

City officials urge calmness during storms

Panicked citizens kicked out the glass doors of the public library trying to seek shelter during violent storm that roared through the heart of Muleshoe just after sunset Wednesday.

During the height of the fast-moving and dangerous 20-minute storm, police officers were struggling to unlock the double glass doors of the Muleshoe library, which is one of the city's two emergency shelters.

When it became apparent that the officers wouldn't be able to unlock the doors, an unknown person or persons kicked out the glass of both doors, sending shards of glass in all directions, according to City Manager James Fisher.

Dozens of scared citizens then crawled through the doors and to the safety of the basement shelter.

"We were lucky no one got hurt," Fisher said. "It was the first storm of the year, and a lot of people panicked. People were driving like crazy."

With the frightening images of the killer tornado in Jarrell fresh in their minds, people probably just panicked a little, Fisher said.

"But people have to work with (emergency personnel) and remain calm."

Fisher said citizens did the right thing by seeking shelter, but Fisher is still uncertain if police had the wrong key or if it just didn't work.

The problem was fixed the next morning, he said.

The ominous storm dumped more than an inch of rain and ping-pong size hail on the city, flooding streets and knock leaves from trees.

With corn and cotton freshly above ground, and wheat within weeks of harvest, most local farms were spared from potentially devastating hail.

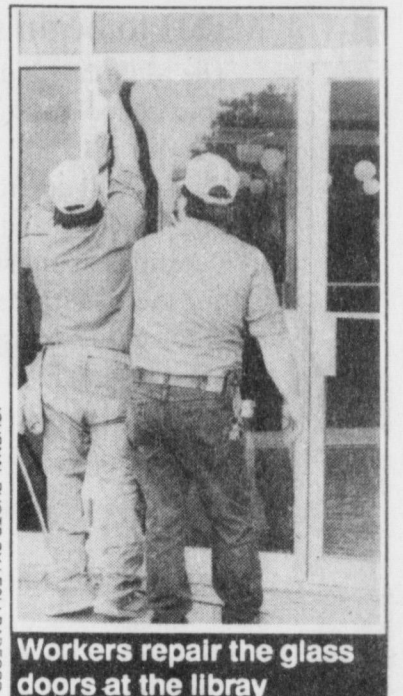

After passing directly over Muleshoe, the storm did cause destruction north of Bula and into Lamb County.

Charles Heffington of the Bula Gin said about 600-700 acres of cotton to the north was hailed out in the storm.

Tornado sightings between Needmore and the Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge reported on at least one Lubbock station were unconfirmed, according to the Bailey County Sheriff's Office.

Employees at the Needmore Gin and the wildlife refuge reported just light rain.

Workers repair the glass doors at the library.

CON-GRAD-ULATIONS!

Last in long line of Muleshoe graduates

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Margarita Posadas had waited a long time for this day, when the youngest and last of her 10 children received her high school diploma.

Raquel Posadas completed the 22-year educational odyssey Thursday when she was among the 80 seniors who graduated during the Muleshoe High School commencement exercises before a record crowd at the Bailey County Coliseum.

Margarita, a 63-year-old homemaker, had squirreled away all her other children's diplomas, refusing to hand them out until Raquel graduated.

After the ceremony she handed the others their diplomas.

All but one of the kids attended the ceremony.

"I had to graduate," said Raquel, who will attend Amarillo College and major in physical therapy. "(My brothers and sisters) would have killed me if I didn't."

Vicky Morales, the first to receive her diploma in 1975, credits her parents.

"It's a big accomplishment for our parents," Vicky said. "My mother every day was pushing us. She wasn't sure that she'd live to see this day."

Alfonso Posadas only finished third grade, so he said it was important for his children to finish school.

"It was hard, but I'm real excited," Alfonso said. "We've always had this dream."

There were several other heartwarming stories among the graduating seniors.

Kermit Price nearly missed the ceremonies after being involved in a serious motor vehicle accident earlier this week, in which he suffered a broken arm and bruised back.

In obvious discomfort, Price gingerly made his way onto the podium, where he accepted his diploma from his dad.

"He's been with these kids for 13 years," said his father Arnold Price, who is also a school board member. "They're like family to him."

Price has been accepted into the Texas Tech honor program as a pre-med student.

