Did You Know . . .

that the first Girl Scout uniforms were dark blue? The girls requested that the color be changed to khaki so they could pitch tents and cook outdoors without looking dusty and dirty.

that handicapped children can be Girl Scouts? The first troop for handicapped Girl Scouts was established in 1917 and the first Braille edition of the Girl Scout handbook was published in 1935.

that Girl Scouts have established wild-life sanctuaries throughout the United States in honor of the late Mrs. Herbert Hoover? One of the most enthusiastic supporters of the Girl Scout outdoor program, Mrs. Hoover was elected president of the Girl Scouts in 1925 and again in 1935, and as First Lady was honorary president of the Girl Scouts.

that Mariner Scouting for teenage girls started 20 years ago? Mariner Scouts wear sailor-blue uniforms and learn to handle small craft—canoes and sailboats. During the last few years, many Mariners have served as "crew" on a four-masted schooner.

that there are two international friendship centers for Girl Scouts and their Girl Guide friends? One, called "Our Chalet," is in the Alps near Adelboden, Switzerland. The other, just completed this year, is in the mountains of Mexico near Cuernavaca. It is called "Our Cabana."

Mr. and Mrs. Don McCormick spent the week end in Austin where they visited their daughter, Donna Beth.

Three Scout Generations Prove Character Formula

In 1912, when Juliette Low determined to bring the British Guide program to girls in the United States, women were not yet voting citizens. Today, (Wednesday, March 12) as the Girl Scout organization observes its 46th anniversary, the record shows that Mrs. Low's youth movement has taught three generations of American girls and women the fundamental responsibilities of citizenship.

Through these years of social, economic and intellectual revolution for American women, some 12 and one-half million American girls and women have received Girl Scout training.

The essentials of the Girl Scout formula for citizenship have remained the same. The formula combines a promise of duty to God and country and learning skills that are as useful to adults as they are to children. The promise has remained the same. The skills have changed as radically as the country itself has changed.

During the World War I era, Girl Scouts wore a shapeless khaki uniform with over-sized scarf which in an emergency could be whipped off and made into a sling for a broken arm. Troops of Scouts practiced tying their scarves to sturdy branches or poles thus producing an impromptu stretcher.

Today, nearly 3 million girls in the Scout movement also learn elementary first-aid and emergency training. But medical and scientific knowledge has greatly increased since those early days. Modern Girl Scouts now can be found enrolled in Red Cross First Aid courses. Emergency training for Senior Scouts, in cooperation with Civil Defense units includes learning about radiation effects.

Thirty and 40 years ago, Girl Scouts spent hour after hour learning Morse Code and practicing semaphore flag signals. Today's Wing Scouts, in their overseas hats and green blazers with white piping, man Ground Observer Corps observation posts and serve as aides at Air Force Filter centers.

These brief examples indicate how much more complicated the job of training for citizenship has become. Yet much of the common sense evident in early Scouting has survived through the years.

In one of the first editions of the Girl Scout handbook, Mrs. Low spelled out the meaning of the ten Girl Scout laws. About the first law—"A Girl Scout's honor is to be trusted," Mrs. Low wrote: "If a Girl Scout says, 'on my honor it is so,' that means that what she says is as true as if she had taken a solemn oath."

About the final Girl Scout law, "A Girl Scout is thrifty," Mrs. Low explained, "This means that a Scout avoids all useless waste of every kind."

"She is careful about saving every penny she can put into the bank so that she may have a surplus in time of need. She sees that food is not wasted, and her clothing is cared for properly."

"The Girl Scout does not waste time. She realizes that time is the most precious thing any one of us has. The Girl Scout's time is spent either in useful occupations or in wholesome recreation, and she tries to balance these two harmoniously."

The activities may change, but Mrs. Low's concept of citizenship for women based on duty, service and common sense is likely to be handed down to many more generations of Girl Scouts.

Ted Hoss, Clovis Taylor and Bob Roark of San Angelo spent Saturday and Sunday at Granite Shoals on a fishing trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Carroll of Ozona visited friends and relatives here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Hight and family spent the week end in San Antonio with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Boatright.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Frank Blaylock and family spent Sunday in San Angelo. They visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Jay and he attended the Findlater Hardware Co. merchandise show.

