FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY FOR MRS. GEO. CARTWRIGHT

Graveside services are being held at 10:00 a.m., today at the Eldorado cemetery for Mrs. George (Leola) Cartwright, 43, of Wabash, Indiana. Mrs. Cartwright died at her home in Wabash Saturday, Dec. 8. Funeral services were held in Wabash on Monday, after which the body was shipped to Eldorado for interment.

Leola Sauer was born at Doss, Texas Sept. 15, 1919, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sauer, and moved with her family to Schleicher county in 1925. She attended Schleicher county schools and graduated from Eldorado High School in 1938. She attended San Angelo College where she graduated in 1939 and later attended the University of Texas where she received her degree in 1945.

On March 31, 1944, she was married to Capt. George Cartwright, a chaplain in the military service at San Angelo. During the war she taught school at several places including a year at Eldorado.

Following the war she rejoined her husband in his work as pastor in the Christian Church and they served pastorates in Arkansas, Illinois and Indiana.

Besides her husband, Dr. George Cartwright, she is survived by two daughters, Janet age 15, and Patricia age 10, and one son, Jonathan, age 12.

Other survivors are her mother, Mrs. Otto Sauer of Eldorado, and four brothers, Victor, Clemens, and Edgar of Schleicher county, and William Sauer of Van Horn; also seven sisters: Mrs. Harvey Dannheim of San Angelo, Mrs. B. T. Williams of Roby, Mrs. Cora DeLongue of San Antonio, Mrs. Clyde Perkins of Dumas; and Mrs. Milton Faught, Mrs. W. V. Lux and Mrs. Billy Jack Reynolds of Schleicher county.

The body was shipped by train to Sweetwater where it was met by an ambulance at 3:00 p.m. Wednesday and brought to the Ratliff-Kerbow Funeral Home in Eldorado where it remained in state until time for the graveside service.

The Sauer families will have dinner today (Thursday) at noon in the Memorial Building.

CARROL HODGES

1962 Gold Star Boy Is Corky Hodges

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Sammie Hodges, Carrol Hodges was honored Wednesday, December 12, at a luncheon sponsored by West Texas Utilities in the St. Angulus hotel in San Angelo.

Congressman O. C. Fisher presented the awards to Gold Star boys and girls of district 7.

Carrol Hodges has been a member of the 4-H club since 1953 and at present is serving as vice-president on the Junior Advisory Council. A graduating senior, Carrol has for six years fed fat lambs and in 1961-62 won leadership and achievement awards in addition to the Gold Star award. In 1962 Carrol has given five demonstrations on fitting registered sheep and fat lambs to other 4-H members, as well as helping younger boys in feeding and selecting lambs.

Carrol won the Nathan trophy for fat lambs in 1960-61 and in 1962 placed second, coming as close to retiring a trophy as anyone could. Carrol has shown champion finewool lambs and placed high in crossbred lambs in four of six showings since 1953, at the local show.

In 1963 Carrol will show groups of fine wool and crossbred lambs on exhibit in the January 26th show, to be held at the local livestock barn.

JOYCE WOODWARD

Miss Woodward Named Year's Gold Star Girl

Among those honored yesterday at the annual District Gold Star luncheon held in San Angelo was Miss Joyce Woodward, Gold Star 4-H club girl of San Angelo.

Miss Woodward, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Woodward of Eldorado and is a third year 4-H club member. She is a Senior in high school, member of the high school sextette, and is secretary-treasurer of the Future Homemakers of America.

In June, Joyce brought honors to her club by winning a blue ribbon in stiff district competition at the annual district Favorite Food Show.

Following graduation, Joyce plans to enter nurse's training.

NEW CITIZENS

Mr. and Mrs. James Mika of Tom Green county were here this week looking over the town and making preparations for their move the first of the year to this county. They have bought the M. L. Potter farm northwest of Eldorado consisting of 320 acres.

Mr. and Mrs. Mika have one son, James Louis, age 16, who will become a student of Eldorado H. S., and one daughter, Vicky Gail, age 5. The family are members of the Presbyterian church.

Why Take a New Chevrolet and Cut It All Up!

At the Branham paint and body shop in Eldorado are the parts of a 1962 Chevrolet Impala, originally worth nearly $4,000—all cut up with a cutting torch. Some of the parts are missing and some are still being rounded up by officers.

It's a strange baffling story and we'll try to piece it together as told by Schleicher County Sheriff Orval Edmiston.

The story starts on the Katherine Harris ranch on the Toe Nail Trail in the north part of this county. Mrs. Harris is in Colorado. Her foreman, Troy White, lives in Christoval and works on the ranch in daytime and returns to his home at night. One of the buildings on the ranch is a garage. The garage doors are closed, but not locked—simply closed with a hasp and latch.

Last Thursday Mr. White reported to Edmiston that he thought there was "something funny" going on out there at night—he had found the garage locked up with a new padlock.

The sheriff went out, found the door locked as described, but also found some fenders parts on the ground outside.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Jones and two special deputies, Charlie Warnock and Tom Dempsey, went out and set up a guard Saturday night to catch the visitors. In due course of time two vehicles approached—when they neared the place they separated and approached the place from different roads.

Jones and Warnock were posted on one road and Dempsey the other.

Jones arrested his man as he drove up, throwing his lights on him, and he surrendered without resistance. Seeing the lights, the man in the other car wheeled his vehicle around and tried to run over Dempsey who tried to flag him down. Dempsey hit the barutch and shot several times at the fleeing suspect. He is still being sought.

The man Jones arrested is James A. Smith, 27, of San Angelo and he is being held in jail in lieu of $3,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace B. L. Blakeway.

Also charged in Blakeway's court are Johnny Blake and O. L. Chastain held in lieu of $1,500 bond on charges of receiving and concealing stolen goods.

Blake and Chastain were arrested in San Angelo Tuesday. The car's engine was found in Blake's garage. Most of the car's parts have been found with exception of the transmission and radio.

It has since developed that Smith has a previous prison record. It seems that Smith had bought a wrecked car, then stole a nearly new one of the same model, with the idea of rebuilding the wrecked one with parts from the stolen one. Then the wrecked car which he bought—with a hot check—was repossessed. That ended his rebuilding job, so he had to start selling the parts from the "new" car.

It was all quite involved and the officers have had quite a time piecing together all the details.

