Eldorado Members At F.F.A. Dist. Banquet

The Eldorado FFA chapter was well represented at the Concho District Awards Banquet held in San Angelo Monday night. Twelve members, the chapter sweetheart, Miss Vera Fay Powell, parent sponsors Clovis Taylor and Mrs. Arnie Westbrook and Chapter Advisor Oliver Burk and Miss Mary Ann Nixon attended.

Willie Luedecke and Tommy Dickenson entered the talent contest. Vera Fay was runner-up in the district sweetheart contest. The awards of the leadership contests were made also. There were 10 chapters represented at the banquet.

The agriculture classes have the display window in the hall this week. We have some very good samples of the better forage plant on display. There is one plant that is not named; anyone giving the correct name will be given a prize. Come by and have a look.

We are working on our hog barn. When completed we will have a modern feeding set-up. The boys in the agriculture classe are doing the work.

Community Choir Will Give 'Messiah' Dec. 14

Rehearsals on "The Messiah," the Christmas cantata they will present the night of Dec. 14th, are being continued by the Community Choir, under direction of Paul Goodwin.

Only two rehearsals remain: next Tuesday night, and the following Saturday, which is the day before the presentation.

Most churches expect to turn out their services the night of Sunday, Dec. 14th, for the cantata. Director Goodwin states that "The Messiah" will start promptly at 7:30, in the First Baptist church.

The Community Choir has 30 to 35 voices. Mrs. James Page and Mrs. Joe M. Christian are accompanists.

The choir has been at work on the cantata for many weeks, and all people of the county are invited and urged to attend, the night of Dec. 14th.

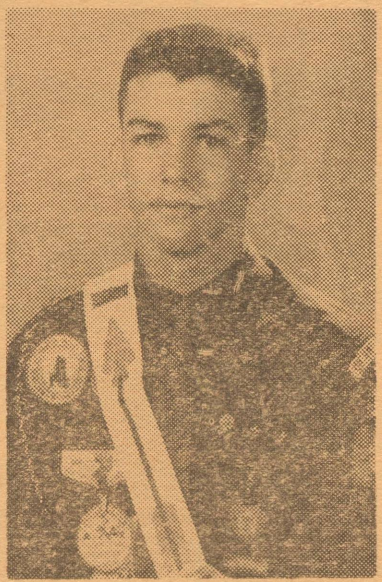

Bankhead To Move

Price Bankhead, who has been minister of the Rock Church of Christ here for a number of months, has accepted the charge of the church at Utopia, which is near Uvalde.

Mr. Bankhead was preparing to move this week, and reported that he would make the move about December 15.

A supply minister from Abilene is expected to serve the church here until a new minister is selected.

Runge Gets Eagle Badge

JIM RUNGE

Receiving his Eagle Scout badge at the Nov. 19 meeting of the Eldorado Lions club was Jim Runge, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Forrest Runge of northern Schleicher county.

The Eagle rank is the highest in Scouting, and calls for the earning of 21 merit badges, many of which are specified.

The local troop has been sponsored by the Eldorado Lions club for over 30 years.

Long active in the Scouting program here in Eldorado, Jim Runge started out as a Cub Scout and when of Boy Scout age went through the various ranks and attended camp with his unit at Camp Fawcett. He has been patrol leader, senior patrol leader, and is a Brotherhood member of the Order of the Arrow, the national honorary camping organization of Boy Scouts.

In the summer of 1957, he was one of two Scouts from Schleicher county to attend the Fourth National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa. (The other was Tom Meador.) Last summer, Jim Runge was among the group of 30 Explorer Scouts and three leaders from the council who went on the 10-day Canadian Canoe trip in northern Minnesota and Canada.

Jim is 15 years old.

According to records in the office in San Angelo of the Concho Valley Council, there have been only four other members of Troop 18 who have earned Eagle over the years. The first two were John Thomas (Scope) Ballew and M. C. (Monk) Laird, who received it in 1936. They were followed in 1946 by Bill Lewis Humphrey, who is now a basketball coach in the San Angelo school system. Early this year Claude King, who was Scoutmaster here at that time, received his Eagle badge.

