THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1954

NUMBER 16

THREE MEN BUY SHELL STATION BUILDINGS, LAND

In a deal closed Monday Phillips Petroleum sold the four houses and auxiliary buildings of their old Shell station.

Three men pooled resources to make the successful bid—H. A. Belk, Arthur Mund, and another from Sonora.

Belk, who owns a half section of land not far from the station, will move a house and another building or two to his own place, on which he has already made other improvements. The family, who have been living in a farm house on leased land, will eventually move to their own place.

Two houses were bought by a Sonora resident.

Mund bought the 30 acres of land, a house, the brick pump station and auxiliary buildings, including well and water system. It is his plan to sell this place.

The houses have 37x38 feet of floor space.

The station has been idle and the houses unoccupied since opening of the new Eldorado Station a year ago.

County Commissioner Jack Halbert doesn't mind sticking his neck out in an election year . . . Sez he, Monday morning, "It will rain again this week—by Friday morning for sure."

That could lose or make a man a hundred votes—just like that!

The City has made arrangements with Lonnie Easley to haul the city trash on a contract basis.

And now discarded cultivators are furnishing seats for rustic chairs! As nearly as we can find out this new trend just showed up in the county, to provide the very newest in home and back yard furnishings!

We happened on to the fad quite by chance when we drifted in to Vernon Carroll's Welding Shop (—we'd previously run across original things in that shop—like the rustic ranch gates we was building for a Christmas gift late last year.)

He had on hand orders for 16 chairs, eight chairs each to two different customers. Others have been asking about them too.

Old cultivator seats are removed from the implement and are then equipped with legs and backs, all welded together to make most durable, but far from fancy, chairs. As all of the cultivator seats are different, the chairs can't be all alike, naturally, but Carroll is doing his best to make the completed chairs similar in appearance. Coats of enamel—one customer says hers will be black—complete the pieces.

One of the sets may be equipped with rubber tips on the legs, and used for dining chairs, we understand, but most of the inquiries, the Carrolls say, have come from folks who intend to use theirs for barbecue, patio, or other outdoor areas. From the looks of the chairs, they will stand any kind of weather or usage.

(Someone WOULD say it so we quote: "Looks like the farmers have quit working and gone to sitting down!")

A lot of people put a lot of thought and work on new Easter clothes—mainly, of course for the children. Never have styles for the children been so cute—with little boys' wear running to tailored clothes of good quality material, and the little girls' to frilly organ-dies, etc., with rows and rows of ruffles and lace, and sassy hats.

Nearly everyone went to church somewhere last Sunday: In Eldorado they had their choice of these churches: Presbyterian, Methodist, First Baptist, Baptist Mission, Mexican Baptist Mission, Negro Baptist, Fundamental Baptist, Calvary Baptist, Primitive Baptist, Congregational Methodist, West Side Church of Christ, Rock Church of Christ, Catholic,—have we forgotten any?

All churches with services scheduled Sunday report good crowds, with many visitors in evidence.

DISTRICT COURT

In the case of Dan Collins vs Paul D. Haley, which occupied the attention of court for two days, the judge did not prepare judgment. Several other damage cases were settled out of court.

A mistrial was granted by Judge Joe L. Mays Wednesday afternoon in the theft trial of Sam Kapavik because of jury separation.

Jerry Shugart, age seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shugart, is in a San Angelo hospital as the result of a neighborhood accident, in which he was shot above the right eye with a bow and arrow. He seemed to be doing well until Tuesday night when he was taken to a San Angelo hospital when the wound suddenly became very painful.

Out of town visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Faulk were their daughters and families, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Faught and Dianne of Hobbs, N. Mex., and Mr and Mrs. Elmer Stires of Wichita Falls. Mrs. Stires took her little sister Barbara home with her for a visit of two or three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hunnicut and daughter Mary and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Ball of San Angelo spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sproul.

The Military

Edwin Martin Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jackson, was at home from the naval base at Corpus Christi for the Easter weekend.

Albert Ray Thigpen and Bill Lewis Humphrey took their physicals for service Wednesday.

NEW NORTH CONCHO LAKE — New water recreation center of West Texas, with its fishing curtain raiser scheduled May 1, is the North Concho Lake, pictured in this aerial view. The lake covers an area approximately that of the city of San Angelo of a decade ago. With undesirable fish killed out and proper ratios of bass, catfish and crappie stocked, the lake is expected to be a fishing paradise for many years. Stretching diagonally across the picture is the seven-mile-long San Angelo Dam, one of the longest earth-filled dams in the world.

First Baptist News

The Easter cantata "The Matchless Morn" presented by the choir Sunday morning was an inspiration to everyone who had the privilege to hear it. We want to express our appreciation to those who put in many hours of preparation for it. The pastor would like to take this means of thanking Director Meckel and the members of the choir for the performance. It was truly a worship service.

The early morning breakfast at the church is really an eye opener. The young people get to see how their friends really look and what kind of humor they really have early in the morning. It might be very revealing. Even though it is early it is lots of fun and every young person should not miss the experience. Bro. McIlveene is bringing some wonderful messages from God's Word. As always the singing is fine. Come and see if all we say about it is true.