But one actor is still at large.

Cub Scouts To Have Christmas Party Tonight

The Cub Scouts are scheduled to have a pack meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 at the Memorial Building. All Cubs and their families are urged to attend. The boys will bring gifts of food and toys to be shared with under-privileged children at Christmas.

Bob Rowe is now Cubmaster and Dan Sebesta is committee chairman.

Historical Group Is Now Organized

On Thursday afternoon, December 6, ten Schleicher citizens met in the Memorial Building in response to Judge Dick Bearce's request to persons interested in the current Texas Historical Surveys and designations of "Medallion" buildings. Mrs. J. Forrest Runge acted as chairman since she has been chairman since the inception of the committee several years ago.

Judge Bearce announced that the Colonel Black home near Fort McKavett, which is owned by Mrs. Camilla Black Raggio and H. Leslie Jones of San Angelo, had been approved as a Medallion Building, but that the second Schleicher building proposed for one, the County Jail, built around 1905, had not been approved.

After some discussion, the group voted to request the Texas state committee to reconsider and approve the jail although it was granted that the jail would not have the attraction for tourists as would the "Black" home at Fort McKavett; but that the jail might become a great attraction in the future.

The group then named Mrs. Ed Hill as permanent chairman and Mrs. Ida Neill as secretary-treasurer for a record of committee actions and should fund raising occasion arise.

The committee then went into a considerable discussion about buildings which might be of enough interest for historical significance.

Mrs. W. O. Alexander recalled that the jail had just been completed when as a bride she came to Eldorado, and that the boys of the sheriff, Jim Craig, used to climb all over the jail and that she and others were "scared to death" that they would fall, but they never did.

Another interesting anecdote was related by Don McCormick who recalled that a young lady, a member of the Roberts family, died, and her glass slippers were part of her burial attire. This woman, youngest at the time of her death, is still buried in the old cemetery in North Eldorado marked only by a single remaining stone. Mr. McCormick also related that he had assisted in the disinterment and reburial of one man who had been buried in the old cemetery.

It was brought out that all the persons had not been disinterred and reburied in the present cemetery because this could be done only if the dead person's relatives authorized the change. It is instantly apparent that it would be very difficult to find such relatives of those families now scattered by more than half a century.

It was agreed that the persons present could constitute a Schleicher Historical Committee and perform a very valuable service in performing the names, families, and doings of those who had made Schleicher County in its early days but that now was the time since the people who know of the beginnings of the county are fast disappearing from the scene. It was agreed that an appeal would be broadcast to all such persons with knowledge or anecdotes concerning the county to jot them down so that these stories and occurrences would be collected and preserved.

Mrs. Ed Hill, chairman, and Mrs. L. M. Hoover, have already done considerable work in this respect.

The persons making up the first meeting included Mrs. J. Forrest Runge, Mrs. L. M. Hoover, Mrs. Ida Neill, Judge Dick Bearce, Joel Meador, Peyton Cain, A. G. McCormack, Don McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Alexander, Miss Ruth Baker, and Mrs. Ed Hill. They agreed that Schleicher Medallion building or buildings as the case may be should be dedicated the same day and that this was the first order or business but that the longer range objectives of collection, compilation, and preservation of names, deeds, and occurrences, which have made Schleicher history, should be begun immediately.

Gus Love Rent House Destroyed By Fire

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed a Gus Love rent house near the airport Saturday morning. A neighbor, Lillian Crosby, turned in the alarm about 4:30 when the house was completely ablaze and the flames lit up her window.

Eldorado firemen responded to the alarm promptly and put out the fire, but not until the interior was gutted and part of the roof fallen in. It was a still morning with no wind which enabled the firemen to keep the blaze from spreading to nearby property. A strong west wind would have made things dangerous for the Crosby and Gunstead residences.

The house was equipped with furniture. Mr. Love had insurance.

The house was the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Whiteley until about a year ago when it was sold to Gus Love. A succession of renters occupied the house since that time, but at the time of the fire it was unoccupied.

Musical Programs Are Set For Sunday Night

At least two of Eldorado's churches have their Christmas musical programs set for this coming Sunday night, December 16th.

The Presbyterian choir is being joined by the youth choir of the Methodist church in presenting their program at 7:00 p.m. in the Presbyterian church.

At 8:00, the choir of the First Baptist church will present the cantata, "The Herald Angels Sing," under direction of Frank O'Banion.

Soloists for the cantata are: Weldon Davis, Miss Mickey Phelps, and Miss Terry Phelps. Mrs. Vernon Rogers and Miss Pat Rogers will sing a duet and also Mrs. Billy Frank Blaylock and Mrs. Vernon Rogers. The choir numbers are very pretty and we invite everyone to attend, Mr. O'Banion stated.

Eldorado people can attend both of these musical programs if they so desire, since the first one is to last less than 45 minutes.

Christmas Greeting Edition Of Success Coming Out Next Week

A week from today—on Thursday, December 20th—the Eldorado Success annual Christmas Greeting Edition will be published for our readers. As has been our custom for the past several years, this largest paper of the year will have combined with it the edition for the following week, Dec. 27, in order for the crew to take a week's vacation.

Special sections are in the making which will include Christmas stories, articles, and features. As a new addition this year, we will include letters to Santa Claus from third grade pupils of the Eldorado public schools.

We will take a lengthy and nostalgic look at the year 1932, which was drawing to a close 30 years ago and which was the "Trough Of the Depression."

Nearly all local merchants, as usual, will carry a greeting message for their many customers and friends in this issue.

In addition, some individuals in recent years have placed ads of the season in this issue to greet their local and county friends, instead of the more costly way of sending out Christmas cards, and too, many people receive your message you would not normally send cards to. The Success goes into most Schleicher county homes, and how else can you send your greetings of the season to so many—and for so little a cost?

Christmas greeting ads run from $2.10 up to almost any size—up to a page, and we have one of the best art services money can buy.

All individuals, merchants, and firms not yet contacted by early next week for a greeting, are asked to call the Success office.

The Success crew have been at work on the Christmas Greeting Edition for many weeks. It will be in the mails at the usual time on Thursday, December 20th.

ATTENTION, ALL CHURCH NEWS REPORTERS:

All pastors and other reporters of church news are asked to compile news of their respective churches' plans for the two Sundays during the holidays, and turn them in to the Success, by Monday, if possible.

