Schools Open Here With Record Attendance

This year's high school enrollment has surpassed that of any other year. A total of 125 students had completed registration in the four high school classes Wednesday. This number compares favorably with the 104 that had enrolled at the same time last year and 94 in 1932.

Making up this year's high school enrollment are: 22 seniors, 32 juniors, 23 sophomores, 43 freshmen and 4 students listed as specials.

In the seven grades of the Eldorado School there is a total number of 252 enrolled; 31 in the first grade, 30 in the second grade, 22 in the third grade, 36 in the fourth grade, 60 in the two divisions of the fifth grade, 43 in the sixth grade and 30 in the seventh grade.

The Reynolds School has an enrollment of 10 pupils, the Alexander School 9 and the Mexican School 12. This makes a grand total of 417 students enrolled in the district.

Enjoyable Opening Program

Approximately 400 school children and patrons gathered in the main auditorium of the Eldorado high school building to hear the initial opening of the 1934-'35 school term. Interest in this year's program of education was manifest on every hand.

The program was begun with a song America, led by Miss Dorothy Taylor, accompanied by Mrs. J. C. Smith at the piano. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Connell, Methodist minister. The invocation was followed by a piano solo, rendered by Miss Francis, a music teacher of San Angelo.

President Of P. T. A. Speaks

Mrs. Milligan, president of the parent-teacher association, explained the program as outlined for the Association for the current school term. The first program of the year for the Association will be held at 3:00 o'clock on September 18, and programs thereafter will be held at that same hour every third Tuesday in the month.

"Being unsocial," said Mrs. Milligan, "is the most dangerous of all juvenile practices." Mrs. Milligan stressed the importance of character development. "We are all products of juvenile delinquency," said Mrs. Milligan, quoting a famous criminal lawyer and educator. "We become good or bad depending on what direction we mold our youthful delinquency." Mrs. Milligan said.

Mrs. Milligan's speech was followed by a cornet solo by Mrs. W. E. Smith, accompanied on the piano by Miss Mary Ella Miller.

Rev. Wilkinson, minister of the Presbyterian church, spoke on the importance of getting a good start in school work. Rev. Wilkinson's speech was followed by a piano solo rendered by Mrs. J. C. Smith.

Mr. Clarence Knight, president of the local Lions Club spoke briefly on education as an investment in which one can not lose. Mr. Knight stated that the Lions Club was back of every constructive move made by the school. He also announced that the Lions would continue to show their appreciation for high scholastic and athletic ability by awarding medals to students making best records in those phases of education.

Miss Dorothy Taylor rendered a piano solo which was followed by a brief talk from Rev. P. S. Connell in which he described the kind of a teacher that he would like to have.

Mr. B. E. Moore, president of the school board, told those present at the opening exercises that he, with the entire school board, was proud of the cooperation between the patrons of the school and the school board. He urged that such fine spirit continue through the present school term and in the hereafter.

Mr. J. C. Smith, high school principal, stressed the necessity of home study and the necessity of carrying the present high spirit on throughout the current school term. "The present status of this nation is chaotic," Mr. Smith said, "and in order to overcome the existing conditions, we must carry on."

4-H CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL PICNIC

The people of Eldorado and of Schleicher county were feted to a sumptuous barbecue and picnic last Friday evening at the Fair Park. At this time the parents of the boys and girls of the 4-H clubs entertained the club members of the past, the present members, and those who hold a future interest in the work of raising and feeding live stock for show display. This is an annual affair under the direction of County Agent C. Snell.

Around a hundred and fifty people attended the picnic and were treated to a spicy program made up of interesting talks from several who are connected with some phase of live stock breeding.

The principal speaker for the occasion was E. C. Martin, State Boys Club Agent, who works through the extension department of A. & M. College. Mr. Martin gave an interesting and helpful address on the work of the 4-H Clubs. He stated that he was extremely proud of the work of the 4-H Clubs of Texas and of the South were doing in comparison with that of the north.

In emphasizing his interest in live stock breeding, Mr. Martin brought out the fact that he started out as a club member more than twenty years ago, and is more interested in the work now than ever. After attending A. & M. College, Mr. Martin taught Vocational Agriculture in the schools of El Paso. He later served as County agent of El Paso county.

Another very interesting talk was given by Cecil Moore, President of the 4-H Clubs of this district and one of the two outstanding club boys of Texas. Cecil, after giving a history of the Schleicher County Club work, gave a brief resume of his recent trip to Chicago and Washington as a Texas representative to the National convention of 4-H Club workers.

John P. Lee of San Angelo, ringmaster of the San Angelo and Ft. Worth Live Stock Shows, made an impressive talk in interest of club work and live stock shows.

Other speakers of the evening were, Gene Koy, who told all about his short course trip to A. & M.; Culbertson Deal, secretary of the Board of Development of San Angelo; W. I. Marshall, County agent of Tom Green county; J. M. Pfluger of San Angelo, Dr. H. Grafke of San Angelo; Roy Cook, new vocational agriculture instructor of Eldorado High School; Judge J. A. Whitten and R. D. Holt, superintendent of Eldorado schools.

Four lambs were barbecued for the feast, these being contributed by Jess Koy, M. J. Wade, B. E. Moore and County Agent Snell. The mothers of the club members furnished the cakes, pies, coffee and everything that goes with a big feast.

John Williams, Jess Koy, Marion Wade, and Gordon Alexander prepared the barbecue for the affair.

