Criticism, either constructive or destructive, is conducive to misunderstandings, ill tempers, hard feelings as well as the more pleasant consequences which are self evident. Destructive criticism is, in the main, what its name implies. It destroys. It banishes. It blights. It is an agency to wield the rough edge of banter, of scorn, of sarcasm. It is a tool of the cynic and his most successful weapon.

Destructive criticism sees only the one side to a question—the side always that is vicious, lacking in cordiality and the more common amenities. It needs no foundation in fact or in truth to raise its ugly head, to throw its arrow-darts of poison, to infect that which is good with that which is evil. It contaminates the impulses. It leads, more often than not, to licentiousness and viciousness.

Destructive criticism is practically always lacking in the bare and unadorned rudiments of decency. The critic who practices such diabolic art, and it is an art regardless of its placement, is guilty of either wanting to uproot the foundations others have laid for the sport that is in it, or desires to frustrate, through selfish or clannish motives, the handiwork of his fellows.

Where may a line of demarcation be drawn? How may we distinguish the one from the other when motives are not known, when theories have not been presupposed, when we are unfamiliar with character, training and environment responsible for strong likes and equally strong dislikes? Soundness and logic come to the rescue at this point. These are the beacon lights that keep the frail craft of understanding resting jauntily in the stream of life, free from the cross currents that seek to wreck it.

A proposition is sound or unsound in proportion to its weight measured on the scales of common sense, education and reason. If unsound, logic plays a concert that may not be misunderstood. The music does not harmonize; there is no blending, no mental ecstasy that follows the thought. If sound, logic tunes the senses to a fine degree of fitness. Understanding follows the thought; the central idea becomes disassociated from the maze of ideas encountered. The brain functions with no underminings, admixtures, or forebodings. The thought realm is free and unimpeded.

To consider criticism as only applicable to two general classes is unfair to the art. There are branches of each that demand consideration. There is unjust and unfair criticism. There is criticism of a musical evening, of a drama, of personalities, of men and women in public office and so on indefinitely. Not to have a criticism to offer is certainly a sin of dereliction. No person, suitably situated, who fails to comment upon or criticize the things about him, is worthy of his hire. If he refrains from criticizing, he proves himself a weakling, a sordid contraption with heart and lungs, but without voice. No one respects such a person for long. He is pointed out as agreeing with the mob. He straddles questions. He would be better dead to all intents and purposes.

No newspaper has ever achieved to greatness without taking issues. Right or wrong, a newspaper should get on one side of the fence or the other. Popularity is fickle; public opinion changes with more frequency than the seasons. To be popular for the time being is no criterion for being right. It is better to err honestly and with good purpose than to lie arrogantly with no purpose save to keep in tune with the rhythmic beat of the public pulse.

Therefore, it is necessary for outstanding newspapers to have qualified and experienced workers who are capable of criticizing. In the popular mind, a common fallacy exists that to even speak of criticism is to speak negatively. Nothing is more removed from the actual truth. Criticism is positive as frequently as it is negative and the balance is even in favor of the positive attitude.

If a person is to follow a well written mandate, "to thine own self be true," that person will not compromise when a decision involving criticism is to be made. He will consider, first of all, the significance of the statements he is about to make, the possible reactions to them, and then if he is true to himself and if he holds himself not to be a weakling in the sight of God and Man, he will follow the dictates of his conscience and with reason and logic to guide him, he will say what he has to say, knowing the consequences, but withal, feeling that he has done his duty to himself and the interests he attempts to serve.

Criticism, in its last analysis, is nothing more than an appraisal. The Bible says "Judge not lest ye be judged." On the same basis, criticism should be offered, administered and exercised.

Following this employment, Mrs. Couch became private secretary to Judge C. S. Bradley, a prominent civil lawyer of Groesbeck. Her most recent employment has been with the Uvalde Asphalt Company of Dallas.

