Pierce Uzzel To Meet With Ranchers, Others, Here Tuesday Night

PIERCE UZZEL

Mr. Pierce Uzzel, wildlife supervisor and biologist of Area I, will be speaker for the wildlife committee at the court house on Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m. to discuss regulatory game authority as it would effect Schleicher county and the individual under such a program. Mr. Uzzel is in charge of all federal aid projects in Area I, including the Black Gap area. He also spends much time with game restoration areas, helping producers gage progress made under such programs.

There are 660,000 acres in the county which will support wildlife such as deer and turkey, providing an annual revenue of $330,000 if properly managed. The overall revenue per buck killed could be $120 per animal to business and the rancher. We as a county are shorted some $250,000 a year. Quite a sum in a cost-squeeze period that knows no favorites either business or agriculture.

You are cordially invited and urged to be present, and take part in a program that has such a significance on the financial structure of the county. December 12, court house, court room, at 7:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Faught who recently sold their Bailey Ranch farm, have bought a home in the Keeney addition from Mrs. Joe Edens. James Williams Real Estate handled the deal.

Home Demonstration Agent's Column
By MRS. VIDA KREKLOW

From now until Christmas you will be taking a test. A test, stated in the simplest terms, which will class you as a good manager or a poor manager. You have taken this test before and I'm sure have passed it with flying colors—but the situation may have changed along the way.

In order to pass, your best tool to work with will be a list. A list is good because it requires thinking and selecting. Write down all the things which you think have to be done. Make another list of the things which you would like to do. Look at them again—hard. Then cut a few things out. After all, you just have so much strength. Keep in mind that most families would much rather have more smiles and fewer cookies. We deny the reason behind Christmas when we knowingly allow ourselves to be placed in a position which is impossible, untenable and unnecessary.

Try to remember back to last year. What took the longest, what caused the most trouble about Christmas? Work on the trouble spots. Did you spend too much money. Lower your sights; no one yet has brought happiness on Christmas morning wrapped in the box of debt. Did you promise to do too much. Don't let your generous spirit get you too deeply involved this year. You may be capable, you may be generous and strong, but each has his own limitations.

Above all—don't panic! The easier you take things the easier they will go.

Follow these signs—they are pointing in the right direction for easier working days ahead.

Use your freezer—when you cook ahead you usually don't eat behind time.

The Pennsylvania Dutch have 7 sweets and 7 sour on their Christmas table—but we are NOT Pennsylvania Dutch.

It isn't the Christmas day foods which really take time and energy, it's those three meals a day which have to be cooked.

Cook and freeze now:
Baked rolls and breads.
Cakes with butter frostings.
Cookies, unbaked pie shells, salads containing a large amount of mayonnaise or whipped creams.

Mashed sweet potatoes freeze well—so does rice if the grains have first been stirred with melted butter before covering with liquid and cooked.

Make basic bread biscuit and pie crust mix. They are cheaper than prepared ones—you've got to pay somebody to do the work for you. Call 22592 for recipes.

Spaghetti sauce, chili, casseroles and meat loaves freeze well and answer the big question of "What will I have for supper tonight?" Double or triple the recipe; it cuts down on the clean up time when you do cook.

Plan your menus. I mean on paper—save your feet and plan ahead.

Try This Easy to Make Praline
1 package butterscotch pudding
1 cup white sugar
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup evaporated milk
1 tablespoon butter or oleo
1 cup pecans.

Combine all ingredients and cook slowly until dissolved. Add pecans and boil slowly until candy reaches soft ball stage, 235 F.

Remove from heat and beat until mixture thickens. Drop by teaspoonfuls on waxed paper.

Makes 30 two-inch patties. Store in covered container in a cool place.

Make your plans now to have a MERRY CHRISTMAS, because Christmas is not a date; it's a state of mind.

Are We Damned?

There is a story that came out of Belgium some years ago about an artist who was engaged to brighten up and repair the lovely art work in a famous church which had been allowed to fall into disrepair. When the artist completed his work, he sent the church people a bill for $67.30. This seemed a little steep, so he was asked to itemize the charges. This he did, and among the items were the following:

"For correcting the Ten Commandments, $5.12; for renewing Heaven and adjusting the stars, $7.14; for touching up Purgatory and restoring lost souls, $3.03; for brightening up the flames of Hell, and doing odd jobs for the damned, $7.17."