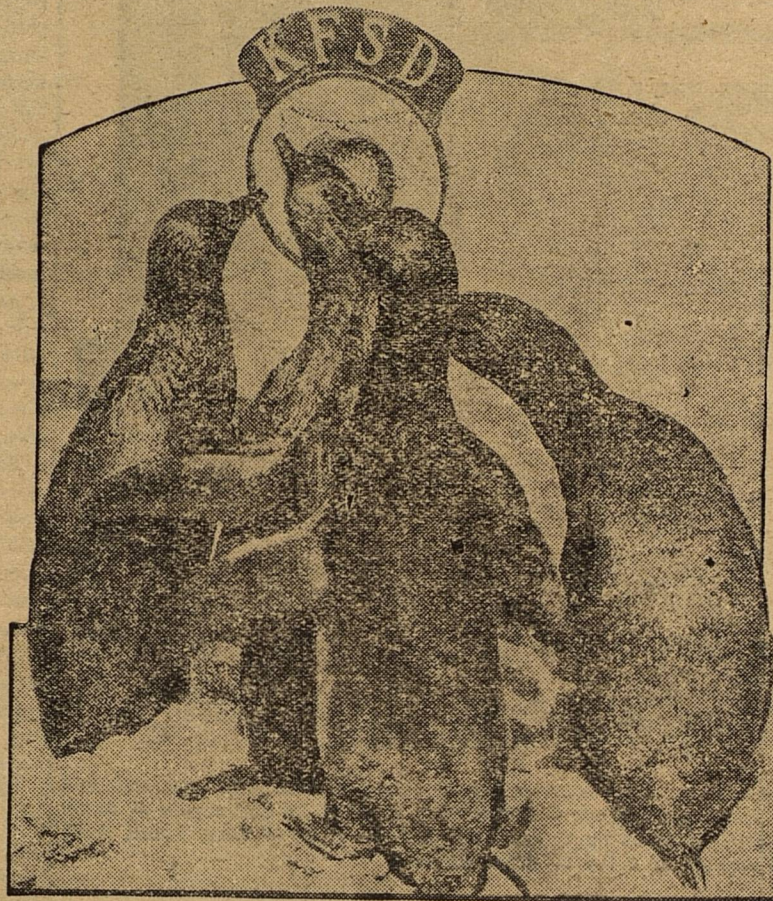

Sunday School Attendance Passes 300 Mark

Because the excellent Sunday School record last Sunday deserves special mention, the Sunday School record is being given a place on page one rather than in its regular column.

332 Eldorado people attended Sunday School last Sunday. This number represents an increase of 58 over the attendance of Sunday, September 2, and is 40 more than the previous record attendance registered since the Success has been carrying a regular Sunday School record. Sunday's attendance represents approximately 28 percent of Eldorado's population. The Sunday School attendance in Eldorado is rapidly growing.

By churches, the reports follows:

 Methodist 79
 Presbyterian 66

FOOTBALL SPECIAL NEXT WEEK

In view of the fact that the first football game of the season will be played on our local gridiron, the Success will devote its next week's regular issue to a special football edition.

The Success plans to cooperate with the Eagles and with the schools in every possible way. The part that the town, the people of the town and all interested parties can have with the success of a football team cannot be overly emphasized. Realizing the importance of high school athletics, of the interest that football builds up in a town, our special issue will be designed to encourage the Eagles and to show them that they are backed by the entire town.

Relief Conference Proposes Lower Rail Rates

A resolution asking the re-instatement of low freight rates on feed to stockmen and on livestock from the drought sections was the chief matter of importance taken up at the Drouth Relief conference held in San Angelo Tuesday. Carl Blasig, of Brady, offered the motion. The old freight charges went out September 5, but a hearing is scheduled before the Interstate Commission soon.

Another resolution introduced at the conference is in regard to the cotton situation. Such motion urges the secretary of agriculture to establish a cotton pool for the purpose of purchasing surplus cotton certificates of farmers who fail to produce their allotment and pay the farmers a flat price of 5 cents per pound for their unused certificates, the government to absorb any loss accruing through such an understanding.

Van McCormick, relief administrator of Schleicher County, C. L. Meador Jr., who is assisting in the cattle buying program, and Miss Annice Putman, certifying officer of the relief office, attended the meeting.

KOY, DELONG, AND TISDALE SELL CATTLE

Jess Koy recently sold 95 head of Herford mixed calves at three and one half cents per pound, weights 315. Dave DeLong sold fifty head and Joe Tisdale sold 45 head at the same price to northern order buyers.

Home Demonstration Council Plans For Next Year

Plans for next year's work were discussed by the Home Demonstration Council in their monthly meeting of September 1. The meeting was held at the Court House with 16 members, 4 visitors and Miss Farnsworth, County demonstration agent, present. In going over their plans, Mrs. W. H. McClatchey made a motion that the club take up ward robe in next year's progress of work.

A report on plans for achievement day was given by a short course delegate.

October 6 has been set as the date for the next Council meeting.

NEW THEATER BUILDING NEARS COMPLETION

The remodeling of the McWhorter building has nearly been completed and Mr. A. M. Morgan, owner of the Lone Star Theater, states that he will move to his new location within the near future.

In making the move Mr. Morgan assures the public that he will continue to provide them the best of screen entertainment.

Contracts Expected Any Day

The government's sheep buying program is slated to get underway in Schleicher County Monday, September 17, according to instructions received by County Agent C. Snell. Contracts have not yet been received but are expected within the next day or two, and as soon as they arrive, those planning on selling sheep to the government are instructed to fill out these contracts at the County Agent's office.

In buying of sheep, only ewes of one year old or older will be accepted. The price on all sheep will be $2.00 a head.

The time for goat buying has not been set and no definite information has been received on that matter. Only nanny goats of one year old or older is included in the government's purchasing program, and $1.40 per head will be paid for these.

Jess Koy is to have charge of the assorting program in the buying of sheep.

Fifty five thousand head of sheep have been listed for sale in this county.

HUMBLE TO RUN CASING SOON

Drilling Below 3,000 feet

The rotary operations at the Humble No. 1 Ike Hong have been steadily progressing and at noon Thursday the well was down to the depth of 3,025 feet. The formation is lime and shale. The drilling was held up for a short time the past week when a drill collar, reamer and bit lost in the well necessitated a fishing job.

The officials connected with the drilling state that they expect to start running a string of 10 1/2 inch pipe the early part of next week. The new pipe is to be set when the well reaches a depth between 3,400 and 3,500 feet. The hole will be reduced from 13 1/2 to 9 1/2 inches.