Mrs. George L. Tipton, who resigned her position with the change in ownership, has rendered invaluable service to this newspaper and leaves its employ with a fine record of achievement behind her. As society editor and local reporter, she has proven equal to her responsibilities at all times and by her wide acquaintanceship and understanding has aided materially in building up the good will which The Democrat enjoys at the present time.

Worried Night after Night as health declined

"I suffered frequently from nervous headaches, and I could not sleep well," says Mrs. Cora Dover, R. F. D. 2, Hickory Grove, S. C. "I was thin and pale. I was so weak I could scarcely walk."

"I tried several remedies but nothing seemed to help me. Night after night I worried because I could see I was going down-hill. I had my children to look after, and I was afraid of what would become of them if anything happened to me."

"I began to take Cardui. It wasn't long until I was beginning to pick up. My strength gradually began to return. I rested better at night and was less nervous. I took several bottles of Cardui, and when I had finished taking it I was in fine health."

WE APPRECIATE

the constructive efforts and many accomplishments of J. CLAUDE WELLS

Not every city is fortunate in having a newspaper whose guiding head is truly a city builder. Our hats are off to J. Claude Wells, retiring publisher of the Memphis Democrat, whose sound methods of newspaper management, we firmly believe, have greatly aided the growth of Memphis and have brought our city much recognition throughout the state and the Southwest. We respectfully pay tribute to this man who has labored in our midst for the past four years, not entirely for his own personal gain, but always remembering that his city is entitled to a portion of his time and money. J. Claude Wells has given us a paper of which we are justly proud and has made us realize that no city is greater than its mouthpiece—the newspaper. As banks and as individuals we believe in “flowers for the living,” and it is our extreme pleasure to thank Mr. Wells for having made Memphis his home. We are glad he is to remain in our city for we appreciate the type of citizen that he is.

THE LOCALS PLAY BALL

THOSE of the citizenry who braved the mud to witness the first baseball game in the six sided high school league Friday afternoon at the fair grounds got the shocking realization that our boys need practice and a number of other things if they are going to make any kind of a showing in this immediate vicinity. The starting pitcher got off to a fair start, but his support flickered out before it got started. It takes "peppy" support to make hits take on the appearance of outs and not runs.

The locals are new to the game this season. They were "wild" from the time the first pitched ball failed to cut the plate. They need seasoning; they need to be taught what is to be expected from them; they need to acquire the necessary punch that turns defeat into victory and that makes heroes of those whose bats can connect with a ball.

We believe that the material in Memphis is just as good as can be found in any other high school of an equal size. It is just as essential, however, to have sound coaching in this field of sport as in any other. The boys must be made to realize that they are playing baseball and not out to fan the wind.

While the boys from Esteline were no whirlwind wonders, the team at least knew what to do and the general direction in which to do it. They were not caught "sleeping at the switch" for any considerable length of time. They were eternally on the alert, taking advantage of all the breaks in the game; in other words, they were playing baseball.

It is recognized that the game Friday afternoon was the first in which the Memphis boys had been called upon to "show their stuff." It is entirely possible to make a winning nine, even without the benefit of an auspicious beginning. It will take plenty of practice, a grounding in baseball fundamentals and a keen insight into and an understanding of the intricacies of this most popular American sport, with the possible exception of football, to make the team rank with the leaders in the six sided fight that is ahead.

The backing the locals received at the first game was entirely inadequate. Local people should take as much interest in the baseball team as in any other team originating at the high school. Physical, moral and cash support has been instrumental in winning many a baseball game. It might do the work for Memphis. At any event, it is worth the trying.

A SEASON FOR REVIVALS

THE REVIVAL at the Baptist church this week is probably a forerunner of other similar meetings which the various churches of the city are expected to hold during the months of spring. It seems that spring is the logical season of the year for revivals. These meetings are, as we understand them, religious awakenings, when church and non-church members take stock of themselves and find just where they stand. It seems appropriate, then, that evangelistic campaigns should be conducted at the time when nature is renewing her energies after a period of slumber.