One's first reaction might well be that these are very moderate charges for work of such celestial magnitude and importance.

The story comes to mind, however, because there are those around us who believe the world is in such a state that about all we can do now is a few "odd jobs for the damned." It is obvious that we cannot get ahead with the tasks before us if we begin with this frame of mind. Only those with a deep conviction about God and His purpose, and with a long perspective concerning man's destiny, will have the patience and determination to meet the discouraging and continuing crises of these days.

One of the great chapters in the Bible is I Corinthians 15. Toward the close of his eloquent explanation of our heritage of eternal life, St. Paul gives thanks to God for the victory He has given us over every enemy, including death. And then he concludes: "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

Here is God's answer to the faint and weak-hearted! Even when we cannot see clearly the possibility of our own success, we are called to be steadfast and unmovable. We live in the faith that all things are possible with God. We can live at our best, and give of our best, in the quiet confidence that labor for Him is never in vain.

HOTTEST NOVEMBER IN FORD HISTORY!

And here's what started the heat wave!

Last month more Americans bought Fords than in any November in history. The blazing success of the long Ford line was end-to-end, all across the country and up and down it, too. Everywhere the people flocked to their Ford Dealers and bought smart new Falcons, and the new Falcon Squire, the glittering swift Galaxies, the famous Ford Station Wagons and the hot Thunderbirds. And they poured in to see and buy up the brand-new Fairlanes just introduced. There are four magic reasons—why behind the smashing success of the long Ford line for 1962. First of all is utterly modern styling, the fresh crisp lines that are now being so widely copied by other car-makers, the smart look that dominates the industry. Second is absolute power in eleven kinds of engines, giving you anything you could want in engine options. Third is total economy—every Ford model is priced directly at your pocketbook, and every Ford, large, medium or small, gives you gasoline mileage outstanding in its class. Fourth is the service-saving concept—every Ford car is built to cut down maintenance worries and problems, with service-saving features other cars may have some day. Ford leadership from Falcons to Thunderbirds is founded on trend-setting innovations... The hot ideas come from Ford. And at the heart of Ford success is an almost revolutionary new concept of quality... most serious and direct concern with the actual part-by-part quality. For the hot trends in the hot cars, for a new experience in quality, and for the best buys on the American Road, see your Ford Dealer.

PRODUCTS OF Ford MOTOR COMPANY

NOW THERE ARE FOUR CLASSES OF CARS

...AND ONLY FORD HAS ALL FOUR!

COMPACT CLASS:

FORD FALCON

This class includes cars with 106- to 114-inch wheelbase. Most popular by far (a million happy owners!) is the Ford Falcon. Falcon is America's lowest-priced* 6-passenger car, set a 25-year record for Sixes or Eights in last spring's Mobilgas Economy Run, gives you a choice of 13 models, including the Futura and new Falcon Squire wagon.

FAIRLANE CLASS:

FORD FAIRLANE

The Ford Fairlane is the first member of a new class which combines the advantages of both compact and big cars... you get big car room, ride and performance... compact savings and maneuverability. Priced below many compacts, Fairlane even rivals some in gas economy. Has twice-a-year maintenance introduced by the Galaxie.

FULL-SIZE CLASS:

GALAXIE BY FORD

The class for families who want big car comfort, performance and prestige. Value leader is the Ford Galaxie—which has every essential feature of far costlier fine cars. With the optional Thunderbird 390 V-8 engine, a Galaxie will outperform America's most expensive luxury cars. Requires servicing only twice a year, or every 6,000 miles.

LUXURY CLASS:

FORD THUNDERBIRD

The top class—cars for people who want the very finest. First of the trim-size luxury cars, the 4-passenger Thunderbird is the most distinctive car in this class. Its styling set the trend for an entire generation of cars and now finds a new elegance in the Landau. And Thunderbird's performance is just this side of flight.

'THUNDER OF DRUMS' AND 'PARRISH' ARE HIGHLIGHTS OF WEEK'S MOVIE OFFERINGS

A western in color which is expected to join "One-Eyed Jacks" as one of the year's top two in that field, and a movie set in the tobacco-growing Connecticut River country are the top offerings this week at Eagle Drive-In Theatre.