Operations have surpassed the expectations of the officials as a syfo test taken at 2,090 feet revealed a perfect hole.

The well is located ten feet west of the centerline of block M, section 28, G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey.

Cattle Buying Halted

The cattle buying program has been halted at least temporarily, according to instructions sent out by the government Tuesday to all state drought administrators of Texas.

Whether the original allotment for this work has been depleted or whether the stop is actuated in order that the government may check up on what it has done remains to be seen. However, several connected with the work are of the opinion that the halt is only temporary.

Payne Bailey, who recently underwent a minor operation at the Scott and White Sanitarium at Temple, returned to Eldorado last Sunday. He is back on the ranch.

EAGLES TO TACKLE MILES BULLDOGS IN OPENER

STRONG ELEVEN PREDICTED

With nearly two weeks of training behind, Coach Dave Williamson is shaping the Eagles into what seems to be a strong eleven in the making. Of course it is yet, too early to make any predictions as the Eagle mentor is following the better policy of slowly working the boys into the peak of condition rather than trying to get them in trim over night. There are many rough spots to be worked out before the team will click as a smooth gridiron machine and it will take a game or two for this to be accomplished. But we are of the opinion that Eldorado fans will see a scrappy eleven take the field at the Fair Park against Miles High School Bull Dogs Saturday, September 22, in the opening game of the season.

Coach Williamson has around twenty eight boys working out daily. The most promising candidates to date for berths on the squad are: Captain Billie Kerr, (letterman), Richard Jones, (letterman), Cecil Moore, Clayton Trotter, and Jack Rape, ends; Felix Susen (letterman), John E. Rodgers, Marshall Davis and Robert Lee Anderson, tackles; Jack Shugart (letterman), Edward Butler (letterman), Sam Smith and Jack Jones, guards; Harold Susen and Sam Cloud, centers; Milton Spurgers (letterman), Paul Davis, Ardrian McDaniels and Gene Koy for half-back positions; Bill Smith and R. J. Alexander, fullbacks and Joe T. Hext (letterman) and young brother Jack for quarterback duty.

The Eagles have two games on their card before they go into district competition against Menard at Menard on October 6. The week following the Miles game they entertain Coach Rudder's Bruley Bulldogs here.

These two non-conference games at the front of the schedule will give Coach Williamson a better line on the boys and more time to iron out the rough places before jumping into district games.

There have been three injuries in camp to date, Captain Billie Kerr, Felix Susen and Joe Hext. Captain Kerr is at the present nursing a bad ankle but is expected back in action soon. Susen is also being kept out of scrimmage at the present, while Hext is back in the play after a foot injury.

SPORT SLANTS

BY OTHO JONES

With the baseball season in the waning, sport fans turn out the country are fast turning their eyes toward football for attraction. Although the training season for high school, and college football has been underway only a short time, the fandom is already eager to hear the opening whistle. Rail birds are gathering around each football field each afternoon, looking the boys over, as they go thru their training program, and making their season's predictions. No other sport holds the spot light of so large a populace, as does the gridiron game.

In glancing over our exchanges, we note that almost all of the high school football coaches of this district are having plenty of worries in their efforts toward building teams to represent their respective schools as winners. Over at Ozona, where our old friend Ted White directs athletics, we get word that he is faced with the problem of developing a clicking machine from mostly raw material. Ted has six lettermen back from last year's team, all of these being line-men.

Coach Leon Lane of Menard also has a scarcity of lettermen. Reports from that camp, however, predict a winning team as there are a number of 1933 squadmen on hand as well as some good new material.

The rebuilding of teams year after year is one thing that makes the coaching game all the more interesting. Of course it is hard to see your favorite quarterback, your big tackle or your entire team lost through graduation. But such offers the coach a goal to work for, a goal in the developing of an even greater quarterback or an even greater team than the one you previously had. The greatness of a coach is manifest more in what he accomplishes year after year rather than just what he did in one year. Then, too the rebuilding program broadens the coach's perspective toward human nature. He has under his tutelage new and various types. He learns the different ways and means of handling different types.

COTTON STALKS WITH NEW LEAF GROWTH ARE AN ABUNDANT SOURCE OF GOOD FORAGE

By A. D. Jackson, Chief, Division of Publication

As an emergency forage to meet the feed shortage arising from drouth, attention has been called to the cotton plant as one of the widely distributed and abundant forage possibilities even though its use is not ordinarily general. An enormous amount of cotton plant forage is often available in the late fall, especially when new top growth follows the fall rains but which is so late it cannot mature much, if any, fruit. There are several ways of utilizing this forage, the most economical of which is to graze it off before frost. When the grazing cannot consume it all, the remainder can be mowed and cured and then stacked or baled. The hay resulting is excellent feed and when very leafy is almost or quite as good in feeding value as alfalfa according to the chemical analyses that have been made here on the Station. The stalks are not so good but they do have some feeding value. If the plants are to be mowed it should be done when the leaves are fresh and green as the maturing leaves are likely to shed and the feeding value will not be so high. This material can possibly be ensiled, but an attempt at ensiling about 12 tons of cotton stalks on the Station last year was a complete failure. In case it is necessary to harvest the cotton stalks in rainy weather it would probably be best to put the whole mass into a trench silo as any attempt to cure such forage would lead to mouldy hay that would not be usable.

The potential cotton forage crop is very large this season and much of the feed shortage may be supplied by it. Of a normal crop of some 17 million acres there is at this time probably around 15 million acres in Texas, most of which can be depended upon for emergency livestock feed. Some of this will yield more than a ton of hay to the acre. Where grazed, the crop will be even more effective in meeting the emergency than if it were mowed and cured.

There are large acreages in some parts of the State on which the cotton plants have been held back to very small growth on account of drouth and any early fall rains can cause them to produce much forage. These rains have already begun to appear, however, and there seems a good prospect of enough plant growth in many sections to make a forage harvest of great importance.