Temperature Drops To 18 Degrees Here

Cotton farmers finally got the freeze they were looking for.

Thermometers in Eldorado registered 18 degrees early yesterday morning. Cold blustery winds which prevailed all day Tuesday died down during the night and Wednesday morning dawned clear and still with the mercury taking a nose dive.

Cotton farmers have been praying for it for weeks to kill green stalks and foliage so that the remaining crop could be stripped.

The gin total yesterday morning stood at 2,100 bales and it is expected that the remaining crop will begin moving in rapidly.

Since the cold spell was strictly a dry one followed by clear weather, there is nothing to prevent strippers from entering the fields as soon as they are ready. For the next few weeks there probably won't be enough machines in the county to fill the machine.

LOST PURSE RETURNED

Miss John Alexander lost her purse in Eldorado some time ago and was very surprised to hear that it had been found and turned over to the police department in San Angelo.

Jack Jones heard it on radio and told Miss John about it. Later, he picked it up and brought it to her.

She stated that it had been turned over to the police by a Mr. Asury of San Angelo and looked as if it had been run over. Billfold and coin purse were gone.

The Menard News recently came up with this "believe-it-or-not":

Ladies of the Wednesday Bridge Club came upon a real oddity last week.

The cards were shuffled by Mrs. William Lewis, Mrs. John Royal cut, and Mrs. Larry O'Neill dealt.

Mrs. O'Neill looked at her hand, and must have felt like swallowing her tongue. She opened with a forcing bid of two hearts.

Mrs. Lewis, after making sure her eyes weren't playing tricks on her, bid seven clubs.

Mrs. Fritz Luckenbach, Mrs. O'Neill's partner, bid seven spades. Since all her cards were spades, she had a laydown, and everyone showed her hand. Mrs. O'Neill had 13 hearts, Mrs. Lewis 13 clubs and Mrs. Royal 13 diamonds.

Ratliff's is having a pre-Christmas clearance sale beginning today. The sale is being held at both the Eldorado and Sonora stores.

Complete details are in their ad on page 6 of this Success issue.

Mrs. O. L. Woodward states that she is continuing to operate her Eldorado Flower Shop but that she now will handle only wreaths and artificial flowers.

New in Eldorado: Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Free and two children moved to Eldorado this week and have rented the Auta Mae Yates house. Mr. Free takes over a job as gauger for Service Pipe Line, taking the place formerly occupied by W. A. Menees who moved to Athens some time ago.

J. R. Steele Jr. has moved here and rented a Riley house. He is with Halliburton.

J. W. Emerick, new here with Shell, has moved to the Jack Neill house.

People moving: The C. B. Thacker family have moved from the Auta Mae Yates house to the Lum Davis rent house.

Christmas Observance Was Once Illegal

Celebration of Christmas, the most widely observed religious holiday of the modern world—was at one time illegal in early American history.

Colonial New England did not celebrate Christmas, according to researchers at Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia, because the stern Puritan colonists believed that such activities were wholly pagan and forbade them by law. Christmas came to the American colonies while it was the subject of strenuous controversy in England. English Puritans condemned it as "popish" and the secular celebration as a "wanton Bacchanalian feast."

Opposition of the English Puritans to festivals culminated in an act of Parliament in 1647 which abolished the observance of Christmas, Easter and Whitsuntide. This was echoed in the American colonies in 1659 when Puritans enacted a law in the general court of Massachusetts to punish those who "kept Christmas."

The law read "Whosoever shall be found observing any such day as Christmas or the like, either by forbearing of labor, feasting, or in any other way . . . shall be subject to a fine of five shillings."

The law was repealed in 1681 but many of the Puritans were not reconciled to this action. Secular reveling at Christmas had often interfered with religious devotions and offended the Puritans' moral sense. This intensified their sectarian hostility to the religious observance of Christmas—an attitude they maintained for the better part of two centuries in parts of New England.

The fun-loving Dutch colonists of New Amsterdam, however, celebrated Christmas as their chief holiday. They brought the old customs from their homeland, especially the Christmas stocking and observance of the feast day of St. Nicholas.

In the Southern colonies, the planters celebrated the yuletide with feasting, singing, and dancing. On many plantations slaves were given a holiday as long as the great yule log burned.

The latter half of the eighteenth century saw a swing of attention to the realm of economics and politics and religious controversies became of less importance. The fact that English and Hessian troops celebrated Christmas during the Revolutionary War may have added a patriotic note to the denominational controversy.

General Washington crossed the Delaware River on the night of December 25, 1776, to surprise and defeat the Hessian troops stationed at Trenton, N. J. In the opinion of one writer, Washington's bold venture succeeded because the Hessians were enjoying their customary Christmas revels and failed to maintain the usual watch and patrols.

However, denominational opposition to the ecclesiastic observance of Christmas continued into the second half of the nineteenth century. An account in the New York Daily Times for December 26, 1855 read:

"The churches of the Presbyterians, Baptists, and Methodists were not open on Dec. 25 except where some Mission Schools had a celebration. They do not accept the day as a Holy One, but the Episcopalian, Catholic and German Churches were all open. Inside they were decked with evregreens."

In the twentieth century, all denominations have embraced Christmas widely both as a religious and as a social celebration. Today, men, women and children in every Christian land crowd into churches to give their thanks. More than one fourth of the world's population—about 800 million people, profess some form of Christian faith.

The splendor and beauty of Christmas observances is very different from the humble stable in Bethlehem where Christ was born; but the message He brought to the world is the same—"Glory be to God in the highest; and on earth, peace, good will toward men."

Growing Of Christmas Trees A Big Industry

The commercial Christmas tree you buy this year most likely did not "just grow" like topsy. Chances are the tree you enjoy during the holidays has for several years received careful attention from a tree farmer.

Growing Christmas trees requires almost as much care as cotton, tobacco, or any other commercial crop—and Christmas trees are grown with the idea of producing a compact, well-shaped tree about seven or eight years old. Christmas tree customers have established such high standards that great stress is put on the quality of the tree, whether it be Fraser fir, Douglas fir, red cedar, Scotch pine, Arizona cypress, white pine or other popular varieties.

Commercial growers of the Fraser fir, for instance, start cutting back the side and top branches when the tree is about two or three feet high. Each year, in dormant months, the tree is sheared.