Co-Op Receives Bids On New Office Furniture

Directors of the Southwest Texas Electric Co-Op received bids this week for the new furniture to be used in their new building, which is to be occupied the latter part of January.

Maverick-Clarke of San Antonio was the low bidder, and they will furnish one of the three top-quality lines of office furniture.

Other firms which submitted bids were: Texas Office Supply, Holcombe-Blanton Printer, Wagner Office Supply, and the West Supply Co., all of San Angelo, and the Steck Company of Austin.

The directors table and chairs were not included in these bids, as they will not be selected until the next regular board meeting to be held Dec. 18th, at which time requests for bids will be sent out.

The architect of the new Co-Op building has estimated that the building will be completed about January 15th. The city was at work this week on the sewer line to the building.

Delivery on the office furniture is expected about January 20th. Maverick-Clarke will be responsible for unloading and placing the furniture in the building.

Buyers have already been lined up for most of the Co-Op's old office furniture, it was stated.

Lighting Of Streets To Start Here Today

Stringing of Christmas lights for the holiday season was to start this morning on South Main street here in Eldorado.

General arrangements for the lighting has been made by the chamber of commerce.

O. B. Bradshaw had an emergency operation Tuesday, Nov. 25; he is reported improving, and is expected home this week.

The meeting of the Eldorado Lions club next Wednesday, Dec. 10, will be held at 6:00 p.m. instead of at noon, at the Memorial Building, in order that District Governor Leonard Johnson may make his official visit.

Leonard Johnson is governor of Lions' District 2-A. He is from Alamo, Texas.

The meeting Wednesday will be a joint affair, with members of the Sonora club expected to be on hand. It will not be a ladies' night.

All Lions club members are urged to be on hand Wednesday, and to note the change in the meeting time.

Total Bales Reach 3537 Yesterday

At noon yesterday the Mikeska gin here had a total of 3537 bales, and the harvest was getting into the "scrapping" stage. 141 bales were ginned during the past week.

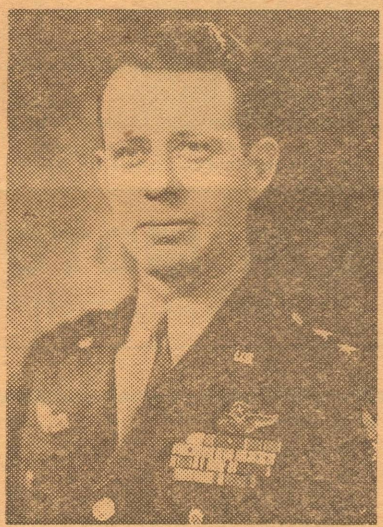

From here on out there would be the problem of persuading the pickers to stay on the job and there was no way to estimate how much of the remaining crop would be gathered.

There were a large number of Braceros on the gin yard yesterday with their bundles packed, getting paid off and waiting for transportation to Old Mexico.

Moore Bros. were paying them off, and Henry Moore reported that only 14 hands remained at the farm. "All we're doing now is scrapping . . . we could get 20 or 30 more bales, but you can't tell."

A review of the Moore operation as of noon yesterday provides the following figures: 683 bales ginned, which came from 600 acres; 280 of these acres were irrigated, the rest were dryland. If weather and labor conditions remain favorable they can expect to finish the season with better than 700 bales.

General Manager of AEC

ALVIN R. LUEDECKE as a Major General in Air Force

Following a long and distinguished military career, Maj. Gen Alvin R. Luedecke of Eldorado has been sworn in as general manager of the Atomic Energy Commission in a ceremony at AEC headquarters at Germantown, Maryland.

Long active in the nuclear field, Luedecke has been in command of Joint Task Force 7 which recently conducted a series of tests in the Pacific. He has retired from the military to become general manager of the AEC.