If universal attention is given to salvaging the cotton stalk fields there is the further advantage of most effective boll weevil control. Such a complete removal from the fields of the entire crop of cotton stalks would remove the principle refuge of boll weevils as well as the food supply of the weevils prior to frost with a consequent lowering of the numbers of weevils to go into hibernation. The destruction of cotton stalks in the field as early as possible before frost has been recommended as a profitable enterprise for control of the weevil even when no other motive is present. So it is that in a year like this when the plants are needed for livestock feed there is more profit than usual in a complete harvest of every available cotton stalk as early as possible after the matured cotton has been gathered.

Another feed supply from the cotton plant is cotton burs. The practice of snapping or pulling or stripping cotton bolls as against the time honored picking of the locks from the open bolls has been growing in recent years, and the improved gin machinery includes cleaners that remove the burs, trash and dirt leaving a very good sample of lint. Increasing quantities of burs are being turned out of the gins and the output is an important source of low-grade roughage for wintering cattle. These burs have been found to be about 25% better than cottonseed hulls as a feed for cattle, but when they contain sand or dirt as is usually the case they are spoiled for feeding until they are cleaned. Feeding cotton burs carrying much dirt is very dangerous. It is possible some means may be justifiable whereby the cotton burs can be cleaned and rendered usable as feed. Some burs are clean enough as they come from the gin and should be saved and used for feed.

While the practice of grazing cotton fields has been followed in a limited way by many farmers, no widespread use has been made of the cotton plant as a hay crop but such a use might be developed through research. Alfalfa is not grown successfully on nearly so wide an area as is cotton. In fact the cotton plant thrives on practically every type of soil and in practically every part of the State. The yield of cotton hay while not so large per acre as that of alfalfa on the best soils, is nevertheless more certain and more easily produced and could be expected to return good profit as compared with some feed crops that are more generally used. Thus it may turn out that cotton plantings for hay production will be made and whatever fiber and seed can be economically salvaged from the crop would be so much velvet.

CHURCH OF CHRIST CLOSES SUCCESSFUL MEETING

With eleven additions to the local congregation, Elder W. W. Leamons of Junction, closed a successful week's meeting at the local Church of Christ last Sunday night. Good crowds were in attendance all during the meeting and visitors from Christoval, Sonora, San Angelo, and Menard were among those present.

Because of increased attendance, the church is planning on a class for young people; and other constructive changes will be made next Lord's day according to announcement made by Will Eaton. Bible classes will be provided for all ages.

Great Horse Show Planned For State Fair

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 13.—Increased interest in Texas as a breeding state is evidenced in the fact that among reservations for stall space for more than 800 race horses for the fall meet at the State Fair of Texas, opening on Saturday, Oct. 6, there are more than one half of this number owned and trained in Texas, according to Julius G. Reeder, general manager of the track for the fall meet.

Among the horses are many that are famous throughout the country such as Croon, Clarify, Miss Corinne, Bien Fait, Boy Valet, Westys Fox, Fabulous, High Bottom, Brown Molasses, and many just as famous.

Stall space is available for only 1,000 horses at the State Fair, and Judge Reeder has said that it is assured now that every available stall will be occupied during the nineteen days of the fall meet at the State Fair of Texas.

The fall meeting will extend one week past the dates of the State Fair which are Oct. 6 to 21, the race meeting closing the following Saturday on Oct. 27th.

More than fifty stock breeders in Texas now have national recognition as owners of first class strings of race horses. These breeders will all be represented in the fall race meeting at the State Fair of Texas.

THE PHANTOM CHAMPIONSHIP

(A story of love and baseball)

SYNOPSIS

Ben White, a young pitcher for the Miners, a team contending with the Indians for the Copper-Belt Championship has agreed to sell the championship game to the Indians for the consideration of $10,000.

The day of the championship game arrives and Ben goes into the game torn between his desire for money and his desire to win the game for the sake of the favor of his newly found companion, Monna, whom he was to take to Miner's annual dinner after the championship game was over.

Should he win the game and lose $10,000, or should he lose the game and keep the $10,000, losing Monna, a career and friends? The matter worried Ben.

The game was well into the ninth inning, score 5-3 in favor of the Indians. Ben was at bat and a man was on base. Ben swung at a fast ball and connected with it. Absorbed in his bewilderment, Ben failed to realize that it was his duty to run. He kept standing at the plate.

Now on with the story

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

"Run, you galoot! Run!" He heard his team-mates yelling to him. What did they mean yelling at him like that? The ball sailed through the air toward left field fence. Vaguely Ben realized that he had hit the ball and he began the circuit of the diamond. The man who had been on the bases was already scoring. The Indian left fielder backed against the fence, but the ball was out of reach... it cleared the fence and bounded into the street beyond. That mob in the stand was on its feet, yelling and roaring, mad with joy. There was an unconquerable tumult as Ben crossed home plate; every player on the Miners' club gathered around him, slapping his back and shaking hands.

A minute or more passed before the crowd was settled and the game was resumed. The next Miner fanned.

Ben stepped into the box for the last half of the ninth inning, torn by every conceivable emotion. Now that the score was tied, he couldn't lose that game. Higgins stood in the open, scowling meanly at him. Why couldn't he give that money back to Higgins? Why, he hadn't even thought of that... he would do that very thing. His face brightened; he gritted his teeth; he pitched.

"Strike," called the umpire. The excited crowd was on edge, standing up, shouting and cheering.

"Strike two." Ben was actually smiling. The man who stood before him at the bat was one of the Indian sluggers.

"Strike three, and the man's out," cried the umpire. The crowd roared again... more loudly than ever.

"Strike one." The second man swung at the first pitched ball.

"Strike two." It was called... the man seemed destined to fan.

Ben hesitated. Once more he dug into the palms of his hands... once more he gripped the ball as if his knuckles would crack, just as he had done several times during the game. He recalled all that he had intended to do with that money he had got from Higgins. His smile faded and his face took on a look of anguish. He wound up... tossed the ball over the plate... and the batter doubled into center field. The next man up singled and as far as Ben was concerned the game was over. The final score was 6-5. It was an Indian triumph.

