Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andrews To Be Honored Sunday On Their Golden Wedding Anniversary

This Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andrews will be honored with a Golden Wedding reception at their home on South Main street here in Eldorado.

Calling hours will be from 2:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon and hostesses will be the couple's two daughters, Mrs. Gus Love and Mrs. Happy Kerr. They state that all family friends are invited to attend.

The couple were married June 21, 1912, in Menard county, by Justice of the Peace Will Eckert, who is now deceased. Witnesses were A. Z. Woodward, also now deceased, and Annie Andrews, sister of the bridegroom. The latter married Jess Hight of London about a month and a half later, and she will be the only surviving member of the wedding party on hand for the open house Sunday.

Roy C. Andrews, the bridegroom, grew up in Menard county eight miles from London. He recalls today that he worked then for $20 a month, with board. The boots he is wearing in the early-day picture cost $12.50 when he bought them in Mason as a young man.

The bride was the former Bessie Annie McDonald, who had been reared at Harper in Gillespie county before moving with her parents to London as a young woman. The McDonald family were engaged in farming and ranching near London when the couple met.

The newlyweds made their first home on his father's farm in 1912 and '13. In 1914 they moved to Schleicher county to the Frank Spencer place, arriving in October of that year. In 1916 Mr. Andrews went to work for Bud Baker on the old Nicks place, subsequently leasing a place from Mr. Spencer in Kaffir.

They moved to Eldorado in 1927 where he went into the grocery business. He also became engaged in trucking, a line of work in which he is still active.

The Andrews grocery store was located in the block on South Main street where they now live. It was one of the group of business buildings razed by a fire in 1932, still well remembered as one of Eldorado's biggest and most spectacular blazes of pre-fire-department days.

After the fire, Mr. Andrews erected a building on the site of his store for living quarters with some rental units in it. It is here that the couple still live. He never went back into the grocery business after the fire, but in the intervening years has continued trucking and looking after his property.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews are members of the First Baptist church. Roy has been a member of the Volunteer Fire Dept. for at least 20 years, a long-time member of the Lions club, and city constable. His wife says that her chief interests are "fishing and singing."

The Andrews' family consists of two daughters, five grandchildren, and three greats.

The elder daughter, Elnora, Mrs. Gus Love, has a daughter, Linda, who is a student at Texas Wesleyan college at Fort Worth, and a son, Roy Lynn, at home.

ROY AND BESSIE ANDREWS TODAY

The younger daughter, Loleete (Happy) Kerr has two sons: Tony of El Paso who is married and has two children, and Rony of Big Spring, also married with a young daughter. Mrs. Kerr also has a daughter, Phyllis, a student at Baylor University at Waco.

Most of the relatives plan to be in the house party at the open house Sunday.

Their Golden Wedding will find both Mr. and Mrs. Andrews still an active couple, interested in their friends and community. He still serves as fire marshal here.

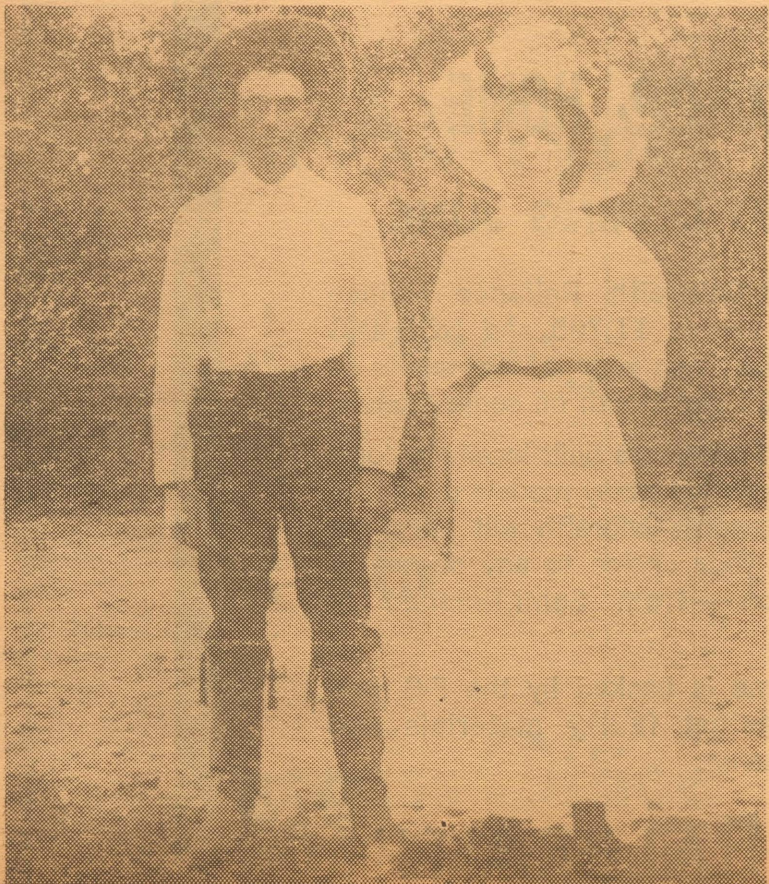

Although Mr. Andrews had to have cataracts removed from both eyes last year, he and Mrs. Andrews have enjoyed overall good health in their 50 years together. They returned Monday of this week from a week end fishing trip on the Llano river and Granite Shoals.