'A Thunder Of Drums'

Showing tonight and tomorrow night at the Eagle, "A Thunder of Drums" has Richard Boone and George Hamilton in the leading parts.

Boone is a grizzled, bearded, crag-faced frontier cavalry post commander.

"Bachelors make the best officers," he roars at young Lt. George Hamilton. "When they die, all they lose is their loneliness."

Boone runs a taut post. His new lieutenant is a wet-behind-the-ears general's son, who is making three-day passes at Luana Patten, already betrothed to another officer on the post. Boone, in his first starring role, steps on Hamilton hard in a clash that is a delight to watch.

Boone projects a lot of humanity with a minimum of affectation to make the Technicolor "Thunder" a thunderous man's picture. It's interesting to note that a new crop of enlisted men seems to be firmly entrenched now in the supporting saddles. Outstanding are Arthur O'Connell, Charles Bronson and Slim (One-Eyed Jacks) Pickens.

Each western nowadays must include one young rock 'n' roller in a dramatic role. The one in "Thunder" is Duane Eddy.

'Parrish'

Showing Sunday and Monday nights will be Warner Brothers' "Parrish" with Troy Donahue in the title role.

Donahue, with yellow hair and blue eyes and a troubled sullen expression, gives impression that Warner's is trying to push him into the role of a second James Dean. He really does little except attack the tobacco bugs and be involved in affairs with the valley's girls.

Heading the phalanx is Connie Stevens, who plays a pretty field hand.

Troy is next pursued on a tonier level, by the debutante daughter of a gentleman farmer, Sala Post, who "lost her conscience a long time ago." She is played by a girl who seems to have neither conscience or acting range named Diane McBain. Troy then escapes women under the North Pole as part of the crew of the Nautilus.

When he returns home, somebody remarks with hardly sensational originality, "You went away a boy and came back a man."

He replies, "I became a man one night under the North Pole."

They start after him again and this time he is captured by Sharon Huguely, a dynamically marriageable type, whose age is given as 16.

There is a leaven of histrionic experience. Claudette Colbert, now 56, is coaxed before the camera again after five years on the stage. She plays Troy's mother, a widow who snares the richest tabacconist of them all, with her resonant voice and a face and figure that gives the young flilies a run for their money as well as Judd Raike's. This lout is enacted with loud heavy villainy by Karl Malden.

Method actor Malden is wall-shattering in this role. Donahue, in the title role, does all right by himself wooing Misses McBain, Stevens and Huguely, although required to engage in dialog that includes "Am I a cheap tramp because I went ape over you?" or "As Eve said to Adam, 'you want a bite of my apple?'"

METTIE FAE DAVIS MARRIES MR. CONNER IN AUSTIN CHURCH RITES ON NOV. 4TH

MRS. CLIFFORD JAMES CONNER

Miss Mettie Fae Davis and Clifford James Conner exchanged wedding vows in Terrytown Methodist Chapel in Austin on November 4, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. James Stone of Austin officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. J. W. Davis, Sr., of Austin and the late Mr. Davis. Mrs. Davis is a former resident of Eldorado. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cerami of Groves, Texas. Mr. O. E. Conner is grandparent.

Given in marriage by her brother, James W. Davis, Jr., the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin designed with a sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. The bride wore a pearl necklace. The veil of silk illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls and cut crystal beads. She wore gloves and carried a white pearl prayer book adorned with red roses encircled by white carnations and streamers.

The maid of honor was Miss May Runge of Eldorado. She wore a royal blue velveteen sheath fashioned with scoop neckline, three-quarter length sleeves, and flared hemline trimmed with seed pearls. She wore a pearl necklace and carried a crescent of white carnations.

was ringbearer. A reception was held in the church social hall immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was laid with white linen table cloth and centered with an arrangement of white carnations. The tiered wedding cake was topped with aqua and white sugar-spun roses.

In charge of the bride's book was Mrs. James W. Davis, Jr., sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Adolph Matocha served the cake and Mrs. Otis Budd, sister of bride, served punch.

Hostess this week was Maureen McCravey and for next week is Susan Mobley. Motion for adjournment was made by Maureen. —Libby Preston, rep.