It is to be wondered how much of the revival spirit continues in existence after a meeting has been concluded. We believe that it is largely up to the individual. If he or she attended services regularly over a certain period of time, and if such attendance was based on a real desire for help in solving problems spiritual; if the will to betterment was capable of being manifested on the part of the individual, then he or she must have been aided by a meeting of this nature.

If, on the other hand, a person attended divine worship merely because of the effect his presence might have on the community, or for purely selfish reasons, disassociated with the desire for spiritual uplift, it would seem in that case that the revival has done this person little good.

An intensive evangelistic campaign, such as is being conducted at the First Baptist church, is probably conducive of more lasting results than a meeting that drags along for several weeks. A long series of services are tiresome. The minister tires himself, his congregation and the meeting will drag unless the personality of the preacher is such as to overcome such physical defects.

To the religious mind, there is nothing of more importance than the matter of soul winning. This task, we believe, should be conducted much after the fashion of the Christ's ministrations on earth—in a brief period of time. The actual time that the Jesus of Biblical history labored among men was conducive to far reaching results. Such being the case, why should not present day revivalists hold to the same thesis? It seems to be recognized among leading churchmen of our day that it is not so much the amount of religious effort that counts but rather, the kind of religious effort.

We commend the Baptist congregation for conducting its revival for only eight days. We believe it will prove successful by the intensive effort put forward in this comparatively brief period. "Brevity is the soul of wit," and likewise of present day religion.

AN IMPEACHMENT EPIDEMIC

PERSONALLY, we have no aspirations for becoming an office holder or engaging in politics, no matter how small the scale, but should we ever change our mind, we would think twice before becoming a citizen of the goodly state of Oklahoma and seeking public office in that state.

Oklahoma has been in the throes of an impeachment epidemic for longer than we care to admit. And now that the legislature has disposed of a one-time and some time governor, this august body is seeking to oust various justices. Suspension and impeachment is hitting so thick and fast in Oklahoma that the attention of a large percentage of the readers of the front pages of daily newspapers either find the situation utterly disgusting or read of the happenings with an amused interest.

Women, road contractors, greedy business interests and other elements, equally as entertaining, have been injected into the fun that is taking place in our neighboring state. If the recent session of the Oklahoma legislature accomplished anything other than impeaching and suspending public officials, we have not been made acquainted with the fact.

And the legislators are so entirely generous with their charges. Why, they do not think of stopping with one or two, but if there are less than eleven charges of misconduct, malfeasance or the like, readers of the front pages feel that something is wrong—that the matters have not been sifted thoroughly or more charges would be preferred.

We have a good friend in Oklahoma City. We think a great deal of him, and naturally, have an interest in his general welfare. Feeling as we do, a letter has been dispatched to him asking that he refrain from ever entering the political arena. We do not know what charges may be trumped up against him, if he should so forget himself as to announce for public office.

Oklahoma is a great state. We have a friendly feeling for the people who live there. We want the state to expand and prosper, but we are fearful of its destiny if this impeachment epidemic is continued for any length of time. It will tend to keep big business away; it will set Oklahoma as a state apart, where internal dissension and discord, are listed among the records of achievement; it will hinder the state in every forward movement to create good will and prestige. It is unfortunate that public officials in Oklahoma need to be impeached, if they do, and it is equally unfortunate, as we see the situation, that the legislature feels called upon to take such action.

This and That

By L. E. R.

Several people have asked me how it feels to be manager of the Memphis Democrat.

I'll tell you. It feels to me like I have a mighty big job and not a title. I honestly believe, folks, that I'll have to work more than Edison's 20 hours a day to fill the place one-half as well as my esteemed predecessor and thorough gentleman, J. Claude Wells.

But I know I'm going to get some sleep because Mr. Wells' place can't be filled. There's only one J. Claude Wells, more's the pity. He's going to be sorely missed at The Democrat—count on that. And it's very likely his sound judgment will be needed more than once within the walls where this is being written.

I've never worked for a better man. And when I say better I mean from the ground up and from the sky down. I've told him so, but I want you people to know it, too. What's the use of waiting until a man's dead to at least voice your appreciation?