Stacy Harlan overcame a debilitating illness to become class valedictorian.

Harlan contracted a form of Lyme disease in junior high, leaving her chronically fatigued and unable to attend school for several years.

She credited her homebound teacher Brenda Black and sheer determination for her success.

"I wouldn't be standing here today if Brenda Black hadn't shared her love with me and encouraged me during those years," Harlan told her classmates, finishing her speech with these words of advice.

"Whatever you choose, choose to be optimistic."

Dr. Kerry Moore, who has taught drama and speech for 37 years at Muleshoe was the guest speaker.

He dared the Class of 1997 to be dreamers and builders.

He said it all starts with kindness to your fellow man and having the courage to pursue your dream.

MAHD agrees to purchase hospital property

BY RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

The Muleshoe Area Hospital District reached an agreement to purchase the hospital property.

The hospital district, through West Plains Medical Center, Inc., reached a settlement agreement May 12 with the Farm Home Administration to pay off an outstanding government loan of $800,000 at a substantially lower figure.

West Plains agreed to pay FHA $164,000 in return for the agency to remove a lien against collateral property that includes the hospital and the nursing home. The hospital district then reached a purchase agreement with West Plains.

As part of the purchase agreement with West Plains, the hospital district will also assume outstanding debt of $20,800 with the Texas Employment Commission.

The FHA debt had been outstanding for about eight years, according to hospital district administrator Jim Bone.

Bone said both the hospital board and the West Plains board worked diligently through the years to protect the interests of the community until a settlement could be reached.

Bone said the transaction should become official June 12. The hospital will borrow the money to pay off the debts, Bone said.

The district had leased the hospital property from West Plains since the district was created in 1989.

"A lot of people have worked long and hard to get this resolved," Bone said. "This is just another step that reflects the commitment of the community to provide health care facilities in the Muleshoe area."

Bone said the purchase will allow the hospital board to look to the future with greater certainty. West Plains Medical, Inc., was granted an FHA loan of $600,000 in 1976 for improvements and renovations.

The non-profit group leased the hospital to Westworld Healthcare Corp. in the 1980s. The private California company suddenly and unexpectedly closed the hospital after several years, leaving West Plains with debt and no way to repay it.

Stegall, Morris named MISD teachers of year

The Muleshoe Independent School District announced the 1997 Teachers of the Year Thursday at their general faculty meeting.

Shelli Stegall received Secondary Teacher of the Year, while Jan Morris received Elementary Teacher of the Year.

Both teachers were presented with a golden apple.

Stegall has five years of teaching experience, with the last three being spent as a math teacher at Watson Junior High School.

Stegall said one of her favorite things about teaching is the unpredictability of working with junior high students.

"You never know what to expect from day to day," Stegall said. "It's never boring."

Stegall and her husband Brad have two preschool children — Cassie and Colton.

Morris has 21 years of teaching experience, with the last 18 spent at Dillman. She is currently teaching first grade reading and working as a reading tutor.

For Morris, the rewards of teaching come from the opportunity to teach some of the youngest minds in Muleshoe.

"When the kids finally are successful, that is the most rewarding part of teaching,"

Morris said.

Morris is married to Keith Morris. They have two children, Kellie, age 15, and Barry, age 10.

Both Morris and Stegall will go on to compete in the regional Teacher of the Year competition. Regional winners will be selected later this sum

NUTRITION BRIEFS

No all fat is bad

HOUSTON — Believe it or not, some fat in your diet is good for you.

A dietitian at Baylor College of Medicine's DeBakey Heart Center in Houston says although fat has several important functions in the body, it's still important to make wise fat choices.

"Certain dietary fats are essential to good nutrition," said Lynne W. Scott, director of the Diet Modification Clinic at Baylor. "But the key is moderation."

Besides its health benefits, fat helps satisfy your appetite.

"People like that taste of fat," she said. "It also slows down the rate at which food leaves the stomach and produces a feeling of fullness after a meal."

Knowing what kind of fat to choose is important. Scott offers these tips on choosing low-fat, yet nutritious foods:

■ Read the food label and check for calorie and fat content. A low-fat food has three grams of fat or less per serving.

■ Choose lean types of meat like chicken breast without skin, fish, and the leanest cuts of beef and pork.