S. S. Representative Here Last Friday

Paul McCowen, field representative for the Social Security Administration, San Angelo office, was here last Friday and spent from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. at the court house.

He took three applications for benefits and talked with about 15 others regarding their problems.

His next scheduled visit to Eldorado will be on Friday, July 13, and at the usual time, 1:00 to 3:00.

It was the beginning of the transition period of America from the horse-and-buggy era to cars.

Now, from Glenwood, Arkansas, comes word that Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Sample are to be honored in July on their Golden Wedding. The event is to be held on Saturday, July 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jolly Sample, on Route 1, Glenwood.

The Sample family were long-time residents of Eldorado before moving to Arkansas a number of years ago. Two sisters of Mr. Sample still live here. They are Mrs. M. N. Ramsay and Mrs. T. W. Johnson.

Early in May the local ASICS office posted notices stating that they were ready to receive bids for leasing an office built to their specifications. They set May 20th as the deadline date for considering these proposals.

One proposal was received which was from Ed Meador who offered to put a new building at the rear of the present office.

Ever since that date we've expected to come by any day and see dirt moving, but nothing has been started as yet. We asked Manager Cardwell about it last week—and what was the delay.

He said that the final plans had been okayed by one of the head offices of the agriculture department, and that they hadn't had time to give attention to the proposition here. They were all involved in the Billy Sol Estes case.

He felt sure that action would be taken one of these days.

Mrs. Joe Garvin said the rain at her place Monday night measured 1.3 inches, and then added, "Maybe it'll make some roasting ears."

Recent weeks have seen the Thigpens, the Wests, and now Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andrews observing their Golden Wedding Anniversaries.

What was it really like back in 1912 when these couples went to the altar?

It was the year of the sinking of the Titanic, the luxury liner which carried many famous people of the day to the depths of the North Atlantic. Finishing touches were being put on the Panama Canal.

William Howard Taft was in the White House, but lost the Presidency to Woodrow Wilson that fall when the general election was held. The ballot included ex-President Teddy Roosevelt as candidate of the Bull Moose party, a splinter group of former Republicans and others.

Every ice man had a hot business in those days before electrical refrigeration. Few homes had telephones, and a telegram was called a dispatch.

The year 1912 was the last one for the United States to be without an income tax, since that measure was adopted by Congress the following year, 1913, following approval of the Constitutional Amendment. It was to be several decades, however, before the income tax would affect the majority of the people.

It is interesting to note that several authors of the income tax in Congress thought then of writing a 25% ceiling into the measure, but decided not to when they concurred among themselves that the tax would never in future years reach such a high level. Needless to add, the income tax now takes 91% of top incomes.

In pre-income-tax 1912, taxes took a very small part of the average person's earnings in the course of a year.

A livable house could be built for a few hundred dollars although it lacked the conveniences we take for granted today.

Showers Play Tag Around The County

A rain which came up late Monday night caused a number of light sleepers to awaken and listen to the pleasant sound—then turn over and go back to sleep.

When morning came some found an inch registered in their gauges—and many others didn't.

In town the reports generally agreed to a good inch or more, but Gerald Hartgraves had only a light shower at his place four miles east of town.

Out west of town Bob Reynolds said he had 4-tenths at his house, but he had an inch on his field a mile away. Victor Sauer's field had the furrows full of water, but over at Joe Krecklow's there was scarcely a shower.

Travelers coming in from Angelo Tuesday morning said there was no evidence of rain until they came within seven miles of Eldorado. Jess Blaylock got an inch, while a neighbor was said to have gotten 2 inches.

It was a nice little rain for those lucky enough to get it, but others are still wistfully looking for more clouds.

Polo Team To Be Reorganized Here

The Eldorado Polo team defeated everything in this state some five years and then went on to Florida and grabbed off a world's championship. Returning home they felt there were no more world's to conquer and the polo organization was allowed to break up.

Recently under the direction of O. B. Ory, cards were mailed out to prospective members and a first practice meeting was held at the local arena Monday night.