NEW CHEVY II

Never before such a team of totally new cars! Sedans, hardtop, station wagons, even a convertible . . . you name it, Chevy II has it. Nine models in all now in production. They're easy on the eyes, easy on the road and easy on your pocketbook. Two spunky engines, a four and a six (your choice in most models), purr along merrily on regular gas—and darn little of it, too. Thanks to Mono-

Plate rear springs, the ride reminds you of the big Chevrolet—and you know how smooth that is. The space and cushy comfort inside put you in mind of big cars, too. # Pearl Harbor Attack 20 Years Ago Today Recalls Events In Eldorado at That Time

Twenty years ago today... Sunday, December 7, 1941. The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor launched World War II, and it came as such a shock to the people of the United States that even today those old enough can remember exactly what they were doing when the news came.

Few events thus far in the 60 years of the 20th Century have had such far reaching and lasting effects. It slammed the door forever on the Great Depression and started a gradual and slowly-growing inflation that has continued to this day. It brought the War close to everyone as young men went into service, rationing was started, and scarcities of goods developed.

Success files of the year '41 reveal that it was an interim period of throwing off the Depression doldrums and a time of buildup in this country, under way since the War started in Europe in 1939.

Dozier T. Yates was Schleicher County's first man to be drafted into service under the peace-time Selective Service act of 1940. He was in the state of Washington awaiting discharge at the time of Pearl Harbor. He and all others in uniform were frozen into service for "the duration and six months."

Cars had floorboard shifts, door pockets and running boards and you could buy a new Chevrolet for $880. Here in Eldorado, Jones Motor Co. was advertising the Oldsmobile B-44.

On December 1st, Jack Shugart had leased the Eldorado Success from A. T. Wright, and Phil Bingham moved here from Dublin to help run it.

Regular subscription rates for the San Angelo Standard-Times were $9.00 a year, reduced to $5.95 for the Christmas season. The Eldorado Success cost $1.00 in the county and $1.50 out.

News of men in the services during the period just preceding Pearl Harbor included the following:

Pancho Bradley was at Portland, Oregon.

David E. DeLong was a cadet at the U. S. Naval Air Station at Jacksonville, Florida.

Ellis Glenn Parker enlisted in the Regular Army and was in Air Corps training at Dodd Field, San Antonio.

John Thomas Ballew was at Kelly Field.

Alvis R. "Bus" Enochs was promoted to squad leader at Camp Wolters near Mineral Wells.

Hollis McCormick was stationed at Fort Warren, Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Granville Kerr was in the Air Corps.

Morris Whitten visited his parents, the W. T. Whittens, from Camp Bowie.

Capt. and Mrs. Robert F. Frost of San Francisco visited here and were honored with a bridge party given by Mrs. Lewis Whitten and Mrs. R. L. Ballew.

In those pre-TV days, Radio was king. This was when the warning of "Ah, ah, ah, don't touch that dial" announced "Blondie," and Tuesday nights meant "Fibber McGee & Molly," "Bob Hope," and "Red Skelton" in that order. Joan Edwards sang on "Your Hit Parade" every Saturday night.

Delbert K. Harter, world traveler, gave a lecture at the school.

Billy Oglesby was honored with a Mexican supper on his 17th birthday. Attending were Dwight Wiedenmann, Luke Thompson Jr., Jack and Jean Neill, Sarah Hill, Elizabeth Graves, Betty Jo Bryant, Frances Thompson, Rachel Ford, and Pauline Jones. School started in the fall with DOUG YATES TODAY is shown in the City Cleaners here in Eldorado, of which he is co-owner and operator. Mr. Yates was the first man from Schleicher county drafted into service the year before World War II was started with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Dave Williamson as superintendent.

The Rev. and Mrs. Noel P. Wilkinson moved to Fort Stockton after he served as pastor of the Presbyterian church here.

Wallis Cozzens was attending Texas Tech as a pre-med student.

It was the year that the Senior class presented their play, "Who Did It?" and netted $70. The between-act program was presented by Katherine Davis, Danell Baker, Pauline McLaughlin, and Jean Sproul, and included a clarinet solo by John L. Carrico.

Miss Joy Sample was crowned the 1941 Band Queen.

Mrs. E. H. Coulter entertained the Pollyanna 42 club.