Mrs. B. L. Blakeway was a visitor in Eldorado Monday.

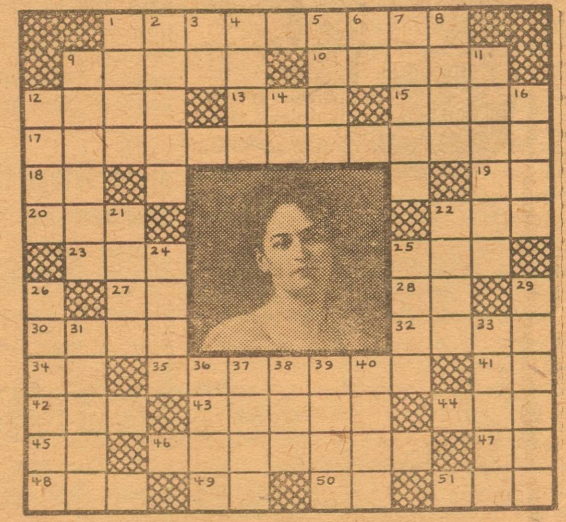

"Yes, dear, of course you may have a mascot."

You Can Count On Her

Grim headlines about youth make nobody happy. We worry about the next generation but sometimes forget that youngsters in headlines are "off-beat." More typical of the youth of the country are the Girl Scouts who are celebrating the 46th anniversary of their organization.

There are nearly three million girls in this organization. Roughly, this means that one out of every seven girls in the United States is a Girl Scout. The Girl Scout organization makes no claim that it can prevent juvenile delinquency. But it does give children a sense of "belonging." It gives them, too, many opportunities for achievement and recognition.

We are happy to note that the Scouts have struck a positive note in their anniversary theme "You Can Count on Her." A Girl Scout is a girl who can be counted on to be ready for emergencies, to help other people and perhaps most important, to serve her country and community. We wish there were more of them.

BACK TO THE BIBLE

We can understand the Bible alike.

"John was baptizing in Aenon, near to Salim, because there was much water there." Jno. 3:23.

"And they went down, both, into the water, both Phillip and the eunuch, and he baptized him. And when they were come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Phillip." Acts 8:38-39.

"Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death; that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life." Ro. 6:3-4.

From these passages, all who believe the Bible understand what it takes to constitute baptism.

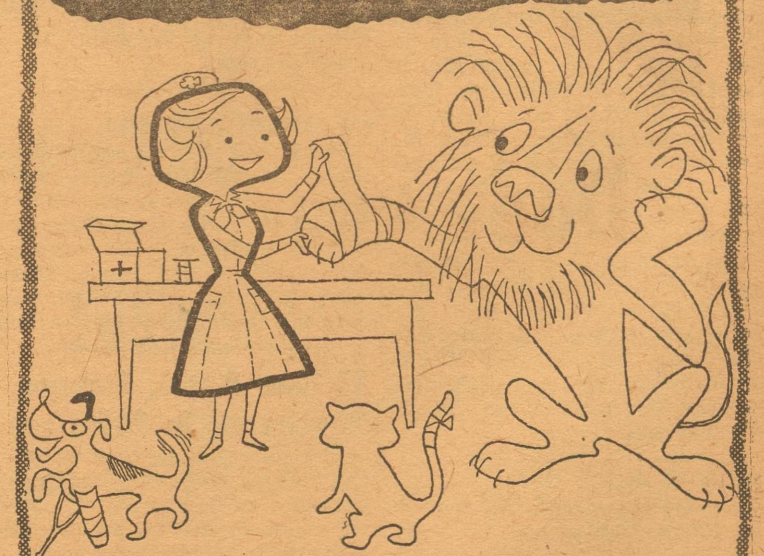

Neighbor, when you received what you were led to believe was baptism; was there much water? Did you go down into the water? Were you buried by baptism?

Please read Mat 15:9; and attend the services of the Church of Christ.

Quotable Quotes

"Girl Scouts learn to be self-reliant, to think for themselves, to make decisions, to respect another's point of view, to get along with people—in short, through Girl Scouting, they begin to develop maturity." —Eleanor Roosevelt.