The average grower plants 2700 trees to the acre. Each year he mows around them for weed control and he maintains fire lanes. He examines each tree once a year and each tree is sheared annually the third through the sixth years.

The big job—harvesting—comes the seventh year. Trees are carefully cut and transported immediately to market.

WELDON B. GIBSON, Ph. D.

Dr. Gibson Is Honored By Sports Illustrated

New York.—The 1962 Sports Illustrated All-America roster is announced and four of the 29 men honored are Californians. They are Dr. Weldon B. Gibson of Stanford University, Donald Hart of Bakersfield, John Oswald of Berkeley and Walter Zable of San Diego. They join such other winners as Associate U. S. Supreme Court Justice Byron "Whizzer" White, Yale's Clint Frank, and Pitt's John Michelson.

All ex-gridders who played their last collegiate games in 1937, this year's group has achieved great distinction in business, medicine, the law, education, the military, the ministry and public service.

Dr. Gibson, nominee of Washington State University, is today executive vice president of the Stanford Research Institute.

Weldon Bailey Gibson, nominated for the 1962 Sports Illustrated Silver Anniversary All-America Award by his alma mater, Washington State University, was a senior letterman at center there in the fall of 1937. He was graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Administration in June of 1938.

Beginning with Stanford Research Institute in 1947 as chairman of Economics Research, Dr. Gibson was largely responsible for the Economics Division's steady growth in size and international prominence. He expanded the scope of Institute activity to include research projects throughout the United States and in Europe, South America, and the Near and Far East.

Dr. Gibson played a prominent part in Stanford Research Institute's 1951 survey of the Italian mechanical industries. In 1952 he participated in a mission to Italy—organized jointly by the Institute and the Organization for European Economic Cooperation to study the nation's facilities for industrial research. During the last few years he has traveled extensively in Europe, the Near East, South Asia, and the Far East in connection with SRI's international activities. In early 1957, under Ford Foundation auspices, Dr. Gibson studied economic development problems in India, Pakistan, Iran, and other Asian and Near East countries. In October, 1957, he was co-director of the International Industrial Development Conference which brought together 550 of the world's leading industrial and economic leaders in San Francisco to consider the problem of international development.

In October, 1946, the United States presented him the Medal of the Legion of Merit. The British government awarded him the order of Commander of the British Empire in January, 1947. In 1949 he was appointed a consultant to the National Security Resources Board and the Bureau of the Budget.

His classmates called him "Hoot" after the famous western movie star of the era. Gibson was born in Eldorado, Texas, graduated from Eldorado High school in 1934, and entered Washington State from Chandler, Arizona. With that southwest background, and with the name Gibson, he had to be "Hoot."

He is now Dr. Weldon B. Gibson, executive vice president of Stanford Research Institute, Menlo Park, California. On Saturday afternoons during the Fall when the Stanford Indians are playing at home in the big Stanford bowl, you'll find "Hoot" on one end of the yardage chain. That's as close to the action as he can get.

A couple of seasons back, Gibson was in Rome winding up an important conference with some industrialists on behalf of Stanford Research Institute, which he then served as head of economics research. It was Thursday, and Stanford and Washington State were scheduled at Stanford on Saturday. "Hoot" wound up his meetings late Thursday night, caught a plane out of Rome early Friday, changed planes once in New York and arrived in San Francisco at noon Saturday. He was with the chain gang at mid-field when the Cougars and Indians lined up for the kick-

D. in 1949. For five years Dr. Gibson was a regular lecturer on transportation and business economics at the University.

Prior to World War II, he was with the Burroughs Adding Machine Company and the Standard Oil Company of California, both of San Francisco.

During the war, Dr. Gibson served in the Air Force and spent four years at Wright Field, Ohio, where he was director of Material Requirements for the USAF. Home Demonstration Agent's Column

By MRS. VIDA KREKUCW

The Department of Agriculture has begun the publication of a weekly news letter called Food and Home Notes. I enjoy reading "What's New" and I think you will too. This issue came in today's mail.

A perfectly wonderful cook told me the other day that she couldn't make good pie crust; I hope she reads this—all the way through. Less Fat Needed With New Pastry Mixing Methods

Many expert cooks are convinced the only way to make flaky, tender pastry is to use a lot of fat. But U. S. Department of Agriculture scientists, seeking ways to reduce fat in baked products, announce two methods of mixing pastry dough that make high-quality pastry with less than the usual amount of fat. And the methods are not difficult, say food specialists of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

One of the mixing methods uses liquid cooking oil; the other, solid fat.

With Liquid Oils

Ingredients for a two-crust pie pastry using liquid oils are 1/2 cup minus 1 tablespoon cooking oil, 1/4 cup water, 2 cups all-purpose flour, and 3/4 teaspoon salt.

Shake together water and oil (both at room temperature). Sprinkle this into the dry ingredients while blending with an electric mixer at lowest speed for three minutes. Or, you can stir it with a fork. The dough will appear dry but it can be easily molded by hand. Shape the dough into a ball, roll out between waxed paper. Place the pastry in the pie pan and bake.

Researchers explain that sprinkling the oil and water into the dry ingredients evenly distributes them throughout the mixture—and it's this even distribution that makes melt-in-the-mouth pastry.

Corn, cottonseed, soybean, and safflower oil work equally well.

With Solid Fat

Even distribution of fat and water is also responsible for the success of the solid-fat method which allows you to use less fat than usual. With this method, the water is not added until after the fat has been blended with the dry ingredients. Ingredients for a two-crust pie pastry are 1/2 cup solid fat, 3 tablespoons water, 2 cups all-purpose flour, and 3/4 teaspoon salt.

Using an electric mixer, on the lowest speed, blend room-temperature fat into dry ingredients for two minutes, then sprinkle in the water and blend one minute. By breaking the solid fat finely and adding the water by sprinkling, you should get an even distribution of water and fat in the pastry. The dough will look dry and crumbly, but it will hold together in a ball. Rolling between sheets of waxed paper is also suggested for solid-fat pastry. The result will be a flaky, tender pie crust.

How is the cookie situation at your house? If both cookies and time are running out, let me recommend that you try this all time high rating recipe given to me some long time ago by Mrs. Owen Fry. Dean said that they didn't have a name, but I dubbed them Dean's Dandies

- 3/4 cup butter or other fat
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup molasses
- 2 cups flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 egg.