A large crowd turned out, according to Mr. Ory and everyone was enthusiastic over the prospect of reviving the club. "We had a lot of young men who were anxious to play," Ory said, "and they were there with some dandy horses."

It was agreed that practice will continue each Monday night hereafter and everyone interested in polo and good horses is invited to attend.

A polo team consists of five players, with at least that many more in the squad as substitutes. One of the things that has stimulated interest here is the fact that a San Angelo polo team has issued a challenge to any team in the state to defeat them, and they have made up a thousand dollar pot that will go to any team able to do it.

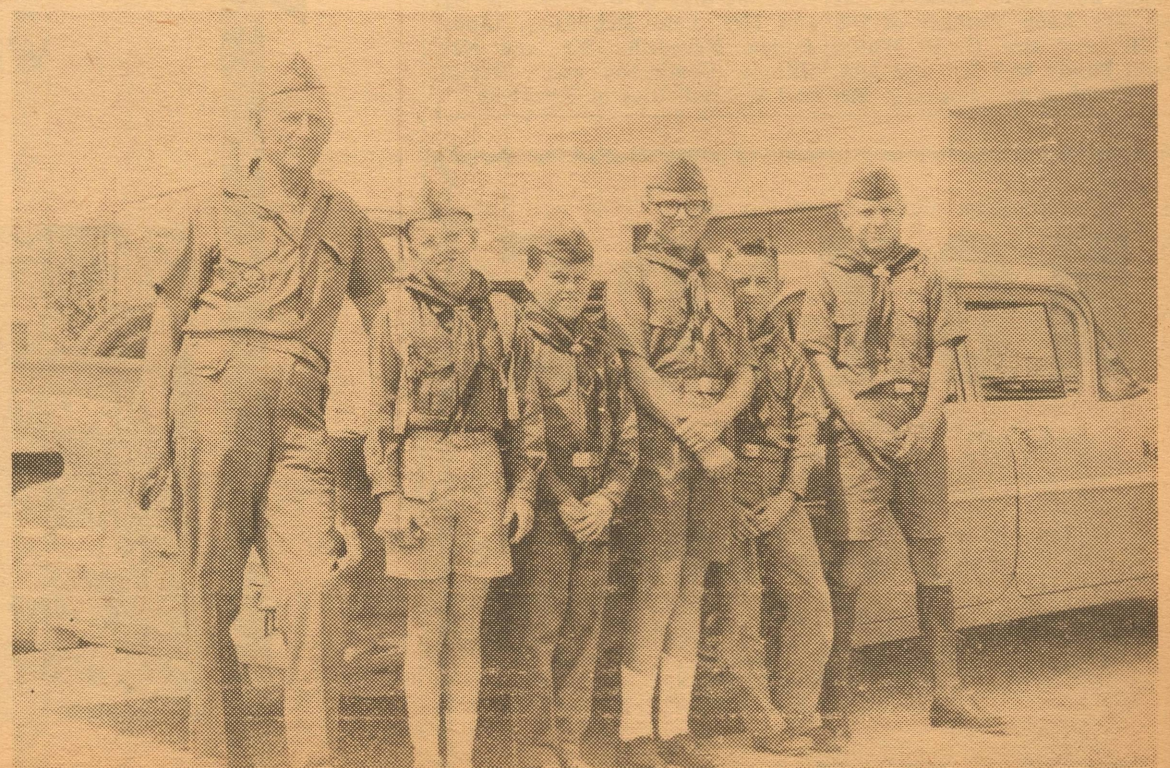

The Eldorado boys defeated San Angelo five years ago and they're confident they can do it again.

Date Changed For Equalization Board

Elsewhere in this Success issue is notice from J. P. Enochs' office that the date for the Board of Equalization meeting has been changed to Monday, July 2nd.

This will put the county Board of Equalization meeting on the same day as that for the school district.

Soloist was Miss Barbara Wagon of Crane and organist was Miss Mary Bain Spence of San Angelo.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of beau de soie, designed with a fitted bodice with a square neckline and fitted sleeves. The pleated skirt was attached to a deep v-waistline at the back, accented by a matching beau de soie rose. A lace panel, adorned with seed pearls, accented the front of the dress.

A waist-length veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and crystal. Her bouquet was a white glamelia surrounded by a cluster of white stephanotis on a Bible.

Heirloom jewelry worn by the bride was a pair of cameo earrings which had been worn by the bridegroom's grandmother, the late Mrs. Robert S. Winslow of Menard.

Maid of honor was Miss Judy Nixon, a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Linda Nixon, another sister, Miss Doris Hinton of Hobbs, N.M., cousin of the bride, and Miss Judy McGregor.