■ Prepare foods with little or no added fat. Cook with fresh herbs, spices, garlic, and onions.

Your are what you eat

HOUSTON — Your mother was right when she said, "you are what you eat."

What we eat plays an important role in reducing heart disease risk, controlling high blood pressure and diabetes, and preventing and treating obesity, say researchers in The DeBakey Heart Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Eating for good health does not require large doses of supplements. The key to healthy eating is a well-balanced diet that includes a variety of foods, said registered dietitian Suzanne Jaax of Baylor's Diet Modification Clinic.

"Vitamins and minerals derived from foods are much more beneficial than supplements, which can cause side effects," Jaax said.

Lazbuddie graduates 17 seniors Thursday

By SAMUEL VILLARREAL
Journal staff writer

Seventeen Lazbuddie High School seniors came to the end of a long journey Friday as LHS held its 1997 graduation ceremonies.

With a puff of breath, each LHS senior blew out a candle to signify the end of their time as a student of the Lazbuddie schools.

When all the candles were extinguished and the seniors had left the stage of the LHS auditorium, one large candle remained lit as symbolic beacon as they begin their journey through adulthood.

The 17 LHS seniors also gave special recognition to their parents for being a beacon in their lives, presenting them with callalilies, their class flower.

As parents exchanged many hugs, smiles and tears with their children, a slide show displayed each LHS senior's journey through childhood.

In her valedictorian speech, Shana Foster told her fellow graduates not to live their lives always wishing they could change their past mistakes. Instead, they should learn from their mistakes to make their futures better.

Salutatorian Blake Mimms also spoke of the future, quoting Robert Frost as he encouraged the LHS graduates to always "take the road less traveled."

Nathan Crawford, minister of the Lazbuddie Church of Christ, presented a spiritual address for the LHS graduates in which he reminded the graduates to remain optimistic and to keep their heads high.

"The difference between an optimist and a pessimist is the optimist has courage," Crawford told the graduates.

LHS counselor Gwen Warren presented many scholarships during the graduation ceremonies.

According to Warren, the 17 graduates have received more than $80,000 in scholarships, with more expected this summer.

NEW SPIELBERG MOVIE HAS MORE BITE

By SAMUEL VILLARREAL
Journal staff writer

It's definitely not a kids movie.

The dinosaurs of Steven Spielberg's "The Lost World: Jurassic Park," hit the big screen last Friday, stomping and chomping their way to an estimated $85.7 million in Memorial weekend earnings.

While I stood in line for tickets I remembered the arguments that arose when Jurassic Park hit theaters several years ago. Some people believed the movie was much too violent for younger viewers.

I don't think any argument will be needed this time.

Children definitely should not be allowed to see this movie.

Unlike its predecessor, "The Lost World" has given up an actual plot in exchange for violence and action.

The raptors and tyrannosaurus rexes return for the sequel, and they haven't lost their appetites.

I don't recall the scientist being quite so crunchy in the first movie. Maybe Nestle Crunch is the movie's new corporate sponsor.

Whatever the case, the audio effect kept the audience in chills. I found myself grimacing with every chew. And the dinosaurs sure do chew their food thoroughly.

The added violence isn't the only change for the sequel.

The second dino-flick has more humor than Jurassic Park. One-liners flew through the air almost as fast as the raptors pouncing on their latest victim.

Jeff Goldblum is the only cast member to return for a significant role in the sequel, reprising his role as the pessimistic "chaotic" Dr. Ian Malcolm.

Malcolm, a mathematician who believes nature always lends itself to chaos, was the scientist who predicted the tragedy at Jurassic Park.

Malcolm pursues his girlfriend, biologist Sarah Harding, when she travels to the one of the dinosaur-infested islands. My personal favorite dinosaur, the stegosaurus, finally makes its appearance on the big screen.

In fact, the movie had barely begun before the stegosaurus is attempting to impale the newly arrived scientist on his tail.

If you've read the book, as I have, you're in for a lot of surprises. So many details are changed it was almost a whole new story.

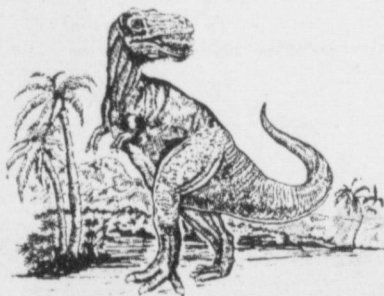

For instance, I don't remember the part of the book where the large and hungry tyrannosaurus runs amok in San Diego.