Melt fat in saucepan. Add sugar and molasses. Add dry ingredients and the egg, beaten. Mix well. Spread to about 1/2 inch thick in greased pan. Bake in 325 oven for 20-25 minutes.

Ice while warm with 1 cup powdered sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, dash salt, 2 tablespoons sweet cream.

Cut in squares before cookies cool. These are good enough for Christmas.

You may have kept the paper with this recipe, but don't look it up. If I remember correctly, there was an error in it—so start all over from here.

Rites For Becky Chavez

Graveside services were held here last week for Becky Chavez, 19-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eisevo Martinez of Eldorado.

On Wednesday, Schleicher County Deputy Sheriff Jack Jones rushed the child to the Sonora hospital with pneumonia and again that afternoon he and County Commissioner Joe Wagley rushed her to San Angelo in a real emergency as she was almost choking. The San Angelo police and the State Highway Patrol assisted. The child died that night at about 11:00 o'clock in Shannon hospital.

She was born May 4, 1961 in Eldorado.

Survivors include the parents; two sisters, Lupe Chavez and Virginia Martinez, both of Eldorado; and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Adondo of Eldorado and Mrs. Julia Martinez of Greeley.

Eldorado-Divide Soil Conservation District News

Crop yields in the Eldorado Divide S.C.D. continues to be higher from land given good soil, water and plant conservation treatment, than from land with little conservation applied. Farmers throughout the district are experiencing better crop yields on land that has received good conservation treatment.

This year's cotton crop on Ben Hext's farm 7 miles southwest of Eldorado was no exception to the rule that good land treatment contributes to better crop yields. Ben estimates that his cotton, on land that had 12 tons of green cane per acre returned to the soil in 1959, made 3/4 bale per acre as compared to 1/4 bale per acre on other land. This occurred in the same field and the same patch. "The difference in the cotton could be seen on two rows side by side," Hext stated. Other than the cane being used as a cover and soil improving crop on part of the field, all the field has received the same treatment. Following the cane in 1959 combine maize was planted on the field the next two years. "Maize yields on the land following the cane was some better than other maize in the same field," Ben stated.

The use of a crop for soil improvement and protection is not a practice used by Hext one out of several years. Each year a crop such as cane or sudan is planted and used for soil improving purposes. By rotating a soil improving crop with high residue producing and clean tilled crops, Hext is assured that his soil will be kept in good condition for good crop yields.

Cotton dying from root rot is almost a thing of the past on Hext's farm. This year all the dead cotton from root rot was less than 1 1/2 acres. Fields with little or no dead cotton from root rot always have better chance to produce more per acre than fields with lots of dead cotton.

By using a good conservation cropping system whereby the soil condition is continuously improved, crop yields also improve until the maximum potential production is reached.

Crops for soil improvement and for protection against erosion by both wind and water, should have high priority in every farming operation. However the maximum benefits can not be attained by any one soil, water and plant conservation practice. By using each are of agricultural land according to its capability and treating it according to all its needs, maximum benefits can be attained.

BAILEY RANCH SUPPER CLUB TO MEET SATURDAY

Bailey Ranch Supper Club is scheduled to meet Saturday night with the Peyton Cains, beginning about a comfortable 6:30 to 7:00 o'clock p.m. The supper is a covered dish affair, served buffet style; and judging from past suppers, the food is scheduled to be outstanding. Last supper was at the Vernal Sudduth home.

The Bailey Ranch Supper Club idea grew from the original supper celebrating the inauguration of the mail route through the Bailey Ranch Community last summer and the first meeting was held at the Victor Kent home. The next several summer time meetings developed into ice cream suppers but as the weather grew colder, Bailey Ranch citizens decided to move indoors with the meetings.

The meetings have no set pattern but usually include the delicious food and a period of visiting and news. For the past several meetings, various types of movies have been shown, usually of educational nature on subjects of interest to Bailey Ranch residents. These films have been secured by Ben Hext, charter member of the organization.

Usually from 15 to 30 persons are present. The periods of talk and discussion have proven so pleasant that the idea of the monthly meeting developed. Participants are studying means of enlarging the scope of the get-togethers in an effort to share the friendliness and pleasure of the meetings.

'Merrill's Marauders' Is Set In World War II

"Merrill's Marauders," which is showing tonight and Friday night at the Eagle Drive-in Theatre, is a curiously fascinating study of a war chapter. It may appeal more to adults for its subtly seething documentary flavor than to youngsters looking for hard-riding and loud-shooting heroics. It is in Technicolor and is a Warner Brothers release.

There was monumental valor in World War II but the age had made it a mass effort of plodding movement and quiet dying. There were no Horatios at the Bridge or Teddy Roosevelts at San Juan Hill. Warfare had left its "spectaculars" to the past.

The "Marauders" were the 3,000 volunteers who crossed into Burma in 1944 to get behind the Japanese to clear them out of 5,000 square miles. It was a succession of mopping-up victories; long advances so dull and harried by pestilential neat that they became dramatic suspense of a sort.

The best trooper of all is Gen. Frank Merrill, played sensitively by the late Jeff Chandler, an especially profound and emotional actor who was invariably given superficial he-mannish roles.

Chandler does a bit of probing for the inner Merrill. He patiently and fatalistically sucks a long-stemmed pipe and bites off the task skirmish by skirmish, surviving the heat and a heart attack himself.

"Merrill's Marauders" provides a fascinating insight into this phase of the World War II period.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Lee Johnson spent last Thursday night here with her mother, Mrs. Bertha Wilson. The Johnsons had been in Gonzales where his mother is in the hospital recovering from a stroke. They left Friday to return to their home at Kermit.

As your life insurance agent, I feel it is my responsibility to you as a client, to keep you up-to-date on all advancements and improvements in my business.
As you probably know, the cost of a stay in the hospital has more than doubled in the past ten years. Many hospitalization policies are now out of date because they do not provide adequate coverage and many companies have not kept up with rapidly changing medical expenses.
Amicable Life has recently designed a plan to provide the most complete coverage possible for each individual, at the lowest possible premium. Whether you presently have hospitalization or not, I would like to discuss with you the specific needs and coverage of your family.

Judging Is Next Week In Decorating Contest

Again this year the Eldorado Lions club and the Eldorado Study Club are sponsoring a decorating contest of residences in Eldorado and Schleicher county.