General Luedecke was honored here in Eldorado on July 4, 1957, with a special day in his honor. The day included morning coffee and parade, a free barbecue at noon, an afternoon review, and a banquet at night. The Eldorado Lions club and the American Legion post were in general charge of Luedecke day, and each organization made him an honorary member.

Gen. Luedecke was pictured on the first page of yesterday morning's Dallas Morning News.

Work To Start Soon On Oil Test Near Eldorado

Fryer and Hanson Drilling Co. of Dallas are all set to start operations on a new wildcat three miles northwest of Eldorado.

It will be the No. 1 J. A. Whitten, 1980 feet from the north and east lines of Section 34-LL-TCRR, and contract calls for a total depth of 7200 feet. It will be one mile north of the Eldorado pool.

A few minor legal details were being completed this week and the company indicated that they were ready to go to work at once.

The test will be in the general area of "the old Whitten well" — the discovery of which caused an oil boom here about 30 years ago.

The Tucker No. 1 Meador test was digging at the 3,000-foot level early this week. The test is on the Billy Frank Meador ranch and is west of the Baugh pumper which has been producing for the past 10 years.

DRY HOLE

The Sinclair No. 1 D. C. O. Wilson, 1½ miles southeast of the Tillery gas field, was plugged and abandoned recently at a depth of 4670 feet. Location was 660 feet from the northwest and northeast lines of 5-A-J. E. Allen (Abst. 3) six miles west of Ft. McKavett.

Chavira Conviction Is Affirmed Recently

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals recently affirmed the conviction of Ernesto Chavira, 29-year old Sonora man, sentenced to life imprisonment for a killing at Eldorado last February 10th.

In a trial held here early in June, Chavira was found guilty of killing Louis Martinez as he came to the doorway of his home.

Since his conviction last summer Chavira has been confined to the jail in San Angelo.

The murder trial, which was the first here in over 12 years, attracted much interest, and among other things pointed up the need for better facilities for taking care of juries which serve on capital cases.

The trial got under way after two days were spent impaneling the jury. Several lists of veniremen, or prospective jurors, were exhausted before the 12 were finally selected.

It was late in the day, on Wednesday, June 4th that the jury retired to deliberate, and at 10:00 o'clock, after less than two hours, they reached a verdict of guilty.

Prosecuting the case was Justin A. Keever, district attorney of San Angelo, aided by Jack Sessom, assistant, and T. P. Robinson, Jr., Schleicher county attorney. Bill McDonald of San Angelo represented the defendant.

SINGING SUNDAY

Community singing in Eldorado will start at 2:00 p.m. Sunday at the Memorial Building. Everybody welcome.

Home Demonstration Agent's Column

By MRS. VIDA KREKUCW

The Chamber of Commerce banquet last Thursday night was a very pleasant affair. The speaker of the evening, Mr. Deibert Downing, used a wonderfully relaxed approach in getting the listeners attention by recalling the funny and the serious which was a part of his boyhood days.

The food was good and the evidences of a pleasant evening were easy to see and feel. Several women have asked me about the cold green bean salad which was a part of the buffet menu, and since this way of distributing the recipe will be the most effective, I'll include it here.

Marinated Green Beans

- First make: French Dressing.
- 1/3 cup vinegar.
- 2/3 cup oil.
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon sugar.
- 1/4 teasp Colman's dry mustard.

Put dry ingredients into a pint jar with the vinegar. Mix by shaking jar. Add oil and shake jar again. This is a basic French dressing so go on green salads, same fruit and on some meat salads.

Now—open a can of green beans. Drain liquid from can. Pour beans into a shallow container. Peel and slice very thinly a medium sized onion. Dice 2 pimentos and add, with the onion, to the beans. Cover the bean mixture with French dressing and let stand 8 or 10 hours. The nice part about this dish is that it tastes good cold; can be made ahead of time and is a dish which is easily carried on picnics or for club or church suppers.

And—I've had a few calls from proud hunters about how to cook venison. Make sure that the meat has hung in the cold room at the locker at about 40 degrees for 7 or 8 days. Some like to leave it from 10 to 14 days. The meat improves in flavor and through a chemical change it becomes more tender on hanging.