Joe Galbraith of Del Rio, field scout executive of the Boy Scouts, arrived to help organize a Cub Scout pack, and Buster Gunn was the first Cubmaster.

When the Methodist Conference met, Rev. F. B. Faust was named to serve the Eldorado church, succeeding M. V. Williams.

High school students rode bicycles or walked to school and gasoline actually had to be pumped at service stations. You could buy a plate lunch for 35c at most cafes.

Ernest C. Hill, charter member of the Eldorado Lions club, was urged in 1941 to run for District Governor. Early that year, the local club had sponsored the Grand Opening of the West Texas Woolen Mill, with big barbecue and blanket auction.

John Alexander accepted a position as bookkeeper in the First National Bank of Eldorado.

L. A. Woods, state superintendent of education, notified school superintendents over the state that Texas was officially adopting a 12-grade system, but that it would not take full effect for 11 years.

The Rev. J. M. Hays arrived to be pastor of the First Baptist church, succeeding W. D. Kirkpatrick who went into military service.

Weddings reported in the Success during the latter months of 1941 included: Thalia Luedicke and John Mayo, Josephine Parrent and Mack Harris Woodward, Pat Talbot and Lawrence Williamson, and Sybil Griffin and Delwood Blair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Logan were honored with a housewarming in their new home.

The C. C. McLaughlins went to New Orleans to attend the convention of Lions International.

Mrs. W. C. Mund and Mrs. Clyde Galbreath gave a bridal shower honoring Mr. and Mrs. Gus Love.

And as we entered war-time, a bewildering set of abbreviations and terms came into use—O.P.A. . . terminal leave bonds . . . ration books . . . O.W.I. . . service flags . . . red points . . . blue points . . . 90-day wonder.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS

Austin.—More than 600 "Texans for Tourists" attended Gov. Price Daniel's conference on Tourism.

They took a long look at sources and resources that can be used to promote national advertising of the state's visitable virtues.

While here, they decided to set up a non-profit organization called the Texas Tourist Council. Tentatively scheduled was an organizational meeting for January 10, "or during the next session of the Legislature."

Texas Tourist Council will seek the reverse effect of another group who tried to exploit the state—the carpet-baggers. It was the influence of the latter that caused the Legislature to prohibit the use of state funds for advertising Texas' attractions 86 years ago.

Governor Daniel said, "Now the march of time has come full circle . . . we find ourselves engaged in a vigorous economic competition which might be called, in a friendly way, another 'war between the states'."

He referred to the battle for tourists—third largest industry in the nation; the 13th in Texas.

Texas Tourist Council will seek $300,000 a year from the Legislature, for advertising tourist attractions. Texas law now requires that state funds be matched by business and industry. So some system of financial subscription will have to be devised.

Bankers Asked For Ideas

Governor Daniel sent a letter to the Texas Bankers Association asking the bankers to present a proposal for protecting the rights of bank depositors.

He recommended that newspaper ads be published by the banks to locate owners (or heirs) of accounts inactive for more than seven years.

Governor Daniel added that proper notice to the state of an escheatable property would be "an incidental result of this protection."

He said the subject will be submitted very soon to a special session of the Legislature and asked the TBA to present its own proposal before December 20.

"The reason for the urgency is the known fact that a sizeable number of national banks are transferring these dormant deposits to the profits of the banks without advertising for the lost owners," he wrote.

"I believe most Texas bankers will agree that this is a practice which should be stopped for the protection of the good name of the banking profession in Texas, as well as for the protection of the rights of missing owners and the rights of the State if no owners exist."

Wilson Announces

Atty. General Will Wilson has announced as a candidate for governor.

The 49-year-old Dallas native said he has remained loyal to his party, but is "an independent Democrat who wears no man's collar and is not a captive candidate of any faction or interest group."

Shivers In The News

There's considerable talk in Austin about the possibility of Former Gov. Allan Shivers running again.

This surprised some since Shivers backed Jack Cox in 1960 and Cox is the Republican candidate.

Rumor started with Shivers' statement that: "If I get involved in politics at all next year it will be as a candidate."

Health and Welfare CoOrdination

Speaker James A. Turman announced appointment of an advisory committee, composed of Representative George Richardson of Fort Worth, Obie Jones of Austin and Jim Markgraf of Scurry, to help the Texas Legislative Council study coordination of state health and welfare agencies.