"Girl Scouts in your work aspire to noble womanhood. I pray you may continue to pursue and fulfill this aspiration in your mature years and devote yourself to your country's welfare and that of mankind. Such unselfish service is your surest road to happiness." —Helen Keller.

"Being part of Girl Scouting is such a nice way for a little girl to start growing years, to build a sturdy base for her future life, to be part of an American tradition, for as she grows America grows." —Helen Hayes.

Tips For Girls Only From Girl Scout Book

Every girl can be beautiful without inch-thick make up. Here is an oft-forgotten beauty tip from the Girl Scout handbook:

"Your posture is one expression of yourself. Alert, upright posture expresses health and joy. In standing and walking, try to feel a sense of balance and poise. Distribute your weight evenly on your feet, stand tall and hold your head erect. It is a common tendency to walk with one's head slouched forward. If you do this, it throws your carriage of balance."

In regard to the fact that no girl has to be an heiress to have a good wardrobe, the handbook states:

"Your clothes can tell friends and strangers a lot about you. They put a label on you marked 'careless' when they are mussed, soiled, or badly fitted. You will feel proud and look well when your clothes are right. Keep them clean. Sew on loosened buttons and snaps before wearing the dress again. Your clothes will not become mussed if you arrange your bureau drawer and closet space neatly."

A good figure and good complexion start with healthy eating habits. Here are some tips on school lunches from the Girl Scout handbook:

"Lunches that travel. Choose foods that will make your whole day's meals well balanced. A well balanced school or picnic lunch includes at least one thing chosen from each of the following: bread, butter or butter substitute, sandwich fillings, fruit, sweets, milk, a hot drink, or fruit juice. Pack a lunch neatly with the heaviest articles at the bottom. Include two napkins, one to be used as a tablecloth."

Everyone wants to be popular, but many girls overlook some important clues to popularity. Here are some good practical tips from the handbook:

"Hospitality is the art of being both a good hostess and a good guest. The more you practice it the easier it will become. Good manners are ways of thinking and acting which show that you are interested in the happiness and well-being of others. They are your ticket to popularity."

Girl Scout Week Starts This Sunday, March 9th

Girl Scout week starts this Sunday, March 9, and extends through Saturday, March 15. Purpose of Girl Scout week is to celebrate the anniversary of the founding of the Girl Scouts of the USA. The week always includes March 12, anniversary of the day in 1912 when Juliette Gordon Low organized the first troop of 12 girls in Savannah, Ga.

This year, Wednesday, March 12, is the 46th Girl Scout anniversary or "birthday" and will be marked by special Girl Scout Birthday observances.

Theme for the 1958 Girl Scout week is, "You Can Count on Her." Every Girl Scout learns that citizenship starts in her own family and her own community, that citizenship entails a willingness to serve, and that by giving service to their communities, children too can be good citizens.

Basic facts about Girl Scouts of the USA have been pointed out as follows:

It is a nationwide organization for girls from 7 through 17 years of age.

Its purpose is to help girls develop as happy, resourceful individuals willing to share their abilities as citizens in their homes, their communities, their country and the world.

Every member promises to do her duty to God and country, to help other people at all times and to live by the Girl Scout code.

Total membership: 3,115,000 (2,388,000 girls and 727,000 men and women).

There are 150,000 Girl Scout troops in the United States, in United States territories—Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Alaska, Panama Canal Zone, and at U. S. military installations all over the world.

Girl Scout activities are geared for three age groups. Girls from 7 through 9 are Brownie Scouts. From 10 through 13 they are Intermediate Scouts, from 14 through 17, they are Senior Scouts. Each group has its own uniform, its own activities and its own goals.

On Girl Scout Sunday, the first day of Girl Scout week, girls and their leaders observe the Girl Scout anniversary by attending church services in uniform.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Ballew and two daughters of Andrew visited Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Carr Saturday. The Carrs expect Mrs. Laura Terrell of San Angelo to visit this week. Mrs. Terrell will also visit other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Sam Oglesby is still confined to bed at home after being stricken with a heart condition three weeks ago. Members of the family report that she is much improved.