Venison can be fried as beef steak, or broiled, or roasted. For roasting and broiling try covering the meat with the French dressing which was mentioned before, and allowing it to stand from 10 hours for a roast to 2 or 3 hours for a broiled steak. The combination of oil and vinegar is good for game meat; it adds fat to the very lean meat and the vinegar or lemon juice helps to tenderize it.

Making candy is something virtually every one enjoys. It's fun to make and fun to eat. This candy recipe is an unusually good one so, clip it now and save it. After you've made it the first time you'll take care of the recipe from that time on.

Creole Pralines

- 4 cups of sugar.
- 1/2 cup sweet milk.
- 1/2 cup light cream
- 1 full teasp grated orange rind.
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 cups pecans
- 1/8 teaspoon salt.

Combine 3 cups of the sugar with milk, cream, orange rind and let boil until it forms a soft ball in cold water or reaches 236 degrees on the candy thermometer. Melt the other cup of sugar in a heavy skillet until faintly browned. (Not burned!) I like to melt sugar in a slow oven, it melts more evenly and is less likely to burn. Add the melted, browned sugar slowly to the 1st sauce pan of cooking sugar mixture. Add a small amount at the time or else it will all boil up, run over and waste a lot, besides being very sticky to clean up. Blend the 2 syrups and test again for soft ball stage. Remove from fire and let cool to luke warm stage. Add other ingredients and beat until creamy. Drop into patties or smaller pieces on a well buttered surface.

HERE'S AN IDEA FOR GARDENERS

Here's a job for a winter evening that will assure you of straight flower stems for cutting next spring and summer.

It's a frame built of 1x2-inch lumber, made a foot wide and as long as you can conveniently build it. The inside of the frame is covered with 2-inch mesh chicken wire. The legs are of such lengths that the frame can be set either 4 inches above the ground, or 10 inches by inverting it.

The frame can be used for several purposes. When flower seedlings are first set out, the frame can be set 4 inches above the ground and covered with a one-foot wide length of canvas to protect the flower plants from the sun and driving rain. As the plants grow up, the frame is inverted and the canvas again placed over the frame to provide protection. Being 10 inches above the ground, morning and evening sun can reach the plants, but protection is given during midday.

As the plants continue to grow, the canvas is removed and the plants will grow through the wire mesh. Tall growing plants are kept off of the ground and flower stems will grow straight. Rows of flowers 18 inches apart will allow 6 inches of walking space between the frames.