Ben went straight to the showers, already regretting that he did not carry out his intention of giving the money back. He did not speak to anyone, and no one seemed to want to speak to him. He walked all the way to the showers with his eyes fixed on the ground... filled with tears.

Later in the evening, Ben read the account of the game in the paper with growing surprise. The sports writer had given him credit for pitching a good game... he knew that was wrong. But then, they didn't know what he had done? He felt relieved. As he read on through the write-up, he became filled with compassion for his mates and self-condemnation for himself. He was given the praise in the paper and his mates were blamed with non-support. He felt like the cheat that he was... he knew who lost that game and why it had been lost. Could he let them blame his friends? He would have to let them.

At the dinner that evening, Ben's team-mates came to him with long faces and desperate apologies for not giving him sufficient support to win the game.

"We are sorry," they said. "We just didn't do you right. You were doing your best to win, but we just couldn't do any good."

"That was the most sensational homer of the year," Shorty Allen, the Miners' mascot, ventured to say.

"Oh, it's alright fellars... it's alright," Ben managed to say. But he knew it wasn't alright. Could these men really believe that they lost the game? Could he let them go on forever, blaming themselves? He knew he must. He suffered greater anguish now than he had experienced during the game.

Monna listened interestedly to all the apologies. She smiled encouragingly at the suffering players and she sympathized greatly with Ben. He felt her warm hand on his hand several times during the dinner, but with his mind weighed down with such an accumulation of misery, he could only feebly respond to her sympathy and encouragement.

Manager Hickman arose to make his season's farewell address. A silence fell on the group—and awful suspense to Ben.

"Gentlemen," he began, "we have just experienced our best season. Next year we will do even better. Today's game was great, but we just didn't have a ghost-of-a-chance at the league championship. I want to compliment our young pitcher, Mr. Ben White. He certainly pitched a great game. I could tell by watching him that he was trying, trying hard. He suffered more during the game than all the rest of us put together. Next year he will make us a greater pitcher than he has done this year. Let's all give him the hand."

There was a great applause. This was more than Ben had expected... more than he could stand, but what was he to do? He grew pale. He arose to leave, but somehow he could not force himself to go. A compassion for his mates welled up in his heart... his eyes filled. Aching with a thousand pains, he laid the money he had taken on the table with trembling hands.

"I... am sorry... fellars..." He choked... but I took that... to throw the game... I... am... sorry." That was all Ben could manage to say. He turned his back upon a dumb-struck, bewildered group of team-mates, and walked out.

Outside, Ben leaned against a post. He was in too much strain to know what his next move was. How long he leaned against the post, he did not know... it seemed like hours. He became vaguely aware that someone was touching his shoulder, and he turned to face Manager Hickman... and by him stood Monna.

"I suspected it," Hickman declared, "but boy if you can stay in this town and face the music, and if you will cure yourself of that infernal malady of yours, I'll keep you and you'll make good, but remember..."

"I know," Ben interrupted dryly, "but I'll stick it out; I will." "And if you need and help..." but that was all Monna had a chance to say.

Some Features of The World Fair

Beginning at the 23rd. street entrance of the World's Fair, we find the Street of Paris, typical scenes from France; the Hawaiian village with its daily broadcast of famous Hawaiian steel-stringed band; the typical Italian village, the home of ally Rand, nationally famous bubble ancer, all on the lakeward side of the street. On the landward side of the street one may see the famous typical Belgian village, the beautiful Alpine garden, the infant incubators, and the Hungarian pavillion. On toward the south end of the Fair grounds, one may see, along the Lake shore, the Pantheon de la Guerre, a famous World War picture worth hundreds of thousands of dollars; the Tunisian village; and the Spanish village. Father down the street and on the same side are located the flying circus, a thriller; the midget village; the Irish village; the DeSable cabin; Fort Dearborn from which Chicago originated; and the Lincoln group, a monument to that memorable character.

On the west side of the street, traveling toward the south end of the Fair grounds, one finds the best of the villages, the colonial village and the English village. In the colonial village is a reproduction of Washington's Mount Vernon home, the Virginia Dare Tavern, and several other places which occupy warm spots in the true-born American's heart.

Adjacent the English village lies Ripley's odditorium, one of the World Fair's most popular attractions. Many of the things which he depicts in his popular cartoons are displayed before the visitors eyes. The chairman writes the Lord's prayer on an ordinary grain of rice with ordinary pen and ink and without the aid of a magnifying glass! A man swallows thirty glasses of water and spews them all out of his stomach! A living child with four legs and three arms! And hundreds of other incredible attractions. The Black Forrest village is famous for its beauty and its marvelous exhibitions of fancy ice skating.

Feels a Lot Better When Black-Draught Relieves Constipation

From many states come reports like the following from Mr. W. M. Henderson, of Jasper, Fla.: "I have been taking Theodor's Black-Draught twenty years. I take it for constipation that gives me a dull, tired, aching feeling, and I have headache, too. Black-Draught relieves me of this trouble. After a few doses, I feel as good as new. I keep it in my home. I have a big family. When one of us is suffering (from constipation), we take Black-Draught and almost always feel a lot better. Of Course You Want Your Boy to Win

If any one told you that you were making it needlessly hard for your boy or your little daughter to get on in school you wouldn't believe it could be true.

But are you giving your child or your children the good light they need for their home studying?

In many of the schools light is still poor, so it is especially important to provide good light where children's home work is done.

See that the lamps they use are of sufficient wattage to give plenty of light and that there can be no glare in their eyes, either direct or reflected.

Poor light makes concentration difficult, brings on fatigue and drowsiness quickly, is damaging to young eyes, and is often responsible for faulty posture, which is a danger to be guarded against.

Let our home lighting consultant tell you how to light your home for your children's benefit and for your own comfort. This is a free service. You have only to write or phone us to obtain it. Take advantage of this service before school begins. It will pay dividends in higher grades.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

WHY DON'T THEY SUGGEST SOMETHING?

