Joiner On Deal For T. E. C. Job

Wallace Joiner is on a deal today with the TEC (Texas Employmen Commission) to be an employee of that organization for this locality final arrangements today to accept the position-if he does not do so another man will be assigned to this another man will be assigned to this county by Monday.

Joiner's duty will be to contact itinerant laborers as they pass through such centers as Mason and Brady, seeking employment, to di vert them to Schleicher county to work in the cotton fields here. is understood that truckloads laborers, mainly nationals (Mexicans who are U. S. citizens), usually pass through either Mason or Brady, fanning out from there in all directions. Joiner will work to divert as many as possible to Schleicher county, where they will help solve the problem of the acute labor shortage.

REA TROUBLE MEN HAVE LOTS OF TROUBLE REA maintenance men have had their troubles.

At about 2:00 Wednesday morning lightning struck an oil circuit re-closer in the Bert Page pasture, and repair men had to replace the damaged part during the morning. About 60 families in the Ft. McKavett locality were without service several hours.

Co-op trouble men have been called out several times recently to locate broken aluminum strands, damaged by dove hunters who had aimed at birds on the wire but hit the wire instead.

Local Depot Closed Every Saturday

In compliance with certain 40 hour-week regulations, which went into effect on September 1st, L. D. Ochsner, local depot agent, announces that the Santa Fe depot here will be closed each week on Saturday and Sunday. There are, however, some exceptions to the rule - carload shipments of livestock and other seasonable carload shipments can be taken care of, whether it is Saturday, Sunday, or any other legal holiday, by making arrangements with the local agent

What's phosphorus to a pig?

Just a half a pound of your 250-lb. pig is phosphorus. This seems a small amount. But without it, your pig would die. And there are other minerals just as vital to livestock. Some they need in quite large amounts... calcium and sodium as well as phosphorus. Others we call trace elements. These they need in very small amounts... such as cobalt, iron, copper and manganese.

But your animals do need these trace elements. The people at the agricultural colleges have proved that past all doubt. Some minerals are a "must" if you want to raise healthy, fast-gaining cattle. That goes for healthy, fast-gaining cattle. That goes for lambs and hogs, too. For example, these men find that grass and grains in Dade County, Florida, are short of copper and iron. Clallam County, Washington, needs iodine to check goiter. They know that San Diego County, California, hasn't enough phosphorus. In Aroostook County, Maine, the scarce mineral is cobalt. Ranchers and formers in these four corners of the country. farmers in these four corners of the country have this problem. Their feeds and forages are short of one or more vital minerals. Many other areas share the problem, including parts of the great Corn Belt.

But you ask, "How can I spot animals which suffer from mineral shortage?" It's not too easy. If the lack is serious, your stock may have rickets, "big neck," anemia or other ailments. But there are some early symptoms you can spot. These are bone chewing, loss of appetite, slow gains, rough and scrubby coats. Or just a general unthrifty condition gives you the clue. If you start feeding a mineral which contains the essential trace elements, you may bring them around fast. But if this doesn't work, then you should consult your veterinarian, county agent or agricultural college.

The common mineral deficiencies in your area are known. By feeding mineral-balanced rations, you can correct these lacks. Or you can build up the mineral content of the soil. Either, or both, of these will help you grow healthier livestock, at a lower cost.

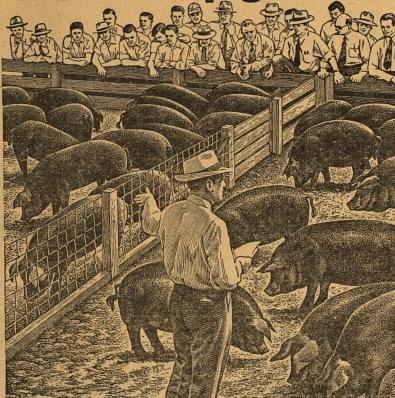

Supplemental Mineral for Wintering Range Ewes by William H. Burkitt Montana State College

Thirteen mineral elements are william H. Burkitt known to be necessary for normal functioning of an animal body. However, this does not mean that all 13 must be supplied in a mineral mixture. Many of them are present, under usual feeding conditions, in sufficient amounts for breeding ewes. Those lacking in Montana include sodium and chlorine (salt), iodine, phosphorus, and Lack of sufficient iodine in the ration of pregnant ewes results in lambs being born with "big neck" (goiter). Thin wool in lambs may also result. If dead or weak lambs have shown "big neck" or thin wool at birth in past years, stabilized iodized salt should definitely be fed the ewes this winter.

Phosphorus deficiency may exist in wintering range ewes, particularly if there is little or no supplemental feeding. Abortions and weak lambs may result from deficient phosphorus. Pregnant ewes should have from 0.16% to 0.18% phosphorus in their feed. Many grass hays and mature range grasses contain less than 0.15% phosphorus and some contain as low as 0.04% phosphorus. Bone model deficiented as the properties of the propert meal, defluorinated rock phosphates, and monosodium phosphate are satisfactory sources of phos-Palatability and consumption may be improved by mixing with salt.