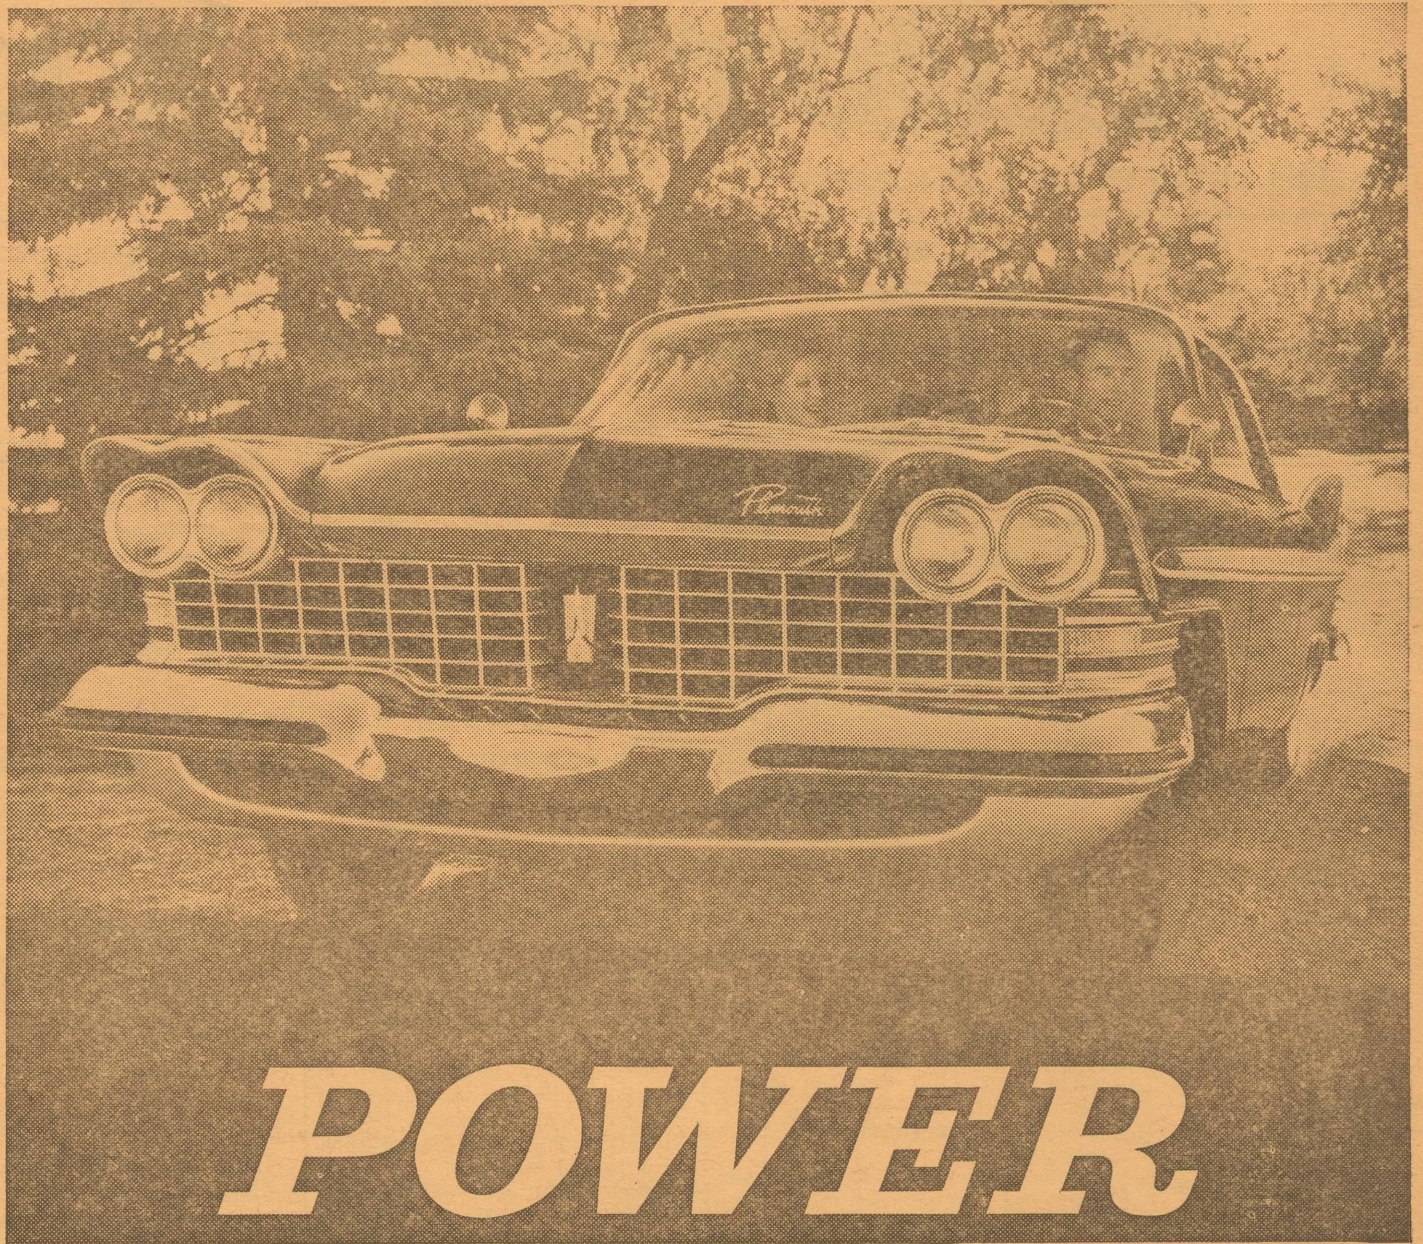

Watering of flowers can be uniform if a canvas soaker hose is run along the top side of the frame. This has an advantage when flower plants would otherwise grow too rank to be reached with a soaker hose.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Alcorn for the holidays was their daughter Sandy from San Angelo college, and Mrs. Alcorn's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fowler of Menard. Also an aunt and uncle of Eldorado had Thanksgiving dinner in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Alexander and three children of Amarillo, and L. J. Alexander and family of San Angelo spent the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Q. Alexander.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Ochsner had as Thanksgiving guests their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. John Ochsner and John Dorr and Robert of Dallas, and their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scherz and Dorr and Drew of Sonora.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Calk and children visited in San Antonio with Mr. Calk's sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Kohler, who have been in Germany the past three years; with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Calk; and a brother, W. O. Calk and family.

The story of P. K. Wrigley and
THE LOCOMOTIVE

Adventures in ADVERTISING

Wrigley chewing gum was so well known and had such a large distribution that it might be wise to dispense with the advertising, save that expense and make that much additional profit.

"I could ask the conductor of this train the same question," replied the financial genius, "This train is now going 60 miles per hour, so why not disconnect the engine? Advertising in merchandising is what a locomotive is to a train. It is the power which keeps it going."

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

Cattlemen who are interested in checking bulls for sterility are requested to complete the questionnaire sent Nov. 24 and return to the county agent's office. This test could prove of great importance to the smaller cattle producer as well as to the larger one as records prove that 7% of all bulls in Texas are sterile with 8% settling less than one third the cows bred. The average ranch with 20 bulls has three that are boarders.