The people of San Diego were slow runners, and once Rex got loose, well....

"The Lost World: Jurassic is definitely not a kids movie.

I would have to recommend Michael Crichton's original book.

Popcorn is optional.

Bugs Bunny gets stamp of approval

By LESLI RADFORD
Journal staff writer

Bugs Bunny has left his stamp on the funny bone of millions of children.

Now the Post Office is honoring the floppy-eared Saturday morning cartoon character with his likeness on its newest promotional stamp.

On the stamp, Bugs Bunny is depicted leaning against a mail box munching on a carrot.

The collector's stamp was put on sale nationwide last Friday.

"Some people come in here and joke 'Loony Toons, loony clerks'," said Kenneth Wilhite, a window clerk at the Muleshoe Post Office.

Most customers were requesting the colorful stamp for graduation or wedding invitations.

They've been a popular item among local collectors.

"I think it's great," said Wayne Peterson, who bought 10 sheets. "Bugs Bunny deserves his own stamp."

Bugs Bunny is the only cartoon character to be seen on a stamp and is the beginning of an entire line of Loony Toon character stamps.

TWINS TOP CLASS OF '97

Megan Harlan gives salutatorian address

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Stacy and Megan Harlan are twin peaks on the academic success scale.

The Muleshoe High School seniors and fraternal twins graduated at the top of their Thursday during commencement exercises at the Bailey County Coliseum.

Stacy is the class of 1997 valedictorian with a 4.6 grade point average. Megan was right behind with a 4.56 GPA, sharing salutatorian honors with Mark McGuire.

The sisters are humble about their success.

"We've never not tried at anything," said Megan, who is 15 minutes older than Stacy. "Mostly, we just want to succeed in life. And for that, you need to have a good education. It was always our mom's dream for us to be valedictorian and salutatorian."

Jean Harlan said her daughters have always like to read and had a desire to learn.

"We wanted them to succeed," Mrs. Harlan said. "But we never made it a competition between them."

The 17-year-olds have as many differences as similarities.

Megan has blond hair and hazel eyes. Stacy brown hair and eyes.

Megan is outgoing. Stacy reserved. Megan is emotional. Stacy analytical.

Megan was a cheerleader and ran track. Stacy took journalism and helped out with the year book.

The teens have also chosen different career paths.

Stacy will attend Wayland

Baptist University in Plainview and plans to major in secondary education. Megan chose West Texas A&M in Canyon and wants to become dentist or orthodontist.

Megan and Stacy asserted their individuality at an early age, their mother said.

"I guess from day one they acted differently and had different interests," Mrs. Harlan said. "I tried to dress them alike. But that didn't work."

Stacy remembers being dressed identically to her sister for the first day of kindergarten.

"That was the last time we ever did," she said.

The sisters said they've never really been competitive and are closer now than they ever have been.

Stacy Harlan

"We've always kind of help each other out," Stacy said. "This year, we started doing more things together."

They've had their share of sister scraps over the years, "but we always protect and take up for each other," Megan said.

Loose Cow Party

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

"It's for you," his darlin' told him as he lay back in the chair
For a well deserved siesta. Ugh, it wasn't really fair.
It was Chuck, his nearest neighbor - did he have to call right now?
Millard listened for a moment, "Are you sure that it's my cow?"

As if he'd changed his brand last week or something equally absurd
Like the F.B.I. was posing as a member of his herd
Or an alien invasion took possession of his place
And planned to infiltrate the earth as clones from outer space.

But no easy explanation seemed to ease his heavy load
Chuck said, "Better come and get her, she's a' grazin' on the road."
Saddled up, he hit the highway and broke into a jog
With his wife not far behind him in the pickup with the dog.

He could spot the cow's location from within a half a mile
Cars were backed up to the corner, everybody wore a smile.
Helpful tourists waved and hollered, horsemen galloped to and fro
Swingin' ropes like polo players, someone takin' video.

Millard rode into the melee as the cow went up the lane.
She trompled through the clothesline draggin' laundry like a train

Through the hogwire in the garden, through the hotwire to the corn,
'Cross the rows with corn stalks flyin', laundry hangin' off her horn.