Austin.—Texas' crime situation looks a little better. FBI reports covering the first three months of 1962, based on statistics from the 12 largest cities, show major crime down 0.7 per cent.

Across the U. S. in cities of comparable size, major crime rates rose one per cent.

Texas' crime rate actually is down in number of crimes reported from 1961, despite a population growth during the year of some 200,000.

Out Of Jobs

Finding a job in Texas is a little easier these days. Texas Employment Commission reports April unemployment at 4.3 per cent of the labor force as compared to 5.4 per cent a year ago.

Average factory wages rose from $91.21 a week last year to $96.10 this April. Range was wide, however, depending on the industry.

Leatherwork was the lowest paid, an average of $52.13 a week. Oil workers got the most, an average of $132.07 weekly.

Number of Texans working outside agriculture now has passed the 3,000,000 mark. Houston had 19,800 unemployed; Dallas 16,000.

Too Many Colleges?

Dr. Ralph Green of the Texas Commission on Higher Education thinks the Legislature should quit creating four-year, state-supported colleges. He told a House Committee on Saving Taxes that 20 state colleges are about enough.

Legislators have extended state support to four new colleges in the last four years. Biggest of the new ones, the University of Houston, will enter the state system this fall. This will substantially increase the state's higher education bill. U of H now ranks second in size to the University of Texas.

Water Supply

Texas enters the summer with its major reservoirs 76 per cent full. Texas Water Commission reports that May rains couldn't keep up with use and evaporation, so the water supplies shrunk by 291,000 acre feet.

As June opened, supplies were 76 per cent of capacity, compared with 83 per cent a year ago.

Safe Fourth

Gov. Price Daniel urged the 5,000,000 Texas drivers to help hold down the traffic death list during the July 4th holidays.

"Slow down and live" is the theme of the traffic safety campaign by which Texas traffic people hope to hold down the death rate below the statisticians' predictions. July 4th comes on Wednesday this year, so fewer Texans will kill themselves on the highway than when the holiday falls near a week end.

Firing Resumes

There was only a brief respite from campaigning after Democratic primaries. John Connally, the Democratic nominee for governor, and Jack Cox, the Republican nominee, both had their chance to talk at the meetings of their respective state executive committees Saturday, convening to canvass the returns.

Campaigns will start in earnest September 18th, when both parties

The Youth Seminar has been planned for boys and girls who have just graduated from high school and who are planning to enter college in the fall. Participation in this meeting is possible only through special invitation to "superior caliber" students. The purpose of the Youth Seminar is to help these young people become firmly grounded in an understanding of the Bible and the basic fundamental beliefs of their faith. have their state conventions. But the two young gubernatorial nominees both have state campaign headquarters in operation in Austin. They sound like they plan all-out campaigns in the summer and fall. Sen. John Tower will be a major campaigner for the Republicans. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Sen. Ralph Yarborough will take to the stump for the Democrats.

They are beginning to make this look like a two-party state. Whether the label sticks depends on what the voters say on November 6th.

Safe Driving Plan

The State Board of Insurance will hold hearing June 29th on automobile insurance rates and rules. High on the agenda will be proposals to revise drastically the "safe driving insurance plan" by which those with accidents or traffic law violations pay more, while those without them pay less.

Statisticians say the plan has cut rates for 78%, raised them for 22%. But the complaints about the plan being received by legislators indicates that even those who save aren't too happy with the possibility that one slip might run up their rates.

Drastic revision is possible. Without revision of the plan, a rate cut is in the cards. But if penalty provisions are reduced, it may wipe out the chance of a rate cut.

Board members and the insurance industry are divided as to what to do. Largest of the insurance agents' associations is taking a poll of its members to see what they—and their customers—think should be done about it.

SILVER FINS SHOW AT SAN ANTONIO COLLEGE

The Silver Fins, one of the outstanding synchronized swimming groups in the Southwest, presented their aquatic version of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" Saturday at 8:00 p.m. in the San Antonio College pool. This was the first full-length production of a story ever attempted by the Fins.

Sherry Wiedenmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Wiedenmann of San Antonio, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McMillan of Eldorado, is one of the San Antonio Silver Fins.

In the Saturday show, Sherry was featured in four numbers, Fish Footmen, Penguins, Caterpillars, and Finale.

Dwight Wiedenmann, brother of Sherry, was The King of Hearts in Saturday night's show.

The group, organized in 1956, presently is coached by Mrs. Margaret Swan, the group organizer. Mrs. Swan currently is assisted by Mrs. John Palm and Miss Corky Emmons, stroking expert from Sam Houston State.

The next big competitive event for the group will be the Gulf Coast AAU age group meet in Houston July 5-7. After that will come the National AAU Synchronized swim meet in San Antonio, August 9-11.