Dr. Charles Koberg will do the testing for sterility, 8-12 of December. The cost is $5 per head. Those producers having less than two bulls tested will be notified as to the nearest neighbor having bulls tested in order to make arrangements with the neighbor to get the bull tested.

The Schleicher county Beef Cattle committee has met and studied the cattle situation of the county, giving much time to the brucellosis and other disease problems of the county. An area wide disease program was attended at Midland October 29, sponsored by the Animal Council of the Livestock Sanitary Commission. There are no laws to protect the counties that desire to go forward for a brucellosis free county or area. The committee is cooperating with the livestock councils of all animal breeds and the Livestock Sanitary commission to get protective laws before launching on a county-wide clean-up program. The proposed bill will be brought before the next session of the state legislature.

Cattlemen will be kept informed as to the county program through your livestock committee, Gerald Hartgraves, chairman; Bob Sykes, Robert Martin, Howard Derrick, and Carrol White.

Producers will be receiving in the mail questionnaires through the local post office and rural mail carriers concerning information about livestock crops, and other information. This data will be used by the state department of agriculture for statistical information, to do a better job of reporting. Producers are asked to co-operate with this type of work.

For better results when poisoning mice try this: when using Warfarin or Fumarin, anticoagulant baits, put 1/4 to 1/2 pound in a small paper bag, twist the top, and hide. Mice cover a small amount of territory, which makes it necessary to use more baits and traps.

When using baits in the barn around other grain, anticoagulant poisons are recommended. Always place the bait in 1/2 pound packages and hide. If you are unable to hide the bait use a shoe box or any such box and cut holes in the end large enough for rats and mice to enter. These rodents are suspicious of any baits not hidden; rodent control men say that the increase in the efficiency of the kill is about 50%.

Farmers face many risks. Climate is one of the major factors causing variations in yields. This is especially true of low temperatures, which cause frost damage and injury to plants and animals. Here are some statistics that are available for the county.

The average date of first occurrence of 32-degree temperature in the fall: Nov. 10-20.

Average date of last occurrence of 32-degree temperature in the spring: March 20-30.