Study was requested by the 57th Legislature in view of the fact that 90% of every state dollar expended is for highways, education, public health and welfare.

All but the health and welfare agencies are centrally coordinated.

Textbook Study

Five representatives have been appointed to an interim committee to study contents of textbooks used in public schools. Particular attention will be paid to those relating to American heritage, traditions, philosophy and history.

Representatives W. T. Dungan of McKinney, Bob Bass of DeKalb, John C. Alaniz of San Antonio, Nelson Cowles of Hallsville and Ronald E. Roberts of Hillsboro are to report their findings to the 58th Legislature.

Davises Attend Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Davis were called to Junction last week end where funeral services were held for his brother, Ranford A. Davis, 80. Mr. Davis died early Saturday in the Kimble county hospital after a long illness.

In addition to Mr. Ed Davis of Eldorado, four other brothers surviving are Hays, Ambers, Black, and Lawson Davis, all of Junction. Other survivors of Ranford Davis include his wife and a stepson, J. Thomas Kelly of Houston.

SONORA MEN WIN IEH SALES CONTEST

Herman M. Smith and Milton R. Cavaness, representatives of the Wm. Cameron & Co., an authorized Institute for Essential Housing builder, at Sonora, Texas, have been chosen winners in the national IEH Super Sales Contest, it was announced this week by Edward A. Diefenbach, managing director of the Institute.

Competing against hundreds of entries from all over the country, Mr. Smith and Mr. Cavaness were among 23 winners. The judging was based on IEH representatives' knowledge of home buyers needs.

As the nation's only complete home building and financing organization, IEH makes it possible for low-income families to own a home of their own with no money down and small monthly payments.

in terms of pounds of production as well as the collateral represented by the breeding herd. They should both realize that one calf or one lamb cannot support the collateral represented by two cows or two ewes. Emphasis should be placed on increasing feed rather than numbers of livestock. In other words, more feed should go into production and a lesser proportion into maintenance.

A careful study of the 40-year rain chart should give an operator some idea of the weather expectancy. At least he can see that all years are not as wet as that one he remembers or as dry and dusty as the one his wife recalls, and he can plan his operations accordingly. Mark Twain said that everyone always talks about the weather but no one ever does anything about it. You may not change the weather, but you might plan so that it does not catch you short.

With all its horrors, war is a great testing time for all sorts of programs and policies. It reveals the weaknesses in farming systems as well as in armies and governments. The World War emphasized the following fundamental reforms needed to put our agriculture on a firm foundation for the future: (1) We must have two-armed farming—must add animal production to plant production; must develop a farming system that will keep farms busy and profit-making the year round. Market crops through livestock. (2) We must live at home—food rationing should make us conscious of this necessity. (3) We must take better care of our soils and ranges.

Food is fabricated soil fertility, and therefore a product of the farmer's industry. Farmers' passion for high prices has moved farmers to town, has encouraged tenancy and has given the nation its loss of soil fertility, the farmer his loss of security, and all of us the loss of a social democracy. Industrialism has gone forward, but at the cost of the soil body by erosion, as well as its food producing power by exhaustion, and the human resources of the country areas. This demonstrates our need for more than an agricultural economic policy, in the form of a distinctly national food policy.

Reserve Units Lend Equipment To Army

A little known facet of the United States Army Reserve efforts to achieve economy in training is illustrated in the following news story datelined Austin. The story released with approval of 1st Lt. Arlan R. Fenner who is Platoon Commander of the 1st and 2nd Platoons of the Sonora-Junction-Eldorado-Ozona-Iraan unit which trains at Sonora. It goes as follows: Austin.—Over two million dollars' worth of equipment used by Army Reserve units in Texas and New Mexico has been turned over to Active Army installations during the past two months," said Colonel Conard Hildebrand, Assistant Chief of Staff, G4, at VIII US Army Corps headquarters in Austin.

"A large number of trucks in the two-state area have been turned in," he said, "and we expect several other items of equipment will probably be called for also."

The equipment has been sent from Reserve units' home training sites to Fort Polk, Fort Chaffee, Fort Hood, and Fort Sam Houston to help bring Active Army units up to their required equipment strength, including Reserve and National Guard units recently called to active duty.