To hear and read after people who continually condemn the other fellows efforts at solving our current problems without offering any plausible solution to take place of those now offered, makes us almost sick... particularly weary with people who seem to think that the salvation of humanity will come of its own accord.

Having gone deeply into the studies of science before becoming an editor, we realize that the worthwhile is gained only after reasoning and experimenting. All of our modern inventions are the results, either directly or indirectly, of experimentation. People laughed at scientists who thought that music could be broadcast over the air, that light and power could come from wires, that people could speak over wires, that men could race through the air, etc. That same clique constantly derides the man who offers solutions to our problems. The obnoxious thing is not the fact that they criticize... we all need criticism... but the fact that they do not offer to help. What do they want to do about it? Nothing! Because they have it easy, they sit back and take it easy, throwing taunting remarks at the man who is trying to help humanity. They offer no solution; they suggest nothing; they do not help to shoulder the burden.

We are in a hole, economically, socially, and otherwise. We have problems to face, to face bravely, and to solve. We must find a way out.

Something is wrong somewhere or we would not be in such a desperate, chaotic position. And, as the scientists solves his problems, so must we all.

When we see a man doing his best for humanity's cause, we will help him along, and we will not criticize until we have something better to offer. "I would not sit in the scorners' seat, nor hurl the cynic's ban. Let me live in the house by the side of the road and be a friend to man." Better still, let me go from my house by the side of the road and help men shoulder the load; for above all else... above social order, above trivial strife, above the clank of silver and gold... is humanity.

TEXAS' ELECTION SYSTEM

Lloyd E. Price, a former state senator, in discussing the ills of Texas' present election system in the Texas Weekly says, "there was a time when the office sought the man, but now the man seeks the office." The statement is so true we are made to wonder how Texas' government has been even as good as it has been, which, on the whole, has been nothing to brag about. Good men are not induced to run for an office under the present system, and it is just luck that once in a blue moon, a good man may be elected. It has been our experience that the "better" man in the race generally runs fourth, fifth, or sixth, while the two selected for the August runoff are generally selected because of their cliques, claims, money, or special interests. We actually heard one man say during the recent first primary that he did not vote for the man whom he thought to be the better because he believed that that candidate had no chance at the runoff.

Ex-senator Price suggests that these evils of our election system might be overcome by a combination convention-primary system, replacing the first primary by a series of conventions, county, precinct, and finally state in which conventions two men, capable, fit, worthy, should be selected for each office. The voters then, in a primary before the general election, could decide on which of the two men should represent the Democratic party in the general election.

It seems to us that this suggestion of Ex-senator Price is very pertinent; that such method of electing men to serve Texas might prove to be a method of electing real men of service; a way of electing men capable of the office; a way of electing men whom the office seeks rather than men who seek the office.

SAAR'S TROUBLE

The little territory of Saar, situated snugly among the hills surrounding the Sarr river, is faced with a peculiar situation... a situation which is disturbing and which might prove to be the coal that starts a great conflagration. For fifteen years the territory has been under the jurisdiction of neutral nations in the league of nations while the country itself is inhabited by Germans, chiefly, and its great mines are controlled by the French government. In January, the territory, according to prior provisions, will be allowed to vote the course of its future destiny. Hitler is spending literally millions of dollars in an effort to gain the votes of the people for Nazi government. And the German population of Saar are perplexed as to just how to vote. One small election may have much to do with the shaping of destiny in Europe and there is likely to be trouble regardless of which way the vote may go. If Hitler succeeds in gaining a majority of votes, France and Germany are in for a world of trouble.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Hitler has gone too far... much too far. We want action and need action in the United States, but we want it in such a way that our liberty, freedom, and individual rights will forever be preserved; in such a way that the good old United States will still remain the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave; in such a way that men will have equal opportunities even though we now know that men do not have equal capabilities. What if the United States got into such a jam as Germany is in? Let's proceed forward... but with care!

Italy has prepared for war, all of which is all right so long as she doesn't start a war. A good way to keep out of war is to be well prepared for war. The Good Book asks, "How shall a man enter a strong man's house...?" And if other nations know that we are not seeking war but are prepared to defend our own rights, they are not going to be anxious to start it with us.

FLOOR FINISHES MAIN FEATURE OF HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MEETING

"If you can't give your floors the finish you'd like now, give them some simple and inexpensive finish to preserve the wood and keep them from splintering," said Miss Lora Farnsworth, County Home Demonstration Agent, in talking to the Country Woman's Home Demonstration club at a meeting on September 5 at the home of Mrs. Marion Wade.

"In applying any oil finish to a floor be sure to have the oil boiling hot so it will penetrate the wood," said Miss Farnsworth. One simple finish formula which she gave was: 1/2 gallon gasoline, 1 quart linseed oil, 1 tube burnt umber, 1 pint stain color (or desired). Heat this mixture and apply while hot.

Another finish given was: 1 quart kerosene, 1 quart lube oil, 1 quart vinegar, 1 pound paraffin. Apply this mixture hot, let stand several hours, then polish the floor with a weighted mop wrapped in woolen cloth.

Mrs. Marion Wade explained to the club the applications she had given her floor in preparing it for this demonstration.

There were 14 members present and one new member, Mrs. Will Lewis. The guests attending were: Mrs. Palmer West, Mrs. John Clark, Mrs. Bethel Jeffrey and Miss Neva Wade.

The Country Woman's Home Demonstration Club will meet September 19th with Mrs. Truett Stanford, at which time the club will make their final plans for the Achievement Day program.

A special call was made for a loyal support of the Buckner's Orphan Home at Dallas. This home takes care of 700 orphan children.

An inspiration was gained from Mrs. Foreman's talk about the fifteen new missionaries which the Southern Baptist women have recently sent into the foreign fields from the Lotty Moon offering.

SEVERAL CATTLE CHECKS STILL DUE

Approximately $85,000 has been received by Schleicher County ranchmen and better than $40,000 in checks yet to come for cattle sold to the government. These figures will total better than one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars and covering the sale of better than nine thousand head of cattle.