Sherry has taken synchronized swimming for the past two years, but this will be her first summer work out with the Fins for show routines and competitive events.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McMillan and Paul Nixon were in San Antonio Saturday night for the show. They brought Dwight Wiedenmann Jr. back with them for a visit.

You Are Invited

This invitation is a must. It is one you can't refuse. There is no "please reply if declining" to this one. You must go this time.

This one has everything. You see, it's like this. Mrs. Jim Williams is asking everybody to her house tomorrow, Friday, June 22, at 10 A.M. to work on the gifts and articles which are going to be sold to aid in the treatment of the Crippled Children of our area.

Frankie says to bring a sack lunch; nobody will get hungry but no time will be wasted in cooking and washing dishes. There will be all kinds of craft and decorative work going on all day. Don't be afraid that there will be sewing to do—there will be none.

These are some guaranteed results of the day. You will enjoy working for a worthy cause. You very likely will learn something new. You will have a chance to visit with your friends and neighbors in a time when visiting is becoming a lost art. Be there!

It would be appreciated if those having finished articles would please leave them at Mrs. Williams' that day—even if they are unable to work.

Local Newspaper Advertising Best To Retain Income Increase Share

The average family in the United States is spending more than $6,000 annually at the present. Various experts predict that the per family income will average $9,000 within ten years.

This means that every retailer who expects to stay in business must anticipate drastic changes in buying habits of his customers—changes even greater than those which took place 1950 to 1960.

Increased family income will result in increased competition among retailers. Although the shopper will have to spend, he will have a wider choice on how and where his money will be used. More and more the prosperous consumer will look for quality, special services, and greater variety when he buys.

It is no exaggeration to say that the local retailer today is facing the competition of merchants the world over. The local clothing store may be competing with a tailor in Hong-kong. The local camera dealer may be competing with Japanese and German merchants. When a birthday present is purchased, the local gift shop may be competing with a restaurant, an airplane, a vacation resort.

Any family which is not pressed to buy the bare necessities of life begins to scan wider fields. Disposal income, which has become the major part of American wealth has a tendency to wander. Or more accurately, it follows effective advertising of whatever origin.

The local merchant can and should retain his share of the increased wealth of the local citizen.—Junction Eagle.

'Luxury Tax'

All this talk we hear from seasoned politicians on the need of the party (any party) to win the support of minority groups makes us wonder what's wrong with making a little character with a minority group.

And in case there's any doubt as to who constitute the majority group in the U. S., it's the women—by the score of 91 million to 88 (according to the 1960 census). Not only that, but among the nation's 45 million families there can be little question of who wins the arguments, political included.

Thus if we were a congressman who hoped to remain in Washington a while longer, we would be taking some pains to find out what the women are thinking about among themselves and apart from those issues that equally concern the males. We might remember, for instance, the hullabaloo the girls stirred up about a year ago that resulted in six members of the House Ways and Means Committee presenting bills to outlaw that "temporary" wartime tax on toilet preparations.

And the realization would follow that since none of these bills was passed, a promise to the fair sex remains unfulfilled—15 years after this "luxury" tax was to have expired. The fairer sex probably regards King George's tax on tea as fair and reasonable compared with Uncle Sam's tax on good appearance and good grooming.

In fact, the women are on the warpath again, and the members of that tax-planning House Ways and Means Committee are once more receiving them loud and clear—as the saying is.

Last year, the gentler sex received attention. But this year, they are insisting on action. For 1962, as they are suggesting ever so delicately, is election year.—Fort Stockton Pioneer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Busby and two boys, Ken and John Thomas of Mineral Wells, visited Mrs. Busby's grandmother, Mrs. L. T. Wilson, Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Logan of Sonora were dinner guests of Mrs. Wilson Friday, also.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Biggs are on vacation this week. They attended the Biggs family reunion at Lake Nasworthy near San Angelo last week end, and are visiting various other places this week.

Fishing over the week end on the Llano river were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin McDonald and their grandson, Dwight McDonald; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andrews and Roy Lynn Love and Mrs. Claude Galbraith. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews also attended the London homecoming.

'Pocketful Of Miracles' Is On Sunday & Monday

Bette Davis as "Apple Annie" hawking her apples in the Broadway theater district, in a Depression period setting, is the central figure of "Pocketful of Miracles," the Frank Capra-Glenn Ford fantasy which will be shown Sunday and Monday nights at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre.

Based on a story by Damon Runyon, "Pocketful of Miracles" was produced and directed by Frank Capra. The two-hour-plus movie is in big screen and color. The picture is loaded with fragrant reminiscences of an old master's directorial touch and reminder of the guys and dolls who peopled Damon Runyon's fables of the greasy New York pavements 30 years ago.