Judging in the contest is to be done a week from tonight, on December 20th. That evening, the judges will drive around Eldorado and make their decision on winners. A $10 prize will be given for best decorated yard or roof, and $5 each will be given for best decorated door and most attractive window display.

Residents who live out in the county or in outlying parts of Eldorado and who wish to be judged, should call Mrs. Warnock at 21801, between now and next Thursday, and she will see that the carload of judges goes by.

Already a number of attractive displays are in evidence in the residential areas of Eldorado.

Reservists Meet

Lt. Arlan L. Fenner, officer in charge of the 1st and 2nd Platoons of Troop "B" 15th Cavalry with Headquarters at Sonora, said at the December 11 training period that he still had received none but oral information concerning the relocation of the Sonora and Junction units to Boerne, Texas.

He continued that an order from Captain Verne D. King, Unit Advisor for this area, had greatly relaxed the training routine and that now members of his command were principally engaged in care and accounting for clothing and equipment issued to them and in maintenance of the M48 tank and the weapons in the Army preparatory to their turn in when ordered.

Lt. Fenner continued that the quarterly payroll arrived on December 11 in time for distribution the night of December 11, and that this had greatly cheered up the men as their pay was certainly welcome just before Christmas.

He said that four Reservists had been reassigned to Standby instead of to Active Status. These men are Pvt Childress of Ozona, Pfc Robert E. Moore and Pfc Duwani Sauer, both of Eldorado, and M/Sgt. Charles Haines formerly of Sonora but now of Odessa.

Lt. Fenner concluded that as of this time he was not sure when the Sonora unit would cease to exist but that he had reason to believe that it would not be later than February 25, 1963.

Eldorado Assisted with 'Operation Toy Lift'

Christmas, Santa Claus, gifts, and a traveling vaudeville act converged on Dallas and Fort Worth last Saturday to help make the Yule season happier for hundreds of specially invited youngsters. It was annual cross-country jaunt of Operation Toy Lift, an unusual venture with the aim of creating broad grins on the faces of thousands of orphans throughout the U. S.

By plane, (landing at Redbird Airport), Santa and loads of gifts came from Santa's workshop at North Pole, Colo.

Margo Mittel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Mittel, who worked at Santa's workshop this past summer, met the group in Fort Worth and assisted with project there and in Dallas. Margo is a senior student at Baylor.

A large part of the Toy Lift funds come from coins tossed in wishing well at North Pole, Colo., all year.

King Radio Corp. of Olathe, Ks., donates the plane to fly Santa and his helpers. Many suppliers, merchants and others also have contributed through the years.

Margo's picture and an article regarding the Toy Lift Project, appeared in a recent magazine section of the Dallas Times-Herald.

Mrs. Clark has returned to her home in Rotan after a visit with her son, C. N. Clark and Mrs. Clark at Huldale.

Mrs. L. T. Wilson visited her grandson, Bruce Wilson and family in San Angelo Monday.

Mrs. John Luedeeke continues in critical condition in the Sonora hospital.

Woman's Club Has Their Christmas Meeting

The Woman's club met Tuesday afternoon for their regular meeting and Christmas program. The club room was decorated for the Christmas season and the program was on Christmas Around the World.

Mrs. Edwin Jackson gave the Inspirational Thought that Christmas is the most beautiful season of a Christian's year. Mrs. Bascom Hartgraves was leader of the day. Miss Miltia Hill talked on Christmas in Germany and England. Mrs. R. D. Johnson discussed origins, traditions, etc., and told how they celebrate Christmas in Norway, Belgium, Holland and France.

Mrs. Hartgraves talked about What Christmas Is and how it is observed in Mexico and Russia. An offering was taken to buy a plant for the rest home at Christoval.

Refreshments of fruit cake, coffee and nuts were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Arch Mittel and Mrs. W. A. Van Dusen to 14 members and one guest, Mrs. E. L. Dyer.

Ronnie Mittel, office manager for the A.S.C. here, reported yesterday that 28 votes were cast Tuesday in the cotton referendum vote in this county. He continued that 11 Schleicher producers opposed the quotas while 17 approved them. Mr. Mittel concluded that more producers voted than usual this year and that the 2/3's ratio of approval was very close.

Johnny and Hazel Tigrett have rented the Cleve Clark house.

Editorial Comments From Our Neighbors

Historical—Or Hysterical?

Awarding of historical medals for Mission San Saba (actually Presidio de San Saba) and Fort McKavett marks another step toward recognition of the two important historical landmarks of Menard county.

As rich in history as Menard county is, however, it seems that the county's citizens in general would become more interested in it. Attendance at meetings of a historical function has been disappointing.

And we strongly suspect that when a stranger in town asks information regarding the two historical shrines, he often gets an answer something like this:

"Go see the newspaper editor, he's a historical nut."

Contrast this with Santa Fe, Williamsburg, St. Augustine, Vicksburg. In those places almost every citizen has a knowledge of the community's history, and can tell a stranger about it. The knowledge is instilled in every school child.

How many school children in Menard know anything about the role in history of the Mission San Saba or Fort McKavett? If you walked down the main street, asking everyone you met, how many could tell you about them?

That they do not know probably is not their fault, for up to now, published information has been scanty. Yet if our community is to be recognized for its history, if it is to draw tourists in appreciable numbers because of the important historical events which occurred here, then our citizens should know about them.

How many people, for example, ever heard of Puerto de Baluartes, the passage between the hills entering Menard from the south? How many ever heard of Paso de la Santa Cruz, a ford on the San Saba River near Menard?

How many can tell you when, by whom and for whom the San Saba River was named, and that the first name given it by white men was el Rio San Saba de las Nueces?

How many know that the Spaniards did not call Las Moras Creek by that Spanish name but another: Arroyo de la Abuela (Grandmother's Creek)?

A good project for Menard County Chamber of Commerce would be to discover and mark such places with their Spanish names. It would be a move which would help every citizen to become aware of the community's history, and a step toward making our community really attractive to visitors with historical interests. —The Menard News.

Girls Win Tournament

The Eldorado girls set a new three game scoring record of 126 points on their way to the first place trophy in the Eldorado tournament.

Thursday night the girls beat Miles by a 45-31 score led by Christy Moore with 24 points. Jan Davis added 14 more. Linda Nixon and Tissie Enochs did their usual fine job on defensive, but Joan Griffin was outstanding in rebounding and guarding during the entire tournament.