Thought For The Week
Ministerial Alliance

The Disappointed Lord
"I came to your church last Sunday, I walked up and down the aisle, I saw you seat was vacant. Said the Master with a smile.
"Yes I was at home, I answered. Some folks from up Angelo way Drove down for a week-end visit. So we stayed at home all day.
"Oh, I had an awful headache, I had a roast in the pan, Or, we overslept that morning. But I go whenever I can.
"I went to the morning service, Not over two months ago. So much work must wait till Sunday There's not time for church, you know.
"The Master gazed at me sadly, As He was about to speak, "My child" He replied, "are there not Six other days in the week?
"If all my other children Should treat me the same as you, My house would be closed and deserted, Then what would lost sinners do?
"I saw I had grieved my Master, As slowly He turned away, And I vowed He'd not find me absent Again on His HOLY DAY."

Isaiah 1:18. Come now, and let us reason together.
Hebrews 10:25. Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together.
So take your troubles to church next Lord's Day. Many leave theirs there. —J. H. Sharp.

Proper Planting Methods Mean Good Grass Stands

Dr. Ray E. Glass, 18 mi. NE of Eldorado. Blue Panic grass planted May 8, 1957, on Conservation Reserve land.

Here's how your grass planting should look this fall after the growing season is past. Half the battle in getting grass established is getting it up, state SCS technicians assisting the Eldorado Divide Soil Conservation District. Like any other crop, the seed bed should be clean if at all possible, and under no circumstances should the grass be planted in a depression where extra soil could wash in on the young grass seedlings, they said. The supervisors have hopes that growing grass on cultivated land in rotation will make an important contribution to agriculture in the district. Use of the grasses in rotations with cotton and other crops will improve the condition of the soil, add organic matter to the soil, and protect the land from wind erosion.

We Are Stewards of the Land

By JAMES SALLEE

(Ed. Note: The following essay by James Sallee was third place winner in the contest conducted recently by the Eldorado-Divide Soil Conservation District supervisors.)

Our most important natural resource is soil. Without it, plants could not grow; plant-eating animals would perish. Soil like water and air is indispensable to all life on land.

We may think that even if the topsoil is thin, we have all we need. This is wrong, for the fertility of the soil is being exhausted at an incredible rate.

The replacement of such losses is amazingly low. Nature takes from 500 to 1,000 years to produce one inch of topsoil! Therefore, we must be stewards of the soil and conserve it.

In early days men thought that the problem of land could work itself out for everybody. But after a century and a half the nation began to realize something was wrong. The situation was made worse by rapid development of transportation which gave poor land excess to markets and tempted men, who knew very little about land, to farm it. Many new inventions, also, enabled men to over-work land intensely, beyond nature's power to produce. The forests have been largely destroyed and so has much of the grassland. Streams have silted with mud, floods steadily became worse, and the underground level has dropped greatly since settlement.

Since the United States is a democracy, land use problems cannot be settled by force. What can we, as stewards of the soil, do to save our soil, more precious than diamonds? First, through national planning, second through state planning, third through regional planning, and last, but perhaps the most important, education. Until plans such as these are carried out our soil is disappearing right from under our eyes.

LET'S TALK LIVESTOCK BY TED GOULDY

Fort Worth.—Cattle and calves moved in a very active trade at Fort Worth Monday as both slaughter and stocker buyers pressed for a share of the supplies. Again the supply of mature fed cattle was very small. The excellent grazing prospects developing all over the Southwest put added zest into the stocker trade, although high quality kinds were virtually lacking in the offering.

Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $24 to $27.50, and medium and low grades sold from $16 to $23.50. Fat cows cashed at $16.50 to $19, and canners and cutters drew $19 to $17. Bulls were reported from $14.50 to 20.50.

Good and choice slaughter calves sold from $4 to $27.50 and medium and lower grades sold from $14 to $23. Stocker calves brought $22 to $28, and heifer calves sold from $26.50 down. Stocker yearlings drew $27 down. A few stocker cows sold from $14 to $20.

Butcher hogs opened on a very strong footing at Fort Worth Monday as choice butchers scored $22 and $22.25. Medium to good hogs sold from $18 to $21.50. Sows cashed at $17 to $19.

RICHER! CRISPER!