The theme of our revival is "The World In His Hand." We think that the hand holding the world that we have across the front of the auditorium is very appropriate. When we really stop and think about it, the world really is in God's hand.

The parsonage is nearing completion. The pastor has never enjoyed moving, but moving into a beautiful home like this will take away most of the boredom of the task. It should be a joy for anyone to live in such a beautiful home. Needless to say, for we have already said so, we are proud of it.

We would like to call your attention to the starting times of our services. Sunday evening Training Union begins at seven o'clock. The preaching at eight o'clock. The First Baptist Mission will start their Sunday evening services at 7:30. Everyone is invited to come.

Sunday school attendance last Sunday:

First Baptist 223
 First Mission 39
 Mexican Mission 55

Go to church somewhere next Sunday. You need the church more than the church needs you.

BOB ROBERTS — MANAGER

ATOMIC AND HYDROGEN WEAPONS NOW UNDER GENERAL MANAGEMENT OF MAJOR GENERAL A. R. LUEDECKE

Recent reports reveal the fact that Air Force Major General Alvin R. Luedeck, age 43, of Eldorado, is in charge of the converting the power of atomic and hydrogen weapons into military striking power. He is now chief of the Defense Department's Armed Forces Special Weapons Project.

Into the hands of the AFSWP are dumped hundreds of problems by army, navy and air force, and its job is to keep the country ahead in atomic weapons knowledge and technology.

The Atomic Age which started with the ending of World War II has revolutionized modern warfare, which meant training of officers and men in handling of the new atomic bomb and the new atomic cannon and in learning how to survive in doing so. Out of this need was created the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project January 1, 1947.

General Luedeck was graduated from Texas A&M in 1932. He now directs an organization with about 10,000 military and civilian personnel on the payroll. He has deputies representing the army and navy, and headquarters are in the Pentagon.

The young Air Force general was first commissioned in the Field Artillery after his graduation from A&M and received his wings at Kelly Field in 1934. In June, 1949, he became first involved with the atom when he was named executive secretary to the military liaison committee by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Responsibilities of the AFSWP include providing information to the services and the Federal Civil Defense Administration, determining atomic tests and costs, and orienting key men in technical aspects of atomic warfare.

MAKING YOUR RAIN COUNT

Many ranchers are doing it by pitting their range. All who have tried pitting are convinced it will do the job. It is a very practical and economical method of getting the moisture into the soil. Any rancher with mesquite flats that are producing nothing but weeds or other areas devoid of grass cover should try it. All ranchmen have likely noticed how small depressions in the soil will hold its moisture longer and produce a heavier turf of grass. If you went out and dug down beneath one of these shallow depressions, you would find that its moisture extended three or even four times as deep as on a level or slightly sloping area perhaps only a few feet away. This would be proof to you that pitting aids in getting that vital rain into the soil where it counts. If grass seed is planed with the pitting it will have a much better chance of surviving and making good growth if it has this reservoir of moisture beneath it. It is your insurance for a grass crop.

Many ranchers are getting ready to pit and some have already done so. All agree that it certainly assists in taking care of the rainfall.

Howard Derrick, who ranches 23 miles east of Eldorado, pitted several hundred acres of his flats the first part of March. On April 8th, he received 2 1/2 inches of rainfall. He states that during the rain all of the pits were standing full of water and continued to have water in them for some time afterward. A check of moisture penetration on pitted and non-pitted land the day following the rain showed clearly what pitting does with the rain-drop.

On mesquite flats with little or no grass and slight or no slope the 2 1/2 inches of rain only penetrated to a depth of 5 inches. That isn't very much when you consider that an inch of rain, if held, will penetrate a good six inches. In other words this soil lost two-thirds of the rain that fell on it.

Let's compare that to the moisture penetration beneath and along side rows of pits on much steeper land than the non-pitted areas. Digging directly beneath the pit, moisture was consistently found to average around 24 inches deep. Between these pitted rows it was 18 inches which indicated that the rain going into these pits spread out below the ground making the wetted area much larger than the pit. It was only necessary to dig a few feet above or below a pitted area to find more clearly the differences between non-pitted and pitted land. Here the soil was wetted only 4 inches deep. In other words the pits were holding up and absorbing water which was running off of adjacent areas. They were doing the job of holding that rainfall and giving it a chance to soak in, thereby providing a storage of moisture to give that grass seed a chance to grow and stretch that little rainfall over a longer period of time.

So They Stopped Baiting Each Other

If you want to hear a real hassle, listen to Cob James and Whitey Baker on trout fishing sometime. You'd think it was more important than anything.

Cob favors dry flies. Whitey pooh-poohs anything but wet flies. Cob swears by a Fan-Wing Royal Coachman; Whitey won't hear of anything but Silver Doctor. And so it goes—they can't even get together on steel rods versus bamboo rods.

But on Saturday, each got back from Fox Creek with a catch that couldn't have differed by more than a couple of ounces! Then over a friendly glass of beer, they allowed as how maybe they were both right . . . which is how so many arguments should end.

From where I sit, life would be a whole lot pleasanter if we all respected one another's opinions—whether about trout flies, or having a glass of beer, or voting. After all, a person has a right to follow his own line of thinking.