Friday night the girls bested Menard by a 40-21 score again led by Christy with 17, followed by Jan Davis with 12 and Susie Scott with 11. These forwards plus Marsha Mund not only contributed points but also rebounded and played fine defensive ball.

After reaching the finals, the girls displayed a real desire to play. They were defeated by Mason in last year's tournament and this year were not to be denied. After the first quarter there was never any doubt that the girls were determined. At half-time they led 20-10 and as the game ended the score stood 41-21. Jan Davis, Christy Moore and Tissie Enochs were all named to the all-tournament team and Linda Nixon was named outstanding player.

However, it should be noted that the Eldorado girls played as a team and every team member deserved a trophy for desire to win, and never ceasing hustle.

Girls To Play In Christoval Meet

In preparation for the Christoval Tournament this week end, the Eldorado girls were host to class AA Brady Tuesday night. Brady barely managed at 39-37 to win, after having defeated the girls earlier in the season 46-36.

Susie Scott hit the basket most consistently and made 19 points. She was followed by Jan Davis, Christy Moore, and Marsha Mund with 6, 8, and 4 points.

The girls stand 7-2 for the season with both losses to Brady.

In the B game Brady won 32-19. Karen Griffin netted 14 points for Eldorado.

The girls play their first game of the Christoval meet at 12:30 p.m. Thursday. The Eldorado boys play immediately afterward. If the girls beat Water Valley, their second game will be at 1:00 p.m. Friday.

The finals are scheduled for 7:40 p.m. Saturday. The Eagles appreciate your support.

Hemingway's Story Comes To The Screen

"Hemingway's Adventures Of a Young Man," which comes to the Eagle Drive-In screen Saturday and Sunday nights in color, it has a scene about the young American driving an Italian Army ambulance through shot and shell, and most of the other Hemingway "reliables" are included in this 145-minute treatment of the author's autobiographical young hero, Nick Adams.

"Adventures" does emerge rather adventuresome, sometimes compelling and occasionally rather entertaining.

Utilizing an all-star cast in cameo appearances, the late Jerry Wald apparently was operating on the premise that if you throw in enough stars and use enough shots of autumn woods you are bound to please at least a majority of viewers.

Wald's choice was Richard Beymer to portray Nick Adams. Paul Newman has a brief appearance as The Battler, a punch drunk pug. Newman, a hobo jungle denizen, is one of the many who brush lives with Beymer as he makes his way across continents learning about life and engaging in little plot vignettes from 10 Hemingway short stories.

Others are Dan Dailey, the alcoholic; Ricardo Montalban, the understanding Italian army officer; Eli Wallach, the practical army orderly; Arthur Kennedy, the withdrawn father; Jessica Tandy, the domineering mother; Susan Strasberg, the nurse who falls in love with Nick.

The emotional and spiritual conflict between Beymer and his parents, which should be a pivotal point, never quite comes off, mainly because Beymer is one Hemingway son who doesn't also rise.

REYNOLDS H. D. CLUB HOLDS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Fourteen club members, two visitors, Mrs. Fred Case and Mrs. Charlie Warnock, and the agent, Mrs. Vida Krecklow, met for the Reynolds Home Demonstration Christmas party in the home of Mrs. W. E. DeLong.

The house was decorated to furnish a real Christmas atmosphere. The silver tree that stood in the corner was decorated with lights and balls.

Mrs. Wayne Mikeska led a game "Bible Trees." Christmas Around the World was given by Mrs. Bascom Hartgraves. Christmas songs were led by Mrs. DeLong and gifts were exchanged.

It was suggested that each one send Christmas cards to the service men of the community. Everyone was given Frank's address, which is: Williams, W. F. SA 525-59-24, 2nd Division, USS Boston, CAG-1, % Fleet Post Office, New York, N.Y.

Refreshments of fruit cake, several kinds of candy and cookies and spiced tea and coffee were served.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 8, 1963, with Mrs. Bascom Hartgraves. —Rep.

Christmas Season a Time For Safety Measures

Austin.—It is ironic that the Christmas season, despite the festive atmosphere, is among the most potentially hazardous times of the year. Most often the agents of tragedy are the very things intended to bring pleasure—the gifts, the lights, and the gaily decorated tree.

But State Health Department safety experts report most tragedy is avoidable when ordinary discretion is used in selecting presents and decorations.

Almost all young children tend to taste-test their toys. This is why the lead poisoning death rate among children of the United States is about 60 per year. Most manufacturers use safe paint on toys, but some do not. Safety painted toys or children's furniture can be identified by the legend: "Conforms to American standard Z66.1—1955 for use on surfaces which might be chewed."

Some plastic toys are so flammable that the slightest contact with a lighted cigarette or match will set off a blaze. Certain types of plastic will burst into flame even at a distance from fire. Others may break with razor-sharp, jagged edges.

Most American toy manufacturers use unbreakable, nonflammable plastics, but low-cost imports are not always so safe. It pays to be selective.

Manufacturers have been asked to cease making dolls and stuffed animals with eyes a toddler can pull off and swallow or stuff in his nose or ear. Meanwhile, mothers should remove such eyes and embroider new ones in their place.

Projectile-type toys such as pellet guns, darts, etc., inevitably cause their share of serious injury and deaths. It is mere common sense to accompany these gifts with strict enforcement of safety rules.

As for tree decorations, if the box doesn't say "flameproof" don't buy it. Use only decorative lighting carrying the Underwriters Laboratory tag of approval. And make it a habit to pull the power cord from the wall outlet when you leave home. This is important because insulation failures and overheated circuits could develop while you are away.

To keep the tree from drying out so quickly, try standing it in a pan of water throughout the holidays. Be sure to add water from time to time so the entire stem will be submerged. As an added precaution, take the tree down immediately after the holiday period. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, of Texas State Department of Health.)

Austin.—After a four-year test, Texas' May-June primary election set-up may be on its way out.

A cursory check of legislators at a recent gathering here found strong support particularly among the big-city members who had Republican opponents, for a return to the August-September primary system.

Growth of the Republican party in Texas means that Democrats now face hard campaigns, in many districts, in the fall months, in addition to the strenuous spring campaigns. Many legislators are talking seriously about moving the primaries to August and September. This, so voters won't have to be whipped up to voting moods twice a year.