Adverse effects from excessive oil imports is being felt in Texas and in other oil-producing states. That fact is becoming increasingly apparent as production is being reduced, state revenues from crude oil production are being scaled down, and a lot of independent producers are going broke.

That dilemma is due to ever-increasing imports that hog the market. Despite the much lower number of producing wells, crude production in Texas is now at a lower level than in 1953, while foreign production has been increased substantially. Take Venezuela, for example, where production has jumped upward by 47% during the same period.

Texas wells can produce only 9 days out of the month now, an all-time low. Our state comptroller estimates a state deficit of $32 million by next August, due in major part to lower income from crude oil taxes.

What is the answer? President Eisenhower last summer called for a voluntary 10% reduction, to avoid compulsory quotas. But this remedy has proved inadequate. Under present law the President may impose quotas and import fees. But trade relations are sensitive, and Presidents traditionally hesitate to use the authority the Congress has given.

This year the Congress will be asked to extend the Trade Agreements Act (Reciprocal trade law), and efforts will be made to impose some compulsory quotas on oil, and perhaps require some tariff relief. I believe both are necessary. Outcome, however, is uncertain. In the meantime the President may act, in view of the crisis that has developed.

Last week I addressed the House on this issue. I pointed out that foreign competitors face no restrictions. They may produce 30 days instead of our 9. The present tariff protection of from 5 to 10 cents per barrel is inadequate. If something isn't done soon, we may witness the mercy death of a vital American industry as we have known it in the past.

SCIENCE AWARD GAINS NEW SIGNIFICANCE

E.H.S.—Today, there are in America tens of thousands of scientists who say that their scientific careers were sparked by a bronze medal that they received when they graduated from high school.

This bronze medal is the Bausch & Lomb honorary science award which is now celebrating its 25th anniversary as a service to the secondary schools of America. "Our school adopted the honorary science award several years ago," says Joe Andrews, principal of Eldorado High School. "This award is one of the highest honors presented at graduation time and is accepted by the entire student body as evidence of outstanding accomplishments in the study of scientific subjects."

Fort Worth.—Cattle and calves moved in a very active trade at Fort Worth Monday as both slaughter and stocker buyers pressed for a share of the supplies. Again the supply of mature fed cattle was very small. The excellent grazing prospects developing all over the Southwest put added zest into the stocker trade, although high quality kinds were virtually lacking in the offering.

Good and choice slaughter steers and yearlings cashed at $24 to $27.50, and medium and low grades sold from $16 to $23.50. Fat cows cashed at $16.50 to $19, and canners and cutters drew $19 to $17. Bulls were reported from $14.50 to 20.50.

Good and choice slaughter calves sold from $4 to $27.50 and medium and lower grades sold from $14 to $23. Stocker calves brought $22 to $28, and heifer calves sold from $26.50 down. Stocker yearlings drew $27 down. A few stocker cows sold from $14 to $20.

Butcher hogs opened on a very strong footing at Fort Worth Monday as choice butchers scored $22 and $22.25. Medium to good hogs sold from $18 to $21.50. Sows cashed at $17 to $19.

Yesteryear In Eldorado . . .

Account Of Early-Day Fishing Trip Found In McCartney House

(Ed. Note: The following account of a fishing trip which a party of Schleicherites made early in this century was found recently in the old McCartney house, which is to be moved. Although undated, the clipping is believed to be from a copy of the Success printed sometime in the year 1905. The group described here stopped first about nine miles below Ft. McKavett of the San Saba river. After staying there a day they started back up the river and camped and fished all the way back to Col. Black's place.)

As Told by One of the Fishers

At seven o'clock, Tuesday morning, July 23, a merry crowd of fishers started from Eldorado en route to the San Saba, near McKavett to enjoy the gentle breezes as they cooled the moist brows while seated beneath the boughs of the famous old Texas pecan and capture the unfortunate stragglers of the fish tribe.

Those thus engaged were in number twenty-two, consisting of Lige Barbee and wife and J. D. Bird and wife who were sent to keep watch-care over: Misses Bessie Holland, Stella Bird, Alma McCartney, Susie and Pearl Bailey, Minnie and Maleta Martin, Lottie Hill, Dink Cloudt, Lois Bearce and Messrs. A. E. Aiken, Pat and Lee Martin, Edgar Bird, Otis Smith, Herman West, John Connor and Ren McCormick.