Not every Democrat subscriber knows how much time J. Claude Wells spent working for Memphis and Hall County. Often he has actually robbed his business of valuable hours in order to see the culmination of some worthy project for his community.

A year and a half ago, when I came to Memphis, Mr. Wells was secretary, president or a member of the board of practically everything in town, it seemed to me. Between his business and his civic activities, every hour of his time was consumed. He has backed his ideas of what a city ought to be with hard work and liberal donations of his own money.

In publishing The Democrat, Mr. Wells' object was to print a paper that everyone could enjoy and derive benefit from. He proposed never to unjustly offend anyone. In this he has admirably succeeded, I think. Displayed before me as I write this is a handsome silver loving cup on which is engraved "The Memphis Democrat. Best all round weekly newspaper in Texas." He is proud of that trophy and justly so. All of us are proud of it, but prouder still of the man who made its capture possible.

Briefly, readers, those are a few of the accomplishments I must attempt to perpetuate. Do you wonder that I sometimes shudder at the thought of it all? My consolation, though, lies in the fact that I have behind me the same efficient corps that has labored so faithfully for Mr. Wells, namely: William Russell Clark, Thos. B. Huff, Herschel Montgomery and M. G. Ray. Mrs. G. L. Tipton, faithful society editor and local reporter, has resigned. Mrs. Erin Jones Couch will take her place.

But no matter how hard all of us work, The Democrat will not remain successful without YOUR continued support and good will. I trust that is assured.

Panhandle Press Paragraphs

There are many millionaires in the Panhandle of Texas, most of whom grew rich in the cattle and land business. They started in a small way, but by hard work and frugality, they accumulated wealth. Most, if not all of them, accumulated and lost, and again accumulated and lost, and they won. This, in itself, should be a lesson to young men.—Dalhart Texan.

The work of the home demonstration clubs in Floyd County started five or six years ago among Floyd County women, has been one of the greatest things in the county's community life that could have happened. It has developed the latent possibilities in communities, whetted appetites of our people for better homes, better communities, and developed leadership that was available all the time but needing some means of expression.—Floyd County Hesperian.

Most lawlessness is ascribed to the delay of the courts in giving justice. Still we have courts galore. Take Quanah as an example. We have a justice court, a recorder's court, a county court, and a district court. After a man tries all of 'em, he may carry his case up to the court of civil appeals, or he may go to the court of criminal appeals, and also take a whack at the supreme courts of Texas and of the United States. We certainly would be better off financially if we had two or three courts to handle this law business, and we cannot imagine that the cause of justice would suffer greatly.—Quanah Tribune-Chief.

Everybody likes a friendly person—man, woman or child. You know what we mean by friendly—one who is ever ready to help you out of a predicament—one who will stand by you in time of need; in other words, one you can always "count on." Our nation's future depends upon its friends. The success of our state dependent upon its friends. A folks, Pampa's future is directly dependent upon its friends. A nation, state or city must have friends it can "count on."—Pampa Times.

An old timer here said that when he first came to this country the sand blew so thick and so long that the prairie dogs dug holes twenty feet above the ground.—Wellington Leader.

Crowding newspaper fields is a common fault in Texas towns. When a town gets large enough for their newspaper to make a little money on the investment necessary to publish a modern paper, some fellow thinks he can come in and establish another paper and take the business of the established firm. Usually his paper is short lived and only succeeds in crippling the man who has weathered the storms of pioneering.—Estelina News.

If there were no dreamers, the Golden Fleece of commerce would be the God of Immortality and mankind would be brutish and intolerant. All the warriors from Alexander to Joffre were dreamers. All the scientists of history, master painters and musicians, sculptors and builders, have all been dreamers.—Donley County Leader.

The dog quarantine will be worth something only as the officers see that it is enforced. It will be too late when someone is bitten to talk about prevention. Let's hope that the chance to get rid of a lot of worthless dogs will be taken full advantage of at this time.—McLean News.

Well, the baseball teams have started their practice games and the fans are getting all warmed up. Some are even picking the team that will play the Southern League for the Dixie championship. Come on Spudders.—Vernon Times.