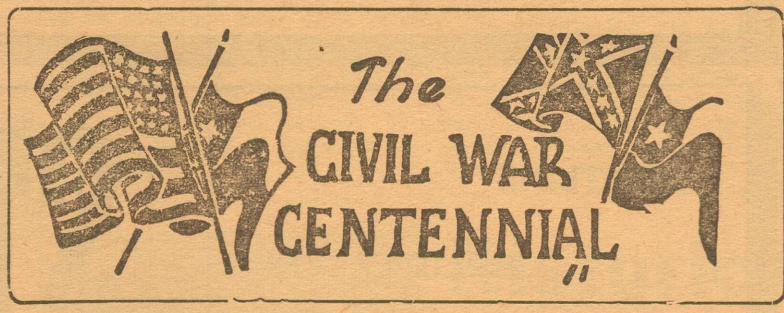

There is some strong resistance to returning to the old way, however.

Sen. Abraham Kazen Jr. of Laredo, a member of the special election law revision committee, said a change like this would require a complicated revision of the code that would be almost impossible to accomplish during a regular session.

Kazen represents an area in South Texas where thousands of migrant farm workers, who leave home for the summer and fall, have had their first chance to vote in the primaries under the May-June system.

Some legislators would block a change because so many school teachers are at home to vote in May, but are in colleges or on trips in the summer. The late Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio, who pushed for the change to spring primaries, once said that August run-offs worked a real hardship on candidates like himself, since many

Buy It In Eldorado!

The American Civil War was an amazing one both for its "firsts" for for its oddities. Herewith in this week's column some of the odd things that took place during the conflict—some famous, some not so famous.

More Americans died during the Civil War than in any other war, including the Revolutionary War, World War II, and the Korean Conflict. All told, about 700,000 were killed or died as a result of the War.

Yet this Battle Between Brothers accomplished many necessary and worthwhile things. It preserved the Union, and led to a stronger central government. It fostered the industrialization of the South. And it produced a folklore, a humor, and oddities that still entertain us.

There were some 30 names for the Civil War, including "Mr. Lincoln's War," "The War To Suppress Yankee Arrogance," and "The Lost Cause."

The Union Army had one company of soldiers made up entirely of prize fighters, another of butchers.

Two of the War's fiercest battles may be said to have been caused by trifles.

1. The battle of Gettysburg began when a few soldiers needed shoes, and their column was sent to that Pennsylvania village for them.

2. A mislaid Army order, which a Confederate officer had used to wrap three cigars in, was found by a Federal officer. The information enabled the usually cautious General McClellan to attack Lee's divided army at Antietam, Maryland.

The two foremost best-selling novels in American history have been related to the Civil War—and with conflicting viewpoints. One was Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and the other Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind."

For famished Confederate soldiers, one of the most glorious victories of the War came when they raided a Federal Depot at Manassas Junction, and gorged themselves on pickled lobster and canned oysters.

And at a siege of Port Hudson, Miss., Southern quartermasters had to slaughter mules to keep the troops alive. Word of this leaked to the Yankees, who appeared on the river bank next morning braying loudly in imitation of mules.

of their best financial backers were out of state during the summer.

Poll Tax Controversy

The Texas Election Study Committee heard many divergent opinions on the requirements for a voter registration law during its public hearings in the senate chamber.

Main point of discussion was whether or not a literacy test should be required if the poll tax system is abolished.

League of Women Voters, represented by Mrs. Maurice H. Brown of Waco, did not approve of a literacy test. Mrs. Brown said her group recommended a uniform registration plan for all voters, and offered the committee a draft of a bill which offers permanent registration.

Several witnesses, including Isaac Satterfield of Marshall, a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, advocated a literacy test.

Senator Kazen spoke out against it. He said since no literacy test is now required, he saw no reason why it should be necessary. "The only reason for a literacy test is to keep someone from voting," Kazen retorted.

Roy A. Evans, secretary-treasurer of the state AFL-CIO, said his organization opposed any discrimination against a person's national origin, financial status or educational background. The AFL-CIO also advocated a permanent registration plan, under which a voter would have a re-register only if he failed to vote in a two-year period.

Livestock Equal People

Texas has as many head of livestock as it does people.

According to an estimate by the Texas Animal Health Commission the livestock population is 10 million.

State Health Department estimated that the people population reached 10,000,000 last summer.

An audit of the State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners has also revealed that there is only one veterinarian for every 10,000 head of livestock. During the 1962 fiscal year, 1,184 vets renewed their licenses, 78 took exams to become veterinarians, and seven took out reciprocal licenses.

There are 8,700 medical doctors licensed to practice in the state, or one doctor for every 1,150 persons.

Crime Climb Slight

Major crime in Texas was way below the five per cent nationwide increase for the first nine months of 1962, according to an FBI report. A survey of crime in 12 representative cities showed an increase of only 0.29 per cent over the same period last year.

The FBI warned merchants to be alerted to the shoplifting trend as the Christmas shopping season progresses. They also cautioned shoppers against leaving packages unattended in unlocked cars or in plain view in locked cars.

No Inaugural Tickets

A ticket-less inaugural of Governor-elect John B. Connally and Lt. Governor-elect Preston Smith is the order for January 15.

William C. Long, general chairman of the Austin Inaugural Committee, emphasized that all inaugural functions will be open to all Texans without admission tickets.

The formal inauguration will be conducted under direction of the Legislature at noon at the Capitol.

Preceding it will be a dedicatory prayer breakfast at 8:00 a.m., to which the public also is invited.

Following the inauguration ceremony, there will be an Inaugural Parade on Congress Avenue, featuring military units, high school bands and civic floats.

A massive reception in the Capitol building is scheduled for the same evening. Entertainment will be provided in the Senate and House chambers.

LOWER COSTS ON Farm and Ranch LOANS

The Federal Land Bank of Houston has announced that effective on January 1, 1963, it will reduce temporarily to 5% the interest rate on all outstanding loans which presently bear a rate in excess of 5%. The contract rate on new loans will continue to be 5½% but interest on loans closed on and after December 1, 1962, will be billed at 5% until further notice by the bank.

This action is further evidence of our announced goal to supply your loan funds at the lowest possible cost.

Without obligation, come in and let's see if you and your land can qualify for the special benefits provided through one of our loans.