The sun had almost finished her daily task, when the majority of this merry band pitched their tent on the bank of the San Saba, nine miles below Ft. McKavett, without either chuck wagon or cook. No doubt, dear reader, you will wonder where the other part of the band could have wandered, but don't bother your mind with such a trifle, for the first time you meet Ren McCormick (better known as "Chief Cook Ren") call his mind to the fact and he will gladly tell you why he, with others, parted but to meet us again, on the banks of the old San Saba.

As the sun was sinking beneath the western horizon, there came a loud "Hi Ho" from the distance which was recognized at once as stragglers who had fallen by the wayside and was giving a signal for re-admittance. This was gladly accepted and answered by the sound of the bugle. They had the chuck wagon and chuck was the needed article after such a hustling day's travel, with merely a lunch for dinner.

After a few minutes of hearty hand shakes the numbers parted. Some went to entrap the cunning beasts and fowls, while others started to the river-side to enjoy the beautiful scenery and feed the saucy turtle from the point of the hook.

Presently, they were all happily disturbed by the chuck-horn, given at camp, and promptly responded. When seated around the table of goodies such as black coffee, fat bacon, alias mountain trout, red hot onions, camp fire bread, and many kinds of canned goods the rumor started that the whole twenty-five dollars worth of grub was on the first table. The cook only replied: "I came down here neither to economize nor to do fancy baking; so eat on, hungries; I'll feed you all or keep the coals a raking."

After all the hunger was satisfied, the music was set in tune and partners for the next set of "skip-to-my-lu" were called to the floor. Many times did the fair little maidens, dressed in their calico fishing gowns, hang their toes in a mesquite turf, while the caller moved about 4-hands and swung the young ladies to their feet. It was not handy for all to participate in this entertainment, so part of the crowd retired at an early hour. Unfortunately, about two A. M. a Jockey race was called between the best time-makers in the South, wherein the winner was unknown, for a few sleepy-headed fisher women had carelessly spread their beds on the track, which resulted in the racers losing their course. We believe that the calm (?) voice of the sleepers, in form of commands, was what stopped the moon the following night and caused the eclipse.

A few hours sleep followed, then by the assistance of "Smithy, the Bugler," all awoke and marched up to coffee. Soon the marksmen came in with the game hanging from their belts, while the lady-scouts could bring nothing but signs of mosquito bites, scratches from briars and grass-burrs.

In the afternoon the camp was moved two miles up the river which gave more room for sports.

After supper, the whole tribe went in high glee to the Hillside Park Pavilion, where new games were introduced, the most famous being Dropping the Handkerchief. Chief Cook Ren proved to be the star player. Then court was called and two cases reported. The first was Odie Smith vs. the State of Texas, charged with promiscuously and favorably courting one of the number. After close examination, the Judge passed sentence and assessed punishment at one ducking in the river, at 9:30 o'clock the following morning. The next case on docket was A. E. Aiken vs. the State of Texas for wilfully and maliciously keeping one of the young ladies out of a kodak picture. The evidence was heard and the defendant swore an alibi by stating that he had gone squirrel hunting, while contradictory evidence showed that he had brought in on by a "guinea." His sentence was three duckings at the river. The unfortunates were well ducked but not before they needed it for dirt and grease had been good friends for the past few days.

As game was getting scarce, the camp was moved a mile north of McKavett, and a grand ball was given at the Grass-hopper Pavilion. Boat-riding was the order of the day at this place, but the ferry-men soon had to go out of business, for not-withstanding the ladies' anxiety to ride none of them could be induced to pay fare.

The star fishing was done on the Austin.—What will happen to Texas without a sure flow of oil money to grease the wheels of government and business?

March oil allowance was set at 2,517,249 barrels a day (a drop of 513,814 barrels a day from February) with only nine producing days. Railroad Commissioner said the cutback to lowest level since pre-World War II days, was necessitated by excess stocks.