Date in the fall when there is a 20% chance of 32 temperature occurring: October 20 to Nov. 10. A 5% change of 32 temp.: Oct. 20-30.

In the spring after which there is a 20% chance of 32 temp.: Mar. 30 to April 10. A 5% chance of 32 temp. in the spring, April 20.

Average number of days between the last occurrence of 32 temperature in the spring and first occurrence in the fall: 220-240 days.

This information should enable the farmer to make better decisions concerning new varieties and the lateness or earliness of planting.

Should you desire to mix your own mice baits, using Warfarin, use the following formula:

Warfarin—one part;
Yellow corn meal—12 parts;
Rolled oats (breakfast type)—5;
Powdered sugar—1 part;
Vegetable oil—1 part.

Vash Young and the 52 PHONE CALLS

In his book, "The Go Giver", Vash Young tells of making a telephone call to one prospect for 52 consecutive weeks before he got results.

Vash Young is one of the all time great insurance salesmen. He used tact, diplomacy, intelligent presentation and persistency. In this particular instance he telephoned a prospect for an appointment. The prospect put him off until the next week. And then he put him off another week and another and another until the telephone calls got to be sort of a game.

Vash Young kept right on calling every week without ever getting an appointment. On the 52nd call he was startled when the prospect told him of another man who wanted to buy a substantial amount of insurance. Vash Young followed the lead and took an order for the largest policy he had ever sold.

If Vash Young had given up after the second or third call he would never have sold the big order. And so it is with newspaper advertising. It takes more than one or two "calls" to the potential customers to get the best results. It is the consistent, persistent advertiser who eventually gets the "big order."

Fruit We Did Not Plant

A man eighty years of age was planting fruit trees. Someone asked him, "Why are you planting fruit trees? They will not grow fast enough for you to enjoy any of the fruit."

"No" answered the old man, "I do not expect to live long enough to eat any of the fruit of these trees. But I have enjoyed fruit. I want the next generation to have plenty of fruit, so I plant these trees."

Christ died that we might have life. Missionaries traveled westward and gave their witness that we might know the truth that makes men free. Our fathers organized and built churches. Our Sunday school teachers were faithful to tell us the story. Without any labor on our part the fruits of salvation have come down to us.

Classes must be taught, someone must serve as deacons or trustees, some young men will be needed as pastors, young people must train as directors of religious education, foreign missionaries and home missionaries. New churches must be built on new frontiers.

Someone planted and we enjoyed the fruit. Now it is our turn.

"I sent you to reap a crop for which you did not toil; other men have toiled, and you reap the profit of their toil." John 4:38. — Joe Orena.

The Board of Supervisors of the Eldorado Divide Soil Conservation District in their regular monthly meeting Friday, Nov. 14, discussed the purchase of equipment for landowners to use in the district, checked the audit report and the work unit conservationists of the Eldorado work unit and San Angelo work unit, discussed the work load analysis for the two work units for the 1959.

Supervisors J. Forrest Runge and Ben Hext along with William M. Rountree, attended a project agreement and operations and maintenance agreement meeting in Sonora on November 18, on the Dry Devils River and Lowrey Draw watershed.

Horehound

Several inquiries have been made in regard to horehound. This is to advise that horehound is a perennial (comes back from old root stalk each year) which grows throughout Texas. It thrives in waste places and on open ground. The plant is invariably dense in cattle and sheep pens. In late fall, the leaves die and fall off and the stems wither and look dead, but in early January little, spidery, buds appear and soon form new branches. The plant flowers in June to August and seeds from August to September.

Information received from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station informs us that horehound can be effectively controlled with a wetting solution of the ester of 2, 4-D. They say a 1% water solution will kill young growth, while .2 to .4% solutions are required for older plants. Mature plants and plants in a dry state of growth are difficult to kill with chemicals. This plant can be controlled by cultivation or digging. Burning areas where horehound has gone to seed has proven to be only a temporary control measure. Good range management practices such as growing a good cover of grass will prove to be a more lasting means of control.