It is believed by San Angelo officials that the buying of cattle will be resumed next week. In event the buying continues Schleicher county will have 2,500 head more for sale, according to C. L. Meador, Jr. who is connected with the work.

COTTON FARMERS NOT THREATENED BY INDIAN COTTON

Alarmists who see in moderate American cotton production the loss of export markets would have the Southern farmer return to big production regardless of price. Others think that cotton markets bought at the price of farm poverty are too expensive.

Study of the foreign cotton situation by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration leads to the conclusion by experts of the Cotton Section that large foreign expansion of cotton growing is unlikely in the near future. There are physical, social and economic factors which will largely limit foreign cotton production for a long time to come. Moderate foreign increases are to be expected but serious replacement of American cotton by foreign grown cotton is unlikely unless American prices go to unusually high levels and remain there for a long period of years, it is believed. Thirteen-cent cotton is not an unusually high price.

India, Egypt, Russia and China are America's chief cotton production competitors. Brazil is the chief country offering a possible serious threat in the near future. A study of facts about each of these countries will enable one to judge for himself whether the South is seriously threatened.

If India had more land or fewer people she might expand her cotton production. She has 319,000,000 people and less than 1 1/2 acres in cultivation per person. Famine is an ever-present threat to India. To produce enough food for her teeming millions is a problem. If more cotton is produced it means less food and feed. Even if high cotton prices encouraged larger cotton production, transportation systems in India are so poor that it is hard to move food into the farming country to feed the population. Indian farmers are forced to live at home. They cannot drive down to a feed store and buy imported food and feed.

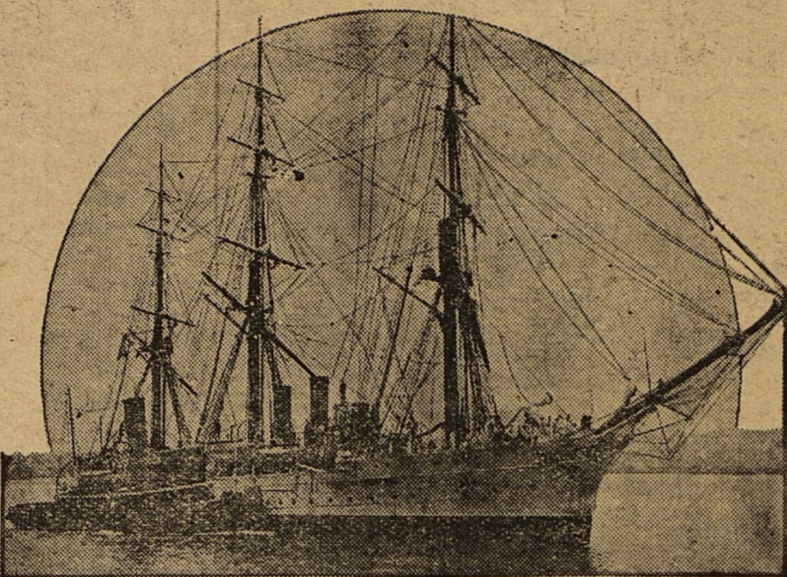

India has been planting about 25 million acres per year in cotton. The largest acreage was in 1923 when nearly 25 1/2 million acres were planted. In 1933 the crop was only 23 1/2 million acres. Plantings up to August 1 of this year are the smallest of any year since 1924. The average yield of both feed and cotton in India is only about half of what similar crops yield in the United States. Cotton averages only 80 pounds per acre or about one-sixth of a bale.

There is nothing in the way of price at present to tempt India to produce more cotton. In terms of Indian money, cotton prices were the lowest in March 1933 of any time in the last 10 years. Prices went down even after the American plow-up. During the picking season cotton prices in India were from 1% to 17% below those of the previous year, and they are still down. This shows that high prices to the American farmer in American money do not always mean high prices to the foreign farmer in his money. It takes high prices to encourage production.

Food supply and difficulties in transportation limit cotton production in India. Her big population constantly presses against her limited land for food supply. She might increase 5 million acres or 800,000 bales on short notice if prices were favorable. They are not. Beyond such an increase India is not likely to expand much in the future.

The long-time plan of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration for cotton does not propose to give American cotton markets away to India or any other foreign nation. It does propose to avoid the violent drops in price that have cursed the Southern farmer and business men for 50 years. By adjusting supply of American cotton to effective demand a decent price to the Southern farmer can be maintained without a loss of markets.

The John M. Cooper No. 1 Bert Page which was to resume drilling this week has been temporarily delayed in reopening activities because of the lack of sufficient casing. Casing has been run into the well to within 150 feet of the bottom. Sufficient casing to reach bottom was received but, the final 180 feet was perforated for use in acid treatment. Since deciding not to acidize the well, it was necessary to reorder unperforated for use in acid treatment. Casing can not be used for drilling. New joints are expected within a few days.

Cooper is to drill 6,500 feet, if necessary to test the Ordovician. Gas flow from the well is undiminished, it is reported. The well is located in the northwest quarter of section 40, block L, G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey, 9 1/2 miles southeast of Eldorado.

The law enforcement body also discussed the issues concerned with the possibility of merging the organizations of sectional peace officers with the state association.

Girders Arrive For New School Building

That uninterrupted progress is being made on Eldorado's new grammar school and combination gymnasium-auditorium is witnessed by the fact that large steel girders were placed on the ground this week, and the brick walls now rise above the observers head in places. Architect H. S. Becker has promised that the building will be in readiness by Thanksgiving. It seems that the promise will be made good.

Racing Dogs Valuable

Racing dogs frequently bring higher prices than show or field dogs of the same breed. The Racing Association of England reports one litter of six pups in the greyhound class that were sired by the famous racing dog, Mick the Miller, valued at over $5,000. It is expected that the pups will develop into track winning stock.