Over-supply developed this way, according to officials: Texas production was shoved to record highs a year ago to supply Europe while the Suez Canal was closed. Then Suez re-opened, Middle East oil flowed to Europe again and Texas was left holding unwanted surplus. Further aggravating the situation was the gush of foreign oil into the U. S., taking part of the market from Texas production.

Digging into causes and effects is Governor Price Daniel's oil imports study commission. At first-round hearings in Austin these views were presented:

By Gov. Daniel: Texas is facing its most serious economic threat in 25 years. Mandatory federal controls are apparently the only way to stop excessive importing.

By State Comptroller R. S. Calvert: Continuation of the present oil production pattern for another 90 days would put the state $20,000,000 further in the red by the end of the current fiscal period. This would mean a $32,000,000 shortage rather than the $12,000,000 deficit estimated earlier.

By Maurice Acers, Texas employment Commission: Employment in the Texas oil industry has declined 8,000 since last July. A drop of five per cent in oil employment takes $50,000,000 in wages from the Texas economy.

By A. T. Mullins, General Land Office. One company has said it will stop seeking oil from state-owned lands, and others have said they will, unless the state reduces lease prices.

By J. Warren Hitt, Texas Education Agency: Approximately 31.3 per cent of state school money comes from the oil and gas industry.

By Marshall Formby, Texas Highway Commission Chairman: Reduced oil production would eventually cut back construction of highways.

By John H. Winters, Commissioner of Public Welfare: Loss of oil revenue could reduce payments to the aged, the blind and dependent children.

By Rep. Max Smith, House Appropriations Chairman: Next Legislature faces the prospect of spending money it doesn't have or finding new sources of taxation.

Dr. Philip E. Coldwell, Dallas Federal Reserve Bank: Imports are only partly to blame for Texas oil troubles. Problem of oversupply is world-wide and likely will continue for some time.

French Robertson of Abilene is chairman of the study commission. Governor Daniel called hearings held to date "very successful." Next meeting is to be March 18 in Abilene. Meantime, the governor has wired governors of 20 other states asking them to join in the effort to get federal government action limiting imports.

Search For New Industry

Long-dormant Texas Industrial Commission has new members and a new job. Governor Daniel named E. B. Germany of Dallas as chairman and gave the commission the task of enticing new industries to Texas to help relieve unemployment.

Originally designed to study labor-management troubles, the commission had been inactive for some years. Its new industry-attracting work is to be financed by private contributions and conducted cooperatively with chambers of commerce and other local groups.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Good crops don't just happen—they are planned. You can be sure any farmer who produces high yielding crops every year, includes good seed in his planning.

It is important to know in choosing seed, the variety to be planted. So adapt that variety or hybrid adapted to the area and growing conditions and buy certified seed of that variety or hybrid.

The hybrid grain sorghum seed to buy for this county is RS610 or Texas 620. Suppose that producers plant 7,000 acres of grain sorghum in 1958. We have the bottom moisture and surface moisture at present. Suppose we get the needed summer rains that would make 1000 pounds of grain per acre. The most popular grain sorghum grown in the county is 7078. If 610 or 620 had been planted, the increase on the same soil, water and labor will be 400 to 700 lbs. of grain per acre. Money wise that means $6.00 to $10.50 per acre with only a 60-cent difference in planting seed per acre.

County wise that means $42,000 to $70,000 additional income by planting the right variety, that are as high and desirable in feed quality as older varieties.

Let us apply the same conditions to cottonseed. The first thing to remember about planting cotton in 1958 is that there is going to be a good demand for good staple cotton. Second, high quality cotton seed are scarce. Third, varieties of cotton that make the most net return are a must.

For the irrigation farmer Acala 1517c, 1517b are the answer, provided early planting is possible.

For the dry land farmer Lankart 57 is the highest recommended. Because of staple, yield, soil conditions, and it will pick, snap and is adapted to mechanical harvesting. Both the irrigated varieties and dryland varieties can mean more dollars and cents per acre than any other known varieties developed at this time for our county.

Did you ever stop and think just how isolated Schleicher county farmers? What could be done about this to make the best income possible to each producer? This has worked in Schleicher county once and could work again. Suppose all producers plant Lankart cotton in 1958, and all irrigation farms Acala 1517. You would have enough cotton of 2 staple lengths, same grade and quality, to attract buyers—because due to God's gift, cotton produced in Schleicher county has a stronger fiber due to certain soil nutrients.