Coneflower

For those who are becoming disturbed about coneflower the following information is submitted:

Prairie - coneflower is a perennial forb that reproduces by seed and short underground stems. The plant grows from 1 to 2 feet high and is characterized by its slender dairy stems, and rounded, undivided leaves. It is found in pastures and protected areas, slopes and hillides throughout the country.

Prairie - coneflower is somewhat palatable in its early growing stage, and is said to be consumed by all classes of livestock.

Such good range management practices as deferred grazing at proper times, seem to be the most practical way to keep this plant under control on the rangeland.

Cotton Burs

There might be a little work involved, but the practice of spreading cotton burs and gin trash on the soil as a mulch is becoming a widespread conservation practice. Some counties have gone so far as to approve the application of burs for ACP cost sharing.

At this particular time there seems to be a lack of data regarding increases in production, danger from weed seed and increased insect activity.

Word has been received that in some counties the interest in the application of burs as a conservation treatment has resulted in an almost complete of gin incineration. We are told that some gins provide spreader trucks for custom application of the burs. There are areas where the demand for the burs are high and the gins make them available first to their customers and then to other farmers.

The amount of application seems to vary from four tons to sixty tons per acre. The usual application runs from about four to six tons per acre. The sixty tons being applied on irrigated land with good results. Where burs are applied to irrigated land, some type of fertilizer is used.

The burs are generally worked into the topsoil with a plow on irrigated land. While on dryland they are left on top and undisturbed, except for planting operations, to serve as a cover. Some instances increased yields have been reported the first year following the application of cotton burs.

Cotton burs can be composed for a while before spreading them, to solve the weed seed problem, but the best method is to know the source of the burs and not apply burs from an infected area.

It seems that in most instances this is an excellent conservation treatment, within reach of many farmers. On dryland burs seem to provide good cover and work well with dryland farming practices, without the need of certain kinds of machinery.

For irrigated land burs can provide a good source of organic material which helps to make the soil more workable and would improve its water holding capacity.

175 Million

The census bureau reported that the population of the United States reached 175 million during October 1958. This was a growth of 23 1/2 million since 1950. The present rate of growth is practically 8,000 each day. The estimate for 1975 is 228 million, and 335 million for the year 2000. The big question is whether or not the United States will be able to feed her people in the years to come.

Prussic Acid Poses Threat To Livestock

College Station.—The time is here when cattle owners should be warned that Johnson grass or sorghum after a frost is sometimes extremely high in prussic acid content and is very dangerous to livestock.

When wilted by frost or drought, certain chemical changes sometime occur in the plant and it develops a content of prussic acid, or hydrocyanic acid, explains Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian. The poison acts quickly and can kill an animal within a short time after the damaged plant is eaten.

Symptoms described by Patterson include an appearance of nervousness, difficult breathing and difficulty in standing. Whether a poisoned animal can be saved depends upon how quickly a veterinarian can get to it. Treatment involves injecting antidotes directly into the blood stream.

Young plants will develop more prussic acid than those approaching maturity, points out the vet. Their leaves will contain from 3 to 25 times more acid than leaves of plants in the boot stage. Upper, younger leaves will contain more acid than lower leaves.

Frosted Johnson grass or sorghum should not be grazed until it is completely dry, advises Patterson. If Johnson grass or sorghum is ready to cut before a frost, it may be cut the first day after the frost and used for hay if care is taken to see that it is completely cured before baling.

It may also be used for silage, he adds. Generally, enough prussic acid is lost in gaseous form during the ensiling process and as the silage is removed and fed to make it safe for livestock. However, it is not advisable to let the animals self-feed from the silo filled with frosted sudan or sorghum. If the silage is questionable—it should be chemically tested by a local veterinarian or by using one or two inferior animals as "guinea pigs."

Advertising doesn't jerk... IT PULLS

"If there is one enterprise on earth that the quitter should let alone, it is advertising. Advertising does not jerk—it pulls. It begins gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day, year after year, until it exerts an irresistible power."