Cobalt is believed to be needed by micro-organisms in the paunch. A lack results in loss of appetite, less feed consumption, and eventually starvation. A possible cobalt deficiency may be guarded against by mixing 1 ounce of cobalt salt with each 100 pounds of stock salt. Cobalt carbonate, chloride, or sulfate are all satisfactory. (Editor's note: The principles of nutrition discussed above apply to most kinds of livestock and in all parts of the country.)

Hello Again!

We are glad to be back with the Swift page of information and ideas. What did we do all summer? Well, among other things, we visited with farmers, ranchers, agricultural editors and educators. And we rounded up the facts we need to make these messages interesting and useful to you producers. As we said away back in 1944—"This is your page, and we welcome suggestions from our readers." We still do. Just write to me at Swift & Company, Chicago 9, Illinois . . . And when you're in Chicago, drop in and see us.

LET'S SUPPORT OUR "MEAT TEAM"-You know, times change-but some folks don't change with the times. I'm thinking of the type of man who always thinks that someone is getting the best of him in business. He sells a load of steers. No matter what his return, he's not satisfied—the packer, the commission man, the retailer—somebody else always gets a "bigger slice." But, during this past summer, I talked to a lot of people about the livestock-meat industry and our mutual prob-lems. And I found a refreshing, encouraging attitude—"Sure, we got problems. Who hasn't these days? But if producer, packer and retailer work together as the 'meat team,' we'll work things out . . ." It's just good business to have a decent regard for the contributions made by other members of your team. I hope you have followed the "Meat Team" advertisements of the American Meat Institute and will talk to your neighbors about them.

FACT CONFIRMED—Out in the West, whenever I passed a town with a local meat-packing plant, I thought, "This town, out here where there is lots of livestock, is well served by that local plant. But what about the distant cities filled with meat eaters and no near-by livestock production to speak of?" I know for a fact that meat has to travel an average of more than 1,000 miles to reach those consumers. The only way they can get meat is through the low-cost processing and marketing services provided by nationwide meat packers, like Swift & Company.

t.M. Simpson.

Agricultural Research Dept.

MONEY and MEAT-In the fall months we run into an unusual situation in the livestock-meat packing industry. At that time we often see the year's high market for top finished beef cattle. And this top price usually is being paid when the average price for all cattle is moving in the opposite direction.

The high price is explained by the fact that during the fall we usually have the shortest supply of the year of well finished, long fed cattle. Brisk demand for this short supply naturally will force the price up. The lower average price results from the annual move to market of huge numbers of grass-fed cattle. About 20 per cent of all the cattle and lambs slaughtered during a whole year must be handled in September and October. Meat from these animals being slaughtered any given day generally is on the dinner table in less than 14 days.

Folks aren't likely to have any more money to spend on food during the fall months than in February, when fewer meat animals are being marketed. Since beef and lamb is largely a fresh meat business, there's a lot of meat to eat during the fall months. Consequently, since consumers have no more money to spend, meat prices have to be lowered. And that's just what happens, as it usually does with an increased amount of meat to be sold and no increase in the amount of money with which to buy it. These lower meat prices consuming centers where surplus supplies always can be moved at a price. Naturally, then, livestock prices follow meat prices. Producers should keep in mind that the prices they receive for their livestock are governed by what the packer can get for the meat and the by-products. This is perfectly demonstrated, as we have pointed out above, when the price for one kind of cattle, in short supply, is moving up at the same time that prices of other cattle, in heavy supply, are moving down.

MISSOURI PACIF RAILROAD STRIKE?

Over twenty years ago, the Congress of the United States passed the Railway Labor Act. It was hailed by union leaders as a model for the settlement of labor disputes.

THE LEADERS of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Missouri Pacific Railroad have refused to avail themselves of the peaceful means provided by this Act for settling their disputes. They insist that they be the sole umpire of their own disputes over the meaning of contracts.

There is no Need for Strikes

With all of the available methods for the interpretation of contracts, there is no need for a strike or even a threat of a strike, but the leaders of these railroad unions have ignored the ordinary procedures established by law and insist upon imposing their own interpretations of their contracts by means of a strike.

The wheels have stopped rolling on the Missouri Pacific. They may stop rolling on other railroads at any time. Recently the Wabash Railroad was forced to discontinue operation for several days under similar circumstances.

What are These Strikes About?

These strikes and strike threats are not about wage rates or hours. They result from disputes over the meaning of existing contracts. They cover claims for a full day's pay for less than a day's work, or for payments for services performed by others who were fully paid for the work done.

President Truman's Board Condemns Strike

There is an established legal method for handling disputes involving existing written contracts-just as there is such a method of settling any contract dispute which you may have in your daily life.

The President of the United States appointed a Fact Finding Board to investi-gate and adjust the Missouri Pacific dispute. This Board reported, in part, as "...it is with a deep sense of regret that we are obliged to report the failure of our mission. It seems inconceivable to us that a coercive strike should occur on one of the nation's major transportation systems, with all of the losses and hardships that would follow, in view of the fact that the Railway Labor Act provides an orderly, efficient and complete remedy for the fair and just settlement of the matters in dispute. Grievances of the character here under discussion are so numerous and of such frequent occurrence on all railroads that the general adoption of the policy pursued by the organiza-tions in this case would soon result in the complete nullification of the Railway Labor efficiently or economically if the leaders of the unions ignore agreements or laws.