Some of the characters may seem dated to today's movie-goers. For them the impoverished appleseller, the race-track tout, the gambler, the blonde of uneasy virtue, may be as remote as Little Red Riding Hood.

Mr. Capra may have held a fistful of miracles in his hands. The picture may stack up as engaging narrative, to "click" as does a better Disney film.

Bette Davis in an aged character role, is the central figure, an apple-vendor with a cynic's belief in the frailties of people and a believer's faith in miracles. Like all characters of Runyon's never-never New York, she wears a heart only slightly tarnished on her tattered sleeve.

Miss Davis can still overact, but the part of Apple Annie does fit her present appearance and the built-in intensity of a restricted acting range. Somehow Annie has supported a daughter (a starlet named Ann-Margaret) in Spanish luxury, kept going an epistolary myth of her own high social position, and has placed her delectable Louise where she could be espoused by pre-Franco gentry.

The in-laws are on the way to visit America. Annie's pals tell her the game is up. Annie, however, has sublime faith that she can be a "Lady for a Day," title of the story when Capra first produced it in 1933, and can bring the "400" to her side.

The frantic effort is tear-drenched farce. The most powerful aids would be Glenn Ford, a racketeer dethroned by Repeal, and his moll, Hope Lange, a nightclub proprietor, who eventually brings Ford to rectitude and the altar, too.

Even when the team-spirit of the netherworld drives the ball to the 50-yard line, a fatal fumble is imminent. A governor, a mayor, the diplomatic corps, the cops and even the newspapers (foregoing the scoop of scoops) pitch in to score Annie's touchdown. They even kick her extra point.

Once her daughter is back on the high seas and a baronial castle, Annie is willing to cease being Mrs. E. Worthington Manville of the Hotel Marberry and go back to selling apples. They bring extraordinary good luck to all apple-pishers.

Mr. Capra, as an old-fashioned movie-maker, not a thrifty one, works on the theory that there are no small roles, only small actors. His cast includes some of the most conspicuous talent of the last era—or, maybe, they welcomed jobs, too.

Creamy-Rich Ice Cream...Made with Ease

With the coming of days that are warmer, thoughts turn to cool, refreshing desserts. First on the list of favorites is home-made ice cream. Grandmother used to spend hours turning the crank of her ice cream freezer, but the modern homemaker can rely on Carnation Company's home economists who have developed an ice cream recipe that is creamy and rich . . . but oh, so easy to prepare. The secret is evaporated milk . . . whipped and blended with marshmallow whip and fruits. Evaporated milk insures a smooth texture every time . . . no need to worry about iciness. It's extra nutritious, too . . . with twice the amounts of Vitamin D, protein and minerals of whole milk.

HOMEMADE PEACH 'N' STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM
 (Makes about 2½ quarts)
 1 cup sliced fresh peaches*
 1 cup sliced fresh California strawberries*
 ½ cup sugar
 1½ cups (7½ to 8 ounce jar) marshmallow whip
 1½ cups (large can) undiluted evaporated milk
 ¼ cup lemon juice
 Whole fresh California strawberries

Mash peaches and 1 cup sliced strawberries in bowl. Add sugar and marshmallow whip. Allow to stand for 25 minutes. Stir occasionally until well blended. Chill evaporated milk in refrigerator tray until soft ice crystals form around edges of tray (about 25 to 30 minutes). Whip evaporated milk until stiff (about 2 minutes).

Add lemon juice. Whip very stiff (about 2 minutes longer). Fold peach mixture into whipped evaporated milk. Spoon into refrigerator trays. Freeze until firm (about 3 hours).
 Serve garnished with whole strawberries.

The last name mentioned on their deathbeds by Gen. Robert E. Lee and Gen. Stonewall Jackson was that of A. P. Hill, the impetuous commander of the fast-moving Light Division of the Army of Northern Virginia.

Lee's last words "Tell A. P. Hill to come up" are perhaps an indication of the esteem in which the red-headed Virginian was held by his superior and fellow-Virginian, for A. P. Hill always did "come up" just in time to turn the tide in favor of the Army of Northern Virginia during the crucial days of the Peninsular Campaign of June and July of 1862.

A. P. Hill, Jeb Stuart, James Longstreet, Dick Ewell, Stonewall Jackson, and D. H. Hill were all division and corps commanders in the Army of Northern Virginia when General Lee inherited the top Confederate post from the disabled Gen. Joseph E. Johnston during the first week in June of 1862. It was from the commands of these "lieutenants" that Lee would mould the fighting force which the South depended upon to beat off the Union troops then threatening Richmond.