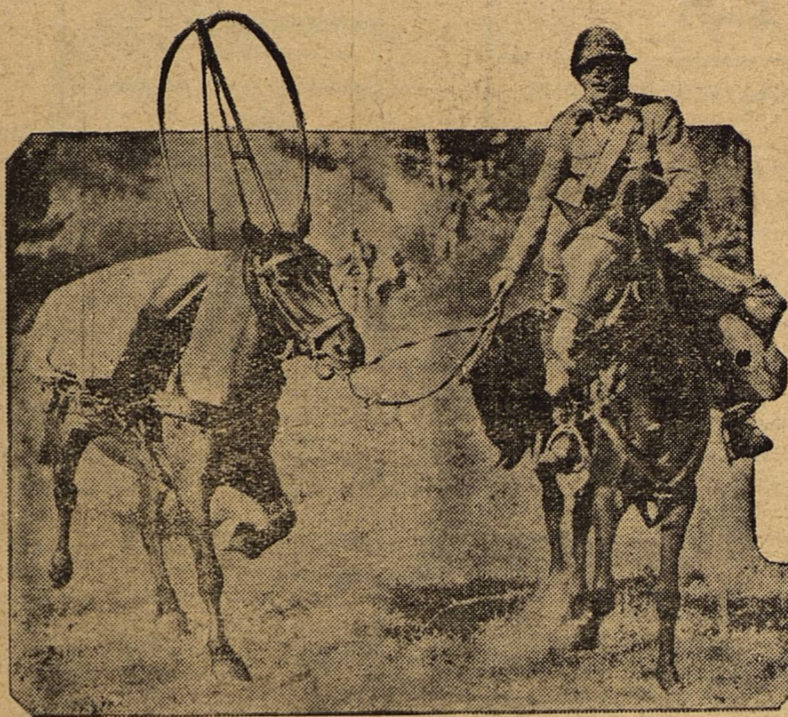

Field Manager Pleased With Cannery Operations

An excellent report was made on the local cannery by the government field manager of this district in his inspection trip here Wednesday. He opined that the work was being carried on in an excellent manner and that the local cannery had incurred the least expense account of any cannery in Texas.

Eight hundred cans of meat and 200 cans of vegetables have been canned since the Success went to press last week. This makes a total of 12,486 cans put out by the local cannery. Ben Hext, who is in charge of the work, stated that he had eleven goats and one beef on cold storage and that this would be canned today.

Mrs. C. A. Spencer and brother, J. M. Stevens, of Kerrville were Schleicher County visitors last Thursday and Friday, visiting Alfred Stevens and Mrs. W. A. Spencer of Bailey Ranch community.

Wilson Mission Draws Large Crowd

The first meeting of the newly established Baptist Mission which met at the court house last Sunday under the direction of Raymond O. Wilson, pastor of the San Angelo Heights Baptist church, drew a large and interested crowd. Gilbert W. Wilson, evangelist, and brother of Raymond O. Wilson, conducted the services. RANCHERS URGED TO SAVE SHEEP AND GOAT PELTS

If Dried Properly, They Have Good Market Value In East

Carl Wiler of Charles Friend & Company, Inc., 130 North Wells Street, Chicago, Illinois, says the pelts from the goats and sheep that are disposed of on the range in the government purchasing program have a fair value for coat purposes and recommends that animals killed on the range be skinned and the legs and heads cut off right at the start to allow the skins to dry more quickly. He does not expect the government sheep buying program to start for while yet because the packers are hauling in their bids for processing the sheep and goats August 27. J. Miles O'Daniel, president of the Wool Growers' Central Storage Company in San Angelo takes a similar view believing the buying will begin about September 1 or thereafter and that it will be spread over a period of six or seven months.—San Angelo Morning Times.

Dave Williamson, coach of the champion Eldorado Eagles, spoke on the subject of athletics as an essential phase of modern education. He pointed out the fact that athletics created interest in school for boys and that aside from the interest in athletics, games develop an alert mental attitude and a spirit of cooperation and team work, all desirable traits in the life of an individual.

Following several announcements, Mr. Holt, superintendent of the schools, said that prospects for the coming school year looked more favorable than ever. He mentioned the fact that the new courses offered this year are electives, stating that "they were added in an effort to make our school work more practical." Mr. Holt asked that children not be allowed to play around the premises of the new building as they might interfere with the workmen and as there was danger of a child being injured.

Interpretative Flashes

Ferguson passes out of the picture in Texas at the Democratic convention by withdrawing from his position as Democratic National Committeeman;

but just when it seems that Texas is to enjoy at least a temporary relief from Fergusonism, our neighbor state gets deeper into Hueyism, more appropriately "Hooeyism." Huey Long senator of Louisiana, won a clean sweep in Louisiana in the recent election and now the Long faction (which happens to be the "short" faction... not in numbers but in good graces) completely controls the state. What will politics be in next

John Nance Garner has been selected to replace Ferguson as Democratic National Committeeman, thereby setting a precedent in that the office was never before held by a vice-president. Maybe the N.R.A. had better draw up a political code wherein the politician would enjoy shorter hours and more politicians could be employed.

Cattle buying has stopped for the time being in the United States. Maybe the government has a surplus of heat on hand.

The tragic fire on the liner, Morro Castle, in which more than 100 lives were lost is among the most outstanding of sea catastrophes. If the fire should prove to be of incendiary origin as acting-captain Warns suggests, some poor devil, mentally unbalanced, should be locked in chains or a padded cell for the rest of his life. Such an incident, should the burning of the Morro Castle prove to be the work of arsonists, reveals to what extent the radial mind may be insane.

Sometimes a leader proves costly. Textile strikers, dissatisfied with existing conditions, awaited a leader. They found one...they went out on a strike. That strike, still in its heights, is causing hunger, bloodshed, injury, and property damage. Isn't there some better way by which man can settle with man, other than striking, rioting, and fighting? Seems to us that men need a real leader, a thinking leader...not a strike leader.

The NRA is undergoing another reorganization. If the NRA ever gets organized, it may then be able to set out upon a work program.

Schleicher County had no delegates present at the State Democratic Convention.

Democrats won again in Maine. The New Deal hasn't lost all of its support...not by a long shot.