Obviously the railroads cannot be run

Provisions of the Law which are Disregarded

There are five ways under the Railway Labor Act to settle disputes over the meaning of contracts: 1-Decision by National Railroad Adjustment Board. 2-Decision by System Adjustment

Board for the specific railroad. 3—Decision by arbitration.

4-Decision by neutral referee.

5—Decision by courts.
The Missouri Pacific Railroad has been and is entirely willing to have these disputes settled in accordance with the requirements of the Railway Labor Act: Regardless of this fact, the union leaders have shut down that railroad.

Innocent Bystanders Suffer Losses and Hardships

There are about 5,000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen on the Missouri Pacific. They are known as "operating" employes, and are the most highly paid of all employes on the nation's railroads, but their strike action has resulted in the loss of work to 22,500 other employes of the Missouri Pacific. In addition, they have imposed great inconvenience and hardship upon the public and the communities served by that railroad.

The Railway Labor Act was designed to protect the public against just such interruptions of commerce.

If these men will not comply with the provisions of the law for the settlement of such disputes, then all thinking Americans must face the question, "What is the next step?"

A&M Ag Engineer Tells How To Save On Tractor Fuel Bills

Schleicher county farmers can gasoline bill each year, says W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer at Texas A & M. Tests and he says-the saving of which will help pay the taxes or even buy the wife a new dress.

The following suggestions from Ulich should enable the farmer to utilize every bit of gasoline he buys for his tractor, and save some money on his fuel bill.

An elevated and shaded tank for storage is much better than barrels that set out in the sun. Always stop the engine before filling the tank and leave room in the tank for expansion—don't get it too full.

Check the fuel system often to see that there are no leaks in the gas lines and be sure the carburetor is functioning as it should. If the carburetor leaks, it probably needs a new float or float valve, he says. Use the choke only when necessary. (A choked tractor will waste a gallon of gas an hour.) Make carburetor adjustments only when the engine is hot and follow the instructions in your tractor operator's manual. Don't change the carburetor setting to start or pull when the engine is cold—use the choke. The proper adjustments on the idle and idlespeed stop screw can save up to 100 gallons of gasoline per year.

Use the correct type of manifold or manifold setting for the fuel you use. Inspect and re-gap spark plugs every 200 hours and replace faulty plugs. Use the correct type of plugs for the fuel you use. Check the magneto regularly and service he air cleaner daily and oftener in usty work. A clogged cleaner can waste five to eight gallons per lay. Watch the temperature of the water in the radiator. This is im-

These are a few of the "gremlins" that are working on your tractor and running up your fuel bill, says Ulich, and you can just about get them all out of your way by just simply watching and caring for the farm tractor in an orderly way

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Furr and children, who were in Calf Creek last Sunday for the reunion, went from there on to San Antonio to visit Clara Lynch, a school friend of Mrs. Furr's. They returned home Monday night.

ONLY FRIGIDAIRE HAS IVE-WATER ACTION

> There's nothing else like it! See it demonstrated

Frigidaire's exclusive Live-Water action produces rolling, penetrating currents of hot, sudsy water that washes clothes through and through. No pulling or yanking. And clothes are washing in water all the time—not half-in, half-out. The same Live-Water action that washes clothes cleaner rinses them brighter (twice!) in fresh, clean water. And the Rapidry-Spin gets clothes so dry some are ready for immediate ironing

Sure You Haven't A "Blind Spot"?

As I was driving down Main Street last Saturday, another car swung out right in front of me. It turned out to be Buck Blake. He wasn't going fast. It was just that he had something else on his mind at that particular moment.

Buck's really one of the nicest fellows I've ever known. But, sometimes he gets to day-dreaming on the road. He sort of gets a "blind spot" to what's going on

Now, lots of normally considerate folks have their "blind spots."

It could be anything from daydreaming while driving a car to humming out loud at the movies.

From where I sit, it's mighty important to be on guard against your own "blind spots." The other fellow has a right to his "share of the road," too-whether it's having a taste for a temperate glass of sparkling beer or a desire to listen to some classical music if he

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

by Mary Lee Taylor

Creamed Dried Beef in Toast Shells Broadcast: September 17, 1949

8 slices bread
3 tablespoons melted
butter or margarine
1 cup shredded,
dried beef

1 can condensed cream
of chicken soup*

1/3 cup Pet Milk
3 tablespoons water
few grains pepper

Turn on oven; set at moderate (375° F.). Remove crusts from bread. Brush bread with melted butter. Press buttered side down into 8 three-inch muffin cups. Bake 10 minutes, or until light brown. Meanwhile, rinse dried beef with hot water. Drain; dry on cloth or paper towel, then put into saucepan with soup. Stir in milk, water and pepper. Heat slowly until thoroughly hot. Serve in toast shells. Makes 4 servings.