In the early days of the War, A. P. Hill was overshadowed by the activities of the more flamboyant and picturesque Jeb Stuart and Stonewall Jackson. But during the Seven Days' Battle around Richmond, Hill's cavalier-like fighting spirit brought a high degree of devotion and loyalty from the men of the Light Division and from the commanders of other units as well.

A West Point graduate, Hill was well acquainted with the Union general he now opposed. He and George B. McClellan had been roommates at West Point and both now sought the favor of Ellen Marcy, the daughter of Col. Randolph B. Marcy, the famed Western explorer. Miss Marcy was the belle of

BARE PEACH TREE

An unusually large peach tree stands bare along with other fruit trees this year. Mrs. W. H. McClatchy owns this particular tree which is growing by the side of her house at 302 Hill. She said that it "came up" from a seed soon after her house was built in 1930, and this is the first year it has failed to produce a crop of wonderful peaches since it started bearing fruit around 30 years ago. The March freeze caught it in full bloom.

Mrs. Jimmy Doyle and sons, Jimmy Dan and Mike, have been spending the past two weeks with the Claude Doyles while Jimmy has been training at Ft. Polk. They returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bridgeman and daughters, Janice and Bonnie, of Midland, were Saturday afternoon visitors in the home of Mrs. F. M. Bradley.

'The Outsider' Showing Tonight And Friday

The story of Ira Hayes, the Indian marine who rose to the heights on Mount Suribachi before falling to the alcoholic level of a washroom porter, has been told before—on the front pages, in magazines, on a TV drama show.

But never has it been told so well as in "The Outsider" at the Eagle Drive-In Theatre tonight and tomorrow night.

The expert direction of Delbert Mann and a sensitive portrayal by Tony Curtis give "The Outsider" the inside track on being one of the year's better boxoffice bets. Director Mann, himself a veteran of the Pacific war, has created a classic so balanced that every line and every scene is vital.

As Hayes, the Pima Indian who wanted just a friend instead of fame, Curtis is touching, pathetic and always believable. Shunned in boot camp, Hayes finally finds a friend before his outfit hits Iwo Jima. Summoned to help raise the American flag, because the wind is too strong for the four men attempting the task, Hayes and his buddy are captured in Joe Rosenthal's memorable photograph.

"The Outsider" is not the story of that "bitterest battle in Marine Corps history" but of a personal battle between one Marine and our postwar society.

It is not the story of 29,000 men who died and 17,400 who were wounded to decide the fate of 3 square miles of volcanic sand, called "Hell's Acre." It is the story of 10 intervening years that failed to erase the scars on Iwo and failed to heal the wounds in the mind and heart of a Pima Indian, Ira Hayes.

Hayes was the sixth man in the famous war photo of the flag-raising on Mount Suribachi. Tony Curtis adds a black wig and a bridge on his nose to portray the Indian's personal, heroic and ironic story—that of a man more heroic as an outcast than a national idol.

When the seventh war bond drive back home needs a publicity boost, the men in the famous photograph are called back to the states for personal appearances. Protesting "It was just the wind—I'm not a hero," Hayes begins drinking on the tour. The fall to the men's room, and then to eventual death in a drunken stupor is swift after the war is over.

To the picture's credit, there is no phony love interest inserted. The story is all Hayes—the outsider picked by fate to be a national figure. His inability to cope with it is brought stirring to the screen by Curtis.

This biography of a war hero, although very personal in its basic revelation, offers one universal plea. The Indian's inward agony in fact, sprang for this general need. This need is for a man to "be long." Hayes' life was characterized by isolation and rejection. The white people had condemned the Pima Indians to a desolate reservation, taking from them even their inherited war rights.

As a serviceman, Hayes was not allowed to fraternize with his fellow Marines. As a nationally acclaimed hero, he felt "like I have stolen something and no one has caught me yet."

His sole friend among the white race was killed as he fought beside Hayes on Iwo. So, victimized by his heritage and sacrificed to wartime symbolism, he could not cope with the hypocrisy of a heroism to which he never felt entitled.

He struggled through personal hell during that decade following the war, and almost succeeded in submerging himself in a symbolic and impersonal heroism. Subsequent disappointments brought his death, however, almost on the date 10 years after his first moment of glory on Suribachi.

County Extension News

W. G. Godwin, Co. Agent

Cattle grubs cost livestock producers in the United States from 100-300 million dollars each year. Losses to the packer result from the necessary carcass trimming and devaluation and hide damage. On the ranch losses result from skin irritation, nervousness of the animals, below normal weight gains, lowered milk production and excessive running and frequent accidents to caattle feeding in pastures during the spring.

A well organized county wide grub control program would result in great financial benefits to the cattlemen of Schleicher county. County and individual ranch control cuts down the amount of reinfestation and reduces spring and summer annoyance by troublesome heel flies.