There were fifteen mounted riders rattlin' through the stubble field,
Millard got a rope around her but he knew his fate was sealed
When he felt his dally grabbin' and the saddle slip an inch . . .
He remembered he'd forgotten to retighten up his cinch.

He was still there in the saddle but it now sat on the neck.
We should pause and take refectation while we visualize the wreck. (Pause)
Millard watched from his position in the furrow that he'd plowed
While the cow crashed through the hotwire, disappearin, in the crowd.

There the band of merry revelers in gesture grandiose
Lashed up the draggin' rope somehow, around a solid post.
The crowd began to dissipate. It was over, they could sense
Leavin' millard to apologize to Chuck about his fence.

Chuck was gracious. Millard thanked him for his helpfulness and such
But it seemed like Chuck enjoyed it . . . just a little bit too much.
But he couldn't be offended. When a loose cow wreck occurs.
It's a miserable fiasco, less of course, it isn't yers!

The Spirit of God Points to Life in the Son

Writing in a recent issue of Leadership journal, Thomas Lindberg tells a story from Gordon Brownville's Symbols of the Holy Spirit. The anecdote centers on the famous Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen who was the first man to discover the magnetic meridian of the North Pole and, in 1911, the first man to reach

He was gone, but the disciples clung to his promise to send them the Holy Spirit. What joy, then, when the dove-like Holy Spirit [this time in the form of tongues of fire] descended at Pentecost. The disciples had with them the continual reminder that Jesus was alive and victorious at the right hand of the Father."

the South Pole.

Lindberg writes that on his journey to the North Pole, Amundsen carried with him a homing pigeon. When he finally reached his destination, he opened the cage and released the pigeon.

From the top of the world that bird flew all the way to Amundsen's home in Norway. You can imagine how delighted Amundsen's wife must have been when "she looked up and saw the pigeon circling in the sky above." The very presence of that feathery messenger told her that her beloved husband was still alive!

"So it was," Lindberg writes, "when Jesus ascended.

Amundsen's triumph was impressive, but it pales beside the victory won by Jesus Christ as he surmounted a cross, a tomb, and the forces of hell to ascend victoriously to his Father's right hand! That very special Winged Messenger, the Holy Spirit of God, is the abiding proof that he is indeed alive and that through faith we can become partakers of that life.

"We talk about being fragile creatures," Bible professor Mark Berrier comments, "but do you realize that after the sun and the stars have all gone out, God's people will still be alive? The life of God is like a song that goes on and on. Even when they kill it, in three days the strains begin again."

The Spirit is both the power and the proof of Christ's resurrection and of the new life that comes through him.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

MELCHIZEDEK -- MAN OF MYSTERY!

IF EVER THERE WAS A MYSTERY TO BE PUZZLED IN THE BIBLE, IT WOULD HAVE TO BE THE PRIEST-KING, MELCHIZEDEK, THE KING OF SALEM. IN THE ONE MEETING ABRAHAM HAD WITH MELCHIZEDEK, HE IMMEDIATELY RECOGNIZED HIM AS SUPERIOR TO HIMSELF IN THE EYES OF GOD! MELCHIZEDEK BROUGHT TO ABRAHAM BREAD AND WINE, AND BLESSED HIM, THROUGHOUT THE SCRIPTURES HE IS REFERRED TO AS THE HIGH PRIEST OF GOD, COMING NOT FROM A FATHER OR A MOTHER, HAVING NO END TO HIS LIFE AND NO BEGINNING. STUDENTS AND AUTHORITIES ON THE BIBLE HAVE SPECULATED ENDLESSLY ON THIS PRIEST-KING; SOME HAVE ARGUED THAT HE WAS A SURVIVOR OF THE FLOOD, THE PATRIARCH SHEM, OTHERS THAT HE WAS AN ANGEL OF GOD—ONE JEWISH TRADITION IS THAT HE WAS THE MESSIAH; SOME SAY THAT SALEM, WHERE HE RULED, LATER BECAME JERUSALEM—BUT ONE THING IS CERTAIN, WHOMEVER MELCHIZEDEK WAS, HE CERTAINLY AROUSED THE CURIOSITY OF SCHOLARS DOWN THROUGH THE AGES!