The Soil Conservation Program

J. Forrest Runge
Chairman Board of Supervisors

What caused the United States government to enact legislation to help the farmer was the fact that agriculture had descended to the point where the efforts of the individual farmer, struggling to improve his own income, did not add up to the greatest good for farmers as a group nor for the nation as a whole. Therefore national programs were established, one of the most important of which is the Soil Conservation Act. Broad scale planning was necessary to get broad scale action. The Government accepted two responsibilities: (1) To assist the farm family in finding security and a good standard of living, and (2) To maintain the nation's agricultural plant and its production at a level high enough to supply abundantly the needs of all the people.

Dr. Bennett said to the supervisors at their annual meeting at College Station: "The life of us depends upon soil. Not in worn out soil, but in productive soil. The life of a nation and every person in its depends upon keeping our soil. Chemists are doing a wonderful work, but they have not yet manufactured one single food product." Soil is the only resource, the one single resource, without which human beings cannot survive. The welfare of the United States depends upon keeping our soil resources in the field keeping the soil productive. If we do not do that, we cannot have a permanent agriculture.

Soil protection is a problem for each and every farmer and rancher. But the individual acting alone cannot provide adequate safeguards without cooperation from his neighbors and the general public. If surrounding eroded and worn out farms fail to provide their share of taxes, a heavier burden must be carried by the farms in good repair.

Wind and water respect no state, county, or fence line; therefore there can be no adequate conservation without the wholehearted understanding and backing of all the people who live on the land or who benefit by its productivity. So the first thing necessary for a successful conservation program is an enlightened public opinion.

Now what is a complete soil conservation program? It is defined as a "complete and coordinated program for soil and water conservation" . . . treating each acre according to its needs and capabilities.

This may further be divided into four points that may be called the corner-stones of a complete program.

1. Sound land use. Until we learned how to preserve food so we could ship it, we had to live right where it was grown or try to grow things that were not suited to the soil or the region. Because we now know how to preserve food and ship it fast, a fellow can live anywhere or wherever he can find work and he knows he can get something to eat. He can make sense out of the way he uses the land . . . he doesn't have to grow wheat where it is better to grow grass and he doesn't have to raise cattle where they can't do more than put on skin and bones.

There are four broad groups of land use and this area has been mapped and charts distributed showing its capabilities, so there is no excuse for anyone trying to farm land that he knows definitely is not suitable to till.

2. The right combination of practices. To spend most of the time advocating terracing does not constitute right combination of practices. In the same way, just reducing livestock numbers is not enough . . . as the definition said at first it should be a coordinated program. (A) Must protect and improve the land, (B) Must fit the operations of the farm or ranch, and (C) Must be practical.

3. The third cornerstone of a complete conservation program requires that the soil be maintained and improved to a higher degree of productivity. This is done by water conserving and distributing measures, by green manure crops, leaving crop residue and grass for litter, rotation, etc.

Any mechanical measures should be recognized as supplemental to the natural practices and then after the mechanical measures have been installed, they should be maintained. After all, soil conservation is a means of bringing the land and its management into equilibrium and environmental factors. It means development without waste. It means use as against abuse. It means development and use that will insure the greatest good to the greatest number for the longest time.

4. Economically sound farming and ranching is the fourth cornerstone. Every decent occupation has a philosophy or a purpose, and it makes a good way of life for the fellows that work at it.

Age brings wisdom, even though it is the wisdom that grows out of mistakes of the past.

The real object in farm or ranch planning is to use the physical resources in a way that will provide the best returns for the farmer and society from a permanent point of view. As Roy Gough has said: "To perpetuate the resource, preservation of perennial forage plants is just as essential as conservation of the soil." Therefore, range conservation is a relationship of erosion control and plant preservation, and maintenance of plant-soil relations in such a state as to secure the most efficient use of rainfall under prevailing climatic conditions.

The old method of valuing land at dollars per acre may be good for today, but it doesn't go far enough. The ability to produce, not only this year, but per year should determine the value. Ranchers and financial institutions alike are beginning to consider earning power

Christmas Program Of WSCS Held Tuesday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service held their annual Christmas program Tuesday afternoon in the educational building of the Methodist church.

A candle-lighting devotional service opened the program, followed by stories of Christmas observances in lands where Christian missionaries are at work.