The movement to organize a Watermelon Growers Association, the first meeting to be held at the Farmers and Merchants State bank this afternoon, is commendable and Enterprise readers are urged to function. Turkey can attain fame by concentrating on most any line of soil production as anything will grow here if proper seasons prevail.—Turkey Enterprise.

Rufe Johnson's pet pound disappeared. Rufe put the following ad in the paper: "Lost or run away—one liver colored bird dog called Jim. Will show signs of hydrofobby in about three days."

The dog came home the following day. Daughter—Oh, papa, what's your birthstone?" Father of Twelve—My dear, I'm not sure, but I think it is a grindstone.

Dr. Ernest E. Robinson: Mr. Wells is a man faithful and loyal and can be trusted along all lines."

W. M. Owens: "The relationship between Mr. Wells and myself has been most pleasant and satisfactory over a long period of years. I regret to see him quit the newspaper business."

George A. Sager: "It is with a feeling of regret that we learned of Mr. Wells intention to retire from active journalism. Since Mr. Wells has been the owner and publisher of The Memphis Democrat, we have learned to love and appreciate him as a man and editor, always finding him ready to do his best for the upbuilding of Memphis. We are pleased to learn that Mr. Wells intends to remain in this city. We believe the new owners of The Memphis Democrat will do their best to hold the same standard of our paper as Mr. Wells has built for it."

Byron Baldwin: "Our relations with Mr. Wells during the time he was editor and owner of The Memphis Democrat were pleasant and satisfactory and we have enjoyed reading a newsy paper."

Jack Figh: "Nothing that might be said would adequately express my feelings for Claude Wells. He is now and has been in the past one of the most potent forces for good that this city and community have experienced. May good luck attend him as he leaves the publishing business."

Max King: "We are losing a fine editor as Mr. Wells retires from active journalism. I am glad to know that he is to remain among us for I know that he can be counted upon always to do his part in every worthy movement for the good of the city."

R. H. Wherry: "I am sorry to know that Mr. Wells has decided to retire from the newspaper business. He has my good wishes and esteem in whatever line of work he may seek to engage in."
 M. J. Draper: "Claude Wells is a mighty fine fellow. We will miss him from The Democrat. He has built up a splendid paper and I wish him the best of luck in the future."

Made Vital Force
 Dan McCollum: "Mr. Wells has shown what can be done with a small town newspaper. The Democrat has been made a vital force for good under his editorship and direction and I regret to see him retire."

Lee Pope: "Mr. Wells has been a consistent booster for Memphis and Hall County through the medium of his newspaper and as a forward looking citizen. I trust he will be as successful in any other line of activity in which he may engage."

J. M. McKelvy: "Claude Wells has created much good will through his newspaper and it is with regret that I have learned he is no longer to be actively engaged in such work."

Our Regrets

... that J. Claude Wells has retired as publisher of The Democrat. We are proud of his record both as a citizen and as a newspaper man of the highest type. Our best wishes are extended for his future.

Our Congratulations

... to Lyman E. Robbins and William Russell Clark, in whose capable hands the management of The Democrat now lies, we wish the rosiest success. We are confident they can maintain the high standards set by their competent and efficient predecessor, J. Claude Wells.

 "Nearly $70,000 has already been invested in this test. Hence, the only sane thing to do is to continue drilling deeper to protect our present investment. Certified or cashier's checks for $500 for grading and small drainage structures and $10,000 for bridge and overpass are required and the usual rights are reserved and the usual rights are reserved by the State Highway Department to reject any and all bids.

Work to Start Soon

In the opinion of Judge Hoffman, work on the new bridge will be started within the very near future. He stated that the information received would be welcome news to the citizens of this county who have been wanting this needed improvement made. A good deal of grading will be necessary between the overpass and the bridge, in his opinion, in order to have the highway functioning properly.

If a bid on the project is accepted when the proposals are opened on April 24, it should not be long before actual work on the bridge and other improvements gets under way, Judge Hoffman believes.