This is taking advantage of an opportunity that exists and should have the support of all producers, merchants and Chamber of Commerce and civic organizations. Incidentally, 65% of all of the cotton grown in the U. S. is grown by producers coming together and agreeing on the variety best suited for the area.

Schleicher county farmers will take to the fields in a rush, once conditions are favorable. Don't try to cram more hours into a day by over-taxing your physical capacity, warns the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. Many fatal farm accidents are caused by fatigue, which dulls the reflexes and leads to chance-taking which may lead to serious trouble. Don't throw safety aside for haste. "The life you save may be your own."

Timely garden hints for 1958 will pay big dividends in helping supply quantity and quality vegetables for the table. Keep the garden small; make a succession of plantings to avoid over production for a short time; plant a variety of vegetables; include leafy, root, and fruit plants; treat all vegetable seed with a protectant, because of excessive moisture and cool soil this year; use organic matter and commercial fertilizer; obtain seed of adapted varieties. Don't be satisfied with "second best." Grow your own tomato and pepper plants.

Home Demonstration Agent's Column

By MRS. VIDA KREKUC'W

Even though the weather is still a little overcast and the day a little gray—it's spring. And every spring every woman worth her salt makes plans and dreams dreams that this spring she is going to start over. She is going to buy a few new clothes; add a little color to last year's wardrobe, take off a few pounds, do a dozen little things that she has meant to get done all winter.

We believe in new hats, high resolutions. We, as Home Demonstration women, believe in them enough that we're going to try to do something about it all.

If you'd like to join us, women that is, get in touch with a member of the group which meets at night and find out all about the newest plan on foot—a charm school. Elizabeth Ballew is president and the members can be found in nearly every business establishment in town.

Mrs. Bill Smith, recently moved to Eldorado from Salt Lake City, is to conduct the sessions and since she was a pupil of the famous John Robert Powers who is known the world over as the creator of the "Powers model," the course should be wonderful.

The public is invited. The first meeting will be held in the Memorial building, 7:30 p. m. on March 13. As many meetings will be held as the audience wishes and you really shouldn't miss a single one.

I never thought that I'd be writing on, of all subjects, mildew, but it seems at last that may be I should say a few words concerning the situation.

Mildew is caused by growing molds and as long as they have food to exist on they settle down and go to work. Just forget to dry the shirt you don't have time to iron on some warm day and you will remember all about the habits of mildew. These molds are present in the air all the time, needing moisture and warmth to thrive. They cause cloth, left too long, to rot, decay wood, and discolor all fabrics and leather.

Preventing dampness removes the threat of mildew. But if mildew does develop these things may be done to remove its damage.

1. To remove fresh stains on cloth: Wash immediately with soap and water. Dry in sun. If stain remains moisten spots with lemon juice and salt and spread in the sun to bleach. Use this treatment with care on colored goods.

2. Wood. Wipe floors, painted walls or woodwork with a cloth dipped in water to which a little kerosene has been added. (This is about 1/2 cup kerosene to 1/2 gallon water.)

3. Mattresses, upholstered furniture and rugs. Clean first with vacuum cleaner; this prevents the scattering of the mold plant thru out the house. Wipe upholstered furniture with a cloth wrung out of dilute alcohol (1 cup denatured alcohol to 1 cup water). Sponge rugs and carpets with a rug shampoo. Remove the soap by wiping with a cloth wrung out of clear water.

4. Leather goods, including shoes. Wipe with the alcohol solution called for in treatment of mattresses and upholstered furniture. Wash with saddle soap. Polish and dry.

An easy rule to remember about when to prune shrubs is this: if it blooms early, prune early. Early blooming shrubs start forming buds for next year's flowers right after their petals fall in the spring. One of the reasons for pruning is to cut off all dead or injured limbs to make way for new growth.

Potatoes are filling but not necessarily fattening. One medium sized potato has about 100 calories, or about the same as an apple, pear or banana. Sour cream, gravy and butter are good on potatoes, but they add up the calories.