Effective control of the cattle grub can only be done by recommended systemic insecticides — Ruelene and Co-Ral.

All these materials should be used between the time heel fly activity in the spring and before grubs appear in the backs of the animals. In Schleicher county the time to apply systemic insecticides is May 1 to August 1.

Co-Ral Spray

CoRal may be applied effectively as a high pressure, 0.5 percent spray mixed at a rate of 16 pounds of 25 percent wettable powder in each 100 gallons of water. Spray each animal completely; thoroughly wet the entire animal to the skin so the chemical will be adequately absorbed. Power sprayers developing 250 pounds or more of nozzle pressure per square inch are preferred. Large animals each require approximately 1 gallon of spray; smaller animals require 1 to 3 quarts, depending on size. Do not apply Co-Ral 0.5% spray within 7 days of slaughter. Sprays of Co-Ral also control horn flies, lice, ticks and screwworms.

Co-Ral by Pour-On

To apply as a back-line treatment, mix 4 pounds Co-Ral 25W (25% wettable powder) in 3 gallons water or light mineral oil N.F. Pour uniformly down the back-line of the animal at the rate of one-half pint per animal.

Co-Ral as a Dip

Dipping vat treatment is very effective. Charge the vat with 8 pounds of Co-Ral 25W powder for each 100 gallons of water used. Thoroughly wet each animal. Do not dip animals in Co-Ral within 7 days of slaughter. Keep the solution properly agitated. Add additional insecticide materials at the same dosage to replace liquid and insecticide carried away on the treated animals. Add insecticide if rain, snow or other added water dilutes the mix. Add water if measurable evaporation occurs. The vat mixture may be used until debris makes it unsuitable for further use.

Ruelene by Pour-on Ruelene is easily applied by pour on method. The mixture for this treatment consists of 1/2 gallon of Ruelene 25E (25% emulsifiable) to each 1 gallon of water. Pour this mixture along the back of each animal at the rate of 1 ounce for each 100 pounds of animal weight. However, 1 cup is sufficient to treat an animal weighing 800 lbs or more. In other words, it is never necessary to use over 1 cup to treat an animal. Pour the material as evenly as possible along the backbone from the shoulders to the tail, using a long-handled dipper. Do not apply within 28 days of slaughter.

Ruelene Spray

Ruelene 25E may be used as a spray at 0.5 percent strength. Mix 2 gallons of Ruelene 25E concentrate with each 98 gallons of water to make 100 gallons of mixed spray solution. Spray the animals as outlined for Co-Ral spray. However, Ruelene cannot be applied within 28 days of slaughter.

Ronnel (Trolene)

Trolene is a systemic grubicide that can be effectively administered to cattle through the normal feeding operation. Trolene can be fed either as a feed mixture or as a mineral mixture. In order to obtain effective grub control it is essential that the animals eat enough feed or mineral to receive adequate Trolene to kill the grubs. If the mineral mixture is used, the animals should receive 0.3 lbs of the 0.275 per cent mixture per 100 pounds of body weight daily for 14 consecutive days.

If the Trolene FM (feed mixture) is used the animals should receive 0.33 pounds of the 0.6 percent feed mixture per 100 pounds of body weight daily for 7 consecutive days.

Additional information given on the label will assist you in determining how much of the feed or mineral mixtures should be fed. Do not feed either mixture within 60 days of slaughter.

Certain precautions should be taken with all insecticides. Be sure to follow all precautions on the container label including restrictions on treating young, stressed or sick animals and the number of days required between treatment and slaughter.

TWICE AS MUCH COOLING

With the patented features of Paramount Coolers

Yes! This famous Paramount 5000 c.f.m. evaporative cooler gives you up to twice as much cooling because of these patented features:

- Many coolers lose as much as 70% of cooling efficiency because dust, dirt and salts clog the filters. Patented No-Clog Sta-Fresh Filters are guaranteed clog-proof, assuring 100% cooling efficiency all summer long.
- Filters saturated with water become heavy and often sag and settle from the top, drawing hot, unfiltered, uncooled air into the cooler which may create as much as a 70% cooling loss. Patented Grip-Lock Filter Holders are guaranteed to prevent sagging and settling of filters assuring 100% cool, clean, filtered air.
- Without correct water trough adjustment, sections of the filters remain dry, resulting in substantial cooling loss and costly service expense. Patented Free-Flo Visible Water Troughs with external adjustment assure 100% saturation, and 100% cooling for the entire life of the cooler.
- Added feature — Patented Window Closing Attachment lets you close and lock your window. Eliminates entry of dust, rain and drafts into your home.
